HINTS TO NIGHT-WATCHERS.—A person who is sick enough to need night-watchers, needs rest and quiet, and all the undisturbed repose he can get. If one or more persons are in the room reading, talking, or whispering, as is often the case, this is impossible. There should be no light burning in the room unless it be a very dim one, so placed as to be out of sight of the patient. Kerosene oil should never be used in the sick room. The attendant should quietly sit or lie in the same room, or, what is usually better, in an adjoining room, so as to be within call if anything is wanted. In extreme cases, the attendant can frequently step quietly to the bedside to see if the patient is doing well, but all noise and light should be carefully excluded. It is a common practice to waken patients occasionally for fear they will sleep too soundly. This should never be done. Sleep is one of the greatest needs of the sick, and there is no danger of their getting too much of it.

SUNLIGHT.—Why are people so much afraid of a ray of sunlight? Without the sunlight there would not be a living thing on the earth, neither animal nor man; neither beast, bird, nor insect; neither tree, shrub, plant, nor flower. The sunlight is the life of the world; yet people close their doors and shutters against it! Be not so unwise. Fling open the doors and let it purify the entries. Throw back the shutters and let it stream across the rooms! It will bring joy and health along with it.—Wayside.

TOBACCO POISONOUS.—The habit of chewing tobacco, though not generally fatal in men, is attended with fatal results in the lower animals. Cattle are poisoned by eating even a small quantity of tobacco, but, as they neither spit out the tobacco juice, ner throw away the quid, they die before they contract habits which would make them nuisances and pests to their fellow-beings.

ONE of the most important things to be considered in dress is the careful covering of the chest and back. Exposing the lungs by inadequate shielding of these portions of the body from cold is generally practiced, especially by ladies. To cover the chest alone most carefully is not enough. There should be thick covering between the shoulders.—Ex.

The World's Crisis
AND
SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

RULES FOR CORRESPONDENTS.

Over all matters not intended for publication, write:—PRIVATE.
Over all business matters, write:—BUSINESS.
Over all articles intended for the paper, write:—For the Crisis.
☞ Put business matters and appointments on separate pieces of paper, or so that they can be detached without interfering with any other communication.
All articles should be accompanied by the writer's NAME, for the Editor's information, even if it is not published
When the names of NEW subscribers are sent, please say they are NEW, and it will save much labor.
PRIVATE LETTERS.—Those wishing to address the Editor on matters not connected with the office, please write PRIVATE on the outside of the envelope.
☞ All persons writing to the office should give distinctly and plainly the POST OFFICE, COUNTY and STATE at which they wish to be addressed; and all orders, subscriptions, communications and remittances, should be plainly directed to
☞ "THE WORLD'S CRISIS,"
Boston, Mass.

PUBLISHED ALSO AT THE SAME OFFICE,
Semi-monthly,
THE YOUNG PILGRIM,
An Illustrated Sunday-School Paper,
FOR CHILDREN AND YOUTH.
TERMS: ☞ Payable always in advance.
Single copy, 50 cts. a year; and at the same rates or any number of copies under ten.
Ten copies, and any larger number under fifty, when sent to one address, 40 cts. a year for each copy.
Fifty copies, and any number over fifty, when sent to one address, 35 cts. a year for each copy.
To Canada subscribers at the same rates. No extra charge for American postage.
☞ All communications, orders, and remittances should be addressed to
"THE YOUNG PILGRIM,"
Boston, Mass.

The World's Crisis

AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

"BEHOLD I COME QUICKLY; AND MY REWARD IS WITH ME."

WHOLE NO. 1033. BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 1, 1875. VOL. XLI.—NO. 20.

The World's Crisis,
AND
SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER,
Issued every Wednesday Afternoon, by the
ADVENT CHRISTIAN PUBLICATION SOCIETY,
At No. 160 Hanover Street, Boston, Mass.
GEO. T. ADAMS,
TREASURER AND BUSINESS AGENT.

JOHN COUCH, MILES GRANT, } EDITORS.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE:
S. G. MATHEWSON, L. BOUTELL,
WM. H. MITCHELL.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEE:
H. V. DAVIS, M. BATCHELOR,
T. CUNNINGHAM, J. G. HAMBLIN,
J. HEMENWAY.

The CRISIS is devoted to the exposition of all Bible truth; especially the doctrine of the immediate, personal coming and reign of Christ on the earth; holiness of heart; the unconscious state of the dead; their literal resurrection, and final destruction of the wicked.

ALL TOGETHER.

TUNE—"Once, once again."

MARY L. PRATT.

All together, all together,
May we meet at last,
In the kingdom of our Father,
When the Gentile reign is past.
Fathers, mothers, sisters, brothers,
There, there will meet;
Martyrs, and a host of others,
Then with joy each other greet.

CHO.—Then shall we ever
Dwell in social friendship here,
No more to sever
From the saints to us so dear.

What a blissful, happy meeting
On bright Canaan's shore;
O what a delightful greeting,
When we meet to part no more.
We will tell redemption's story
On that blissful plain,
When the earth is filled with glory,
Under King Messiah's reign.

Many precious ones are sleeping
'Neath the cold ground;
But we soon shall cease our weeping,
When the trump of God shall sound.
For in bright immortal splendor,
They'll arise and sing,
And in bold majestic grandeur
Reign with the anointed King.

When we've reached the blissful kingdom,
With all the blood-washed band,
And the saints will have dominion
In that happy, promised land;
We will wave the palm of victory,
And a crown we'll wear,
While delightful strains of music
Float along the balmy air.

Butte des Morts, Wis.

SIN AND WAR.

S. S. BREWER.

"Every battle of the warrior is with confused noise and garments rolled in blood"—ISA. 9: 5.

All the ills that distress the posterity of Adam have had their origin in that expressive term of three letters, sin; and of all the calamities resulting therefrom that causes the greatest amount of sorrow, indescribable wretchedness, and never-to-be-told misery, involving the wreck and ruin of kingdoms and empires, is war. Only three letters in each—sin, and war.

William the Conqueror, extremely alarmed on his death-bed, entreated the clergy to intercede for him. "Laden with many and grievous sins," he exclaimed, "I tremble; and, being ready to be taken soon into the terrible examination of God, I am ignorant of what I should do. I have been brought up in feats of arms from my childhood; I am equally polluted with effusion of much blood; I can by no means number the evils I have done these sixty-four years, for which I am now constrained, without stay, to render an account to the just Judge."

Alas for regal fame and glory! that barbs the shafts of remorse, that withers with its victim and expires in the anguish of despair.

Count Lavalette, one of Napoleon's aids-de-camp, but imprisoned under sentence of death after the fall of his Master, relates in his memoirs that he had the following dream in his prison,—a dream which finds many a counterpart equally horrid in the actual realities of war, and even in the sketches of Lavalette's own experience and observation.

"I dreamed," said he, "that I was standing in the Rue St. Honore, at the corner of the Rue de l'Echella. A melancholy darkness spread around me. All was still; but a low uncertain sound soon arose. All of a sudden I perceived at the street and advancing towards me a troop of cavalry, the men and horses all flayed! The men held torches in their hands, the red flames of which glared upon faces without skin and bloody muscles. Their hollow eyes rolled fearfully in their vast sockets, their mouths opened from ear to ear, and helmets of hanging flesh covered their hideous heads. The horses dragged along their own skins in the kennels which were overflowing on both sides with blood. Women, with pale faces and dishevelled hair, appeared and disappeared alternately at the windows in dismal silence. Low, inarticulate groans filled the air, and I remained in the streets alone, petrified with horror, and retaining too little strength to seek safety in flight. This horrible troop continued passing in a rapid gallop, and casting frightful looks upon me. Their march, I thought, lasted for five hours; and they were followed by an immense number of artillery wagons, full of bleeding corpses whose limbs still quivered. The air seemed too foul to breathe; and a disgusting smell of blood and bitumen almost choked me."

This dream doubtless had its origin in what Lavalette had witnessed in the terrific struggles of Napoleon on the gory fields of war, where vengeance drove her crimson shafts of death. The above is truly a heart-rending picture, and one that makes our very natures shudder; but, oh! how faint a conception does it convey of the sanguinary realities of Wagram, Marengo, Waterloo, and other fields of blood and carnage, where he had hid his legions amid confused noise and garments rolled in blood.

It is consoling to the suffering and oppressed that the gigantic powers for the shedding of blood as possessed by Barbarossa, Charlemagne and Napoleon, were not transmissible. O the insatiableness of the gory demon of war! Like the two daughters of the horse leech, the monster cries, Give, Give, and will continue to utter its rapacious shriek until God shall make wars to cease to the ends of the earth, and burn the chariot in the fire. And in behalf of wretched, wronged and oppressed humanity, we most devoutly pray that it may be the Lord's own good time speedily to bring the wickedness of the wicked to an end.

The history of our world and the progeny of Adam is, with little exception, a detail of gloomy horrors, savage atrocities, implacable factions, and the din and discord of war, blood and crime; and what adds to the dismal horrors of this sad picture is the fact that crimes of the deepest tinge are perpetrated with an impunity that finds no parallel in the history of the past.

In bringing this gloomy picture of the past and present to a conclusion, I would cite you to a few incidents, in brief, that transpired in the late Crimean war, under the caption,

"WEARIED WITH SLAUGHTER."

"I cannot depict my feelings when we returned. I sat down completely exhausted and unable to eat, though deadly hungry. All my uniform, my hands, my very face, were bespattered with blood. It was that of the enemy! Grand idea! But my feelings—they wer full of that exaltation which it is impossible to describe. At least twelve Russians were sent wholly out of the 'way of the war' by my good steel alone, and at least as many more put on the passage to that peaceful exit by the same excellent weapon. So also can others say. What a thing to reflect on! I have almost grown a soldier philosopher, and most probably will one of these days, if the bullets which are flying about so about so abundantly give me time to brush up."

Such cool, calm, deliberate murder is the result of a total disregard of that declaration, "Thou shalt not kill," and a frenzied condition of the mind superinduced by the tragic scenes of the battle-field, from which God in mercy grant that poor earth may speedily be delivered.

The following moonlight reconnoiter presents a ghastly picture of the horrors of war:

"The scene from the battery was awful—awful beyond description. I stood upon the parapet at about nine at night, and felt my heart sink as I gazed upon the scene of carnage around.

Outside the battery the Russians lay two and three deep. Inside the place was literally full with bodies of Russian Guardsmen, 55th and 20th. The fine, tall forms of our poor fellows could be distinguished at a glance, though the gray great-coats, stained with blood, rendered them alike externally. They lay as they fell, in heaps; sometimes our men over three or four Russians, and sometimes a Russian over three or four of ours. Some had passed away with a smile on their faces, and seemed as if asleep; others were horribly contorted, and with distended eyes and swollen features appeared to have died in agony, but defying to the last. Some lay as if prepared for burial, and as though hands of relatives had arranged their mangled limbs; while others, again, were in almost startling positions, half standing, or kneeling, clutching their weapons, or drawing a cartridge. Many lay with both their hands extended toward the sky, as if to avert a blow, or utter a prayer, while others had a malignant scowl of mingled fear and hatred; as if, indeed, they died despairing. The moonlight imparted an aspect of unnatural paleness to their forms; and as the cold damp wind swept around the hills, and waved the boughs above their upturned faces, the shadows gave a horrible appearance of vitality; and it seemed as if the dead were laughing, and about to rise. This was not the case on one spot, but all over the bloody field."

The broad outlines of prophecy have long since been filled up; the evening shadows are now gathering fast around us. The Lord will soon come "out of his place to punish the inhabitants of the earth for their iniquity; the earth also shall disclose her blood, and shall no more cover her slain." That will close eternally the bloody conflict of ages, and "no more cover her slain." Then, yes, then every man will be rewarded as his work shall be. Then it will be announced that our Lord and his Christ shall reign "for ever and ever." Amen!

"And there shall be no more death, neither sorrow nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain; for the former things are passed away." Even so, come, Lord Jesus.

SINS BLOTTED OUT.

"I have blotted out, as a thick cloud, thy transgressions, and, as a cloud, thy sins."—ISA 44: 22.

I do not know of an image that could more emphatically express the entireness of God's forgiveness. On some sultry summer day I have seen a dark cloud gather in the west. Gradually it rises and spreads till it covers the whole heavens, and hangs like a pall of darkness over field and forest. Soon the great harbinger drops begin to fall, and then comes the pouring rain till the clouds are emptied. And now the westerly breeze springs up and sweeps away every vestige of cloud, leaving the sky as blue and stainless as though not a cloud had ever flecked it. And the setting sun throws its radiance over the landscape, which was just now covered with darkness and gloom.

The change is perfect. The thick clouds are blotted out, gone, swept away. Beautiful image of the change through which the soul passes in coming into the experience of God's forgiving love. The consciousness of sin rises as a heavy cloud, and hangs over the soul dark and threatening. The thunders of divine wrath are heard. But while the soul trembles and looks in vain for a hiding-place, the breath of God's forgiveness scatters the clouds, and the heavens, just now black and threatening, are bright and cloudless, and the Sun of Righteousness sheds his bright beams over all, and a voice is heard within the soul, saying, "I have blotted out, as a thick cloud, thy transgressions, and, as a cloud, thy sins."—Rev. Wm. Lamson.

WARM WEATHER CHRISTIANS.

Our readers are familiar with the phrase "Fair weather christians." They are that large class of professors who consult their barometer on Sunday instead of their conscience. If they can keep their feet dry, and their Sabbath fineries unsoiled, they are willing to pay their vows in the house of the Lord. But rather than face a shower, or wear an old suit of raiment, they prefer to starve their souls, and leave their pastor to bestow his gospel-message upon the empty pew. These are commonly the class who are never found upon the unpopular side of any moral question, and who rarely enter a church where the odors of "gentility" do not perfume the air. From all fair weather disciples, "Good Lord deliver us!"

There is another meteorological phase of religion. It may be styled warm-weather piety. It is regulated by the thermometer. The standard it goes by is not the warmth of inward love for Christ, but the warmth of the atmosphere. Its zeal cools in proportion as the weather grows hot. When the glass gets above ninety, the inward emotions are congealed, and piety is "past feeling."

This is the species of christian professors who spend the Sabbath hours fanning themselves on their piazzas when their pastor goes by on his way to his and their sanctuary. It is not too warm for him to preach, but it is too warm for them to listen. He has toiled through one or two severe summer days to prepare a discourse for their souls; they are unwilling to go and sit for half an hour as the recipients of "the truth as it is in Jesus."

What must the world think of such a religion? For on the very next day these self-coddling christians are off to their stores and shops, through the broiling sunshine, or else are hard at work in their own dwellings. It is too hot to worship God for two hours on the Sabbath, but it is never too hot to toil for mammon six days during the week. If the world wonders at such "a form of godliness," what must the Master think of it?

We must not count this matter of shirking the claims of God to gratify bodily comfort a small thing. It is far otherwise. Christ held it a substantial evidence of the genuineness of their faith that many of his early followers cheerfully endured physical privations and tortures. Just imagine Aquilla or Priscilla renouncing their religion because the weather was hot!

One of the lamentable effects of "warm-weather" religion is detected in the loose morals of many professors during their summer absences from home. They have evidently left their consciences behind them, for they are oftener seen in the dance, or the games of pleasure, than they are in any christian service of the neighborhood. "Nobody knows us here," is not an excuse that passes muster with God.

To many the present summer will be the last one they will ever see. And life is too short with all of us to allow a third of every year to be frittered away in criminal neglect of our soul's needs, and of our duties to our Lord.—Signs of Our Times.

DANIEL 5: 23.

J. P. MARQUAND.

"And the God in whose hands thy breath is, and whose are all thy ways, hast thou not glorified."

A dear brother from Connecticut preached for us one Sunday, and threw such a flood of light on this fifth chapter of Daniel, that I venture to ask you to publish it.

He said that ancient Babylon was a type of mystical Babylon spoken of in the Revelation. King Belshazzar made a great feast to a thousand of his lords. The wealth, talent and power of the whole country were to be represented. It was to be the crowning affair of the nation, and settle all controversy as to its greatness. So in the Antitype, the Pope of Rome called an Ecumenical Council, consisting of Priests, Bishops, and Cardinals, about one thousand of them; and they were gathered at Rome in 1869 and 1870. The object of calling this hierarchy together was to exhibit its greatness, its power, and to settle some points of faith. As king Belshazzar brought in the sacred vessels of the temple, to be profaned by his wives and concubines, so the Pope brought in the attribute of Deity (Infallibility), and received the plaudits and sanction of his satellites.

As king Belshazzar was in the midst of his revelry overthrown, so the Pope and his power is overthrown. His temporal power received a blow in 1870 from which he will never recover, and in a short time that institution will be "no more found at all." As Babylon was overthrown and destroyed and become a habitation for wild beasts and birds of prey and cast into oblivion, so the Roman Catholic hierarchy will go down to the shades of night and eternal darkness.

As it was in the days of Noah, when all flesh perished in a watery grave, when all the wicked were destroyed, so mystical Babylon the abomination of the earth shall meet her doom. Let the student of the Bible ponder the words of God, ponder the words of the prophets and the apostles; not one thing that they uttered shall fail of its accomplishment.

The kingdom, and the dominion, and the greatness of the kingdom, shall be given to the saints of the Most High. All rule and all authority will be his "whose right it is" (Christ), and he shall reign over the house of Jacob forever.

It is a gratifying thought that sin shall be consumed, and once more this earth shall be the garden of the Lord. No more Belshazzars, no more wicked rulers or priests, but everlasting righteousness and peace.

But what is the signal gun by which we may know that God is about to institute his reign? We answer, it is the downfall of that ecclesiastical power called the man of sin, the son of perdition; when it goes down, then will be brought to pass the saying that is written, "O death, I will be thy plagues. O grave, I will be thy destruction."

Our Deliverer is coming, invested with all dignity and power, and will act as the sovereign of this earth. He whom the Jews slew and cried, "Away with him!" now takes his rightful place as Judge, and before him shall be gathered all nations. No hiding away, nor covering up of sins; every man and woman shall be made manifest,—the good gathered into the garner, and the bad thrown away. Keep your eyes on the seat of prophecy—the woman that sitteth on seven mountains; she is going down slowly but surely. Her pomp, arrogance and pride are fast decaying and vanishing away. The wicked will cry out, Alas! alas! that great power which swayed the whole world. But her hour is come. Just as certain as Belshazzar and his government went down in one night, so certain will mystical Babylon perish and go into oblivion. Then we hear voices coming up on the breeze,—It serves her just right. She made all nations drink of the wine of the wrath of her fornication; she lived deliciously, and boasted of her shame. Her name is antichrist and false prophet, the enemy of God and man.

Now comes another voice on the breeze—"Gather my saints together, those who have made a covenant with me by sacrifice"; put on them the best robe, and kill the fatted calf; put shoes on their feet, and a chain on their neck. Call for my people; they are mine; I purchased them by my blood; they shall walk with me in white. O, glory to God! shall we hear that sweet voice that spoke to Mary and raised the dead? Yes; "as the Father hath life in himself, so hath he given to the Son to have life in himself, that he might give eternal life to as many as thou hast given him, even to those who believe on his name." Amen.

SYMPATHY.

J. W. THOMAS.

"Moved with compassion." MATT. 9: 36.

Jesus was full of sympathy. His great mind could comprehend the condition of lost men. Looking out on the vast multitudes, who thronged to hear him, seeing how weak, ignorant, and helpless they were, realizing their deepest necessities, he was "moved with compassion." His bosom swelled with emotions of tenderest sympathy. He yearned to embrace them with the arms of his love, and to breathe on them his heavenly benediction. O how he loved sinners! With what tender, melting tones he invited them to come unto him. All through his life, we see a spontaneous, unchecked, outgushing, overflowing, sin-cleansing, miracle-working, stream of power, salvation, and sympathy, flowing out to perishing men. Nothing was too costly for him to sacrifice, and no suffering too great for him to endure, that sinners might be saved.

He was just such a Savior as man needed. Almighty power, and the tenderest sympathy were blended in Jesus. He could sleep on the pillow; and he could calm the storm. He could weep by the grave of Lazarus; and he could say to the dead, Come forth. He could have compassion on the multitude, and he could feed them with the loaves and fishes. He could hear the cry of blind Bartimeus, and he could open his eyes. He could pity weeping Mary, and he could say, "Go in peace."

O wonderful Jesus, who can compare with thee! Heaven was emptied of its brightest jewel when thou didst come down to earth to save fallen man. No wonder that the sun withheld its light, and the earth groaned when thou didst hang on the cross of Calvary.

"O for such love, let rocks and hills
Their lasting silence break;
And all harmonious human tongues,
The Savior's praises speak."

It is said of Washington, that on one occasion, he plunged into a dark, rapidly flowing river, and at the risk of his own life, saved the drowning son of a poor widow. Jesus the Son of God saw man sinking in the dark waters of sin and death; leaving the glory he had with the Father, he plunged into the deep, going down beneath the waves of death, he seized the keys, and rose triumphant, offering life and eternal salvation to all who will trust and believe in him entirely.

I hear his voice rolling down from heaven in sweetest accents, "I am he that liveth, and was dead; and, behold, I am alive forevermore; and have the keys of hell and of death." Blessed thought! Jesus ever liveth. His great, loving heart beats with sympathy for me to-day, even as it did for those who heard his voice eighteen hundred years ago. The lapse of time makes no change in Jesus. He is moved with compassion now at the sorrows and necessities of poor human beings. He knows when we are tempted. He sees us when we weep. He hears us when we offer the penitent prayer. He sympathizes with us in our loneliness. He watches us as we sit by the grave of some loved one, and whispers in our ear these comforting words, "I am the resurrection and the life."

Now if Jesus so loved us, how ought we to love one another? This is the lesson he would teach us. Nothing will please him more than for us to manifest the same spirit toward each other, which he has manifested toward us. "This is my commandment, that ye love one another, as I have loved you."

ORDER.

C. MENDENHALL.

"Let all things be done decently and in order." PAUL.

"Order is heaven's first law." There is nothing in reason or revelation to countenance disorder. Disorder is productive of anarchy and confusion, consequently it is to be avoided in all the phases of life. That God loves order is evident from the workings of nature.

1. In the animal kingdom, we find each individual in this great family, from the tiny animalcule, up to man, has a particular organization, and peculiar functions, which are characteristic to them.

2. The vegetable world shows unmistakable signs of system and regularity as to class and time of production, each yielding its fruit in season.

3. The earth in its two fold motion, at stated periods, bringing day and night, giving us a diversity of seasons, rolling out its cycles of years, is a demonstration of the fact that "God is not the author of confusion."

4. The stars, satellites, planets, all the innumerable luminous hosts of heaven, declare the glory of Jehovah, and show his power as the great systematizer. In the very beginning, the world was called into existence from a chaotic state, and down to these last days can be traced the workings of the laws of nature.

From these facts we should be taught as part of God's creation, to be in harmony with the great principle which underlies all that is formed, whether it is animate or inanimate. Confusion and irregularity are to be avoided in all our relations, whether social or ecclesiastical. In the context, Paul warns against disorder in the church at Corinth, giving as a strong argument in favor of order, these words: "For God is not the author of confusion, but of peace, as in all churches of the saints."

In a church we find a heterogeneous company. Here we have men of different mental status, with various temperaments, habits, talents, and idosyncrasies. Some naturally inclined to be unruly, others impetuous, ardent, and easily led into fanaticism. Others need urging, encouraging, and sustaining. Therefore there must be government, restraint, and counsel, that all these powers may be held obeisant, checked, or pushed as the merits of the case may demand. There are a diversity of gifts, and each has its place and duty in the great work of saving fallen man, and disseminating the good tidings of salvation, and a soon coming Lord.

All are not called to rule, to preach, or to occupy the same position; but each has his particular sphere of action; hence we read, "And he gave some, apostles; and some, prophets; and some, evangelists; and some, pastors and teachers; for the perfecting of the saints, for the work of the ministry, for the edifying of the body [or church] of Christ." Eph. 4: 11, 12. That it is scriptural to form a government for church discipline is proved.

I. By the example of Christ. He is the head of the church, the corner stone, the true foundation, the great leader and sustainer of the christian dispensation; therefore to him are we to look for example and wisdom. That Jesus did appoint order to be in the churches is beyond dispute, as may be learned by reading his own words: "Moreover, if thy brother shall trespass against thee, go and tell him his fault between thee and him alone; if he shall hear thee, thou hast gained thy brother. But if he will not hear thee, then take with thee one or two more, that in the mouth of two or three witnesses every word may be established. And if he shall neglect to hear them, tell it unto the church; but if he neglect to hear the church, let him be unto thee as a heathen man and a publican." Matt. 18: 15–17.

Our Savior, in speaking of offences which must come, while he had the little child in the midst of his disciples, said—"Whoso shall offend one of these little ones which believe in me, it were better for him that a millstone were hanged about his neck, and that he were drowned in the depth of the sea." Surely, then, to offend the entire flock must be a much greater crime. To offend one of the "least of these" is a great transgression, and how hateful and displeasing it must be to stand in open rebellion or deserved censure before the whole church.

Now we inquire, if there were no order, no government in the church, what can be done with the guilty ones, how can they be restored? What weight will the judgment or decision of a promiscuous body have without it is systematized? Discipline is needed, order is essential, in spiritual as well as in temporal affairs. Solomon says—"Seest thou a man diligent in his business? he shall stand before kings; he shall not stand before mean men." Prov. 22: 29. So diligence and order are needed among God's children, that they may further the great cause more effectually.

An army does not proceed at random, each governing his own actions, but we here see order, discipline, and unity of purpose. The forces are concentrated, and every part is used to the best advantage; so we, as true soldiers of the cross, should work in unison, ready to be any thing or do any thing for the Captain of our salvation, being subject to the higher power of the church, as well as to the state—in the Lord.

It is objected, however, that the church of Rome, and others, have abused this right. Admitting this to be true, we certainly see no reason or excuse herein, for running into the opposite extreme. Has not all Scripture been abused and misinterpreted? Are we then to ignore the Bible? Are there not false christians, and have there not been false Christs? Because there is alloy it does not prove that gold does not exist; hence, we must not condemn or reject the true because of the false.

(To be concluded.)

SALTED WITH FIRE.

"For every one shall be salted with fire, and every sacrifice shall be salted with salt."—MARK 9: 49.

This is considered by some a strong text in favor of the eternal suffering of the lost. Thus T. S. La Due, on a little pamphlet on "Annihilation," p. 71, says:—"Salt is known, the world over, as the preservative; and the meaning here is that the fire with which those 'who depart into everlasting fire' are salted, while it burns, will preserve that which it burns; and as it is unquenchable and everlasting, that which it burns will be everlasting."

The reader will perceive that Mr. La Due, to support his view, has precisely inverted the conclusion which logically follows from the premises. This is the way in which error is always sustained; it is by putting high for low, and low for high, the front for the back, and the back for the front, light for darkness, and darkness for light.

Burning is a process of consuming. Without this consuming there can be no burning. It is a singular idea to say, as Mr. L. says, that the fire while it consumes also preserves. It is a contradiction of terms. A person must be under severe pressure to resort to such a conclusion.

A more logical method of treating this question would be to consider the nature of the element brought to view. Because the figure of salting is used, does that change the nature of the material referred to? That would be a singular conclusion. When anything is salted, the salt is sprinkled all over it, its effect strikes all through it. The nature of salt is to preserve, to be sure; but suppose the material used is of just the opposite nature, to destroy; then what would be the effect? This is the point to be considered, and by this, the idea which our Lord wishes to inculcate by this language must be determined. While salt preserves, fire destroys. Fire is the most striking symbol of destruction that can be used. Now if a person should be treated with fire as a sacrifice is treated with salt, the fire surrounding him, and its effects striking through him, what would be the effect? The effect of thus using so destructive an element as fire would be complete destruction. It would consume the person entirely.

The use of the figure of salting does not necessarily denote preservation, unless the material used is a preservative in its nature. And here is where Mr. L. misses the right conclusion, and many others with him. But fire is not a preservative; it is just the opposite, the agent of entire destruction. Therefore, when Christ declares that every one (of the wicked) shall be salted with fire, it is a threatening of complete and utter destruction by fire, even the fire of Gehenna. Therefore, instead of upholding the popular view, this text is in harmony with the rest of the Bible in teaching the utter destruction of the wicked.—Ex.

SANDALS.

The word translated "shoe" in the Scriptures should have been rendered sandal, as the former does not exactly correspond with the Hebrew. In Eastern nations, the ordinary oriental sandal was a mere sole of leather, skin, felt, or wood, and simply protected the sole of the foot, to which it was fastened by thongs or cords, wreathed around the ankle. The orientals have now advanced to the wearing of a kind of slipper which covers a portion of the foot. Among Egyptian ladies, the sandals formed a sumptuous part of the dress, and they bestowed much attention upon them, embroidering them with flowers and other figures wrought in silk, silver and gold.

The well-known eastern practice of putting off the sandal, or shoe, on ground deemed holy, or in a presence deemed sacred, is familiar to us from many Scripture references. Moses before the burning bush, and Joshua before the Captain of the Lord's host, received the command: "Put off thy shoes from off thy feet, for the place whereon thou standest is holy ground." And, in acccordance with the spirit of this command, priests in the temple are said to have officiated barefoot.

In general, the Eastern people, as a mark of reverence, remove their shoes where we uncover the head. It is not customary in the East to wear shoes, or sandals in the house, and especially in temples and all consecrated places. Each worshiper, on entering a Mohammedan mosque, unless attended by a servant, adds his slippers to the pile in charge of the door-keeper.

Visitors of the highest rank, as well as the poor, leave their sandals at the door; the latter class often go barefoot, but the rich always wear sandals except as a sign of mourning; "And David went up to the ascent of Mount Olivet, and wept as he went up, and had his head covered, and he went barefoot;" and God said to Ezekiel, "Your shoes shall be upon your feet; ye shall not mourn nor weep."

To bind on the sandals denoted preparation for a journey. The Lord, in speaking of the passover, thus commanded the children of Israel. "And thus shall ye eat it; with your loins girded, your shoes on your feet, and your staff in your hand." When the angel delivered Peter from the prison, he said to him: "Gird thyself, and bind on thy sandals. And so he did. And he saith unto him, Cast thy garments about thee, and follow me." Acts 12: 8.

A stranger, upon entering an oriental house, was met by a servant who unloosed the latchet of his sandals, removed them, and brought water, and washed his feet. This custom is followed at the present time to some extent. Says Dr. Robinson, at Ramleh, "Our youthful host now proposed, in the genuine style of ancient oriental hospitality, that a servant should wash our feet. This took me by surprise; for I was not aware that the custom still existed here. Nor does it indeed, toward foreigners, though it is quite common among the natives. We gladly accepted the proposal, both for the sake of refreshment and of the Scriptural illustration. A Nubian slave accordingly brought water, which she poured upon our feet over a large shallow basin of tinned copper, kneeling before us, and rubbing our feet with her hands, and wiping them with a napkin."

To bind on sandals, to stoop down and unloose them, or to carry them until again needed, was the business of the lowest servant, and it thus naturally became the symbol of humility. We have some instances of this in the Scriptures. John the Baptist said of the Savior: "There cometh one mightier than I after me, the latchet of whose shoes I am not worthy to stoop down and unloose."

Connected with shoes, or sandals, one other custom may be mentioned. The seller of a piece of property gave his sandal to the buyer, and that gave the right of occupancy. In the book of Ruth, speaking of redeeming and changing property, it reads: "A man plucked off his shoe, and gave it to his neighbor; and this was a testimony in Israel."—Ex.

AN INQUIRY.

"If a christian becomes entirely sanctified, perfectly holy, when this is attained, wherein consists a subsequent growth in grace?"

It will be perceived that our brother defines "entirely sanctified," by the terms "perfectly holy." We are not aware that any who profess the blessing of sanctification, profess to be "perfectly holy." Indeed there is none perfectly holy in the absolute sense, but God. Compared with him, all the holy among the saints on earth or glorified in heaven are imperfect; hence, there will be room, not only through time, but through all eternity, for constant advancement in holiness, or, as our brother expresses it, growth in grace.

We are aware that some persons confound entire sanctification with a perfection in holiness which admits of no advance; but this is a great mistake. To have all the powers sanctified unto God, brings us into such a state, and into such relations to God, as prepare us to grow more rapidly than in any other state of the christian experience. Indeed the sanctified christian can but advance, for he possesses just that disposition of mind which eminently fits him to be a learner at the feet of Jesus, and in this state of mind the Holy Spirit does reveal to him constantly new phases of divine truth, and mould him more and more into the perfect image of Jesus Christ. But we may as well say, in brief, that it is impossible to explain these matters, so as to be clearly understood by those who do not know the experience of entire sanctification. Every sanctified christian desires to grow in grace, and does grow, while many who are not sanctified, imagine that to be sanctified puts an end to all progress, and involves absolute perfection, beyond which there is no advance. Seek the blessed experience, dear reader, and when this is secured, many perplexing questions will be at once solved and all will be clear.—Selected by B.

WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

D. K. BARRETT, JR.

"In a pamphlet entitled, "The Wicked Not Annihilated," by Rev. Israel P. Warren, in speaking of the immortality of the soul, I find the following:—

"1. It is argued as a significant fact, bearing on this point, that the Bible nowhere directly asserts the immortality of the soul. To which it may be replied, that it nowhere directly asserts the existence of God." Page 15.

This last is, to me, a strange declaration for anyone who has read the Bible thoroughly, to make. Yet I have seen it several times made, by different ones, and acknowledged by their opponents. What does it mean? I do not understand. We do certainly read in Dan. 2: 28—"But there is a God in heaven that revealeth secrets," etc. Is not the book of Daniel in their Bibles, or what is the matter? Let us see a parallel to this of the soul, viz., There is an immortal soul in man. And till you can produce it, do not tell us, "That the fact (?) of the immortality of the soul is treated precisely as is the fact of God's existence."

CAUSE AND EFFECT.

A. PARMALEE.

"This know also, that in the last days perilous times shall come."

Because "men shall be lovers of their own selves." It is not at all unnatural, then, that the following should be the effect: "covetous, boasters, proud, blasphemers, disobedient to parents, unthankful, unholy, without natural affection, truce-breakers, false accusers, incontinent, fierce, despisers of those that are good, traitors, heady, high-minded, lovers of pleasure more than lovers of God."

This is a fearful picture, and, as it is one of the nominal church in the "last days," I am constrained to ask, as I read over the list of moral blots, "Lord, is it I?" praying, "O blessed Savior, sanctify me wholly, and let not one of these, or any other sin defile my garments."

Let every christian see to it that he loves the Lord Jesus Christ with all his heart, and his neighbor as himself; and he will then be free from all sin, for "love is the fulfilling of the law." Pray for me, "holy brethren."

Medina, N. Y.

The World's Crisis
AND
SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

Boston, Wednesday, Sept. 1, 1875.

☞ TAKE NOTICE.

☞ All subscriptions for the "CRISIS," issued from this time forward, are at the rate of

$2.25 a year, payable IN ADVANCE.

POSTAGE FREE TO ALL within the United States, the Canadas, and the British Provinces.

☞ Please Remember!

☞ All remittances to this office, in the form of Drafts, Bank Checks, and Postal Money-Orders, should be made payable to the Business Agent, GEO. T. ADAMS.

☞ THOSE who send articles for the "CRISIS," should direct them to the "E ITORS OF WORLD'S CRISIS," Boston, Mass.

PLEASE READ, REMEMBER, AND ACT ACCORDINGLY.

The brethren, sisters, friends—one and all—whoever may write to this office, sending articles for insertion in the Crisis, or subscriptions for the same, notices, appointments, reports, or orders for papers, books, tracts, or anything of the kind, will confer a favor and do the right way by directing their letters in either one of the following ways:—

"EDITORS OF WORLD'S CRISIS, Boston, Mass."

"WORLD'S CRISIS, Boston, Mass.," or

GEO. T. ADAMS, Agent, Boston, Mass.

Those who send articles for the Young Pilgrim should address—

"EDITOR YOUNG PILGRIM, Boston, Mass."

In no case address letters on business connected with the papers, or office, to any of the clerks, compositors, or helps in this office.

AGENT.

HEREAFTER address me at BOSTON, MASS. All private letters should be marked "personal." MILES GRANT.

KEEPING POWER.

The Scriptures inform us that the christian is "kept by the power of God." How is he kept, and to what extent? We find no question of any other "power" than the Holy Spirit, by means of which we may be kept. Power itself is not a being, an entity, but that which emanates from an object. Power is not the nature of the action, but of that which caused the action. Power was never yet seen. Attraction is the name of a power, but it has never been seen; the same is true of love, fear, hatred, covetousness, benevolence, and other attributes, but no one has seen these powers, because they are not personalities. We have seen their effects, and the persons who manifested these qualities, but the power itself is invisible. If it were stated that we were kept in a prison, a house, or a cage, by a soldier, a dog or a chain, then the keeper might be seen and handled, but when it is said we are "kept by the power of God," the keeping ability is unseen; and the one kept may not be conscious of the fact. He may often be delivered from the power of the adversary without knowing how it was done. He may stand amazed at the result, but see no hand working. The effect is apparent, but the cause is hidden.

When it is stated that we are "kept by the power of God," we know of but one source from which it emanates, and that is from the Holy Spirit of God. When the apostles were about to commence their ministry, they were instructed to tarry at Jerusalem till they were endued with "power from on high." It is most plainly taught in the Scriptures that the Holy Spirit gives the power to the christian by which he is enabled to overcome the world, the flesh and the devil.

The question now recurs, to what extent may we be kept by this power? We think none will deny but that we may be kept from lying, swearing, stealing, adultery, dishonesty, fighting, drunkenness, and such like. May we not be kept from fretting, impatience, covetousness, pride, hatred, variance, backbiting, evil speaking, evil imaginations, impure words, and every other sinful habit? Is the power of God sufficient to do this? Will any one, who accepts Christ as a Savior, say No? Can we be kept "unspotted from the world"? Has the Lord required us to come to a standard we can never reach? Nay, verily. But he does say, "Be ye holy, for I am holy." Wherein our power is deficient, he is ready to supply the lack through the agency of the Holy Spirit. If our own power was sufficient to overcome the enemy, no additional power would have been offered. But that which the Lord offers is all-sufficient to accomplish the work required at our hands. As said Paul: "Through Christ which strengtheneth me" "I can do all things." There is no weakness in God's strength. He knows what we need in the christian warfare, and has made ample provision for every emergency. But the power is given only to those who are willing to trust him as their guide and supporter in all situations in life. He promises to save because we trust in him. There is no encouragement for "the fearful and unbelieving." "Without faith it is impossible to please him." Those who do not believe he can keep them from yielding to temptation, cannot expect to be kept from sinning.

The Lord can keep us as easily in the midst of temptation, as when the enemy is out of sight. His power is unlimited, and most cheerfully offered to all who are willing to trust him. There may be a sharp conflict with Satan, but victory is sure, when we have on "the whole armor of God." The Lord has promised to keep those in "perfect peace" whose minds are staid on him.

No matter how deep the trials, how heavy the cross, how great the losses, how severe the persecution, when Jesus abides in us by the power of the Holy Spirit, his "great peace" fills the heart in the severest storms.

How blessed to trust in such an Almighty Friend, and feel conscious of his continued presence. When he is allowed to keep the heart, Satan is obliged to stay outside. He will make severe attacks, but wins no victories. To those in Christ he is a conquered foe. Praise the Lord forever for his keeping power. Let us trust him now and for ever, and be kept in perfect love and peace. M. G.

REMARKABLE.

Our readers will be interested in reading the following account of healing in answer to prayer, as published in the New York Sun:

"Rev. S. H. Platt, one of the expounders of God's word at a recent prolonged campmeeting at Ocean Grove, New York State, has been apparently incurably lame for the past quarter of a century, in consequence of being kicked by a horse. Four years ago, while limping slowly along the sidewalk, near his house, he struck his left knee against the corner of a dry goods box. Precisely the same result followed as when the horse kicked him, and within a few days he was wholly disabled, and could move only with the aid of two canes or crutches. He could no longer stand in his pulpit, even on one leg, but was obliged to sit while preaching. This double affliction was a terrible one, and he again exhausted all the sources of possible surgical relief; but nothing could be done for him, and after the useless expenditure of much time and money, he became assured that he was hopelessly crippled.

One evening, after having preached sitting to about four thousand persons, while he was in his cottage suffering considerable pain and trying to recruit his strength, two ladies were announced. One of them introduced herself as Miss Moseman, and said the Lord had sent her to see him. After some conversation the lady proposed prayer, but Mr. Pratt demurred, on the ground that christians should not ask divine help for phyical ills, unless assured that God would give them the faith necessary to believe that he was willing to assist them. He told Miss Moseman he "would believe as best he could," and she knelt before him and began to pray. Her petition was very simple, evidently unstudied, and seeming to be addressed rather to a near personal protector than to the throne of the Most High. It lasted about two minutes, and toward the close the supplicant placed her hands upon Mr. Platt's knees. "Rather," said the clergyman, "because there was no other place to rest them on, than with any purpose of effecting a cure by manipulation. So little vitality or magnetic force did she seem to possess, that I was unconscious of any warmth from her hands as they lay on my knees." Having finished the prayer, Miss Moseman arose, and the conversation was resumed.

Mr. Platt had not experienced any unusual sensation in his injured limbs, but as he was speaking a very singular feeling was perceptible in the joints. "I never," he added, "felt anything like it before or since. It seemed as though a sort of condensation or toning up of the fibres around the knees was in progress, the sensation apparently spreading upward." Very soon he was able to put his feet on the ground and walk with a somewhat uncertain step. The clergyman's limbs grew stronger every hour, and he threw aside one of his canes immediately. "I continued to use the other," he said, "not because I really required it, but I had carried it for twenty-five years, and I did not wish to seem presumptuous; but a week ago to-day (Saturday) I went out without any support, and walked two miles; and I could have walked ten, for I did not feel in the least fatigued." On Sunday, the 8th inst., he stood upright in the pulpit without any assistance for the first time in twenty-five years, and a week later he told the story of his injuries and their cure to an immense audience at the Merrick campmeeting."

We would say that we are intimately acquainted with Bro. Platt, and saw him a few days after he was healed, and received the foregoing account from his own lips, and can witness to the truth of the statement. This is the Bro. Platt who is the author of the book entitled, "Princely Manhood," and other interesting works.

It is a remarkable case of healing. We might state some very interesting facts connected with this brother, but we forbear at present. In due time, he may speak for himself, things that will cheer many hearts warm with the love of Jesus and his coming. M. G.

SEABROOK CAMPEEETING.

It was our privilege to be at the Seabrook camp-ground the last three days of the meeting. This was the first meeting in that place. The grove is a pleasant one, but a short distance from the depot. The ground is well seated, and will accommodate about two thousand people. A convenient boarding tent has been erected, and other suitable arrangements for the comfort of those attending. We have rarely seen better attention and order, than was manifested at this meeting. There were some twenty-five hundred present the last day, who seemed greedy to hear the preaching. We think lasting good will result from this meeting. Ministers of other denominations and their members were present, and showed a warm sympathy for the welfare of the meeting. They could say it was good to be there.

Three were baptized, and several took advanced ground in divine life. The spirit of holiness found a welcome in many hearts, and rich blessings were received. The meeting has left a good influence upon the people in that neighborhood, and they manifested a kind, obliging spirit towards those in attendance. M. G.

WHAT THEY SAY.

The following is from the St. Louis Daily Democrat:

"A Second Adventist who is a good preacher, and can shake the people over a certain place not usually mentioned by name in good society, would now find a field every where white to the harvest. What with disasters by water, by fire and by flood, by chinch-bugs, grasshoppers and army-worms, by sword, pestilence and famine, the whole world is pretty well scared, and about ready to approve of any madman who prophesies the end. America, England and France are suffering from floods. Portugal is afflicted with drought; Spain is scourged with the sword, and Turkey is harassed by her rebellious children. Let the prophet come, the world is waiting for him."

Yes, we believe with the editor of the Democrat, "the world is waiting for" some one to explain the prophecies in the Bible, showing that this sad state of things is one among many of the signs that we are near "the end" of the present dispensation. Yes, the faithful preacher will "now find a field everywhere white to the harvest." "The whole world is pretty well scared." Jesus foretold that men would be in such a condition, just before his second advent. The omens are continually becoming brighter that we shall soon see the dear Savior appearing in all his glory. Many hearts stand ready to give him a hearty welcome. Let us all be ready, and waiting, and watching. M. G.

☞ TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS.

We purpose to have an Agent in attendance at the various Campmeetings to be held in the New England States this season, to receive sums due on the Crisis and Pilgrim.

We hope our subscribers will make it a point to pay at the meetings, as it will be more convenient for them to do so than to send by mail, and less expensive for us than to send an Agent to the homes of our patrons. AGENT.

WE would say to those who have sent us money to renew their subscription, and also to those who paid at the campmeetings, and do not as yet see the figures charged on their paper; please have patience with us. Our clerks will do as fast as they can. The delay is caused by extra work on account of campmeetings. G. T. A.

TRUTH ADVANCING.

"The Scriptural Doctrine of Recognition in the World to Come."—The above is the title of a little volume of ninety pages, by Mr. Gray, an Episcopal clergyman in N. J. Upon which, in its "Literary Review," the Congregationalist makes the following remarks:—"With respect to the future life, there are many questions which present themselves to the christian believer; but none perhaps which excites more lively interest than that of the recognition of friends in heaven. 'Shall we know each other there?' is an inquiry which has risen in every heart brought by bereavement in the loss of beloved ones to meditate upon the world to come; and whoever can give help towards an answer to that inquiry, renders a service which will be welcomed by thousands. . . .

Testimony upon the point is not wanting. To uncover that testimony, and set it in impressive and convincing array, is the effort of Mr. Gray, in his little volume, . . . which we heartily commend to the attention of such of our readers as have friends who sleep in Jesus. . . . He takes his proofs only and wholly from the Bible. And he endeavors by their means to lead the mind to an absolute certainty of belief upon the point in question.

Briefly stated, the successive steps of his argument are these: The Bible asserts recognition in the future state of glory, as respects patriarchs, prophets and apostles, establishing it as a fact to that extent, and indicating its possibility as a universal fact. Many passages of the New Testament are built upon such an idea of fellowship in glory, and so involve the law of recollection as to make it difficult, if not impossible, to exclude recognition. The acknowledged doctrine of rewards and punishments in the future life necessitates a belief in recognition; and Paul's frequent expressions of a hope of knowing and being known by his converts in the future life, point to the same conclusion.

Finally, and at considerable length, the words in 1 Thess. 4: 13–18—'I would not have you to be ignorant, brethren, concerning them that are asleep,' etc., are expounded as a distinct and explicit setting forth by Paul of the doctrine of recognition. Upon the related points of the time when, and the place where, this recognition will be attained, Mr. Gray also has remarks to offer. The time he would postpone until and after the resurrection of the just at the Lord's coming; while, as to the place, he is disposed to look to a renewed earth as the abode of the saints forever.

This little book is, in short, the record of an honest and reverent search after the mind of the Spirit upon this deeply interesting theme. . . . . Many will wish that they could be led on a great deal further in such a consoling line of thought. Those whose meditations upon this subject have been a groping in darkness, will find here, we think, an unmistakable ray of light, and be more thankful than words can easily express to the stranger who guides their hopes to such a firm resting-place. How much there is in Scripture, if we can only find it. And how much we may feel ourselves to owe those who discover this rod or that staff which has long eluded our grasp."—Sent by D. K. Barrett, Jr., Chester, Vt.

EZEKIEL'S VISION.

Dear Bro. Burr:—Will you please give us through the A. C. Times the best light you have upon Ezekiel's vision of a city, as contained in Ezekiel 40th to 48th chapters, inclusive. Your brother in hope, H. A. O.

The best light we have upon this vision is founded upon certain facts.

1. The vision was given during the Babylonian captivity, while Jerusalem was in ruins. See Ezek. 40: 1.

2. It was a conditional vision; that is, the vision was to be shown to the Israelites, and "if they be ashamed of all that they have done" then the vision might become a reality, but not otherwise. See Ezek. 43: 8–11.

3. The arrangements of worship in the city and the land were wholly legal and Mosaic, and not spiritual and christian. There were sin offerings and burnt offerings, and bloody animal sacrifices. See Ezek. 45: 17. But we read in the New Testament that such offerings have been taken away, and the body of Christ put in their place, as being "one sacrifice for sins forever." See Heb. 10 1–12.

4. The priesthood was to be a Levitical one, and the prince or ruler in the land was to offer burnt offerings for himself. See Ezek. 44: 15, and 45: 2.

With these facts before us we conclude that it was a representation to the captive Jews of an arrangement for worship in their own land at their return from Babylon, provided they would adhere to the Lord and put away their abominations from before the Lord. They did not do this, hence the conditions were never realized.

Certain it is, that were these conditions to be put into effect now or at any time in the future, it would be a retrograde movement in the worship of God. It would be returning from the blood of Jesus to that of "bulls and goats." It would be leaving the sin-offering that has been made "once for all" and returning to "those offerings that can never take away sins." It would be going back from the order of Melchisedec to that of Aaron. It would be putting away the blood of the New Covenant for that of the Old. It would be changing a perfect Prince for an imperfect one.

Be assured, the next dispensation will be an improvement upon all preceding ones, as decided by past experience and the word of God. The world was without law or order until the flood, and wickedness unrestrained culminated in sudden destruction. After the flood, patriarchs governed their households, but discord and contention were in the land. Then God gave a law on Sinai, but it was a taskmaster of bondage, and the nation and people were not submissive. Then grace and truth came through our Lord Jesus Christ, and the power of God searched men's hearts, but even in this the church has been too carnal. That which is to come is a dispensation of glory, "when the Son of man shall sit on the throne of his glory." The world has done with animal sacrifices, and mortal priests, and sinning princes, and conditional cities.

The grand pageant of the coming kingdom will be led by the "Prince of life," and clothed with immortality, the throng who follow shall enter the "city of the living God," and shall rejoice forever amid the unfading glories of the eternal paradise of God. Ezekiel's city might have charms for the poor captive Jews down in Babylon, but now, since we have heard of the "New Jerusalem that cometh down from God out of heaven," we desire it not. It has no charms for us, with its bloody sacrifices, its imperfect priesthood, and its legal feast-days. We prefer the city of John the Revelator to that of Ezekiel the prophet. We hasten to the city of the New Testament, rather than that of the Old.—Adv. Christian Times.

AN IMPRESSIVE MOMENT.

C. S BRANCH.

There is a time in the history and experience of each individual, state and church, when God takes, as it were, time by the forelock, and says, Pause a moment, and let my children think, consider, and reflect.

Such an impressive moment occurred in a church not long since, in the little village of Plantsville, Ct. They are in the habit of holding Sabbath school monthly concerts, and at such concerts some one in the school will repeat a passage of Scripture, and at the next concert the entire school are to report corresponding passages of scripture.

One of the members of said school, who has lately become somewhat tinctured with Second Adventism, propounded the word "immortal." A month soon rolled around, and when they were all assembled and seated, the concert was opened in its usual way. Each class was called upon in turn for their several verses. At once there was an almost audible silence. Tongues so nimble, and lips so glib a few moments ago, were now hushed in breathless silence, and all eyes were turned one upon another in hopeful expectation. Ah! how impressive, how solemn. At this juncture, the deacon rose slowly and mechanically and said, "Immortal occurs but once in the whole Bible—1 Tim. 1: 17."

Can you imagine the discomfiture and chagrin that must have filled any thinking man's mind at such an announcement, in view of their pastor's oft-repeated assertion that they were all immortal? At such a moment God speaks in thunder tones and says, Think, consider, reflect. "How readest thou?" "To them who, by patient continuance in well doing, seek for glory and honor and immortality, eternal life." Rom. 2: 7.

How feeble are the fine-spun, elaborate theories and spiritualistic sophisms of poor mortal man. Job 4: 17. God winks at the crafty man, the shrewd man, the wily man, the cunning man, and says—"Let no man deceive himself. If any man among you seemeth to be wise in this world, let him become a fool that he may be wise. For the wisdom of this world is foolishness with God. . . . For it is written, He taketh the wise in their own craftiness." 1 Cor. 3: 18, 19.

When the wisdom of man is contrasted with the wisdom of God, the former vanishes like the morning dew before the blazing sun.

Milldale, Ct.

NOTES OF OUR SIXTH TENT MEETING.—We pitched our tent Aug. 12th, on North Haven Island, for a few days, to warn them of a coming judgment, and for a witness. Our tent was nearly in the centre of the island, and near the Baptist meeting-house. Those that professed to be christians were of the Baptist persuasion. Our meetings were thinly attended, as it was a very busy time, and the place was thinly settled near the tent. They came out evenings, and Sunday we had a full tent. The Baptist minister came in the afternoon. At the close of the meeting, he invited us to attend the prayer-meeting at his church. We had a good time to speak of the faith once delivered to the saints. As he spoke of the gift of healing the sick, as being confined to the apostles' days, we thought it duty to speak of what we knew, and testify of the things we have seen. The Bro. seemed to be in the dark, as he made the remark that it was done by faith, if people were healed, inferring that it was not by faith in the apostles' days.

Some were very much interested in our meetings, and pressed us to stop longer. We thought it duty to go into other parts, that they may also hear the word of the kingdom of God at hand. We praise the Lord he has called us to this work, and hope to be found giving meat when he comes, and not be ashamed of him or his word. What sweet peace follows after we have been in a new place, and done what we could to show the people where we are in the history of this age. H. B. SEVEY.

WAR AND DUELING.—What, in principle, is war? It is the duel between nations, differing in no respect from the duel between individuals, except that the successful combatant is allowed to carry off as spoil the effects of his vanquished antagonist. It is an adjournment of great questions of international right or courtesy, from the bar of temperate discussion and peaceful arbitration before peers, to the bar of chance or mere force. It is an appeal from the reason and conscience of the parties themselves, from large views of their true interests, and from the moral judgments of mankind to the exploded trial by combat of the middle ages. Alas! alas! that, eighteen hundred years after the coming of the Prince of peace, this relic of barbarism should still be clung to by nations calling themselves christians; and God grant that the penalty which they are now suffering, and which has been treasuring itself up for ages, may deter us from following their dazzling but dangerous example.—Bishop Potter.

THE TRACT FUND.

THE ADVENT CHRISTIAN PUBLICATION SOCIETY, at a meeting on Springfield camp-ground, August 11th, 1875, voted to raise Two Thousand Dollars for the free distribution of Tracts the ensuing year; and they invite the help and co-operation of all lovers of the Lord and of his truth, in the furtherance of the good cause. The times are ominous of coming events, and admonish us to diligence in the Master's work. The Lord is at the door, and what we do must be done quickly. Let the contributions be prompt, hearty, and liberal. The Lord will reward the liberal giver.

A. W. SIBLEY, Sec. Adv. Chris. Pub. Soc.

Remittances should be sent to the Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS, Boston, Mass., or they may be enclosed with remittances to the Crisis Office.

DONATIONS FOR THE TRACT FUND.

Previous acknowledgments	$5 00
C. & H. Smith	12.00
Joseph Kimball	2.00
A Friend	1.00

POOR FUND.

TO SEND THE "CRISIS" TO THE POOR.

Previous acknowledgments	.75

YOUNG PILGRIM FUND.

AMER. ADV. MISSION SOCIETY.

Donations are earnestly solicited, to enable this Society to send out missionaries, and other means, into the Southern States, and elsewhere, as the Lord may open the door, to proclaim "the glad tidings of the kingdom at hand"; and should be sent, as also payments of pledges made, to the

Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS,

P. O. Drawer 5002, Boston, Mass.

who will acknowledge the same in the columns of the Crisis.

Aug. 6th, 1875, and onward.

Previous acknowledgments	$488.72
"C."	4.00
A Friend	1.00
J. A. Libby (pledge paid)	5.00

Received at Alton Bay on former pledges.

E. C. Lovejoy	5.00
G. L. Stanwood	5.00
R. Burrill (on pledge)	12 50
G. C. Bowles	10 00
Ruth Morrill	10 00
A. Cressey	2 00
Ozias Page	25.00

The pledges and collections made and taken up this year at the Alton Bay meeting, amounted to $1,360 16. At the close of the meeting, to raise the funds, it was reported that some $1500, or more, had been pledged. This was a mistake. One of the collectors who went through the congregation, had in his return to the Treasurer included the cash twice—thus making the amount $171.16 more than it should have been. Of the pledges made, payment has been received as follows:

A Friend, Dover, N. H.	20 00
W. Wyatt	5 00
D. Pease	5 00
A Friend	1.00
A. A. Phelps	5 00
Jennie Couch	1.00
H. G. Smiley	5 00
Amanda Richardson	1 00
Anna Raymond	1.00
Bro. Stevens	5 00
A Friend	5.00
Bro. Hamond	5.00
N. S Childs	5 00
A Friend	10.00
Mrs Jackson	10 00
Joseph Kimball	10 00
Bro. Chamberlain	5 00
M. A. Tredick	5 00
A. S Jenkins	5 00
A Friend	5 00
J. A. Wood	2 00
"Cash" and Collections	206 16

RAMBLES IN ALABAMA.

J. J. SMITH.

June 30th. As I stated, we agreed to preach at night at the church in the road. We had been referred to Bro. Allen for a comfortable stopping-place. After calling at the school to announce our appointment, we went on to Bro. Allen's. He being from home, we inquired for another place to stop at. Mrs. Allen referred us to Bro. Tidwell, a little further on. We found no one at home there, so we went on to the next house. We introduced ourselves, met with a cool reception, but were permitted to sit on the porch till meeting time, some two hours. As darkness approached, we left for our meeting without ever having seen the lady of the house since we had been invited by her to sit on the porch. Found a good turnout of the people. Bro. Stewart preached them one of his warm, stirring sermons. There seemed to be so much interest manifested, that I announced to preach there at noon the next day.

On being dismissed, the people retired, leaving Bro. Stewart and myself without an invitation to a lodging. We went out, and standing in the yard, beheld the moving crowd as it retired. A day's journey in the hot sun, a night's lodging on the hard benches without supper, after preaching, seemed to be our destiny; but then I saw three men in the rear of the crowd halt, and seemed to be in consultation. One of them turned to us, and invited us home with him to Mr. Allen's. I inquired if Bro. Allen was at home. He said he supposed so, by this time. I then accepted his invitation, and went with him. On our arrival found that Bro. Allen had not got home, and Mrs. A. refused us a lodging.

It was now late and very dark; we, however, set forward, and arrived at the house of Mr. Tidwell, a very poor man, with a liberal soul, who, with a true good will, proposed to do the best he could for us. He was one of the three persons who had stopped to invite us home with him. As we accepted an invitation to Bro. Allen's, he supposed we would fare much better there, and was satisfied. Mrs. Tidwell proposed to get us some supper, but we would not permit it, though we had eaten only a cold lunch since breakfast. Mr. Tidwell made no pretensions to religion, but manifested a better disposition than many who make loud pretensions on Sundays.

July 1st, I preached on the second coming of the Lord, to a very attentive audience; some of whom seemed to be excited to manifest a good feeling. We had some warm solicitations to re-visit them. Though we now had other invitations, we dined at Mrs. Tidwell's again. Several persons stopped over to talk with us about the truths that we had preached, and what they had read in the tracts that we had given out to them.

Vienna is a small village a few miles ahead of us. This morning we sent an appointment to preach there to-night. After bidding the kind ones farewell, with a prayer for God's blessing on them, we set out for the evening appointment. We got caught in the rain, and had the mud to wade for some miles through Point Rock River swamp. We reached town with a most unsightly appearance. Inquired for the persons to whom we had been referred, but none of them were at home, save one, to whom I introduced myself and our business, and that we had been referred to him, etc. He replied that he did not know why we were sent to him, as he did not belong to the "meeting folks." We felt as if we were at the wrong place, and left him. Bro. Stewart proposed to leave town, but I told him I had agreed to preach in town that night, and some few persons were expecting us to do so, and that I would see others, and know if there was an opening for us before I should leave.

I left Bro. Stewart sitting at a store, while I went from house to house distributing tracts, and talking to the people. I found the people to be very kindly disposed, and they generally proposed to come out to meeting, and before I got round some one rung the church bell. After sundown, I returned to where I left Bro. Stewart, and found him still wishing to leave town; but he consented to accompany me to church. I told him it was his turn to preach, and to get ready. He replied, "I may be mistaken one time, and I am greatly mistaken, if we stay in town to-night, if we don't get whipped." I told him to get ready to preach. We sat down on the steps of the church in the twilight, when three men rode by, to whom Bro. Stewart nodded, "there they go now."

"Who?" said I. "If we stay here to-night, you will find out before morning. I overheard them as they took their horses from the stable in town a while ago." Just at this moment, a man came and opened the church. Others soon came and lighted up the house. In a few minutes we had a fair congregation, considering the short notice, and the mud in the streets.

Bro. Stewart was as humble as I ever saw him, and preached a sermon that certainly made a good impression, and opened the way for me to preach at the same place on the morrow.

At the close of the service, two strangers approached us, and kindly invited us to lodge with them. We went, one with each of them, and received true christian hospitality. The morning found our backs well, and then Bro. Stewart informed me that he had overheard some one call us "scalliwags," "carpet baggers," etc., and that they would attend to us before morning. Bro. Stewart yet thinks that in consequence of my going out with the tracts, and thus eliciting the good will of the better portion of society, that they saw we had friends in these, and thus gave up the accomplishment of their purpose.

July 2nd, I preached again in Vienna. The people heard us patiently, and treated us kindly. After service, on our way to our stopping place, we got caught in a heavy rain storm, and were well soaked to the skin. Vienna was once a beautiful village, but during the war it was alternately held by both the contending parties, and the law of retaliation prevailing, every dwelling and outhouse but one was burned. The great stone chimneys yet stand here and there over the town plot, peering out from among the tall corn, as monuments of the horrors of war, and this may account in some measure for the opposition to supposed "carpet baggers."

After eating dinner, we bade farewell to our kind brethren, and left for our next point, six miles. Found much of our road overflowed with water from the storm just passed over. We had to wade the waters and mud, and being yet wet from the rain, and the perspiration pouring from us, we trudged on to the house of a Presbyterian brother, the father-in-law of Bro. John A. Bryan, who had informed him of our coming. Bro. Bryan had come with his family here before we arrived. Bro. John T. Dilworth and family greeted us as true christians, and made us feel at home at once. Having donned our wet apparel, we soon forgot our weariness in the sweet and refreshing associations of this dear family.

July 3rd. Our appointment had been sent to this neighborhood some weeks ago for a two days meeting. A Methodist minister had refused even to make an announcement of our meetings, and no house was offered us but private ones.

Our meeting had been announced for the grove in Mr. Cooper's yard. We accordingly met the people there, and had two services. Bro. Stewart and myself both preached. The Lord helped us to preach the truth in love and tenderness. Many tears were shed, and deep solemnity characterized the occasion. At night there was to be a prayer-meeting at the M. E. church, where the minister had refused to publish our appointment. Bro. Stewart went to it, and was invited to preach. He did so, to the satisfaction of many. Their house was tendered to us for this or future meetings, and we were urged to make an appointment there for the future. This I have done.

July 4th. It was meeting day at the Presbyterian church in this neighborhood. We would not divide the neighborhood, so we all went to their meeting in the morning. We were introduced to Eld. Drake, the minister, who conducted the service without any recognition of us as ministers.

In the afternoon, I preached in Cooper's grove, from the words, "If the world hate you, ye know that it hated me before it hated you." John 15: 18. I endeavored to show what Christ suffered from his enemies, that we are called to suffer, that reproach and shame is our lot, but we shall be glorified with him if so be that we suffer with him. The Lord was my helper. Bro. Stewart followed with a stirring exhortation. We left a good impression, as was evinced by the warm solicitations to return soon and hold a protracted meeting with them. I have promised, the Lord willing, to spend a few days with them, including the fourth Sunday in August. Brethren regretted that they were not able to pay my way home, but the truth is there is scarcely any money in the country down here, and those who have a little are not the lovers of the truths we preach. Three dollars would put me through in a few hours, whereas it takes me four days to make it on foot.

In the kingdom I hope to rest, and oh, how sweet it will be! O for grace to bear me through! Pray for your weary brother and fellow laborer.

Long Island, Ala.

THE GLORY OF HOLINESS.

O, what a fulness there is in the living fountain. O, to be all wrapped up in God; to be holy in heart, holy in life, in word, and in deed; do just as we would be done by, seeking not for the honor nor applause of this world, but that which comes from God alone. And when we read that it is written, "Be ye holy, for I am holy," then we are just as much commanded to be holy as we are to repent. And, oh, how blessed, how pure, how sweet, to be all the Lord's! holy, free from sin, and live in the sunlight of heaven, and be above the low and trifling things of earth!

O, what a great and important subject is this! The half has never been told. The blessedness there is in the fulness of Jesus; the blessedness of being holy—given up to God; all the time resting in Jesus! The storms and the tempests that beat around us; the troubles of life, all, all, at times seem to engulf us; but when we are given up to God—overshadowed by his loving wings, resting under them, we are then safe.

O, how blessed, how sweet, to have him our all! Holy, holy, is his every word and work, and he has left us an example, that we should follow in his footsteps.—Token of Truth.

Correspondence.

From Sr. R. S. Ladd.

Dear Editors:—Judging others by myself, I thought it might be gratifying to you to know that I am interested in the great important subject of sanctification and holiness. I not only assent to its truths, but the past two years experience has proved the vital bearing of this subject upon my heart and life. As I look back through the vista of forty years, and see the leadings of a kind Providence, in watching my footsteps, amid the slippery paths of youth, and more advanced age, and not suffered me to make utter shipwreck of faith; this, at times, weak and trembling; and but for the direct agency of the Holy Spirit should have fallen to rise no more; and how often the way of duty and self-denial found me seeking redress, to ease my conscience, and satisfy the demands of justice. But God, who is rich in mercy, kept his eye upon me, and caused me to grow up to a more matured stature in Christ Jesus, till the narrow way became more attractive than the walks of unrighteousness.

For years the struggle had ceased within to beckon me away from the beaten track, and yet I was not wholly given up to the Master's service. The rod of correction was applied time and again, "line upon line, here a little and there a little," ere I gave up all and entered into rest, where I could count all things but loss and dross, for the excellency of the knowledge of Christ Jesus my Lord; where submission was graven upon every trial and affliction; where sorrow and sadness were mingled with joy and consolation; where the tenderest tie is broken and severed, and still the heart cries out, "Thy will be done."

Clouds and darkness have gathered over my head, but always the sweet cheering voice was impressed upon my heart, "Fear thou not, for I am with thee; be not dismayed, for I am thy God. I will strengthen thee; yea, I will uphold thee with the right hand of my righteousness." Circumstances of loneliness, doubt, and uncertainty of future prospects,—wave after wave of trial, vicissitudes, and changes, have marked my steps; still the peace is like a river; the rest undisturbed. My cares, that had been cast on the Lord, have not been permitted to return, though oft reminded of their pressing need. "Peace I leave with you; my peace I give unto you," has been mine all the way through.

The richness, sweetness, fulness of this great salvation is only known to those who have experienced it. It cannot be told, and it is all of the Lord. His work, not ours. He is the author and finisher. All praise to God and the Lamb forever! I desire to magnify the Lord in the work he has wrought in me, in any way that will please him. I am in the hands of God, willing to be used to his glory. I find here and there one in the different orders that is thirsting and fainting for that water of life. Whosoever drinketh shall never thirst. It is one of the signs of the times, that the bride is making herself ready.

Tolland, Ct.

From Bro. Geo. Thomson.

To my dear Brn. and friends in Christ:—I esteem it a privilege, as well as duty, to report to you through our excellent paper as often as I am able. Since I last wrote I have suffered much. But the dear Lord has sustained me through it all, and I am now some better. Praise his dear name. Although there are many things calculated to make me sad,—as, for instance, when I read of our glorious camp and other meetings,—O how I do long to be with my dear brethren to assist in proclaiming to a slumbering church and world that Jesus is soon coming. But I have many blessings, for which I feel truly thankful. Much of the time I can read, and, next to my Bible, I prize our precious papers the Crisis, Times, and Banner. O how I do feast on the good things prepared by our beloved Editors. We ought to pray for them, for their position is a responsible one.

I am greatly cheered, too, by letters of sympathy from kind friends, many of whom I have never seen. May God bless you. You don't know how much good you do me. Those who have requested answers will please accept this through the paper. I would gladly answer all by letter, if I was able. Still remember me with your prayers and epistles.

I acknowledge with many thanks the following sums: Mr. I. Waterbury, $5; Sister Stone, Augusta, $1; Sister Anson Brown, 50 cts.; Sister B. Graves (by the hand of S. R. Bentley), $1; Bro. M. L. Alford (by the hand of Frank Burr), $1; Bro. Wheeler, $1; Clara Hurlbert, 25 cts., earned by finding the names of Bro. Hough's grandchildren in the Times.

Prairie du Sac, Wis., Aug. 19th.

From Sr. L. B. Weaver.

Dear ones of Jesus:—While I pen these lines, many of the dear ones are at the Springfield campmeeting enjoying a blessing which many of God's dear ones cannot enjoy, who would love most dearly to be there, and mingle their voices in prayer and praise with you; but, alas! sickness and suffering keep us poor, weary, life-long sufferers away. But one blessed thing does cheer and comfort me,—Jesus is with us just as much as he is at campmeeting; and that gives me blessedness I cannot express. This morning, my first thoughts were, "O how I would love to meet with the dear ones at campmeeting to-day." I thought, how blessed it would be to be there at the early morning meeting, to listen to the sweet testimonies, and hear the experience of those who had found that "blessed rest," and then to confess Jesus as my dear and faithful covenant keeping God, and tell of his blessedness to poor unworthy me; and then to meet with them at the love-feast; then to hear the sermons.

For a moment, the tears came freely; then the sweet heavenly Spirit seemed to whisper, "Pray, and you will feel better." I opened my mouth in prayer to God, and oh, how he blessed me. How sweetly I felt his loving arms around me; and I could, as it were, see his smiling face, and hear him say, Thou art mine; I will never leave thee. Lo, I am with you alway. I was greatly comforted.

If it was not his will for me to suffer, I should be released from it; and so I am content, though my sufferings are extremely painful; especially so for the last few weeks. Some of the time it has been hard for me to breathe or stir. My pain was so hard, so cutting, that it seemed as if knives were piercing into my flesh; but if that is the way Father designs me to be perfected, amen. Not my will, but thine, O Lord, be done. I love Jesus better than all else; and I love his dear ones too.

I know if I am only good, that in a little while we will meet and greet to part never more. I long to be there. My dear ones, remember me, as you meet to worship, and pray for me. I am resting in Jesus, trusting my Savior and Lord, casting my all upon him. God bless you all, and soon we will be home. Thine for Jesus.

No. Dana, Mass., Aug. 8th, 1875.

Bro. P. W. Hough writes from State Camp, Brookline, Iowa, Aug. 23d:—"Our camp has commenced, and things look very encouraging. The audience is large, and love and harmony prevail. The preaching, so far, has been sound and good; but the conference meetings have been somewhat dull. We are looking and praying for better ones, and believe we shall see them. Amen."

LETTER TO THE CHURCH.

To the brethren scattered abroad we would say, that for closer union, more perfect harmony and advancement of God's cause, the church at Longton met and organized on the 13th of June, which is to be known as the Advent Christian Church at Longton. Since that time we have met regularly for the worship of Him whom we are trying to serve. Owing to our isolation from central points, we have no regular preaching, and would here say that if any of our brethren from afar should find it convenient to give us a call, they will be heartily welcomed. But be it distinctly understood that we wish no teacher of strange doctrines or new theories, which are only calculated to stir up divisions or engender strife.

Hoping that we with you may be preserved blameless to the marriage supper of the Lamb, and that God in his goodness may preserve us from all temptations, we remain your brethren of the faith of Abraham.

H. C. Lapham, Clerk.

"THE HOLY LEAGUE OF THE PEERS OF AMERICA."

We have received from the "Temporary Head-quarters of the S. R. Council" a manifesto of a formidable secret organization with the tremendous title written above. On examining the great red seal which constitutes the signature or authentication of the document, we learn that "S. R. Council" means "Sovereign Royal Council," a tautological title which is very impressive, but we do not ascertain where the temporary headquarters are located. The circular is rather a complicated affair, but by dint of hard study we are able to give to an anxious world some idea of the nature and purposes of the League. We call it the League "for short," as we have to write so many words beginning with capitals in succession.

To begin at the end or near the end of the document, every person on becoming a peer has to take a horrible oath that he will not divulge the secrets of the League, and that he will do quite a variety of things, closing with awful imprecations. For instance, he remarks that if he ever breaks his oath, "may my name perish, and my family disappear from the face of the earth"; "may the merited pity and contempt of my peers and the consciousness of having degraded myself and my family weigh heavy on my soul, and drag me down to an early, dishonored and unwept grave." One would think that pretty strong, but it is not all. The Neophyte implores Almighty God to let his soul live or perish, according as he shall keep or break his oath. Certainly one would hesitate to take such a fearful oath unless it admitted him to accomplish some purpose of vast importance.

Well, that is the object. A peer belongs to an aristocratic order of overpowering dignity and grandeur. The government of the League, we are told, is "of a military character, and despotic in its nature," and it is called a "realm." In constituting this "realm" recourse is had to the feudal system, and it is divided into dukedoms, earldoms, viscounties, baronies and baronetcies. Ten knights constitute a baronetcy, which is ruled by a baronet; ten baronetcies form a barony, ruled by a baron, and so on. Thus we have an order of nobility with titles, degrees, and all that sort of thing, which must be very nice. At the secret meetings, we presume, every body has to know his place; and to address the noble dukes as "your grace," and the lesser lights as "your lordship," etc., wherein there would be vast satisfaction.

Nor is this all, but there is to be a herald and a herald's office, and coats of arms and mottoes, and the titles will descend according to the law of primogeniture. And then there are penalties, awful penalties, for offences, including the "ban" and death. The death penalty is not so serious, because one might have the satisfaction of knowing that the democratic and plebian authorities of the State would take it up, and there would be a trial of somebody for homicide, and an excitement over him equal to that which made Mr. Morgan so famous. But the ban, that is awful. Why, a man under the ban of the League is an "outcast forever"; he becomes "infamous and dishonored"; his name is blotted from the herald's record, and his posterity to the third generation is disqualified from becoming a peer; and any person that associates with one under the ban, or gives him aid or sympathy, becomes "infamous and dishonorable," and himself liable to the ban.

Now for the object of this grand order of nobility and the "horrible and awful things" that one is liable to be afflicted with if he prove unfaithful to his vows. Well, they are a strange mixture of the useful and the ridiculous. The object seems to be to associate together the wealthy, the intelligent and cultivated, against the poor, the ignorant, and the besotted. The League is opposed to Labor Unions and everything savoring of Communism; it is set against secession and disunion; it opposes everything like repudiation; favors honest and efficient government; requires its members always to vote, and never for a man of bad or doubtful character; is opposed to universal suffrage, the abolition of capital punishment, and, in short, is aristocratic in all its views and purposes. To what extent this institution has become established is not for us to know, and how widely it will spread we cannot pretend to say.—Boston Globe.

Married.

BUSWELL—GILMAN. In Ossipee, N. H., Aug. 12th, 1875, by Elder A. Stillings, Mr. Isaac Buswell and Miss Mary J. Gilman, both of Ossipee, N. H.

FOREIGN NEWS.

London, Aug. 24. A telegram received here says the insurgents in Herzegovina are threatening an attack on Trebigne, in large force, and the Turkish forces are concentrating in the direction of Nissa. The Grand Vizier has addressed a note to Germany, Russia and Austria, thanking them for friendly intercession in the interests of peace. A special to the Standard from Vienna says the Herzegovinian insurgents massacred ninety-five Turkish prisoners, captured at Marsic. Bands of insurgents are assembling in the mountains of Crete.

Aug. 26 Advices received here report the resignation of the Grand Vizier, who will be succeeded by Mahmoud. Despatches from Vienna state advices from Herzegovina announce the insurgents have burned the towns of Focuiza and Positio, capturing five hundred Turkish troops, whom they afterwards disarmed and released.

Vienna, Aug. 27. The Porte has refused to suspend hostilities against the Herzegovinians during the mediations. Seven thousand women and children are now fugutives in Croatia in consequence of the war. The insurgents are occupying the widest area possible in order to get an advanced line of demarcation at the opening of negotiations.

Advices from Herzegovina confirm the report that the insurgents have rejected the advice of the European powers to suspend hostilities, and also they demand the independence of Bosnia.

Another revolution has begun in San Domingo. Ex-President Baez has been proclaimed president by the revolutionists. The cities of Santa Domingo and Peurta Platta remain loyal to Gonzalez.

London, Aug. 30. The latest advices from the Bosnian revolt indicate that the rebellion is beginning to assume the most formidable proportions. Northern Bosnia is in full rebellion against the Porte. The insurgents of Herzgovina have established a National Government. Montenegro and Servia are actively preparing for war. The official press of Montenegro does not conceal its sympathy with the movement. Four thousand Servians have entered the Turkish territory and encamped at Novi, where they seized the telegraph. Servians have appeared in the Balkan Mountains and are endeavoring to incite the Bulgarians to rise against the Porte. Three battalions of the Turkish expedition which landed at Kleck have reached Mostar, the capital of Herzegovina. They met with no opposition on the march.

Notices.

New York State A. C. Conference and General Meeting.

The first quarterly meeting of this conference year will be held in the Mission Tent, with the church at Ontario, Wayne Co., N. Y., commencing Wednesday evening, Sept. 8th, and holding over the following Sabbath. In the absence of a campmeeting this year in this State, it is desirable to make this a general meeting of our brethren and sisters throughout the State. Ontario is a new field. It is on the Lake Ontario shore division of the Rome and Watertown R. R., eighteen miles east from Rochester. Friends coming from the West will take cars at Rochester, at 7.40 A. M. and 5.05 P. M., for Charlotte. Here take train for Ontario. Those coming from the East, via. N. Y. C. R. R., will change cars (at Phelps, on Auburn Branch, about 5 P. M.; on the direct road at Newark, about 5.30 P. M.) for Wallington, on the Sodus Point R. R. Change at Wallington for Ontario. Homes for all that will come.

Let every church appoint delegates, and take up the quarterly collection, and send the same to conference. Meeting but a few rods from the depot. Remember the time. We hope to see all our preaching brethren. Pray for this meeting.

M. R. Miles, President.
Jas. E. Wells, Secretary.

Rhode Island Campmeeting.

The Lord permitting, the Rhode Island and East Conn. Campmeeting will be held at Coventry Centre, R. I., to commence Sept 8th, and continue to Sept. 17th. Good accommodations for strangers to lodge, and those who have no tents. Bro. Leslie will be there with the Mass. Mission Tent, and all who wish to petition off rooms can do so at a reasonable price.

It is expected the fare will be reduced one third on the Hartford and Providence road between Providence and Plainfield. Call for campmeeting tickets at all way stations between these two places. There will be two large tents on the ground, and good board and lodging. Board can be obtained at 80 cts. per day; dinner for 40 cents; breakfast and supper 30 cts. each. Horse-keeping on reasonable terms.

Able preachers will be there to preach the word. Let there be a large gathering from all the region round about. Pray much for the success of this meeting. It may be the last this side of the judgment. Let us labor for the salvation of sinners.

E. Bellows.

Tent Meeting.

The Hoosick Valley Tent will be pitched for the sixth series of religious meetings this season, near the Advent church, West Hoosick, N. Y., so as to commence meetings Tuesday evening, Sept. 7th, and continue over the next week. Let all who can, come to these meetings with the Spirit of Christ to labor for the salvation of all who desire life. The meetings will be under the charge of Elds. A. A. Waite and R. L. Harrison.

H. K. Flagg, A. W. Sibley, } Tent Committee.

Conference.

The next Annual Advent Christian Conference of Northern Pa. and Southern N. Y. will be held at Little Marsh, Tioga Co., Pa., commencing Thursday evening, Oct. 14th, and continuing over the following Sunday. We hope to see a general gathering of the friends of truth. Come in the name of the Lord. Ticket by railway from Corning (Tioga depot) to Middlebury. Teams will be at Middlebury to convey to Little Marsh.

E. C. Cowles, President.
A. H. Briggs, Secretary.

Tent Meeting.

The New Hampshire Mission Tent will be pitched at Haverbill Corner, Grafton Co., N. H., to commence Wednesday evening, Sept. 1st, and continue over the following Sunday, and on as the Lord shall direct. Brn. A. Simpson, of Concord, Bro. and Sr. Clark, from Kansas, and others, are expected to be present to assist in preaching the word.

C. H. Fletcher, J. G. Smith, D. F. Leavitt, } Committee.

Barn Meeting.—There will be a barn meeting at Standish Neck at Bro. Leonard Shaw's, Sept. 12th and 13th, commencing Saturday morning. It is four miles from Lake Sebago Station.

Hannah S. Clark.

Grove Meeting.—There will be a grove meeting in Pittstown, N. Y., in Mr. Case's grove, near the Douglass school-house, commencing evening, Sept. 9th, and hold over the following Sunday. Preaching at half-past ten, two o'clock, and seven o'clock of each day.

R. L. Harrison.
A. A. Wait.

Quarterly Conference.—The first quarterly meeting of the North Central (Christian) Conference will be at Floyd, commencing Sept. 9th, to continue over the Sunday following. A general and earnest invitation is extended to all the members and friends to attend.

E. A. Marsh, Sec.

Notice.—The York Co. A. C. Conference will hold its next quarterly session at Hollis Centre, Me., commencing Thursday, Sept. 16th, at two o'clock P. M. Make it a point to be there at the commencement, and remain until the close.

C. H. Sweet, Secretary.

Tent Meeting in Liberty.

The Maine Mission Tent will be pitched in Liberty Village, Me., Sept. 14th, for meetings, and continue over Sunday, and as much longer as thought duty. We hope several good working brethren and sisters will attend with small tents, to labor, and accommodate those who come from abroad. Let all come in the spirit of the gospel of Christ.

I. C. Wellcome.

Bethel, Vt., Campmeeting.

The Bethel, Vermont, Annual A. C. Campmeeting is appointed to commence Saturday, Sept. 4th, and continue till September 13th.

Brn. J. Couch, E. A. Stockman, E. McCulloch, N. Wheeler, and others, are expected to be at this meeting. The fare is reduced on all roads controlled by the Vt. Central, reaching from New London, Conn., to Montreal, Canada; also on the Montpelier and Wells River R. R. All persons purchasing tickets on these roads for this campmeeting, will receive a return check free. Tickets good from Sept. 1st to Sept. 13th. Children under twelve years half price. The regular passenger trains will stop at the campmeeting station opposite the grounds as heretofore. Board will be furnished on the ground at 75 cts. per day. The boarding stand is run in the interests of the meeting this year. All kinds of provisions can be bought at the boarding stand. Teams will be kept at houses close by the ground at reasonable rates.

We hope every tent's company will invite a preacher to their circle, as this will give homes for preachers from abroad, and be for the spiritual good of all. If preachers come with hobbies, or fanaticism, they will find homes out doors, as their themes will not be tolerated on the ground. Let all come in the spirit of the Master, to work in harmony with the meeting for the salvation of the perishing. Pray much that we all may come with warm hearts and willing hands to this annual feast of divine things.

A. A. Hoyt, for Com.

P. S.—Those who intend to build wood tents, should come early enough to get them completed before the meeting commences. Lumber can be had of C. M. Walker, Bethel, Vt., it applied for in season. Remember this.

A. A. H.

Vermont Conference.

The next Annual Advent Christian Conference will be held at Bethel camp-ground during the campmeeting. The business meeting will commence on Wednesday, Sept 8th. Business of importance is to be done at this conference. New officers are to be chosen. May there be a full attendance. Each church is entitled to one delegate. Come in the spirit of Jesus.

Central Vermont and Montpelier and Wells River R. R. half fare, as last year.

R. N. Stetson, Secretary.

Campmeeting.

The Advent Christian Campmeeting of Northern Kansas and Southern Nebraska will be held at Peach Creek, Washington Co., beginning October 7th, and continue over two Sundays. Come all that can. Make a sacrifice to come, and come filled with the Spirit to work for God. Bring plenty of bedding, and all bring tents that can. Bro. and Sr. Clark will be present (D. V.), with a large missionary tent.

Committee: C. D. Potter, A. S. Field, J. W. Elliott, and Theodore Bedgar.

Brn. G. G. Godfrey, James Hayworth, F. O. Cutler, J. S. Thorp, E. N. Bliss, James Page, R. F. Clark, Sr. Clark, and others, will be present to assist in preaching the word.

For additional information, address C. D. Potter, Peach Creek, Washington Co., Kansas.

The Advent Christian Conference of Northern Kansas and Southern Nebraska will be held during the early part of the meeting. Per order of Committee.

Conference. The Lord willing, a general meeting of the members of the church of God will be held near Sulphur Springs, Williamson Co., Ills., commencing Friday, Sept. 17th, at 7.30 P. M., and continuing over the following Sunday. All who "love his appearing" are cordially invited to be present. Inquire for Bro. Henry M. Cocke, who lives two miles west of the post office. Come with your Bibles, and let us "search the Scriptures" in "the spirit of truth," for in them we are assured that we find full directions how to obtain "eternal life." Let us have a genuine love feast once more while waiting for the realization of "that blessed hope."

Amos Sanford.

Campmeeting.

A campmeeting will be held at Sparta, Wis., beginning Sept 4th, and continue over two Sundays. We hope for a general rally, and an excellent meeting. Necessary preparations will be made for pitching tents, and all are requested to be on hand in time, to work for God. Let every family within reasonable distance be present, and bring tents if possible. This location is so near the river, that we hope a goodly number of tents will also come from Iowa and Minnesota. Let us have a grand rally of workers.

Committee: John Palmer, Wm. Wood, Bro. Mathewson, M. L. Huthinson, James Hewitt.

Brn. D. S. Clark, Philo Hitchcock, and other ministers will be present to assist in preaching the word. If any desire additional information, address Bro. Clark, at Sparta, Wis.

Wm. Sheldon.

Tent Meeting.—The Lord willing, there will be a tent meeting at Hereford, Hall Stream, P. Q., commencing Tuesday evening, Sept. 14th, and hold over Sunday. Brethren, pray that this meeting may redound to the glory of God.

Jared Whitman.

A Quarterly Meeting will be held in Edinboro, Penn., on Saturday afternoon and Sunday (with love-feast at 9 A. M.), Sept. 4th and 5th. As important business matters will come up on Saturday, a full attendance of the brethren is desirable.

G. W. Stetson, Pastor.

Iowa Campmeeting.

The N. E. Iowa Advent Christian Campmeeting will be held in Edgewood (Yankee Settlement), Clayton Co., commencing Friday evening, Sept. 3d, and holding over two Sundays. The brethren have secured a pleasant grove about one mile from the depot, and they will do what they can to provide for the comfort of those who come. Straw will be provided free for bedding, and hay and grain can be had cheap. Let all that can bring tents and bedding, and come prepared to board yourselves; but those that cannot do so, come to the meeting anyway. We extend a general invitation to all the preaching brethren to come to the meeting. Leave your "hobbies" and "pet theories" at home, and come to work with the people for the salvation of the perishing. Help from abroad will be secured as the Lord may open the way. We hope to see a large gathering of the waiting ones to this meeting.

The Annual Conference will be held during the early part of the meeting. Let the churches therefore see that delegates are appointed and credentials furnished. Let all that cannot send delegates report by letter. We hope to see all of the preachers there, but if any cannot come, write us a letter, so that we may know of your whereabouts. Edgewood is on the Davenport and St. Paul Railroad. Those on the line of the Illinois Central change cars at Deleware Centre.

J. Ridley, Secretary.

Campmeeting.

A campmeeting will be held at Brodhead, Wis., beginning on Saturday, Sept. 12th. Let tents come from every direction. Committee of arrangements: H. T. Moore, H. W. Button, Israel Moore, Wm. Foster, D. H Warren. A goodly number of our ministers will be present, and among them we expect S. W. Thurber and Sr. S. J. Buswell. We look for an excellent meeting. Pitch tents on the day before the meeting, if convenient.

Wm. Sheldon.

My labors for the present and on until further notice, will be with the church in Whitefield, N. H. Brethren, please remember and address all communications designed for me to the above place.

T. E. Lang, Jr.

A NEW WORK.

SATANIC SPIRITUALISM.

I have just published a work on Spiritualism, with the above title, containing 96 pp., 16 mo. It aims to establish the satanic character of spirit manifestations, both ancient and modern, and shows also that they are through demons instead of the spirits of the dead. These demons are shown to be the evil angels of Scripture, and to have their location in our atmosphere. The "familiar spirits" in the early Bible times, and the demons in the days of Christ and the early church, are shown to have the same general character which we find in the spirits of Spiritualism; while the phenomena in the Salem witchcraft, and several other occasions in modern times, are shown to have all the usual features of the reports of spirit manifestations in our day.

After noticing various instances of spirit manifestations in the past, the principles and doctrines of modern Spiritualism are given in numerous quotations from the spirits and leading Spiritualists, showing that they are every way blasphemous and anti-christian; and finally the tendency of popular religious teachings toward the doctrines of Spiritualism is shown to be fearfully manifest in all directions. While from its thorough treatment of the subject the work will prove invaluable to inquirers after truth, it will be found of especial service to ministers and others as a book of reference from its numerous quotations of authorities on various points.

I shall have the pamphlet on sale at my stand at Alton Bay campmeeting, and will fill orders for them at 20 cts. single copy, six copies $1.00, by addressing me there during the meeting, or afterward at Burke, Vt. Those wishing larger quantities will be allowed a further reduction.

I. K. Lombard.

☞ For sale at this Office.

Pittsfield Campmeeting.

The Annual Campmeeting for the Eastern part of Maine will be held, if the Lord will, on the ground occupied last year in Hathorn's Grove, at Pittsfield, commencing Sunday, Sept. 5th, and holding over Sunday, Sept. 12th.

The ground has been enlarged and graded since last year. It is expected that all who can will put up tents for themselves, and furnish plenty of bedding and food. The Mission Tent will be on hand, and will afford lodgings for those who cannot put up tents, but all must provide bedding for themselves. Be prepared for the cold and storms.

Good board will be furnished at the boarding tent at the following prices: Breakfast or supper, 25 cents; dinner, 40 cents, except the last Sunday, when it will be fifty cents. Horse keeping near by at low rates.

The fare over the M. C. R. R. will be reduced one half. Call for Campmeeting Tickets for Pittsfield and return, as there will be none given at Pittsfield. Tickets good from Sept. 1st to the 14th inclusive.

We hope there will be a general rally to this Annual Meeting by our brethren and sisters from different parts of the State. Not many more of these meetings shall we enjoy here. Come, then, in Jesus' name and strength to work for God and the salvation of the perishing. All has and will be done by the Committee for the advancement of the interest of this meeting.

Jer. Carr, O. S. French, A. M. Harris, Oscar Farnum, Wm. Clark, Wm. Banton, G. L. McKenney, } Committee.

Connecticut Campmeeting.

The Lord willing, this campmeeting will commence in the grove near Plainville, Saturday, September 4th, and continue till Sept. 13th.

Experience has proved the depressing effect of the free board system in all campmeetings, where it is allowed; for while the motive may be good, it fails in practice. Many have come to consider this management an unequal division of the burden of the meeting, inasmuch, as it requires brethren who meet their own expenses and board themselves, to help pay a free board bill for others, whose special claim to the privilege they do not understand, thereby diminishing their interest in campmeetings, and hindering their liberty to labor while at the meetings. Nor is this all; the free table has prompt attendants and earnest laborers, who sometimes fail to engage earnestly in the work of salvation, and are at ease in Zion before they are aware of it.

We believe the simple rule of equality to all is the surest way out of this difficulty; and it has been decided to have no free board and no boarding table at this meeting this year. The committee, with the rest, will board themselves. None need stay away because the boarding table is discontinued, as provisions will be sold at the stand, and meat, oysters, and potatoes cooked, if desired, at reasonable rates. This step has been taken with view to glorify the Lord, and we think will equalize the burden. While christians are not called upon to provide for those who are able to take care of themselves, they will not allow the needy to go away hungry.

With the blessing of the Lord, we trust the meeting will prove as nearly self-sustaining as possible. Those coming by R. R. will find conveyance from Plainville to the camp-ground. Let all who can, bring tents and bedding, and every one a blanket, lest your neighbor rob himself to lend you. Above all, come filled with the Spirit of Jesus. As the lease of this grove expires this year, a meeting will be held on the ground, Thursday, Sept. 9th, at 9 o'clock A. M., to consider the future of the campmeeting. A full attendance is desired. Pray that the divine power may rest down upon the encampment, and the good news of the soon coming kingdom inspire every believer with renewed energy to save the perishing, and to be in complete readiness to wait for the Son of man from heaven.

Seth Woodruff, B. Hitchcock, H. P. Bradley, L. Mills, O. D. Woodruff, } Committee.

Lake View Campmeeting.

The Annual Campmeeting of the Advent Christian Conference of the Province of Quebec, Canada, will be held in Magog, (D. V.) at the outlet of the beautiful Lake Memphremagog, to commence Saturday, Sept. 11th, and continue over two Sundays. We deem it best, and have been advised, to attend to the business of our Annual Conference during this meeting, and hereby so appoint, unless reasonable objection is made before that time. Let all come who can.

Arrangements have been made for half fare rates on the Passumpsic, Massawippi Valley, and South Eastern railways. Those coming on those roads will ask for campmeeting tickets. Probably fare will be reduced on the Grand Trunk, as application has been made.

Efficient help from abroad is expected. Brn. E. A. Stockman and other ministers, as the Lord may send.

C. P. Dow.

Campmeeting.—The Pittsfield, Me., Campmeeting will commence, if the Lord will, Sunday, Sept. 5th, and hold over Sunday, Sept. 12th.

The fare over the M. C. R. R. will be reduced one half. We hope there will be a good delegation come over the R. R., so if we need the same favor another year we can get it. Particulars in due time.

Jer. Carr, for the Committee.

☞ Eld. M. R. Phetteplace has been engaged to supply the desk at the Advent church in Lowell for the present.

THE BIBLE BANNER.

This is a large, illustrated, monthly paper, conducted by A. A. Phelps, A. M., assisted by an able corps of Special Contributors. It contains various departments—Doctrinal, Prophetical, Practical, Bible Class, Miscellany, and Items of Interest. It is devoted to a critical exposition of Bible Truth, and an earnest advocacy of Bible Salvation. Only One Dollar a year, and postage free. Liberal terms to Agents. Address The Bible Banner, Vineland, N. J.

The World's Crisis and Bible Banner will both be furnished to one person for $3 00 a year. This applies to new subscribers for the Banner. Address all orders for both papers to the World's Crisis, 160 Hanover St., Boston, Mass.

THE BIBLICAL MESSENGER.

This monthly is well printed, and is a bold advocate of Bible truth. It gives prominence to holiness of heart, and the speedy return of Christ to resurrect the dead and set up his everlasting kingdom.

Editors: A. A. Hoyt, H. F. Carpenter, A. W. Sibley, Frank Burr, M. R. Phetteplace, C. Mendenhall. Terms: Sixty cents a year. Agents wanted. Send for sample copies. Address the "Biblical Messenger," Waterbury, Vt.

The Biblical Messenger and World's Crisis will both be sent to one address for $2.60. Address all orders for both papers to World's Crisis, 160 Hanover Street, Boston, Mass.

UNION IN CHRIST.

AN ILLUSTRATED MONTHLY.

Thoroughly Christian, entirely unsectarian; devoted to the promotion of Christian union, holiness of heart and activity in the Master's work.

As one of the leading features of the paper it will advocate Union revival meetings in cities, villages, and rural districts, everywhere, as a means of uniting christians, promoting holiness, and saving souls. Able writers in the various denominations will contribute to its columns.

Terms: Post-paid, single copy, 60 cts. a year; 50 cts. to ministers of the Gospel, and any person who will solicit subscriptions. Ten copies one year for $4; thirty copies for $10; $1.00 a year, with Chromo or Bible Reader's Map.

This paper one year free, with any paper or book on our Clubbing List at publisher's prices, explained in sample copy sent free. Agents wanted everywhere. Address H. A. King, Box 2289, 37 Park Row, New York.

The Crisis and Union in Christ a year, to old or new subscribers, remitting $2 50 to World's Crisis, 160 Hanover Street, Boston, Mass.

THE TOBACCO PLUG AND CIGAR

shown in their true character, with some of their terrible results upon mankind.

From Zion's Herald:—"Rev. George Trask is in a fair way to have an efficient successor in Rev. I. C. Wellcome, of Yarmouth, Me. We have received a spirited tract from his pen, entitled, 'The Tobacco Plug and Cigar.' Its seventy-two pages are crowded with facts and figures, forming a terrible indictment against the foolish and vulgar habit and expensive indulgence of the use of tobacco. We wish it the widest circulation and the utmost success in its important mission."

From the Portland Transcript:—"Rev. I. C. Wellcome, of Yarmouth, Me., publishes a neat pamphlet of seventy-two pages, against the use of the 'The Tobacco Plug and Cigar,' being a friendly talk with those who use tobacco, with the hope of benefitting them in health, mind and money. It is a complete treasury of anti-tobacco argument and appeal. Sold for $10 per hundred, $1.50 per dozen, 15 cents single copy. Send order to the author." Sold at the Crisis Office.

Appointments.

☞ Appointments must be received as early as TUESDAY MORNING (as our paper goes to press about noon) to insure insertion for the current week.

☞ The following Resolution was passed at the late meeting of the A. C. P. Society:—

"Resolved, That no appointments be published in the Crisis henceforth for persons unknown to the Editorial Board (by which is understood the Editors, Editorial Committee, and Business Agent), unless satisfactory reference shall be given.

The Committee appointed by the Adv. Chris. Association, at its last Annual Meeting, to advise with the Editorial Board "in relation to the publication in the World's Crisis of the appointments of men unworthy of recognition as preachers," having attended to the duty assigned them, recommended, and the Editorial Board have adopted, and ordered to be published, the following resolution:—

"Resolved, That when the Editorial Board is properly notified by any of our Churches or Ministers, or responsible persons by a written allegation that a certain minister, or ministers lack moral character, that they be instructed to notify such minister, or ministers, of the information received as a reason for withholding their appointments till after a proper trial and acquittal."

All communications in relation to this matter should be addressed to the Secretary of the Board—Geo. T. Adams, Boston, Mass.

Boston (Branch Chapel) 2029 Washington Street, (corner of Madison Street.)
Love Feast at 10½ a. m. Preaching at 3 and 7½ p. m. Prayer meeting Tuesday and Friday evenings.

Boston (Repository Hall) 712 Washington St., corner of Kneeland St.
Preaching at 10½ a. m. and 3 and 7 p. m. Sunday School at 1.30 p. m. Prayer meeting Wednesday evening.

East Boston (Central Hall, 152 Meridian Street.)
Meetings every Sunday, at the usual hours, also prayer and conference meetings Wednesday and Friday evenings, at 7½ o'clock p. m.
I. I. Leslie .... Sunday, Sept. 5th
C. Goodrich .... Sunday, Oct 3d

Charlestown (Hall No. 70 Main Street.)
F. H. Burbank ..... Sundays, Sept. 5th, 12th, and 19th
W. S. Campbell .... Sunday, Sept. 26th

Chelsea, Mass.
Preaching Sundays, at 10.30 A. M. and 3 P. M.
Conference Meeting at 7 o'clock Sunday evenings. Tuesday and Friday evenings, at 7¾ o'clock.
J. Couch .... Sunday, Sept. 5th

Somerville, Mass. (Hawkins Hall in Union Square.)
Meetings every Sunday, at the usual hours, also prayer and conference meetings Tuesday and Friday evenings, at 7½ o'clock p. m.
Geo. W Sederquest .... 1st and 3d Sundays in each month till further notice.

Hyde Park, Mass. (Pythian Hall.)—Meetings every Sabbath at the usual hours. T. M. Preble.

Castleton, Vt .... Sundays, Sept. 12th and 19th
S. G. Mathewson.

Plymouth, Mass .... Sunday, Sept. 12th
Tremont, Mass .... Sunday, Sept 19th
Natick, Mass .... Sunday, Sept. 26th
J. S. White.

Providence, R. I. (Hammond St.) .. Sunday, Sept. 12th
A. W. Sibley.

Mechanic Falls Campmeeting .... Sept. 1st to 3d
Richmond, Me (Reed meeting-house) Sab, Sept. 5th
Richmond Corner .... Sabbath evening, Sept. 5th or where Bro. Bates appoints
Bowdoin, Me. (Dennett school-house) Tuesday evening, Sept. 7th.
Sabbattusville .... Wednesday evening, Sept. 8th
Lewiston .... Thursday evening, Sept. 9th
Poland Corners .... Friday evening, Sept. 10th
West Poland .... Sabbath, Sept. 12th
H. Munger.

St. Johnsbury, Vt .... Sunday, Sept. 5th
M. A. Potter.

Fairhaven, Mass .... Sunday, Sept. 5th
M. Batchelor.

Lynn, Mass .... Tuesday evening, Sept 14th
Coventry Centre Campmeeting .... Sept. 15th—17th
Vineland, N. J .... Sunday, Sept. 26th
A. A. Phelps.

Plainville, Ct. Campmeeting, through the week, and over Sunday, Sept 12th. Enoch Morrill.

Barkhampsted .... Sunday, Sept 5th
S. Woodruff.

Kingston, N. H .... Sunday, Sept. 5th
Acton, Me. (Hilton's Ridge meeting-house) Sunday, Sept. 19th. J. F. Chamberlin.

Wilbraham, Mass .... Sabbath, Sept. 5th
Montgomery, Mass .... Sabbath, Sept 12th
Wilbraham, Mass .... Sabbath, Sept. 19th
Brimfield, Mass .... Sabbath, Sept. 26th
Wilbraham, Mass .... Sabbath, Oct. 3d
G. L. Teeple.

East Topsham, Vt .... Sunday, Sept. 5th
Daniel D. Page.

Bethel, Vt., Campmeeting .... Tuesday, Sept. 7th and through the meeting. E. McCulloch.

Whitakerville, Vt .... Sunday, Sept. 12th
J. A. Packard.

West Stafford, Ct .... Sunday, Sept. 12th
G. L. White.

Sutton, N. H. (Palmer school-house) .. Sun., Sept. 5th
Bradford, N. H. (Bush meeting-house) Sun., Sept. 12th
Danbury, N. H (as Bro. John Knowlton may appoint) Sunday, Sept. 19th.
If desired, at Bro. D. Brayley's, Saturday afternoon, at five o'clock. A. S. Williams.

Hill, N. H (Centre meeting-house) Sabbath, Sept. 5th
Franklin, N. H. (Morrison school-house) Sabbath, Sept. 19th.
Andover, N. H. (Kearsarge school-house) Sabbath, Sept. 26th. Simeon Roby

East Colebrook, N. H. (Kiddersville) .. Sun., Sept. 5th
Pittsburg, N. H. (Stream school-house) Sun., Sept. 12th
On account of the campmeeting at Magog, I withdraw my appointment at Ways Mills, Sept. 19th.
Hall Stream, P. Q (Red school-house) Sun, Sept. 26th
U. G. Ladd.

Cabot, Vt .... Sunday, Sept. 19th
Albert Gordon.

North Adams (communion and baptizing) Sunday Sept. 5th. South Adams, at eight o'clock P. M.
Tent meetings at West Hoosick, commencing Tuesday, Sept 7th and holding over the next week.
Hoosick Falls, N. Y .... Sunday, Sept. 12th
Protracted meetings at Hebron, N. Y., commencing Sept. 13th, and holding every evening, and over Sunday, Sept. 19th.
Sandy Hill, N. Y .... Sunday, Sept. 26th
Address all letters to Rutland, Vt.
Arthur A. Waite.

Moultonborough Neck (Lower school-house) Sunday, Sept. 5th.
Freedom, N. H. (Advent Chapel) Sunday, Sept 26th
N. Glidden.

Castleton, Vt .... Sunday, Sept 5th
Keene, N. H .... Sunday, Sept. 12th
Richard Mosher.

Lisbon, N. H., Saturday evening, Sept. 18th, and over Sunday, the 19th, evenings through the week, and over Sunday, Sept. 26th. Daniel D Page.
Geo. E. Brown.

Haverhill Centre, N. H .... Sunday, Sept. 5th
East Landaff, N. H .... Sunday, Sept. 12th
Geo. E. Brown.

Loudon Village, N. H. (as Bro. Parker may arrange) Sunday, Sept. 26th. N. B. McMurphy.

Merideth Centre, N. H .... Sunday, Sept. 12th
N. Glidden.
N. B. McMurphy.

Allegheny City, Pa. (Quincy Hall, Lacock St.) Sunday, Sept 5th. E. Owen.

Square Pond, Conn .... Sunday, Sept. 5th
Rufus Baker.

Wolfborough, N. H. (Frost's Corner) .. Sun, Sept. 5th
A. Stillings.

Strafford, N. H. (Robert's school-house) Sun, Sept. 5th
South Rochester, N. H. (Chapel) .. Sunday, Sept. 12th
Hollis Centre Conference .... Sunday, Sept. 19th
Lee, N. H. (as brethren may arrange) ... Sun, Oct. 3d
West Deerfield .... Sunday, Oct. 10th
C. R. Parsons.

Northfield, N. H. (Oak Hill school-house) Sunday, Sept. 19th. A. T. Hodgdon.

St. Johnsbury, Vt .... Sunday, Sept. 12th
Danville, P. Q .... Sunday, Sept. 19th
L. C. & M. McKinstry.

West Ossipee, N. H .... Sunday, Sept. 5th
Farmington Village, N. H .... Sunday, Sept. 12th
Northwood Narrows, N. H .... Sunday, Sept. 19th
Dover, N. H .... Sunday, Sept. 26th
Wm. Bodge.

East Concord, N. H. (Ward House).—Meetings three times Sunday, also Tuesday and Thursday evenings.
C. H. Fletcher .... first Sunday in each month
D. W. Davis .... third Sunday in each month

Salem, Mass .... 2d and 4th Sundays in each month until further notice. Geo. W. Sederquest.

Granby, Mass. (Batchelder Street) the second Sunday in each month.
North Rutland, Mass.. the last Sunday in each month
Geo. A. Streeter.

I will preach at Piermont, N. H. (Clay meeting-house) the second and fourth Sundays of each month until further notice. A. Gordon.

Franklin, N. H.... 2d and 4th Sunday in each month
G. H. Wallace.

Palmer, Mass., the 1st and 3d Sundays in each month
Granby, Mass .... fourth Sunday in each month
H. H. Tucker.

Hinesburg, Vt., Sundays for one year excepting the last Sunday in each month.
Bristol, Vt., the last Sunday in each month for one year. Wm. C. Stewart.

South West Hoosick, N. Y.
Arthur A. Waite .... once in four weeks
Flora Blanchard .... once in four weeks

Worcester, Mass.
Miles Grant .... Sunday, Sept. 12th
A. A. Phelps .... Sunday, Sept. 19th

Springfield, Mass. (Franklin Hall)
Enoch Morrill .... Sunday, Sept. 5th
A. W. Sibley .... Sunday, Sept. 19th

New Bedford, Mass.
E. McCullock .... Sunday, Sept. 5th
M. Batchelor .... Sunday, Sept. 12th

Clinton, Mass.
Geo. W Sederquest .... Sunday, Sept. 5th
H. H. Tucker .... Sunday, Oct. 31st

North Rutland, Mass.
Sr. L. M. Stoddard .... Sunday, Sept. 5th
H. H. Tucker .... second Sunday in each month

Haverhill, Mass. (New Chapel on Walnut St.)
D. M. Leavitt .... Sunday, Sept. 5th
W. H. Mitchell .... 2d Sunday in each month
C. S Shattuck .... 3d Sunday in each month
A Ross .... Sunday, Sept. 26th

Portsmouth, N. H.
A. Ross .... Sunday, Sept 5th
Sr. Annie Smith .... Sunday, Sept. 12th
A. Simpson .... Sunday, Sept. 26th
B. S. Emery .... Sunday, Oct. 10th
Wm. M. Harmon .... Sunday, Oct. 17th
Jane Benson .... Sunday, Oct. 31st

Seabrook, N. H.
N. M. Davis .... Sunday, Sept. 5th
J. T. Chamberlin .... Sunday, Sept. 12th
Joseph Pinkham .... Sunday, Sept. 19th
C. Goodrich .... Sunday, Sept. 26th
J. Bickford .... Sunday, Oct. 3d
T. W. Piper .... Sunday, Oct. 10th

Concord, N. H.
Miles Grant .... Sunday, Sept. 5th
I. B. Potter .... Sundays, Sept. 12th and 19th
H. Munger .... Sunday, Sept. 26th

New Durham, N. H.
I. Damman .... Sunday, Sept. 5th
A. Ross .... Sunday, Sept. 19th
T. W. Piper .... Sunday, Oct. 3d

Manchester, N. H. (corner of Elm and Lowell Sts.)
T. W. Piper .... Sunday, Sept. 5th
Geo. H. Wallace .... Sundays, Sept. 12th and 19th
Wm. N. Pile .... Sunday, Sept. 26th

South Elliot, Me.
J. Bickford .... Sunday, Sept. 5th
N. M. Davis .... Sunday, Sept. 12th
J. T. Libbey .... Sunday, Sept. 19th
J. Pinkham .... Sunday, Sept. 26th

South Berwick, Me. (Great Works.)
J. Pinkham .... Sunday, Sept. 5th
Jos. W. White .... Sunday, Sept. 12th
N. M. Davis .... Sunday, Sept 19th
Geo. W. Brown .... Sunday, Sept. 26th

Biddeford, Me.
Jesse Gay .... Sunday, Sept. 5th
Geo. W. Brown .... Sunday, Sept. 12th
Wm. H. Mitchell .... Sunday, Sept 19th
J. Albert Libby .... Sunday, Sept. 26th

Portland, Me. (Union Hall.)
A. W. Sibley .... Sunday, Sept. 5th
A. A. Phelps, of N. J .... Sunday, Sept. 12th
E. A. Stockman Sundays, Sept. 19th, 26th, and Oct. 3d

Bridgeport, Conn.
Mrs. E. L. Crumb .... Sundays, Sept. 5th and 12th
Mrs. E. A. Warren .... Sunday, Sept. 19th and Sundays, Oct. 3d and 17th.
Mrs. E. L. Crumb .... Sundays, Oct. 24th, Nov. 7th Dec. 5th, and Jan 1st.
Mrs. E. A. Warren .... Sunday, Oct. 31st

Putnam, Conn.
B. Woodside .... Sunday, Sept. 5th
P. S Butler .... Sunday, Sept. 12th
H. Pratt .... Sunday, Sept. 19th
B. Woodside .... Sunday, Sept. 26th

New Haven, Conn.
Mrs. E. A. Warren .... Sunday, Sept. 5th
Wm. N. Pile .... Sunday, Sept. 12th
A. Ross .... Sunday, Sept. 19th
A. W. Sibley .... Sunday, Sept. 26th

Milldale (Southington, Ct.)
B. Hitchcock .... Sunday, Sept. 19th
G. L. White .... Sunday, Oct. 3d

A LIST OF NEW BOOKS,

JUST RECEIVED FROM

KELLAWAY & CO.'S ENGLISH REPOSITORY.

FOR SALE AT THE OFFICE OF

"THE ADV. CHRIS. PUB. SOCIETY," 160 Hanover Street.

Persons purchasing from the following list, help in so doing to sustain the English Repository.

Coverdale's English Bible. A large volume, being a copy of the first Bible ever printed in the English language. Very curious, and in many texts favoring the truth of life only in the Christ. $8.

Old Testament Scriptures in Hebrew and English. 4th size Bagster's edition. A nice edition of the Scriptures. $8.

"Rainbow," Volume for 1874. The English Monthly that utters the truth about immortality. Edited by W. Leask, D. D $3 bound in cloth.

"Bible Echo," Volume I., for 1874. This is the only English weekly newspaper that maintains what as a people we consider to be teachings of God. It is conducted by Eld. W Kellaway We have a good supply of this book, to meet expected sale. It contains the history of the truth in England and its Colonies. $3 bound in cloth.

Critical New Testament, with Emendations by Fregelles, Lachmann, Griesbach, and Tischendorff. $1 50.

Catholic Apostolic Church (Irvingism): Its Pretensions and Claims considered in connection with the facts of its history, and the teaching of the New Testament and early Christian Antiquity. Cloth limp, 65 cts.

Bible Triumphant: a Reply to "144 Self-Contradictions of the Bible" 50 cts.

"The Way Everlasting," by S. Minton, M A Review of the English Controversy on Eternal Evil. 30 cts

Sunlight Dispersing the Dismal Shadows: or, The Doctrine of Eternal Torments shown to lack Reason and Scripture alike. 25 cts.

Photograph of H. Constable, M. A., one of the chief of English writers on Life only in the Christ, author of 'Hades,' and "The Duration of Future Punishment, etc, late Prebendary of Cork, Ireland. 25 cts

Photograph of S. Minton, M. A., also a prolific writer on Human Mortality and the Divine Gift of Eternal Existence. Late of Eaton Chapel, London. 25 cts.

Last War; a little book treating upon the Last War, with a Diagram. 15 cts

Harmony of Scripture upon Future Punishment. The Death View. By S. Minton, M. A 20 cts

Immortality only in Christ, and Eternal Death The subjects of Two Lectures delivered in Brikenhead By H S. Harleigh, M. A. Capt. Ward in the Chair. 20 cts.

A New Bible: or Scripture Re-written to prove the Doctrines of Necessary Immortality and Eternal Evil. By S. Minton, M A. 10 cts.

Immaterialism: or, The Fruits of Believing the Soul of Man to be the Personality. 6 cts.

Chaos, Kosmos, The Kingdom of Darkness and The Kingdom of God By E. White, M A Our Earth's history from beginning to end. 5 cts

Who Art Thou that Judgest? A Letter addressed to one, but applicable to many By Joseph Stratford, Minister of the Gospel. A Rebuke with Doctrine of such as are cruel in their treatment of Christians holding life in Jesus 5 cts.

Words of Holy Writ on Future Punishment. 50 cts.

Scripture Doctrine of a Future Life. By W. Leask, D D. 12 copies for 50 cts.

Popular Objections to the Resurrection of the Body. 12 copies for 50 cts.

Whose Child are You? 12 copies for 35c.

Report of a large Meeting at Chelsea on Life only in Christ. Reported by Bro. W. Kellaway 12 copies for 50 cts.

Life Everlasting. By W. Leask, D. D. 12 copies for 25 cts.

Dialogue between a Pedestrian and his Friend. A lot of valuable extracts. 12 copies for 25 cts.

Life and Death. Extract from Archbishop Whateley's "Future Life." 20 copies for 25 cts.

Immortality. Extracts from numerous authors on Life and Immortality by the Lord Christ. By H. Constable, M. A. Enlarged by Bro. W. Kellaway. 20 copies for 25 cts.

Immortality only in Christ. A concise presentation of the truth stated in its title, in twenty-three paragraphs and extracts from Fathers. 20 copies for 25 cts.

Eternal Life the Gift of God. 20 copies for 25 cts.

A Jesuit's Letter. Jesuitry as it is, and not as it seems. 25 copies for 10 cts.

The Evils of Tobacco Using. Reprinted from the "American Health Reformer." 12 copies for 50 cts.

"THE CHILD'S BIBLE QUESTION BOOK."

BY ELD. C. GOODRICH.

This is the title of a work just issued by the A. C. P. Society, designed for the small children in the Sabbath Schools and in the family. Just what we have long wanted. Price 10 cts. single copy; $1.00 per doz., sent by mail.

Ag't.

Business.

Notes to Correspondents.

☞ We cannot discontinue or send your orders, unless you give us the POST OFFICE and STATE in PLAIN LETTERS.

☞ DR. D. MATHEWSON'S address is San Francisco, California.

☞ ELD. B. ROBERTS' address is Oak Lawn, R. I.

☞ A. H. STEEL'S address is 83 Dixwell Avenue, New Haven, Conn.

☞ WM. C. STEWART'S address hereafter will be Hinesburg, Vt.

☞ J. C and S. E. SMITH'S address is Newton Upper Falls, Mass.

☞ ELD. J. PORTER'S address is Danville, P. Q.

BRO FRANKLIN DOUGLAS' address is Rochester. N. Y.

☞ H. G. McCULLOCK'S address is DeKalb, DeKalb Co., Ill.

Articles Received.—E. Owen, M Whitney, H B Sevey, L E Pendleton, B Spaulding, G E Merrill.

Catalogue

OF BOOKS AND TRACTS

FOR SALE AT THE OFFICE OF

"THE ADV. CHRIS. PUB. SOCIETY," 160 Hanover Street.

BIBLE DICTIONARY. Five colored maps, two hundred and fifty Engravings. Sheep, $2 25; cloth, $1.50; postage, 25 cts.

BEREAN'S CASKET AND REPOSITORY. By I. C. Wellcome Cloth, $2 00; leather, $2.50.

CRUDEN'S CONCORDANCE. Sheep, $2.00; cloth, $1 50; postage, 25 cts.

CHRISTIAN BAPTISM. By I. C. Wellcome. 25 cts.

ENGLISH REFERENCE BIBLES. Minion: calf, morocco, circuit bindings, from $2.50 to $4 25. Nonpareil: calf, morocco, circuit bindings, from $2.00 to $3.50. Pearl: calf, morocco, circuit bindings, from $1.50 to $3 00. Diamond: calf, morocco, circuit bindings, from $1 25 to $2.00.

FABLES OF INFIDELITY and Facts of Faith. By Robert Patterson. Cloth, $1.00.

FUTURITY; or, The Hereafter of all Men. By Wm. Sheldon. 22 cts.

GOOD TIDINGS. Cloth, 50 cts. Postage, 16 cts. By express, $5.00 per dozen.

GREEK AND ENGLISH CONCORDANCE. By Hudson and Hastings. Cloth, $2.50; leather. $3.50; postage, 12 cts.

HYMNS OF JUBILEE HARP. Cloth, sprinkled edges, $7.00 per dozen; $55.00 per hundred; single, 75 cts. Leather, gilt edge, $9.50 per dozen; $75.00 per hundred; single, $1.00; postage 15 cts. single copy.

IMMORTALITY. By J. H. Whitmore. Cloth, $1.00.

IS IT HERESY? By J. Couch. 15 cts. per doz.

JUBILEE HARP, Hymn, and Tune Book. Plain cloth, leather back, colored edge, $9.00 per doz.; single, $1.00. Extra cloth, leather back, gilt edge, $10.50 per dozen; single $1.15. Extra cloth, leather back, gilt edge and covers, $12 per doz.; single. $1.25 Postage 12 cts. single copy.

HISTORY OF THE ADVENT MESSAGE. By I. C. Wellcome. Price $3.50

JUDGMENT IMPENDING. By L. T. Cunningham. 8 cts.; 75 cts. per doz.; $5.00 per hundred

MATTHEW 24 and 25. An Exposition. By I. C. Wellcome. 27 cts.

PILGRIM PSALMS. Sunday-school Hymn an Tune Book. Paper covers, $3.00 per dozen; stiff covers, $3.60.

PREPARE TO MEET THY GOD. Behold, the Judge standeth before the door. 10 cts. per dozen; 40 cts. per hundred.

REASONS FOR MY HOPE; or, Tokens of Redemption. By H. L. Hastings. 25 cts.

SCRIPTURAL QUESTION-BOOK. Single, 17 cts.; per dozen, by express, $1.25; by mail, $1.60.

SYMBOLIZATION of the World's Eventful Crisis. By O. R. Fassett. 4 cts; 20 cts. per dozen.

SPIRITUALISM UNVEILED. By M. Grant. 15 cts; 8 copies, $1.00; $10.00 per hundred.

THE End of the King of the North and the Impending time of Trouble. By L. T. Cunningham. 48 pages; 8 cts; 75 cts. per dozen; $5.00 per hundred.

THE Bible Text-Book. For Ministers, Teachers, and Students. 50 cts.

THE Plan of Redemption. By Wellcome & Goud. $1.25.

The Nature of Man. By M. Grant and others. 25 cts; $2 25 per dozen.

The Emphatic Diaglott. Containing the original Greek Text of the New Testament, according to the recension of Griesbach; with an interlinear word-for-word translation. Cloth, $4 10; leather back, $5.16.

The First-day Sabbath. By T. M. Preble. $1 50.

The Destiny of Man. By W. Erwin, $1.35; gilt, $1 65.

Trumpet for the Watchman. By Geo. Thomson. 20 cts. $1.75 per dozen; $11.00 per one hundred.

Who are Sadducees? By Geo. Thomson. 10 cts.

What is Man? By M. Grant. 6 cts.

Young Pilgrim Stories. Illustrated. By "Uncle Pilgrim." 2 vols., 50 cts. each.

Young Pilgrim Stories. Tract form. 30 cts. per dozen; $2.00 per hundred.

Yahveh-Christ. The Coming One. By L. T. Cunningham. 8 cts. 75 cts.

Is Christ's Second Coming in the Past? By Wm. Sheldon. 15 cts. per dozen; 60 cts. per hundred.

A NEW TRACT.

ATHEISM CONFOUNDED, AND THE FACT OF GOD'S EXISTENCE ESTABLISHED.

BY A. W. SIBLEY.

A valuable little Tract of eight pages—just the thing to circulate in these times of unbelief and skepticism. Price by mail, 15 cents per dozen.

Agent.

☞ PRICE REDUCED.

A NEW EDITION JUST PUBLISHED.

THE DURATION AND NATURE OF FUTURE PUNISHMENT.

By Henry Constable, A. M., Prebendary of Cork.

Reprinted from the second London edition, with an Introduction by Prof. C. L. Ives, of Yale College. 8vo., 68 pp.

All things considered, we regard this the best work on the subject treated of now before the public, and the one to distribute, especially among our friends and neighbors who do not hold with us on the subject.

We have procured a large lot of the publisher, and put them at the following low prices:—One copy, 25 cts.; one dozen for $2.50; sent by mail, postpaid. $17 per hundred, by express. Please order freely.

A'gt.

THE TRUE SABBATH.

WHICH DAY SHALL WE KEEP?

AN EXAMINATION OF

MRS. ELLEN G. WHITE'S VISIONS.

BY MILES GRANT.

ISSUED

BY THE ADV. CHRIS. PUB. SOCIETY,

A NEW WORK

On the Sabbath of the Old Covenant. An investigation of Mrs. E. G. White's Visions, showing that they are not from God.

All who have accepted Mrs. White's visions as coming from heaven, or who have been led to rest on Saturday instead of the Lord's day, should read this work. Let those who live among our Seventh-day brethren send and get a number of the books to give away. If the reader has friends at a distance who have received Mrs. W.'s Visions as true, have a copy of this work sent to them.

It contains 106 pages, and we will send it at the following prices: Single copy, 20 cts.; per doz., $1.75 by mail; per hundred, $10.00 by express.

Agent.

THE FUTURE OF OUR PLANET

AS VIEWED FROM A BIBLICAL STANDPOINT.

BY A. W. SIBLEY.

This is the title of a new Tract of 16 pages, issued by the A. C. P. Society. Just the thing to circulate widely. Price, 3 cents per copy; 20 cts. per dozen; $1.40 per hundred, by mail.

Ag't.

THE DOCTRINE OF IMMORTALITY.

BY J. H. WHITMORE.

The former pamphlet edition of this valuable work having long since been exhausted, another edition has just been published, and we are now ready to supply orders for this book of 310 pages, for wide and general circulation, at the following very low rates: Single copy, 25 cents; per dozen, $2.50 by mail; $17.00 per hundred, by express.

Ag't.

BEAUTIFUL THINGS.

A gentle voice, a heartfelt sigh,
A modest blush, a speaking eye;
A manner unaffected, free,
These things are beautiful to me.

A ready hand, a loving heart,
A sympathy that's free from art,
A real friend among the few;
These things are beautiful and true.

A mother's prayer, an answer mild,
An aged sire, a little child,
A happy home, a cheerful hearth;
These things are beautiful on earth.

A joyful song, a chorus sweet,
An earnest soul and willing feet,
A day of peace, a night of rest;
These things are beautiful and blest.

A sister's love, a brother's care,
A spotless name, a jewel rare,
A cleanly tongue that will not lie;
These things are beautiful, and why?

Because they all are born of love,
And emanate from God above,
An earnest of the heavenly birth;
Those things are beautiful on earth.

—Selected by L. D. MERRELL.

EXPERIENCE.

J. R SMITH.

We are exhorted to sanctify the Lord God in our hearts, and to give unto every one that asketh us the reason of our hope, with meekness and with fear. Not in the fear of man, but in the fear of God. I received a letter from a professed follower of Christ a short time ago, who remarked that he could hardly understand how I was ever led to embrace the views which I had expressed. And when I think of what a strong believer I once was in the natural immortality of the soul, it is surprising to myself; and I can truly say that God has led me in a way which I knew not of. "The stone which the builders rejected, has become the head of the corner;" it is the Lord's doings, and it is marvellous in my eyes. Hallelujah!

I professed religion about twelve years ago. For about one year I enjoyed the society of christians. The next seven years I waded through the slough of despond, and instead of enjoying the society of christians, I rather endured it. Being engaged in mercantile business, I very soon became overcharged with the perplexities and cares of this world; and thereby fell into many temptations, and foolish and hurtful lusts. And while striving for the riches and pleasures of this world, I erred from the faith; so much so, that I neither enjoyed the society of christians, nor the society of the world, and felt that I was of all men the most miserable.

A little over four years ago I got tired of this way of living, and God showed me a better way. I then promised the Lord upon my bended knees, if he would create in me a clean heart, and restore unto me the joys of his salvation, I would "walk in all his commandments and ordinances blameless," even though by so doing I should be obliged to cut off right hands, and pluck out right eyes. The Lord took me at my word, and he has put some very severe tests in my path.

I had got a good start in the world with my business, having commenced nine years before, on a little capital of only $300.00, and was now earning money pretty fast. After consecrating myself and all that I had to the Lord, he showed me very clearly that I must give up this world. The Lord was well acquainted with me; he knew where my weak point lay; he knew where I had failed before, and tested me on that very point. The Lord showed me that I must give up my business—it was a severe test, but I had promised the Lord that I would obey him, and felt that I must follow in the way he had marked out, or be lost forever. Well, the Lord gave me grace, and I obeyed him. Soon after selling out my business the Lord called me again, to come out from a formal and backslidden church, to which I then belonged.

I did not hesitate long to obey the Lord, and felt very much blessed by so doing. I was enabled by his grace to leave all, and follow him. I sold out to the world; I burned every bridge; I cut loose from the last fetter that now bound me, and was now free. Hallelujah to God and the Lamb forever! Since that time I have ever found peace in believing, and joy in the Holy Ghost. In his presence I have found fulness of joy, and at his right hand I have found there are pleasures forevermore; and to-day I have no love for this world; I acknowledge myself a pilgrim and a stranger here, looking for a better country. I have lost all relish for the leeks and onions of Egypt. I am perfectly happy and contented with my lot, and have no desire to become the son of Pharaoh's daughter. A little more than two years ago, God spoke to me again, and called me to come up higher, and showed me a more excellent way. The Lord showed me that man should not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of the Lord. He showed me the necessity of believing his written word.

I had been brought up to believe the inherent immortality of the soul, and supposed the Bible was filled with such terms as "deathless spirit," "immortal soul," and "the death that never dies," having heard them so often expressed. But when I commenced to search the Scriptures for myself, I was somewhat surprised to find there were no such expressions used between the two lids of the Bible. And instead of finding such mystical statements, I found it very clearly stated in God's living word, the soul that sinneth it should die, and that "the wages of sin is death," and that "the dead know not anything."

I read again that Jesus ascended up into heaven from Mount Olivet while conversing with his disciples; and the testimony of God's angelic messengers was, that the very same Jesus which was seen to ascend up into heaven, would so come, in like manner, personally and bodily.

I read again what he was coming for. I read that he was coming to raise the slumbering dead; that he was coming to change the righteous being; that he was coming to destroy the wicked, and to set up his everlasting kingdom under the whole heavens; and while I read these great and fundamental truths, I believed them. And after looking it all over carefully and prayerfully, and comparing Scripture with Scripture, I became fully convinced that they were of no private interpretation, and that God's written word was not a cunningly devised fable.

I was well aware when I embraced the hope of the personal coming of Christ and its kindred truths, that it was not a popular hope; but as I had given up seeking for the honors of this world, and was now seeking for the unsearchable riches of Christ, and that honor which cometh from God only, I was prepared to believe on him fully, and follow him wholly; and as I had received Christ at the beginning, so I followed on, minding the same things, and walking by the same rule, until the fables and traditions of men that I had been taught to believe gradually began to disappear; the fogs of mythologism and of spiritualism all cleared away, and I could see Jesus clearly. And because I believe the written word of God, and earnestly contend for the faith once delivered unto the saints, it makes me an Adventist.

I belong to this Second Advent band. Hallelujah! and I am so glad that my spiritual understanding was ever enlightened by the clear sunlight of the divine rays of the Sun of righteousness, and that my benighted eyes were ever opened to behold the perfect harmony and simplicity of God's living word. And while I advocate no man-made creeds or popular theologies; and while my name is written upon no man's church book, yet I have the witness in my soul that my name is written in the Lamb's book of life. I have the blessed assurance that I have been adopted into the royal family with Christ, and that I belong to the church of the living God, and to-day am a free man in Christ Jesus. I have not been made free by traditions, or by fables of men, but have been made free by the Son of God, and am free indeed. Hallelujah!

New Bedford, Mass.

ON THE DEATH OF THE DEVIL.

J. T. KIMBALL.

I was quite amused the other day at a notice I read in one of our papers—"I will preach on the death of the devil." I cannot describe my feelings for the moment. The thought came—is he really dead? Why, no, I cannot believe that, for if I am not mistaken, he was at my door this morning, I think, as well as usual, or so as to be about, able to attend to his business; and I hear from him almost every hour. So I thought it was a little premature, and I had made up my mind that his death could be announced to all the world, and there would be a large company to sing his requiem at his final departure.

Perhaps, dear reader, it struck you more favorably than it did me; not that I would not be very glad to hear of his death, and join in his requiem; but until the One comes that is to put him to death—Christ—he will live on. Yes, it will take a divine Christ to put him out of the way, or send him to the land of forgetfulness. I am a believer in the fact that he will soon be obliged to start on his journey, which will end his life, and his long and devilish career. He will not go empty handed, but will be loaded with all he will be able to carry of his long and terrible train of death, misery, and woe. He has done mischief enough. He has had a long time of trial. He has met every man and woman that ever lived. Some he has deceived and ruined, and some he has not, thank the Lord!

It will be known soon who will go with him, and who will go the other way. I cannot tell sure how it will be with me; but I have not given up all hopes of going with the other company, who will walk on streets of gold. I know I fail, and am not as good as I wish I was, or as it is my privilege to be; but I will try to do better. O the home over there, that beautiful home. I feel just now I will do the best I can to outride the storm. So I will leave the matter, hoping we shall all be so happy as to join Christ in his last and great funeral of the devil, and all his host. Yes, to bid them a long and final adieu. Pray for thy unworthy brother.

Concord, N. H.

KINDNESS.

Be kind,—a word in kindness spoken,
May heal a heart that's almost broken;
Be kind,—forget not thou art one
Of human form, and not alone.

Be kind, thine erring brother love,
And never in hasty words reprove;
Remember him as mortal man,
Then treat him harshly if you can.

Be kind,—thine influence ever lend
To prove thyself indeed a friend
To all who bear fair virtue's seal,—
To such alone thyself reveal.

Be kind,—the humble poor relieve,
And strive to comfort those who grieve;
Forget not thou,—perhaps in time
Others may rise, and you decline.

Be kind,—thou art a trav'ler here,
Hast thou no destiny to fear?
Hast thou no hope that will prove frail,
Or art thou sure no joy will fail?

Be kind,—another day may prove
The ruin of the names you love;
Be kind, and reap the promise given,
Be kind on earth, and rest in heaven.

Words cost but little effort on our part, but how sweet, how salutary, how important often, the result of a kind word, let fall by even a stranger, upon our minds. How often indeed has this excellent attribute of a virtuous heart caused the erring to turn from his evil ways, and become reinstated in the paths of usefulness and holiness.

Be kind, and the kindness which dwells in your bosom shall meet a ready response from other hearts, and you shall never regret the agency so salutary to the happiness of others, and so conducive to your own.

Be kind, O dear reader, under all circumstances; and when you are suffering from adversity, may you meet a reciprocal response from every virtuous mind, and feel indeed the true value of a ministering spirit.

—Selected by G. E. Merrill.

CRUCIFIXION.

Man fell by exalting his own will above God's will; to be restored he must exalt God's will above his own will. That is the choice which Christ submits to each of us, the subjection of self-will to the righteous rule of the divine will; the crucifixion of self and the exaltation of Christ.

The Lord will do the crucifying if we will do the consenting; it is for us to choose and for him to perform; he will empty us of self if we will unlock the door and consent to a thorough renovation; he will slay the old man if we will surrender to his power. That is the policy of the gospel—to destroy and to create anew; to crucify the flesh and enthrone the Spirit; to blot out the image of sin, and to impart the image of holiness; to kill the old man, and create the new one after the likeness of Christ, in righteousness and true holiness.

The work begins at conversion, the flesh is kept under control as dead and buried, by the power of grace through faith. If we are able to reckon ourselves as dead, Jesus will make the reckoning true, for he is "able to keep us from falling," and in the resurrection, mortal flesh will be changed to glorified, spiritual bodies, and our redemption will be finished.—Baptist Union.

LETTER FROM SR. M. A. SEYMOUR.

DEAR CRISIS:—We have been highly favored in this vicinity for the past two weeks by a visit and the public labors of Sr. L. M. Stoddard, formerly of Worcester, Mass. Her preaching hss created much interest in many minds, and she is still with us in the spirit of her mission. God bless and give her many stars in her crown of rejoicing. How cheering it is to see one here and another there, who began to look for and love the appearing in 1843, and have kept on in the straight track of truth and hope, while so many have switched off on almost all points of plain Bible truth; and now there is one very prominent timeist who teaches and publishes broadcast that we are in the day of the Lord; that the seventh trump, yea, the trump of God, has been sounding for some months, and the righteous dead being awakened, but no one perceives it by any of the five senses.

The above writer tries to convince us that the last trump may be sounding, and our auditory nerves perceive it not, from the fact that six of the angels of Rev. 8th and 9th chapters have been so fulfilled; but we reply, there was no voice prophesied of in connection with the first six; but the seventh is called God's trump, in contradistinction from the other six. It is the last, and a voice is heard which vibrates on the cold, dumb ear of the silent sleepers in the embrace of the monster death, which they hear. See 1 Thess. 4: 15–17—"For this we say unto you by the word of the Lord, that we which are alive and remain unto the coming of the Lord shall not prevent them which are asleep. For the Lord himself shall descend from heaven with a shout, with the voice of the archangel, and with the trump of God; and the dead in Christ shall rise first; then we which are alive and remain shall be caught up together with them in the clouds, to meet the Lord in the air: and so shall we ever be with the Lord." And 1 Cor. 15: 51–53—"Behold, I show you a mystery; we shall not all sleep, but we shall all be changed, in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trump; for the trumpet shall sound, and the dead shall be raised incorruptible, and we shall be changed. For this corruptible must put on incorruption, and this mortal must put on immortality."

John 5: 28 reads—"Marvel not at this; the hour is coming in the which all that are in the graves shall hear his voice, and shall come forth." When? At the last trump, which is the seventh in the series. Rev. 11: 15–19—"And the seventh angel sounded, and there were great voices in heaven, saying, The kingdoms of this world are become the kingdoms of our Lord, and of his Christ; and he shall reign forever and ever. And the four and twenty elders, which sat before God on their seats, fell upon their faces, and worshiped God, saying, We give thee thanks, O Lord God Almighty, which art, and wast, and art to come; because thou hasr taken to thee thy great power, and hast reigned. And the nations were angry, and thy wrath is come, and the time of the dead that they should be judged, and that thou shouldest give reward unto thy servants the prophets, and to the saints, and them that fear thy name, small and great; and shouldest destroy them which destroy the earth. And the temple of God was opened in heaven, and there was seen in his temple the ark of his testament; and there were lightnings, and voices, and thunderings, and an earthquake, and great hail."

God's trump has sounded once, and only once, in the ears of mortals. Ex. 19: 16–21—"And it came to pass on the third day in the morning, that there were thunders and lightnings, and a thick cloud upon the mount, and the voice of the trumpet exceeding loud, so that all the people that was in the camp trembled. And Moses brought forth the people out of the camp to meet with God; and they stood at the nether part of the mount. And Mount Sinai was altogether on a smoke, because the Lord descended upon it in fire; and the smoke thereof ascended as the smoke of a furnace, and the whole mount quaked greatly. And when the voice of the trumpet sounded long, and waxed louder and louder, Moses spake, and God answered him by a voice. And the Lord came down upon Mount Sinai, on the top of the mount; and the Lord called Moses up to the top of the mount; and Moses went up. And the Lord said unto Moses, Go down, charge the people, lest they break through unto the Lord to gaze, and many of them perish."

From these quotations, we learn that God's trump was exceeding loud, and nature trembled like Belshazzar at the hand of God on the wall; and nature will tremble yet once more, having heard the same voice that the people heard at Mt. Sinai, as Paul positively teaches in Heb. 15: 25–28—"See that ye refuse not him that speaketh; for if they escaped not who refused him that spake on earth, much more shall not we escape, if we turn away from him that speaketh from heaven; whose voice then shook the earth; but now he hath promised, saying, Yet once more I shake not the earth only, but also heaven. And this word, Yet once more, signifieth the removing of those things that are shaken, as of things that are made, that those things which cannot be shaken may remain. Wherefore we, receiving a kingdom which cannot be moved, let us have grace, whereby we may serve God acceptably, with reverence and godly fear; for our God is a consuming fire."

In view of all these scriptures, the poet could well say in anticipation—

"The trumpet! the trumpet! the dead have all heard;
Lo, the depths of the stone-covered charnel are stir'd!
From the sea, from the earth, from the south, from the north,
All the vast generations of men are come forth.

The judgment! the judgment! the thrones are all set,
Where the Lamb and the white-vested elders are met;
There all flesh is at once in the sight of the Lord,
And the doom of eternity hangs on his word."

When the trump sounds, the living saints will hear it, and be changed, and caught away to meet him in the air; and the unbeliever will

"See Gabriel in the middle air, etc.
The trumpet sounding everywhere,
What will you do in that day?"

Shall we not all learn, in view of so many erroneous teachers, who are not humble enough to say, "I was mistaken," to "cease from man whose breath is in his nostrils, for wherein is he to be accounted for?"

Yours in hope of Christ's coming and glory.

Reading, Mich.

MORAL SELECTIONS FROM THE APOCRYPHA.

Great is the truth. She doeth the things that are just. Above all things truth beareth away the victory. In no wise speak against the truth. Be steadfast in thy understanding, and let thy word be the same. True dealing shall endure forever. Do uprightly all thy life long. For if thou deal truly, thy doings shall prosperously succeed to thee, and to all them that live justly.

Show thyself merciful and just. Let just men eat and drink with thee. Neglect not to give alms. Do right to the widow; be as a father to the fatherless, give to the poor, defend the orphan, clothe the naked, be not slow to visit the sick, defend the maimed, and deliver him that suffereth wrong from the hand of the oppressor.

Give alms of thy substance. If thou hast abundance, give alms accordingly; if thou hast but a little, be not afraid to give according to that little. Give of thy bread to the hungry, and of thy garments to them that are naked; and let not thine eye be envious when thou givest alms. Defraud not the poor of his living, and make not the needy eyes to wait long. Make not a hungry soul sorrowful, neither provoke a man in his distress. Add not more trouble to a heart that is vexed, and defer not to give to him that is in need. Reject not the supplication of the afflicted, neither turn away thy face from a poor man. Turn not away thine eye from the needy, and give him none occasion to curse thee. There can no good come to him that is always occupied in evil, nor to him that giveth no alms. Be faithful to thy neighbor in his poverty, that thou mayest rejoice in his prosperity.

Lend thy neighbor in time of his need, and pay thou thy neighbor again in due season. Keep thy word, and deal faithfully with him, and thou shalt always find the thing that is necessary for thee. Many, when a thing was lent them, reckoned it to be found, and put them to trouble that helped them. Till he hath received, he will kiss a man's hand, and for his neighbor's money he will speak submissively; but when he should repay, he will prolong the time, and return words of grief, and complain of the time. Many therefore have refused to lend, for other men's ill dealing, fearing to be defrauded.

ACROSTIC.

C. W. BAKER.

United in Christ, how sweet the assurance;
None ever need lack the power of endurance;
In Christ there is rest, peace, comfort and hope;
Only keep in the vine; it will hold the branch up;
No lack of the choicest, the richest of fruit
In all its perfection; a bountiful crop;
No fear of the frost, the mildew or blast,
Christ hath promised a garner for all at the last.
Hear then his commands,
Receive his blest word
In earnest, to do the will of the Lord;
So that in all life our acts will accord;
Then all will be his, and get the reward.

Sushan, N. Y.

FATHER GERDEMANN'S LECTURE.

Though we have already given a good synopsis of this lecture delivered last week in Philadelphia, we have received many requests to publish the fuller report which appeared in the Herald. The following are the Herald's headings:

Lecture by the noted Ex-Priest in Philadelphia last evening—his experience in Orders—Caustic Arraignment of the Priesthood of the Church in America—The natural results of Celibacy—Alarming prevalence of the vice of Drunkenness among the Clergy—The Decree of Infallibility.

Philadelphia, July 28, 1875. A large crowd was gathered in the neighborhood of the Horticultural Hall to-night, in the expectation of a disturbance resulting from the lecture delivered by the ex-priest, John W. Gerdemann. Inside the hall every seat and almost every inch of standing-room were occupied long before the hour fixed for the beginning of the lecture. The lecturer was introduced by H. H. K. Elliot, of the Evening Express, and upon taking the stand read a letter from Father Stack, urging him to avoid personal vituperation, and advising him to use his power to effect reform in the Catholic church, rather than assail it. He then proceeded to speak as follows, his lecture being interrupted at the end of every sentence by vociferous applause

THE LECTURE.

As you see by the letter just read to you, Stack and myself agree upon all points but one. He is still a Catholic and a priest; I have ceased to be either. Father Stack hopes for an impossibility—reform in the Roman church. Reform is sadly needed. It has been the hope and demand of the world and the never seriously attempted, never fulfilled promise of the church. To return to the church of the early ages, to the simplicity of the apostolic times, would mean suicide to the church of Rome. No doubt if the apostles or first christians entered the Catholic church they never would recognize in it the church of Christ. And still the church of Rome looks upon itself as the very acme of perfection. In latter times she has urged her dreams of her exclusive right to heaven and universal dominion upon earth with more than ordinary vigor. Father Stack is afraid that I may speak the truth to-night. I am not. I deal with the church practically, not theoretically; as it is, not as it should be. I do not take issue with the church of our day and of our land. What I will say to-night I did not learn from books or hearsay. I will speak only of what I have seen with my own eyes and heard with my own ears.

The speaker then detailed at great length his connection with the church and the reason and manner of his abandonment of it, and defended himself in energetic and eloquent language against the charges made against him, of which he asserted his entire innocence. In showing how his faith in the doctrines of the church had become shaken, he continued:

PAPAL INFALLIBILITY.

Before the dogma of Papal infallibility was declare, I would have sacrificed my life inch by inch for the Catholic church. The day the cable brought the news of the proclamation of that new dogma I prayed earnestly and long to God to enlighten and guide me, and got up a confirmed Protestant. From that day I commenced to look at the doctrines of the Roman church with open eyes. It took me over three years before I was fully convinced of the fact that the church of Rome could be the church of Christ. The dogma of infallibility was forced npon the Catholic world, not so much by the good natured, vain old Pope himself as by his vile and scheming advisers—the Jesuitical party in the church. The leading bishops of the council were opposed to it, the laity never heard of it, and don't understand its revolutionary tendency to-day. Still it was carried. The bishops who supported the novel claim of the Papacy were in every way encouraged; those who conscientiously opposed it were frowned upon and denied a hearing, like Bishops Dupanloup and Stausmeyer of Europe, and Archbishops Kenrick and Verat, of the United States. My convictions were put to a test in 1872, when I was at the point of death from small-pox. When the doctor declared he had no hope of my recovery, the priest, a Redemptorist father, was sent for to hear my confession. After as mature consideration as my sickness allowed me to make, I felt convinced that I was right in rejecting the new dogma, and informed the father so. All his entreaties, all his arguments failed to convince me, and I steadily refused to believe what my reason revolted at. I certainly did not expect to recover at this time, and yet I remember how happy and peaceful I felt. Since that time I studied harder about all matters I had doubted before. Here came first the inordinate worship of the virgin and saints generally, although the Scriptures tell us plainly that there is only one name in which we can be saved, tbat of Christ Jesus. Still Catholic divines blasphemously assert that Mary is, througn her intercession, more powerful than her divine Son himself, and the Catholic prays ten times to her where he scarcely thinks once of God. Further, I looked at the want of charity in the claim of the Roman church to exclusive salvation. I could not believe that a merciful God should condemn all well meaning Protestants, who, if perhaps they believed less, certainly practiced more of Christ's teachings than the Roman Catholics. I thought of the word of Scripture that "by their fruits ye shall know them," and judging by that standard, the balance was in favor of Protestantism. And how can it be otherwise? The Protestant believes that as the tree falleth, so shall it lie, and lives accordingly. The Protestant seeks salvation through a pure heart and life; the Catholic depends largely on medals, indulgences, fasting, the blessing of the priest and outward performances. When I was with Bishop Wood on his official visits to the country parishes I saw him give to the poor people what he called holy medals blessed by the Pope. Being surprised at the great quantity he gave away, I asked him how the Pope managed to bless so many things for all the bishops, and learned something very interesting. He told me that the boxes containing the medals, crosses, etc., arrived the same day the Pope was going to dine with the American bishops in the Collegium Americanum. They were standing, nailed fast as they arrived, in the corridor, and the Pope blessed them by simply making the sign of the cross over the boxes passing by. When I told the bishop that he might have saved himself the trouble of having them shipped to Rome, as he might as well have blessed them in Einsiedeln, Switzerland or, for that matter, in Philadelphia, I was simply told that I was a queer man. Still the poor people kissed those things as reverently as if they had been the Savior's very feet.

In commenting upon the priesthood of the Catholic church in America the speaker said:

THE PRIESTHOOD.

Besides the doubts I had on doctrinal matters I was far more disgusted with the Roman church on account of my knowledge of its priesthood. In fact, if I would not have learned to become a bad man, like the majority of priests I know of, I might be in their ranks yet. I repeatedly heard good and sincere priests say it was a blessing the American people did not know the true character of the Roman priesthood, for if they did they would sweep them out of the country, and I assure you, if you could know them as I do, you would not consider that remark as any too harsh. In the first place, they have an inordinate desire for money. The poor people are asked for money at all times and occasions. The more a man gives the better he is liked. He must pay every time he comes to church, and every time the priest comes to him. No matter how poor the family may be, how hard the man may work, how much the mother may save, how poorly the children are clad; no matter whether the grocer is paid, the average priest insists on his dues. Baptism, marriages and funerals must be paid for, and woe to the poor Catholic who dares to offer a priest less than five dollars. Too much he can never give. Go on any Sunday to almost any Catholic church of this city and you will hear something about money always.

When I first met the late John Maguire, a conveyancer, and a good Roman Catholic, he warned me against this vice of the priests, saying that he never yet attended church in this country without having listened to more eloquent remarks on the money question than on the gospel of the day. The more a priest returns to the bishop for a seminary or other purposes, the higher he rises in the bishop's esteem. Provided a priest is sound on the money question, his other qualities are of minor importance. I know over five hundred priests and sixty bishops in this country. I have been frequently in priests' and bishops' company, and whenever the question came on the congregations, they never asked, "How are your people; are they temperate, faithful in attendance at church; do they raise their children well?" but always, "How much pew rents do you get?" "What do your collections amount to?" "What do you get at Christmas?" "What are your fees for baptism and marriage?" And if the sums did not seem large enough you would hear a "Damn it; that's little."

When Bishop Toebbe came home to his people in Covington, after an absence of six months, the first Sunday he appeared among them he gave them a tremendous overhauling about the money collections. I know priests who have been scarce ten years in the priesthood, who own from $20,000 to $40,000. And the poor people, who always give, never are told where the money goes to. No priest and no layman in the city knows what Bishop Wood owes. No congregation hears what a priest receives and how it is spent. And how is it spent? A good deal of it in gambling, cigars, grand dinners and good drinks. Priests are, without doubt, the best livers in the country. Whenever you meet a company of priests, be it on Sunday or week day, night or daytime, you nearly always find them at a game of euchre, and not for mere pastime, but for money. I often saw, especially, Irish priests play for quarters, fifty cents and a dollar a game. The German priests were generally content with a game for ten cents. Then came the grand dinners served in the most approved style, for which the good people foot the bill. Those dinners are not got up on a small scale either, but cost from $500 to $1,500. The Bishop gives generally three or four grand dinners, where all are invited, a year, and God knows how many on a smaller scale. Priests give their dinners on stated occasions—at the funeral of a priest, on the day of a corner-stone laying or dedication of a new church, and annually on the last day of the forty hours. The poor people are in the church at their prayers while the good fathers are enjoying their terrapin, canvas-back and champagne. When the church I built was dedicated Bishop Wood ordered me to give a grand dinner. On the Sunday previous Father Filan's dinner had been a poor affair, although I considered it a very good one, and told me I should try to surpass that Irishman. I had to submit the bill of fare and wine list to him, and that little dinner cost the church almost $1,000. It is no wonder that the good Bishop, who has to attend to all these dinners the whole year round, is so often visited with rheumatic pains, as we call it genteely. But the great curse of the priesthood in this country is the vice of drunkenness. Of the extent of this vice I can give you no adequate idea. When priests meet, the first and the last thing is a drink; early in the morning and late at night the whiskey bottle is their consolation.

You were, no doubt, surprised at the rather heavy bills for liquors and champagne produced at the late trial. I tell you candidly they were very light compared with bills of the majority of priests for the same purposes. If you would not offer whiskey and wine, and plenty of it, to your visitors, you would soon be spotted and cried down as a fool. Bishop Wood was a frequent visitor at my house, and as he said, he did not want any Teutonic acid, "meaning good German wine," but insisted on having champagne. And let me show you that his capacity is rather a large one. I was traveling with him in Schuylkill county three or four weeks before I left the church, and I will now give you his day's work. Early that Sunday morning he confirmed in the German church at St. Clair. After having administered confirmation, a good breakfast was spread for him, but he did not touch it, and asked for a bottle of wine. Good Father Froude was rather surprised, and said: "Hallo! wine for breakfast." After the wine was finished we went to the English church. There the Bishop complained of the poor wine of Father Froude, and asked for and received a bottle of champagne. After he had given confirmation there, a few glasses of lager-beer were enjoyed. Then came dinner, and a good one it was, and he partook freely of beer, wine, champagne, and brandy, to wash it down. Before we left St. Clair for Mahanoy Plane on the superintendent's special car, a few more bottles of champagne were opened and dispatched by him and the priests present. Scarcely had he reached Father Plonnor's house when he asked for goat-milk punch, of which he took two or three glasses. Afterward he followed it with a few glasses of champagne. Still he got through with confirming about two hundred people, only complained of not being quite well; but the dinner of terrapin, pheasants, and other choice things, served afterward, he did not enjoy, and he went to bed, where I brought to him the last glass of champagne after eleven o'clock. When you hear that a Bishop can do so much in that line and still be able to give confirmation, you will not be surprised to hear that bills for liquors and wines are large with a priest who often enjoys his visits.

To be more serious, the greater part of the priests who died in this diocese since I was ordained, died of too much drink, and many priests are serving there now who have more than once suffered from delirium tremens. To see priests drunk in their houses is bad enough, but how much worse, how much more disgraceful is it for them to be drunk in the pulpit and at the altar. Even in September last I heard a sermon, preached at the close of the forty hours' devotion—one of the most solemn occasions in the Catholic church—when under the influence of liquor. That man arrived about two o'clock in the afternoon completely drunk. He slept off, it is true, partly the effects of his debauch. Still, when he preached at seven o'clock, he was anything but sober. After the ceremonies were over he recommenced his potations, mixing whiskey, beer, wine and champagne, till he fell on the floor beastly drunk. That man is on the mission to-day, pastor of a large congregation, although it is well known that not a week passes in which he is not drunk once or twice. On another occasion a priest, who now rests in a drunkard's grave, was so completely drunk when carrying the wafer in procession through his church, that I and another priest, who acted as deacon, had to support him to keep him from falling. I might adduce many more instances of the fearful intemperance prevailing among the Roman clergy, but I suppose enough has been said to convince you that temperance is a virtue almost unknown among them.

(Concluded next week.)

AN ENCOURAGING THOUGHT

O. H. SWEET.

Our Lord despises not the day of small things. The weakest believer is not rejected by him. He regards the feeblest motions of faith toward himself. He smiles on the smallest beginnings of grace in the heart. He accepts the least acts of true faith and real piety. What great encouragement to young beginners and the weak in faith. Their Savior is one who gathers the lambs with his arms, and carries them in his bosom. He is one who strengthens the weak and supports the falling. Look, then, ye feeble ones to this Savior, who is so full of power, goodness and condescension. Remember that he will in no wise cast out those who come to him, nor disappoint those who wait for him.

Steep Falls, Me.

"CONSCIOUS union with God is the sweetest of all experiences. Our souls see, hear, commune with, enjoy him. He becomes more real, personal, substantial, than any object of sense. We know that we have reached the imperishable, the living, the life-giving, the spiritual and loving Father, and are enabled to lean upon, love, trust, rejoice in him. We get beyond the text of crucibles, glasses, and acids, where scientists never travel, and human wisdom never penetrates; where the mind asserts its supremacy, and speculation and logic yield to consciousness and certain knowledge. No knowledge equals this spiritual discernment, which makes us know that our Redeemer lives and loves, and holds fellowship with us."—Exchange.

HOME AND HEALTH.

CLEANLINESS.

Perhaps there is no part of the health reform more plain and obvious than that relating to cleanliness. We cannot see how a filthy man can be a healthy person. Filth itself breeds disease. Hence plagues and epidemics generally originate in the low and filthy parts of cities, and make the most fearful havoc there. We think he is a very poor health reformer who allows filth and uncleanness to accumulate around his house and premises. Look around the well, the back door, the wood pile, and also in the cellar. Are they all kept clean and healthy? Disease and death, which carry off our loved ones, often originate in these impurities. Then we piously lay it all to the Lord! It is a false accusation; and the sooner we learn this and remove the cause, the better.

When the Israelites dwelt in tents, the Lord gave them a special command on this point; namely, that they should keep their tents and all around them pure and clean from filthiness. Deut. 23: 14: "The Lord thy God walketh in the midst of thy camp to deliver thee, and to give up thine enemies before thee; therefore shall thy camp be holy; that he see no unclean thing in thee, and turn away from thee." The previous verses show that this means, not spiritual, but literal or physical filth. The Lord does not love filth now any more than then. Christian families, then, have a double reason why they should be clean and pure in all their dwellings. A slack, untidy, filthy christian! How would he appear amidst the purity of heaven? I am glad to find the good old Bible in such harmony with the principles of the health reform.

Garments, especially those worn next the person, should often be aired and washed. The skin is constantly throwing off waste, impure matter, especially when sweating. This soon fills the clothes with impurity; hence they should be often purified. It is a good plan to change all our clothing every evening when we retire to rest, and lay out each article by itself where it may thoroughly air. This can be easily done, and should be. Then in the morning, air the garment we have slept in during the night. This I have done for years, and I believe I derive much benefit from it.

The whole person, but especially the feet, should often be washed in water to remove the impurities of the skin, open its pores, and thus allow the used-up matter of the body to be thrown off. Where this is not done, this impure matter goes to the lungs and other organs, and often produces disease and death. Hence, cleanliness of the person is a very important thing to be attended to. Here, again, we are in harmony with the Bible. 2 Cor. 7: 9.—Health Reformer.

HINTS CONCERNING SICKNESS.

Don't whisper in the sick-room.

When the doctor comes to see you, remember how many pairs of stairs he has to climb every day, and go down to him if you are well enough.

When you are sitting up at night with a patient, be sure to have something to eat, if you wish to save yourself unnecessary exhaustion.

Remember that sick people are not necessarily idiotic or imbecile, and that it is not always wise to try to persuade them that their sufferings are imaginary. They may even at times know best what they need.

Never deceive a dying person unless by the doctor's express orders. It is not only wrong to allow any soul to go into eternity without preparation, but how can you tell but that he has something he ought to tell or do before he goes away?

If you have a sick friend to whom you wish to be of use, do not content yourself sending her flowers and jelly, but lend her one of your pictures to hang in place of hers, or a bronze to replace the one at which she is so tired of staring.

Don't have needless conversations with the doctor outside of the sick-room. Nothing will excite and irritate a nervous patient sooner. If you do have such conversations, don't tell the patient that the doctor said "nothing." He won't believe you, and he will imagine the worst possible.

In lifting the sick, do not take them by the shoulders and drag them up on to the pillows, but get some one to help you. Let one stand on one side of the patient, the other opposite, then join hands under the shoulders and hips, and lift steadily and promptly together. This method is easy for those who lift, and does not disturb the one who is lifted.

Do not imagine that your duty is over when you have nursed your patient through his illness, and he is about the house, or perhaps going out again. Strength does not come back in a moment, and the days when little things worry and little efforts exhaust, when the cares of business begin to press, but the feeble brain and hand refuse to think and execute, are the most trying to the sick one, and then comes the need for your tenderest care, your most unobtrusive watchfulness.—Scribner.

"THE WEATHER."

Very many diseases are laid at the door of the weather." It is the want of weather which brings multitudes in our larger cities to an untimely grave. "The weather" refers to the state of the out-door air; it may be cold or hot, wet or dry, serene or stormy, but it is all weather provided it is out of doors. Our wits are stimulated in winter to keep "the weather" out doors; and we eat, and sleep, and lounge in an atmosphere of sixty, seventy, and eighty degrees, and that atmosphere loaded with impurities of human exhalations, tainted breaths, coal-gas, furnace-heat, and kitchen effluvia. It is not wonderful that, breathing all these from morning until night, and until morning comes again, with short intervals of an hour or two, now and then, during all the weary months of winter, that our children pale and pine away, and by the coming of the beautiful spring-time have such little vitality, that croup, and scarlet fever, and putrid sore throats, sweep them by multitudes into an untimely grave. The best health invigorator that can be taken, suitable for all classes and conditions, is two hours of "weather" daily, rain or shine.—Methodist.

A PATIENT ELEPHANT.

"Tell my grandchildren," writes the Bishop of Calcutta, "that an elephant here had a disease in his eyes. For three days he had been completely blind. His owner, an eminent officer, asked my dear Dr. Webb if he could do anything to relieve the poor animal. The doctor said he would try the nitrate of silver, which was a remedy commonly applied to similar diseases in the human eye. The large animal was ordered to lie down, and at first, on the application of the remedy, raised a most extraordinary roar at the acute pain which it occasioned. The effect, however was wonderful. The eye was in a manner restored, and the animal could partially see.

The next day, when he was brought, and heard the doctor's voice, he lay down of himself, placed his enormous head on one side, curled up his trunk, drew in his breath just like a man about to endure an operation, gave a sigh of relief when it was over, and then, by trunk and gesture, evidently wished to express his gratitude. What sagacity! What a lesson to us of patience!"—Life of Bishop Wilson.

DO NOT lament that you cannot offer guests a better house, furniture, or viands. It is fair to presume that their visit is to you and not to these surroundings. If you want to endear yourself to talkers, learn to listen well. Let guests find out more by your actions than your words that you are happy to see them.

The World's Crisis
AND
SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

RULES FOR CORRESPONDENTS.

Over all matters not intended for publication, write:—PRIVATE.
Over all business matters, write:—BUSINESS.
Over all articles intended for the paper, write:—For the Crisis.
☞ Put business matters and appointments on separate pieces of paper, or so that they can be detached without interfering with any other communication.
All articles should be accompanied by the writer's NAME, for the Editor's information, even if it is not published
When the names of NEW subscribers are sent, please say they are NEW, and it will save much labor.
PRIVATE LETTERS.—Those wishing to address the Editor on matters not connected with the office, please write PRIVATE on the outside of the envelope.
☞ All persons writing to the office should give distinctly and plainly the POST OFFICE, COUNTY and STATE at which they wish to be addressed; and all orders, subscriptions, communications and remittances, should be plainly directed to

☞ "THE WORLD'S CRISIS,"
Boston, Mass.

PUBLISHED ALSO AT THE SAME OFFICE,
Semi-monthly,
THE YOUNG PILGRIM
An Illustrated Sunday-School Paper,
FOR CHILDREN AND YOUTH.

TERMS: ☞ Payable always in advance.
Single copy, 50 cts. a year; and at the same rates or any number of copies under ten.
Ten copies, and any larger number under fifty, when sent to one address, 40 cts. a year for each copy.
Fifty copies, and any number over fifty, when sent to one address, 35 cts. a year for each copy.
To Canada subscribers at the same rates. No extra charge for American postage.
☞ All communications, orders, and remittances should be addressed to

"THE YOUNG PILGRIM,"
Boston, Mass.

The World's Crisis

AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

"BEHOLD I COME QUICKLY; AND MY REWARD IS WITH ME."

WHOLE NO. 1034. | BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 8, 1875. | VOL. XLI.—NO. 21.

The World's Crisis,
AND
SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER,
Issued every Wednesday Afternoon, by the
ADVENT CHRISTIAN PUBLICATION SOCIETY,
At No. 160 Hanover Street, Boston, Mass.
GEO. T. ADAMS,
TREASURER AND BUSINESS AGENT.

JOHN COUCH, MILES GRANT, } EDITORS.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE:
S. G. MATHEWSON, L. BOUTELL, WM. H. MITCHELL.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEE:
H. V. DAVIS, M. BATCHELOR, T. CUNNINGHAM, J. G. HAMBLIN, J. HEMENWAY.

The CRISIS is devoted to the exposition of all Bible truth; especially the doctrine of the immediate, personal coming and reign of Christ on the earth; holiness of heart; the unconscious state of the dead; their literal resurrection, and final destruction of the wicked.

A LITTLE WHILE.

"A little while," our Lord shall come,
And we shall wander here no more;
He'll take us to our Father's home,
Where he has for us gone before—
To dwell with him, to see his face,
And sing the glories of his grace.

"A little while,"—come, Savior, come!
For thee the church has tarried long;
Take thy poor, wearied pilgrims home,
To sing the new eternal song—
To sing thy glory, and to be
In every thing conformed to thee.

—Selected.

REPORT

Of the Sixteenth Annual Meeting OF THE ADVENT CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION, HELD AT Chapin's Grove, Springfield, Mass., Aug. 9th and 10th, 1875.

Monday, Aug. 9th, 4 o'clock P. M. The meeting was called to order by the President, Eld. S. G. Mathewson, and after prayer, Eld. C. E. Barnes was appointed Secretary pro tem. On motion, the Chair appointed Brn. George A. Streeter, G. L. White, and Sam'l Ayres, a committee on credentials; after which the meeting adjourned until 8½ o'clock the next morning.

Tuesday, Aug. 10th, 8½ o'clock A. M. The meeting was called to order by the President, and after the offering of prayer, the committee on credentials made their report, which, when completed, was as follows:—

List of Members.

S. G. MATHEWSON, Worcester, Mass., President.

M. BATCHELOR, New Bedford, Mass., Vice President.

C. E. BARNES, Salem, Mass., Secretary pro tem.

GEO. T. ADAMS, Boston, Mass., Treasurer.

MEMBERS OF THE BOARD—J. G. Hamblin, Hyde Park, Mass., H. V. Davis, New Bedford, Mass.

Preachers.

FROM MASSACHUSETTS.—Geo. A. Streeter, North Dana; H. Pratt, Springfield; Sam'l Ayers, Worcester; J. Hemenway, Westfield; H. H. Tucker, Palmer; J. A. Packard, Winchendon; R. D. Grant, Athol; S. Hale, J. Couch, M. Grant, I. I. Leslie, Chas. Goodrich, Boston; H. Munger, Chicopee Falls; L. T. Cunningham, Newton; Mrs. Jane Benson, Leicester; Mrs. A. M. Barnes, Clinton.

FROM NEW HAMPSHIRE.—Enoch Morrill, South Deerfield; I. Damman, S. S. Brewer, E. A. Stockman, Alton Bay; M. A. Potter, Keene; E. Owen, Portsmouth; A. Simpson, Concord; A. Ross, East Concord.

FROM VERMONT.—H. K. Flagg, Arthur A. Waite, Rutland; A. A. Hoyt, Waterbury.

FROM CONNECTICUT.—I. B. Potter, Stafford; Donald Cameron, Norwich; Wm. J. Ripley, Pleasant Valley; H. C. Smith, Scitico; A. Elliott, Campville; Geo. L. White, Bristol.

FROM RHODE ISLAND.—J. W. Thomas, Providence.

FROM NEW YORK.—A. W. Sibley, Richard Mosher, Sandy Hill; T. J. Cox, Mrs. A. E. Smith, New York City; Mrs. L. M. Stoddard, Lockport.

FROM VIRGINIA.—Elias Brundage, Black Walnut.

FROM SOUTH CAROLINA.—P. G. Bowman, Lydia.

FROM ALABAMA.—J. A. Cargile, Stevenson.

FROM WISCONSIN.—Wm. Sheldon, Brodhead.

FROM OHIO.—E. McCulloch, Nevada.

FROM KANSAS.—R. F. and Mrs. R. F. Clark, Rock Creek; J. C. Smith, Arvonia.

Delegates.

I. H. Plumley, E. A. Egglestone, A. Noble, Westfield, Mass.; Robert Allen, Vernon, Vt.; Josiah Hall, Scitico, Ct.; Geo. L. Place, George S. Harwood, Providence, R. I.; James Young, New York City, N. Y.; M. G. Wise, Collinsville, Ct.; C. M. Morgan, Granby, Mass.; Carter Wilder, Clinton, Mass.; Henry A. Way, Bristol, Ct.; H. L. Stevens, Jr., Turnip Creek, Va.; G. Garran, Hyde Park, Mass.; Sam'l Cooper, Woodstock Valley, Ct.; Noah Shumway, Danielsonville, Ct.; J. W. De Merritt, Natick, Mass.; H. W. Buxton, A. L. Chamberlain, H. H. Nash, H. D. Law, Geo. E. Merrill, Worcester, Mass.; Benj. Irish, Paul Lawrence, B. S. Pierce, New Bedford, Mass.; Warren Howard, Hebron, N. Y.; Benjamin Young, C. H. Woodman, Ozias Goodrich, Chelsea, Mass.; E. J. Wood, Palmer, Mass.; S. D. Hutchins, Rutland, Vt.; Levi Allen, Chicopee Falls, Mass.; J. B. White, Hoosick, N. Y.

The report of the committee was accepted, and pending the motion for its adoption, a committee, consisting of Brn. Bowman, Leslie, and Stockman, was appointed to investigate, and report to the meeting concerning the claims of two rival delegates from Winsted, Ct. With the exception of this matter the report was adopted. The committee of investigation subsequently reported that, "Having heard statements in relation to all the circumstances connected with the case, we decide that the A. C. Church in Winsted, Ct., has no representative here at all, because of the want of formality in their election. We think this church entitled to a delegate, but the one who was chosen, not attending himself, transferred his certificate to another, which we hold he had no right to do, and in consequence of this informality we decide that the Winsted A. C. Church is not properly represented here."

The order of business of last year was accepted as the order of business for the present meeting, which was the following:

1. The reading of the Sec'y's Minutes of the A. C. A.
2. The Treasurer's Report of the A. C. A.
3. The Address of the President of A. C. P. S.
4. Secretary's Report of the A. C. P. S.
5. The Treasurer's Report of the A. C. P. S.
6. The Business Agent's Report of the A. C. P. S.
7. Election of Officers for the A. C. A.
8. Election of Editors of the "World's Crisis."
9. Election of Officers of the A. C. P. S.
10. Promiscuous Business.

The report of the last meeting was read and adopted. The Treasurer of the A. C. A. reported—"There have been no funds received, and none expended." Accepted and adopted. Eld. A. Ross, President of the A. C. P. S., delivered his annual address, as found below, which was listened to with marked interest.

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

Mr. President, and Brethren of the Advent Christian Association:—

A merciful Providence has preserved us through another year of rapid and ominous change, and the time and events yet remaining to this dispensation call loudly upon us to solemnly realize and proclaim the end of all things emphatically at hand.

The Advent Christian Publication Society, the servant of the Advent Christian Association, gave its constitutional pledge fifteen years ago to be faithful in this direction. Whether in your judgment it has strictly adhered to the object of its formation during the year past, will be seen in the verdict you are here called upon to render upon its action. If the Society has assumed an illegitimate responsibility in dealing with the misconduct of some, repeatedly thrust before them, we hope to be humble enough to repent of the wrong we may have done, and most ardently desire that your executive servants in the future may succeed in confining their labor and efforts to the glorious object for which it was first called into active life and service.

The coming of the Lord is the truth for the times, for every association and individual. The great adversary knows this, and if he can scatter dissension, and awaken mutiny among those looking for the Lord, no matter by what means it is done, he is satisfied. With a true Christian disposition to set right all mistakes past, so far as is possible, let us from our present standpoint look out upon the world, study its wants, and strive to respond to its claims.

The Advent Christian Publication Society had its origin suggested by Matt. 24: 14,—"This gospel of the kingdom shall be preached in all the world for a witness unto all nations, and then shall the end come." How fearful the responsibilities of that people honored with such a message; and how culpable must they be held for the neglect of so high a calling.

The commission and qualifications to do this work are not the fruit of human merit or effort; but the Great Head of the church commissions and qualifies men, and leaves them to execute the work on the strength of their own free will. Fidelity will secure boldness in the day of judgment, while neglect, backsliding, or compromise, will deprive us of the reward, and another take the crown. Conscious as I trust we are, of all the Lord has done for us, and realizing, as I hope we do, the weight of responsibility resting upon us as a people, it will be wise and prudent in us at this great gathering to compare notes, and devise such means for the publication of the gospel of the kingdom as may be most practical and effectual in its workings. We need great devotion to the cause, and a spirit of sacrifice. We must not, if we succeed, make the cause of our coming King secondary to worldly interests, but rather make worldly interests subserve the cause we represent. Papers and tracts must be published, filled with the pure word of the kingdom; men called of God must travel, and with lips touched as with a live coal from Jehovah's altar warn the world. Oceans, seas, and continents must be crossed, and dark places of the earth, and habitations of cruelty visited to prepare a people for the Lord. "And who is sufficient for these things?" "Not he who commendeth himself, but whom the Lord commendeth." Now, as in every past age of the church, there are some things for her to protect and maintain, and some things to be guarded against as pernicious in their workings.

We are to define and maintain a pure code of Christian doctrine. We must defend the time-honored and evangelical doctrine of the regeneration of the human heart; the personal advent of the Lord Jesus Christ; the physical resurrection of the dead, just and unjust; the retribution due to sin, and the reward of the good and holy in the kingdom to be established under the whole heaven; and last, but not least, that great scriptural truth which underlies all others, the essential deity of the Lord Jesus.

The disposition so manifest to compromise everything in this age, growing out of the false notions of Christian liberty, Christian union, toleration, etc., independent of plain Bible truth, must be vigilantly guarded against; for while we should allow every one the sacred right we claim—the dictation of their own conscience without our interference—yet our course should be so distinctly marked as to leave the responsibility of such exercise of freedom where God rests it. Nothing was more persistently urged by the apostles upon the primitive church than a pure faith, pure doctrine, and a pure conscience. The perversion of either of these leads to the dethronement of all, and in the end, the wreck of Christian character, as in the case of "Hymenæus and Philetus, who concerning the truth have erred, saying that the resurrection is past already; and overthrow the faith of some."

It may be said, it is too late in the day to contend for tenets, lest by so doing we squander our influence; but however much we deplore the spirit of dogmatism, it is never too late to be right; and popular influence built upon error, however extensive it may be, can never subserve the better interests of the church, or of mankind. Better it is to be like the poor wise man, who by his wisdom delivered the city from the destroying hand of a mighty king, and was forgotten, than to be like him who soared high on the wing of idle praise, and ruled among fools.

As I never expect to speak to you again in the capacity of President of the Publication Society, you will allow me this plainness of speech. It has seemed to me that there is too great a disposition to lower the standard of truth touching the specific character of the Advent Message. That God means there shall be a finishing up work in the form of a specific message, in the end of this dispensation, we have the analogy of the past six thousand years to prove. Treading on the heels of a warning given by God's ordained preacher of righteousness, Noah, came the general deluge and destruction of the antediluvian world. Directly after the angelic visitation to Abraha mand Lot, and the warning cry uttered by the latter, came the fiery deluge upon Sodom. Immediately following the signs and wonders in the land of Ham, and the ministry of Moses and Aaron, was realized the overthrow of the pride of Egypt in the Red Sea. In quick succession after the hand writing on the wall of a Chaldean monarch, and the interpretation by Daniel the prophet, Great Babylon fell. But a short time after strange appearances in the sky, of a sword hanging over Jerusalem, and superhuman voices heard in the temple, "Let us depart," and the woe pronounced upon the city and people of the Jews, by that strange and unknown personage, who for months traveled their streets with his lips burdened with—"Woe to the city and temple," the days of vengeance came, and all things written were fulfilled.

And may we expect that the crowning event of all others will be suffered to come upon this generation, and no premonitory signs seen, or note of warning sounded out by the faithful ministers of Christ? Never! God hath spoken by wonders in heaven above, and signs in the political horizon; the death agonies of the Papacy, the waning of the Turkish Crescent, the feeling of unrest and insecurity pervading every civil compact, is to this generation "the voice of one crying in the wilderness, prepare ye the way of the Lord."

And, my brethren, how should we stand affected by these things? Our interest in these startling manifestations should be commensurate with the magnitude of the event which they portend. Compromise and affiliation with those whose course has ever been utter indifference, or open hostility to the faith of Christ's speedy coming, would be recreant in us to a great and sacred trust. If we would be like those waiting for their Lord when he shall come from the wedding, with lamps trimmed and burning, if we would be like that faithful and wise servant giving to the household meat in due season, then always, and in all places, we must speak out, clearly, distinctly, earnestly, solemnly upon this mighty subject, and as in the days of our divine Master on earth say—"He that hath ears to hear, let him hear." We must place principle above policy, and remember, that all God has given us with which we can reach and afflict the children of men for their good, is pure Bible truth. Would we exert a right influence among men, it must be by a knowledge and a practical appropriation of truth. Would we see our fellow-men roused from the death slumber of sin, then we must not be of those who handle the word of God deceitfully, but by manifestation of the truth, commending ourselves to every man's conscience in the sight of God. Would we see the church sanctified and made ready for the marriage of the Lamb, she must be taught that nothing short of girding her loins with truth will render her acceptable to the King of kings and Lord of lords.

To the return of our Lord, and the glory then to crown his church, the eye of every prophet, apostle, and martyr, has been anxiously turned. It has fixed the concentrated gaze of the holy for six thousand years. And what a thought! that ere the present generation shall all pass away, the Infinite One will appear,—the heavens depart with a great noise, the elements melt with fervent heat, and our eternal destiny be unalterably fixed. Are we watching for it with that intensity our high profession of faith demands? Do our hearts rejoice, or tremble, at the thrilling thought, to the announcement of the Alpha and Omega, "I come quickly"? Do we realize in our hearts the impassioned response of the exiled John—"Even so, come, Lord Jesus"? "Thy kingdom come," is the earnest prayer which he has formed for our hearts and lips, involving, as it does, the majesty and personal appearing of Christ. This is not the whole arch of truth, but it is the key-stone, and if it be removed the whole fabric will come down in utter ruin. As well strike the sun from the solar system, or gravity from the physical universe, as to take the second personal advent of Christ and the resurrection of the dead from the motives under whose promptings the heart can only attain to that "holiness, without which no man can see the Lord." In the midst of the exciting scenes of worldly prosperity, the truth of our Lord's personal advent has been by the majority of the nominal church forgotten. And to us it seems to be left—a people without worldly position, destitute of those literary embellishments so fascinating to the present generation of professed christians—to rally from the machine shop, from following the plow, and various humble industrial pursuits, like Elisha of the prophetic age, and the fishermen of Galilee at the opening of this dispensation, to herald abroad the last merciful call of heaven.

Let us then habituate ourselves to survey, with all the solemn candor which so great a subject should inspire, the great landmarks of our pilgrimage to the promised Caanan. And while the vision tarries, and many times our hearts are made sad, let us labor to provoke one another to love and good works. "For yet a little while and he that shall come, will come, and will not tarry." Let us demonstrate to the world the true principles of a Christian magnanimity and love for each other, that shall lead men to know and acknowledge us to be the true disciples of Christ. Let us, my brethren, pass the remainder of our brief sojourn here in fear, making straight paths for our feet, lest that which is weak be turned out of the way. With loins girded, and lamps burning, let us be ready to go forth and meet our returning Lord. The conflicts of the church are ending. Its struggles and sorrows are nearly done. A few more months, or years at longest, and, like many sainted pioneers in our good cause, we shall be laid quietly at rest, or be caught up to meet our coming Lord. Then these scarred veterans, whose temples are now adorned with hoary hairs, who have ever been the pride of us of younger years and less experience, will exchange those tokens of long years of travel, of suffering and tears, for the robe, the palm, the crown, such as never decked an earthly monarch's brow.

A few more days shall dawn and darken; a few more clouds gather over us; a few more Sabbaths shall come around filling up the sum of our privileges, and then the shining forth of one unending day; the firmament shall be clear forever, and the everlasting Sabbath shall begin.

The foregoing address was accepted, and pending the motion for its adoption, the sentence in regard to the recognition of "the essential Deity of the Lord Jesus," was briefly discussed. The President declined to change the phraseology, but stated that by the "essential Deity" he did not mean the exclusive Deity, but that Jesus Christ was God the Son; and with this qualification the address was adopted, and by vote ordered to be published in tract form for general distribution. Bro. Ross also stated that he could not serve as President the coming year.

The report of the Secretary of the A. C. P. S. was read as follows:—

SECRETARY'S MINUTES OF THE Advent Christian Publication Society, for the Year ending Aug. 9th, 1875.

Mr. President and Brethren of the Advent Christian Association:—

There have been five meetings of this Society during the year. The first meeting was held in Springfield, Mass. (Chapin's Grove), Aug. 14th, 1874, at which the following business was transacted:

It was voted, that Geo. T. Adams be continued Business Agent the ensuing year, at the same salary as last year, $300, and his salary as Treasurer be as last year, $300.

That each Editor of the World's Crisis be paid $14 per week for services.

That each Secretary be paid $20 for services the past year.

That the Editor of the Young Pilgrim be paid $10 per number.

That the Editorial Committee be paid $200 for services the ensuing year.

That the Society make a special effort to raise $2000 or more the ensuing year for the publication and free distribution of tracts, and that the Editors from time to time be requested to make an appeal through the Crisis for this object.

That the following resolution be re-adopted this year:

Resolved, That no appointments be published in the Crisis henceforth for persons unknown to the Editorial Board (by which in this resolution are understood the Editors, Editorial Committee, and Business Agent), unless satisfactory reference shall be given.

That the subscription price of the World's Crisis, on and after Jan. 1st, 1875, shall be $2.25 per year, in consequence of being required to prepay postage after that date.

The second meeting of the Society was held at Alton Bay, N. H., in Bro. Boutell's tent, and the following business done:

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

The Society voted, that a sum not exceeding one hundred dollars be appropriated to remunerate such writers for the World's Crisis as the Editors, Editorial Committee, and Business Agent may approve.

That Brn. H. V. Davis, J. G. Hamblin, and L. T. Cunningham be the Auditors for the year ensuing.

The third meeting was held at its rooms in Boston, 160 Hanover St., Nov. 4th, 1874.

The Business Agent stated the object of the meeting by calling the attention of the members to a "Statement of Facts," relating to the christian character of Eld. J. V. Himes, sent to the Society for publication by Eld. Miles Grant. On motion, it was Voted, that the document containing the "Statement of Facts" be read; whereupon, the Business Agent read a portion of it, after which the meeting adjourned till 1½ o'clock.

Met as adjourned. Heard read the concluding portion of the document above referred to; after which the following votes were passed:

That if the "Statement of Facts" in the case of Eld. J. V. Himes be published by any parties, the Business Agent be hereby instructed to let those parties have access to the subscription list of the World's Crisis, for the purpose of sending it to the address of all its subscribers.

That the expenses of the members in attending this meeting be paid by the Treasurer.

The fourth meeting was held at its rooms in Boston, 160 Hanover St., Dec. 1st, 1874, and the following business transacted:

The Business Agent called the attention of the members to some letters which he had received relating to the publication of the "Statement of Facts" in the case of Eld. J. V. Himes.

On motion, a Committee of three was appointed by the Chair to prepare the "Statement of Facts" for publication in tract form, and was authorized to state the reason for the publication of the same with prefatory remarks, and also to gather such additional facts as they deem proper in the case.

Elds. S. G. Mathewson, L. T. Cunningham, and J. Hemenway, were appointed as that Committee.

That the Committee appointed to prepare for publication the "Statement of Facts" in the case of Eld. Himes, be hereby instructed to hand the same to the Business Agent for publication.

That the Treasurer be instructed to defray the expenses of the members in attending this meeting. Adjourned.

The fifth meeting was held on this campground, Aug. 9th, 1875, and the following business transacted:

The minutes of previous meeting were read and approved.

The Treasurer's report was read and approved, and ordered to be read before the A. C. Association.

The Business Agent's report was read and adopted, and ordered to be read before the A. C. Association.

The minutes of the Secretary for the year were read, and by vote adopted, and ordered to be read before the A. C. Association.

Whereupon, the Society adjourned sine die.

A. W. SIBLEY, Sec'y A. C. P. Society.

The report was accepted and adopted.

The report of the Treasurer of the A. C. P. S. was presented, and was as follows:—

THE TREASURER'S REPORT.

GEO. T. ADAMS, Treasurer, in account with the Advent Christian Publication Society, Aug. 6th, 1874, to Aug. 4th, 1875, inclusive.

DR.

Aug. 5, 1875.
To balance from last year's account	$369 15
By cash received from Aug. 6th, 1874, to Aug. 4th, 1875, inclusive	18,571 61
By Interest	126 00
Total receipts	$19,066 76

CR.

Aug. 5, 1875.
By ch. pd. salaries of the Editors of World's Crisis ($14 00 each per week) from Aug. 12th, 1874, to Aug. 12th, 1875	$1,456 00
" " Editor of Young Pilgrim, from Aug. 1874, to Sept. 1875	240 00
" " Editorial Committee, for the year ending Aug. 1875, as per vote	200 00
" " Treasurer for the year ending Aug. 17th, 1875	300 00
" " Business Agent for the year ending Aug. 21st, 1875	300 00
" " Clerk, from Aug. 1st, 1874, to Aug. 1st, 1875	780 00
" " Assistant Clerk, from Aug. 1st, 1874, to Aug. 1st, 1875	780 00
" " For composition on Crisis and Pilgrim	2,417 55
" " For press work and folding papers	1,575 71
" " For printing paper for Crisis	4,770 42
" " For printing paper for Pilgrim	366 48
" " Rent of rooms for the A. C. P. Society, from July 1874, to Aug. 1875	750 00
" " Postage—including that of Crisis and Pilgrim sent to all of our subscribers, for books, tracts, bills, etc.	875 40
" " New type, stereotype plates, and various printing materials	398 97
" " Wrapping paper, stationery, etc.	247 31
" " Insurance, fuel, gas, etc.	114 50
" " For articles for Crisis	45 00
" " The Secretaries of the Advent Christian Association, and the Adv. Christian Publication Society	40 00
" " For sundries, including expenses of collecting for Crisis and Pilgrim, extra work in the office, expenses of the book stands at the campmeetings, expressage on books and tracts, teaming papers to post office, expenses of members to attend meetings, and for various articles used in the Editors', clerks' and compositors' rooms, etc.	888 65
" " Books and tracts bought and manufactured	2,342 01
Total expenditures	$18,888 00
Balance in the Treasury	$178 76

PROPERTY ON HAND.

Books, tracts and papers	$3,293 92
Type, including subscription lists of the Crisis and Pilgrim, printing materials, safe, office furniture, etc., estimated at	2,800 00
Book and tract plates, estimated at	2,500 00
Printing paper	88 50
Wrapping paper, stationery, etc.	61 93
Postage stamps, etc.	20 87
		$8,765 22
Total		$8,943 98

GEO. T. ADAMS,
Treasurer A. C. P. Society.

OFFICE OF THE ADV. CHRIS. PUB. SOCIETY, BOSTON, AUG. 5, 1875.

We, the subscribers, have examined the accounts of the Treasurer, and find them correctly cast, and properly vouched, and a balance in cash on hand of one hundred and seventy-eight dollars and seventy-six cents. ($178.76.)

HENRY V. DAVIS, J. G. HAMBLIN, L. T. CUNNINGHAM, } Auditing Committee.

Accepted and adopted.

The report of the Business Agent of the A. C. P. S. was presented, and was as follows:—

BUSINESS AGENT'S REPORT.

Mr. President, and Brethren of the Advent Christian Publication Society:—

Through the continued mercies and blessings of the Giver of every good and perfect gift, our lives have been preserved and we are brought to the close of another financial year.

In accordance with our usual practice, and in the discharge of my official duty as your Business Agent, I herewith present to you my report of the business operations of the Society for the year ending Aug. 4th, 1875.

At the beginning of the year, our capital, as given in our last annual report, was $17,617.93. Our present capital we put as follows:—

Property on hand, valued at	$8,765 22
Cash in the Treasury	178 76
Amount due the Crisis, valued at	7,500 00
" " Young Pilgrim, valued at	500 00
" " on book account, valued at	900 00
Total capital	$17,843 98

Our receipts during the past year were $18,697.61.

Book and Tract Department.

During the past year we have published more than 1,800,000 pages of tracts, several of which are new ones, namely: "The True Sabbath," "What to Believe," "The Future of our Planet," "Statement of Facts," and "Atheism Confounded." We have also published two editions of "The Child's Bible Question Book," and an edition of the Hymns of the Jubilee Harp.

The value of books and tracts on hand at the beginning of the year was $3,691.95. The cost of books and tracts made and purchased during the year is $2,342.01. Total books and tracts, $6,033.96. The receipts for books and tracts were $3,924.45. Due on book account about $100 more than last year. Amount received from Tract Fund for tracts granted, $673.86. Total sales and grants, $4,698.31. Value of books, tracts and paper on hand, $3,293.92. Total, $7,992.23.

The World's Crisis.

The past year has been a hard one for most newspapers, it being very difficult to obtain new subscribers. The number of new subscribers entered upon our list during the year is 1,183, against 1,485 the previous year. The number of stoppages and delinquents cut off is 1,575, against 1,539 last year. The number of names upon our subscription list last year was 9,584; the number now is 9,192, making a decrease of 392. The number of names on our free list is 834, being a decrease of 26 since last year.

The receipts for the Crisis during the year have been, on the subscription list, $12,891.48; on the Poor Fund, $98.88. Total, $12,990.36. We have sent out a large number of bills, for dues on the Crisis. The response has been received, in many cases, pleading lack of funds, but expressing the hope of ability to pay ere long. We have felt it a duty to be patient, but hope our friends will see the need of being as prompt in their payments as possible.

The Young Pilgrim.

The number of names on the subscription list of this paper is 3,573, being a decrease of 360. The number of names on the free list is 32; last year 31. Receipts on the subscription, $993.24; on Pilgrim Fund, $2.50. Total receipts, $995.74.

The Tract Fund.

The amount received on the Tract Fund during the year is $661.06. The constant and earnest calls for tracts for free distribution in new fields, and among the poor, indicate that there is an ear to hear; and grants have been made from this fund to the amount of $673.86, being $12.80 in excess of the amount received this year. This deficit has been made up from a balance on hand of a previous year.

The Poor Fund.

The amount received on this Fund towards meeting the expense of the free list of the Crisis is, by donations, $98.88; by cash received to pay postage on the same, about $80.00. Total, 178.88. While 834 copies at the price, $2.25 per year, would amount to $1,876.50.

Thus in addition to the free distribution of tracts, reading matter equal to 3,000,000 pages of tracts has been sent out, for which we have received only $178.88. It will be manifest to all that with a free list of nearly one tenth of our entire circulation, and with a large number of our so called paying subscribers in the arrears, that we cannot add much to the assets of the Society, even if we can continue long, under the circumstances, to hold our own. We hope, therefore, that those of our subscribers who are in arrears will make it a point to pay as promptly as possible, and that the friends of the free list will be liberal in their donations, so that we may be able to meet the constant requests of the poor of the flock for the Crisis free.

Brethren, in looking over the work of the past year, we regret that we are unable to report a larger and more extensive circulation of our papers, books, and tracts; and that, of the amount due the Society, so small a portion has been collected; but we are reminded of the fact that business of almost every kind has been very dull; and that it is said that the circulation of newspapers in general has fallen off nearly one third. We are, therefore, thankful to be able to report some little progress made in the service of the Master, and hope that our labor has not been in vain in the Lord.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

GEO. T. ADAMS,
Business Agent A. C. P. Society.

Accepted and adopted.

OFFICE OF THE ADV. CHRIS. PUB. SOCIETY, BOSTON, AUG. 5th, 1875.

We, the undersigned, having examined the accounts of Geo. T. Adams, Business Agent of the Advent Christian Publication Society, as embodied in the foregoing Report, find them correct, according to the best of our knowledge and belief.

HENRY V. DAVIS, J. G. HAMBLIN, L. T. CUNNINGHAM, } Auditing Committee.

Voted, That the Chair appoint a committee of three to receive, assort and count votes for the election of officers for the Adv. Chris. Association the ensuing year. The Chair appointed Brn. A. A. Hoyt, R. D. Grant, and E. Owen.

Voted, That the Secretary call the roll, and members deposit their votes with the committee at the calling of their names. While this committee were ascertaining the result of the voting, it was voted that a committee of three be appointed by the Chair to receive, assort and count votes for the election of two Editors of the World's Crisis for the ensuing year. The Chair appointed Brn. C. Goodrich, H. W. Buxton, and H. V. Davis.

Previous to the voting on this question, Eld. John Couch, one of the Editors of the World's Crisis, addressed the meeting as follows:

Mr. President and Brethren:—This Association voted two years ago to have two Editors of the World's Crisis. It was regarded as an experiment at the time in your minds, some thinking it would not be harmonious in its result; but I can say that between Bro. Grant and myself there has been the kindest and pleasantest of personal feeling. A question, however, at this time comes up which touches my conscience. We make prominent two distinct ideas which lead the paper. If these were secondary ideas or truths, then it would be all well, perhaps; but as they are made by both of us prominent, I have very serious fears in relation to the result. In fact, I know already that our churches are discussing this matter. I have prayed many months over this subject, and I cannot longer serve you as Editor, because I fear the difference that exists between your two Editors on certain points may result in an unhappy division of the body.

Bro. Bowman stated that he was aware that there existed in many places dissatisfaction with the prominence that was given in the Crisis to what they deemed false views of holiness and sanctification. Other brethren expressed earnestly their feeling that the World's Crisis should make prominent above every other truth the doctrine of the Lord's speedy coming. Eld. Miles Grant, in response to a question by Bro. Hemenway, in relation to California matters, stated, that "I know that I am misapprehended by some, misunderstood by others, and misreported by others; but if I was ever what you call an Adventist, I am now. In the last five years, the reality of Christ's soon coming has been intensified in me." He then read a letter from Bro. A. M. Bailey, pastor of the Minna St. M. E. Church, San Francisco, Cal., in answer to a letter from Bro. G., in which he (Bailey) stated that there were no restrictions of any kind placed upon Eld. G., when preaching in the Minna St. church, but that he was at liberty to exercise his own judgment in the presentation of whatsoever topics he thought best for the interest of the cause of Christ. Or, in the words of the letter of Bro. Bailey: "I often said to you during the meeting, 'Feel perfectly at liberty to conduct the meetings in that way that you think will be most for the glory of God.' And for the long weeks that you stayed in San Francisco, we labored together in perfect harmony, and certainly with the divine approbation. You had your chart explanatory of the prophecies on the wall in the rear of the pulpit all the time. You sold your books, and distributed your tracts in the church without restraint." Bro. G. also stated that he had at no time in his experience as a minister made the doctrine of the advent at hand more prominent than now.

To this it was suggested by a member that the status of a man as a preacher was not the basis of editorial qualification, and that whatever had been the nature and success of Eld. G.'s labors as a preacher, his fitness for the position of Editor was not to be decided thereby, but he was to be judged solely as he had appeared in the columns of the World's Crisis; that Eld. G., as Editor solely, and not at all as a preacher, was to be considered in this connection. The discussion was brought to a close by a motion to reconsider the vote ordering the election of two Editors of the Crisis, which was lost. The meeting then adjourned until 3½ o'clock in the afternoon.

3½ o'clock, P. M. The meeting was opened with prayer, and the committee on election of officers for the A. C. A. reported as follows:—

For President, S. G. MATHEWSON...66 votes.
For Vice President, M. BATCHELOR...63 "
For Secretary, C. E. BARNES.........65 "
For Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS......71 "

For Directors.

J. COUCH	70	votes.
A. W. SIBLEY	59	"
H. V. DAVIS	61	"
J. G. HAMBLIN	58	"
W. H. MITCHELL	62	"
A. ROSS	65	"
C. S. SHERMAN	64	"
J. HEMENWAY	63	"
H. PRATT	45	"

The above list was declared elected.

The report of the committee on the election of Editors of the World's Crisis reported that Eld. J. Couch had.........................64 votes.

Eld. M. Grant."...........................53 "

with 21 votes scattering.

Brn. Couch and Grant were declared elected as Editors of the World's Crisis.

Bro. Couch stated that he had not changed his mind in regard to the matter, but would reconsider the subject, and report his final decision in the morning, if the time for his decision would be extended to then; which extension was granted.

Voted, That a committee be appointed to collect, assort and count votes for the election of officers of the A. C. P. S. Pending this report, the committee on credentials reported the name of Eld. A. M. Higgins, of New Bedford, Mass., to be received as a member of the Association, which report was accepted. Upon a motion for its adoption being offered, Bro. Bowman read a circular from the Ministerial Committee of the Mass. A. C. Conference, in which Eld. Higgins was declared by them to be unworthy of fellowship and recognition as a christian minister. Bro. J. Hemenway, a member of said Ministerial Committee, explained the facts on which the statement in the circular was based. At the last annual session of the Mass. A. C. Conference, a committee from the A. C. Church in New Bedford made a statement to the Ministerial Committee in regard to Eld. Higgins, from which it appeared that he had caused, or aided in producing, a division in their church. The committee also heard a statement in reply from Eld. Higgins, and then made a report to the Conference adverse to Eld. H., which report was afterwards withdrawn in order that the facts might be more fully ascertained by a formal trial of the case in New Bedford, Eld. H. and the church committee agreeing to attend and present their respective sides. Eld. H. was duly notified of the time and place of the hearing, but when the time came, he utterly refused to acknowledge the jurisdiction of the Ministerial Committee to try the case; whereupon, the decision embodied in the circular was agreed upon by the committee.

It was then voted, that Eld. A. M. Higgins have leave to withdraw his name, which he declined doing, whereupon by vote it was rejected. Adjourned to 8½ o'clock tomorrow.

Wednesday, Aug. 11th, 8½ o'clock. President in the chair. After prayer, the committee on the election of officers of the A. C. P. S. reported as follows:—

For President—J. Hemenway.......43 votes.
For Secretary—A. W. Sibley.......59 "
For Treasurer—Geo. T. Adams....62 "

Editorial Committee.

S. G. Mathewson......................56 votes.
L. Boutell..........................54 "
Wm. H. Mitchell......................53 "

Publishing Committee.

J. G. Hamblin..........................54 votes.
H. V. Davis..............................56 "
M. Batchelor..............................57 "
J. Hemenway..............................53 "
L. T. Cunningham......................51 "

The following resolution was offered by Eld. A. W. Sibley, which he introduced by saying:—

Mr. President and Brethren:—I hold in my hand a resolution which I propose to offer to this meeting, but prior to presenting it, I wish to say that, in my judgment, we as a people have come to a very important time in our history. Satan in every possible way is bringing agencies to bear upon us to crush this people, to divide and sub-divide them, and thus neutralize their power and influence upon the world; and if there ever was a time when they should stand shoulder to shoulder, undivided, with all their strength and force concentrated upon the enemy's camp, it is to-day. The officers of this Association, of course, are amenable to this body which constitutes them servants or officers; and in case they do not carry out the work the Society proposed to have carried out when they were constituted its servants, this Association has a right to call their doings in question, and to instruct them with regard to their duties, just as a firm engaged in secular business has a right to instruct their employes in regard to what they wish done. As there are some differences of opinion, and some things existing between our Editors that are not as we would wish they were fully and altogether; and as they feel that they wish the body to counsel them, and give them instructions, and help them in every possible way to carry out the objects for which this Association was organized, I offer this morning a resolution, believing that if it is adopted it will have a tendency to remove the differences that now exist, and harmonize this body, so that we may act unitedly, and concentrate our force and power on the enemy's host, and thus make some progress in the work that God has called us to perform. My resolution reads as follows:—

Whereas, there is a growing dissatisfaction among the patrons of the World's Crisis respecting its editorial status, in that it does not make sufficiently prominent the great Advent message, and gives undue prominence to a modern phase of the doctrine of holiness, and advertises meetings in that interest; therefore

Resolved, That the Editors be instructed to make prominent the great judgment message, and thus accomplish the purpose for which the paper was originally instituted.

Remarks were made in favor of the resolution by Brn. Bowman, Pratt, Hemenway, Sheldon, Boutell, and Flagg. Bro. A. Ross closed the discussion by saying:—

Mr. President:—I feel in favor of the resolution for this reason, if for nothing else, that it duly recognizes the dignity of this Association, recognizing the right of this Association to instruct its servants as to the course they are to pursue. Now, I think that we have reason to deplore that any such state of things exists, any personal partyism, in an association of this character. I, nor you, are neither pledged to Bro. Grant or Bro. Couch. This Association is not pledged to men, but to principles. And what are the principles of this Association? What are the great truths upon which you, as an association, stand based? What was the object of first publishing the World's Crisis? Was it not to give publicity to the truths relating to, and the evidences of, Christ's speedy coming? A man who contributed perhaps as much as any other for the establishment of the paper in 1853, I think, in the city of Lowell, knelt on his knees and prayed (he now sleeps in Jesus), "Lord, let this child die when it ceases to send abroad the evidences of the coming of the Lord." And I say, let it die, then, too. This body is called the Advent Christian Association. What was it organized for? To carry out the grand purpose for which the World's Crisis was first brought into existence,—the publication of the evidences of the speedy coming of the Lord. So that resolution, it seems to me, recognizes the dignity of this Association, its right to instruct its officers, its servants, as to their course of labor, and I hope the resolution will pass unanimously.

Eld. Couch stated that if the resolution was passed, he would withdraw his declination, and accept the position to which he had been elected. The resolution was then adopted without a dissenting vote.

The miscellaneous business was then introduced by appointing Bro. Bowman a committee of one to nominate, for re-election by the congregation at the grand stand, the same men to act as campmeeting committee the ensuing year that had served the past year in that capacity.

The matter of securing suitable Sabbath-school books for our Sabbath-schools, which last year was referred to the action of the Editorial Committee, with the recommendation that they devote a thousand dollars to provide such books, was inquired into, and the fact brought out that they had done nothing at all in relation to the matter. Remarks were made by various brethren, setting forth the fact of the difficulty of securing books that were free from erroneous teaching. Brn. Owen and Barnes thought that good books could be obtained by proper effort being made,—books containing the biographies of eminent men and women who had labored in the cause of God; stories of a historical nature; accounts of missionary labor; etc., etc., all of which would not only be interesting, but exceedingly useful and instructive. C. E. Barnes was appointed a committee of one to secure such books, and give notice thereof through the World's Crisis to our Sunday-schools, and all who would wish to obtain them.

It was voted that the A. C. Pub. Society be recommended to take into consideration the feasibility of enlarging the Young Pilgrim, and issuing it weekly instead of semi-monthly.

It was voted that the Association recommend that a General Conference be held some time in the fall, to be composed of delegates from State Conferences.

Bro. Couch alluded to dissatisfaction that existed in relation to the publication in the World's Crisis of the appointments of men unworthy of recognition as preachers; and by vote of the meeting, Brn. Bowman, Hemenway and Sheldon, were appointed a committee of three to consult with and advise the Editorial Board in regard to the matter as they might need. The subject of publishing weekly Sabbath-school lessons was introduced, and after some discussion approving the idea, it was voted that the A. C. P. Society take into consideration the propriety of publishing such lesson papers.

No other business being presented to the Association, the meeting was adjourned sine die. C. E. Barnes, Secretary.

The World's Crisis
AND
SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

Boston, Wednesday, Sept. 8, 1875.

☞ TAKE NOTICE.

☞ All subscriptions for the "CRISIS," issued from this time forward, are at the rate of $2.25 a year, payable IN ADVANCE.

POSTAGE FREE TO ALL within the United States, the Canadas, and the British Provinces.

☞ Please Remember!

☞ All remittances to this office, in the form of Drafts, Bank Checks, and Postal Money-Orders, should be made payable to the Business Agent, GEO. T. ADAMS.

☞ THOSE who send articles for the "CRISIS," should direct them to the "E ITORS OF WORLD'S CRISIS," Boston, Mass.

PLEASE READ, REMEMBER, AND ACT ACCORDINGLY.

The brethren, sisters, friends—one and all—whoever may write to this office, sending articles for insertion in the Crisis, or subscriptions for the same, notices, appointments, reports, or orders for papers, books, tracts, or anything of the kind, will confer a favor and do the right way by directing their letters in either one of the following ways:—

"Editors of World's Crisis, Boston, Mass."

"World's Crisis, Boston, Mass.," or

Geo. T. Adams, Agent, Boston, Mass.

Those who send articles for the Young Pilgrim should address—

"Editor Young Pilgrim, Boston, Mass."

In no case address letters on business connected with the papers, or office, to any of the clerks, compositors, or helps in this office. Agent.

Hereafter address me at Boston, Mass. All private letters should be marked "personal." Miles Grant.

BLESSED ARE THE PEACEMAKERS.

Peace is harmonious association, enjoyed by a community governed by love and good will towards each other; a state of society in which all its members are united in and loyal to the same government. It is the absence of, and opposite to, war.

Peacemakers are those whose acts and influence tends to make peace. It consists, first, in possessing and exercising the principles which produce peace, and, secondly, in exerting an influence over others by precept and example to do the same.

The elements of peace are the fundamental and governing principles of the divine government.

God evidently designed to create all things and beings to enjoy universal peace, by producing unbroken harmonies and universal loyalty to his just, merciful and supreme laws. But there must have been a contingency upon which universal peace rested among God's intelligent beings, or they must have been created as passive machines, to be acted upon by some controlling powers which would necessarily produce exactly the same results in all; thus producing harmony. In other words, war could not have been introduced into this world if God had not seen it necessary to place intelligent beings on probation, or give them a test of loyalty to his government.

The real test and manifestation of social virtue is proved and exhibited by faithfulness to social law. There is no virtue in forced obedience to law. It is no more praiseworthy and virtuous than the action of a machine propelled by a power foreign to itself. Moral virtue can be established and exhibited only by a voluntary obedience to law; never by a compulsory obedience. It was therefore necessary for God, in order to produce races of intelligent and trusty, virtuous beings, graded for associations with Deity, to make them such by voluntary obedience to his social law.

Voluntary obedience cannot exist where the will is not left free to do or not do, without compulsion. The only way, therefore, that the Creator could establish the true heavenly dignity of real social virtue, in the angelic and human races, was to put them on probation, and allow them, by an undisturbed volition of will, to establish their individual character of exaltation or abasement.

We are often asked "Why did God permit evil to come into our world?" We answer, Because it was necessary in establishing true loyalty to his government in his intelligences, and in exalting them to a high grade of dignity and virtue, far above those creatures and things made to be governed without their volition, to make it possible for evil to enter. He did not purpose and design that it should enter, thus making himself responsible for its presence and results, but to perfect his glorious and merciful plan for the wonderful exaltation and eternal blessedness of his creatures, he must make it possible that sin and death should enter our once sinless and happy world.

If a father, in leaving his home, should commit the care of his business to his two sons, giving them instructions as to their duties, saying, If you are faithful, at my return I will reward you with great honor; but if unfaithful, I will thrust you into the lowest cell, and cause your infamy to be proclaimed, no one would accuse the father of designing to imprison and punish his beloved sons, or of forcing upon them their degradation. If at the return of the father he should find that one of the sons had been loyal to him, and the other had been unfaithful, and he should reward and punish them according to his word, would it not be very reproachful to the father to say that he used partiality with them, which resulted in the faithfulness of one and disobedience of the other? Let us be very careful how we accuse our Heavenly Father of acting upon principles which we would condemn in men.

Peace is the result of obedience to law. Earthly peace results from obedience to earthly law, and heavenly peace to heavenly law. An earthly subject is at peace with his earthly ruler when he obeys that ruler's law; and so a man is at peace with God when he yields obedience to his government.

Universal peace is produced by universal obedience to a universal law. Eternal peace is the product of eternal loyalty to an eternal government. This is the great central principle and all-embracing idea in the Infinite Mind, that the universe shall be filled with heavenly and eternal peace.

The real sovereignty of the divine government will not be maintained unless effective measures are adopted to put down all rebellion against it, and destroy all rebels who persistently defy its authority.

A peacemaker, in the true gospel sense, is, therefore, one who yields implicit obedience to all the claims of the divine government. He makes peace with God because he has a heart to yield to all his claims. He does not assume to dictate terms of reconciliation, but cheerfully submits to those God has revealed. He is at peace with all men because he chooses to suffer wrong rather than to do wrong. He is not only at peace with God and all men, but he makes it the labor of his life, and concentrates all his power to lead other men into the same peace and reconciliation with God.

All the labor of Satan and his servants is to defeat God in his efforts for peace. His plan is, therefore, to produce contention, division and war. Christ calls his servants to withstand this assault, by calmly and peacefully, in the midst of strife and battle, defending the justice, mercy and sovereignty of God's government; the dignity and peace making power of the gospel, and the unity and harmony of Christ's church.

Satan has come down in great wrath in these last days to exterminate gospel peace, if possible, upon the earth. Jealousies are poured out like a flood; faction and strife are demolishing social institutions like a cyclone; the foundations of States and churches, political parties and protective leagues, are shaken fearfully in this social earthquake. Disquiet steals into the family circle, and secretly breaks the bonds of sacred union, and drives away from holy shrines peace long established. But amid all this din of strife and jargon of satanic confusion and murderous battle, sounds the ever sweet voice, "Blessed are the peacemakers, for they shall be called the children of God." They have partaken of the divine nature which produces in them this heavenly peace, and constitutes them the children of God. This peace is produced by true and full reconciliation to God; that is, a complete yielding to him, taking his position, and leaving our own in all matters and questions where a difference exists. When this takes place there can be no war, for God can ask no more, and certainly we have no right to demand any less.

When we are fully reconciled to God's law and are willingly governed by it, it is impossible for us not to be in harmony with those who occupy the same position. We cannot walk with God, and at the same time go in an opposite direction to those who are also walking with him. Therefore, when we have peace with God we shall have peace also with his followers.

Jesus said of himself and his people, "But he that entereth in by the door is the shepherd of the sheep; to him the porter openeth; and the sheep hear his voice; and he calleth his own sheep by name, and leadeth them out." This voice cometh from the word of God, and leadeth them out into new and prophetic positions. This voice must come from dispensational truth, which defines the position to be occupied; and, when it is heeded, all who yield to its claims must have harmony and peace among themselves as far as they are related to that question. If Christ's sheep hear his voice and follow him, how can we claim to be following his special voice, in one of the most important dispensational messages ever given to men, and at the same time accept those as leaders and patterns of christian faith and devotion who persistently reject that message? We can only have peace with such by not striving or contending with them; but we must kindly and in the fear of God warn them that they are not following the Shepherd's voice into the fold of gospel safety. We can warn men of the snares to which they are exposed in a way to make peace, or we can admonish them in a way to excite war. May the Lord give us grace to be peace-makers in all things, that we may be the sons of God, without rebuke, in the midst of a wicked and contentious generation. J. C.

ALTON BAY CAMPMEETING.

As we may expect a full report of the Alton Bay campmeeting from another pen, we will not take up but little room in speaking of this great and good meeting. It was generally called the best one ever held on the ground. The preaching, order, interest, and results, were very satisfactory. A goodly number were converted, and fourteen were buried with Christ in baptism. We have never before seen so many there who were fully consecrated to the Lord, and enjoying the fullness there is in Christ. This number was geatly increased during the progress of the meeting. The interest in the subject of holiness is spreading rapidly. Some honest souls yet stand aloof, in consequence of misunderstanding, misapprehension, or misinformation, in relation to the subject, while others, no doubt, have no heart relish for such things. They do not feel ready to meet Jesus, and are unwilling to submit all into his hands for safe keeping.

Some of the meetings were very precious, and might lead one to think he was almost in the heavenly world. Those hallowed scenes will afford a joyful remembrance to many who were present. The effect cannot be otherwise than lasting and blessed. Members of other denominations united with us in loving fellowship. The sweet Spirit of Christ made us one in him, completely levelling the walls of sectarianism. We may well say, as did David, "Let every thing that hath breath praise the Lord." Praise him for what he did at the Alton Bay campmeeting. No one in Christ, who was present, could doubt that he bestowed rich blessings upon the encampment. It was truly a heavenly feast to many present. It was a great privilege to meet and greet such a large number of the friends of Jesus, and listen to their prayers, testimonies and songs. We expect no better this side of the coming of the Holy One. M. G.

"GOSPEL SONGS."

"A choice collection of Hymns and Tunes, New and Old, for Prayer Meetings, Sunday Schools, etc."

This is a new book that has had a large sale at our campmeetings this season, and contains some very choice pieces:—"When Jesus Comes," "More to Follow," etc., etc. For sale at this Office. Price, 35 cts. per copy; $3.60 per dozen by express; by mail, 40 cts. per copy. Agent.

MISSION WORK.

The field for miisionary labor is opening in all directions, and the Lord is raising up men and women to run with the glad news, Jesus is coming soon; prepare to meet him at his appearing. These missionaries are willing to leave all their home comforts, and go forth among strangers to encounter prejudice, neglect, and even abuse, including hard fare, in order to be instrumental in saving some from destruction. Will those who remain at home, surrounded by the comforts of life, give something to help support these self-denying missionaries and their families, while they go forth to battle with the powers of darkness? Let us bear one another's burdens, and so fulfill the law of Christ. At the campmeetings held at Springfield and Alton Bay, some three thousand dollars were given and pledged This is only about half as much as was given last year. Instead of doing less, we should do more mission work this year than ever before, because the people are more ready to hear than at any time for twenty-five years.

We believe there are many, who were not at these campmeetings, who are willing and ready to help on this important work. To accommodate such, it is proposed that on the first Sunday in October next, a collection be taken up in every church for the support of the mission work. The money, including pledges to be paid during the year, should be forwarded to the treasurer of the Mission Board, Geo. T. Adams, Boston, Mass. If any wish their donations sent to any particular missionary, or mission field, they can so specify. Let the subject receive special attention, the first Sunday in next October. Every preacher, who wishes to help make the mission work a success, is desired to lay this matter before his congregation on that day, and where there is no minister, let the leader of the meeting see that a collection is taken up for this worthy object. Let every friend of Jesus lend a helping hand. M. G.

COMING OF CHRIST.

The evidences in favor of the speedy coming of Christ were never so strong as at the present time. Our own mind is fully satisfied on this subject. We do not have any doubts but that the end of the present dispensation is but a short distance in the future. Many ministers and lay members in the various evangelical churches are becoming specially interested on this important and glorious truth. Prejudice is rapidly giving way before the advancing light. Doors are opening in all directions for preaching on the personal coming of Christ, and other kindred themes. Let us lift up our heads and rejoice, because redemption is at hand. The long dark night of weeping is about to end in the dawning of the day of eternal glory. Grand events are at our doors. Let us all be ready to meet the coming of the Son of the Highest. No impure person can expect to enter the kingdom of heaven. Neither worldly wealth, science, nor honor, will afford any passport into the New Jerusalem. Only "the pure in heart" have the promise. The unprepared have no time to waste, if they wish to be ready. At once submit all to Christ, and he will joyfully take full possession of the heart. M. G.

Concord.—Sabbath, Sept. 5th, we spent with the church at Concord, and had a good day in the Lord. The audiences were large, attentive, and manifested a special interest in the subject of preparation to meet Christ at his coming. A goodly number gave in warm, stirring testimonies, and a large number expressed a determination to consecrate all to the Lord. The prospect is encouraging for the church in Concord. M. G.

The Bible Echo, published by Bro. W. Kellaway, 10 Warwick Lane, E. C. London, Eng., is an excellent weekly, deserving an extensive patronage. Price $3 a year. Bro. Kellaway is doing a noble work, and is worthy of christian sympathy and support. M. G.

Eyes.—As an answer to those who inquire for a noted and skillful occulist, we would refer them to Dr. C. H. Williams, 15 Arlington street, Boston. No one need to be afraid to trust their case in his hands. M. G.

Correction.—In our article in the last Crisis, headed "Keeping Power," instead of reading "Power is not the nature of the action," read, "Power is not the name of the action, but of that which caused the action." M. G.

THE TRACT FUND.

The Advent Christian Publication Society, at a meeting on Springfield camp-ground, August 11th, 1875, voted to raise Two Thousand Dollars for the free distribution of Tracts the ensuing year; and they invite the help and co-operation of all lovers of the Lord and of his truth, in the furtherance of the good cause. The times are ominous of coming events, and admonish us to diligence in the Master's work. The Lord is at the door, and what we do must be done quickly. Let the contributions be prompt, hearty, and liberal. The Lord will reward the liberal giver.

A. W. Sibley, Sec. Adv. Chris. Pub. Soc.

Remittances shou'd be sent to the Treasurer, Geo. T. Adams, Boston Mass. or they may be enclosed with remittances to the Crisis Office.

DONATIONS FOR THE TRACT FUND.

Previous acknowledgments	$20 00
J. C. Smith	1.00
M. E. Whiting	1 00
O.	1 00
J. W. Demerett	.50
J. M.	.25
Mrs. H. Ostrander	.15
P. J. Pilcher	2.00

POOR FUND.

TO SEND THE "CRISIS" TO THE POOR.

Previous acknowledgments	.75
E. W. C. Carter	1.00
O. B. Crandall	.25
M. P. B.	.20
J. C. D.	.20

YOUNG PILGRIM FUND.

AMER. ADV. MISSION SOCIETY.

Donations are earnestly solicited, to enable this Society to send out missionaries, and other means, into the Southern States, and elsewhere, as the Lord may open the door, to proclaim "the glad tidings of the kingdom at hand"; and should be sent, as also pay ments of pledges made, to the

Treasurer, Geo. T. Adams,

P. O. Drawer 5002, Boston, Mass.

who will acknowledge the same in the columns of the Crisis.

Aug. 6th, 1875, and onward.
Previous acknowledgments	$488.72
J. B. Ackerman (pledge paid)	10 00
P. S. Ward	5.00

HOOSICK VALLEY CONFERENCE.

The Hoosick Valley Conference commenced its third quarterly session at North Adams, Mass., in the Hoosick tent, Wednesday evening, July 7th, and continued over the following Sabbath. The meetings were well attended, and good interest was manifested. There were three meetings each day, two of which were business meetings. The other meetings were occupied by preaching brethren, and others. Preachers during the conference were—A. W. Sibley, H. K. Flagg, A. A. Waite, R. L. Harrison, and Sr. M. Otis.

The first business session of the conference commenced Friday morning, at nine o'clock, and was called to order by the Pres., A. W. Sibley. The Sec.—W. O. Higley—being absent, A. A. Waite was chosen Sec. pro tem. According to vote, the Chair appointed Elds. E. D. Kemp and R. L. Harrison a committee on credentials. The following is the report of the committee as adopted:—

Preachers—A. W. Sibley, Sandy Hill, N. Y.; H. K. Flagg, Rutland, Vt.; R. L. Harrison, Hoosick, N. Y.; A. A. Waite, Rutland, Vt.; E. D. Kemp, East Bennington, Vt.; Sr. Flora R. Blanchard, and Sr. M. L. Tower, North Adams, Mass. Other preachers present, not members of this conference—Eld. W. Teft, and Sister M. Otis, of Mass.

Delegates—Nelson Robertson, Lorenzo Harrington, West Hoosick, N. Y.; Emerson Hicks, No. Adams, Mass., and Simon Wheelock, So Adams, Mass. The reports of the preachers, as a whole, were encouraging, especially those whose labors had been in protracted meetings, and also those who had labored in the tent. There had been additions to the churches in Rutland, Vt., Sandy Hill, N. Y., and Hoosick, N. Y. The meetings were harmonious, instructive and encouraging to those who are looking for the final consummation of our hopes in the personal advent of our Redeemer, as an event just at the door. It was Voted, that our annual conference be held with the church at West Hoosick, commencing Oct. 6th, providing it be the wish of the church at that place. A vote of thanks was given to the church and people of North Adams for the generous hospitality extended to us during our stay with them, and for the interest manifested in the success of our united efforts for the triumph of truth.

Voted, that a copy of the minutes of these meetings be sent to the World's Crisis and Advent Christian Times for publication; after which it was voted to adjourn.

Arthur A. Waite, Sec. pro tem.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCE.

I desire to say a few words in the World's Crisis to the brethren and sisters living within the bounds of the Kansas Central A. C. Conference. The time has almost rolled around for our next quarterly meeting. And now, what have you done to get ready for it? anything at all? Done! says one; what would you have me do? clean up my house, put up some new window curtains, and bake some extra bread and pies, and see that there are several chickens properly fatted to fry, for the big-gun preachers? No, no, not at all. There is a far more important duty than that to be looked after. I mean the cause of the eternal God.

Have you been thinking, What can I do to make the meeting one of interest and profit? Are there sinners out of Christ Jesus that you desire to see saved? If so, let this be the burden of your heart's prayer, that God may bless his word and make it effectual in the salvation of dying sinners. Do you want the ministers to preach plain, practical doctrine, and give you meat in due season? Then pray God to overrule the coming meeting, and that each sermon may savor of the spirit of the great Head of the church, who loved us while we were in enmity to God and his government.

O the boundless love of the divine sacrifice—Christ the Savior of lost man. If you feel that you love these blessed truths—the soon coming of God's Son, immortality, and a home in the kingdom of Prince Immanuel, then come, one and all, and let us attain unto the higher life in Christ Jesus. God has entrusted us with the most startling of all proclamations,—the nearness of eternal judgment. Do not put off doing your duty, but get converted at home, and then come to meeting filled with the fire of God's love and power.

Our conference will meet in October, for the last time in 1875, with the church on Marias-des-Cygnes River, near Arvonia, in Osage Co. Let each church see that their delegates are elected and sent; and make out a delegation and come with them, and see that your wants are properly made known before the conference. Don't let the delegates forget to attend the business meeting, Saturday, Oct. 2nd, at 2 o'clock P. M. Come one, come all.

V. F. Hunt, Disirict Evangelist.

DEDICATION.

The Advent Christian church at Martville, N. Y., was dedicated Aug. 15th. A large audience was present, including many from other churches. Elds. W. J. Hobbs, J. E. Wells, E. F. Sergisson, and A. P. Moore, were present, and helped in the dedication. The Lord was with us in power. Our indebtedness on the house was $804. Saturday we raised $350. Saturday night many prayers went up to God that the first Advent Christian church built in Cayuga Co. might be free from debt, and given to the Lord. When we met Sabbath morning, and called for pledges, our Secretary could not write the names as fast as they were given in, until the sum reached $1,130.95. In the evening we called for donations for sheds, when we received $340 more. The sheds will soon be erected. "A righteous man regardeth the life of his beast." We have learned at Martville to do all we can, and trust God for the rest.

One incident occurred that caused tears to flow from many an eye. One young woman, who came four miles to the meeting on foot, was poor, but wanted to give five dollars. She was owing fifty on her sewing machine. Three voices were heard in the congregation, "I will pay that $5." Several dollars were handed her to pay for her machine. It is good to sacrifice for God. Bless his holy name.

Our church is 30×50. Our pulpit is a bay window, so it takes no room from the main building. All are pleased with the house. The cost of house, sheds, furniture and bell will be near $3000. Our membership is seventy-one, while others are waiting to unite with us. Two years ago last July 17th, we pitched the tent at Martville; held a meeting five weeks, and baptized thirty. Since that the truth has been spreading. We have tried to preach it in love, and let other denominations alone. God has blessed his word to the salvation of some. We never felt more like trusting God than now.

M. R. Miles.

Correspondence

From Bro. J. T. Ongley.

At home, with the expectation of staying there, unless the way opens for me to still go out and preach the unsearchable riches of Christ, and give the warning note to my fellows to prepare for the coming kingdom.

For the past five years I have been constantly in the field, doing what I could to arouse a sleepy, pleasure-loving church, and the world, to prepare for the judgment, seeking "first the kingdom of God and his righteousness." Sometimes I have had good success; at others, could do but little on account of unbelief. I labored hard to get up a tent for Penn., and called it the Penn. Mission Tent. Labored hard by night and day with it, for two seasons, and it has left its mark, thank the Lord; but this season it has been almost impossible to get people interested enough to say they will have a tent meeting. In consequence of trouble and hard times, they could not support one, and being single-handed and alone, and poor, I could not run it; therefore it has lain idle. I advertised it for sale, not wishing it to lay idle, and offered to pay those who helped me in getting it up their proportion, if sold, after a dividend was made.

Now I have let Bro. and Sr. Clark, missionaries to Kansas, have the tent (although I might have received more for it), for less than one-third its cost, for the sake of having it in the field, and the work for which it was dedicated carried out. I have spent time and money in going to see the friends, especially in Penn., in relation to selling the tent. Forty out of fifty-two subscribers in Penn., that I have seen, have relinquished their claim in said tent to me; three have said they wanted their pay back, in full. I have also seen a number in York State. I find fifty-two subscribers in Penn., and fifty-four in New York, Canada, Mass. and other States. I would be glad to hear from all in the matter. What I have done, I have done with a feeling and prayerful heart, hoping that good may result, and for the glory of God.

Brethren and sisters, let me hear from you, if only a postal card, and do it now, so that I can act accordingly. My labors for the present are closed. Friends say it is almost impossible to get money, and I know that it is so with me; also I know of other preachers, far in advance of poor me, who have left the walls and the ministry to labor to support their families; therefore, I dare not complain. Yet somebody will have to give an account for their stewardship before long. Having had my body injured while in the field about three years ago, so that since then I have not been able to perform manual labor, as formerly, thereby making it hard for me; yet I hope some way may be opened, so that I can pay my honest debts, and not let my family suffer. If any wish my labor, or will purchase of me "The Primitive Christian Faith," or "The Tree of Life," by C. F. Sweet, they can have them for $1.50 per dozen; retail price 20 cts., postage 2 cts. each, by writing to me at Lincolnville, Crawford Co., Pa.

Aug. 30th, 1875.

From Bro. B. Spaulding.

I am now at Camden, Me., attending Bro. Sevey's meetings. I was also with him at Vinal Haven twenty-four days, at North Haven five days, and at Camden thirteen days; in all forty-two days. We have had good seasons in all these meetings. Praise the Lord. These tent-meetings are not very expensive. Bro. Sevey owns and gives the use of the tent to the cause, and gives his own time, and the rest of the tent's company give their time, and I give mine; so it don't cost much money. He occasionally takes a collection, and gets about enough to pay the expense of moving from one place to another. These tent-meetings are doing much good among a people who have heard but little about the coming of Jesus. We have good congregations. The tent is full evenings. Good order generally within the tent, but outside them are rude boys and unprincipled men, who are of the "baser sort," and disturb us some; but we have enough of the good Spirit of God to rise above it; and we have the praying spirit, the exhorting spirit, and singing spirit, and sinners are convicted, and some converted, and some come out and acknowledge the truth. Four have been baptized, and many have started on the track of truth. I think other tents should take an example from these Maine tents, and conduct their tent-meetings on an economical principle. Much good may be done in this way in destitute fields in the back country. If our talented brethren, who are sitting down in the large towns, on comfortable salaries, would go into these destitute fields and new places, they would be well received and attentively heard. I could not promise them much money, but I don't suppose that money is their object. If it is, they had better stay in the large towns.

I have enjoyed health, enjoyed life, enjoyed my work, have circulated a great amount of tracts, visited many families, given lectures occasionally, and attended all the meetings, and enjoyed them. I am rather worn down, and think I must retire. The infirmities of age are fast unfitting me for this work. I must soon surrender to the infirmities of age. I may have to go down to the grave, but I do hope for a part in the first resurrection; on such the second death will have no power. My faith remains firm in the doctrines I have so long tried to proclaim, and that Jesus' coming is near.

From Sr. L. H. Perkins.

Dear Brethren and Sisters of like precious faith:—I desire to say something in our much loved Crisis of our hope and personal experience. I think I understand the dealings of my dear heavenly Father at the present time. Isolated from the precious fellowship of the saints, I had been overcharged with the cares of life, and did not watch and pray as constant as I was wont to do. I realized my condition, but did not know how the Lord would lead me out. About this time I heard a discourse from Bro. McCullock, in Chicago, on "chastisement." While returning home, reflecting on what I had heard, I thought, when have I been corrected? Am I to be without chastisement? realizing that I deserved it. How little did I think it was so near. The next morning I was precipitated down a flight of stairs, dislocating my right shoulder. It is now four weeks since. I am still suffering from it, but I do enjoy a sweet spirit of meek submission and obedience to my heavenly Father. I know it has been for my good, for I believe that afflictions are only by his permission. May I ever be willing to use my one talent in his service. And here let me say something about our blessed hope.

The glory and consolation of this hope weans me from the perishing things of earth. The apostle says, Whosoever hath this hope "purifieth himself, even as he is pure." What a glorious privilege to be one of the despised ones, loving the appearing of Jesus, longing for the morning, looking for the day star to arise, waiting for the day that will bring the inheritance. Let us commit our ways unto the Lord, and he will direct our paths.

I learned to trust when a child, and he will keep me to the end; but I must be a true witness, admonishing those around me of the nearness of that day of reward. May we lay aside every thing that hinders an earnest testimony. We are living in a grand and awful time; the world is filled with gigantic organizations, each one claiming that their special plans and ideas, if carried out, would emancipate mankind. They think they are competent to rule the world without a Christ, but we know that soon He will come whose right it is to reign, and it will be given to him. Never will there be universal peace until the Prince of peace shall reign. Now crime stalks abroad, wickedness prevails, covetousness increases, formalism pervades the churches everywhere, with very few exceptions, and when He comes will he find faith on the earth? This planet is marred by sin and death; the habitable parts of it are full of unruly children. When will he come and put things to rights?

Hobart, Ind.

From Sr. S. E. Teeple.

Dear Editors:—As I took up the Crisis of July 7th, my eyes rested on two small pieces on the last column of the first page, and one of them was headed "hidden talents," a very important piece for every one to read. Talents are to be improved, no matter how few are given, nor how small. I read it with much interest; my heart was moved to tenderness, mine eyes did weep, I sighed and groaned in spirit. I laid down the paper, and said, "If I read no more in that paper I feel well paid; it was food to the hungry soul. I can feast on it for a week."

It is not all that is written in the Crisis that does such an amount of good to every individual, but one feasts on one thing, and another on other things; and as all members have not the same gift, all do not feast on the same alike, but all should be of the same spirit, all love as brethren, all be united in the faith. It was a great sermon in few words, and as the Crisis goes broadcast over our land, many can read that short sermon, with the heading for the text,—"hidden talents." Oh! heed it, you that have hid them so long—you that think them of but little account. May it arouse you to activity, and stir your heart to a new eagerness in the cause of Christ.

I also have had the privilege of listening to a sermon from Sr. Crumb. "Therefore let us not sleep as do others." Put this sermon by the side of the short one spoken of above, and if those who have heard and those who can read, will not be aroused, I fear they will sleep on, and keep their talents hid till the trump of God awakes the sleeping millions from their dusty beds, and then it will be too late. Too late, I say, but they can have no excuse. Oh! how the words "too late" will sound. Let us feel the force of it now, and do what we can to keep ourselves from sinking, and save our fellow men, if possible, from going with the current. Is not now the time when some can be saved by pulling them out of the fire? Can they get out without help? And who stands ready and willing to help? Let us watch and be sober, and do all that is required of us, and a crown of glory awaits us at the appearing of Jesus, whose appearing is but little in the future, when all the tribes of the earth will mourn. He that is filthy will be filthy still, and those that are righteous will be righteous still. Thank God, there is a good time coming for the loved of earth, for the weary saint who sighs and groans to be relieved from this sin-cursed earth. Then we will weep on, and toil on, and rest in the sweet by and by. Yours in the hope of the gospel.

Hotchkissville, Ct.

From N. J. Lucas.

Beloved Friends of the Crisis:—After a long silence I again take up my pen to converse with you a little while in the Lord. It has not been because my love for the coming of the Lord, the resurrection of the dead, and other kindred truths have in the least abated; no, praise the Lorld, we love them still. My circumstances have been such that I have not been permitted to write before. Oh, my brethren and sisters, what a day we are living in. Look at the state of society, sin and wickedness daily increasing. All things speak in thunder tones that the coming of the Lord is very near, and I often ask myself the question, Who will be able to stand? It will be only those having clean hands and a pure heart. Our prayer is, that we may be kept from day to day in the straight and narrow path that leads to life eternal.

Cares of the world oft-times press heavily, and tears in my weariness fall, and we think how gladly we would exchange a world like this for one where nothing will ever press the soul; no sickness, no sorrow, pain or death. Here our loved ones go down in death; we see them laid away in the cold and silent grave, and our hearts are filled with bitter, bitter grief; but amid affliction the words of Jesus come to our mind sweeter than honey, "I am the resurrection and the life; he that believeth in me though he were dead, yet shall he live." Blessed promise! how it comforts us when we stand by the death-bed of friends, and see them breathe their last. How cheering the thought that when the voice of the archangel and the trump of God pierces the tomb, the ones that we have laid away in deep sadness are going to live, the very same ones, praise the Lord. For such a hope even now we feel an ecstasy of joy in our heart in view of the prospect before us, though trials thicken around us, and storms of adversity rise, how sweet the rest will be over there, by and by. Yes, glory to God, we shall be beyond the reach of every thing that would mar our perfect peace, for we shall be safely anchored in the haven of eternal rest, and be ushered into the presence of Jesus and angels, and shall sit down with Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, and with our loved ones.

"When time's stormy tempest's roar
Is forever closing,
I shall on the other shore,
With him be reposing;
Loving eyes shall on me shine,
Hands shall stretch to meet me,
Loving arms shall round me twine,
Loving voices greet me."

Until then, dear brethren and sisters, let us be hopeful and prayerful; let us not sleep as do others, but watch and be sober, and gird on the whole armor, work while the day lasts, and watch unto prayer, that we may be found without spot or blemish at the appearing of Jesus.

Lewiston, Me.

From Bro. L. E. Pendleton.

I felt this morning like writing a few lines to the Crisis. As I was perusing its columns, a thought flashed across my mind of the many reasons we all have for thankfulness and gratitude to Heaven for our mercies and blessings. Though in the past I have been led to believe a little more, or less, than some of our brethren, and been pained in my loneliness and isolation in consequence of such diversity of faith, and more than all, to witness a disposition to cut men off for a slight difference in views; but I think, while this spirit has been too general with us all, in the dark prophetic night, now that the morning begins to dawn, we ought to confess our faults one to another, and pray one for another that we may be healed. I can confess that I was too apt to censure others for not seeing as I did. In the unfoldings of future events, if we have it for our motto to walk in the light, we may entertain divers views still. Dear waiting ones, remember to be christians. Be kind, tender-hearted, forgiving one another, as God for Christ's sake hath forgiven you. "Love one another." Follow peace and holiness of heart, without which no man shall see the Lord. Let your hearts abound in love. Jesus is indeed coming. Write it in our papers, speak it in our pulpits, act it in our lives.

I must mention, for the comfort of the saints scattered abroad, that the Lord is blessing and saving in these regions; and as the Holy Spirit moves upon men, it takes the criticism upon the faults of others out proportionally. "What shall this man do?" said the inquisitive disciple. "What is that to thee? follow thou me," said Jesus our Lord in response. This ought to be a sufficient reproof for all our attempts to build up self upon the faults of others, or devoting our time at correcting others more than getting just right ourselves. See how Jesus managed this matter. He aimed at holiness of life, purity of motive and heart, justice in dealings, love to God and man; not so much to bar out men of particular views. Even the Pharisees and Sadducees could come and be partakers of his grace and truth.

My nature is somewhat combative, but the grace of God has softened my heart, and made me to see the folly of bearing the name of Christ, and at the same time possessing the nature of Belial. There is a pattern in Christ for gentleness, meekness, love, peace, holy joy, patience. We must be like him. His grace is sufficient for us, or the plan is a failure; but that is impossible. Thousands and millions can testify to the efficiency of the grace of God. "Holiness to the Lord" is the true cry, in connection with the message, "Behold the Bridegroom cometh!"

Cutler, Me.

From Bro. H. F. Varney.

Dear Brn:—I feel it duty to acknowledge the receipt of $20.00 by the hand of Sr. Abby Wood, a gift of brethren and sisters at the Alton Bay meeting. Although it was wholly unexpected, I will not deny the fact that it was very much needed, and we feel correspondingly grateful. But while our circumstances compel us to realize its intrinsic worth, I think we prize it quite as much from its being such a token of sympathy and kind remembrance. May God bless the givers.

I have now been sick about eleven months with spinal and nervous disease, and am still confined to my bed, except about one hour per day; but I am gaining, though slowly. My symptoms are favorable, and indicate that I shall get up with better health than I have enjoyed for years before. Should this be the case, I feel as though this great trial has not been suffered in vain; for it has, by God's blessing, prepared me to labor more effectively than I ever did before, and my time, and every energy of my being, shall be cheerfully given to the sweet work of saving lost men. Beloved in the Lord, pray for me, that I may be raised in God's own time, and be an instrument of doing good. May you and I meet in the "golden city." Amen.

From Sr. M. Whitney.

As I have not had the privilege of attending worship much with those of like precious faith, I feel as though I would like to say a word for Jesus somewhere, and do not know of a better way than through the columns of the Crisis. I am still striving, with God's help, to wend my way towards that everlasting and peaceful kingdom, which I firmly believe will soon be set up under the whole heavens, where love, joy, and peace shall reign forever, and sin, sorrow, pain, or death can never come. Yes, I am glad that Jesus is coming to reign; glad that the temptations, trials, and struggles of this mortal life will soon be over; that they which have fallen by the cruel hand of death will come again from the enemy's land, to their own borders, blooming with the vigor of immortality and an endless life. Yes, brethren and sisters, I will work on, pray on, until Jesus comes, and the battle is won, and victory ours.

Stowe, Vt.

QUARTERLY MEETING REPORT.

The third quarterly meeting of the A. C. Q. C. of N. W. Kansas, for the second conference year, was held at the residence of Eld. James Page, Republic Co., Aug. 7th. Eld. S. R. Knox, of Glen Elder, Mitchell Co. (late of Northern Missouri), was admitted to the fellowship of the conference. The following preamble and resolution was introduced and passed:—

WHEREAS, our Bro. J. Page and family have suffered great affliction by the death of a loved son and brother, therefore,

Resolved, That we tender to Bro. Page and family our heartfelt sympathy in their deep sorrow, praying that our God will sustain them by his grace, and lead them by his Spirit, until we meet where there shall be no more death.

Various other business was transacted, after which conference adjourned.

J. S. THORP, Secretary.

THE ARMIES OF THE OLD WORLD.—While the necessity for peace is upon all lips, and the benefits of international amity are forcibly contrasted by the European press with all the bale, the plague, the evils, that follow in the train of war, yet, at the same time, the governments continue to arm, and with feverish haste are endeavoring to swell their armies to the most formidable war footing. All branches of military administration are equally stimulated; armaments are perfected as well as assembled to an enormous extent; ways of communication are extended and ramified; new methods of conscription or obligatory service are digested so as to draw forth the utmost available effective strength of the country, while over all these measures, that speak so clearly of war, there is thrown so slight a veil that no one should fail to see the ultimate result."—N. Y. Times.

Obituaries.

SMITH. In Addison, Vt., Aug. 10th, 1875, Bro. Justus Smith, aged seventy-eight years and eight months.

Thus in old age a good man has fallen in death, one that for many years has sustained an unblemished christian character. He embraced the faith of the soon coming of Jesus Christ, to set up his everlasting kingdom, in eighteen hundred and forty-three, and to the day of his death stood firm for the truth. A few days before he died, he told his friends he should not live long, and made arrangements for his funeral, selecting his text, preacher, and bearers. We were called to administer words of comfort to a large circle of mourning friends, from Heb. 10: 35–38. May God's sustaining grace rest upon the bereft family, and little church of whom he was an honored member.

WM. C. STEWART.

BABCOCK. In East Greenwich, R. I., Aug. 26th, 1875, Sr. Martha P., widow of Bro. Charles Babcock, of E. G. (deceased.) Funeral services by the writer, at her late residence, Aug. 28th.

Sr. B. was truly a mother in Israel. She, together with her husband, embraced the cheering hope of "a resurrection out from among the dead ones" to life and immortality at the appearing of Jesus, for which blessed consummation they unitedly and hopefully looked. Though their hope has been delayed long beyond their expected triumph, they did not outlive it; but waited, and finally died, in full assurance that they had but a short time to sleep till "deliverance" shall come. Sr. B. rests in hope. May it be the lot of the survivors to live as useful, and (if they must) die as hopeful, as did she.

A. DURFEE.

PHILLIPS. In Woodstock Valley, Ct., Aug. 4th, 1875, Sr. Lydia Phillips, aged eighty-four years and seven months.

Sr. P. was a kind neighbor, an affectionate mother, and a devoted christian. She has fallen like a shock of corn fully ripe. Her last days of life were extremely calm and peaceful. She departed this life in full assurance of that eternal life which God has promised to those that love him. May the Lord sanctify this deep affliction to the remaining members of this dear family, so that they individually may be enabled to meet this sainted mother in the kingdom of God. Funeral services by the writer, from 1 Cor. 15: 54, assisted by Eld. A. Morse.

P. S. BUTLER.

PRICE. In Camden, N. J., Aug. 15th, 1875, at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Mary A. Dunham, Mrs. Rosetta Price, aged eighty-eight years and five months.

Our mother departed from this life in peace, to await the resurrection of the righteous at the sounding of the last trump. She has been a firm believer for thirty years in the speedy personal coming of Christ. The funeral services were conducted by the Rev. Mr. Reed.

A. C. Times and Bible Banner, please copy.

HOOSE. In Port Byron, Aug. 12th, 1875, Sylvester Hoose, in the eighty-fourth year of his age.

ONE OF THE "THREE WITNESSES" TO THE BOOK OF MORMON has died at Clarkson, Utah, aged ninety-two. This was Martin Harris. When Joseph Smith was telling his tale to his former neighbors in New York State, about the buried golden plates, etc., he had fallen in with Sidney Rigdon, a printer, who while in a Pittsburg office had got hold of the manuscript of a very dreary book, written by the Rev. Solomon Spalding to prove that the American Indians were descended from the lost tribes of Israel. This book Joe Smith read off, concealed behind a curtain, to his amanuensis, Oliver Cowdery. He knew Martin Harris, who lived near them; Harris had been through half a dozen changes of creed, and had seen the devil, for that matter, and was the readiest of men to accept Smith's marvelous story. He and Cowdery and David Whitmer signed a statement declaring that "We declare with words of soberness that an angel of God came down from heaven, and he brought and laid before our eyes that we beheld and saw the plates and the engravings thereon." Smith was glad of this particular convert, because he had money, and bled him freely. Martin Harris furnished the money in Missouri to buy land; and finally got ignominiously turned out of the Jackson county Zion, (whither the saints are told they are yet to return.)—Springfield Republican.

THE census of New York, just completed, gives a population of 1,200,000.

FOREIGN NEWS.

GERMANY.

LONDON, Aug 30. A dispatch to the Times from Berlin says: "There is no doubt that all Northern Bosnia, along the rizer Save, is in full rebellion. The fugitives who have sought safety on the Austrian soil nnmber eight thousand, and are mostly the wives and children of the rebels, who deserted their villages and made for the hills.

In Herzegovina the Government formed by the insurgents is under Lynbobratich. The insurgent leaders have been assured by their Montenegrin friends that very shortly all Montenegro will come to their assistance.

In Servia the military preparations continue. At Belgrade the war office has ordered the arms and accoutrements of the militia, including the surgical apparatus, to be ready for immediate inspection. The Servian militia men have been directed to provide for themselves three days' food, should they be called out.

Provisions are being stored in the fortresses. Arrangements have been made to seize all the horses in the country.

The steady growth of the rebellion may be inferred from the following passage in the Montenegrin official organ, Glas Cernagorza: "The insurrection is fast assuming formidable dimensions. Symptoms of serious designs multiply. The men are yearning for war, and the oily-tongued diplomacy is impotent to prevent them. This time the insurrection is sure to result in emancipation. Not the rulers, but the nations will decide what is to be done. If the rebellion becomes general, Servia and Montenegro will not be idle spectators"

The Presse says that 21,000 Bosmian Christians have fled to the Austrian territory, while the district from the mountains to the rivers Unna and Sauna is abandoned by the Christians and devastated by the Turks. Rumors, deemed unreliable, however, are afloat to the effect that Prince Milan of Servia has abdicated. Nikitka of Montenegro has been appointed Generalissimo of the Bosnian insurgents.

TURKEY.

VIENNA, Aug, 30. Three battalions of the Turkish expedition, which landed at Kleck, have reached Mostar, the Capital of Herzegovina. They met with no opposition on the march.

Four thousand Servians have entered the Turkish territory and encamped at Novi, where they seized the telegraph. Servians have appeared in the Balkan Mountains and are endeavoring to incite the Bulgarians to rise against the Porte.

LONDON, Aug. 30. The Berlin correspondent of the Times telegraphs that Northern Bosnia is in full rebellion against the Porte. The insurgents of Herzegovina have established a national government. Montenegro and Servia are actively preparing for war. The official press of Montenegro does not conceal its symyathy with the movement.

RAGUSA. Sept. 3. It is stated that Turkey will place 170,000 men in the field immediately, and the army will have 228 cannon. This will place the military on a war footing.

DOMESTIC NEWS.

Montreal, Aug. 16. An "Internattonal Society of Europe" has been organized here, and holds weekly meetings. It is a branch of the International Society, some of whose members were communists of Paris. Several wealthy employers of labor in this city have received black-mailing letters. One manufacturer received a letter demanding $3,000 to be paid in one month, and if not, fire would visit his property and death come to his family.

Springfield, Mass., Sept. 5. The beautiful village of South De rfield, on the Connecticut river railroad, twenty-eight miles above this city, was visited by a most disastrous conflagration last night, which laid the centre of the village in ashes, including two hotels, one dwelling and other buildings.

New York, Sept. 6. A Rye Beach dispatch states that the new cable was completed Sunday morning, and congratulatory messages to and from London were transmitted.

Notices.

Tent Meeting in Unity.

The Maine Mission Tent will be pitched in Unity Village, Me., Sept. 14th, for meetings, and continue over Sunday, and as much longer as thought duty. We hope several good working brethren and sisters will attend with small tents, to labor, and accommodate those who come from abroad. Let all come in the spirit of the gospel of Christ.

I. C. WELLCOME.

A CONFERENCE.—The Lord willing, there will be a conference in North Hermon, Me., in the Advent Chapel, about five miles from Bangor, on the avenue road, commencing Friday, Oct. 1st, at two o'clock P. M., and continue over Sunday. Whoever will, let them come and worship the Lord. Hope he will send some of the preaching brethren to preach the word of life. In behalf of the brethren,

S. BRAGG.

CONFERENCE.—The Lord willing, there will be a conference in Wesley, Me., to commence Thursday, Sept 30th, at six o'clock P. M., and continue over the Sabbath. We extend the invitation to all who can come and meet with us, to advance the cause of truth and the salvation of sinners.

M. W. CORLISS.

Campmeeting.

A campmeeting will be held at Brodhead, Wis., beginning on Saturday, Sept. 12th. Let tents come from every direction. Committee of arrangements: H. T. Moore, H. W. Button, Israel Moore, Wm. Foster, D. H Warren. A goodly number of our ministers will be present, and among them we expect S. W. Thurber and Sr. S. J. Buswell. We look for an excellent meeting. Pitch tents on the day before the meeting, if convenient.

WM. SHELDON.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCE.—The first quarterly meeting of the North Central (Christian) Conference will be at Floyd, commencing Sept. 9th, to continue over the Sunday following. A general and earnest invitation is extended to all the members and friends to attend.

E. A. MARSH, Sec.

NOTICE.—The York Co. A. C. Conference will hold its next quarterly session at Hollis Centre, Me., commencing Thursday, Sept. 16th, at two o'clock P. M. Make it a point to be there at the commencement, and remain until the close.

C. H. SWEET, Secretary.

GROVE MEETING.—There will be a grove meeting in Pittstown, N. Y., in Mr. Case's grove, near the Douglass school-house, commencing evening, Sept. 9th, and hold over the following Sunday. Preaching at half-past ten, two o'clock, and seven o'clock of each day.

R. L. HARRISON.
A. A. WAIT.

TENT MEETING.—The Lord willing, there will be a tent meeting at Hereford, Hall Stream, P. Q., commencing Tuesday evening, Sept. 14th, and hold over Sunday. Brethren, pray that this meeting may redound to the glory of God.

JARED WHITMAN.

BARN MEETING.—There will be a barn meeting at Standish Neck at Bro. Leonard Shaw's, Sept. 12th and 13th, commencing Saturday morning. It is four miles from Lake Sebago Station.

HANNAH S. CLARK.

THE Evangel Tent will be pitched in West Wattenville, Sept. 8th. Meetings afternoons and evenings as long as thought best. Small tent to accommodate those who come.

E. F. BLAISDELL.
H. B. SEVEY.

CONFESSION.—Whereas, I have circulated scandalous reports concerning Eld. W. W. Sutherland, which I have injured his character and influence as a servant of God; and whereas Bro. Sutherland, having brought the matter before the Ministerial Committee of the N. H. A. C. Conference, who, after hearing the evidence for and against, do decide that I had not sufficient provocation for said reports; and after faithful christian labor on their part with me, do admit that I might be mistaken, and have wrongfully accused Bro. S., for which I am sorry, and ask forgiveness of all aggrieved or influenced by the same. And I hereby pledge myself, that I will labor to correct and counteract, as far as I can, those reports.

J. B. S. PILLSBURY.

FOUND on Springfield camp-ground,—a pocket-book, with a small sum of money; a parasol, and a trunk key.

H. MUNGER.

MY LABORS for the present and on until further notice, will be with the church in Whitefield, N. H. Brethren, please remember and address all communications designed for me to the above place.

T. E. LANG, JR.

BRO. G. F. HAINES having accepted the call given him by the church of Bonny Eagle, Me., hereafter all matters of exchange or supply must be made through him.

T. R. LIBBY, Clerk.

☞ Eld. M. R. Phetteplace has been engaged to supply the desk at the Advent church in Lowell for the present.

Notice.

The Quarterly Conference of the Eastern District of Massachusetts will be held at the Advent Chapel, Lawrence, Mass., to commence Thursday evening, Oct. 7th, and continue over Sunday, the 10th.

It is desired that all the preachers of Eastern Mass. and as many of the brethren and sisters of the churches as can, may attend. An invitation is also extended to all others who may esteem it a privilege or duty to meet with us in this christian convocation. Let all pray for the divine blessing.

J. COUCH.

Notice.

The Alton Bay Campmeeting Committee are notified to meet on the camp-ground Tuesday, Sept. 28th.

J. COUCH.

Hoosick Valley Conference.

The annual meeting of the Hoosick Valley Conference will be held at Hoosick, N. Y., commencing Wednesday, Oct. 6th, 1875, to continue over the following Sunday. Particulars hereafter.

H. K. FLAGG, } Tent
A. W. SIBLEY, } Committee.

New York State A. C. Conference and General Meeting.

The first quarterly meeting of this conference year will be held in the Mission Tent, with the church at Ontario, Wayne Co., N. Y., commencing Wednesday evening, Sept. 8th, and holding over the following Sabbath. In the absence of a campmeeting this year in this State, it is desirable to make this a general meeting of our brethren and sisters throughout the State. Ontario is a new field. It is on the Lake Ontario shore division of the Rome and Watertown R. R., eighteen miles east from Rochester. Friends coming from the West will take cars at Rochester, at 7.40 A. M. and 5.05 P. M., for Charlotte. Here take train for Ontario. Those coming from the East, via. N. Y. C. R. R., will change cars (at Phelps, on Auburn Branch, about 5 P. M.; on the direct road at Newark, about 5.30 P. M.) for Wallington, on the Sodus Point R. R. Change at Wallington for Ontario. Homes for all that will come.

Let every church appoint delegates, and take up the quarterly collection, and send the same to conference. Meeting but a few rods from the depot. Remember the time. We hope to see all our preaching brethren. Pray for this meeting.

M. R. MILES, President.
JAS. E. WELLS, Secretary.

Rhode Island Campmeeting.

The Lord permitting, the Rhode Island and East Conn. Campmeeting will be held at Coventry Centre, R. I., to commence Sept 8th, and continue to Sept. 17th. Good accommodations for strangers to lodge, and those who have no tents. Bro. Leslie will be there with the Mass. Mission Tent, and all who wish to petition off rooms can do so at a reasonable price.

It is expected the fare will be reduced one third on the Hartford and Providence road between Providence and Plainfield. Call for campmeeting tickets at all way stations between these two places. There will be two large tents on the ground, and good board and lodging. Board can be obtained at 80 cts. per day; dinner for 40 cents; breakfast and supper 30 cts. each. Horse-keeping on reasonable terms.

Able preachers will be there to preach the word. Let there be a large gathering from all the region round about. Pray much for the success of this meeting. It may be the last this side of the judgment. Let us labor for the salvation of sinners.

E. BELLOWS.

Lake View Campmeeting.

The Annual Campmeeting of the Advent Christian Conference of the Province of Quebec, Canada, will be held in Magog, (D. V.) at the outlet of the beautiful Lake Memphremagog, to commence Saturday, Sept. 11th, and continue over two Sundays. We deem it best, and have been advised, to attend to the business of our Annual Conference during this meeting, and hereby so appoint, unless reasonable objection is made before that time. Let all come who can.

The fare is reduced one half on the Boston, Concord, and Montreal R. R. for those attending this meeting. Purchase tickets of conductors on trains.

Arrangements have been made for half fare rates on the Passumpsic, Massawippi Valley, and South Eastern railways. Those coming on those roads will ask for campmeeting tickets. Probably fare will be reduced on the Grand Trunk, as application has been made.

Efficient help from abroad is expected. Brn. E. A. Stockman and other ministers, as the Lord may send.

C. P. DOW.

ORDINATION.—At the quarterly session of the Hoosick Valley Conference, held at North Adams, Mass., and during the religious service of Friday evening, July 9th, Arthur A. Waite, of Rutland, Vt., was set apart to the work of the gospel ministry, and duly ordained according to the divine instructions of the apostles.

H. K. FLAGG, }
A. W. SIBLEY, } Ministerial Committee.
R. L. HARRISON, }

Campmeeting.

The Advent Christian Campmeeting of Northern Kansas and Southern Nebraska will be held at Peach Creek, Washington Co., beginning October 7th, and continue over two Sundays. Come all that can. Make a sacrifice to come, and come filled with the Spirit to work for God. Bring plenty of bedding, and all bring tents that can. Bro. and Sr. Clark will be present (D. V.), with a large missionary tent.

Committee: C. D. Potter, A. S. Field, J. W. Elliott, and Theodore Bedgar.

Brn. G. G. Godfrey, James Hayworth, F. O. Cutler, J. S. Thorp, E. N. Bliss, James Page, R. F. Clark, Sr. Clark, and others, will be present to assist in preaching the word.

For additional information, address C. D. POTTER, Peach Creek, Washington Co., Kansas.

The Advent Christian Conference of Northern Kansas and Southern Nebraska will be held during the early part of the meeting. Per order of Committee.

CONFERENCE. The Lord willing, a general meeting of the members of the church of God will be held near Sulphur Springs, Williamson Co., Ills., commencing Friday, Sept. 17th, at 7.30 P. M., and continuing over the following Sunday. All who "love his appearing" are cordially invited to be present. Inquire for Bro. Henry M. Cocke, who lives two miles west of the post office. Come with your Bibles, and let us "search the Scriptures" in "the spirit of truth," for in them we are assured that we find full directions how to obtain "eternal life." Let us have a genuine love feast once more while waiting for the realization of "that blessed hope."

AMOS SANFORD.

Conference.

The next Annual Advent Christian Conference of Northern Pa. and Southern N. Y. will be held at Little Marsh, Tioga Co., Pa., commencing Thursday evening, Oct. 14th, and continuing over the following Sunday. We hope to see a general gathering of the friends of truth. Come in the name of the Lord. Ticket by railway from Corning (Tioga depot) to Middlebury. Teams will be at Middlebury to convey to Little Marsh.

E. C. COWLES, President.
A. H. BRIGGS, Secretary.

THE UNION TENT is now pitched in South Thomaston, Me., and will stay over Sunday, Sept. 12th.

H. B. SEVEY.

A NEW WORK.

SATANIC SPIRITUALISM.

I have just published a work on Spiritualism, with the above title, containing 96 pp., 16 mo. It aims to establish the satanic character of spirit manifestations, both ancient and modern, and shows also that they are through demons instead of the spirits of the dead. These demons are shown to be the evil angels of Scripture, and to have their location in our atmosphere. The "familiar spirits" in the early Bible times, and the demons in the days of Christ and the early church, are shown to have the same general character which we find in the spirits of Spiritualism; while the phenomena in the Salem witchcraft, and several other occasions in modern times, are shown to have all the usual features of the reports of spirit manifestations in our day.

After noticing various instances of spirit manifestations in the past, the principles and doctrines of modern Spiritualism are given in numerous quotations from the spirits and leading Spiritualists, showing that they are every way blasphemous and anti-christian; and finally the tendency of popular religious teachings toward the doctrines of Spiritualism is shown to be fearfully manifest in all directions. While from its thorough treatment of the subject the work will prove invaluable to inquirers after truth, it will be found of especial service to ministers and others as a book of reference from its numerous quotations of authorities on various points.

I shall have the pamphlet on sale at my stand at Alton Bay campmeeting, and will fill orders for them at 20 cts. single copy, six copies $1.00, by addressing me there during the meeting, or afterward at Burke, Vt. Those wishing larger quantities will be allowed a further reduction.

I. K. LOMBARD.

☞ For sale at this Office.

Appointments.

☞ APPOINTMENTS MUST BE RECEIVED AS EARLY AS TUESDAY MORNING (as our paper goes to press about noon) to insure insertion for the coming week.

☞ The following RESOLUTION was passed at the late meeting of the A. C. P. Society:—

"RESOLVED, That no appointments be published in the CRISIS henceforth for persons unknown to the Editorial Board (by which is understood the Editors, Editorial Committee, and Business Agent), unless satisfactory reference shall be given.

The Committee appointed by the Adv. Chris. Association, at its last Annual Meeting, to advise with the Editorial Board "in relation to the publication in the World's Crisis of the appointments of men unworthy of recognition as preachers," having attended to the duty assigned them, recommended, and the Editorial Board have adopted, and ordered to be published, the following resolution:—

"RESOLVED, That when the Editorial Board is properly notified by any of our Churches, or Ministers, or responsible persons by a written allegation that a certain minister, or ministers lack moral character, that they be instructed to notify such minister, or ministers, of the information received as a reason for withholding their appointments till after a proper trial and acquittal."

All communications in relation to this matter should be addressed to the Secretary of the Board—GEO. T. ADAMS, Boston, Mass.

Boston (Branch Chapel) 2029 Washington Street, (corner of Madison Street.)
Love Feast at 10½ a. m. Preaching at 3 and 7½ p. m. Prayer meeting Tuesday and Friday evenings.

BOSTON (Repository Hall) 712 Washington St., corner of Kneeland St.
Preaching at 10½ a. m. and 3 and 7 p. m. Sunday School at 1.30 p. m. Prayer meeting Wednesday evening.

EAST BOSTON (Central Hall, 152 Meridian Street.) Meetings every Sunday, at the usual hours, also prayer and conference meetings Wednesday and Friday evenings, at 7½ o'clock p. m.
C. Goodrich....Sunday, Oct 3d

CHARLESTOWN (HALL NO. 70 MAIN STREET.)
F. H. Burbank....Sundays, Sept. 12th and 19th
W. S. Campbell....Sunday, Sept. 26th

Chelsea, Mass.
Preaching Sundays, at 10.30 A. M. and 3 P. M.
Conference Meeting at 7 o'clock Sunday evenings. Tuesday and Friday evenings, at 7½ o'clock.
J. Couch....Sunday, Sept. 12th

SOMERVILLE, Mass. (Hawkins Hall in Union Square.) Meetings every Sunday, at the usual hours, also prayer and conference meetings Tuesday and Friday evenings, at 7½ o'clock p. m.
B Finney....Sunday, Sept. 19th
Geo. W. Sederquest....1st and 3d Sundays in each month till further notice.

HYDE PARK, Mass. (Pythian Hall.)—Meetings every Sabbath at the usual hours. T. M. PREBLE.

Castleton, Vt....Sundays, Sept. 12th and 19th
S. G. MATHEWSON.

Tremont, Mass....Sunday, Sept. 12th
Holden, Mass....Sunday, Sept. 19th
C. E. BARNES.

Providence, R. I. (Hammond St.)..Sunday, Sept. 12th
A. W. SIBLEY.

Sugar Hill, N. H....Sundays, Sept. 19th and 26th
S. S. BREWER.

Plymouth, Mass....Sunday, Sept. 12th
Tremont, Mass....Sunday, Sept. 19th
Natick, Mass....Sunday, Sept. 26th
J. S. WHITE.

Lynn, Mass....Tuesday evening, Sept. 14th
Coventry Centre Campmeeting....Sept. 15th—17th
Vineland, N. J....Sunday, Sept. 26th
A. A. PHELPS.

Lewiston....Thursday evening, Sept. 9th
Poland Corners....Friday evening, Sept. 10th
West Poland....Sabbath, Sept. 12th
Mayberry Hill....Monday evening, Sept. 13th
Rattlesnake school house, Me....Tuesday evening, Sept. 14th.
South Casco, Me....Wednesday evening, Sept. 15th
South Windham, Me....Thursday evening, Sept. 16th
Sabbath, Sept. 19th, at liberty.
Biddeford, Me....Friday evening, Sept. 18th
H. MUNGER.

Plainville, Ct. Campmeeting, through the week, and over Sunday, Sept 12th.
Providence, R. I. (Advent Chapel) Monday evening, Sept. 13th.
Fremont, N. H....Sunday, Sept. 19th
ENOCH MORRILL.

Fairhaven, Mass....Sunday, Oct 3d
M. BATCHELOR.

Meredith Neck, N. H....Sunday, Sept. 26th
J. G. SMITH.

Stowe, Mass. (Osgood's Hall)....Sunday, Sept. 26th
Z. BOODEY.

Woodstock Valley, Ct....Sunday, Sept. 12th
B. WOODSIDE.

New Dover (school-house)....Sunday, Sept. 12th
Northwood Narrows, N. H....Sunday, Oct. 3d
O. W. KIMBALL.

St. Johnsbury, Vt....Sunday, Sept. 19th
Pleasant Valley, N. H....Sunday, Sept. 26th
J. DAVIS.

Franklin, N. H....Sunday, Sept. 12th
South Sutton, N. H....Sunday, Sept. 19th
C. H. FLETCHER.

Pleasant Valley, N. H....Sunday, Oct. 10th
West Ossipee, N. H....Sunday, Oct. 17th
T. L. CHURCHILL.

South Windham, Me....Sunday, Sept. 12th
West Parsonsfield, Me....Sunday, Sept. 26th
C. H. SWEET.

Limington, Me. (Hanscom school-house) Sunday, Sept. 12th.
B. S. EMERY.

Alton Corner, N. H....Sunday, Sept. 12th
ISRAEL DAMMAN.

West Alton, N. H....Sunday, Sept. 12th
J. G. SMITH.
I. DAMMAN.

Allegheny City, Pa....Sunday, Sept. 12th
Salem, Mass....Sunday, Sept. 19th
E. OWEN.

Castleton, Vt....Sunday, Sept. 26th
RICHARD MOSHER.

Acton, Me. (Hilton's Ridge meeting-house) Sunday, Sept. 19th.
Kingston, N. H....Sunday, Sept. 26th
J. F. CHAMBERLIN.

Montgomery, Mass....Sabbath, Sept. 12th
Wilbraham, Mass....Sabbath, Sept. 19th
Brimfield, Mass....Sabbath, Sept. 26th
Wilbraham, Mass....Sabbath, Oct. 3d
G. L. TEEPLE.

Wentworth, N. H. (at Bro. Richardson's) evening, Sept. 9th.
Warren Summit, N. H....evening, Sept. 10th
North Haverhill, N. H....Sunday, Sept. 12th
Swiftwater, N. H....evening, Sept. 13th
North Benton, N. H. (new school-house near Bro. Coburn's) evening, Sept. 14th.
Landaff, N. H. (Bungay school-house) eve., Sept. 15th
East Landaff, N. H....evening, Sept. 18th and over Sunday.
Dorchester, N. H. (Town House)..Sunday, Sept. 26th
Hebron, N. H. (McClure school-house) Sun., Oct. 3d
East Holderness, N. H. (Stephen's meeting-house) Sunday, Oct. 10th.
Moultonborough, N. H. (at Bro. Hodgern's school-house) evening, Oct. 16th.
Sandwich, N. H. (Vitum school-house) Sun., Oct. 17th
JOHN H. EVANS.

Bradford, N. H. (Bush meeting-house) Sun., Sept. 12th
Danbury, N. H. (as Bro. John Knowlton may appoint) Sunday, Sept. 19th.
If desired, at Bro. D. Brayley's, Saturday afternoon, at five o'clock.
A. S. WILLIAMS.

Franklin, N. H. (Morrison school-house) Sabbath, Sept. 19th.
Andover, N. H. (Kearsarge school-house) Sabbath, Sept. 26th
Northfield, N. H. (Oak Hill school-house) Sab, Oct. 3d
SIMEON ROBY.

Pittsburg, N. H. (Stream school-house) Sun., Sept. 12th
On account of the campmeeting at Magog, I withdraw my appointment at Ways Mills, Sept, 19th.
Hall Stream, P. Q. (Red school-house) Sun., Sept. 26th
U. G. LADD.

Cabot, Vt....Sunday, Sept. 19th
ALBERT GORDON.

Hoosick Falls, N. Y....Sunday, Sept. 12th
Protracted meetings at Hebron, N. Y., commencing Sept. 13th, and holding every evening, and over Sunday, Sept. 19th.
Sandy Hill, N. Y....Sunday, Sept. 26th
Address all letters to Rutland, Vt.
ARTHUR A. WAITE.

Freedom, N. H. (Advent Chapel) Sunday, Sept 26th
N. GLIDDEN.

Keene, N. H....Sunday, Sept. 12th
RICHARD MOSHER.

Lisbon, N. H., Saturday evening, Sept. 18th, and over Sunday, the 19th, evenings through the week, and over Sunday, Sept. 26th.
DANIEL D. PAGE.
GEO. E. BROWN.

East Landaff, N. H....Sunday, Sept. 12th
GEO. E. BROWN.

Loudon Village, N. H. (as Bro. Parker may arrange) Sunday, Sept. 26th.
N. B. MCMURPHY.

Merideth Centre, N. H....Sunday, Sept. 12th
N. GLIDDEN.
N. B. MCMURPHY.

South Rochester, N. H. (Chapel)..Sunday, Sept. 12th
Hollis Centre Conference....Sunday, Sept. 19th
Lee, N. H. (as brethren may arrange)...Sun., Oct. 3d
West Deerfield....Sunday, Oct. 10th
C. R. PARSONS.

Northfield, N. H. (Oak Hill school-house) Sunday, Sept. 19th.
A. T. HODGDON.

Farmington Village, N. H....Sunday, Sept. 12th
Northwood Narrows, N. H....Sunday, Sept. 19th
Dover, N. H....Sunday, Sept. 26th
WM. BODGE.

St. Johnsbury, Vt....Sunday, Sept. 12th
Danville, P. Q....Sunday, Sept. 19th
L. C. & M. MCKINSTRY.

West Alton, N. H. (Chapel)....Sunday, Sept. 12th
Alton, N. H....Sunday, Sept. 19th
Exeter, N. H....Sundays, Sept. 26th and Oct. 3d
WM. M. HARMON.

Willand's Pond, N. H....Sunday, Sept. 12th
Durham Village....Sunday, Sept. 19th
H. S. PINKHAM.

Whitakerville, Vt....Sunday, Sept. 12th
J. A. PACKARD.

West Stafford, Ct....Sunday, Sept. 12th
G. L. WHITE.

Salem, Mass....2d and 4th Sundays in each month until further notice.
GEO. W. SEDERQUEST.

Granby, Mass. (Batchelder Street) the second Sunday in each month.
North Rutland, Mass..the last Sunday in each month
GEO. A. STREETER.

I will preach at Piermont, N. H. (Clay meeting-house) the second and fourth Sundays of each month until further notice.
A. GORDON.

Franklin, N. H....2d and 4th Sunday in each month
G. H. WALLACE.

Palmer, Mass., the 1st and 3d Sundays in each month
Granby, Mass....fourth Sunday in each month
H. H. TUCKER.

Hinesburg, Vt., Sundays for one year excepting the last Sunday in each month.
Bristol, Vt., the last Sunday in each month for one year.
WM. C. STEWART.

WORCESTER, MASS.
Miles Grant....Sunday, Sept. 12th
A. A. Phelps....Sunday, Sept. 19th

SPRINGFIELD, MASS. (Franklin Hall.)
A. W. Sibley....Sunday, Sept. 19th

NEW BEDFORD, MASS.
M. Batchelor....Sunday, Sept. 12th

CLINTON, MASS.
H. H. Tucker....Sunday, Oct. 31st

NORTH RUTLAND, MASS.
H. H. Tucker....second Sunday in each month

HAVERHILL, MASS. (New Chapel on Walnut St.)
W. H. Mitchell....2d Sunday in each month
C. S. Shattuck....3d Sunday in each month
A Ross....Sunday, Sept. 26th

NATICK, MASS.
A. Ross....Sunday, Sept. 12th
Z Boodey....Sunday, Sept. 19th
L. Boutell....Sunday, Oct. 10th

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.
A. Simpson....Sunday, Sept. 26th
B. S. Emery....Sunday, Oct. 10th
Sr. Annie Smith....Sunday, Oct. 3d
Wm. M. Harmon....Sunday, Oct. 17th
E. A. Stockman....Sunday, Oct. 24th
Jane Benson....Sunday, Oct. 31st

SEABROOK, N. H.
J. T. Chamberlin....Sunday, Sept. 12th
Joseph Pinkham....Sunday, Sept. 19th
C. Goodrich....Sunday, Sept. 26th
J. Bickford....Sunday, Oct. 3d
T. W. Piper....Sunday, Oct. 10th

CONCORD, N. H.
I. B. Potter....Sundays, Sept. 12th and 19th
H. Munger....Sunday, Sept. 26th
S. S. Brewer....Sundays, Oct. 17th and 24th

EAST CONCORD, N. H. (Ward House).—Meetings three times Sunday, also Tuesday and Thursday evenings.
C. H. Fletcher....first Sunday in each month
D. W. Davis....third Sunday in each month

GREAT FALLS, N. H. (Franklin Hall.)
C. S. Shattuck....Sunday, Sept. 12th
J. G. Smith....Sunday, Sept. 19th
L. E. Saulpaugh....Sunday, Sept. 26th
C. S. Shattuck....Sunday, Oct. 3d
C. Goodrich....Sunday, Oct. 10th
J. W. White....Sunday, Oct. 17th
L. E. Saulpaugh....Sunday, Oct. 24th
J. Bickford....Sunday, Oct. 31st

HAMPTON, N. H.
T. L. Churchill....Sunday, Sept. 12th
B. Finney....Sunday, Sept. 26th

NEW DURHAM, N. H.
A. Ross....Sunday, Sept. 19th
T. W. Piper....Sunday, Oct. 3d

MANCHESTER, N. H. (corner of Elm and Lowell Sts.)
Geo. H. Wallace....Sundays, Sept. 12th and 19th
Wm. N. Pile....Sunday, Sept. 26th

SOUTH ELLIOT, ME.
N. M. Davis....Sunday, Sept. 12th
J. T. Libbey....Sunday, Sept. 19th
J. Pinkham....Sunday, Sept. 26th

SOUTH BERWICK, ME. (Great Works.)
Jos. W. White....Sunday, Sept. 12th
N. M. Davis....Sunday, Sept. 19th
Geo. W. Brown....Sunday, Sept. 26th
T. L. Churchill....Sunday, Oct. 3d

BIDDEFORD, ME.
Geo. W. Brown....Sunday, Sept. 12th
Wm. H. Mitchell....Sunday, Sept. 19th
J. Albert Libby....Sunday, Sept. 26th

PORTLAND, ME. (Union Hall.)
A. A. Phelps, of N. J....Sunday, Sept. 12th
E. A. Stockman Sundays, Sept. 19th, 26th, and Oct. 3d
E. S. Potter....Sunday, Oct. 31st
E. A. Stockman....Sunday, Dec. 5th

BRIDGEPORT, CONN.
Mrs. E. L. Crumb....Sunday, Sept. 12th
Mrs. E. A. Warren....Sunday, Sept. 19th and Sundays, Oct. 3d and 17th.
Mrs. E. L. Crumb....Sundays, Oct. 24th, Nov. 7th, Dec. 5th, and Jan. 1st.
Mrs. E. A. Warren....Sunday, Oct. 31st

PUTNAM, CONN.
P. S. Butler....Sunday, Sept. 12th
H. Pratt....Sunday, Sept. 19th
B. Woodside....Sunday, Sept. 26th

NEW HAVEN, CONN.
Wm. N. Pile....Sunday, Sept. 12th
A. Ross....Sunday, Sept. 19th
A. W. Sibley....Sunday, Sept. 26th

MILLDALE (Southington, Ct.)
B. Hitchcock....Sunday, Sept. 19th
G. L. White....Sunday, Oct. 3d

WAREHOUSE POINT, CT.
Mrs. E. L. Crumb....Sunday, Sept 19th
Mrs. Jane Benson....Sunday, Oct. 3d

SOUTH WEST HOOSICK, N. Y.
Arthur A. Waite....once in four weeks
Flora Blanchard....once in four weeks

WORCESTER, MASS.
Union meetings, for the promotion of christian holiness, are changed from 379 Maine street to the Director's room of the Y. M. C. Association. Meeting held every Thursday evening, at 7½ o'clock.
G. E. MERRILL, Com.

THE BIBLE BANNER.

This is a large, illustrated, monthly paper, conducted by A. A. PHELPS, A. M., assisted by an able corps of Special Contributors. It contains various departments—Doctrinal, Prophetical, Practical, Bible Class, Miscellany, and Items of Interest. It is devoted to a critical exposition of Bible Truth, and an earnest advocacy of Bible Salvation. Only One Dollar a year, and postage free. Liberal terms to Agents. Address THE BIBLE BANNER, Vineland, N. J.

THE TOKEN OF TRUTH

is a four-page monthly paper, unsectarian in its character, devoted entirely to the spread of christian holiness, purity of heart, the higher experiences of the christian life, and an entire consecration and devotedness to God.

In every issue it will present valuable articles on the doctrine, the experience, and the practice of Christian Holiness, and will be the bearer of many blessed, inspiring, encouraging, and comforting messages to all God's children who are "hungering and thirsting after righteousness," and who are earnestly seeking "through sanctification of the Spirit and belief of the truth," to be made "perfect in Jesus Christ."

TERMS: Single copy, postpaid, 25 cts. per annum.
RICE & MORRIS, Publishers,
168 W. Madison Street, Chicago.

The World's Crisis and Token of Truth will be sent, postpaid, one year to any one remitting $2.40 to the Crisis Office, 160 Hanover Street, Boston.

UNION IN CHRIST.

AN ILLUSTRATED MONTHLY.

Thoroughly Christian, entirely unsectarian; devoted to the promotion of Christian union, holiness of heart and activity in the Master's work.

As one of the leading features of the paper it will advocate Union revival meetings in cities, villages, and rural districts, everywhere, as a means of uniting christians, promoting holiness, and saving souls. Able writers in the various denominations will contribute to its columns.

TERMS: Post-paid, single copy, 60 cts. a year; 25 cts. to ministers of the Gospel, and any person who will solicit subscriptions. Ten copies one year for $4; thirty copies for $10; $1.00 a year, with Chromo or Bible Reader's Map.

This paper one year free, with any paper or book on our Clubbing List at publisher's prices, explained in sample copy sent free. Agents wanted everywhere. Address H. A. KING, Box 2289, 37 Park Row, New York.

The Crisis and Union in Christ a year, to old or new subscribers, remitting $2.50 to World's Crisis, 160 Hanover Street, Boston, Mass.

Business.

Notes to Correspondents.

☞ We cannot discontinue or send your orders, unless you give us the POST OFFICE and STATE in PLAIN LETTERS.

☞ DR. D. MATHEWSON'S address is San Francisco, California.

☞ WM. C. STEWART'S address hereafter will be Hinesburg, Vt.

☞ J. C and S. E. SMITH'S address is Newton Upper Falls, Mass.

☞ ELD. J. PORTER'S address is Danville, P. Q.

☞ H. G. McCULLOCK'S address is DeKalb, DeKalb Co., Ill.

☞ JOHN PARSON'S address is 14 High Rock Street, Lynn, Mass.

☞ H. L. STEVENS, Jr.'s address is Coles Ferry, Charlotte Co., Virginia.

☞ E. BUNDAGE'S address is Black Walnut, Halifax Co., Va.

LIST OF PERSONS SENDING MONEY FOR OTHERS.—J E Wells, H B Sevey, Dr M D Smith, P S Butler, C C Stanbro, M R Miles, H V Davis, S Roby, M W Corliss, L Wheelden, W S Moulton.

CASH RECEIVED FOR BOOKS AND TRACTS.—D Nettleton 35c, J W Lovesee 50c, G E Merrill 15c, J H Kellogg 10c, C Powley $1 20, Mrs E V Bemont 6c, Mrs James Taft $1.00, B Newton 20c, L L Ames 25c, C F Hudson 20c, J M Rannells 8c, D Northup 50c, W T Gibson $2.00, Mrs H Ostrander 35c, W R Peterson $2.00, Mrs S F Hurlbut 23c, S D Remick $2 00, J H Lewis $1.50, Lizzie M Pike 35c, W Nichols 3c, C C Carp 10c, J P Swan $3 00, A Todd 20c, P G Bowman $2 25, E Buckland 10c, C B Field 10c, B J Dowling $1.50, Mrs M Becker $2 50.

BOOKS AND TRACTS SENT.—By Mail—Mrs E B Patch, D S Young, N Jeffrey, Wm Shelton, W H Mitchell, L A Baker, S F Hurlbut, C C Carp, P W Hough, H H Hewitt, T D Babcock, D orthup, J M Rannells, W Nichols, L L Ames, B Newton, D K Barrett Jr., Mrs E V Bennett, J B Ross, L M Pike, J H Lewis, S D Remick, J Taft, J W Lovesee, W T Gibson, W C Stewart, W R Peterson, Mrs H Ostrander, F E Bigelow, P J Pilcher, B C Stevens, C P Churchill, D Nettleton, J Piggott.

By Express—H S Pinkham.

ARTICLES RECEIVED.—J Y Briggs, J C Stoddard, I I Leslie, J T Ongley, S Hill, A Parmelee, H Munger, M J Whitney, J M Stewart, J N Berry, N D Babcock, J P Marquand.

Catalogue

OF BOOKS AND TRACTS

FOR SALE AT THE OFFICE OF

"THE ADV. CHRIS. PUB. SOCIETY,"

160 HANOVER STREET.

BIBLE DICTIONARY. Five colored maps, two hundred and fifty Engravings. Sheep, $2 25; cloth, $1.50; postage, 25 cts.

BEREAN'S CASKET AND REPOSITORY. By I. C. Wellcome. Cloth, $2 00; leather, $2.50.

CRUDEN'S CONCORDANCE. Sheep, $2.00; cloth, $1.50; postage, 25 cts.

CHRISTIAN BAPTISM. By I. C. Wellcome. 25 cts.

ENGLISH REFERENCE BIBLES. Minion: calf, morocco, circuit bindings, from $2.50 to $4 25. Nonpareil: calf, morocco, circuit bindings, from $2.00 to $3.50. Pearl: calf, morocco, circuit bindings, from $1.50 to $3 00. Diamond: calf, morocco, circuit bindings, from $1.25 to $2.00.

FABLES OF INFIDELITY and Facts of Faith. By Robert Patterson. Cloth, $1.00.

FUTURITY; or, The Hereafter of all Men. By Wm. Sheldon. 22 cts.

GOOD TIDINGS. Cloth, 50 cts. Postage, 16 cts. By express, $5.00 per dozen.

GREEK AND ENGLISH CONCORDANCE. By Hudson and Hastings. Cloth, $2.50; leather, $3.50; postage, 12 cts.

HYMNS OF JUBILEE HARP. Cloth, sprinkled edges, $7.00 per dozen; $55.00 per hundred; single, 75 cts. Leather, gilt edge, $9.50 per dozen; $75.00 per hundred; single, $1.00; postage 15 cts. single copy.

IMMORTALITY. By J. H. Whitmore. Cloth, $1.00.

IS IT HERESY? By J. Couch. 15 cts. per doz.

JUBILEE HARP, Hymn, and Tune Book. Plain cloth, leather back, colored edge, $9.00 per doz.; single, $1.00. Extra cloth, leather back, gilt edge, $10.50 per dozen; single $1.15. Extra cloth, leather back, gilt edge and covers, $12 per doz.; single, $1.25. Postage 12 cts. single copy.

HISTORY OF THE ADVENT MESSAGE. By I. C. Wellcome. Price $3.50.

JUDGMENT IMPENDING. By L. T. Cunningham. 8 cts.; 75 cts. per doz.; $5.00 per hundred.

MATTHEW 24 and 25. An Exposition. By I. C. Wellcome. 27 cts.

PILGRIM PSALMS. Sunday-school Hymn and Tune Book. Paper covers, $3.00 per dozen; stiff covers, $3.60.

PREPARE TO MEET THY GOD. Behold, the Judge standeth before the door. 10 cts. per dozen; 40 cts. per hundred.

REASONS FOR MY HOPE; or, Tokens of Redemption. By H. L. Hastings. 25 cts.

SCRIPTURAL QUESTION-BOOK. Single, 17 cts.; per dozen, by express, $1.25; by mail, $1.60.

SYMBOLIZATION of the World's Eventful Crisis. By O. R. Fassett. 4 cts; 20 cts. per dozen.

SPIRITUALISM UNVEILED. By M. Grant. 15 cts; 8 copies, $1.00; $10.00 per hundred.

THE End of the King of the North and the Impending time of Trouble. By L. T. Cunningham. 48 pages; 8 cts; 75 cts. per dozen; $5.00 per hundred.

THE Bible Text-Book. For Ministers, Teachers, and Students. 50 cts.

THE Plan of Redemption. By Wellcome & Goud. $1.25.

The Nature of Man. By M. Grant and others. 25 cts; $2 25 per dozen.

The Emphatic Diaglott. Containing the original Greek Text of the New Testament, according to the recension of Griesbach; with an interlinear word-for-word translation. Cloth, $4.10; leather back, $5.16.

The First-day Sabbath. By T. M. Preble. $1 50.

The Destiny of Man. By W. Erwin, $1.35; gilt, $1 65.

Trumpet for the Watchman. By Geo. Thomson. 20 cts. $1.75 per dozen; $11.00 per one hundred.

Who are Sadducees? By Geo. Thomson. 10 cts.

What is Man? By M. Grant. 6 cts.

Young Pilgrim Stories. Illustrated. By "Uncle Pilgrim." 2 vols., 50 cts. each.

Young Pilgrim Stories. Tract form. 30 cts. per dozen; $2.00 per hundred.

Yahveh-Christ. The Coming One. By L. T. Cunningham. 8 cts. 75 cts.

Is Christ's Second Coming in the Past? By Wm. Sheldon. 15 cts. per dozen; 60 cts. per hundred.

A NEW TRACT.

ATHEISM CONFOUNDED,

AND

THE FACT OF GOD'S EXISTENCE ESTABLISHED.

BY A. W. SIBLEY.

A valuable little Tract of eight pages—just the thing to circulate in these times of unbelief and skepticism. Price by mail, 15 cents per dozen.

AGENT.

☞ PRICE REDUCED.

A NEW EDITION JUST PUBLISHED.

THE DURATION AND NATURE OF FUTURE PUNISHMENT.

By Henry Constable, A. M., Prebendary of Cork.

Reprinted from the second London edition, with an Introduction by Prof. C. L. Ives, of Yale College. 8vo., 68 pp.

All things considered, we regard this the best work on the subject treated of now before the public, and the one to distribute, especially among our friends and neighbors who do not hold with us on the subject.

We have procured a large lot of the publisher, and put them at the following low prices:—One copy, 25 cts.; one dozen for $2.50; sent by mail, postpaid. $17 per hundred, by express. Please order freely.

A'GT.

THE TRUE SABBATH.

WHICH DAY SHALL WE KEEP?

AN EXAMINATION OF

MRS. ELLEN G. WHITE'S VISIONS.

BY MILES GRANT.

ISSUED

BY THE ADV. CHRIS. PUB. SOCIETY,

A NEW WORK

On the Sabbath of the Old Covenant. An investigation of Mrs. E. G. White's Visions, showing that they are not from God.

All who have accepted Mrs. White's visions as coming from heaven, or who have been led to rest on Saturday instead of the Lord's day, should read this work. Let those who live among our Seventh-day brethren send and get a number of the books to give away. If the reader has friends at a distance who have received Mrs. W.'s Visions as true, have a copy of this work sent to them.

It contains 106 pages, and we will send it at the following prices: Single copy, 20 cts.; per doz., $1.75 by mail; per hundred, $10.00 by express.

AGENT.

A PRAYER.

B. OWEN.

Oh! for that sanctifying grace,
Which beams from every feature;
That represents the Savior's face
To every living creature.

That needs no advertising done,
Nor wordy proclamation;
But shines forth clearly like the sun,
Yet free from ostentation.

That purifies the seat of life,
Controls the inner action;
Subdues the mental war, and strife
Engendered by detraction.

That gives a restful, trustful frame,
Though compassed by commotion;
Is undisturbed from praise or blame,
Absorbed in its devotion.

That waits a gracious Father's time
For honored recognition;
Constructs a ladder faith can climb,
No matter the condition.

That prosecutes the cause of right,
Because the wrong is hated;
That finds in serving God delight,
Nor mourns a joy abated.

That rests content God's time to wait,
When Christ shall come from heaven;
Nor suffer zeal to once abate,
Until the kingdom's given.

Oh! for that satisfying grace,
Relieving from complaining,
Adapting us to every place,
From every wrong restraining.

Pittsburg, Pa.

ORDER.

C. MENDENHALL.

"Let all things be done decently and in order." PAUL

(Concluded.)

II. Church order was practiced by the apostles and primitive christians. This appears frequently; especially is it clearly evident from reading Acts, first chapter, from the thirteenth verse to the end. Here we find the apostles assembled. A list of names, about one hundred and twenty. They regularly appoint one to fill the place of Judas, and "he was numbered with the eleven apostles," showing system and orderly procedure. In Acts 6th, the poor are cared for by appointing seven men over this business. Acts 15th, "the apostles and elders came together for to consider of this matter." That is, to deliberate and counsel in regard to the Judaizing teachings of certain men who said, "Except ye be circumcised after the manner of Moses, ye cannot be saved." All which proves that the apostles and saints acknowledged order among themselves.

Paul had authority. Timothy was an overseer, and many others were owned as officers. Paul gives his judgment thus, in regard to certain iniquities in the Corinthian church, "For I verily, as absent in body, but present in spirit, have judged already as though I were present, concerning him that hath so done this deed," 1 Cor., 5: 3. (Also see 4th and 8th verses.) Thus showing his authority.

Those who object to order are generally unruly, headstrong, ambitious, or contentious. Order prevents strife. Of the latter Solomon says, "The beginning of strife is as when one letteth out water; therefore leave off contention, before it be meddled with."

III. The Scriptures inculcate church order. Besides those passages already quoted, we subjoin the following: "Submitting yourselves one to another in the fear of God." Eph. 5: 21. "Let nothing be done through strife or vain glory, but in lowliness of heart let each esteem others better than themselves." Phil. 2: 3. "Receive him, therefore, in the Lord with all gladness; and hold such in reputation." Phil. 2: 29. Paul says, "For though I should boast somewhat more of our authority." 2 Cor. 10: 8. Passages of like tenor might be multiplied if necessary, showing beyond doubt that having a tribunal to call to account, a law to govern, and commands to enforce, is Biblical. In 2 Thess., 6th chap. and 14th verse, we read, "And if any man obey not our word by this epistle, note that man, and have no company with him, that he may be ashamed." How positive these words, yet as there was in the days of Paul, so now, we have those who "despise dominion," and start the "bugbear" cry of oppression and harshness, if taken to task for any misdemeanor.

Finally, we must all admit that it takes no labored argument to prove that we have those in our ranks who walk disorderly; we have questions to decide, business to perform, poor to care for, distempers to be cured, but have we as good a system of judicature as we might have? Certainly the necessity for order is as pressing now as at any time in the history of the church. Error must be reproved, care exercised over struggling churches, ministers supported, and guilty ones brought to justice. As a people there is room for a marked improvement in this direction. Let us then follow the example set, being orderly in morals, in actions, in business, and in church relations. We have glorious truths, and solemn duties which rest with us. Should we not have the best facilities, and the most potent means at our command? We must work with systematic earnestness, using the best methods possible, trusting in God to bless our efforts, then shall we receive the reward of the faithful servant, knowing that "The steps of a good man are ordered by the Lord; and he delighteth in his way."

THE SAFE PLACE.

J. W. THOMAS.

"I knew a man in Christ."—2 COR. 12: 2.

IN CHRIST. What does it mean? We do not say of a pupil that he is in his teacher; nor of a patient that he is in his physician; nor of a servant that he is in his master; but we do frequently speak of a christian being in Christ, and though the phrase is peculiar, yet it is scriptural. Paul says, "I knew a man in Christ." This "man" was undoubtedly himself. He knew himself to be a christian; that is, to be united to Christ, or as he expresses it, to be "in Christ." The expression means a state of union with Christ. The relation existing between Christ and a true disciple, is more real and intimate than that existing between a teacher and his scholar, or a physician and his patient.

This union may be considered as professional, or as real and vital. Thus our Savior says, "Every branch in me that beareth not fruit, he taketh away. If a man abide not in me, he is cast forth as a branch, and is withered; and men gather them, and cast them into the fire, and they are burned." We see, therefore, that a person may be in him by profession, when he is not in him in reality; in him by a form of godliness, while he denies the power thereof in him by an external alliance with his church, and by the use of his ordinances; while he is a stranger to the renewing of the Holy Ghost, and the grace of God in truth. There are plenty of such pretenders at the present day.

But there is another union with Christ; and this union is not only real and vital, but the most intimate, and entire, and indissoluble; independent of the changes of time; unaffected by the diseases of the body; uninjured by death, untouched by the destructions of the last day. This is the union of faith and love. "By faith ye are saved." "Thou standest by faith." He that by faith abides in Christ, need fear no evil. How important it is to be in Christ. Is it desirable to be delivered from bondage? "If the Son therefore shall make you free, ye shall be free indeed." Is justification desirable? Here you have it. "There is therefore now no condemnation to them which are in Christ Jesus, who walk not after the flesh, but after the Spirit."

Do you thirst after fellowship with God? "In whom we have boldness, and access with confidence, by the faith of him." In him we have all our supplies and endowments. We "are complete in him." He is our "wisdom, and righteousness, and sanctification, and redemption." All things are yours. "If children, then heirs; heirs of God, and joint heirs with Christ." Out of Christ there is nothing but death; in him there is life and eternal blessedness.

What is the evidence of being in Christ? Those who are united to Christ are characterized by the change which they have experienced. Their views, sentiments, dispositions, tastes, dependence, motives, and pursuits are changed. They are different from what they were before. Hence, says the apostle, "If any man be in Christ, he is a new creature; old things are passed away; behold, all things are become new."

They are also distinguished by the principle which governs them. "They walk not after the flesh, but after the Spirit." In all their dealings and pursuits they endeavor to walk according to the divine requirements. "They that are in the flesh cannot please God. But ye are not in the flesh, but in the Spirit, if so be that the Spirit of God dwell in you. Now if any man have not the Spirit of Christ, he is none of his." They who are in Christ bring forth the fruits of the Spirit, which are "love, joy, peace, long-suffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance." It is their delight to do or suffer the will of their Master.

Again, those who are in Christ resemble him. "He that saith he abideth in him, ought himself also so to walk even as he walked." There must be likeness in order to fellowship. We cannot be Christ-like unless we are in Christ. "He that sanctifieth, and they who are sanctified, are all of one." He is a partaker of their nature and they are the partakers of his. They have the mind that was in him, a sameness of sentiment and feeling; a oneness of heart. "He that is joined to the Lord is one Spirit." Are you in Christ? "And now, little children, abide in him; that when he shall appear, we may have confidence, and not be ashamed before him at his coming."

A NEW SEAL.

M. A. SEYMOUR.

The word seal occurs about forty times in the Scriptures, sometimes meaning to shut, fasten, or close up, as in Rev. 10: 9, and in the 6th chapter, where the word is used in the same sense. But it is sometimes spoken of as a distinguishing mark in the forehead. See Rev. 7: 2–4: "And I saw another angel ascending from the east, having the seal of the living God: and he cried with a loud voice to the four angels, to whom it was given to hurt the earth and the sea, saying, Hurt not the earth, neither the sea, nor the trees, till we have sealed the servants of our God in their foreheads. And I heard the number of them which were sealed: and there were sealed a hundred and forty and four thousand of all the tribes of the children of Israel."

Mark this one fact, that is this: all these so sealed are members of the twelve tribes, the literal descendants of Abraham, and counted to the sons of Jacob, who went down into Egypt; and by no process of reasoning can they include the Gentiles, either in or out of Christ. But there is a sealing under the gospel as well as under the law, as Paul says in 2 Cor. 1: 20–22: "For all the promises of God in him are yea, and in him Amen, unto the glory of God by us. Now he which stablisheth us with you in Christ, and hath anointed us, is God; who hath also sealed us, and given the earnest of the Spirit in our hearts."

Here is a seal of God, and it seems to be in the heart instead of the forehead. Let us read Paul to the Ephesians. "Let no corrupt communication proceed out of your mouth, but that which is good to the use of edifying, that it may minister grace unto the hearers. And grieve not the Holy Spirit of God, whereby ye are sealed unto the day of redemption."

Here again the sealing is done by the Holy Spirit, unto the day of redemption. Again, hear him in Eph. 1: 13–14: "In whom ye also trusted, after that ye heard the word of truth, the gospel of your salvation; in whom also, after that ye believed, ye were sealed with that Holy Spirit of promise. Which is the earnest of our inheritance until the redemption of the purchased possession, unto the praise of his glory."

From these texts (and they are the only ones that define the seal), we learn that sealing is the work of the Spirit on the hearts of those who have believed the gospel, instead of the angel's sealing in the forehead, as he does the 144,000 Jews, as already quoted from Rev. 7th. And in this same chapter, John saw another multitude of redeemed ones, separate or distinct from the 144,000 Israelites. Hear him, Rev. 7: 9–17: "After this I beheld, and lo a great multitude, which no man could number, of all nations, and kindreds, and people, and tongues, stood before the throne, and before the Lamb, clothed with white robes, and palms in their hands; and cried with a loud voice, saying, Salvation to our God which sitteth upon the throne, and unto the Lamb. And one of the elders answered, saying unto me, What are these arrayed in white robes? and whence came they? And I said unto him, Sir, thou knowest. And he said unto me, These are they who have come up out of great tribulation, and have washed their robes and made them white in the blood of the Lamb; therefore are they before the throne of God and serve him day and night in his temple; and he that sitteth on the throne shall dwell among them. They shall hunger no more, neither thirst any more; neither shall the sun light on them, nor any heat. For the Lamb which is in the midst of the throne shall feed them, and shall lead them unto living fountains of waters; and God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes."

From these proof texts it follows that the sealing of salvation's heirs under the law was in the forehead, by an angel, and in the gospel age the work is in the heart, by the Holy Ghost; then surely, neither the keeping of a Sabbath, nor baptism, even though it be thrice repeated, face downward, can be the seal either of the past, or gospel age.

But immersion, to be such in truth, must commence with the feet; and, if it be repeated three times to make it valid, then the candidate must go out on land between each dipping, or else the washing or baptism is only partial, and consequently imperfect, and not like the burial of Christ. Christ was buried but once, and it takes but one baptism to follow him. "Know ye not, that so many of us as were baptized into Jesus Christ were baptized into his death? Therefore we are buried with him by baptism into death: that like as Christ was raised up from the dead by the glory of the Father, even so we also should walk in newness of life. For if we have been planted together in the likeness of his death, we shall be also in the likeness of his resurrection." Rom. 6: 3–5.

"Buried with him in baptism, wherein also ye are risen with him through the faith of the operation of God, who hath raised him from the dead."

Then Christ died once, was buried once; and one burial in water is all that is required of his obedient children. O God! Seal us for thy kingdom by thy blessed Spirit, and keep us from error and distraction.

ABIDING IN CHRIST.

Christian, would'st thou fruitful be?
Jesus says, "Abide in me";
From him all thy fruit is found;
May it to his praise abound.

Christian, would'st thou holy be?
Jesus says, "Abide in me";
Sanctified in him thou art;
Sanctify him in thy heart.

Christian, would'st thou happy be?
Jesus says, "Abide in me";
He is thine exceeding joy—
Bliss divine, without alloy.

Christian, this thy motto be—
Jesus says, "Abide in me";
Grace and strength from him receive—
As a branch in Jesus live.

Christian, him thou soon shalt see;
Then he'll say, "Abide with me;
In my Father's house above—
In the bosom of his love."

THE YEAR OF THE CRUCIFIXION.

WM. HOBBS.

There exists a difference of opinion among chronologists with reference to the year of Christ's crucifixion, and yet the difference is limited to a few years. Some, who entertain the opinion that our Savior was crucified on Friday, fix it on April 3rd, A. D. 33, because this was the day of the Paschal full moon for that year. And Ferguson, the astronomer, says, "I find by calculation that the only Paschal full moon that fell on Friday, for several years before and after the disputed year of the crucifixion, was on April 3rd, A. D. 33."

That Christ was crucified on the Passover full moon there is evidence from the four evangelists, as all of them state that he was crucified on "the day of the preparation;" and this is explained to mean "the preparation of the Passover." John 19: 14. And since the preparation of the Passover must, from the significance of the terms used, have preceded the sacrifice thereof, the preparation must have been on that day when the sacrifice was offered; and since the law required this sacrifice "on the fourteenth day of the first month," and "at the going down of the sun," the day of the preparation, when our Savior was crucified, must have been on the fourteenth day of the moon; as the Jews reckoned their months by the moon. And if the Scriptures supported the opinion that the crucifixion was on Friday, the astronomical proof that the crucifixion was in A. D. 33, would appear quite conclusive. But there is the clearest kind of testimony to show that the crucifixion was on Thursday. See Matt. 12: 40, 28: 1.

The evidence that Christ was crucified on Thursday, instead of Friday, is therefore proof that the crucifixion was not in A. D. 33. And to establish the true year, we have only to find when the Paschal full moon fell on Thursday in those years to which the disputed year is limited, say from A. D. 29 to A. D. 34.

Now, according to a table of Paschal new and full moons, from B. C. 5 to A. D. 40, which I have before me, the Paschal moon for A. D. 30, the moon changed from old to new moon, March 22, 8 o'clock, 43 minutes, in the afternoon of Wednesday, and fulled Thursday, April 6, 10 o'clock, 41 minutes, afternoon. So the only dispute to the Passover being on Thursday this year, would be whether the moon fulled too late. The moon's change on Wednesday, March 22, at 8–43 minutes P. M., would make the about one hour high at sunset, Thursday night following; which would make the moon fourteen days old on Thursday, April 6, of that year. And that it could not have dated a day later, we can confirm by the testimony of Ferguson, that no Paschal full moon fell on Friday for several years before April 3, A. D. 33. The conclusion is, therefore, inevitable, that the crucifixion was in A. D. 30, April 6. There is also other evidence to prove the crucifixion in A. D. 30.

According to Luke, John the Baptist began his ministry in the fifteenth year of Tiberius Cæsar's government of Judea, which chronologists assign to A. D. 26; the next Passover would, therefore, be in the spring of A. D. 27, and since the gospels show four passovers inclusive of this up to the crucifixion, we have only three years from the spring of A. D. 27, to the Passover of the crucifixion; and this shows that the year of the crucifixion was A. D. 30. And since the Passover fell this year on Thursday, the crucifixion must have been on Thursday. So we have a combination of chronological, Scriptural and astronomical proof that this was the year and day of the crucifixion. Evidence that should not be ignored, nor hid under a bushel, to gratify the conceit of learned men, who have tried to make the common people think that twice one are three with reference to Matt. 12: 40.

No trait of character is more valuable than the possession of good temper. Home can never be made happy without it. It is like flowers springing up in our pathway, reviving and cheering us. Kind words and looks are the outward demonstration; patience and forbearance are the sentinels within.

GENESIS 3: 15.

J. P. MARQUAND.

"I will put enmity between thee and the woman, and between her seed and thy seed."

In reading this third chapter of Genesis, we are led to the following conclusions: that the agency which deceived our Mother Eve was a literal or fallen angel, for he had the powers of speech and of reason; and not only so, but was cunning enough both to lie, deceive, and challenge God the Maker of the universe. This fallen angel is called in the Scriptures by different names,—"Satan," "Dragon," "Devil," "Accuser of the brethren," "Liar," "Murderer," "Serpent," "Prince of the power of the air," "Lucifer," etc., etc. The apostle Paul sets forth this arch enemy of God and man in terms and language unmistakable. He says he is from beneath, of the world, of the flesh, and that he deceived our first mother (1 Tim. 1: 14), and advises us to resist him, not to be ignorant of his devices, and not to yield ourselves to any of his allurements or temptations. It is thus, while we are battling for the right, and feeling our own feebleness and weakness, that we irresistibly go to God for grace, wisdom and strength to enable us to overcome. We are as prisoners of hope, contending against evil and wrong, and reaching out for deliverance from the carnal mind, which is enmity against God.

The Bible distinctly says there are no neutral powers, but either we are of the flesh or of the Spirit. The first, which is natural or earthly; the second, the heavenly, or divine. "Except a man be born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God." The first Adam was the head of the natural or fleshly race; the second Adam the head of the spiritual, or heavenly race. There is nothing but sin and death in the first Adam; there is nothing but peace, purity and life in the second Adam. There is nothing but peevishness, unrest and fearfulness in the first Adam; there is nothing but quietness, assurance and love unfeigned in the second Adam. Well might the apostle say, "Overcome evil with good"; for "with such sacrifices God is well pleased." We are looking for a pure, holy government on this earth, according to the promise of God. It will come on the downfall of the fourth kingdom, the Roman. When it is established and consolidated as the ruling power, the King, who shall reign in righteousness, will appear to take his throne, and administer equity and goodness, and it shall stand for ever and ever. Therefore we pray, "Thy kingdom come; thy will be done in earth as it is in heaven."

There are only two classes, the seed of the woman (christians), and the seed of the serpent (antichrist, or the devil). At the appointed time, the end of the age, comes the harvest, when the sheaves are to be gathered into the garner, and the chaff destroyed. The reapers are the angels. Let us be on the safe side, and have our garments unspotted from the world, our lamps trimmed and burning, our house in order. The Master will soon be here with piercing eyes to examine our passports, and search into our characters. "Be not deceived, God is not mocked; for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap."

O, pray to God to forgive your sins, and wash your souls in the fountain of his love. Be in earnest, and be truthful. Cry for mercy, and believe on that man whom he hath raised from the dead, and remember his language—"If I be lifted up, I will draw all men unto me." "Come unto me, all ye that are weary and heavy laden, and I will give you rest." "Learn of me, for I am meek and lowly of heart." As certainly as that Joseph was governor of Egypt, and dispensed corn to the starving nations, so certainly is Jesus Christ invested with all power and ability to dispense the bread of life to the inhabitants of this earth. He will be the judge of quick and dead. He is the mediator of the new covenant, and of the blood of sprinkling, and in him we shall find peace, pardon, and everlasting life.

HOLY TRUST.

Whate'er God wills, let that be done;
His will is ever wisest;
His grace will all thy hope outrun
Who to that faith arisest.
The gracious Lord
Will help afford;
He chastens with forbearing;
Who God believes,
And to him cleaves,
Shall not be left despairing.
—Whispers of Peace.

TO REV. JOHN HALL.

Dear Brother:—I have read your recent letter in the New York Tribune, in regard to the work of Moody and Sankey, and I venture to suggest a thought or two.

1. We live at a period of peculiar interest. This arises from two circumstances. First, because in the deliberate opinion of many thoughtful and devout persons (some of them eminent), Moody and Sankey among the rest, unusual developments in human history are imminent. Mighty changes are anticipated, heralding and introducing the second advent of the Messiah. Second, there is a wide-spread hopefulness and expectation throughout the various churches in America, in connection with the coming of Moody and Sankey to labor in the United States, the ensuing autumn or winter, so far as I can learn, or reasonably judge.

2. The particular suggestions in my mind which perhaps have occurred to yourself and many others, relate to the best and most effectual means of promoting a work of religious awakening and reformation. And in this connection much advantage may be derived from a careful study of the true secret of success of those brethren. What seems to be especially desirable among ministers as well as others, is, first, a thorough and fresh equipment for the work. This would seem to comprise profound humility, and a feeling of total personal inadequacy, apart from Divine aid and direction; a new reception of Christ, if I may say so, and his all-powerful Spirit into the hearts of believers; anxiety and determination, by Divine grace, to help on the work, and engage in the grand advance of the army of Christ.

Second, to my mind there is a special propriety and importance in adopting as far as possible, throughout the entire church, the eminently Christ-like or apostolic method of laboring by twos. Let every minister (and layman with a gift to preach or converse) seek to select a companion for himself. This companion may not necessarily be a preacher. He may be a singer, or an exhorter, or have a gift of visiting, or personal private instruction. Only let there be a division of labor and adaptation of talent to each other and to the field. By the universal adoption of this plan, what an effective instrumentality, under God, would be utilized! What a glorious fulfillment could be realized of Christ's special injunction, to go into the "streets and lanes" of the city, as well as the "highways and hedges" of the rural districts. What a vast prospect unfolds to the gaze of the Christian, even in our own America, in the contemplation of this subject. Who can estimate the magnitude of results which might reasonably be hoped for? All can not be Moodys and Sankeys, in power of faith and wonderful adaptation, but they may be like them as they resemble Christ, and be willing and happy to learn from them whatever is desirable to be known or had in respect to excellence and serviceableness in the work of Christ.

In this connection, it might not be out of place to refer to the utility of scattering broadcast throughout the land, something like a select and stirring summary of the great work accomplished in England and Scotland. Biographical sketches, like those embracing anecdotes of Moody's life, by J. B. T. Marsh, might be excellent for circulation. I should think it would be a noble thing to set forth prominently, certain characteristics of these men; such as their absolute unsectarian character and feeling, their great and instinctive dislike of man-magnifying, throughout; their singleness of purpose in magnifying Christ in all things; their love of human-kind, and desire for the salvation of sinners; their great plainness and simplicity of preaching; their wonderful knowledge of Scripture, their art of happy illustration. I have thus put in a form as condensed as the case would admit, some thoughts that seem to me to bear directly on the great subject now coming to be uppermost in many minds, and trust they will meet your approbation.

Sincerely yours,
CLINTON COLEGROVE.

Sardinia, N. Y., Aug. 18, 1875.

ALTON CAMP.

J. O. STODDARD.

Alton camp of sacred fame,
Mountain home and shady dell;
Where the saints of every name,
Tenting out, delight to dwell.
Come, dear children, all go up,
Where the greetings are so sweet;
There we'll taste the heavenly cup,
Bending low at Jesus' feet.

Alton camp, my soul is there,
Mingling with the happy throng;
How the music fills the air,
Echoes sweet of sacred song.
Children of a royal line,
Heirs of life and love and land;
Waiting for a heavenly sign,
Glorious, beautiful, and grand.

Alton camp, where angels wait,
Hasting from the gates of light;
Helping saints in every strait,
Beautiful must be the sight.
Garden where the spices grow,
Sweet perfumes the saints delight;
There my soul is all aglow,
For the bride is robed in white.

Alton camp, the outer court,
Waiting for his Son from heaven;
Stand to your guns and hold the port,
Scattering everywhere the leaven.
Your tenting out will soon be o'er,
A house from heaven is promised free;
Soon we'll land on Canaan's shore,
Jesus there will welcome thee.

Lockport, N. Y.

FATHER GERDEMANN'S LECTURE.

(Concluded.)

I come to the last great blot on the character of the Roman clergy, which you will allow me to treat you to in a cursory manner out of respect to the audience I have the honor to address. Priests are not allowed to marry; would to God they were! They are called fathers by the people, and unfortunately with many, it is not only a name but a sad reality; not the honored hallowed name of father, but a name whispering of shame and a broken heart, if not a ruined family. Undoubtedly the young men who are ordained priests are generally pure, sincere and good. But, alas! the system of celibacy, at all times the bane of the Catholic ministry, too often ruins them. I spoke to a priest, not of this diocese though, whom I esteemed as a good man, last year about this time, about my intention of getting married and leaving the church. He called me a fool, and advised me not to leave the easy life of the priesthood, but do like him and keep a mistress. I thanked him for his advice, and told him I was no dog. Bishop Wood told me of more than one priest of his diocese whom he characterized as immoral and thoroughly bad men, who to this day hold their offices. Marry, forsooth, in an honorable way a priest is not allowed, but ruin a poor girl he may. It is better, the Pope teaches, for a priest to have two concubines than marry one woman lawfully. Shame upon such morality! Shame upon the church with such teachings!

In a future lecture I may speak about this affair more exhaustively, when I will make some priests of this city ashamed to walk the streets. If you knew and saw those things, why did you not leave sooner? I hear somebody ask. The question is quite proper. Those who never were Catholics, and especially Catholic priests, will never appreciate the mental anguish and struggle I and others have gone through. I was born of strictly Catholic parents, and saw the first Protestant minister when about seventeen years of age. For six years I was an enthusiastic priest, and even afterward I fought and prayed hard against every doubt in matters of faith, looking upon a wilful doubt as a mortal sin, and even after I was fully convinced of the fallacy of my religious belief it was not easy to tear myself loose from my whole family, in which I have no Protestant, either by blood or marriage; to separate from all my former friends and acquaintances. And there are a good many excellent men among the Catholics, and some very worthy priests, and those you wound far deeper by the step you take than you would by depriving them of their greatest treasure. Then we know the custom of the Catholics to calumniate and hunt down every priest who dares to leave and oppose them. So it is with every one; so it was and is with me. There are plenty of priests who would do like me if they had the courage. I spoke to more than twelve of them, and showed them my wife's picture, and not one of them but approved of my step. The one told me he was too delicate to get married, the other feared that he had not brains enough to make his living in any other way; another said he had only fifteen thousand dollars, and would not leave till he had ten thousand more. Still another did not go because he had found out that the girl he had been courting was kissing other priests rather indiscriminately.

Another said: "John, if I should know a good Protestant girl like your bride I would marry her to-morrow, but those Catholic girls are entirely too soft with priests for me."

And so on. Thanks to God! I had the courage. I went through a fiery ordeal. In the beginning I had scarcely a friend, but my faithful wife and my zealous, energetic counsel, Mr. Heverin, and afterward Mr. Ransford, who, being a strict Roman Catholic, deserves all the more credit for his courage and discrimination between a matter of faith and of law. Almost everybody also despised, at least doubted me. Things of late have changed; I have many warm friends, and make new ones every day. But if my trials should have been tenfold, if I should have to choose between the gallows now and the priesthood, I would, without hesitation, choose the former. The Catholics have tried to frighten me, in vain, and I will stay in their midst and follow my business, and if they disturb me, I have not the least doubt it will soon be decided who reigns in this good city of Philadelphia, the Catholic mob, or law and order. They have tried to bring me back with money. Priests told me if I only would leave that woman, meaning my wife, they would do everything for me. But I spurned their base, immoral advice. One layman offered me as much as ten thousand dollars if I would return. I asked that man whether he knew priests. "Indeed I do, he answered, "I have been in their company frequently in former years. No set of men swallow as much whiskey as they. I know of their immorality. I despise Bishop Wood. In fact," he continued, "I don't allow priests as visitors at my house, that they may not corrupt my children by their bad examples. I know they can be very obscene. Yet, Gerdemann, come back; if you want to, support a mistress, but come back. I'll sooner see you commit adultery every week than help those damned Protestants."

In conclusion, let me say a few words about the status and aim of the Catholic church in this country. Their numbers are greatly over estimated, and they make very few converts among the Americans. Calculating in their manner, that is misleading, every man, woman and child, we will not find 5,000,000. Of the children they lose at least fifty per cent., seventy-five per cent. of boys and twenty-five per cent. of girls. If the immigration of Catholics should cease to-day, in less than twenty years three-fourths of the Catholic churches would be closed for want of worshipers. Among all the pew-holders in the Roman churches of this city, there are not ten per cent. native Americans. Catholicism is not an indigenious plant here, but of foreign growth and does not thrive. But the leaders are shrewd. They know how to display to the best advantage. It is a blessing, indeed, for our glorious country that things are not as they want to make us believe.

Rome and its emissaries would like to control this country. In fact, they will attempt to rule it. When I saw the parade on St. Patrick's day in '73 and '74, I was standing alongside of Bishop Wood in the second story of his residence. How delighted he was with the display of their great numbers! "That will show the Americans how many voters we have now, and how many fighting men we will command when the fight commences, and commence it will on the school question," he said, repeatedly. If they praise our free republican institutions now, don't be deceived. The church of the Inquisition never will be the admirer and supporter of liberty. The Pope denounces and condemns the very corner-stone of our Republic, liberty of conscience. If Rome has abandoned the stake and the tortures of the Inquisition it is not on account of want of will, but want of power. Give it the power to-day and the dungeons will be thrown wide open on to-morrow for all heretics and unbelievers. Catholics like the laws very well as long as they please and help them. The Catholics may outrage the sense of the Protestant community by Sunday parades and noisy music; they may denounce Protestantism every day in the year, and we Protestants are silent; but one word said against them, they get perfectly crazy. But shall that hinder the American to deny them the utmost liberty consistent with safety for our glorious institutions? God forbid! Only defend the great palladium of American liberty, the free press, the free school and the free church, and never fear that the Catholic church will ever be a power in America. But if they dare to touch them, treat them like the man who touches our flag—shoot them on the spot.

Especially look to the schools. Let Catholics have their own schools if they choose, but let the public schools remain a public good, above or independent of any party or sect. Teach your children history; let them look at Italy, Spain, South America, and then at Germany, England and our own glorious land. If they choose, then, the church which has been the curse of Catholic countries, instead of that enlightened faith which has been the blessing of Protestant nations; if they willfully forfeit the glorious inheritance of our fathers, they deserve their fate. But no fear so long as our land is dotted with public schools. Then our children will spurn all foreign allegiance, temporal as well as spiritual, and like we in our day, they will take care in their day that our glorious starry banner shall always float over the land of the free—free not only from the bondage of the flesh, but free from the worse slavery of the spirit.

AFTER THE LECTURE.

The Mayor, accompanied by a large force of policemen, was in attendance during the delivery of the lecture, and at its close conducted Mr. Gerdemann to a carriage that awaited him at the side of the hall. He was then rapidly driven to his home. A butcher's cleaver was taken from a man in the hall, but as the party was evidently weak-minded, he was merely escorted a short distance from the hall and then let go.—New York Witness.

SECRETISM.

D. K. BARRETT, JR.

It is appalling to see what a rage there seems to be at the present time for secret associations. Is a work to be done for temperance? A secret society must be formed binding up in one bundle, with oaths, the professor of religion and worldling, and even infidels. If an effort is to be made to promote the Farmers' interest, the Mechanics' interest, or the Railroad man's interest, some oath-bound organization must be formed.

The strangest thing about it is that christians should think of associating themselves thus in a brotherhood with unbelievers and infidels, right in the face of what Paul says, "Be not unequally yoked together with unbelievers; for what fellowship hath righteousness with unrighteousness? and what communion hath light with darkness?" If we have light, we should let it shine, and not hide it under a bushel. "And what concord hath Christ with belial? or what part hath he that believeth with an infidel? And what agreement hath the temple of God with idols? for ye are the temple of the living God. . . . wherefore come out from among them and be ye separate, saith the Lord, and touch not the unclean thing, and I will receive you." 2 Cor. 6: 14.

Do you maintain this separation from association and fellowship with evil doers, when you call them brethren? Says one writer,—

"There have been in every age of the world and church peculiar and popular forms of sin, by which the great deceiver has sought to undermine the church of God, and lead the unsuspecting gradually away from the pure and spiritual worship, and from an entire and thorough obedience in Christ Jesus. These efforts of the "powers of darkness" (see Isa. 5: 20; Jno. 3: 19; 12: 35; Matt. 22: 25; Rom. 13: 11–14; Eph. 5: 7; Col. 1: 12), we are led to believe will increase on until the time of the end, deceiving, if it were possible, the children of God.

The enemy readily perceives that if the christian world can be convinced that God's method as revealed in his word, are imperfect, he has gained a great point. He understands that christianity, to be a perfect system, must be everything to man if it is anything.

In the age in which we live, amongst other movements exemplifying the cunning devices of the reigning spirit of sin, is that of secretism, by which men are bound together in "mystic tie," the strands of which are made up of solemn oaths and promises, in the hope of some selfish gain. Though some times with the ostensible profession of charity, it is however charity to themselves.

The number of secret societies is increasing. Almost every popular movement is assuming this form. They exist in colleges, universities, villages, towns, cities, and over the entire country.

These things are contrary to the dignity of the christian character, utterly at variance with thn religion of Christ. The oath that is taken is sinful. The circumstances and interest involved, by no means demand or justify so solemn an appeal to God. See Jer. 4: 2. No man can swear "in truth, in judgment, and righteousness," concerning things of which he is ignorant at the time, or to be in obedience to "signs or orders from brothers of the craft," or superiors, to be issued under circumstances and in reference to matters that he yet knows nothing about.

These societies have a religion and a religious faith and service; and propose to confer spiritual blessings, preparatory for the "grand lodge above," or "greatr gange above."

Christians who indulge in the services of such a religion forsake for the time the "fountain of living waters;" the sentiment "for Christ's sake" is not found there. "Whatsoever ye do in word or deed, do all in the name of the Lord Jesus." "Whatsoever ye do, do all to the glory of God." This is christian law. Satan if he cannot destroy will do all he can to entangle the christian in worldly alliances, and retard his spiritual growth, and use his influence to build up customs and institutions at variance with the interest of the gospel.

The whole system of secretism is a device of Satan. "Have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather reprove them."

Speaking of the third degree in Masonry, Sickles says in Monitor, p. 95,—"We now find a man complete in morality and intelligence, with the stay of religion added to secure firm the protection of the Deity and to guard him against ever going astray." "These three degrees form a perfect and harmonious whole, nor can we conceive that anything more can be suggested that the soul of man requires."

Page 297.—"The Master mason has entered the Holy of Holies, that represents a man saved from the grave of iniquity, and raised to the faith of salvation; . . . inspires the most cherishing hope of the final reward that belongs alone to the just made perfect."

Thus it seems to claim to be a saving religion. And if so, a "climbing up some other way," as Christ is left out, and Jews, infidels, and unbelievers in Christ all join in one brotherhood with those who have elsewhere professed faith in Christ.

This would I say to all, Beware of secretism in any form! "Be separate," that God may "receive you and be a father unto you, and ye shall be my sons and daughters, saith the Lord God Almighty." Do right, and God will take care of you. Make no compromise with the devil on any account. Specially not for a few dollars of worldly gain, which will be an infinite loss in the end. Let us prepare to meet the Lord soon to come, "fight the good fight" till at last we receive the crown.

THE RIGHT PERSUASION.—In terrible agony a soldier lay dying in the hospital. A visitor asked him: "What church are you of?"

"Of the church of Christ," he replied.

"I mean of what persuasion are you?"

"Persuasion!" said the dying man, as his eyes looked heavenward, beaming with love to the Savior, "I am persuaded that neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor powers, nor things present, nor things to come, nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature, shall be able to separate me from the love of God which is in Christ Jesus."

THERE is many and many a candle that will burn discreetly in a room where the air is still, which, if you take it into the wind, flares and flutters and burns every way but the right way; and there are christians that are able to have the pure flames of christian life burn steadily, if you only shield them, but that, if you move them about, and bring them in conflict with each other in circumstances of temptation, show their weakness of christian feeling.

The World's Crisis

AND

SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

RULES FOR CORRESPONDENTS.

Over all matters not intended for publication, write:—PRIVATE.

Over all business matters, write:—BUSINESS.

Over all articles intended for the paper, write:—For the Crisis.

☞ Put business matters and appointments on separate pieces of paper, or so that they can be detached without interfering with any other communication.

All articles should be accompanied by the writer's NAME, for the Editor's information, even if it is not published.

When the names of NEW subscribers are sent, please say they are NEW, and it will save much labor.

PRIVATE LETTERS.—Those wishing to address the Editor on matters not connected with the office, please write PRIVATE on the outside of the envelope.

☞ All persons writing to the office should give distinctly and plainly the POST OFFICE, COUNTY and STATE at which they wish to be addressed; and all orders, subscriptions, communications and remittances, should be plainly directed to

☞ "THE WORLD'S CRISIS,"
Boston, Mass.

PUBLISHED ALSO AT THE SAME OFFICE,
Semi-monthly,

THE YOUNG PILGRIM

An Illustrated Sunday-School Paper,

FOR CHILDREN AND YOUTH.

TERMS: ☞ Payable always in advance.

Single copy, 50 cts. a year; and at the same rate for any number of copies under ten.

Ten copies, and any larger number under fifty, when sent to one address, 40 cts. a year for each copy.

Fifty copies, and any number over fifty, when sent to one address, 35 cts. a year for each copy.

To Canada subscribers at the same rates. No extra charge for American postage.

☞ All communications, orders, and remittances should be addressed to

"THE YOUNG PILGRIM,"
Boston, Mass.

The World's Crisis

AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

"BEHOLD I COME QUICKLY; AND MY REWARD IS WITH ME."

WHOLE NO. 1035. BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 15, 1875. VOL. XLI.—NO. 22.

The World's Crisis,
AND
SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER,
Issued every Wednesday Afternoon, by the
ADVENT CHRISTIAN PUBLICATION SOCIETY,
At No. 160 Hanover Street, Boston, Mass.
GEO. T. ADAMS,
TREASURER AND BUSINESS AGENT.

JOHN COUCH, MILES GRANT, } EDITORS.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE:
S. G. MATHEWSON, L. BOUTELL, WM. H. MITCHELL.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEE:
H. V. DAVIS, M. BATCHELOR, L. T. CUNNINGHAM, J. G. HAMBLIN, J. HEMENWAY.

The CRISIS is devoted to the exposition of all Bible truth; especially the doctrine of the immediate, personal coming and reign of Christ on the earth; holiness of heart; the unconscious state of the dead; their literal resurrection, and final destruction of the wicked.

JESUS.

A light, our darkened steps to guide,
A refuge, where from storms we hide;
A hope to cheer us 'midst our gloom,
A portion for the world to come.

A strength, to stay the fainting soul,
A balm, to make the sin-sick whole;
A song, to cheer in death's dark vale,
Victor, when earth and nature fail.

All this, and more, will Jesus be
To every soul that bends the knee;
That bears the cross, that runs the road
In truth and love, that leads to God.

Then bear that cross in morning's dawn,
'T will cheer thy soul when morning's gone;
Bear thou that cross in sorrow here,
Pledge of a crown in glory there.

—Selected by E. C. PEASE.

TURKEY.

The sick man of Europe is about to collapse, or the king of the North is drawing near his end.

C. C. CUNNINGHAM.

The downfall of the power denominated (in the closing verses of Daniel 11) "the king of the north," is an event now to be immediately expected. For the past century this power has rapidly declined; and travelers and writers, conversant with the causes in operation for its destruction, are unanimous in their judgment and testimony that its end cannot be prolonged. Says Count de Gerrowski: "The empire of the Ottomans, at least in Europe, is rapidly approaching its end; no human aid can preserve it; and the real question is, What banner shall finally be planted on the walls of Constantinople? It is Russia, and Russia alone, which for more than a hundred years has uninterruptedly drawn nearer and nearer, with a bold, aggressive, steady pace."

Says Lamartine, speaking of the Turks: "They are encamped in Europe. They have put forth no roots during nearly five centuries of their occupation; but have continually formed an insurmountable barrier to the onward spirit of energy of western Europe. . . . All of them appeared or entered Europe on horseback, ravaging and pillaging and producing hussars or spahis; and on horseback they successively disappear from the European arena. When the moment for the expulsion of the Turks shall come, the utmost exertions will be required to prevent a cruel and merciless retaliation; the long concentrated wrath increasing by the probably desperate resistance of the retiring foe. . . . From whatever point of view we may consider this eventuality, sure it is that the political past of Russia will approach its last stage with an accelerated velocity. The expulsion of the Turks, and the future possession of Constantinople, have been considered for years as the highest problem for European politics."

Prophecies are at hand that the oscillating waves of the shock which is to engulf the empire of the Ottomans will be deeply felt through the whole globe. Sinister and terrible consequences are associated with that eventuality. A Greek writer, still extant, records a prophecy, old in his day, relating to the North, to the effect that in the last days, the Russians should be masters of Constantinople. When it was uttered no one knows; but it was written on an equestrian statue, in his day, on one of the special monuments of the imperial city brought there from Antioch. In whatever light this prophecy may be viewed, its fulfillment harmonizes with the general expectation of the world. It may be a wonder to some that its fulfillment has been so long delayed, but it waits the closing events of history to accomplish it.

Gibbon, writing at the end of the last century, records his own expectation of this event. "Perhaps," he says, "the present generation may yet behold the accomplishment of a prediction, of which the style is unambiguous and unquestionable." The Turks have long been under the shadow of its influence. There is also an enigmatical inscription on the tomb of the great Constantine, to the effect that the yellow-haired race shall overthrow Ishmael; and ever since their defeats by the Emperor Leopold, they have felt that the true footing of their faith is in Asia. Says R. R. Madden: "The Czar Peter made no secret of his views of the duties imposed on him and his successors, as he piously believed, by Divine Providence, to dismember the Turkish Empire, and make Constantinople the metropolis of Russia, the great emporium of the commerce of the East." In the reign of Catherine, the designs of Russia against Turkey took the form of a policy, whose key-note was the necessity of Constantinople being made a part of the Russian Empire. She began the process of dismemberment by making the Crimea a Russian province. The Emperor Alexander spoke of Constantinople as a necessity for Russia. To use his own words, "Russia must have the key to her own house." The Emperor Nicholas discovered the Turks were sick men, who should be buried with honor in a quiet grave on the Asiatic side of the Bosphorus.

These brief extracts present the general drift of the sentiment prevailing on this subject among statesmen and politicians, and it has become the settled conviction of all observing men that the near future must witness the downfall of the Turkish Empire; and there is at the present moment a feverish anxiety as to the probable result of the present rapidly spreading insurrection on the western borders of European Turkey. The Paris Moniteur, commenting on the insurrection when it first broke out, said: "A very little time will show whether it is a fslse alarm, or whether the final conflagration in the Christian districts of Turkey has commenced. In any case the situation is sufficiently serious to give uneasiness to European diplomacy."

It is a significant fact that Russia has for several years past been operating in Central Asia, subjugating those tribes, and establishing her military posts in those quarters, while at the same time she is in close alliance with Persia; thus circumvallating and circumventing the Turkish Empire on the eastern division, while at the west, through her agents and emissaries, she is evidently secretly inciting and aiding the present rebellion in order to weaken and paralyze the Turkish Empire and government, and give her a pretext to intervene and dictate the terms of settlement between the government and the revolted provinces. The larger part of the population of the provinces of Turkey are members of the Greek church, therefore in sympathy with Russia, and whom she is bound to protect; therefore, the present insurrection that threatens to become general throughout the provinces of Turkey will naturally cause Russia to interfere in behalf of the subjects of Turkey joined in communion with the Greek faith.

We have arrived at a period foreshadowed in the prophetic word of God, when the closing events of human history must come. Prophecy and chronology are culminating to a point, that brings us to the close of the present dispensation, and the judgment of the great day of God Almighty. The downfall of the Turkish empire is the last event in a series of prophecies recorded in the eleventh chapter of Daniel; and such commentators as Bishop Newton, and Dr. Gill, with other eminent expositors, have traced the fulfillment of said chapter to the last two verses, which they regarded as the only portion of the chapter then to be fulfilled. Subsequent events make it apparent that those two verses are under a process of fulfillment. The situation of the Turkish empire has for a long time been in a precarious condition; so much so, that it has needed, and also received the support of the great Western powers of Europe; but the present complex condition of those powers will render them unable to give to Turkey sufficient aid to enable her to cope with Russia, and perhaps with Austria and Germany, in the final struggle.

Events of startling character may soon loom up from Central Asia, or from the East; at any rate the statement of Gabriel to the prophet Daniel, "tidings out of the East," signify that from that quarter will come terrific news that will sorely trouble the Sultan; as also "out of the north." From both quarters will issue terrible omens that will fill the Turks with consternation, causing them to "go forth with great fury." This language implies that the last struggle of the Turks to maintain their dominion in Europe, will be of the most desperate character; for there will be multitudes for them to cope with; as says the prophecy—"they shall go forth with great fury to destroy and utterly to make AWAY MANY." There will be mighty hosts for them to contend against, but all to no purpose; defeat will follow defeat till their Capital city and throne are overturned, and they are driven back into Asia from whence they came; but there to find no repose. They "shall plant the tabernacle of their palace between the seas, in the glorious holy mountain; yet he shall come to his end and none shall help him." From this, it appears that in some part of the holy land, the Turks will concentrate all their military power and strength; there they will make their final stand, with all their hosts, and there they will fall, with none to help them. They have now ended their mad career; the false prophet's power no longer exists, the judgment of God has now overtaken him, the time for the vindication of God's sanctuary. "The year of recompenses for the controversy of Zion" has now come.

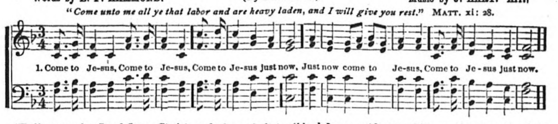
There is (in our judgment) no consistent reckoning of dates attached to the great prophetic measurements given in the Scriptures, that can extend them many months in the future. This, in itself, is a most ominous fact for our consideration; but taken in connection with the multitude of other premonitory signs of the impending judgment, produces evidence that should be of such unequivocal power to our hearts that should lead us to sound forth the alarm in that distinct, clear, and penetrable power, that would arouse the nations to the sure tokens of their doom, and the church of Christ to an immediate preparation for the marriage of the Lamb.

It is high time for all the watchmen on the walls to get the prophetic trumpet to their mouth; but first get the prophetic WORD down into their hearts, so that they may give forth a sound that will be certain in its effect. There is no time to sleep, or waste our strength on points of personal ambition or policy, nor human expediency. The judgment is coming, and we must soon meet our responsibility, as to whether our action has been in the right direction; whether we have been faithful to the great prophetic light that has shone upon our pathway, or whether we have turned aside on other issues, that are weakening our ranks, and producing division in the body. The evidences of the near, I may say, immediate coming judgment, are from God, and they must be earnestly and faithfully sounded out, or we shall be found recreant to our trust, when the Judge of quick and dead shall come to call us to our account. O my brethren, who have ears to hear, heed these few words of exhortation! Amen.

COME TO JESUS JUST NOW.*

Words by E. P. HAMMOND. (By Permission.) Music by J. HART. Arr.†

"Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest." MATT. xi: 28.



"Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved." ACTS 16: 31.

2. He will save you.

"God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life." JOHN 3: 16.

3. O believe Him.

"He is able to save them to the uttermost that come unto God by him, seeing he ever liveth to make intercession for us." HEB. 7: 25.

4. He is able.

"The Lord is long suffering to us-ward, not willing that any should perish, but that all should come to repentance." 2 PET. 3: 9.

5. He is willing.

"Him that cometh to me, I will in no wise cast out." JOHN 6: 37.

6. He'll receive you.

"Flee from the wrath to come." MATT. 3: 7.

7. Flee to Jesus.

"Whosoever shall call on the name of the Lord shall be saved." ACTS 2: 21.

8. Call unto Him.

"Jesus, thou Son of David, have mercy on me." MARK 10: 42.

9. Jesus, save me.

"And Jesus said unto him, go thy way, thy faith hath made thee whole." MARK 10: 52.

10. He will hear you.

"If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just to forgive us our sins." 1 JOHN 1: 9.

11. He'll forgive you.

"The blood of Jesus Christ his Son cleanseth us from all sin." 1 JOHN 1: 7.

12. He will cleanse you.

"Therefore, if any man be in Christ, he is a new creature." 2 COR. 5: 17.

13. He'll renew you.

"He that overcometh, the same shall be clothed in white raiment." REV. 3: 5.

14. He will clothe you.

"Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends." JOHN 15: 13.

15. Jesus loves you.

"He is despised and rejected of men." ISA. 53: 3.

16. Don't reject Him.

"He that hath the Son hath life." JOHN 5: 12.

17. Only trust Him.

"They shall abundantly utter the memory of thy great goodness, and shall sing of thy righteousness." PSALM 114: 7.

18. You will praise Him.

* This tune as it now stands, was first heard in Scotland, where hundreds were asking, "What shall we do to be saved?" Those who never heard it under such circumstances, cannot judge of its persuasive power to lead trembling sinners to the cross. The verses, of which we have given the first lines, can easily be filled out. Thousands will remember this hymn to all eternity, as having been used by God in leading them to Jesus. It has often, also, impressed upon the careless the solemn declaration of God's word, 'Behold now is the accepted time, behold, now is the day of salvation." 1 COR. 6: 2.

—From Song Evangel, by permission.

"GOD IS OUR REFUGE."

J. J. SMITH.

This world is not our home. Here we are aliens and foreigners. Here we are strangers and pilgrims, sojourning in the "the enemy's land," and are "looking for a better country." We have left the city of destruction, and are fleeing for the city of refuge—a place of safety. "God is our refuge." He has undertaken to defend our cause, and has invited all who are weary and heavy laden to come unto him. He has ever proved himself to be a shelter from the wind, and a covert from the storm; he is a river of waters in a dry place, and a rock in a weary land. He has ever been found to be a stronghold, into which the righteous have often run, and have found a safe and secure retreat. He sustains, protects, and delivers his people in times of affliction, in persecution and distress; he delivered the children of the Israelites at the crossing of the Red Sea; he delivered his servant Daniel from the den of lions; he delivered the three Hebrew children from the fiery furnace, so that there was not so much as even the smell of fire upon their garments. Hallelujah to God! he delivers his children who trust in him in a wonderful manner. "Trust ye in the Lord forever; for in the Lord Jehovah there is everlasting strength." He is strong to deliver, and he is mighty to save, and he will "save to the uttermost" all who put their trust in him. He will unloose every shackle, and break every chain, and he will give us the victory again and again. He never leaves nor forsakes his children; "he careth for them," and they are invited to cast their burdens upon him.

"Commit thy ways unto the Lord; trust also in him; and he shall bring it to pass, and he shall bring forth thy righteousness as the light, and thy judgment as the noonday. Rest in the Lord, and wait patiently for him; fret not thyself because of him who prospereth in his way, because of the man who bringeth wicked devices to pass." "God is our refuge," and has promised to be with his children, and sustain them in every time of need. And when the forces of Satan are let loose upon God's dear children, and all the legions of darkness combine to crush them, then God will prove "a present help," and sustain them by his mighty power.

Glory be to his dear name! he will be with us in the sixth trial, and in the seventh he will never leave us. The enemies of the Lord tried to destroy Christ, but all the combined forces of the devil could not crush him, for God sustained him by his mighty power. He was sustained in infancy from the hatred of the wicked king, who sought the young child's life; he was sustained against the scoffing, and mockery, and the buffetings of a wicked and sinful world; he was sustained in his agony, in the garden of Gethsemane; sustained by the almighty power of God, while he bore the sin of the world, in his own body, upon the cross of Calvary; and as Christ was sustained by an omnipotent power, so God sustains his people. He sustains them in a wonderful manner, and "he shall never suffer the righteous to be moved."

Although he may be called to account by judges and rulers; although he may be accused, and oppressed and condemned by wicked and intriguing men; though he may be cast down, disheartened, and powerless to defend himself, yet the God of Jacob will defend him. "The Lord will not leave him in his hand, nor condemn him when he is judged." Though the devil may afflict, annoy, and harass God's faithful children, and the storm of tribulation and persecution may beat wildly and fiercely around them, yet above the roar of the storm, and the howling of the tempest, we may ever hear the voice of the mighty One, saying, "Fear thou not, for I am with thee; be not dismayed, for I am thy God; I will help thee; yea, I will strengthen thee; yea, I will uphold thee with the right hand of my righteousness." "God is our refuge."

He will plead his children's cause; he will confront their accusers, and say "who art thou that judgeth another man's servant? To his own master he standeth or falleth; yea, he shall be holden up of him, for God is able to make him stand." Christians who dwell in Christ are upheld by the mighty power of God, "and the gates of hell shall not prevail against" them. And though he may have no confidence in the flesh, and "though an host should encamp against him," yet he has nothing to fear; for "the angel of the Lord encampeth round about them that fear him, and delivereth them." And while the christian dwells in the secret place of the Most High, and abides under the shadow of the Almighty, while the eternal God is his refuge, and underneath him are the everlasting arms, who is there that can harm him, while safely housed in this secure retreat? Though the devil and all of his hosts may rage and roar, and throw every obstacle in the way to hinder the cause of Christ, yet "if God be for us, who shall be against us?" Though he may employ his legions to revile, defame and blacken the servants of the most high God, yet "who shall lay anything to the charge of God's elect?" Who shall, brethren? "It is God that justifieth; who is he that condemneth? It is Christ that died, yea rather, that is risen again, who is even at the right hand of God, who also maketh intercession for us. Glory to God! "Who shall separate us from the love of Christ?" Who shall, my berthren? "Shall tribulation, or distress, or persecution, or famine, or nakedness, or peril, or sword?"

Shall any of these things ever separate us, my brethren, from the love of Christ? I fancy I hear a multitude of you exclaim, Never! "As it is written, for thy sake we are killed all the day long; we are accounted as sheep for the slaughter. Nay, in all these things we are more than conquerors through him that loved us." And if we worship God in the Spirit, and keep ourselves unspotted from the world, "I am persuaded that neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor powers, nor things present, nor things to come, nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature, shall be able to separate us from the love of God, which is in Christ Jesus our Lord."

This sacred nearness and divine support accounts for the unflinching endurance and christian fortitude of the servants of the living and true God. This divine support has characterized the saints of God in all ages. It was this sacred nearness and divine support that led the martyrs to rejoice in God, and to "glorify him in the fires." This divine support enabled them to encounter the fiery faggot with coolness and courage; to bear up under the cruel indignities that were inflicted upon them, without a murmur or complaint.

And as the martyrs triumphed in the flames, "not accepting deliverance, that they might obtain a better resurrection," so may the saints of God ever triumph over every defeating foe, glory in every tribulation, rise triumphant over every obstacle, and emerge from every conflict, crowned with peace and glory and success. "God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble." Hallelujah to his name!

New Bedford, Mass.

OUR WORDS.

By the manner of life and behavior the character of every person is formed. The christian has a character to form—a character for holiness of life and obedience to the divine precepts. The character of every person is open to inspection; and the christian is especially subject to the severe criticism of the world. This is a fact well known. There is nothing watched more closely than the life of a professing christian. How important, then, that the life of every christian should be blameless before God and man. The christian should watch his own life more closely than he is watched by the outside world. The advice of the Savior to watch should always be heeded; and every thought and act considered in the light of God's word.

"LUKE 24: 45."

J. P. MARQUAND.

"Then opened he their understandings, that they might understand the Scriptures."

Without divine illumination, the pages of sacred writ would be tame and uninteresting; but God has promised us his assistance, and commands us to search the record, for in them is pointed out the way to eternal life. The writer of this has spent years in the study of the word, and has found it to be sweeter than honey or the honeycomb. It is able to make us wise unto salvation, and is profitable for reproof, for correction, and instruction in righteousness. It is truly given by inspiration, and is like a light in a dark place, and a lamp to our feet. Well might the apostles say, "To whom shall we go? thou hast the words of eternal life." The necessity of the influences of the Holy Spirit cannot be too strongly insisted upon. It will lighten up our pathway, and make crooked things straight, and rough places smooth, for we are told, "As many as are led by the Spirit of God, they are the sons of God." The Spirit shall lead us "into all truth," and show us "things to come." In the city of Hartford, there lives an aged colored man, who cannot read a line of Scripture, but who is taught of God by the Spirit; and many clergymen go there (sometimes by night) to get instruction in heavenly wisdom. He will quote scripture as readily as any Bible student. Thus does God teach the ignorant and the weak.

We must have our minds, understandings, and hearts, opened by Jesus Christ, in order to have a correct view of the truth, and have a solid basis for our faith. Many people read the Scriptures without any discernment of their true import. And why is this? Because they have never given themselves to Christ, and become his by adoption. They love the world, and are selfish and carnal. They have never known the sweetness of Christ's love and friendship. The promises of God are not so much for the unbeliever, as the believer. How many of God's saints have felt while preaching and living the truth to say, "Did not our hearts burn within us while he talked with us by the way?"

Why is it that so many read the Scriptures, and derive so little profit? Because of the want of divine illumination. "It is the Spirit that quickeneth, the flesh profiteth nothing." "The words that I speak unto you, they are Spirit, and they are life." Brn. Moody and Sankey attribute their success in winning souls to Christ by the power of the Spirit, which attended their labors in Europe. Let us hope and pray that their efforts in America may be blessed to the same good result.

The writer of this has talked with Mr. Moody on our glorious hope, the second coming of Christ, and found him tender, and quite open to its reception. The truth which will save this generation, is that which is adapted to its wants,—such as the near approach of judgment, the coming of the King of glory, and the winding up of the Gentile dispensation.

It is said that God opened the heart of Lydia to receive the truth, and we think that it must have been by the sweet influences of his Spirit, which is promised to all who ask and seek it.

We hear many say in this day, that they cannot understand the prophecies, nor the book of Revelation. We answer, they were dictated and written under the operation of the Holy Spirit, and cannot this same Spirit open, unfold and unseal the truth to our minds, and make it plain? Certainly. Go, then, to the fountain, and drink without money or without price. None will be turned empty away, none rejected. God is not willing that any should perish, but that all should come to the truth and be made whole. There is an infinite fulness in Christ, which cannot be exhausted. The waters of life are free and abundant, ever flowing, our thirst to assuage. Come, poor mortal, filled with care, with sorrow, and with fears; go straight to your heavenly Father with every anxiety and every perplexity, and all your doubts. He will give you wisdom that cometh from above to guide your feet into the way of peace and quietness, and whatever may be your lot or portion here, your journey will be bright and happy, until you reach the heavenly land where sin and death can never enter. Now which will you choose, the broad road, which leads to despair—or the narrow road that leads to beauty, to honor, and to God?

HOLINESS---PURITY.

G. B. MERRILL.

I love the way of holiness—purity. We must be whole—holy. "Be ye holy, for I am holy." It is our imperative duty to be holy. Without holiness no man shall see the Lord. How important, then, if we want to see God, and have our vile body fashioned like unto Christ's glorious body, that we become "partakers of his holiness." Yes, if we want to dwell in the mansions not built with hands; in the city that hath no need of the sun to lighten it; where there is no more night, but one perpetual day; where the old adversary of God and man shall never enter, as he entered the earthly paradise; where sin and sorrow, pain and death, are felt and feared no more; where all the angels and Christ will be; we must be holy, pure in heart.

"Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God." Is this so? Yes, it must be so. It is so. The pure in heart must be happy indeed. They are cleansed. "Sin hath no more dominion over" them. O how blessed! cleansed "from all filthiness of the flesh and spirit"; cleansed by the precious blood of Jesus, which "cleanseth us from all sin." O how sweet, how good, "washed," "clean," "pure," "holy," "whiter than snow," "as wool." And "ye are clean through the word which I have spoken unto you." What purity!

"Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you." Peace is rest, quiet of mind. None but the "pure in heart,"—the holy, know what the word peace and rest implies. Here is the statement of one who had suffered unrest of soul, but who, after having entered into rest, gives this testimony: "The prevailing state of my mind has been in no wise that of high emotions. On the contrary, there has been great calmness, placidity, and quietness of mind; a freedom from excitement, or agitation of feeling." How desirable a state is this. "Great calmness, placidity, and quietness of mind." Who does not want to enjoy such a state of rest? Well,

"In Jesus there is sweet peace (rest) and joy,
It understanding passeth,
'Tis rich and pure without alloy,
From God through Christ descending."
This rest is offered free to all
Who will themselves to Jesus come;
The rich and poor, the high and low.
Ho! every one who pleases."

Come one, come all, accept the invitation. Come to Christ, and he will give you rest, sweet rest, to the weary, heavy laden soul. O let us consecrate our all to Jesus, seek "the gift of the Spirit," lay aside "every weight, and the sin that doth so easily beset us," and secure this "rest." This day, this hour, this moment, now, let us consecrate our little all to Him whose name is "Wonderful," who is "mighty to save," and can, will, and does, save "to the uttermost" all who will come unto him. Will you come? Do you say,

"My all to Christ I've given,
My talents, time, and voice,
Myself, my reputation;
The lone way is my choice"?

In such a state as this, we are ready to hail with sweet delight the coming of the Son of man. Our hearts will be crying out, "Come, Lord Jesus, come quickly." Amen.

22 Grove St., Worcester, Mass.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES.

C. COLEGROVE.

Just a few words of gentle suggestion may be right and acceptable to all who love the coming of the Lord. Let us not sleep or be disheartened, but rather ever watchful and praying, for in the assurance of the special truth of the nearing day, we have an incentive to alertness. We need to dwell in God. We need him to dwell in us. Let our joy be in him and his companionship, which is now, at the best, wanting in the perfect felicity of his presence, and in the perfection of that immortal life which he will give at his coming. There are a few signs of that day drawing nearer, nearer, nearer, and these may be briefly mentioned.

1. For some time past, there has been almost universal peace among the nations. Even turbulent Mexico has been quiet, and the restless South American States have scarcely rippled with a revolutionary agitation. Europe has been resting, though in arms, (except the Carlist tumult in Spain). Asia has had no great commotion.

2. But there has been a prodigious activity of preparation for war. Look at Germany, with her immense labor of mind and money and muscle to provide for coming trouble, and France, busy in every fibre and sinew of state, with immense wealth still at command, hungry for revenge, and victory and pre-eminence.

3. There is world-wise activity in the Romish church, or in her secret ruling councils. This is not denied or deniable, and there is already alarm among our own honest and observing people at the political conspiracies, and compacts of Romanism in the United States.

4. There is a singular possibility of some great and sudden change in Europe, any day or hour of passing time. Only a pebble's toss perhaps may be necessary to precipitate a crisis. The perilous situation is especially notable from the great age of men in power, as, for example, D'Israeli, in Great Britain, the German Emperor and the Pope of Rome.

5. There has been, and yet remains, a wide-spread commercial or financial stringency and uncertainty; a marked uneasiness among the laboring masses, and obvious timidity of capital.

6. It is eminently an epoch of frauds. It is painful and wonderful to consider what iniquity of public robbery has lately prevailed. Along with this may be mentioned "the great scandal," with its yet unsolved mystery.

7. In nature too, we find witness of peril, and these are portents in the typhoons and storms and floods that have reached far and wide, following the extraordinary winter. We hear the "waves roaring" in the destructive torrents that have wrought havoc in two hemispheres.

8. Spiritualism is active, and fruitful, not of gross deceptions, merely, but of Satanic miraculous phenomena. Beelzebub and the demons truly do wonders, as a careful reader cannot fail to see. And notice that a prominent character in that connection announces herself as a predestined instrument of new and striking developments. Spiritualism is waiting for some new and startling something to occur, to impress the world with awe and astonishment. Let the wise be watchful, praying always with all prayer, and clinging to Christ with perpetual and fervent faith.

9. There is now a remarkable outbreak in north-western Turkey, which may be followed with very important results. In it is involved the delicate and momentous "Eastern Question." Who can tell what consequences are soon to follow? Euphrates is drying up, and it is written of the absent Prince and by him—"Behold I come!" or "Behold I am coming—as a thief. Blessed is he that watcheth."

10. Last of all, we may mention the revival movement in Great Britain, in which Moody and Sankey, as conspicuous laborers, distinctly read and proclaim a heralding of judgment to come after. Let us not be slumbering. With these things in view, may we have our hearts full of grace, and our whole being trained to instant readiness for the Coming Man. It is Christ who died. Earth sorely needs him to come to her relief. Lord, come quickly for everlasting deliverance.

Sardinia, N. Y., Sept. 1, 1875.

CARE.

D. N. SMITH.

"Casting all your care upon him, for he careth for you."

These words were written for the comfort and consolation of the children of God, but many seem to fail to realize their true import, or duly appropriate them. Care and trouble are the lot of the human family. Ever since our first parents sinned, the world has been writhing and groaning under this load thus brought upon it. When Adam and Eve were in Eden, and in innocence, they were comparatively free from all care. They could pluck the delicious fruit from the tree of life, and drink of the water of life, and thus their wants were supplied; but when they sinned, there was opened to them a new scene—a scene of care and trouble. Their first anxiety was to invent something to cover their nakedness, and to hide from God. Next, they were driven out of their beautiful home, to provide for themselves. In the sweat of their face they were to eat bread all the days of their life; and this problem of what shall we eat, and what shall we drink, and wherewithal shall we be clothed? appears to be that which a large majority of the human family are trying to solve. But let us consider that God cares for his children, and has left upon record many precious promises for their comfort, such as the one heading this article; and, "Be careful for nothing; but in everything by prayer and supplication, with thanksgiving, let your requests be made known unto God." And, "If God so clothe the grass of the field, . . . shall he not much more clothe you?" and many others of like nature might be quoted.

We believe every one should use all the means in his power to procure these things, and when he has done this, leave it with God. But many fail at this point. They borrow care and trouble which never come; and if we will take these cares, our adversary will pile them on to us mountain high, and thus destroy our peace, and make us as miserable as we can well imagine. Let us heed the sweet words of our Savior—"Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest"; "casting all your care upon him, for he careth for you."

COMING OF CHRIST.

To the Christian church the second coming of Christ stands where his first coming stood to the Jewish, namely, in the very centre of the field of prophetic light; and a participation in the glories "then to be revealed" is even limited to those who in every age are devoutly "looking for him." It is true that this doctrine of the second coming of Christ has, like that of his first, wrought strongly upon enthusiastic minds, and been the occasion of some pernicious delusions; yet, for the correction of these incidental evils, we must look to other means than to any existing cautions given to the church in the Scriptures against a too earnest longing for the promised advent of her King. To snatch this great promise from Scripture in hasty fear and then to close the book lest we should see more than it is intended we should know, is not our part. On the contrary, it is chiefly from a diligent and comprehensive study of the terms of the great unfulfilled prophecy of Scripture, that a preservative sgainst delusion is to be gathered. To check assiduous researches by cautions which the humble may respect, but which the presumptuous will certainly contemn, is to abandon the leading truth of revelation to the uncorrected wantonness of fanaticism.—Isaac Taylor.

THE life of a professing christian should show the reality of religion. "Make straight paths for your feet, lest that which is lame be turned out of the way."

The World's Crisis
AND
SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

Boston, Wednesday, Sept. 15, 1875.

TAKE NOTICE.

All subscriptions for the "CRISIS," issued from this time forward, are at the rate of $2.25 a year, payable IN ADVANCE.

POSTAGE FREE TO ALL within the United States, the Canadas, and the British Provinces.

Please Remember!

All remittances to this office, in the form of Drafts, Bank Checks, and Postal Money-Orders, should be made payable to the Business Agent, GEO. T. ADAMS.

THOSE who send articles for the "CRISIS," should direct them to the "E ITORS OF WORLD'S CRISIS," Boston, Mass.

PLEASE READ, REMEMBER, AND ACT ACCORDINGLY.

The brethren, sisters, friends—one and all—whoever may write to this office, sending articles for insertion in the Crisis, or subscriptions for the same, notices, appointments, reports, or orders for papers, books, tracts, or anything of the kind, will confer a favor and do the right way by directing their letters in either one of the following ways:—

"Editors of World's Crisis, Boston, Mass."

"World's Crisis, Boston, Mass.," or

Geo. T. Adams, Agent, Boston, Mass.

Those who send articles for the Young Pilgrim should address—

"Editor Young Pilgrim, Boston, Mass."

In no case address letters on business connected with the papers, or office, to any of the clerks, compositors, or helps in this office.

Agent.

Hereafter address me at Boston, Mass. All private letters should be marked "personal." Miles Grant.

How to be Healthy.—Let every mother read carefully an article in the health column, headed, "Prevention of disease in children." M. G.

Worcester.—We spent Sabbath, Sept. 12th, with the church in Worcester. It was a day of special interest. The house was much crowded to hear the evidences showing that Jesus is coming soon. Ministers and members of other denominations were present, and expressed much satisfaction with the proof presented. It is truly cheering to witness the increasing interest manifested about the Lord's second advent, and the needed preparation for the great event. The current is rapidly changing in the right direction. Praise the Lord. M. G.

Thanks for the short and pithy selections that have been sent for the paper. Please continue to send them. When our readers come across some choice article in any paper, that they would like to see in the Crisis, or any valuable saying in any book, or from any source whatever, please send it along to help enrich the columns of "our paper." Let every reader, so far as possible, lend a helping hand to assist in making the Crisis such a paper as every christian will love to read, and feel as though he could not do without its weekly visits.

Again, we urge every preacher to take hold of this work in earnest. Write for it, and make special efforts to secure subscribers. In this way great good may be accomplished. M. G.

The Popes.—In the introduction to Bower's History of the Popes, we find the following from Dr. Cox: "But such themes of history as the Popes of Rome are paragons of wonder, with no parallel in the universe. Their like never was and never will be. Simillimi sibi omnes; they are all like themselves. They are the greatest usurpers, the most unprincipled despots, the most cunning politicians, the most sublime imposters, the most consummate hypocrites, often the worst infidels; and, with some shadows and degrees of exception, the worst human beings, as a class, whose horrible system of wickedness, called in Scripture the mystery of iniquity, produced through many centuries, ever scourged and cursed this world of apostasy, delusion, and sin."

The history of the Popes fully sustains the foregoing statement. M. G.

A BETTER WAY.

If those who preach the gospel of the kingdom would stay two or three weeks, or longer in a place, holding meetings every evening, we believe they would accomplish much more in a year, than they can by preaching only one Sunday in a place. It would be a saving in traveling expenses, and hence be better economy for both preacher and people. Many churches are suffering for lack of pastoral labor. The minister comes Saturday and leaves Monday, consequently does not have time to visit those who need a pastor's counsel; but if he could have meetings for several weeks, and visit from house to house, it would go far towards making up the deficiency occasioned for want of a pastor. The protracted meetings are calculated to reach the unconverted, which is seldom done by a meeting for a single day. It usually takes some days to bring them to the yielding point, but after one decides to follow Christ, others are more easily reached if the meeting advances. One chief reason why Bro. Moody and other revivalists have such marked success, is because their meetings are usually continued for several weeks in a place.

Another very great cause of their wonderful success is because their's are union meetings. This is a special point with the revivalists in these lasts days. The time has come when all true christians should unite their strength against the common foe, and do all in their power to persuade the people to get ready for the great day of the Lord. Sectarian prejudices should be laid aside, and a union in Christ take their place. Hence, as far as possible, the protracted meetings should be got up on a union basis. The Lord always blesses meetings where the true union spirit prevails. We have never known an exception.

Of course it is not expected that it will be a union of creeds, but of hearts filled with love for Jesus. Divine love affords a stronger, more pleasing, and lasting bond of union than human creeds can ever produce.

Let us take hold of the work of the Lord with renewed zeal, and make a bold attack upon the powers of darkness. Let us go forth like men who feel they are sustained by the arm of him who is Almighty; who loves to help the brave man in the cause of truth and righteousness. M. G.

THE EASTERN CLOUD.

The war clouds are hovering over Europe, and at times look very threatening. Men best prepared to judge, can see but little chance of escaping a terrible political storm. The great powers of Europe dread the conflict, but keep on making preparations. The movements of the war clouds are being watched with intense interest by the great men, the rich men, the mighty men, who control the leading political, commercial, financial, and military interests of the world. Says the New York Times, Sept. 3d, 1875:

"The fear of a general war is probably sufficient to account for the disturbed money market in London. And this fear seems to be entertained by many of the most sagacious public men in England. Mr. Disraeli has on several occasions warned the people that the 'irrepressible conflict' between the Papacy and Protestism would lead to a great war, and he was much laughed at for his pains. Now that Mr. Gladstone has repeated the warning, almost in the very language of Disraeli, the subject is regarded as a little more serious. Whether the match which has been lighted in the Turkish dominions will be sufficient to set fire to the train remains to be seen. While that match burns, it would be idle to deny the existence of danger."

The Turkish question is becoming a burdensome stone in Europe. It is generally believed that Turkey cannot hold her position much longer. The end of Mohammedanism and Papacy may be expected to take place about the same time. Their days are numbered, and about finiished, and the next important following event is the coming of the Son of man to set up "the kingdom of heaven." The day and hour are unknown, but cannot be far away. Praise the Lord for the bright prospect of soon seeing our blessed Savior. M. G.

A GOOD SUGGESTION.

Sr. Emeline T. Hobbs writes:—"Cannot we all take hold and give the Crisis an advanced position? Surely there is unoccupied talent enough in our ranks to do this, if all will labor according to their several abilities, and wait for the Master's 'Well done,' and not look for or expect much earthly applause. I was present at a little meeting in Lowell, twenty-one years ago, when its issue was proposed. Death has laid low many of those who were interested in it then, and many, many more, who have loved it since, are now gone (in hope) to the silent tomb. Never more to them shall come its welcome pages; never more to them shall sound the sweet words—'Behold he cometh." Their work is done. They are the Master's garnered sheaves, and here we are in the dust and smoke of the battle, waiting, waiting, Lord; we are waiting still. We are waiting, Lord, for thee, when thou shalt come and in thy might shall reign on 'Zion's Hill.' Well may we cry out,

'O, long expected day, begin.'

Now what I would like is this: have all take hold and help make the Crisis a good, heavenly, family newspaper, second to none; ahead of all its competitors, a pioneer in the cause—with the motto,—"Thy Kingdom Come." Let us help make it a paper suited to the wants of the masses, so filled with first rate articles that the West will need it, and New England feel that she cannot do without it, and the South, and far off California shall stretch out their hands to grasp its laden and cheering pages.

And then there are the 'regions beyond.' Who can estimate its coming glory and influence? It needs for its field, 'The World.'

Now with all due humility, I would suggest the recognition of woman's hand in its editorial management. 'Honor to whom honor is due.' May God prosper, bless, guide and direct each and all who are called upon to bear the heat and burden of the day in producing the Crisis in future, is my prayer. My heart is full of this subject."

When it was said in the late meeting of A. C. Association at Springfield, that the preachers should take up their pens and write short, pithy articles for the Crisis, we think all present felt like saying, Amen. It should be remembered we cannot publish unwritten articles. We always aim to put in the paper the best we have on hand. What else can we do? The cook cannot place h food on the table when it is not furnished, neither can we put in the Crisis what is not supplied by its contributors. As intimated by Sr. Hobbs, it is high time the buried, slumbering talent was aroused to action. Let no one find fault till they have done all in their power to make the paper the best in the world.

What is needed most are short, pithy articles, from half a column to a column in length, or what may be written on a sheet or two of note paper. These may be reports of interesting incidents in revival meetings, notes of travel, christian experience, temptations and deliverances, expositions of passages of Scripture, items of news, or any other matters of interest. Let us have a flood of these short epistles, containing such things as are calculated to elevate in divine life, instruct, comfort, and help the readers of the Crisis to live right daily, and fit them for the coming of the Son of man.

Let every preacher help in this important work. Remember you can address some forty or fifty thousand every week in this way. Begin at once. Do not try to do some great thing, but write as to a friend, in a familiar manner. Say a few words, as you would say them to a desponding, care-worn soul alone, or to one seeking Christ, or in prayer meeting, or love feast; some smothered thoughts that would do good to all, if only known. Make no excuses, but take up the pen and begin. You need not fear about mistakes in grammar, or spelling. If there should be any, we will endeavor to have them corrected before the articles are put into the paper. We hope all will take hold of this work in earnest. The time has come to make a grand rally for Jesus. M. G.

Union in Christ.—We have just received No. 4 of Union in Christ, a good illustrated monthly, published by Bro. H. A. King, 37 Park Row, New York City. Price 60 cts. a year. It is well worth the money. The spirit of the paper is in harmony with its name; and both are in keeping with the prayer of Christ—"That they all may be one, as thou, Father, art in me, and I in thee, . . that the world may believe that thou hast sent me." John 17:21. May the blessing of the Lord be on the efforts of Bro. King to promote "Union in Christ." M. G.

The Health Reformer for August is just received, and, as usual, is full of valuable instruction for all classes. It is eminently a journal for the household, and well deserves the wide reputation which it has attained. According to the most recently published official statements, it now has by far the largest circulation of any journal of the kind in America, and probably in the civilized world. It should be in every family. Published at Battle Creek, Mich. Specimen copies are sent free. M. G.

"The Advocate of Holiness," and the "Guide to Holiness," for Sept., are received. These are valuable monthlies, and should be in the hands of all the friends of Jesus. The first is published for $1 a year, in Philadelphia; the second for $1.25, at 14 Bible House, New York City. M. G.

The Advent Christian Times appears in new type, presenting a very neat look. It is an excellent paper, steadily improving, and deserves the hearty support of all the friends of Jesus. M. G.

THE ALTON BAY CAMPMEETING.

This great meeting has once more enjoyed its annual feast, under the green foliage of its consecrated bower. The encampment has become quite a desirable place of retreat and rest during a summer vacation, for many of our brethren and sisters. Many of our families from all the New England States and Canada have built rude and cheap tents, or cottages, in which they can spend a few weeks of warm weather very cheaply and comfortably, enjoying good christian society and meetings, without subjecting themselves to all the expense, folly, childish games and wickedness of fashionable resorts. It is a very desirable place for rest and quiet, and the managers are determined that it shall not be desecrated by introducing there all the modern recreations and fashionable nonsense, which are demoralizing nearly all such retreats. They purpose that it shall retain its sacredness, as a purely religious place, consecrated to the use of the church, where gospel peace can be enjoyed, and the God of our fathers worshiped in spirit and in truth.

Ten days before the meeting proper commenced there were about two hundred families on the ground, which gave opportunities for holding constant and large meetings during that time.

A few families took up their residence on the ground about the first of June; after which two weekly evening meetings were held, and Sabbath meetings nearly every Sunday, so that stated worship continued over two months.

The weather during campmeeting was very desirable, making it very pleasant for the thousands of worshipers who flocked in from sixteen States and three Provinces of Canada. The congregations during the week were estimated to vary from five to eight thousand; and on the last day the estimates varied from fifteen to twenty-five thousand. The spiritual tone of the worship and private associations was higher than it had been for a number of years. There was less discussing abstract questions and pressing side issues, and manifestly more real heart-felt desire to be right with God and at peace with all men. It seemed more like an old-fashioned Advent meeting; for there were many clear and logical sermons upon the prophesies, by which we were shown unmistakably that the last sands of time are falling, and the Gentile kingdoms are preparing for their last fearful conflict. The regular preaching at the stand, three times a day, was uninterrupted, excepting once, by falling rain, or cold winds.

There were ten regularly established social meetings in mission tents and church chapels, held twice a day, where from two to eight hundred each could be convened. Many of these meetings were very good and impressive; at many of which sinners and saints crowded to the altar of prayer, seeking salvation through Christ's atonement, and desiring to approach a little nearer the throne of a loving Father. From one to seventy-five at a time came forward at those heavenly seasons. Many gave good evidence of having received pardon at the hand of a faithful Savior, and many others rejoiced in drawing nearer to God and drinking deeper from the well of salvation. May they all faithfully perform their vows to God, and be fully prepared for the approaching day of the Lord.

The time at last came when the bell tolled the ending of the last meeting, and the saddening farewells began to sound through the loving ranks, and the lingering look told that endeared friends were about to part, not knowing that another meeting in christian fellowship would be granted them on these mortal shores. Soon the echoing voice of holy friendship was hushed in midnight stillness. The morning of final parting at last dawned, and all was stir and motion, as some stepped into the waiting cars, and others into the noble steamers; some to whirl over the iron track, and others to glide over the crystal waters of the beautiful lake.

A few hours, and all were scattered in mountain glens, on the sea shore, sunny fields of the south and the far-stretching prairies of the west. Some to receive christian greetings by faithful friends, and others the chilling scoffs of cold-hearted unbelievers.

To those of us who remained a few days among the deserted tents, an awful silence oppressed us, like that in a chamber of death. We wandered around the places so recently made sacred by the divine presence, where holy power rolled the wave of bitter repentance and swelled the note of joyful deliverance; but the smiling faces could not be seen, and the sweet voices could not be heard; the seats stood vacant, and the holy places seemed occupied by sepulchral silence, like a deserted city or an ancient tomb. Our hearts would involuntarily exclaim—O time, what changes do thy brief hours make! The vast crowd has passed away, with its prayers and praise, and long solitude fills its place. The family altars are left where the morning and evening sacrifices were offered, and the worshipers gone forth, some to battle for Jesus, and some to be laid down in the dark grave. The campfires have gone out, and some hands will kindle them no more. We looked over the auditorium, but the sea of faces had disappeared, the hearty response to truth and the sweet note of Zion's song were hushed in mournful silence. The sacred desk was there, but no smiling faces for Christ's servants could be seen. The last sermon had been preached; the last heaven-inspired sentence had echoed around the circle, and given the last impression to human hearts. The trees seemed to stand as silent witnesses of the faithfulness and unfaithfulness of the thousands who had assembled on the consecrated grounds, to hear the solemn message of approaching judgment. We think that many felt deeply impressed that the meeting was among our last and best to be enjoyed in this state of trial. May the God of all mercy sanctify it to the present and eternal good of the thousands who enjoyed it is our earnest prayer. J. C.

"GOSPEL SONGS,"

"A choice collection of Hymns and Tunes, New and Old, for Prayer Meetings, Sunday Schools, etc."

This is a new book that has had a large sale at our campmeetings this season, and contains some very choice pieces:—"When Jesus Comes," "More to Follow," etc., etc. For sale at this Office. Price, 35 cts. per copy; $3.60 per dozen by express; by mail, 40 cts. per copy. Agent.

THE EASTERN QUESTION AGAIN.

Every indication of war in Eastern Europe brings to the surface this long-dreaded and world-disturbing Eastern Question. It is understood by all statesmen to involve mainly the idea of Russia's long-established purpose of dispossessing the Turks of their European possessions, and floating its imperial banner over the forts of the Dardanelles and the ancient Greek throne of Constantinople.

The Western Courts of Europe have suffered a chronic disease of political irritation, produced by that question, for more than a century. Every sound of war from that direction, whether it be between great States or street mobs, arouses the kings and excites their counsellors to inquire if the Eastern Question must now be brought to a final issue. All seem to look upon it as a contingency fixed by some changeless decree, to transpire somewhere in the unknown future.

We believe this conviction is sealed upon men's hearts by God, because the issue will be an event prophetically locating the scenes of the last judgment. The eyes of all the world have recently been turned to the Sultan's throne at Constantinople, to see how the, at first, trifling insurrectionary movement in his little Province of Herzegovina affected the feeble old Sick Man. It commenced with the insignificant movement of a few tax-payers resisting the Turkish tax-collectors, which in some parts of the world, connected with other circumstances, would hardly have produced a ruffle on the surface of the political sea; but it vibrated a nerve running directly to the heart of the Eastern Question, which caused every throne to tremble, and every statesman to anxiously inquire, How will it affect the great question of the age?

It has been argued for more than a century, by some of the most learned expositors, that England and Russia would be found antagonistic upon the question of Turkey's future, at the end of the gospel dispensation, and this has been our position for nearly thirty years. They are evidently drifting very rapidly into the prophetic position in which they will be found when Christ shall appear.

The present relations and future prospects of the great prophetic powers, as seen in the present movement, are clearly described by many political writers who are well posted upon this important subject, a few of which we will quote. The London Times editorially says, in an article headed—

"The Troubles of Turkey with the Herzegovina:

Turkey is to Europe in general what certain troublesome races and provinces, that persist in being benighted and unprofitable, are to its various States. There is no curing the defects of its Government, and no means of preventing its blunders and misdoings from being a source of danger and anxiety to the leading Powers. England, France and Germany have, in the main, common interests in preventing the Turkish Empire from going to pieces, and the fragments being scrambled for; but there are many cross purposes which make it difficult for them to pull steadily together, and Russia is too anxious to play out her game of conquest and annexation, to agree, if she can help it, to anything that would either benefit Turkey, or secure the interests of any Christian population under Ottoman rule in any way that would render them independent of herself. If political circumstances rendered it possible for the other Great Powers to combine firmly in the interests of peace and civilization, the Turkish question would soon admit of a practical solution; but we cannot expect France to give up the chance of a Russian alliance against Germany, and England is not in a condition to avert future dangers, however grave, by a bold policy at the present hour. . . . .

"How long we can prudently abstain from more active exertion is rendered doubtful by the persistence of the little rebellion in the Herzegovina, which is like a fire throwing out sparks that fall in a combustible neighborhood. . . . .

"The little war already has the two perilous and exciting characteristics of being a conflict of religion and of race; and if it grows wider, the notions of Panslavism that have apparently been asleep for some years would once more become rampant. The northern Powers are nominally agreed that the large question of what is to become of Turkey shall not be brought into discussion through the incidents of this rebellion; but Russia will, of course, make use of the disturbance to weaken Turkey and lessen Austrian influence on the Danube as much as she can. . . . .

"A religious war is anticipated, and in view of that contingency it is strange that Turkish troops for the Herzegovina are being withdrawn from other Christian provinces. Bosnia is reported to be wholly disorganized, and the neutrality of Montenegro is precarious. The Austrian Embassy at Constantinople has been instructed to direct the attention of the Porte to the necessity of more energetic measures in Herzegovina. Austria is preparing for the mobilization of some trrops, as may be concluded from post-office clerks having been called upon to give their names if willing to join the field post. Russia, to superintend the action of the Montenegrins, has stationed one of the employes of her Ragusa Consulate at Cettiny."

These remarks show that Turkey is a plague-spot in Europe, and that the Christian nations would immediately wipe it out, only that they cannot agree how to divide the much coveted spoils. The Northern powers are not agreed that the "large question," that is the Eastern Question of What shall become of Turkey? shall be brought into discussion through the incidents of this rebellion;" that is, they are not quite ready for the final issue of determining who shall have Constantinople. Russia is not quite ready to lay its hand on the Sultan, neither is Germany ready to lay its hand on the Pope; neither are Austria, France and England quite prepared for the desperate struggle which they all anticipate and are rapidly preparing for. Turkey could not maintain its sovereignty three months against the instigation of all the christian nations and the combined and increasing hatred of its vassal States, if it were not for the support it receives from those nations who cannot agree how to dismember it. The Boston Journal presents the subject thus:—

"With these three revolts on its hands at once, and gaining in strength and extent every day, the Turkish Government promises to be kept pretty busy, and its future is exceedingly problematical. There are three important events, any one or all of which may result from this at first insignificant insurrection. . . . There are in Turkey about 2000 Protestant, 600,000 Catholic, and 5,100,000 Greek, Christians; and if the war were to become general, and to be waged on a religious basis, it would become so fierce and relentless as to recall the bloodiest encounters between the standards of the crescent and the cross.

Second, the dismemberment of the Turkish Empire. The outlying provinces of Turkey are bound to the home government by very slender ties, and some of them have already achieved a state of semi-independence. The Sublime Porte is deficient in the 'sinews of war,' as the Turkish credit in the money market of Europe is far from being good. Under these circumstances and with revolts threatening its existence in three different provinces, it may well be doubted whether the government, long weak and vacillating, will be able to maintain itself unless propped up from without.

Third, a general war in Europe over the distribution of the spoils. It is hard to see how any change of importanee could occur in Turkey without jeopardizing the very subtle adjustment of 'the balance of power.' The great powers of Europe have interested themselves in bolstering up the Turkish Government simply to prevent any one power from acquiring the much-coveted territory. Now Austria is hungrily watching the Herzegovinian insurrection, and the actual beginning of the trouble is traced back to the recent journey of the Austrian Emperor through Dalmatia. It is further said, with some show of reason, that one of the occasions for the recent hob-nobbing between the three Emperors was to arrange an alliance between Austria, Germany and Russia, by which the several parts of Turkey are to be distributed in case of its dismemberment. The notable feature about this arrangement is that England is left entirely out of it. . . .

The Eastern qnestion has always been a threatening one in European politics, and under certain contingencies, this revolt in in Herzegovina might open it afresh. Fortunately this result does not not appear imminent, at present, although the current of events does seem to be setting in that direction."

The Editor says of Turkey—"It may well be doubted whether the government, long weak and vacillating, will be able to maintain itself unless propped up from without;" that is, unless other governments shall help it stand. The prophet Daniel says of the same power—"He shall come to his end, and none shall help him." Surely he has come to the very condition the prophet foresaw, at which time he is to perish under the heavy hand and assembled "bands" of "Gog, the chief prince of Meshech and Tubal;" that is the Czar of Russia.

These wonderful events are coupled with the awakening of "many who sleep in the dust of the earth," or the resurrection of the dead. The Editor of the Worcester Spy, in commenting upon Turkey, in her present struggle, says,—

"That empire is not capable of making great exertions in warfare as war is now conducted, because money is needed even more than bravery or military skill, and Turkey is poor, and her credit, bad enough at present, would be desperate if she were engaged in a war, so exhaustive of her resources, and so threatening to her very existence. She has long owed her national life, not to her own strength, but to the unwillingness of the great powers that any one of them should be aggrandized by her fall. She has been a makeweight to preserve that unstable equilibrium called the balance of power. But since that was last the subject of diplomatic conferences, the European situation has changed materially, and the views of statesmen may have been essentially modified. It might be possible for them to consent to the establishment of an independent state, comprising the whole or a large part of European Turkey, but they could hardly agree to the division of this territory between Austria and Russia, which would be very glad to make such a division. It is within the range of possibilities that the revolt in this obscure province may lead to a reopening of the eastern question, and to a European war."

All political writers agree in relation to the present status of Europe, touching this great question, and the probable future rising out of the present complications; and we believe they agree perfectly with the prophetic foreshadowings of the same powers in the last days of the Gospel. We consider these frequent rebellions and war cries as skirmishes before a general battle. They belong to the special signs of the times, and should be watched with ceaseless vigilance by lovers of Christ's appearing. We do not know as the present difficulty will amount to anything more than a skirmish, but it does reveal the fact that there are mighty antagonisms anticipating and preparing for such a battle as has never been fought upon the earth.

Let all the people of God be prepared, for the armies "God" and "Gomer" are about ready for the last terrible conflict. "Cling to the Rock," for the mountain trembles with the approaching train. Secure the Pilot and life-boat, for the storm-cloud gathers as the coming tempest sends its premonitory signs of hastening destruction. Christian, allow thyself no rest until thou sittest down in thy ark, for the deluge of fire approacheth. Run into the "Tower," for the cities of the world are about to be burned. O Christ, save the remnant of thy flock, for the people of this generation have run mad with the Satanic delusions of the last days. May we repose at last in the Eden of eternal peace. J. C.

Dr. Wm. Leask, Editor of the Rainbow, says:—"The trade and subscribers will please take notice that in future the Rainbow will be published by Mr. Elliot Stock, 62 Paternoster Row, the publisher of Our Hope, ~~which next month will be incorporated~~ with this Magazine."

NOTES BY THE WAY.

HIRAM MUNGER.

As people are liable to so many changes in these last days, it is almost impossible to bring to mind former things, even of fifty years. Looking back fifty-two years, since I attended the first campmeeting, there have been great changes. The meetings were much smaller generally than now, and many more conversions. These facts cause inquiry. Then there was double the rowdyism, and it used to take about one half of the able-bodied men to watch, or guard the ground. One reason is, there was more personal effort and fervent praying, calling the names out in prayer of such as they were led to pray for. This, in many instances, sent the arrow to the heart of a sinner many rods off. It was seldom a sinner could come on to the ground one day, without having one or more talk with him on the subject of his soul's salvation.

Again, every tent's company came to work for God, instead of visiting and dressing in fashion as now. Every tent was a Bethel, instead of selecting one for that purpose. When people were converted they knew it, and their neighbors knew it. Christians were not so polite then as now about approaching a sinner. One or two cases will show the style of work. One sister met a relative on the camp-ground, about eighteen years old. This sister asked her the first thing if she had got religion. She said, No. What, eighteen years old, and no religion! I am astonished, or ashamed of you; I have forgotten which. But the battle commenced in this way, and a victory was won. This was not polite, but effectual. Another case of Mother Parsons, who met her daughter Maria on the ground. After shaking hands, she told her she must get religion, and then took her into the tent, knelt down and began to pray, and the daughter began to weep, soon knelt down, and the work was done. Maria lives her religion yet, while her mother sleeps.

Many such cases I have witnessed in times past. I know of a sinner who was approached suddenly upon the subject of religion, and at first was insulting; then felt ashamed of his conduct; then knelt down, and in ten minutes was converted so soundly, that it has lasted over thirty years, amid trials, sickness, and opposition. Such were some of the old-fashioned conversions. There is improvement, in these last days, in every thing but theology and religion. If time continues long, religion will become so adulterated with the maxims and manners and politeness of the world, that God's Holy Spirit may give way to a human, mechanical power, which is being substituted for the power of God.

DEDICATION.

The Advent Church of Haverhill, Mass., dedicated their new chapel on Walnut Street, to the service of God last Sunday, the 5th, by the following exercises: Prayer and praise meeting, at a quarter past ten A. M., in which all who participated offered heart-felt thanks to the Lord for his goodness and mercies. Many expressed their earnest desire to dedicate themselves anew to the service of the Master, and with renewed zeal and energy labor for Christ's cause and coming kingdom. At 3 P. M., the house was crowded to its utmost capacity by an intelligent audience, who listened with interest to an earnest and powerful sermon from Eld. D. M. Leavitt. At half past seven, after an hour spent in prayer, song, and praise, Eld. D. Churchill preached an able discourse, to a full house, with good acceptance. It was a good day for the church. Our motto is, onward. Pray for us. A. F. Quimby.

Haverhill, Mass., Aug. 9th.

Dr. Andrew A. Bonar of Glasgow, Scotland, referring to "the wave of blessing now sweeping over" Britain, says: "We may well ask, In what is this amazing work to end? Are not the four angels holding back the four winds of desolating judgment, while the sealing angel is marking in their foreheads those who are to be preserved from the impending tempest? Then will follow the terrific storm that ushers in the coming of our Lord.—Rev. 7."

THE TRACT FUND.

The Advent Christian Publication Society, at a meeting on Springfield camp-ground, August 11th, 1875, voted to raise Two Thousand Dollars for the free distribution of Tracts the ensuing year; and they invite the help and co-operation of all lovers of the Lord and of his truth, in the furtherance of the good cause. The times are ominous of coming events, and admonish us to diligence in the Master's work. The Lord is at the door, and what we do must be done quickly. Let the contributions be prompt, hearty, and liberal. The Lord will reward the liberal giver.

A. W. Sibley, Sec. Adv. Chris. Pub. Soc.

Remittances should be sent to the Treasurer, Geo. T. Adams, Boston Mass. or they may be enclosed with remittances to the Crisis Office.

DONATIONS FOR THE TRACT FUND.

Previous acknowledgments	$25 90
Z. Whitney	10.00
A Sister	2 50
A Friend	2.00
Annie Calder	.50
J. J. Edmands	.30

POOR FUND.

TO SEND THE "CRISIS" TO THE POOR.

Previous acknowledgments	$2.40
F. L. Smith	2 75
Alice J. Cheney	.75

YOUNG PILGRIM FUND.

AMER. ADV. MISSION SOCIETY.

Donations are earnestly solicited, to enable this Society to send out missionaries, and other means, into the Southern States, and elsewhere, as the Lord may open the door, to proclaim "the glad tidings of the kingdom at hand"; and should be sent, as also payments of pledges made, to the

Treasurer, Geo. T. Adams,

P. O. Drawer 5002, Boston, Mass.

who will acknowledge the same in the columns of the Crisis.

Aug. 6th, 1875, and onward.

Previous acknowledgments	$905 38
(Previous acknowledgments published last week $482.22, should have been $890.38.)
Sister G. W. Cadwell (pledge paid) to be divided between Brn. A. A. Phelps, J. A. Cargile, and J. J. Smith)	50 00
"South Boston," for Bro. J. J. Smith	5 00
"C"	4 00
A Sister	3 00
H. A. Hitchcock, for J. A. Cargile	1.00
" " " for J. J. Smith	1 00

REPORT OF TENT MEETING IN RICHMOND, ME.

The Union Tent was pitched in Richmond Village, June 16th. We found the brethren and sisters in a very low and scattered condition, by reason of differences in their faith on certain doctrines which they have embraced, to say the least, not to their furtherance in spirituality, but rather causing divisions and strife among themselves, and the giving up of meetings. As our meetings began in the Spirit, they began to make a rally for a higher life in Christ, and some found that they could be kept by the power of God through faith, that could not keep themselves. They found sweet rest in trusting alone in Jesus. Backsliders also came back to their blessed Lord; found him to be faithful who had promised—"Him that cometh unto me, I will in no wise cast out." The poor sinners were troubled, sought for mercy, and found peace in believing. Others saw the evidences that Jesus is coming soon, as never before. We had a very hard time with our tent in the storm and winds, which blew it down Friday night; but it was astonishing that the only damage done was to break our lamp chimney. They told us it was pitched on the "devil's half acre" (as the place has been called for many years). We could not help thinking of Job, when the winds blew day after day; yet we had peace and victory, and were treated with kindness by those in the place. We continued our meetings afternoons and evenings over the fourth of July, when we had a baptism. Three followed their Lord and Master into the liquid stream, to show their faith in the death and resurrection of Jesus. Others were intending to go forward, but circumstances prevented them. One young brother came some distance to obey the Lord. It was blessed and strengthening to meet with one who made a start four years ago in one of our quarterly meetings, when but a boy, who had continued faithful to his Lord. We will give God all the glory.

We were glad of our meeting in Richmond. The brethren and sisters were much encouraged. Bro. John Lake offered them the use of his hall six months free. We occupied it Sunday evening, the Fourth, and had a blessed meeting. They will hold meetings Friday evenings and Sundays. Nearly all were united to sustain a union meeting. May they learn from the past to keep the unity of the Spirit, in all meekness and love; so that it may be said of them by the world, see how these brethren love one another. Preaching brethren will find a welcome among them, that have the love of the truth that is meat due this generation, who strive to gather, rather than scatter by some side issue, or hobby. Dear brethren, in the ministry, let us use the wisdom of the Serpent, and harmlessness of the dove. As Jesus is at the door, let us do all we can to present the signs, so that it may be said, "Well done, good and faithful servant." It is too late to contend for doctrines and commandments of men. Jesus is at hand. May we be found waiting, is my prayer.

H. B. Sevey.

Correspondence

From Sr. M. Eastman.

"Great peace have they which love thy law; and nothing shall offend them."

Truly, we may have a peace that no one can take from us. When we have that divine principle implanted in our heart by the Holy Spirit, how easy to bear and forbear with one another in love. How careful we are not to speak evil of any one, but to love as brethren and sisters in Christ. We must have the law of God written upon our hearts, actuating us to perfect obedience to his holy commandments. "Love is the fulfilling of the law." When we have our hearts filled with love, we are not easily provoked. We do not get all stirred up at the trials that we have to pass through. If we need trials, let trials come. We will trust in God.

I never felt in my life, or realized, that divine power keeping me every day, as I have of late. Truly, his grace is sufficient in every time of need. I have learned a better way to live. The enemy would destroy all my peace if he could; but I have made up my mind to have nothing to do with him, but try and be filled with the good spirit of Jesus, and feel that I am sweetly resting in him all the time. When we are there, the enemy's darts cannot hurt nor disturb our peace. Praise his dear name forever. I love this way. Soon we'll enter the haven of eternal rest. I feel that my hope reaches to that within the veil, where Christ has entered, and if I continue to follow the Master, love the Lord with all the heart, my hope will soon be consummated.

Dear brethren and sisters, try and keep the unity of the spirit in the bond of peace. If there is any envy, malice, or any thing that tends to drive the Spirit of God from us, lay it aside. We must have clean hearts if we would have this law of love written there, which will yield the peaceable fruits of righteousness. I love this freedom. There is no condemnation to those who are in Christ; no slavish fear, for perfect love casteth out fear. If you are bound by Satan, go to Jesus. He can break his strong cords, and set you free. Are you willing to give up all that belongs to him and his followers? Are you willing to give up the pride and fashion of this world, and bear all that this world or an ungodly church may say of you? Choose ye this day whom ye will serve. Time is short. As long as we stay away from Christ we are growing harder in sin, and we lose so much time that might be spent in his service. The past cannot be recalled. Improve the present moments to the glory of God. How we delight to do his will, when it is written in our hearts. We have no desire to turn from the right way, which is Christ. He is unto us all that we really stand in need of, and says, "Be of good cheer, I have overcome the world."

East Concord, N. H.

From Sr. J. A. Goodrich.

Dear Brn. and Srs.:—Again I take my pen, this lovely morning, to tell you about the goodness of God. We can see his wonderful goodness as we look all around us. O how blessed and soul-cheering to know that we trust a God that is able to lead his weary children triumphantly into the promised land, and not one of them shall fall by the way who put their trust in him. When I read his blessed promises, I am lifted above the world and all its cares. Nothing shall disturb our happiness, who are truly the children of God; for we know in whom we believe, and his all-sustaining arm is ever round about us.

Truly this world is full of sorrow; but, blessed be his dear name, we read of a world where God shall wipe away all tears from our eyes, and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain. Blessed thought! This is indeed a blessed promise; enough to encourage every christian to press on with unfaltering step toward the kingdom of God. This life is full of sadness; but when we reach the better world, all these things will be for ever gone. O blessed home! We shall love to walk thy golden streets, and behold the Son of God. What a happy day that will be to those who have long waited for the glorious appearing of our Lord and Savior. When I look forward to the precious promises that await the suffering ones, my heart is lifted above the sufferings of this present life, and I am content to wait with patience until Jesus comes and gathers his waiting ones home. How blessed it is to feel and know that the Lord is our refuge, a present help in every time of trouble. Not a trial does one of his children suffer that escapes his notice. His loving watch-care is ever over us, and the best of all is, he tells us to "fear not"; "It is I, be not afraid."

It is our blessed privilege to live above the fears of this life. I feel that I am safe while I lean upon Christ. I know that he will take care of me, for he hath promised to, and not one of his promises can fail,—"though heaven and earth shall pass away, my words shall not pass away." Blessed assurance! He that is with us and dwelleth in us, is more than all that can be against us. If our names are written in the book of life, and our hearts have been created anew in Christ Jesus, we can effectually repel the assaults of the Evil One, and shout victory through the blood of the Lamb. The great Captain of our salvation asks us to go only where he leads the way. Confidently, then, should we follow, knowing that as he hath abolished death, and conquered the powers of darkness, he will bring us off victorious at last, and then shall we realize the glorious fruition of our hopes. There will be no more curse, no more death, neither sorrow nor crying; neither any more pain.

O how blessed and encouraging to the toiling christian is the prospect of soon being free from all the sorrows of this mortal life. With the energizing power of the Holy Spirit upon the heart, to prompt us to right action, we go forth to the triumph, knowing the Father's pitying eyes are ever upon us, and his ears open unto our cry. "Behold, he that keepeth Israel shall neither slumber nor sleep."

New Britain, Ct.

From Sr. J. M. Goldsmith.

DEAR READERS OF THE CRISIS:—It has been in my mind for some time to write something of my experience in finding the blessed truths advocated by the Crisis. I have been a reader of the Crisis over three years, and think it a most excellent paper, speaking hope and encouragement to us all. I was brought up in the orthodox faith, and also to believe in sprinkling for baptism; but after coming to this place, nearly four years ago, I found, through the mercy and goodness of God, that I had been walking in darkness all this time, but not wilfully. I was astonished to see what a great difference there was between the truth and the doctrines I had so long believed, and cannot feel thankful enough that I saw my mistake before it was too late. The blessed Bible seems like another book to me, and every part is full of harmony and beauty, which I believe is the experience of all those who, like me, have found the truth. I was baptized by immersion on the 17th of Sept. 1873, by Elder C. F. Sweet, and since that time have been trying to walk in the fear of God and to keep his commandments. I feel that I can of myself do nothing, but through the help of the dear Savior, I am determined to press on until I reach the promised land, and dwell in paradise restored, and in the presence of God forevermore.

Hoping that the few words I have written in weakness may cheer the hearts of some dear readers of the Crisis, as their letters do me, I shall be glad that I have written them. We have not much longer to wait for our coming King, and let us all try to be faithful, that we may reap the reward of the righteous. There is a small church here who are looking for the Lord, and trying to serve him. Pray for us, that we may all be found in the path of duty, ready and glad to meet the dear Savior.

So. Creek, Pa.

From Bro. J. J. Edmonds.

We are having a series of tent-meetings at this place. First, the Penn. Advent Conference tent was pitched here July 31st, and was kept up over two Sabbaths. Two put on Christ by baptism, and many more were convinced of the blessed truths in the Bible, and much prejudice removed. From this place, the tent was removed to the city of Allentown, under the supervision of Elders I. N. Wilfong, G. A. Brown, and Jno. F. Rathgeber. Meetings were commenced Sunday, Aug 15th, and thousands came to hear. Many took part in prayers and testimonies, and one was added to the little flock of believers. Scores were convinced that we have the truth. From this city, the tent was moved to Bushkill township, in a grove one mile and a half south from Nazareth, and meetings commenced on the 4th of Sept., by Elders Louis Reimer and Jno. F. Ruthgeber. Bro. I. N. Wilfong having received a despatch from Cleveland, Ohio, that his dear companion was lying dangerously ill at that place, which called him away. We had no English preaching during the Sabbath day, the 5th inst. Two put on Christ by baptism. The ceremony was performed by Jno. F. Rathgeber. Thousands of people were out to hear the word preached on Sunday. Gospel light is spreading.

Freemansburg, Pa.

BRO. THOMAS HOWELL writes from San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 1st, 1875:—"Bro. Mathewson commenced his labors here last Sunday week. He is well liked. I think he will be the right man for San Francisco. The prospect for the church looks good. I am very happy to say that I am still trusting all to Jesus. He keeps me every day. I find I have to keep praying all the time. The enemy is very busy. The times are getting alarming. We need on the whole armor of God.

The Santa Clara church is getting along well. They have engaged me to preach for them every two weeks. Bro. Carpenter is getting along well in Vallejo. They like him much."

SR. P. BAKER writes from Arcadia, Wis.: "Dear Editors:—I thought I would write a few lines for your excellent paper. I cannot well tell you how my poor heart is stirred within me while reading its columns. May the Lord grant that the reading of them may be blest to the good of many a soul, in time and eternity. We are living way up here in Wisconsin, where Advent preaching is not so plenty as it is in some places. Bro. G. W. Turner used to preach to us once in a while, but he has not been here for several months. We have had the Crisis and the Christian to read, and I like them very much indeed. I think I value them for reading matter next to my Bible."

Married.

BADGER—WEBBER. In Bangor, Me., Sept. 8th, 1875, at the residence of Z. B Chase, Mr. CHARLES E BADGER of Bangor, Me., and Miss ABBIE WEBBER, of Clinton, Me.

Obituaries.

SMITH. In Concord, N. H., July 13th, 1875, Sister Cyrene G. Smith, aged sixty-seventy years, wife of Bro. I. K. Smith.

Sister S. in early life became an ardent lover and faithful follower of Jesus, and joyfully greeted the first note of the glorious message advertising his speedy coming. She long ago learned that the earth was lost and cursed, and could present no real good or substantial joys, and had cherished the sweet hope that its great Redeemer would speedily appear, and sweep the curse into oblivion and renew the face of creation, planting the tree of life on death's spoiled grave, leading the redeemed church into Paradise restored, where death can seize no victims, and the grave can hold no captives. She lived the life of a christian, and died the death of the righteous. Sweet is her memory, and peaceful are her slumbers.

J. C.

WHITAKER. In Brattleboro, Vt., Aug. 22nd. 1875, of consumption, Sr. Annie M. Whitaker, aged twenty-five years, four months, and seventeen days.

Our dear sister has thus been early separated from the bosom of her father's family, of which she has been for a few brief years an ornament, loving and beloved by all. She was converted under the united efforts of the brethren and sisters at Wilbraham campmeeting, some eight or ten years since; was baptized by Bro. H. L. Hastings, since which time the people of God have been the people of her choice. But her work is done, and sister Annie is no more. While we looked upon her placid features, we felt that though she was dead, her life was "hid with Christ in God," and when he appeareth, she will appear with him in glory. May God, in his mercy, fill the hearts of parents, brothers and sisters, with the same sustaining grace that characterized the last days of the departed.

MARY C. WHITAKER.

PENDLETON. In Pawcatuck, Conn., Aug. 22d, 1875, Clarissa, wife of Deacon Taylor Pendleton, aged seventy-four years.

She had been a professor of the Christian religion about fifty years. She had been out of health for many years, and for the last twelve had not been able to do any work; yet amid all her pain and suffering, her trust has ever been in Him who careth for the afflicted. She died strong in the faith. She has left a large circle of friends, as well as an aged companion, who mourn her loss. Her companion, who is permitted to tarry yet a little while this side the Jordan of death, is buoyed up in his declining years by the glorious hope of meeting her in the morning of the resurrection, for which he longs, though patiently waits.

R. S. CHURCH.

SANBORN. Fell asleep in Jesus, in Portland, Me., Aug. 25th, 1875, Charles O. Sanborn, aged thirty-one years, and five months.

Charles was beloved by all who knew him. Relatives and friends were comforted with the assurance that he was prepared to awake in the likeness of his Redeemer, when he shall return to gather his special treasures.

Then he, arising from the tomb,
Immortal, bright, shall ever shine;
Reviving in eternal bloom,
Safe from diseases and decline.

S. S. BREWER.

BERRY. In South Boston, Aug. 29th, 1875, Lena M., daughter of Bro. Lorenzo D. and Sr. Emma M. Berry, aged three years, two months, eleven days.

Closed and dim her starry eyes, light from heaven bringing;
Silent is that angel voice, once so sweetly singing;
Death has claimed her for his prize—has her in his keeping;
Robbed the sunlight from your eyes—scorns your bitter weeping;
But ere long his chains shall break, and that tender blossom,
Beauteous shall again awake folded to your bosom.

J. N. B.

WALKER. In Tuftonborough, N.H., July 15th, 1875, Bro. Asa Walker, aged sixty-seven years, three months, and twenty-two days.

Our Bro. leaves a wife and three children (a son that is proclaiming the gospel of the kingdom), who deeply feel their loss. Our Bro. embraced the glorious truths of the coming King in its first proclamation in this part of the country. He continued to defend its principles to the last. The funeral was attended by the writer, assisted by the F. Baptist preacher of the place, when a large concourse of people assembled to pay their last respects to the deceased.

J. G. SMITH.

CARTER. In Houlton, Me., Aug. 30th, 1875, Abbie, only daughter of Bro and Sr. Carter, aged three years and two months.

May the Lord sustain the afflicted in this their great loss. Services attended by the writer.

Z. B. CHASE.

FOREIGN NEWS.

LONDON, Sept. 6. The Chinese difficulty has been amicably arranged. China is to send a special ambassador to England who is to make suitable apologies for the insults offered to Mr. Wade, the British Minister at Pekin. The Chinese Government is also to give an indemnity for the murder of Mr. Margary, and promises to punish his murderers. It has also agreed to the opening of the trade route to Burmah.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept 7. An official despatch received here from General Kauffman, commanding the Russian expedition against the Khokand rebels, announces that a battle was fought on the 4th inst, when the Russians completely defeated a force of rebels numbering 30,000, who occupied a fortified position which General Golavatchoff stormed. The enemy were pursued and many of them were killed and drowned in the Amor Daria river. Several guns and a quantity of other war material were captured. The losses of the Russians were inconsiderable. General Kauffman will continue his advance against the rebels when his means of transportation arrive from Kodshent.

CETTIGNE, MONTENEGRO, Sept. 10. All the country between Servia and Montenegro is in full revolt. Fully ten thousand insurgents have taken the field. The towns of Priepol and Pleolie have been sacked. All the Turkish villages have been burned and the Turks massacred. The Christian inhabitants have taken refuge in the mountains. The Turkish troops are demoralized, and the insurrection is spreading on all sides. Montenegro is prepared for war, and the wildest enthusiasm prevails. A general war is regarded as inevitable.

Montenegro, Sept. 12. Servia and Montenegro are in full revolt; all the Turkish villages have been burned, and the Turks massacred. The Christians have taken refuge in the mountains. The Turkish troops are demoralized. A general rout is regarded as certain.

Paris, Sept. 13. A water-spout, causing terrible loss of life and destruction of property, occurred during the storm yesterday at Montpelier, in the Department of Herault. Over sixty persons were drowned.

DOMESTIC NEWS.

New York, Sept. 10. Senor Luna, editor of the Cuban Patriot newspaper in this city, has received the following from Havana: The patriots have burned eighty houses and much valuable property in Santa Espiritu. Brigadier General Ceballos has been forced to transfer his headquarters from that city to Remedios.

Burlington. Ia, Sept. 10 A perfect flood of rain deluged this city Wednesday night about twelve o'clock, and continued eight hours, damaging property to the extent of $4000. By three o'clock, Hawkeye Creek was swollen to such an extent as to overleap its boundary and swept through the city, carrying devastation with it and entailing a pecuniary loss of $60,000.

San Francisco, Sept. 7. An extensive Indian outbreak is reported in Eastern Nevada and Western Utah. A number of settlers and miners were killed. The women and children are being removed to places of safety. Troops and volunteers are going to the scene. The military commander at this city has been asked for arms and ammunition Orders have been issued for the infantry and cavalry to proceed at once from this city and Benecia to Eastern Nevada. The rising is attributed to Mormon influences.

Cincinnati, Sept. 10. The Commercial's Bloomington, Illinois special says that a terrific cyclone last night spent its fierce fury on Normal, Ill., where two gales seemed to converge in a whirlwind, tearing the large brick residence of C. Funk to atoms. Mrs. Funk was thrown out on a pile of debris and had a leg broken. Other houses were overturned and barns demolished. The buildings on the Fair Grounds were destroyed. At Kingsmill, a few miles west of Bloomington, the storm cut a path through a maple grove, twisting the trees off like pipe stems. At Clinton, Dewitt county, Jack Grandy was killed in his house by lightning. A number of cars were blown off the track of the Lafayette railroad.

Chicago, Sept. 11. A most terrible disaster, arising from the great storm on Thursday night, comes to light this morning, a disaster involving the loss of the propeller Equinox with all on board, twenty-two persons, not one of whom is known to have escaped.

Washington, Sept. 8. The following telegram was received at the Executive Mansion this evening, and immediately forwarded to the President at Long Branch:—

JACKSON, Miss., Sept. 8—5.30 P. M.

To President U. S. Grant, Washington, D. C.:

Domestic violence prevails in various parts of this State beyond the power of the State authorities to suppress. The Legislature cannot be convened in time to meet the emergency. I therefore, in accordance with Section 4, Article 4 of the Constitution of the United States, which provides that the United States shall guarantee to every State in this Union a Republican form of government and shall protect each of them against invasion, and, on application of the Legislature, or of the Executive when the Legislature cannot be convened, against domestic violence, make this my application for such aid from the Federal Government as may be necessary to restore peace to the State and protect its citizens.

(Signed) ADELBERT AMES, Governor.

A RAILROAD TRAIN IN A HAIL STORM.—The belated Union Pacific train that arrived in Council Bluffs about half-past twelve Sunday morning met with an experience of hail near Potter's station, some two hundred miles west of Omaha, on Thursday evening. The hail fell with such frightful force as to compel the train to stop. The stones were of immense size, being on an average three inches in diameter. Within five minutes from the time the first stone struck the cars there was not a whole light of glass on the south side of the train the entire length of it. The windows in the Pullman cars were of French plate three-eighths of an inch in thickness, and double. The dome of the engine looked as though it had been pounded with a heavy weight, and the wood work on the south side of the cars was plowed up as if some one had struck it all over with siding blows from a hammer. Several of the ladies fainted, and Mrs. Earl, wife of the mountain division superintendent of the road, went into spasms. Several persons were more or less injured. The bombardment lasted about twenty minutes, and was of unexampled fury. When the train arrived at Grand Island the windows were tinned over the entire length of the train.—Davenport (Iowa) Gazette.

ITEMS.

— A thousand Turks recently encountered sixty Bosnians and killed them all.

— One thousand newspapers have failed during the last year.

— There are now eleven Roman Catholic archbishops in the United States.

— The Catholic League in Canada is assuming a more threatening aspect each day.

— The losses by fire in the Russian empire last year are said to have reached the enormous amount of $45,000,000. The railway locomotives are one of the greatest causes of fire.

— A thousand flashes of lightning were counted in an hour during the great storm on the 7th of July at Geneva, Switzerland.

— The Roman Catholic bishops of Canada are expected to soon issue a circular in which the immunity of the clergy from the operation of civil laws will be energetically affirmed.

A NEW WORK.

SATANIC SPIRITUALISM.

I have just published a work on Spiritualism, with the above title, containing 96 pp., 16 mo. It aims to establish the satanic character of spirit manifestations, both ancient and modern, and shows also that they are through demons instead of the spirits of the dead. These demons are shown to be the evil angels of Scripture, and to have their location in our atmosphere. The "familiar spirits" in the early Bible times, and the demons in the days of Christ and the early church, are shown to have the same general character which we find in the spirits of Spiritualism; while the phenomena in the Salem witchcraft, and several other occasions in modern times, are shown to have all the usual features of the reports of spirit manifestations in our day.

After noticing various instances of spirit manifestations in the past, the principles and doctrines of modern Spiritualism are given in numerous quotations from the spirits and leading Spiritualists, showing that they are every way blasphemous and anti-christian; and finally the tendency of popular religious teachings toward the doctrines of Spiritualism is shown to be fearfully manifest in all directions. While from its thorough treatment of the subject the work will prove invaluable to inquirers after truth, it will be found of especial service to ministers and others as a book of reference from its numerous quotations of authorities on various points.

I shall have the pamphlet on sale at my stand at Alton Bay campmeeting, and will fill orders for them at 20 cts single copy, six copies $1.00, by addressing me there during the meeting, or afterward at Burke, Vt. Those wishing larger quantities will be allowed a further reduction.

I. K. LOMBARD.

☞ For sale at this Office.

Notices.

A CARD.

At a meeting of the Board of Managers of the Alton Bay Campmeeting Association of the Advent Christian Church, held at Alton Bay, Aug. 28th, 1875, the following resolution was unanimously passed:

Resolved, That the thanks of the Alton Bay Campmeeting Association are hereby tendered to the President, Superintendent, and other officers, and the employees of the Boston and Maine Rail Road, for their kindness and liberality in improving the grounds of our campmeeting, and for their thorough and efficient arrangements for conveying the people safely to and from the meeting at reduced rates of fare. And,

Resolved, Further, that we highly appreciate the kind and courteous manner with which we have been treated by all connected with the road.

J. COUCH, President.
C. H. FLETCHER, Secretary.

Notice.

The Quarterly Conference of the Eastern District of Massachusetts will be held at the Advent Chapel, Lawrence, Mass., to commence Thursday evening, Oct. 7th, and continue over Sunday, the 10th.

It is desired that all the preachers of Eastern Mass. and as many of the brethren and sisters of the churches as can, may attend. An invitation is also extended to all others who may esteem it a privilege or duty to meet with us in this christian convocation. Let all pray for the divine blessing.

J. COUCH.

Notice.

The meeting of the Alton Bay Campmeeting Committee is postponed from Sept. 28th to October 6th. J. COUCH.

Hoosick Valley Conference.

The annual meeting of the Hoosick Valley Conference will be held at Hoosick, N. Y., commencing Wednesday, Oct. 6th, 1875, to continue over the following Sunday. Particulars hereafter.

A. W. SIBLEY, President.
W. O HIGLEY, Secretary.

NOTICE.—A quarterly session of the New Hampshire A. C. Conference will be held at Salisbury, South Village, commencing Thursday evening, Oct. 7th, and hold over the following Sabbath. It is hoped that a number of our preachers and many brethren and sisters will be present. Eld. E. A Stockman is expected to assist in preaching the word. D. W. DAVIS, for Committee.

THE ANNUAL MEETING of the church of God in Darien, Genesee Co, N. Y., will commence Friday evening, Sept. 24th, and hold over the Sabbath. Elds. J. B. Cook, Colegrove, Low, and others, will be present. Come, brethren in the Spirit, that God may bless the meeting, as he always has in years past. Conveyance at Croft's Station, as usual.

A. C NEWELL.
B. C. SIMONDS.
G. STRONG.

FOUND on Alton Bay camp-ground, one Misses' sacque; one parasol; a tuning fork; some belts, fans, and gloves. Inquire of J. G. SMITH, Farmington, N. H.

THE EVANGEL TENT will continue in West Waterville over Sunday, the 19th. Meetings afternoons and evenings. Brethren and sisters can find accommodations in small tents. Bring food and bedding. F. E. BLAISDELL.

Rhode Island Campmeeting.

The Lord permitting, the Rhode Island and East Conn. Camp meeting will be held at Coventry Centre, R I., to commence Sept 8th, and continue to Sept. 17th. Good accommodations for strangers to lodge, and those who have no tents. Bro. Leslie will be there with the Mass. Mission Tent, and all who wish to petition off rooms can do so at a reasonable price.

It is expected the fare will be reduced one third on the Hartford and Providence road between Providence and Plainfield. Call for campmeeting tickets at all way stations between these two places. There will be two large tents on the ground, and good board and lodging. Board can be obtained at 80 cts. per day; dinner for 40 cents; breakfast and supper 30 cts. each. Horse-keeping on reasonable terms.

Able preachers will be there to preach the word. Let there be a large gathering from all the region round about. Pray much for the success of this meeting. It may be the last this side of the judgment. Let us labor for the salvation of sinners. E. BELLOWS.

Campmeeting.

The Advent Christian Campmeeting of Northern Kansas and Southern Nebraska will be held at Peach Creek, Washington Co., beginning October 7th, and continue over two Sundays. Come all that can. Make a sacrifice to come, and come filled with the Spirit to work for God. Bring plenty of bedding, and all bring tents that can. Bro. and Sr. Clark will be present (D. V.), with a large missionary tent.

Committee: C. D. Potter, A. S. Field, J. W. Elliott, and Theodore Bedgar.

Brn. G. G. Godfrey, James Hayworth, F. O. Cutler, J. S. Thorp, E. N. Bliss, James Page, R. F. Clark, Sr. Clark, and others, will be present to assist in preaching the word.

For additional information, address C. D. POTTER, Peach Creek, Washington Co., Kansas.

The Advent Christian Conference of Northern Kansas and Southern Nebraska will be held during the early part of the meeting. Per order of Committee.

CONFERENCE. The Lord willing, a general meeting of the members of the church of God will be held near Sulphur Springs, Williamson Co., Ills, commencing Friday, Sept. 17th, at 7.30 P. M, and continuing over the following Sunday. All who "love his appearing" are cordially invited to be present. Inquire for Bro. Henry M. Cocke, who lives two miles west of the post office. Come with your Bibles, and let us "search the Scriptures" in "the spirit of truth," for in them we are assured that we find full directions how to obtain "eternal life." Let us have a genuine love feast once more while waiting for the realization of "that blessed hope." AMOS SANFORD.

Conference.

The next Annual Advent Christian Conference of Northern Pa. and Southern N. Y. will be held at Little Marsh, Tioga Co., Pa., commencing Thursday evening, Oct. 14th, and continuing over the following Sunday. We hope to see a general gathering of the friends of truth. Come in the name of the Lord. Ticket by railway from Corning (Tioga depot) to Middlebury. Teams will be at Middlebury to convey to Little Marsh.

E. C. COWLES, President.
A. H. BRIGGS, Secretary.

A CONFERENCE.—The Lord willing, there will be a conference in North Hermon, Me., in the Advent Chapel, about five miles from Bangor, on the avenue road, commencing Friday, Oct. 1st, at two o'clock P. M., and continue over Sunday. Whoever will, let them come and worship the Lord. Hope he will send some of the preaching brethren to preach the word of life. In behalf of the brethren, S. BRAGG.

CONFERENCE.—The Lord willing, there will be a conference in Wesley, Me., to commence Thursday, Sept 30th, at six o'clock P. M., and continue over the Sabbath. We extend the invitation to all who can come and meet with us, to advance the cause of truth and the salvation of sinners.

M. W. CORLISS.

NOTICE.—The York Co. A. C. Conference will hold its next quarterly session at Hollis Centre, Me., commencing Thursday, Sept. 16th, at two o'clock P. M. Make it a point to be there at the commencement, and remain until the close.

C. H. SWEET, Secretary.

NOTICE to those who pledged money for Bro Brundage at Springfield and Alton Bay Campmeetings.—I have sent him the list of names, and you can forward to him direct, or to Bro. Geo. T. Adams, Boston, Mass. Either way will be safe, and be noticed in due time in the Crisis. I would here acknowledge $5.00 from Sr. Orcutt, of Stafford, Conn., received on the Springfield camp-ground. Bro. B.'s address is Elias Brundage, Black Walnut, Halifax Co., Virginia.

ROLAND D. GRANT, Athol, Mass.

MY LABORS for the present and on until further notice, will be with the church in Whitefield, N. H. Brethren, please remember and address all communications designed for me to the above place. T. E. LANG, JR.

THE BIBLE BANNER.

This is a large, illustrated, monthly paper, conducted by A. A. PHELPS, A. M., assisted by an able corps of Special Contributors. It contains various departments—Doctrinal, Prophetical, Practical, Bible Class, Miscellany, and Items of Interest. It is devoted to a critical exposition of Bible Truth, and an earnest advocacy of Bible Salvation. Only One Dollar a year, and postage free. Liberal terms to Agents. Address THE BIBLE BANNER, Vineland, N. J.

☞ For sale at this Office.

Appointments.

☞ APPOINTMENTS MUST BE RECEIVED AS EARLY AS TUESDAY MORNING (as our paper goes to press about noon) to insure insertion for the coming week.

☞ The following RESOLUTION was passed at the late meeting of the A. C. P. Society:—

"RESOLVED, That no appointments be published in the CRISIS henceforth for persons unknown to the Editorial Board (by which is understood the Editors, Editorial Committee, and Business Agent), unless satisfactory reference shall be given.

The Committee appointed by the Adv. Chris. Association, at its last Annual Meeting, to advise with the Editorial Board "in relation to the publication in the World's Crisis of the appointments of men unworthy of recognition as preachers," having attended to the duty assigned them, recommended, and the Editorial Board have adopted, and ordered to be published, the following resolution:—

"RESOLVED, That when the Editorial Board is properly notified by any of our Churches or Ministers, or responsible persons by a written allegation that a certain minister, or ministers lack moral character, that they be instructed to notify such minister, or ministers, of the information received as a reason for withholding their appointments till after a proper trial and acquittal."

All communications in relation to this matter should be addressed to the Secretary of the Board—GEO. T. ADAMS, Boston, Mass.

Boston (Branch Chapel) 2029 Washington Street, (corner of Madison Street.)
Love Feast at 10½ a. m. Preaching at 3 and 7½ p. m. Prayer meeting Tuesday and Friday evenings.

BOSTON (Repository Hall) 712 Washington St., corner of Kneeland St.
Preaching at 10½ a. m. and 3 and 7 p. m. Sunday School at 1.30 p. m. Prayer meeting Wednesday evening.

EAST BOSTON (Central Hall, 152 Meridian Street.) Meetings every Sunday, at the usual hours, also prayer and conference meetings Wednesday and Friday evenings, at 7½ o'clock p. m.
C. Goodrich ... Sunday, Oct 3d

CHARLESTOWN (HALL NO. 70 MAIN STREET.)
F. H. Burbank ... Sunday, Sept. 19th
W. S. Campbell ... Sunday, Sept. 26th

Chelsea, Mass.
Preaching Sundays, at 10.30 A. M. and 3 P. M.
Conference Meeting at 7 o'clock Sunday evenings. Tuesday and Friday evenings, at 7½ o'clock.
M. R. Phetteplace ... Sunday, Sept. 19th

SOMERVILLE, Mass. (Hawkins Hall in Union Square.) Meetings every Sunday, at the usual hours, also prayer and conference meetings Tuesday and Friday evenings, at 7½ o'clock p. m.
B Finney ... Sunday, Sept. 19th
Geo. W. Sederquest ... 1st and 3d Sundays in each month till further notice.

HYDE PARK, Mass. (Connor's Hall.)—Meetings every Sabbath at the usual hours. T. M. PREBLE.

Lowell, Mass ... Sunday, Sept. 19th
J. COUCH.

Worcester, Mass ... Friday evening, Sept. 17th
Charlton, Mass ... Saturday evening, Sept. 18th and Sabbath, Sept 19th.
Springfield, Mass., Wednesday evening, Sept. 22d and onward in a series of meetings as the Lord may direct. MILES GRANT.

Castleton, Vt ... Sunday, Sept. 19th
S. G. MATHEWSON.

Holden, Mass ... Sunday, Sept. 19th
C. E. BARNES.

New Bedford, Mass ... Sunday, Sept. 19th
C. GOODRICH.

Sugar Hill, N. H. ... Sundays, Sept. 19th and 26th
S. S. BREWER.

Tremont, Mass ... Sunday, Sept 19th
Natick, Mass ... Sunday, Sept. 26th
Plymouth ... Sunday, Oct. 3d
New Bedford ... Sunday, Oct. 10th
Tremont ... Sunday, Oct. 17th
J. S. WHITE.

Coventry Centre Campmeeting ... Sept. 15th—17th
Vineland, N. J ... Sunday, Sept. 26th
A. A. PHELPS.

Fremont, N. H ... Sunday, Sept. 19th
ENOCH MORRILL.

South Windham, Me ... Thursday evening, Sept. 16th
Biddeford, Me ... Friday evening, Sept. 18th
North Scarboro, Me ... Sabbath, Sept. 19th
Biddeford, Me ... Tuesday evening, Sept. 21st
Great Falls ... Wednesday, Sept. 22d
Dover ... Thursday, Sept 23d
Manchester, N. H ... Friday evening, Sept. 24th
North Adams, Mass ... Friday evening, Oct. 1st
Pittstown (if desired) ... Saturday evening, Oct 2nd
Hoosick, N. Y ... Sabbath, Oct. 3d
The three following evenings at liberty.
Hoosick Conference three days, Oct. 7th, 8th, and 9th
Rutland, Vt ... Sabbath, Oct. 10th
Anderson, Vt. (if desired) Tuesday and Wednesday, Oct. 12th and 13th. Northam (if desired) Thursday evening. Bro. Stacy proposes these two places. Please write him.
Castleton, Vt ... Friday evening, Oct. 15th
Poultney, Vt ... Sabbath, Oct. 17th
Southampton, N. Y ... Tuesday evening, Oct. 19th
Sandy Hill, N. Y ... Wednesday evening, Oct 20th
Saratoga Springs, from Thursday evening over the following Sabbath, where Bro Duran appoints.
The following week at liberty. H. MUNGER.

Fairhaven, Mass ... Sunday, Oct. 3d
M. BATCHELOR.

Meredith Neck, N. H ... Sunday, Sept. 26th
J. G. SMITH.

Stowe, Mass. (Osgood's Hall) ... Sunday, Sept. 26th
Z. BOODEY.

Epsom, N. H., New Rye (Christian meeting-house) Sabbath, Sept. 19th.
Batchelder's Grove, near Loudon Mills, N. H., Sabbath, Sept. 26th.
Northwood Narrows, N. H ... Sunday, Oct. 3d
O. W. KIMBALL.

St. Johnsbury, Vt ... Sunday, Sept. 19th
Pleasant Valley, N. H ... Sunday, Sept. 26th
J. DAVIS.

South Sutton, N. H ... Sunday, Sept. 19th
East Weare, N. H. (in Freewill Baptist house) Sunday, Sept. 26th. C. H. FLETCHER.

Pleasant Valley, N. H ... Sunday, Oct. 10th
West Ossipee, N. H ... Sunday, Oct. 17th
T. L. CHURCHILL.

West Parsonsfield, Me ... Sunday, Sept. 26th
C. H. SWEET.

Salem, Mass ... Sunday, Sept. 19th
E. OWEN.

Castleton, Vt ... Sunday, Sept. 26th
RICHARD MOSHER.

Acton, Me. (Hilton's Ridge meeting-house) Sunday, Sept. 19th.
Kingston, N. H ... Sunday, Sept. 26th
J. F. CHAMBERLIN.

Wilbraham, Mass ... Sabbath, Sept. 19th
Brimfield, Mass ... Sabbath, Sept. 26th
Wilbraham, Mass ... Sabbath, Oct. 3d
G. L. TEEPLE.

East Landaff, N. H ... evening, Sept. 18th and over Sunday.
Dorchester, N. H. (Town House) ... Sunday, Sept. 26th
Hebron, N. H. (McClure school-house) Sun., Oct. 3d
East Holderness, N. H. (Stephen's meeting-house) Sunday, Oct. 10th.
Moultonborough, N. H. (at Bro. Hodgern's school-house) evening, Oct. 16th.
Sandwich, N. H. (Vitum school-house) Sun., Oct. 17th
JOHN H. EVANS.

Danbury, N. H (as Bro. John Knowlton may appoint) Sunday, Sept. 19th.
If desired, at Bro. D. Brayley's, Saturday afternoon, at five o'clock. A. S. WILLIAMS.

Franklin, N. H. (Morrison school-house) Sabbath, Sept. 19th.
Andover, N. H. (Kearsarge school-house) Sabbath, Sept. 26th
Northfield, N. H. (Oak Hill school-house) Sab, Oct 3d
Manchester, N. H ... Tuesday evening, Sept. 28th
Hill, N. H. (Centre meeting-house) Sabbaths, Oct. 17th and 24th. SIMEON ROBY.

Hall Stream, P. Q. (Red school-house) Sun, Sept. 26th
U. G. LADD.

Cabot, Vt ... Sunday, Sept. 19th
ALBERT GORDON.

Freedom, N. H. (Advent Chapel) Sunday, Sept 26th
N. GLIDDEN.

Lisbon, N. H., Saturday evening, Sept. 18th, and over Sunday, the 19th, evenings through the week, and over Sunday, Sept. 26th. DANIEL D. PAGE.
GEO. E. BROWN.

Loudon Village, N. H. (as Bro. Parker may arrange) Sunday, Sept. 26th. N. B. MCMURPHY.

Hollis Centre Conference ... Sunday, Sept. 19th
Lee, N. H. (as brethren may arrange) ... Sun., Oct. 3d
West Deerfield ... Sunday, Oct. 10th
Lakeville, N. H ... Sunday, Oct. 17th
Meredith, N. H. (Dolloff Hall) ... Sunday, Oct. 24th
West Alton, N. H. (Chapel) ... Sunday, Oct. 31st
C. R. PARSONS.

Northfield, N. H. (Oak Hill school-house) Sunday, Sept. 19th. A. T. HODGDON.

Northwood Narrows, N. H ... Sunday, Sept. 19th
Dover, N. H ... Sunday, Sept. 26th
WM. BODGE.

With tent in Pittstown, N. Y., till Sept. 18th.
North Adams, Mass ... Sunday, Sept. 19th
South Adams, Mass ... evening, Sept. 20th
North Clarendon, Vt ... evenings, Sept. 22d—23d
Sandy Hill, N. Y., Sunday, Sept. 26th, and each evening during the following week, as interest demands.
Address all letters to Rutland, Vt.
ARTHUR A. WAITE.

Square Pond, Ct ... Sunday, Sept. 26th
S. WOODRUFF.

Danielsonville, Ct ... Sabbath, Sept. 19th
A. SIMPSON.

South Windsor, Ct ... Sunday, Sept. 26th
GEO. L. WHITE.

Friendship, Me ... Sunday, Sept. 19th
Cushing, Me ... Sunday, Sept. 26th
H. S. MITCHELL.

Danville, P. Q ... Sunday, Sept. 19th
L. C. & M. MCKINSTRY.

Alton, N. H ... Sunday, Sept 19th
Exeter, N. H ... Sundays, Sept. 26th and Oct. 3d
WM. M. HARMON.

Durham Village ... Sunday, Sept. 19th
H. S. PINKHAM.

Salem, Mass ... 2d and 4th Sundays in each month until further notice. GEO. W. SEDERQUEST.

Granby, Mass. (Batchelder Street) the second Sunday in each month.
North Rutland, Mass. the last Sunday in each month
GEO. A. STREETER.

I will preach at Piermont, N. H. (Clay meeting-house) the second and fourth Sundays of each month until further notice. A. GORDON.

Franklin, N. H ... 2d and 4th Sunday in each month
G. H. WALLACE.

Palmer, Mass., the 1st and 3d Sundays in each month
Granby, Mass ... fourth Sunday in each month
H. H. TUCKER.

Hinesburg, Vt., Sundays for one year excepting the last Sunday in each month.
Bristol, Vt., the last Sunday in each month for one year. WM. C. STEWART.

Cheshire Street, Ct ... Sunday, Sept. 26th
A. ELLIOTT.

Bridgewater, N. H. (Brick school-house at Nutting's Mills) Sunday, Sept. 19th. C. W. NELSON.

Abington, Ct ... Sunday, Sept. 19th
B. WOODSIDE.

Bayonne, N. J ... Sunday, Sept. 19th
New York (24th Street) ... Sunday, Sept. 26th
WM. SHEPHERD.

Charlton, Mass ... Sunday, Sept. 26th
M. E. OTIS.

Woodville, Ct ... Sunday, Sept. 26th
MRS. E. L. CRUMB.

Haverhill, Mass ... Sunday, Sept 26th
J. R. BOYNTON.

Northam, Vt ... Sept. 18th, and over the Sabbath
North Adams, Mass ... Sabbath, Sept. 26th
North Greenwich, N. Y ... Sabbath, Sept. 30th
Fort Ann, N. Y ... Oct. 2d and over the Sabbath
WM. J. BLANCHARD.

Enfield, N. H. Fox Hollow, Thursday eve., Sept. 30th
Hanover N. H., Mountain Road (as Bro. Nelson Merrill may arrange) Friday evening, Oct. 1st.
Dorchester, N. H. (Town House) Sunday, July 25th
JOS. KIMBALL.

Chichester, N. H. (Pine Ground) ... Sunday, Sept. 19th
West Deerfield ... Sunday, Sept. 26th
Limington, Me. (Hanscom school-house) Sun., Nov. 7th
J. L. CHUTE.

Bristol, Ct ... Sunday, Oct. 3d
Campville, Ct ... Sunday, Oct 10th
Morris, Ct ... Sunday, Oct. 17th
W. TEFFT.

Barnard, Vt ... Sunday, Sept. 19th
Bethel (Camp Brook) ... Sunday, Sept. 26th
Stockbridge (Stony Brook) ... Sunday, Oct. 5th
L. H. BRIGHAM.

Harrison, Me. (Woodsome school-house) Sun., Sept. 26th. J. T. JORDAN.

Meredith, N. H. (Dolloff Hall) ... Sunday, Sept. 19th
South Rochester, N. H. (Chapel) ... Sunday, Sept. 26th
West Alton, N. H ... Sunday, Oct 3d
D. F. LEAVITT.

Brighton Hill, Hebron ... Sabbath, Sept. 19th
Otisfield, Gore ... Sabbath, Sept. 26th
West Poland (Chapel) ... Sabbath, Oct. 3d
Oxford, Richville ... Sabbath, Oct. 10th
G. L. TRACY.

Moultonboro, N. H. (Neck Road school-house) evening, Sept. 24th.
Moultonborough Neck (Lower school-house) Sunday, Sept. 26th. LEVI ALLEN.

WORCESTER, MASS.
A. A. Phelps ... Sunday, Sept. 19th

SPRINGFIELD, MASS. (Franklin Hall.)
A. W. Sibley ... Sunday, Sept. 19th

CLINTON, MASS.
H. H. Tucker ... Sunday, Oct. 31st

NORTH RUTLAND, MASS.
H. H. Tucker ... second Sunday in each month

HAVERHILL, MASS. (New Chapel on Walnut St.)
W. H. Mitchell ... 2d Sunday in each month
C. S. Shattuck ... 3d Sunday in each month
A Ross ... Sunday, Sept. 26th

NATICK, MASS.
Z Boodey ... Sunday, Sept. 19th
L. Boutell ... Sunday, Oct. 10th

HAMPTON, N. H.
I. I. Leslie ... Sunday, Sept. 19th
B. Finney ... Sunday, Sept. 26th
Enoch Morrill ... Sunday, Oct. 3d
D. F. Leavitt ... Sunday, Oct. 10th
Geo. W. Brown (of So Elliot, Me.) Sunday, Oct. 17th
C. Goodrich ... Sunday, Oct 31st
Wm. W. Sutherland ... Sunday, Nov. 7th
A. Ross ... Sunday, Nov. 14th
J. F. Chamberlin ... Sunday, Nov. 21st

EXETER, N. H.
L. Boutell ... Sunday, Sept. 19th
W. M Harmon ... Sundays, Sept. 26th and Oct 3d
Geo. W. Sederquest ... Sunday, Oct. 10th
B Woodside ... Sunday, Oct. 17th
T. W. Piper ... Sunday, Oct. 24th
W. M Harmon ... Sunday, Oct 31st
W. W. Sutherland ... Sunday, Nov. 14th
C. S. Shattuck ... Sunday, Dec. 12th

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.
A. Simpson ... Sunday, Sept. 26th
B. S. Emery ... Sunday, Oct. 10th
Sr. Annie Smith ... Sunday, Oct. 3d
Wm. M. Harmon ... Sunday, Oct. 17th
E. A. Stockman ... Sunday, Oct. 24th
Jane Benson ... Sunday, Oct. 31st

SEABROOK, N. H.
Joseph Pinkham ... Sunday, Sept. 19th
C. Goodrich ... Sunday, Sept. 26th
J. Bickford ... Sunday, Oct. 3d
T. W. Piper ... Sunday, Oct. 10th

CONCORD, N. H.
I. B. Potter ... Sunday, Sept. 19th
H. Munger ... Sunday, Sept. 26th
S. S. Brewer ... Sundays, Oct. 17th and 24th

EAST CONCORD, N. H. (Ward House).—Meetings three times Sunday, also Tuesday and Thursday evenings.
C. H. Fletcher ... first Sunday in each month
D. W. Davis ... third Sunday in each month

GREAT FALLS, N. H. (Franklin Hall.)
J. G. Smith ... Sunday, Sept. 19th
L. E. Saulpaugh ... Sunday, Sept. 26th
C. S. Shattuck ... Sunday, Oct. 3d
C. Goodrich ... Sunday, Oct. 10th
J. W. White ... Sunday, Oct. 17th
L. E Saulpaugh ... Sunday, Oct. 24th
J. Bickford ... Sunday, Oct. 31st

NEW DURHAM, N. H.
A. Ross ... Sunday, Sept. 19th
T. W. Piper ... Sunday, Oct. 3d

MANCHESTER, N. H. (corner of Elm and Lowell Sts.)
Geo. H. Wallace ... Sunday, Sept. 19th
Wm. N. Pile ... Sunday, Sept. 26th

SABBATUS, ME. (Jones' Hall.)
J. A. Libby ... Sunday, Sept. 19th
C. Goud ... Sunday, Sept 26th
R. R. York ... Sunday, Oct. 3d
Jared Whitman ... Sunday, Oct. 10th
H. D. Reed ... Sunday, Oct. 17th

BANGOR, ME.
O. S. French ... Sunday, Sept. 19th
J. Lane ... Sunday, Sept. 26th
S. K. Partridge ... Sunday, Oct. 3d
F. A. Baker ... Sunday, Oct. 10th
Each of the above will preach once in four weeks for the present.

BIDDEFORD, ME.
Wm. H. Mitchell ... Sunday, Sept. 19th
J. Albert Libby ... Sunday, Sept. 26th
Jesse Gay ... Sunday, Oct 3d
Geo. W. Brown ... Sunday, Oct. 10th
Wm. H. Mitchell ... Sunday, Oct. 17th
J. Albert Libbey ... Sunday, Oct 24th
E. A. Stockman ... Sunday, Oct. 31st

SOUTH ELLIOT, ME.
J. T. Libbey ... Sunday, Sept. 19th
J. Pinkham ... Sunday, Sept. 26th

SOUTH BERWICK, ME. (Great Works.)
N. M. Davis ... Sunday, Sept. 19th
Geo. W. Brown ... Sunday, Sept. 26th
T. L. Churchill ... Sunday, Oct. 3d

PORTLAND, ME. (Union Hall.)
E. A. Stockman .. Sundays, Sept. 19th, 26th, and Oct. 3d
E. S. Potter ... Sunday, Oct. 31st
E. A. Stockman ... Sunday, Dec. 5th

PLAINVILLE, CT.
O. D. Woodruff ... Sunday, Sept. 19th
Wm. J. Ripley ... Sunday, Sept. 26th
B. Hitchcock ... Sunday, Oct. 3d
R. K. Stark ... Sunday, Oct. 10th
W. Tefft ... Sunday, Oct. 24th
B. Hitchcock ... Sunday, Nov. 14th

BRIDGEPORT, CONN.
Mrs. E. A. Warren ... Sunday, Sept. 19th and Sundays, Oct. 3d and 17th.
Mrs. E. L. Crumb ... Sundays, Oct. 24th, Nov. 7th, Dec. 5th, and Jan. 1st.
Mrs. E. A. Warren ... Sunday, Oct. 31st

PUTNAM, CONN.
H. Pratt ... Sunday, Sept. 19th
B. Woodside ... Sunday, Sept. 26th

NEW HAVEN, CONN.
A. Ross ... Sunday, Sept. 19th
A. W. Sibley ... Sunday, Sept. 26th
S. Woodruff ... Sunday, Oct. 3d

MILLDALE (Southington, Ct.)
R. Hitchcock ... Sunday, Sept. 19th
Enoch Phelps ... Sunday, Sept. 26th
S. Woodruff ... Sunday, Oct. 3d

WAREHOUSE POINT, CT.
Mrs. L. L. Crumb ... Sunday, Sept. 19th
Mrs. Jane Benson ... Sunday, Sept. 26th

YALESVILLE, CT.
B. Hitchcock ... Sunday, Sept. 26th
S. Woodruff ... Sunday, Oct. 10th

SOUTH WEST HOOSICK, N. Y.
Arthur A. Waite ... once in four weeks
Flora Blanchard ... once in four weeks

WORCESTER, MASS.
Union meetings, for the promotion of christian holiness, are changed from 379 Maine street to the Director's room of the Y. M. C. Association. Meeting held every Thursday evening, at 7½ o'clock.
G. E. MERRILL, Com.

REMOVAL.—The Star of Hope Mission (late of 229 South 5th Avenue), has removed to 185 Spring Street, between Thompson and Sullivan Streets, to the large hall lately occupied by the City Mission. Services will be held on Sundays at 10½, 3 and 7½ o'clock. Class meeting Monday evenings, at 8 o'clock; prayer and conference Wednesday and Friday evenings, at 8 o'clock. MRS. ANNA E. SMITH, Sup't.

Business.

Notes to Correspondents.

☞ We cannot discontinue or send your orders, unless you give us the POST OFFICE and STATE in PLAIN LETTERS.

☞ C. MENDENHALL—Yes. See Crisis Sept 1st.
☞ M. G. S.—It is received, and one sent the 14th.
☞ DR. D. MATHEWSON'S address is San Francisco, California.
☞ WM. C. STEWART'S address hereafter will be Hinesburg, Vt.
☞ J. C. and S. E. SMITH'S address is Newton Upper Falls, Mass.
☞ ELD. J. PORTER'S address is Danville, P. Q.
☞ H. G. McCULLOCK'S address is DeKalb, DeKalb Co., Ill.
☞ JOHN PARSON'S address is 14 High Rock Street, Lynn, Mass.
☞ H. L. STEVENS, Jr.'s address is Coles Ferry, Charlotte Co., Virginia.
☞ E. BUNDAGE'S address is Black Walnut, Halifax Co., Va
☞ A. GORDON'S address is Piermont, N. H.

LIST OF PERSONS SENDING MONEY FOR OTHERS.—Miss Mary Coons, Mrs J W Finn, Emily C Pease, E G Barton, C H Fletcher, S L Woodard, Mrs Jane Hitchcock.

CASH RECEIVED FOR BOOKS AND TRACTS.—Geo W Smith 25c, M L Pike $1.00, A J Sanderlin $1 00, W C Gordon 80c, H Swingle 15c, Mary B Smith $1 00, B Perham 20c, L T Cunningham $2.05, E G Barton 50c, C Benjamin 20c, Geo Stirling $1 75, T M Steele 15c, Geo A Churchill 33c, Mrs H Burleigh 10c, J Kimball 35c, Mrs A Morrison 28c, J Custer 25c, F E Bigelow 50c, A Calder 25c, M Grover 30c, Mrs A Eno 20c.

BOOKS AND TRACTS SENT.—By Mail—E Buckland, A Todd, R T Price, Martha L Pike, Geo W Smith, Martha Becker, J J Edmonds, Mary B Smith, H Swingle, Geo Stirling, T M Steele, A Sanderlin, Geo A Churchill, B Perham, W C Gordon, C Benjamin, E G Barton, M J Mott, Mrs A Morrison, J Custer, Annie Calder, Geo B Macomber, R H Gresham, Mrs A Eno, Wm Shepard.

By Express—B J Dowling, Geo Prescott, A S Burnham, Wm J Blanchard.

ARTICLES RECEIVED.—W G Freeman, J D Merriam, R H Gresham, L A Wheeler, E C Pease, B Perham, J B Baxter.

A LIST OF NEW BOOKS,

JUST RECEIVED FROM

KELLAWAY & CO.'S ENGLISH REPOSITORY.

FOR SALE AT THE OFFICE OF

"THE ADV. CHRIS. PUB. SOCIETY,"

160 HANOVER STREET.

Persons purchasing from the following list, help in so doing to sustain the English Repository.

COVERDALE'S ENGLISH BIBLE. A large volume, being a copy of the first Bible ever printed in the English language. Very curious, and in many texts favoring the truth of life only in the Christ. $8.

OLD TESTAMENT SCRIPTURES IN HEBREW AND ENGLISH. 4th size Bagster's edition. A nice edition of the Scriptures. $8.

"RAINBOW," VOLUME FOR 1874. The English Monthly that utters the truth about immortality. Edited by W. Leask, D. D. $3 bound in cloth.

"BIBLE ECHO," VOLUME I., FOR 1874. This is the only English weekly newspaper that maintains what as a people we consider to be teachings of God. It is conducted by Eld. W. Kellaway. We have a good supply of this book, to meet expected sale. It contains the history of the truth in England and its Colonies. $3 bound in cloth.

CRITICAL NEW TESTAMENT, with Emendations by Fregelles, Lachmann, Griesbach, and Tischendorff. $1.50.

CATHOLIC APOSTOLIC CHURCH (Irvingism): Its Pretensions and Claims considered in connection with the facts of its history, and the teaching of the New Testament and early Christian Antiquity. Cloth limp, 65 cts.

BIBLE TRIUMPHANT: a Reply to "144 Self-Contradictions of the Bible." 50 cts.

"THE WAY EVERLASTING," by S. Minton, M. A Review of the English Controversy on Eternal Evil. 30 cts.

SUNLIGHT DISPERSING THE DISMAL SHADOWS: or, The Doctrine of Eternal Torments shown to lack Reason and Scripture alike. 25 cts.

PHOTOGRAPH OF H. CONSTABLE, M. A., one of the chief of English writers on Life only in the Christ, author of "Hades," and "The Duration of Future Punishment, etc, late Prebendary of Cork, Ireland. 25 cts.

PHOTOGRAPH OF S. MINTON, M. A., also a prolific writer on Human Mortality and the Divine Gift of Eternal Existence. Late of Eaton Chapel, London. 25 cts.

LAST WAR; a little book treating upon the Last War, with a Diagram. 15 cts.

HARMONY OF SCRIPTURE UPON FUTURE PUNISHMENT. The Death View. By S. Minton, M. A. 20 cts.

IMMORTALITY ONLY IN CHRIST, AND ETERNAL DEATH. The subjects of Two Lectures delivered in Brikenhead. By H S. Harleigh, M. A. Capt. Ward in the Chair. 20 cts.

A NEW BIBLE: or Scripture Re-written to prove the Doctrines of Necessary Immortality and Eternal Evil. By S. Minton, M A. 10 cts.

IMMATERIALISM: or, The Fruits of Believing the Soul of Man to be the Personality. 6 cts.

CHAOS, KOSMOS, THE KINGDOM OF DARKNESS AND THE KINGDOM OF GOD. By E. White, M. A. Our Earth's history from beginning to end. 5 cts.

WHO ART THOU THAT JUDGEST? A Letter addressed to one, but applicable to many. By Joseph Stratford, Minister of the Gospel. A Rebuke with Doctrine of such as are cruel in their treatment of Christians holding life in Jesus. 5 cts.

WORDS OF HOLY WRIT ON FUTURE PUNISHMENT. 50 cts.

SCRIPTURE DOCTRINE OF A FUTURE LIFE. By W. Leask, D. D. 12 copies for 50 cts.

POPULAR OBJECTIONS TO THE RESURRECTION of the Body. 12 copies for 50 cts.

WHOSE CHILD ARE YOU? 12 copies for 35c.

REPORT of a large Meeting at Chelsea on Life only in Christ. Reported by Bro. W. Kellaway. 12 copies for 50 cts.

LIFE EVERLASTING. By W. Leask, D. D. 12 copies for 25 cts.

DIALOGUE between a Pedestrian and his Friend. A lot of valuable extracts. 12 copies for 25 cts.

LIFE AND DEATH. Extract from Archbishop Whateley's "Future Life." 20 copies for 25 cts.

IMMORTALITY. Extracts from numerous authors on Life and Immortality by the Lord Christ. By H. Constable, M. A. Enlarged by Bro. W. Kellaway. 20 copies for 25 cts.

IMMORTALITY ONLY IN CHRIST. A concise presentation of the truth stated in its title, in twenty-three paragraphs and extracts from Fathers. 20 copies for 25 cts.

ETERNAL LIFE THE GIFT OF GOD. 20 copies for 25 cts.

A JESUIT'S LETTER. Jesuitry as it is, and not as it seems. 25 copies for 10 cts.

THE EVILS OF TOBACCO USING. Reprinted from the "American Health Reformer." 12 copies for 50 cts.

A NEW TRACT.

ATHEISM CONFOUNDED,

AND

THE FACT OF GOD'S EXISTENCE ESTABLISHED.

BY A. W. SIBLEY.

A valuable little Tract of eight pages—just the thing to circulate in these times of unbelief and skepticism. Price by mail, 15 cents per dozen. AGENT.

☞ PRICE REDUCED.

A NEW EDITION JUST PUBLISHED.

THE DURATION AND NATURE OF FUTURE PUNISHMENT.

By Henry Constable, A. M., Prebendary of Cork.

Reprinted from the second London edition, with an Introduction by Prof. C. L. Ives, of Yale College. 8vo., 68 pp.

All things considered, we regard this the best work on the subject treated of now before the public, and the one to distribute, especially among our friends and neighbors who do not hold with us on the subject.

We have procured a large lot of the publisher, and put them at the following low prices:—One copy, 25 cts.; one dozen for $2.50; sent by mail, postpaid. $17 per hundred, by express. Please order freely. AG'T.

COME, MY CHILD.

J. N. BERRY.

Come, my child, all worn and weary,
Lean your head upon my breast;
Well I know your lot is dreary,—
You are tired; come and rest.
Scenes of life—oh, how they faded,
When they seemed to you so bright;
How their brilliant hues are shaded,
In the hopeless gloom of night.
Come, my poor, my lonely darling,
Lean your head upon my breast;
Let me put my arms around you;—
You are tired; come and rest.

Hither come, with all your sorrow,
Breathe it softly in my ear;
And upon the coming morrow,
I will wipe away each tear.
Yes, I know your heart is aching
For the loved ones now at rest;
Yes, I know it's almost breaking;
Weep your sorrows on my breast.
Come, my poor, my lonely darling, etc.

Don't you know I am your Savior?
Don't you know I died for thee?
Don't you know how much I love you?
Don't you think your tears I see?
Don't you know there is a city,
Where the streets are made of gold?
Where the sweet and heavenly music
Fills the heart with joys untold?
Come, my poor, my lonely darling, etc.

There you'll find a life unending;
There you'll meet those gone before;
Heart and voice together blending,
On that bright and shining shore.
Come, poor child, tell me your troubles;
Tell me all, whate'er they be;
If you knew how much I loved you,
You would always come to me.
Come, my poor, my lonely darling,
Lean your head upon my breast;
Let me put my arms around you;
You are tired; come and rest.

PRAY FOR ME.

I. I LESLIE.

This was the request of a man strong in Christ. "Pray for me," he said, "that utterance may be given unto me, that I may open my mouth boldly, to make known the mystery of the gospel." If such a man as Paul felt the need of the prayers of his brethren, and asked to be remembered by them to God, surely we who are less endued with the Spirit, may also ask of our brethren a like remembrance. "Pray one for another," is the command by another apostle. If it is our duty to pray for one another, then it must be right to request the prayers of saints, both individually and collectively. The great apostle says again, "Brethren, pray for us." The apostles, though they were strong in faith and in the power of God's might, said, "pray for us;" thus recognizing the fact that God's people have power to prevail with him. O blessed truth! But how little is this power recognized and used by the church of Christ! How few believe that by prayer they can move God, and obtain blessings for others as well as for themselves. "Pray for us," said they who wrought miracles. And shall not we in this day, who have need of even more of God's help than did they, ask one another to pray for us?

But this may become a custom or habit, and we ask others to pray for us when we do not really feel the need of being prayed for by them, or believe that their prayers will not avail anything in our behalf. Pray for me, is now a common request among christians, especially when parting with each other; and often a promise is made which is not kept. Pray for me, has been many times said in our hearing of late, by lips young and old, as the hand was given for the last time. "Pray for me," and often the tear would start as the words were spoken; and then the promise would be made to do this. But how much easier to make the promise than to fulfill it. I fear that some of those that of late I heard made, will not be kept. I fear that some will forget that they made a promise to pray for me; and that I, too, may not remember and pray especially for all I said I would. Dear Savior, help me to keep my promises made to those dear ones, who so earnestly said, pray for me. I know it is easy when christian association is enjoyed, and love and sympathy well up in the heart, to give, at parting, the promise to pray for each other; but when these meetings and associations are ended, and each returns home to engage in the absorbing and distracting pursuits of life, often is the scene of the promise, and the promise itself obliterated from the mind. The cares of life crowd in, and the heart is filled again with blinding solicitude, and the ears with earth-toned voices. Soon the dear christian faces, seen upon consecrated ground, fade from the mind, and the promise made to "pray for me" is forgotten. If prayer is kept up at home, it is not, perhaps, what it was upon the campground, at the conference or protracted meeting. They who were prayed for there, are not remembered here. The request and the promise are both forgotten.

But pray for me. Don't forget the promise you made to ask him to bless me. Pray that my faith and strength fail not; and that Christ may be glorified in me evermore. Pray for me.

Sept. 1, 1875.

HOUR OF TEMPTATION.

E. D KENTFIELD.

Dear brethren and sisters in Christ; In these last days, when everything is conspiring to draw us away from Christ, and as I feel the hour of temptation has come, spoken of in Rev. 3: 10, let us stand aloof from all secret associations; for Jesus said, "In secret have I said nothing." He was open and frank in all his ways, and as his followers, so let us be looking unto him as our pattern and example. Let us not enter into, or join hands with any lodge or society, on which we cannot ask God's blessing. Can we do this on most of the associations? Think a moment. By joining hands with most, if not all of them, are we not dishonoring God? are we not, in so doing, joining hands with the world? What says James? "Know ye not that the friendship of the world is enmity with God?" Do you wish to stand in this position? Let us stand free in Christ, and not be entangled with a yoke of bondage. That these associations produce bondage, I know by experience; and are not we called to come out, and touch not the unclean thing? As a general rule, do you find Christ there, and can you talk Christ, or take him in with you? No, these are foreign to him, and you must leave him at the door.

Are the scenes in the secret associations calculated to lead us to Christ? is the conversation after a godly manner? "What part hath he that believeth with an infidel? And what agreement hath the temple of God with idols," whose "temple ye are." "Wherefore come out from among them, . . . and touch not the unclean thing." 2 Cor. 6: 14–17. Have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather reprove them. The word of the Lord calls us out from all unrighteous associations. The day has come when leagues and bonds of every conceivable name and form are confederating together for one purpose or another, and will all be found in league against our coming King. What if he should come, brethren and sisters, and find you in your lodge room, engaged in your various lodge duties; would you be waiting to welcome him? would you not rather he would not find you amid the secret conclave? would you not much rather He found you in the prayer-meeting, or in holy association of the family in communion with him? can you carry both Christ and the lodge in your heart at the same time? no, no, for they are at enmity, and who goes out? Is not that blessed Jesus, who has done so much to save you, wounded in the house of his friends? My brethren and sisters, leave thou Christless associations, and let Christ be all in all to you.

"SAVED BY HOPE."

A. PARMELEE.

"For we are saved by hope; but hope that is seen is not hope; for what a man seeth, why doth he yet hope for?"

A few months ago, a man engaged in making some repairs on one of the bridges connecting the "sister islands," at Niagara Falls, lost his balance and fell into the water. Quicker than thought, he was caught by the swift current and carried down the rapids toward the great cataract; but coming in contact with a rock, which projected above the maddened waters, with the energy of a doomed man he clutched it, and clambered to its summit, saved thus for the time being from a watery grave. His position, notwithstanding, was one of great peril; for, surrounded as he was by the impetuous torrent, which sweeps so madly down the declivity, threatening every moment to dislodge him, unless help soon came he must certainly relinquish his hold from exhaustion, and fall a prey to the "floods of deep waters." But words of cheer and encouragement reached his ear, and witnessing the excited crowd on shore making preparations for his rescue, and having confidence, both in their determination and ability to save him, he is stimulated to greater exertion to retain his hold upon the rock. Finally his rescuer approached. A rope was tied about his body, and, by the people on shore, both are drawn safely to the land. He is saved, and by what? By hope; for, had he believed his salvation impossible, or that the people on shore were his enemies, and only mocking at his calamity, he would have yielded to despair, fainted, and been swept to destruction.

So it is with us, christian brethren. We are in the midst of peril, far greater than are threatened by any or all of the elements combined; but in the midst of them all, we hear the voice of the "Captain of our salvation" saying unto us, "Be of good cheer, I have overcome the world." "He that endureth unto the end, the same shall be saved." "He that overcometh, the same shall be clothed in white raiment; and I will not blot out his name out of the book of life, but will confess his name before my Father, and before his angels;" and many such "exceeding great and precious promises" have we, beloved, to inspire us with courage to "be sober and hope to the end, for the grace that is to be brought unto us at the revelation of Jesus Christ."

As we were saved from the thraldom of sin, by faith in the precious blood of Christ, so are we saved ultimately from all of sin's consequences by our hope. When we cease to hope, then will we relapse into the bondage of sin again, and its consequences will be fatal. Let us remember that "tribulation worketh patience, and patience experience, and experience hope." Therefore, if we would have this "hope which is an anchor to the soul, both sure and steadfast," we must not faint under tribulation. "Beloved, think it not strange concerning the fiery trial which is to try you, as though some strange thing happened unto you; but rejoice, inasmuch as ye are partakers of Christ's sufferings; that, when his glory shall be revealed, ye may be glad also with exceeding joy."

Medina, N. Y.

VICTORY OVER SIN.

T. L. WAUGH.

"And the very God of peace sanctify you wholly; and I pray God your whole spirit and soul and body be preserved blameless unto the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ."—1 THESS. 5: 23.

We are assured that if we confess and forsake our sins, we find pardon and may expect to be cleansed from all unrighteousness. The question has been asked me whether it is possible to get the victory over besetting sins. I think we are here warranted in believing that this may be accomplished in us. How can we be preserved blameless in a sinful state. In the next verse we find it written, "Faithful is he that calleth you, who also will do it." But nothing less than Almighty power can keep us from falling. But, say you, how can I, so full of imperfection, so weak and erring, ever expect to live without sin? Look away, dear brother or sister, to Jesus, the mighty Savior, who is abundantly able to do more than you can ask or think, and when you ask him for blessings he has so plainly promised to bestow, believe you receive them and you shall have them.

No one can obtain either pardon or purity unless he has an obedient heart, and fully submits to the Divine will. This is a very important consideration, for if sin is cherished, or even tolerated in the heart, it is impossible for any one to have the favor of God, who hates every sinful thought, word or imagination. The word of God declares that Jesus came to save his people from their sins. They may be saved from sin here and escape the effects of sin hereafter.

I maintain that this is a distinct work wrought in the heart, which the experiences of many confirm. One who is sanctified wholly is kept from sin, just as long as he continues obedient and has unwavering faith. He is not free from severe trials, temptations, or afflictions; but amid them all he is perfectly resigned. He trusts in his Heavenly Father to lead him just as much when all looks dark as when he is in the light. He counts it all joy even when in divers temptations. It is a blessed state to be in. We may every one of us be there if we will. This has been my experience in days that are past, and I feel the assurance that I shall soon be there again. And the question comes home to me, Why not now? And I answer, Be it so, dear Lord; take me this moment and cleanse me from all sin; let me just now be filled with thy Spirit, that I may be perfectly whole.

Some think if they were pure in heart they would live in a constant joyous frame. But this is a mistake. Holiness is not emotion, though it often produces it. It is simply wholeness, purity, perfect love. If God chooses to lead us through sorrow, affliction, or suffering, can we say, Thy will be done? I mean, can we say so from our hearts? If that is His way to lead us to the better land, are we willing, yea, anxious, that He should do with us as seemeth good in His sight, until we come forth like the pure gold from the furnace, separated from all the dross, so that we shall clearly reflect the image of Jesus? Yes, my Lord, I can say, Do with me as thou wilt. Let me have joy or sorrow, riches or poverty, whatever thou choosest for me, I joyfully accept.

I believe God's way is the best, and I am willing to leave myself wholly in his hands. In this way we shall have victory over indwelling sin. We must remember that the rain is as necessary as the sunshine; sorrow and affliction are needed to wean us from the world, and to make us sigh for home—a home where no tears are shed; no sorrow ever known; no parting of the saints; but where all the saved will share in that "exceeding and eternal weight of glory."

Press on, dear ones; the land of rest is nearing. We catch, as it were, the glittering spires of yonder beautiful city; and we shall soon be there beyond a world of sin, never more to be separated. There is everything to encourage us to endure unto the end, for the promise is that such shall be saved. We are in "perilous times," but we need not fear. He that is for us is more than all that are against us. We shall get the victory in the name of the Lord of hosts in whom we trust.

West Morris, Ct.

TRUST IN GOD AND DO THE RIGHT.

Courage, brother, do not stumble,
Though thy path be dark as night;
There's a star to guide the humble;
"Trust in God, and do the right."

Let the road be rough and dreary,
And its end far out of sight;
Foot it bravely; strong, or weary,
"Trust in God, and do the right."

Perish policy and cunning,
Perish all that fears the light;
Whether losing, whether winning,
"Trust in God, and do the right."

Trust no party, sect, or faction;
Trust no leaders in the fight;
But in every word and action,
"Trust in God, and do the right."

Trust no lovely forms of passion;
Friends may look like angels bright;
Trust no custom, school, or fashion,
"Trust in God, and do the right."

Simple rule and safest guiding,
Inward peace and inward might;
Star upon our path abiding,
"Trust in God, and do the right."

Some will hate thee, some will love thee,
Some will flatter, some will slight;
Cease from man, and look above thee,
"Trust in God, and do the right."

—Selected by C. O. SMITH.

CONSCIENCE.

N. D. BABCOCK.

We think the word conscience is not rightly understood by some persons, especially by those that tell you when you ask them how they can, as a christian, wear such and such a thing, or do thus and so, that we know to be wrong. They will answer you, "O, my conscience don't condemn me." By this they would have us understand, that they do not feel bad about any of these things. Feeling, then, is the definition to this word conscience; but Webster says conscience is an internal, or self knowledge, judgement of right or wrong, a faculty within, to decide the lawfulness or unlawfulness of our own acts. Then when any one tells me that their conscience does not condemn them, in such cases, I know they have decided in their own minds that the things, whatever they may be, are not wrong. When we decide thus, the thing no longer troubles us. When we do a wrong thing, then our hearts should condemn us.

We have been asked, "May not any one do wrong and not know it?" What! break the commands of God from time to time, and not know it? We read it is only the doers of the law that will ever be justified, and God has no respect of persons. It is only when we decide that a law is right, that our own feelings are affected, when that law is broken. Circumstances alter cases. This conscience, or knowledge, by education, or influence, or some other way, may be weakened, perverted, and even defiled, in many ways. Yet this is no excuse; for every one must at last give an account at the final judgement. It is only when a heart is led entirely by the Holy Spirit, that a law of sensitiveness and purity is cultivated and preserved, as all may learn by carefully reading the first and second epistles of John. Then we are ever ready to obey, and conscience will not only be a convenient but a ready monitor. May we all ever be led by the Holy Spirit.

IMMORTALITY.

I have seen the flower withering on the stalk, and its bright leaves spread on the ground. I looked again; it sprang forth afresh, its stem was crowned with new buds, and its sweetness filled the air. I have seen the sun set in the west, and the shades of night shut in the wide horizon; there was no color, nor shape, nor beauty, nor music; gloom and darkness brooded around. I looked; the sun broke forth again in the east, and gilded the mountain tops; the lark rose to meet him from her low nest, and the shades of darkness fled away.

I have seen the insect being come to its full size, languish, and refuse to eat; it spun itself a tomb and was shrouded in the silken cone; it lay, without feet, or shape, or power to move. I looked again; it had burst its tomb; it was full of life, and sailed on colored wings through the soft air; it rejoiced in its new being.

Thus shall it be with thee, O man! and so shall thy life be renewed. Beauty shall spring up out of ashes, and life out of dust. A little while shalt thou lie in the ground, as the seed lies in the bosom of the earth; but these shall be raised again; and thou shalt never die any more.

Who is He that comes to burst open the prison doors of the tomb; to bid the dead awake, and to gather his redeemed from the four winds of heaven? He descends on a fiery cloud; the sound of a trumpet goes before him; thousands of angels are on his right hand. It is Jesus, the Son of God, the Savior of men, the friend of the good. He comes in the glory of his Father; he has received power from on high. Mourn not, therefore, child of immortality! for the spoiler, the cruel spoiler, that laid waste the works of God, is subdued. Jesus has conquered death. Child of immortality, mourn no longer.—Selected by J. N. Berry.

COPY OF A PRIVATE LETTER TO A CONGREGATIONAL LADY.

I received a becoming, christian communication from yourself, some time since. Was glad you felt it a privilege to address me; and though I have not your letter with me, I think I can recall the main thought. If my memory serves me, it was that you had come into possession of greater restfulness in the hands of a kind, unseen Father, and at the same time less of a spirit of criticism towards your minister, and fellow members, even though you possess a greater relish for simple Bible preaching than ever before. Which is inevitable, when we have our spiritual eyes directed especially, in a channel of apprehension, more independent of human exposition, than before. I think you will find, the more satisfaction you accustom yourself to divine from the Author of satisfaction, directly, the less dependent you will feel upon others, for that which at best is but human; and not only that, but you will come to look with more of pity, than criticism, upon those whom, you are so well aware, are feeding upon, and endeavoring to derive satisfaction from the mere shell, the chaff, the husks; while the kernel, the essence, the essential, is so very near to them, though unobserved and unenjoyed.

There is no more truthful sentiment, when rightly understood, in the Scriptures, than that which affirms, "No man can serve two masters," etc. But the term hate, in the passage, must not be understood in the sense we employ it; for it does not follow, one master must be hated as we hate, and the other loved as we love; but simply, one must be loved less than the other; hence we read, "If any man love father or mother more than me," etc., not that a man must hate wife, children, relatives, as we hate, in order to discipleship; for other scriptures inculcate exactly the opposite sentiment; but while we love all these with a suitable, natural affection, they must not be permitted a place in our attachments, or devotion, which shall interfere with our devotion to Christ, or our convictions of duty. The latter must be made the supreme objects of our affection and devotion, and all others rendered subservient to them.

In the church, among its members, while I would avoid the approach of a criticising spirit, yet this division in attachment and devotion, occasions much of the leanness so prevalent. For when Christ has been made more to us than all things else, and a desire to please him is supreme in our minds, then all the minor matters of adornment, and secular regard, sink to their proper level, and occupy their proper station. Not to be disregarded utterly, by no means; for "our good" must not be "evil spoken of," but simply loved less, and made secondary to Christ and his service.

I have often observed, many wives are constantly influenced in their culinary matters from the consciousness of their husband's preference, as though their main ambition was to gratify his appetite in cooking, whose good opinions of, and regard for themselves, was of greater consequence than of all the world beside. Even though my own taste had not been subserved, I felt it was in no wise to be consulted by her whose domestic sky held husband as centre and sun. So in our relations to Christ, we are represented as being married to him, and he admits no partner, accepts no rival.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 1875. E. O.

HOW TO PREACH THE WORD.

J. E. CLARK.

"So they read in the book of the law of God distinctly, and gave the sense, and caused them to understand the reading."—NEH. 8: 8.

This is precisely what all men who stand up as teachers of the word of God should aim to accomplish—to read distinctly, to give the sense, and to cause the people to understand the reading. I fear that this method of handling the oracles of God is not sufficiently practised. If it were, we should hear more of the grand and cardinal doctrines of the holy apostles and prophets. But many of our so-called leaders have become weary of well doing in this direction, and instead of reading the word distinctly, and giving the true sense, and causing the people to understand, they have submitted a way of expounding the Scriptures to best suit themselves and their theories, and thus by departing from the "old paths" they have plunged into errors, and many honest ones are led off into extravagant views.

It is not safe to follow every one who pretends to be a leader of the flock, for they are (many of them) wolves clad in sheep's clothing. We are to search the Scriptures ourselves, and thus be able to detect error. Truly, my friends, it is a narrow path trodden by few, but those few hear the voice of the true Shepherd, and they follow him, and a stranger they will not follow. Jesus said to his disciples, "Hear and understand." "Have you understood all these things?" Thus the importance of understanding the sacred word of God; thus it is of the highest importance that a teacher should handle the word of God with pure motives, and give its true meaning.

The word of God is like a looking-glass in which our true character can be discovered. It reveals the sin of the human heart, and is sharper than any two-edged sword, and quick and powerful; it is mighty. A man who goes before a congregation to expound the word of God, should make the occasion solemn and impressive. Pulpit joking is tampering with men's salvation. It is a place and time to weep rather than to laugh, and for men to cry out, "Men and brethren, what shall I do to be saved?" "Dead flies cause the ointment of the apothecary to send forth a stinking savor. So doth a little folly him that is in reputation for wisdom and honor."

Men who stand up between the living and the dead, are dealing with grave and most serious matters; of all occasions this ought to be the most serious. Does the pilot, who takes a vessel through a dangerous passage laugh and make fun, or is he grave and most serious, there being hundreds of human lives hanging upon his success?

Did you ever see any thing to laugh at while a judge was passing sentence upon a murderer? Did you ever hear a judge joke, or make fun for the people on such an occasion? Any levity on such occasions would be out of place, but no more so than for a minister in the pulpit, while expounding the word of God.

Men who occupy the position of preachers who make a habit of joking, making fun for the people, need converting, and a call to preach the gospel. There is a time to weep, and a time to laugh, and a time to be grave. A little folly spoils the whole of a man's usefulness with many persons. My brethren, be careful how you tamper with eternal things while standing up before the living and the dead.

Of all men on earth, the minister of Christ should be possessed with pure motives, and in a most solemn and earnest manner present the truth of God, giving its true sense, and causing the people to understand. What shall I preach? The whole gospel of Christ. How shall I preach it? In the demonstration of the Spirit and with power, with the Holy Ghost sent down from heaven. "Oh," says one, "I cannot do this." Then you are not fit to preach. Do not deceive yourself and your congregation any longer. Stop, and ask yourself the question, "Am I called of God to preach?" To know this fact, is all important. You may present a fine spun theory, and even draw a multitude after you to ruin.

Dear reader, remember all that glitters is not pure gold. But it is the all cleansing blood of the crucified Redeemer, that we need to cleanse us from all sin. Let both the minister and the people wash in the all-healing and cleansing fountain and be made whole, and thus be all ready to do the Master's will, until he comes.—A. C. Times.

"MEDITATE UPON THESE THINGS." 1 Tim. 4: 15.

J. Y. BRIGGS.

Beloved in Christ:—While looking out upon this earth this morning, and noting the changes that a few short weeks have made in the ripening harvest, and meditating upon the past, my mind ran back a few short years, and the words of the apostle—"Worse and worse"—came to me with more than usual power. My home has always been among the hills of Vermont, and I well remember the time while living with my parents, if we heard of any crime that had been committed within fifty miles of us, how quickly it spread through the neighborhood, and the criminal was denounced by every tongue. But what a change has come! Now, the most daring deeds, and worst of crimes, are passed by without scarcely a denunciation from the mass. The adulterer, who a few years ago would have been shunned as the vilest of the earth, now walks our streets with a high and lofty look, gazing into the different homes with lustful eyes, to gain another victim.

The question is often asked, To what are we coming? The Revelation answers this question—"Behold, I come quickly; hold that fast which thou hast, that no man take thy crown." Rev. 3: 11. God has never permitted any judgments to come upon a people without sufficient warning, and the outlook at the present time is sufficient to warn all who believe his word, that the end of all things is at hand. I am looking for the return of the Nobleman to claim the purchase of his blood.

Bridgewater, Vt.

THE DIFFERENCE.

The difference between justification and sanctification is better known or understood by experience, than it can be described. And yet, we may point out some of the points of difference between the two states.

As I understandi the justified state implies the forgiveness of all our actual or personal transgressions, and the renewal or regeneration of our hearts, and gives us a disposition to love God. It does not eradicate or destroy the carnal mind, or inbred sin; but gives us a victory over it—not at all times, however; for occasionally this mighty foe rises to the ascendency, developing itself in some of its ugly forms or features, as anger, or repining at providence, or our lot in life, or self-will, or love of the world, or pride, or jealousy, or revenge, or envy, or some such manifestations as these, which all are contrary to the will and word of God. And where is the man or woman who has been converted, and knows it, who has been trying to live the christian life, (it may be but a short time), who has not felt these motions of sins in their hearts, these uprisings of the carnal mind above referred to? And how have they cried to the Lord for help against them, and struggled with them, and have often been overcome by them, but would rise again and renew the contest. And thus many have struggled on for many years.

But in the wholly sanctified state, there is not only constant victory over the carnal mind, but an eradication of it—an internal cleansing or purification of the heart, so that from the very depths of his soul, the believer goes out after God, and seeks to know, and delights to do his will at all times and in every thing. He delights to walk in humility and self-abasement; and though not so ecstatic as at times, he may have been, in the justified state, yet he has an abiding peace, a divine joy. He is firmly fixed upon the Rock, and moves on in christian duty, having a present and a full salvation, and his love is made perfect.—Banner of Holiness.

LOVE.

MARY J. WHITNEY.

What God demands is our hearts, our love, our affections. A divided heart will not do. "He that loveth father or mother more than me, is not worthy of me; he that loveth son or daughter more than me, is not worthy of me." The word says, "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind, and with all thy strength." "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." "Love worketh no ill to his neighbor."

If we truly love God with all our hearts, we shall love what God loves. We shall have no love for anything low, or degraded, or vile. "Hatred stirreth up strifes, but love covereth all sins." "He loveth transgression that loveth strife." "He that loveth not, knoweth not God; for God is love." "Ye have heard that it hath been said, Thou shalt love thy neighbor and hate thine enemy; but I say unto you, love your enemies; bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, and pray for them which despitefully use you, and persecute you, that ye may be the children of your Father which is in heaven; for he maketh his sun to rise on the evil and on the good, and sendeth rain on the just and on the unjust. For if ye love them which love you, what reward have ye? do not even the publicans the same? And if you salute your brethren only, what do ye more than others? do not even the publicans so? Be ye therefore perfect, even as your Father in heaven is perfect."

Stowe, Vt.

THE ONE TALENT.

In a napkin smooth and white,
Hidden from all mortal sight,
My one talent lies to-night.

One poor talent—nothing more,
All the years that have gone o'er,
Have not added to the store.

Some will double what they hold,
Others add to it ten-fold,
And pay back the shining gold.

Would that I had toiled like them,
All my sloth I now condemn;
Guilty fears my soul o'erwhelm.

Lord, O teach me what to do,
Make me faithful, make me true,
And the sacred trust renew.

Help me, ere too late it be,
Something yet to do for thee,
Thou who hast done all for me.

—Teacher's Treasury.

LIVE IN THE PRESENT.

The duty that lies nearest your hand is the one put there by Infinite wisdom for you to do first. It may be only to set your house in order; it may be only washing windows or scrubbing paint, or any other homely yet needful thing, but if it be yours to do, do it, sure that, if it be done in the right spirit, you thereby do as much for the glory of God, as though you wrote a book or fought a battle. No matter if the task be small and its results meagre, in the economy of nature not an atom is wasted, in the "consideration of force," the lifting of a finger, the movement of an eyelid are as necessary and significant as the manœvers of an army, for without these apparent trifles the greater movements would become impossible. God's power is as signally shown in the delicate tracing of a leaf, the formation of a blade of grass, as in the towering mountain or rushing river.

Live in the present, and for the future. Let the past be past, except so far as to gain warning or example from its lessons. Let its reflected light alone shine on us to lead us on to better and higher things, to nobler aspirations and broader fields of usefulness in the time to come.

MORAL SELECTIONS FROM THE APOCRYPHA.

Set not thy heart upon thy goods. There is not a more wicked thing than a covetous man; for such an one setteth his own soul to sale.

Wisdom that is hid, and treasure that is hoarded up, what profit is in them both?

Hate not laborious work. To labor and be content with what a man hath, is a sweet life.

Go on with thy business in meekness.

Eat as becometh a man those things which are set before thee, and devour not. Sound sleep cometh of moderate eating.

Drunkenness diminisheth strength, and maketh wounds.

Better is the poor, being sound and strong of constitution, than a rich man that is afflicted in his body.

Envy and wrath shorten life.

Let reason go before every enterprise, and council before every action.

Consult not with one that respecteth thee; neither with a coward in matters of war; nor with a buyer in selling; nor with an envious man of thankfulness, nor with an unmerciful man, touching kindness; nor with the slothful for any work. Consult not with a fool, for he cannot keep council.

Be in peace with many; nevertheless have but one councillor in a thousand.

HOME AND HEALTH.

PREVENTION OF DISEASE IN CHILDREN.

BY F. WILSON HURD, M. D.

Among all the causes of disease there are none, in my estimation, so significant as those that begin in infancy. The diseases of after-life are largely the result of conditions inaugurated very early, and which gradually increase in importance and strength as the person's years increase.

One of the worst features in the management of young children is the method of feeding them. They are nursed without any regard to healthful or reasonable rules. Whenever a child cries, the mother nurses it, supposing that it is hungry. The cry, instead of hunger, oftentimes indicates some painful condition of the body. This is often produced by the troublesome bandage which is placed about the trunk, or by pains in the stomach and bowels, caused by exposure of the arms, shoulders, and legs, as well as by over-feeding, and not from actual hunger. In the habit of nursing children usually practiced, the foundation of diseased morbid appetite is laid, from which spring untold evils that curse the after years. The little one is fed every hour or two in the day, and in fact often lies for hours with the nipple in its mouth nursing every few minutes. When it grows older and begins to eat solid food, the habit of frequency being established, the child continues to indulge, until sooner or later he virtually eats himself into the grave.

An infant should be regulated by a strict rule in its times of eating. The habit of regularity should be commenced as it begins life. It need not and should not be fed oftener than from three to six times in the twenty-four hours. Writers who have experimented largely, state that in the stomach of a robust adult two and a quarter hours is required to digest milk. Good authority, Dr. Dunglison, of Philadelphia, an author of a prominent work on Physiology, says that more time is required for the digestion of all kinds of food than is put down in the tables of statistics on that subject. There is nothing on record going to show that digestion is carried on more rapidly in the stomach of a child than in the stomach of an adult.

An argument used in favor of frequent feeding in the case of the babe is that the stomach is very small. I answer, so is the child; but its stomach is relatively to the body larger than the adults. Again, it is urged that milk is not so nutritious as solid food, and therefore the child needs to eat more frequently. I answer, milk is the food designed by the Creator for the infant, and therefore ought and will answer the wants of its body under an ordinary rule of digestion, applicable alike to old and young, with but very little modification. It will serve no good purpose to give food more frequently than it is disposed of, nor so continuously as not to allow the stomach proper rest; for this would defeat the object for which food is given.

What would you do, it is urged, when your child cries and evinces a strong desire for food? Would you be so cruel as to let the poor little thing suffer from hunger? I answer, never fear; he will not suffer in reality. Hunger will do him good. Let him go for two or three hours with an empty stomach, occasionally, after the food is digested. If he be accustomed to this, his appetite will be vigorous and healthy, and the digestion will be perfect. At first the feeding should not be oftener than every two hours; and after the third week, be extended to three hours between the close and to the beginning of the meals. This through the day; and at night the child should be habituated to go from eight or nine in the evening to four or five in the morning without eating. A babe thus fed will not vomit its food half an hour after eating, nor at all; but will, as a rule, fall asleep and be quiet for two or three hours.

At eleven or twelve months of age, when the child comes to eat solid or semi-solid food, after having been taken from the breast, three meals a day and nothing between are far preferable to more. There is no reason why a babe should not go to sleep and pass through the night without eating, as well as the adult, as false habits are not formed in the beginning. I have known a large number of children, managed after this rule, who throve well and gave but little trouble in their rearing from sickness or from peevishness. On this plan the stomach will be free from dyspepsia, the appetite will never be craving or abnormal, and other things being ordinarily healthful, the health will be uniformly good. The diseases common in infancy, such as fretting, vomiting, colic, diarrhœa, dysentery, eruptions of the skin, convulsions, are, almost without exception, attributable to bad management in feeding.

A large proportion of the children born die under five years of age, and I believe the greater part from no congenital necessity, but chiefly from too frequent or over-feeding. Those that escape dying and grow up to maturity, having been reared as I have described, have irritations of a chronic nature established in the stomach. These troubles are manifested, as can be readily seen among children, by the almost constant desire to be eating something. In our country this craving is gratified by the parent. Our children eat from six to a dozen times in twenty-four hours, even after they have come to eat solid food. They become dyspeptics in infancy. I have seen numberless cases of habitual sour stomach under ten years of age. Can it be wondered at, then, that among our people we find so large a proportion with poor digestion, over-active and irritable nervous systems, congestion of brain, loss of memory, shattered constitutions, etc.

Compare the constitutions of our country people with those of Ireland, Scotland, Germany, and France. There the child is reared simply and upon plain food. He has his proper hours of eating, and his proper food, and which in all the earlier years of youthhood is kept down to a strictly simple arrangement of two or three articles, and always totally unlike the general preparation for the family. His appetite is not pampered with pie, cake, sweetmeats, confections, etc., nor does he eat meat at an early age. I have conversed with a great many Scotch, Irish, and English men who have told me that in all their young years they lived upon milk, oatmeal porridge—which is similar to our mush-oaten cake; that they had but two meals a day, and were not allowed to eat at any other time, nor of any other food. I have remarked that, as a general thing, these persons have manifested the highest order of endurance. Many of them had lived through excessive hardships and exposures—enough seemingly to have killed a dozen of our countrymen—and still had retained their elasticity and fine health. I attribute this to their having unimpaired digestive and nutritive powers, established by habits of simple living all through their early life, and maintained to a good degree up to the maturing of the constitution. It is a great mistake our people make in feeding their children as they do. They should begin to discipline them in this respect when life begins, habituating them thus early to eat to live, and not to live to eat.—Science of Health.

THE OLD APPLE TREE.

The late Rev. Ichabod Spencer said that when he was a lad, his father gave him a little tree that had just been grafted. One day, in his father's absence, he let the colt into the garden, and the young animal broke off the graft. It was mended, however, on the following day, and continued to grow finely. Years passed, and young Spencer become a man and a minister. Some time after he had become a pastor, he made a visit to the old homestead where he spent his boyhood. His little sapling had become a large tree, and was loaded with apples. During the night after his arrival at the homestead, there was a violent thunder shower, and the wind blew fearfully. He rose early in the morning, and on going out found his tree lying prostrate upon the ground. The wind had twisted it off just where the colt broke it when it was a sapling.

Probably the storm would not have broken it off if it had not been broken when it was small. It will usually be found that those who are grossly viscious in manhood, dropped a seed of vice in the morning of life; and that the fallen youth who was religiously trained, and has become corrupt, broke off his connection with virtuous men just where he did a wicked thing in boyhood. Here is a fact to be pondered. The oldest man in the prison could not say that childhood and youth had no connection with his present condition. Perhaps he could point to the very day and hour when he decided his present character.—Ex.

IT is a truth which should be kept sight of in all human maladies, that great Nature is our wisest and safest teacher.

The World's Crisis AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

RULES FOR CORRESPONDENTS.

Over all matters not intended for publication, write:—PRIVATE.

Over all business matters, write:—BUSINESS.

Over all articles intended for the paper, write:—For the Crisis.

☞ Put business matters and appointments on separate pieces of paper, or so that they can be detached without interfering with any other communication.

All articles should be accompanied by the writer's NAME, for the Editor's information, even if it is not published.

When the names of NEW subscribers are sent, please say they are NEW, and it will save much labor.

PRIVATE LETTERS.—Those wishing to address the Editor on matters not connected with the office, please write PRIVATE on the outside of the envelope.

☞ All persons writing to the office should give distinctly and plainly the POST OFFICE, COUNTY and STATE at which they wish to be addressed; and all orders, subscriptions, communications and remittances, should be plainly directed to

☞ "THE WORLD'S CRISIS,"
Boston, Mass.

PUBLISHED ALSO AT THE SAME OFFICE,
Semi-monthly,

THE YOUNG PILGRIM
An Illustrated Sunday-School Paper,
FOR CHILDREN AND YOUTH.

TERMS: ☞ Payable always in advance.

Single copy, 50 cts. a year; and at the same rates or any number of copies under ten.

Ten copies, and any larger number under fifty, when sent to one address, 40 cts. a year for each copy.

Fifty copies, and any number over fifty, when sent to one address, 35 cts. a year for each copy.

To Canada subscribers at the same rates. No extra charge for American postage.

☞ All communications, orders, and remittances should be addressed to

"THE YOUNG PILGRIM,"
Boston, Mass

The World's Crisis
AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

"BEHOLD I COME QUICKLY; AND MY REWARD IS WITH ME."

WHOLE NO. 1035. BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 22, 1875. VOL. XLI.—NO. 23.

The World's Crisis,
AND
SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER,
Issued every Wednesday Afternoon, by the
ADVENT CHRISTIAN PUBLICATION SOCIETY,
At No. 160 Hanover Street, Boston, Mass.
GEO. T. ADAMS,
Treasurer and Business Agent.

JOHN COUCH, MILES GRANT, } Editors.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE:
S. G. MATHEWSON, L. BOUTELL, WM. H. MITCHELL.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEE:
H. V. DAVIS, M. BATCHELOR, L. T. CUNNINGHAM, J. G. HAMBLIN, J. HEMENWAY.

The Crisis is devoted to the exposition of all Bible truth; especially the doctrine of the immediate, personal coming and reign of Christ on the earth; holiness of heart; the unconscious state of the dead; their literal resurrection, and final destruction of the wicked.

IT SHALL BE WELL WITH THEE.—Isa. 3: 10.

It shall be well with thee; O christian, listen,
Though dark the cloud above and rough the sea,
Though in thine eye the rain of sorrow glisten,
It shall be well with thee.

It shall be well with thee; a light is gleaming
Beyond the cloud, and waves shall harmless be,
And smiles shall light the eyes where tears are streaming;
It shall be well with thee.

It shall be well with thee; above the mountain,
Where toil thy feet, the bow of promise see;
And by yon sterile path springs many a fountain,
It shall be well with thee.

It shall be well with thee; though crosses gory
Strew all the way far as thine eye may see,
Upon each hangs a wondrous weight of glory;
It shall be well with thee.

It shall be well with thee; beyond the river,
Where living waters ripple to the sea,
And all is light and life and joy forever;
It shall be well with thee.

—Religious Telescope.

ANNUAL REPORT
OF THE AMERICAN ADVENT MISSION SOCIETY,
For the Year ending Aug. 11th, 1875.

The tenth annual meeting of the American Advent Mission Society was held at Springfield, Mass. (Chapin's Grove), Aug. 11th, 1875. The meeting was called to order by the President, Eld. Miles Grant, and opened with prayer by Eld. Wm. Sheldon, Wis. The membership of the Advent Christian Association was adopted as the membership of this meeting, which is as follows:—

List of Members.

S. G. Mathewson, Worcester, Mass., President.

M. Batchelor, New Bedford, Mass., Vice President.

C. E. Barnes, Salem, Mass., Secretary pro tem.

Geo. T. Adams, Boston, Mass., Treasurer.

Members of the Board—J. G. Hamblin, Hyde Park, Mass., H. V. Davis, New Bedford, Mass.

Preachers.

From Massachusetts.—Geo. A. Streeter, North Dana; H. Pratt, Springfield; Sam'l Ayers, Worcester; J. Hemenway, Westfield; H. H. Tucker, Palmer; J. A. Packard, Winchendon; R. D. Grant, Athol; S. Hale, J. Couch, M. Grant, I. I. Leslie, Chas. Goodrich, Boston; H. Munger, Chicopee Falls; L. T. Cunningham, Newton; Mrs. Jane Benson, Leicester; Mrs. A. M. Barnes, Clinton.

From New Hampshire.—Enoch Morrill, South Deerfield; I. Damman, S. S. Brewer, E. A. Stockman, Alton Bay; M. A. Potter, Keene; E. Owen, Portsmouth; A. Simpson, Concord; A. Ross, East Concord.

From Vermont.—H. K. Flagg, Arthur A. Waite, Rutland; A. A. Hoyt, Waterbury.

From Connecticut.—I. B. Potter, Stafford; Donald Cameron, Norwich; Wm. J. Ripley, Pleasant Valley; H. C. Smith, Scitico; A. Elliott, Campville; Geo. L. White, Bristol.

From Rhode Island.—J. W. Thomas, Providence.

From New York.—A. W. Sibley, Richard Mosher, Sandy Hill; T. J. Cox, Mrs. A. E. Smith, New York City; Mrs. L. M. Stoddard, Lockport.

From Virginia.—Elias Brundage, Black Walnut.

From South Carolina.—P. G. Bowman, Lydia.

From Alabama.—J. A. Cargile, Stevenson.

From Wisconsin.—Wm. Sheldon, Brodhead.

From Ohio.—E. McCulloch, Nevada.

From Kansas.—R. F. and Mrs. R. F. Clark, Rock Creek; J. C. Smith, Arvonia.

Delegates.

I. H. Plumley, E. A. Egglestone, A. Noble, Westfield, Mass.; Robert Allen, Vernon, Vt.; Josiah Hall, Scitico, Ct.; Geo. L. Place, George S. Harwood, Providence, R. I.; James Young, New York City, N. Y.; M. G. Wise, Collinsville, Ct.; C. M. Morgan, Granby, Mass.; Carter Wilder, Clinton, Mass.; Henry A. Way, Bristol, Ct.; H. L. Stevens, Jr., Turnip Creek, Va.; G. Garran, Hyde Park, Mass.; Sam'l Cooper, Woodstock Valley, Ct.; Noah Shumway, Danielsonville, Ct.; J. W. De Merritt, Natick, Mass.; H. W. Buxton, A. L. Chamberlain, H. H. Nash, H. D. Law, Geo. E. Merrill, Worcester, Mass.; Benj. Irish, Paul Lawrence, B. S. Pierce, New Bedford, Mass.; Warren Howard, Hebron, N. Y.; Benjamin Young, C. H. Woodman, Ozias Goodrich, Chelsea, Mass.; E. J. Wood, Palmer, Mass.; S. D. Hutchins, Rutland, Vt.; Levi Allen, Chicopee Falls, Mass.; J. B. White, Hoosick, N. Y.

The order of business adopted was re-adopted as the order at this meeting, which was as follows:—

1. Reading of the Secretary's minutes.
2. The report of the Executive Board by the President.
3. Treasurer's report.
4. The election of officers for the year ensuing.
5. Promiscuous business.

According to the order of business, the Secretary's minutes were read, and by vote approved. It was voted to lay the second item of business, the Report of the Executive Board, on the table for the present. The Treasurer's report was read and adopted. The following is

THE TREASURER'S REPORT.

Geo. T. Adams, Treasurer of the A. A. Mission Society, in account with the same.

DR.

Aug. 5th, 1875.
To balance from last year's account	$419 75
" cash received from August 5th, 1874, to Aug. 5th, 1875, by various donations	4,921 30
" cash received from Miles Grant, for Cal. and Western trip	523 08
" cash received on payment of property in Memphis, Tenn	554 00
" Interest on deposit	11 47
Total receipts	$6.429 60

CR.

Aug. 5th, 1875.
By cash paid out as follows:—
For Southern Mission, under the direction of Bro. P. G. Bowman	$1,100 00
" Tennessee and Alabama, Brn. J. A. Cargile and J. J. Smith	700 00
" Kansas—Brn. J. C. Smith, J. C. Thorp, V. F. Hunt, W. Sheldon and Sr. M. J. Clark	735 00
" California,—Bro. Grant	733 08
" Cal.—Bro. H. F. Carpenter	300 00
" Cal.—Bro. D. Mathewson	300 00
" Florida,—Bro. T. J. Greene	80 00
" North and South Carolina, and Georgia,—Brn. A. Simpson and M. J. Hughes	507 00
" Northern Field	260 00
" Washington, D. C	100 00
" Michigan, Ohio, and Indiana,—Brn. Voss, McCullock, Branch, and Wright	165 00
" West Point, Ky.,—Sr. Tuller	52 00
" Virginia,—Bro. Bundage	25 00
" Publications sent out	177 67
" Paid on notes and interest on Memphis property	695 52
For postage, money orders, freight on goods sent to Kansas, expense of attending meetings, stationery, printing, etc	151 82
Total expenditures	$6,082 09
Balance in the Treasury	$347 51

GEO. T. ADAMS, Treasurer A. A. M. Society.

Boston, Aug. 5, 1875.

This is to certify that I have examined the accounts of the Treasurer of the A. A. M. Society, and found them correctly kept, and rightly vouched, and a balance in the Treasury of three hundred and forty-seven dollars and fifty-one cents. ($347.51.)

L. Boutell, Auditor.

By vote, the Chair appointed the following Brn. a committee to receive, assort, and count ballots for the election of officers: W. Sheldon, A. A. Hoyt, and J. W. Thomas.

On motion, it was voted that there be but one Vice President. The list of the old Board of officers was called for and read. Adjourned to meet at the preachers' stand to-morrow at ten o'clock.

Met as adjourned, Bro. Grant in the chair. After the singing of the 557th number of the Jubilee Harp, prayer was offered by Bro. Geo. A. Streeter. The committee on ballots reported the following elected as officers for the year ensuing:—

President—Eld. Miles Grant.
Vice President—Eld. John Couch.
Secretary—Eld. A. W. Sibley.
Treasurer—Geo. T. Adams.
Auditor—Eld. L. Boutell.
Executive Board—Elds. L. T. Cunningham, S. G. Mathewson, and J. Couch.

Bro. J. Couch declining to accept the office of Vice President, it was voted to rescind the vote to have but one Vice President, that prevailed yesterday, and on motion, the President was authorized to cast a ballot in behalf of the Society containing the following names as Vice Presidents: N. W. Wait, Sidney Hall, C. S. Sherman, and S. Ayers.

On motion, the report of the Executive Board was taken from the table and read by the President, and by a full and hearty vote adopted by the Society.

Cheering remarks were made by Brn. P. G. Bowman and J. A. Cargile, respecting the progress made in mission work in their respective fields of labor, and the success attending their efforts in proclaiming the good news—"Behold, the Bridegroom cometh." There were noble responses on the part of the stewards of the Lord's money, when contributions and pledges were called for with which to carry on the mission work another year.

Adjourned to meet in the Big Tent, at 4 o'clock P. M. Met at the hour of adjournment, in front of the preachers' stand, at 4 o'clock P. M., Bro. Grant in the chair. Prayer was offered by Bro. L. T. Cunningham. The meeting was addressed by Sr. R. F. Clark and Bro. J. C. Smith of Kansas, and Wm. Sheldon of Wisconsin.

These mission meetings were some of the very best that were held on the camp-ground this year. Deep impressions were made on the minds of those who heard the wants of the mission field set forth by the speakers above referred to; and we trust those impressions will result in earnest and decided action in the direction of sustaining those missionaries in the field, and seeking to send others forth to publish the glad tidings of salvation, and thus carry out the purpose for which the Mission Society was organized. The President's report was listened to with thrilling interest, and, we hope, when read by those who were not present at the time of its delivery, that it will kindle a flame of missionary fire in the hearts of every one, which will result in bringing the friends of Jesus up to the standard of missionary work everywhere, and thus a greater effort be made to save the lost and perishing of our world. Adjourned sine die.

A. W. Sibley, Secretary.

P. S.—At the first meeting of the Executive Board, after the annual session, Miles Grant was chosen Chairman, and L. T. Cunningham Secretary, of the Board; Geo. T. Adams Corresponding Secretary of the Board for the year ensuing. The following standing committees were appointed by the Chair: On Finance—G. T. Adams, L. Boutell, and A. W. Sibley. On Publications—M. Grant, S. G. Mathewson, and L. T. Cunningham. On Tent—Geo. T. Adams, L. Boutell, and J. Couch.

A. W. S.

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

To the American Advent Mission Society, greeting:—

Your Executive Board come before you again to make their annual report and suggestions. This Society was organized in 1865, to meet a pressing need, which has continually increased. Believing as we did then, and do now, that we are living in the closing generation of the present dispensation, we felt it to be our duty to do what we could to arouse as many as possible to prepare for the great day of the Lord. Knowing that more could be done by associated action, than by individual efforts; and believing it would give better satisfaction to those who wished to give for mission work, if the funds could be placed in the hands of responsible persons, the American Advent Mission Society was organized, and has been continued for this purpose. Each year has afforded additional reasons for such an association. While but little has been done, compared with what might be desirable, there is great cause for thanksgiving for what has been already accomplished by means of the generous gifts of many noble, self-sacrificing souls. It is hoped their example will stimulate others this year to make a liberal offering for this important work.

We think there is abundant reason to thank the Lord that this Society has been formed, and been so well sustained. When the full results shall be known in the world to come, we believe those who have given for this mission work will see that none of their gifts were better bestowed. We expect to meet many in the kingdom, who would have been lost, had it not been for the free-will-offerings of those who have supported the mission work. And shall it flag now, when so near the end? Nay, verily.

"Sound the battle cry!
See! the foe is nigh;
Raise the standard high
For the Lord."

We believe the reasons for supporting the A. A. M. Society were never before so strong as at the present time. The Macedonian cry is heard in all directions, with increasing earnestness. The South and West stretch forth their arms, and cry, Come, and tell us about the return of Jesus, and the needed preparation for his appearing; tell us of the nature of man, his condition between death and the resurrection, the wages of sin, and the home of the saints. Doors once closed are now open. The walls of prejudice are falling like those of Jericho before the shout of Joshua and his little army. Strong men in the different denominations, with holy boldness, are rising up to lend their aid in the glorious work. They have stepped into the front ranks, and take a prominent position in defending the golden truths that comfort those who are now gathered in this tented grove; truths, for the belief and support of which, some have sacrificed favored positions, choice friends, and all they hold dear in this world; and yet, they thank the Lord that they have been counted worthy to suffer a little for Jesus and his word. They have no complaints to make. The prize obtained is worth infinitely more than all the things sacrificed to gain the precious boon. If their reputation has been thrown among the rubbish for the truth's sake; if once dear friends have turned away; if their means of support have been cut off; they are richly compensated by the love of Jesus in the heart, the bright light now shining on the sacred page, and the blessed hope of immortality, when Jesus shall come in glory. With these facts before us, we feel it our imperative duty to do all in our power to assist others to come to the same delightful position, knowing they will for ever thank us for the favor. It is our best work in this world. Let other things be neglected, this, never. It is only doing as taught by Jesus, Go into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature. This work exceeds in value all other, inasmuch as eternal things exceed temporal things.

Are we awake to this subject? Do we realize its importance? Do our works show that we really believe what we profess? Are we laboring as true servants of Christ or are we living for ourselves? What are we doing to save men from destruction? Have we given anything to help send the gospel to the poor? Has the tract fund, or the poor fund, or the mission fund received any aid from our hands? If not, let us begin to-day, and do liberally, remembering, "God loveth a cheerful giver;" and also, that "the liberal soul shall be made fat."

Look at the sacrifice of Jesus for our salvation. Is he asking too much, when he calls upon us to give of our substance to assist in saving others from perdition? Are we worthy to be called his disciples if we are unwilling to bear any burdens to advance the object for which he came into this world? The answers to these inquiries are so easy, it would help none to name them. To his command, Go work in my vineyard, let our response be ready and cheerful,—By thy grace, we will do with pleasure any thing we can to support thy cause. Soon it will be too late to offer a helping hand to the perishing. They are rapidly approaching the point beyond which there is no hope. They are just on the brink of destruction, careless of their awful situation. Who will help sound the alarm, while there is a possibility of their salvation? Who will carry the news, or provide the means? True men are ready to go, and sacrifice their all in leading men out of the road to destruction. Shall they be sustained in their self-denying, self-sacrificing work? What is the response? The heart beating in harmony with the spirit of Jesus must say, Yes, you shall have my support and sympathy. I will take a share in the sufferings of Christ. My hand is open with its offering for this noble work. When the load is heavy, give me an opportunity to bear a part of the burden. Such have not forgotten the teaching of the inspired word: "Bear ye one another's burdens, and so fulfill the law of Christ."

The mission labors of the past year have been various, and crowned with a good degree of success, affording cause for much satisfaction to those who have so nobly aided by money and labor to spread the last great crowning message to the inhabitants of this world. Subsequent to our report at the last annual meeting, between five or six thousand dollars were given and pledged to carry forward the mission work another year. You have heard in the treasurer's report of the use made of these funds, by the direction of your Board. In all the meetings of the members of the Board, their action has been very harmonious, and their associations pleasant. After asking wisdom from the Lord they have endeavored, according to the best of their ability, to appropriate the mission funds where they seemed to be most needed. A large proportion have been applied in the southern and western fields, and we trust they have been judiciously expended by those who have received them. Bro. Bowman, assisted by Bro. A. Simpson, has been laboring with special good results in North and South Carolina, and Georgia. Prejudice has given way, and new doors have been opened for the spread of the truth. The harvest is white for the reaper's sickle, but the laborers are few. Perhaps there is no field where help is more needed than in the south. Bro. J. A. Cargile and J. J. Smith have done a good work in Alabama, Tenn. and North Carolina; Bro. T. J. Green, in Florida; and Bro. E. Brundage, in Virginia.

Brn. J. B. Smith, J. S. Throp, Virgil Hunt, Sr. M. J. Clark, and others have labored in Kansas with untiring zeal, and good success. As reports have been given from time to time in the columns of the Crisis, showing they have not labored in vain in the Lord, we will not take up your time by repeating in detail the interesting facts connected with these mission fields. We have also sent aid to those preaching in new places in Nova Scotia, Michigan, Ohio, Kentucky, California, Missouri, Mass., New York and New Hampshire.

It has been hard times for those engaged in mission work, during the past year, especially in the south and west. While they have found many ready and anxious to hear the gospel of the kingdom, the poverty of the people has prevented them from being able to assist the missionary in his arduous labors, though they have been found willing to do what they could by giving a portion of their scanty fare. Prejudices, arising from the events of the past, serve to hedge up the way of the missionary in the southern field, and neutralize his efforts for good, yet, a wide door is opening for faithful, judicious men, who have no disposition to meddle with political schemes, and are free from sectarian bigotry; men who love to work for Jesus, and are more anxious to see sinners converted, than to secure honor in the roll of fame; men who are willing to work now, and wait for their reward till their divine King appears; men who do not inquire, Will this or that course make me popular, or secure me a better support; but in what way can I do the most good? what will best please the Lord?

We believe we have such men in the mission field to-day, who are willing to continue their toilsome labors with untiring perseverance. The question for us now to settle is this: shall we do what we can to sustain them, or shall we allow them to be drawn from their field of usefulness to earn the means to keep their families from disgraceful poverty? We must not expect to hear Jesus say, "Well done," if we allow his faithful servants to famish for the want of support, while spending their best energies to rescue the fallen from ruin. This is a matter of no minor interest. Our own present and future welfare is involved, as well as that of thousands of others. It is to be feared we are not yet half awake to the importance of missionary work. The chief success of christianity, from first to last, has been gained by missionary labor. Jesus and the apostles were missionaries, who traveled through the towns and cities of Judea. Paul was a noted missionary in Asia and Europe, journeying by sea and land, in his blessed work, not counting his own life dear, when he could win souls to Christ. He sacrificed his all; reputation, friends, ease; passed through sharp perils of varied character, imprisonment, bore whippings, beatings with rods, and stones, and yet faltered not. Blessed were those who administered to his comfort. They will not be forgotten, if they gave no more than a cup of cold water. We believe the christian dispensation will end quite like its beginning.

(To be continued.)

SINNER, FLEE TO CHRIST.

C. H. PRESTON.

Sinner, we are living in perilous times; in times that try men's souls, and in times that our life is not safe except it be insured in the everlastimg life insurance, Christ Jesus. For if our life be hid with Christ in God, then when he who is our life shall appear, we shall appear with him in glory. Life is what we are all seeking after, and if life is what we want, why not have eternal life? We are always willing to receive any good gift, and as this is a free gift, why not accept it? We read, "The wages of sin is death; but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord." Let us receive this precious gift, and glorify God through his beloved Son, who died that we might not perish, but have everlasting life.

Sinner, flee to Jesus. There is no time for controversy about this matter; no time to discuss or debate; it is too late. "The night is far spent, the day is at hand," and what remains for us to do must be done quickly. Get ready; the Judge standeth before the door, and may we not hear that unwelcome sound, "depart from me, ye that work iniquity;" but may we hear it said, "Well done, good and faithful servant." "Watch, therefore; for ye know not what hour your Lord doth come." "Amen, even so, come, Lord Jesus."

Chedford, Mass.

GOD'S PLEADINGS.

L. A. WHEELER.

"Whom shall he teach knowledge? and whom shall he make to understand doctrine? them that are weaned from the milk, and drawn from the breasts." Isa. 28: 9.

The text is a question and answer. Whom shall he (the Lord) teach knowledge, and doctrine? Knowledge must precede doctrine. God is the great first cause of all knowledge, but not so with doctrine; for we read about the doctrines of men and the doctrines of devils. But whom shall the Lord teach doctrine? Those "that are weaned from the milk, and drawn from the breasts." If we take it just as it reads, then it would be little children and no others; but evidently that is not the meaning. It is used in a figurative way, and means, no doubt, weaned from the world, for this is taught all through the Scriptures. One illustration on this point. The Lord's house that Solomon built was a type of the church. Each stone was got out and wrought into perfect shape in the mountains, so thet when the house was put together, the sound of a tool was not heard upon it. Of course, the first thing to be done with each stone was to break it off from the ledge. Suppose the master-builder should work around a stone, get it shaped just like the others to look at, but leave it firmly attached to the mother ledge on the back side, could it ever get into the house? I leave it with the reader to decide.

But to make the application. How does the master builder shape spiritual stones, or teach them doctrine? He uses many means, none perhaps more effectual than the preached word, when attended by the Spirit. But God's preaching is not all done from the pulpit, Every pain and ache, sorrow, trial, and disappointment, are so many tools to break us off from the world; and happy is that individual that will let them do their appointed work. But God does not stop with individuals. Isaiah says, "By fire and by his sword will the Lord plead with all flesh. And again, Joel says, "When I shall bring again the captivity of Judah and Jerusalem, I will also gather all nations, and will bring them into the valley of Jehoshaphat, and will plead with them there for my people." And again, "Let the heathen be wakened and come up to the valley of Jehoshaphat; for there will I sit to judge all the heathen round about." This valley of Jehoshaphat cannot be where he will sit in final judgment, because when he comes to execute judgment, he does not come to plead. All pleading is in the past. The Mediator has left that office then. Is it not identical with the valley of decision, or concision (margin); or cutting off; a condition, rather than a place, and perhaps it is during the same period that the "sealing" and "binding of tares in bundles" takes place. While God's faithful ambassadors are pleading, God is pleading, not only by fire and by his sword, but just as we have it from the pen of Joel, by locusts (grasshoppers), by caterpillars, by canker worms, and palmer worms; by seed (potatoes) rotting under the clods. God has located it near the "day of the Lord," and we have no right to say it belongs anywhere else. And still he pleads by floods, by dearth, by tempests, by earthquakes, by signs in the sun, and moon, and stars. Six vials of plagues have already done their pleading, the most of them upon the mother of abominations, and are bringing out God's people, for he had a people even there. But the pleading time will soon be over, for "then cometh the end, when he (Christ) shall have delivered up the kingdom to God, even the Father; when he (Christ) shall have put down all rule and all authority and power; for he (Christ) must reign till he (Christ) hath put all enemies under his (Christ's) feet. . . . But when he (the Father) saith, All things are put under him (Christ), it is manifest that he (the Father) is excepted, which did put all things under him (Christ). And when all things shall be subdued unto him (Christ), then shall the Son also himself be subject unto him (the Father) that put all things under him (Christ), that God may be all in all." 1 Cor. 15: 24–28.

Yet the prophet said, "They would not hear; but the word of the Lord was unto them precept upon precept, precept upon precept, line upon line, line upon line, here a little and there a little." We sometimes hear people say, Why take a little from Daniel, a little from Matthew, a little from Revelations, a little from this, that, and the other one, to make out that Christ is soon coming? If he intended that we should know when he would come, how easy it would have been for him to have specified the exact time. Now all that feel like this, if they will take their Bibles, and carefully read Matthew's writings, they will find he made twenty-seven quotations from seven different prophets, and from the Psalms, to prove that that babe was the Christ. And each quotation was nothing more than a scrap in a place; one mentioning the place of his birth, another that his mother would be a virgin, another that he should be called a Nazarene, and so on; but all these bits, when put together, helped to form a foundation that the apostles were not afraid to step upon. And if Paul had studied the prophets as carefully as he did the law, he might not have needed such an extra display of God's power to convert him.

Plainfield, Mass., Sept. 3rd, 1875.

OUR MORTAL NATURE.

F. P. DINGLEY.

As the whole human family were in Adam, the day that he sinned, by yielding to Satan, he finished his career; and he would have been struck out of existence immediately if it had not been for a mighty One, who promised that in case man sinned, he would pay the demand of the law, and open a way for him to be saved from sin. "The Lord laid on him the iniquity of us all." Man was set free from that demand, and was placed on probation again, the same as before, only under the law of sin. But man must be saved from the law of sin, or suffer the penalty of sin at last, which will result in that death from which there will be no awakening.

This death that we die, previous to our coming to the judgment, I think is included in the curse. (Gen. 3: 17–20.) The curse not only affected the terra firma on which we dwell, but all that is thereon. Every thing in the earth is transitory and fading. Both man and the whole brute creation suffer in consequence of it. Both are alike, and return unto the ground from whence they were taken. Man falls down to await the hour that shall call him forth to the tribunal bar of God. "Therefore hath the curse devoured the earth, and they that dwell therein are desolate; therefore the inhabitants of the earth are burned and few men left."

Paul said,—"Wherefore, as by one man sin entered into the world, and death by sin, so death passed upon all men, in whom [marginal] all have sinned." All sinned in Adam, and were reckoned under the law of sin; and it was for our eternal welfare that the Lord pronounced the curse. If there had been no judgments in the earth, and death had not been permitted to reign during probationary days, Satan would have made man think that he would never be destroyed, but would live forever without any change of heart; and he never would have sought for purity of heart, which all must possess, who receive the crown of life at last. He would have made him believe that saying of his,—"Ye shall not surely die," and man would not have sought for that eternal life which is to be given to the followers of the meek and lowly Savior. Isaiah says,—"When thy judgments are in the earth, the inhabitants of the world will learn righteousness." Paul said to the Corinthian church,—"All things are for your sakes." But bear in mind that this death is not the penalty of Adam's transgression; it came in consequence of Adam's transgression; but it is the penalty of no transgression.

We can now understand the scripture in Matthew 22: 32. God is not the God of those that have suffered the penalty of sin. He is not the God of those that are under the law of sin; for in view of eternal salvation, they are reckoned the same as being dead already. Abraham, Isaac and Jacob are sleeping. They are not under the law of sin; and in view of a resurrection out from among the dead ones to life eternal, they live unto God.

The tree of life was commanded to be guarded, lest man should eat and live forever under the dominion of sin. I do not think that eating a few times of the fruit of this tree would cause one to have eternal life; but so long as one made this his principal food, he would be kept alive. Adam began to die the day that this food was withheld from his use. His system, lacking this nourishment, began to waste away; and he lived nine hundred and thirty years and died. As the stream cannot rise higher than the fountain, we possess dying natures through him; and droop and die similar to him, only each generation that comes after is weaker and shorter lived. "As in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive. But every man in his own order."

This theory brings up Adam from the dead to receive the reward of his doings after he was driven out of the garden of Eden. Our Savior says,—"The hour is coming in the which all that are in the graves shall hear his voice, and shall come forth; they that have done good, unto the resurrection of life; and they that have done evil, unto the resurrection of damnation." Both the good and the bad will come from the land of darkness, at the call of the Savior; the former to receive "the gift of God," the latter "the wages of sin."

Man, by his fall, lost all right that he had to life. We are now on probation upon the merit of God's dear Son. It was through his mercy that Adam was spared after he transgressed the divine law. It is according to his mercy that he now saves us from sin. We can do nothing of ourselves to merit any blessing.

Paul says,—"But we had the sentence of death in ourselves, that we should not trust in ourselves, but in God who raiseth the dead; who delivered us [in Adam] from so great a death, and doth deliver; in whom we trust that he will yet deliver us." Jesus not only delivers his people from sin, but from everything that has been brought upon them by sin. He will deliver them from the death brought upon them by the curse and mortality. "For this corruptible must put on incorruption, and this mortal must put on immortality." He said,—"This is the Father's will which hath sent me, that of all which he hath given me I should lose nothing, but should raise it up again at the last day."

When the full time comes for the curse to be lifted from the earth, every thing will be restored to the original design of the Creator. Nothing will be lost by sin or Satan. "He will swallow up death in victory; and the Lord God will wipe away tears from off all faces; and the rebuke of his people shall he take away from off all the earth; for the Lord hath spoken it." "And there shall be no more curse." "Thy people also shall all be righteous; they shall inherit the land forever, the branch of my planting, the work of my hands, that I may be glorified."

Jesus became the author of eternal salvation unto all them that obey him. He says, —"My sheep hear my voice, and I know them, and they follow me; and I give unto them eternal life, and they shall never perish, neither shall any man pluck them out of my hand." Jesus has not yet given eternal life unto his people, but they have it in him. By getting into him and abiding there, we can lay hold of it by faith, and foretaste its glories; and we know that when he shall appear, we shall be made like him to die no more. When we come into full possession of this life, we are born of the flesh; but when we come into full possession of that life, we shall be born of the Spirit. We are now born to a mortal life; but we shall then be born to an immortal life, our bodies being quickened by the Spirit of God.

So. Saco, Me.

WISDOM.

N. D. BABCOCK.

Where is wisdom to be found? "Surely there is a vein for the silver, and a place where gold is found. Iron is taken out of the earth, and brass is molten out of the stone. As for the earth, out of it cometh bread, and under it is turned up, as it were, fire!" But where is wisdom found? "Wisdom's path no fowl knoweth, and which no vulture's eye hath seen. The lion's whelps have not trodden it, nor the fierce lion passed by it. Man putteth forth his hand upon the rock, he overturneth the mountains by the roots, he cutteth out rivers among the rocks, and his eye seeth every precious thing. He bindeth the floods from overflowing, the things that are hid he bringeth forth to light. But where shall wisdom be found, and where is the place of understanding? Man knoweth not the place thereof, neither is it found in the land of the living. The depth saith it is not in me, and the sea saith it is not in me. It cannot be gotten for gold, neither shall silver be weighed for the price thereof. It cannot be valued with the gold of Ophir, with the precious onyx or the sapphire. The gold and crystal cannot equal it, and the exchange of it shall not be for jewels of fine gold. No mention shall be made of coral or of pearls, for the price of wisdom is above rubies. The topaz of Ethiopia shall not equal it, neither shall it be valued with pure gold. Whence, then, cometh wisdom, and where is the place of understanding? Seeing it is hid from the eyes of all living, and kept close from the fowls of the air.

Again we ask, whence shall it be found? "God understandeth the way thereof, and he knoweth the place thereof. For he looketh to the ends of the earth, and seeth under the whole heavens. And unto man he said, the fear of the Lord, that is wisdom; and to depart from evil is understanding." Job 28. How simple, how easy, how plain. Only through our Lord Jesus Christ this wisdom may be obtained. Though we may be poor, and despised, and deprived of the knowledge and possession of all earthly things, yet we may dwell richly in this wisdom, by keeping the commandments, and keeping unspotted from the world.

PATIENCE.

Be patient toward all men. The cold hammer fashions the hot iron. He who would govern others, must first learn to govern himself. Passion is blind. Cool, deliberate, and at the same time energetic action, makes itself felt in every department of life.

Be patient toward your brethren. Some good men are slow to see into things. They want to do right, but it takes them a good while to determine what is required of them. Every member of the body of Christ is not an eye. To get out of patience with these dull ones will not help either them or you. Give them time, and they will do their duty. We all have our infirmities. Let us bear with each other.

Be patient toward sinners. Think how long God bore with you. We should bear with wicked men while God bears with them. Our patience under provocation may be the very means which the Spirit may use to strike them under conviction. But if we get out of patience with them, they can have no confidence in our religion. They will say, they are as well off as we are, and so they will harden themselves in sin.

To be patient you must have patience. The stream cannot flow if the fountain is dry. The fruit will not grow without the tree. Resolutions alone, against impatience, will not answer. You must pray as well as resolve. Ask God, not merely to help you in your outward conduct, but to give you the inward grace. Unless you get that, you will fail as you have failed before. Be determined on victory in this. No matter how much money a man may make by day, he will never grow rich if he is robbed of all at night. Impatience is the thief that steals your grace, and leaves you weak and faint, notwithstanding the many times God has blessed you with the outpouring of his Spirit. The soul never permanently grows in grace, unless it is hedged about with patience. Remember that peace, gentleness, and long-suffering are as truly fruits of the Spirit as love and joy.—Earnest Christian.

Men of advanced age, trembling on their staff, as they tread cautiously along the crowded thoroughfare, or sit quietly in the old arm chair at home, may yet do something for Jesus. Christian men often retire from business too early in life. They might work on and accumulate property to be used for Jesus. Let us work on, work ever; and when even in the death grasp, we may do something for Jesus.

The World's Crisis
AND
SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

Boston, Wednesday, Sept. 22, 1875.

TAKE NOTICE.

All subscriptions for the "CRISIS," issued from this time forward, are at the rate of $2.25 a year, payable IN ADVANCE.

POSTAGE FREE TO ALL within the United States, the Canadas, and the British Provinces.

Please Remember!

All remittances to this office, in the form of Drafts, Bank Checks, and Postal Money-Orders, should be made payable to the Business Agent, GEO. T. ADAMS.

THOSE who send articles for the "CRISIS," should direct them to the "E ITORS OF WORLD'S CRISIS," Boston, Mass.

PLEASE READ, REMEMBER, AND ACT ACCORDINGLY.

The brethren, sisters, friends—one and all—whoever may write to this office, sending articles for insertion in the Crisis, or subscriptions for the same, notices, appointments, reports, or orders for papers, books, tracts, or anything of the kind, will confer a favor and do the right way by directing their letters in either one of the following ways:—

"EDITORS OF WORLD'S CRISIS, Boston, Mass."

"WORLD'S CRISIS, Boston, Mass.," or

GEO. T. ADAMS, Agent, Boston, Mass.

Those who send articles for the Young Pilgrim should address—

"EDITOR YOUNG PILGRIM, Boston, Mass."

In no case address letters on business connected with the papers, or office, to any of the clerks, compositors, or helps in this office.
AGENT.

HEREAFTER address me at BOSTON, MASS. All private letters should be marked "personal." MILES GRANT.

CORRECTION.—The obituary of Charles O. Sanborn, in the last Crisis, should have been Charles O. Chamberlain.

FAST TRAVELING.—A fast mail train has been run from New York to Chicago in twenty-six hours, and to St. Louis in thirty-three hours. M. G.

NATURE AND GRACE.—In another column will be found an interesting article on "Nature and Grace." The points of difference are well presented. One need not make a mistake as to whether they are in a state of nature or grace. M. G.

FAITH CURE.—We have received Bro. S. H. Platt's own account of his remarkable healing in answer to the prayer of faith. It contains about 60 pp., and is entitled, "My 25th year Jubilee, or cure by faith after twenty-five years of lameness." It also contains several other accounts of healing in answer to prayer. For sale at this office. Price 15 cts. M. G.

A GOOD SUGGESTION.—A correspondent inquires whether it would not be well for those to take a lunch with them, who go away from home to meeting on a Sabbath; and some feed for the horse, if they have one, and thus avoid putting a heavy burden on those who may chance to live near the place of meeting? The poor Bro. near the meeting-house may be willing, but not able to bear the burden. Is it right to load him down with company at noon and night? "A word to the wise is sufficient." M. G.

QUOTATIONS.—We have one special request to make to those who write for the Crisis. It is this: Whenever quotations are made from the Bible, or any other book, be sure and quote word for word. If a word or sentence is omitted in the passage quoted, put periods, thus— . . . . —in the place of the omission. If this is done carefully and correctly, it will save us much labor and time in hunting up the passages; as it is important that quotations appear correctly in the paper. Please remember this.
M. G.

MARVELOUS.—The rapidity with which news is now transmitted by telegraph is truly marvelous. If telegraphing was now unknown, and the following statement were found only in Moses' Sacred writings, no doubt many of the modern scientists would laugh with scorn at the record:

"CABLE OFFICE, London, Sept. 15, 1875.
5 A. M., Greenwich time.

To all Officers: The line is now open for traffic.

The telegram was sent from London at 5 A. M., Wednesday, Greenwich time, and was received in New York at 12.01 A. M., Wednesday, and the receipt of the announcement in San Francisco by the manager of the Atlantic and Pacific office was acknowledged at 12.03 A. M., New York time."
M. G.

THE SCIENCE OF HEALTH for September abounds in excellent suggestions on the prevention of disease and the care of health. Among the more prominent articles we find Laws, which govern Life; Prevention of disease in Children; Cause and Effect; Popular Physiology; Alcoholic Presciptions; Colors and Hues in Relation to Health; Consumption; Tobacco; Sunshine; Intemperance among Lawyers; Oatmeal, with various recipes for its use; an excellent Agricultural Department; Teachers and Health Teachers; Antipathies to Drugs; The Trade in Medicines; with a great amount of information in small paragraphs, as in Answers to Correspondents, etc. This magazine should have a place in every well-regulated family. Subscription price is $2.00 a year. Single numbers, 20 cents. Address S. R. WELLS & Co., Broadway, New York.

SENSIBLE.—The following was clipped from one of our exchanges, not at all noted for its orthodox faith, but in this statement, it is in harmony with the Bible:

"There is nothing to me more convincing than the idea that the mind is not an element or entity—like fire, air, earth, or water—but simply a property of matter, or mode of action. The muscular strength of my arm, for instance, is in the arm, and cannot survive when the arm is gone. I think this is a fair illustration, and one that applies equally as well to the brain, which I consider the organ of the mind. Muscular strength depends on muscles, and mind on brain—if the former is not an element, why should I say the latter is? I know of no reason."

While the writer of the foregoing knew he was opposing human creeds, he was not, perhaps, aware that he was writing in harmony with the sacred Scriptures, which declare, that when a man dies, "In that very day his thoughts perish." Ps. 146: 4.
M. G.

HOLINESS.

One thing is quite certain, there is but little danger of giving "undue prominence" to "the doctrine of holiness," as taught in the Bible, because it is one of the leading themes from Genesis to Revelation. Holiness is the element of heaven, and the want of it is what fits one for destruction. It is the remedy for all quarrels, divisions, hatred, pride, covetousness, and other wicked things now existing. It unites the saints in heavenly embrace, and leads to earnest efforts to save the lost. It produces ardent love for the coming of Jesus, and leads one out of the spirit of the world, causing him to delight in doing the will of the Lord. It is the crowning element in the character of the christian, angels, Jesus and the Father. It is the basis of union among heavenly beings. Let it be made specially prominent, whenever circumstances will permit.
M. G.

THE CRISIS' FIRST EDITOR.

The World's Crisis was established in the year 1853, and Elder Jonas Merriam was chosen its first Editor. Bro. M. was a native of Topsfield, Mass. He was a graduate of Bowdoin College, a classmate of Judge Sawyer, of Nashua, N.H. Among the members of other classes during his collegiate course were William Pitt Fessenden, President Pierce, Prof. Stowe, Henry W. Longfellow, and John P. Hale.

As an Editor of a religious paper he had but few equals. In the sweet and affectionate spirit breathed in every article; the strong and uncompromising faith expressed in the Word of God; the kind and indulgent manner with which all patrons and correspondents were treated, and the clear manifestation in all his official acts and private life of real christian devotion, of loyalty to Christ, and self-sacrificing service for the church, he had few superiors. His classic attainments enabled him to give the Crisis a literary polish which served somewhat to commend it to the educated classes, thus assisting to give it a more general circulation. His efforts as a journalist were successful, presenting many things which were winning and attractive, and but few which were repulsive. His sight failed so that he was under the necessity of retiring from the Editorial chair, which was filled by the election of Bro. Grant.

Bro. M. spent the remnant of his days in private life, giving himself to the most sweet and endearing christian conversation, family devotions, public exhortations and prayers. His faith in the speedy coming of Christ increased with the days of his pilgrimage, until fatal sickness drew out his last dying expressions of complete resignation to God, and triumphant confidence in a swiftly approaching resurrection of the righteous dead to peerage with the angels, and a glorious immortality. He peacefully fell asleep in Jesus in Concord, N. H., May, 1871, leaving a wife (our youngest sister) to mourn her great loss, whose lonely weeping has found no ending. He rests in heavenly watch-care, until the divine appointment for the saints re-living.
J. C.

STRANGE PROCEEDINGS.

Some six years since, a French Catholic, by the name of Joseph Guibord, died in Montreal, and his friends were not allowed to bury him in his own lot, in the Catholic cemetery. Recently, Mr. Guibord's wife died, and was buried in his lot. His friends then proposed to take him from the Protestant cemetery, and place him by the side of his wife, but were not allowed the privilege. He is said to have been a man highly esteemed in his own church, and in society as an honorable, successful business man. There is mnch excitement over the matter in Montreal. The case has been stated to Queen Victoria's Privy Council, and they have decided that Mr. Guibord shall be buried in his own lot. The Bishop in Montreal refuses. It remains to be seen whether the British Government, or the Bishop, directed by the Pope, shall prevail.

The following is said to be the reason why Mr. Guibord is not allowed to be buried by the side of his wife:

"The whole 'head and front' of his offense was this: The 'Institute Canadien,' of which Mr. Guibord was a member, had in its library certain books which the Bishop prohibited, with an order to have them thrown out. The two hundred members of the Institute claimed that the books were neither bad nor hostile to the church, and appealed to Rome against the Bishop's decision. Meanwhile, Mr. Guibord retained his membership in the Institute, and the controversy was still pending when he died. This was his whole offense; nothing else has been alleged against him; and there is no other reason whatever for the extraordinary proceedings against his remains."

A mob is ready to prevent Mr. Guidbord's burial, if attempted, hence it has become a question of special interest, which shall prevail.
M. G.

"WHAT CAN BE DONE?"

We have just received a note from a dear Bro. in Christ, a faithful laborer in the gospel ministry, who says:

"I don't know but we are all going to be starved out. I know these times try men, of what sort they are of. I have just returned from a four-weeks tent-meeting. Ten were baptized. I received $14.56 for my four weeks labor, and my car fare was $5.34, leaving me $9.21 for my family. How long can one stand it at that rate? And yet that has been the way I have had to struggle the past year. I know there is a moral lack on the part of our Brn. What can be done? I have run behind more than $150 the past year, and how can I pay it at the present rate? I have felt I must give up preaching, but how can I, when I see the Lord at hand, and so many perishing, and so few true men of God that are willing to sacrifice ease and comfort to save them. I want to do right, and am trusting, and waiting, and resting in Jesus. Have been very greatly blest myself in trying to save men."

Although the letter was private, we felt that this much should be published. "What can be done?" Shall faithful, true men, be driven from the field for want of support? Who is willing to bear the responsibility? Somebody must. Who would think of hiring a common day laborer, and giving him but $9.21, besides his traveling expenses for a month's labor, even if he had no family to support? This Bro.'s case is not an isolated one. Such things are common. "What can be done?"

The spirit of sacrifice is sadly wanting. This has happened because there is a lack of consecration. What is needed is more vital godliness, heart and pocket santification. A church that starves a faithful minister, sent by the Lord, will be a church lean in spiritual things. The Savior has said, "With what measure ye meet, it shall be measured to you again." "Give, and it shall be given unto you; good measure, pressed down and shaken together, and running over, shall men give into your bosom; for with the same measure that ye meet withal, it shall be measured to you again." Says Paul: "He which soweth sparingly shall reap also sparingly, and he which soweth bountifully shall reap also bountifully." Remember, Jesus says: "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me." What is done to the Lord's servants he counts as done to himself.
M. G.

A DARK CLOUD.

The dark cloud which has for a long time been gathering blackness in the financial heavens, seems to indicate, by its present movements, and the distant sounds of muttering thunders, that the long ago predicted storm of destruction judgments are about to come upon the "rich." There is an unexplainable financial pressure, now bearing with increasing and irritating weight upon the poor and laboring classes. This is not confined to one country, but is fearfully manifesting itself in all lands. It is not produced by a general scarcity of money, for the commercial depositories were never fuller of legal exchanges than at present. It is not for lack of laborers in the producing departments, or bread to feed them, for millions are seeking for work and cannot find it, while bread is abundant almost every where. It is not because there are no improvements which might be made, or unoccupied lands to be cultivated, or rich ores to be mined, for there never were more inducements offered in these departments than are now presented. The real cause is evidently lying in some other strata, hidden from the financial eye, and seen only through the prophetic glass.

The special difficulty now existing evidently originates in an unusual lack of confidence which business men have in each other. Every body feels that it is unsafe to trust men with funds or business, because so many who were formerly considered the most trustworthy and faithful have become so unfaithful and recklessly dishonest that many choose to lock up their treasures and stop their business rather than run the risk of robbery and defalcation, or suffer the perplexity of employing labor which is factiously disloyal and untrue. All feel that business, everywhere, public and private, is coming to be done upon the principle of grab game, each getting all that he can, by fair means or foul. Bribery, deception, and knavery of the lowest type, is fast becoming the order of the day, in business transactions, from the highest State courts, down to the wood-sawyer and boot-black.

Such a state of things powerfully incline men of virtue and moral integrity to retire from the fearful contest, and live peaceably in their quiet retreat.

These things are producing jealousy between the different castes and classes, and are burning up all the adhesive principles which have bound society together, alienating rulers and ruled, employers and employed, buyers and sellers, and all men between whom business and social friction can exist.

It originates in a fearful moral defection, which necessarily manifests itself in all departments of human associations, in the financial, political, social and religious. It effects alike empires and families, churches, business houses and corporations. All feel an increasing necessity to prepare to defend themselves against those threatening to deprive them of their rights and privileges.

This causes monarchs to ally themselves, so as to defend their rights against those who threaten to deprive them of their monarchical powers; and capitalists to combine to maintain their privilege of drawing the accumulating wealth of the nations into their coffers; and laborers to unite so as to concentrate their strength in compelling their employers to give them their just wages. This is why the great national churches wickedly contemplate wading through blood to seize the reins of universal government. It also causes the kings to determine to perish in the last ditch, rather than yield their kingly sovereignty. And the laborers are determined to compel their employers to give them their just dues, or burn and destroy the wealth of the capitalists.

These circumstances cause the rich men to do just what the prophet said they would do, "heap treasures together for the last days."

The Boston Advertiser clearly describes this state of things thus:—

"In spite of the hypocritical assurances of peace—assurances which are meant only to deceive, but which really deceive no one—Europe is not far from the struggle for which all the great States and all the little States are preparing. There is a train of powder extending from Constantinople to Paris, and from St. Petersburg to Athens, which it only requires a match to explode. If the needle is set fair for peace and the mercury rising to tranquillity height, why is Belgium arming? why is Bavaria arming? why is Wurtemberg arming? why is Sweden arming? why is Switzerland arming? why is Denmark arming? why is Spain arming? I omit the great empires and monarchies—for are they not the guardians of peace, and are not the most friendly assurances conveyed from each to each every day! I will not say they lie, for that is not a polite or diplomatic expression; but they deceive or try to deceive, and if they do not succeed in deception it is because they know each other too well.

War is inevitable. It is the only means left of getting out of the political and social impasse in which the European States are involved. Whilst the idle armies are eating without producing, the laboring people are producing without eating. Starvation, or what is nearly as bad, the dread of starvation, is wide-spread in Europe. Confidence is gone. The great banks have a plethora of gold, but fear to part with it. They have no faith in the honesty of commercial men and less in the honesty of statesmen; hence the money bags are profitlessly piled up in vaults. The shining ore which they hold might as well have been left in the bosom of mother earth. . . .

Gibbon said that modern civilization would not disappear like the ancient civilizations, because there were no longer any barbarians to destroy it. But it is beyond all doubt that there are hordes of Goths and Vandals in our great cities who, if the opportunity is once given them, will fall to the work of destruction with the passions of savages. It is no uncommon thing to hear it said now of war, 'It is a good thing, it will clear the atmosphere.' The news from abroad to-day is very threatening."

The Boston Journal, in speaking of the present financial condition in this country, says:—

"This is a time of business stagnation. It tells upon all classes, but the laboring class is least able to bear it, because too many belonging to it have no reserved means while their wages are being unavoidably reduced in some instances, or cut off in others. There is, accordingly, great discontent in the public mind, a feeling to which mischievous demagogues in all ages have pandered, with a criminality which cannot be overstated."

It referred to a speech of Judge Kelly, of Penn., a prominent member of Congress, thus:—

"In a recent speech he dwelt in an inflammatory style upon the fact that 'already more mills, furnaces, forges, factories and workshops are idle than ever before, and more honest laboring men are living in want and despair than ever before within the limits of the United States.' He laid the blame wholly upon 'the bullionists and the bondholders and their legislative creatures,' who, he said, had concentrated property in fewer hands, and by whom 'the work of plundering the masses still goes on.' And he warned these capitalists that 'unless you desist from your plunder and robbing, a mob may be at your doors and a knife at your throats.'"

It is true this was said in a political contest, but it is evidently too true to be denied. The great question of financial equality among men never so excited the people and governments generally as to-day. The laborers, or producing classes, are every where calling the capitalists to an account for not being willing to equally divide the profits of labor with them, and their rulers for recklessly squandering their hard earnings, which are forced out of their pockets into their treasuries.

The people of England have recently been stirred like a boiling pot over the subject of Parliament appropriating a large sum of money to defray the expenses of the Prince of Wales, while making a tour to India for his personal gratification. Twenty thousand persons assembled in Hyde Park, London, to express their indignation for such a profligate act. Large masses of people gathered for the same purpose at the same hour, in sixteen other cities. The nature of the indignation may be understood by expressions made by Mr. Bradlaugh, who said to the Hyde Park assemblage,—"This Prince of Wales, for whom our money is spent, is no Prince of ours; he is Prince of the wealthy classes." Again he said—"If these great popular meetings, and their protests against the diversion of public moneys to Princes, continue to be despised by Parliament, on the next occasion when a grant is proposed to a Prince, we will carry our petition and our protest ourselves into Westminster Hall.

This disturbing question of the unequal distribution of wealth among the employers and employed is now unusually agitating the whole world, not only every part of this country, but all parts—England, France, Germany, Russia, Austria, with all the lesser and Oriental nations.

The last news from Austria says, "The weavers on strike, in Brunn, have assumed a threatening attitude. Three battalions of infantry and two squadrons of cavalry are held in readiness to preserve order." In Russia a large army has recently been sent into a number of provinces to quell insurrectionary movements of Communists, or the servants against their masters. In Persia there has been strong movements of the lower classes against their task-masters. The last insurrection in Turkey, in the province of Herzegovina, was caused by the oppressive burden of taxation and the insolence of the Turkish tax-gatherers oppressing the lower classes.

If this universal financial disturbance, in which the employed and employers are becoming fiercely antagonistic, the laborers crying and petitioning for higher wages, while the rich are heaping up their treasures and keeping back the asked-for wages, is not a fulfilment of the prophecies relating to the last days, then we should despair of knowing when the prophecies are fulfilled, and what events they foretell. These mutterings in the financial circles and upheavings in social life are clearly manifestations of the divine displeasure and prophetic portents of the approaching day of God.

Let all the servants of Christ watch the moving index and lift the warning cry of impending judgment. Ye people of God, be not deceived, and enter any of the confederacies to secure your just reward for services rendered to the rich, but trust in the Lord of Sabbaoth, who will richly reward you with an incorruptible treasure in the kingdom of God.
J. C.

"GOSPEL SONGS."

"A choice collection of Hymns and Tunes, New and Old, for Prayer Meetings, Sunday Schools, etc."

This is a new book that has had a large sale at our campmeetings this season, and contains some very choice pieces:—"When Jesus Comes," "More to Follow," etc., etc. For sale at this Office. Price, 35 cts. per copy; $3.60 per dozen by express; by mail, 40 cts. per copy.
AGENT.

WHERE IS THE PROOF?

The Seventh-day Adventists have recently held a campmeeting in Vermont. One of their Brn. prepared a report of the meeting, which was published in the Free Press. Eld. James White preached a sermon from the following text:

"But sanctify the Lord God in your hearts, and be ready always to give an answer to every man that asketh you a reason of the hope that is in you, with meekness and fear." 1 Pet. 3: 15.

The following is a part of the sermon, as reported:

"The periods of the prophecy of Daniel have terminated. Wm. Miller's mistake was not in the time, but in the event to occur at the close of the two thousand and three hundredth prophetic day of that book. The cleansing of the sanctuary at the end of those days was not the second coming of Christ and the burning day, as supposed by Mr. Miller; but the closing work of the ministry of Christ in the heavenly sanctuary. He stated that the word referred to the heavenly sanctuary, which was to be cleansed by the blood of goats."

We inquire, What reason for such a "hope?" Where is the proof that the twenty-three hundred prophetic days ended in 1844, thus bringing us to "the closing work of the ministry of Christ in the heavenly sanctuary?" Where is the proof that the door of mercy was closed at that time? We know of but one "reason" that can be given for such a "hope," and that is, Mrs. Ellen G. White's visions." But the evidence is abundant to prove that her visions are not from the Lord, therefore of no value, as proof. That the door of mercy was not closed in 1844, and that Christ did not end the work of his ministry "in the heavenly sanctuary" at that time, is as certain, as that any sinner has been converted since 1844. If Eld. White can give sure evidence that no sinner has received pardon since the time named for the ending of the twenty-three hundred days—1844, then it might do to say that "the ministry of Christ in the heavenly sanctuary" was closed then and there.

The question is asked in Daniel 8: 13, "How long shall . . . both the sanctuary and the host . . . be trodden under foot? (ver. 14.) And he said unto me, Unto two thousand and three hundred days; then shall the sanctuary be cleansed." If this sanctuary was in heaven which was to "be trodden under foot" twenty-three hundred years, up to 1844, when it was cleansed by Christ; we inquire, who were those who trod it down, and defiled it during that long period? Were they the saints, or the "host?" But the "host," or the saints, also were to "be trodden under foot" till the end of the days. They did not tread themselves "under foot." Who did it in "the heavenly sanctuary?" Will Elder White give "a reason of the hope" that is in him?

The Scripture shows clearly that "the sanctuary and the host" are located together, but Elder White does not believe that the saints will be received into "the heavenly sanctuary" till Christ comes; hence they have not yet been there to "be trodden under foot." "The host,"—the saints—were "trodden under foot" on the earth, but never in "the heavenly sanctuary, therefore, the sanctuary that should "be trodden under foot" for twenty-three hundred prophetic days was not in heaven, but on the earth. It is certain that the Scriptures speak of the land promised to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, as the "sanctuary." And when referring to that land, Jesus said it should "be trodden down of the Gentiles, till the times of the Gentiles be fulfilled." Luke 21: 24. It is still trodden under foot by the Gentiles, therefore the twenty-three hundred days are not yet ended.
M. G.

SUNDAY SCHOOL BOOKS.

The undersigned was appointed by the Adv. Chris. Association, at its late meeting in Springfield, a committee to procure suitable books for our Sunday-schools, and furnish them to all who desired to obtain them. He desires to state that he is prepared to obtain books, which he thinks will be satisfactory to those who wish for them, in any quantity, large or small. A catalogue of them, however, can not be published, for the stock from which they will be selected is constantly changing, and is not alike any two successive weeks.

Parties wishing the undersigned to obtain books for them, must strictly observe the following directions:

1. The order for books must invariably be accompanied with the money to be expended.
2. State the average age of the children for whom the books are intended.
3. State plainly your address, the town and State.
4. Direct your order to C. E. Barnes, Box 5140, Boston, Mass.

Cut this notice out, and have it where you can refer to it when sending an order.

If the foregoing rules are heeded by those who send their orders, there is but little doubt that the orders will be filled to their satisfaction.
C. E. BARNES.

BRO. J. C. BELTZ writes from Greensburg, Pa.:—"I am a friend to the Crisis, and would not like to do without it. It is just the paper for the times, because it contains plain Bible truths and wholesome doctrine. When I get through with my papers and tracts, I hand them to my neighbors, especially to the poorer and common class, by whom they are generally received gladly."

BRO. WM. SHELDON writes from Brodhead, Wis., Sept. 14th, 1875:—"Have reached my western home in safety, after having visited five eastern campmeetings. We are now in the midst of a campmeeting in Brodhead, with a growing interest."

THE TRACT FUND.

THE ADVENT CHRISTIAN PUBLICATION SOCIETY, at a meeting on Springfield camp-ground, August 11th, 1875, voted to raise Two Thousand Dollars for the free distribution of Tracts the ensuing year; and they invite the help and co-operation of all lovers of the Lord and of his truth, in the furtherance of the good cause. The times are ominous of coming events, and admonish us to diligence in the Master's work. The Lord is at the door, and what we do must be done quickly. Let the contributions be prompt, hearty, and liberal. The Lord will reward the liberal giver.
A. W. SIBLEY, Sec. Adv. Chris. Pub. Soc.

Remittances should be sent to the Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS, Boston, Mass., or they may be enclosed with remittances to the Crisis Office.

DONATIONS FOR THE TRACT FUND.

Previous acknowledgments	$41 20
Benj. Irish	5.00
A. Ordway	.25

POOR FUND.
TO SEND THE "CRISIS" TO THE POOR.

Previous acknowledgments	$5.90
L. S. Ludington	1.00

YOUNG PILGRIM FUND.

AMER. ADV. MISSION SOCIETY.

Donations are earnestly solicited, to enable this Society to send out missionaries, and other means, into the Southern States, and elsewhere, as the Lord may open the door, to proclaim "the glad tidings of the kingdom at hand"; and should be sent, as also payments of pledges made, to the

Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS,
P. O. Drawer 5002, Boston, Mass.

who will acknowledge the same in the columns of the Crisis.

Aug. 6th, 1875, and onward.

Previous acknowledgments	$969.38
Miles Grant (on pledge)	25 00
"C."	4 00
A. R. Garey (pledge paid)	2.00
N. E. H	.25

FOR THE POOR.

W. F. D	$2.00

KANSAS, THE POOR, ETC.

"Cash, Boots, Shoes, and Clothing for the Poor in Kansas," etc.

The cash, and goods acknowledged under the above head, in the Crisis December 23, 1874, to July 7, 1875, inclusive, have been distributed as follows:—

Amount of cash received to the above date	$343 60
Cash sent Eld. J. C. Smith, Kansas, for distribution	$130 90
" Eld. J. S. Thorpe, for distribution	67 50
" Eld. E. N. Bliss, for distribution	35 00
" Elds. R. F. and M. J. Clark, for distribution	25 00
" Eld. Orsan Lewis, for distribution	20 00
" Eld. A. Conklin	16 00
" Eld M. J. Hughes, North Carolina, for distribution	25 00
" Mrs. S. Ferren, Kansas, for distribution—Cash $11.70, shoes, etc, $1 25	12 95
Bro. L. Boutell, for Shoes sent to Kansas	3 50
Sister Julia A. Buzzell	3 00
Bro. F. H. Chamberlain	1 75
Bro. C. Rathborn	3 00
	$343 60

The Clothing, Cloth, Boots, Shoes, etc., received, have been sent to Brn. J. C. Smith, J. S. Thorpe, E. N. Bliss, M. J. Hughes, W. Snyder, Bro. and Sr. Clark, and Sister Ferren, for distribution.

The freight—when not paid by the parties sending—has been paid by the A. A. Mission Society, so far as the Rail Road would take pay. Also, the money orders and registered letters, with cash, have been paid by the A. A. M. Society, and we believe every dollar has been received by the parties to whom sent, as also all of the clothing. A portion of the cash was sent for the "Poor"—not in Kansas particularly—so a small amount was given to persons in the North. GEO. T. ADAMS, Treasurer.

Correspondence.

From Bro. R. H. Gresham.

To my beloved Brn. and Srs. in Christ, who are joyfully waiting for the GREAT KING to come and set up his kingdom:—I know that some of you who read the Crisis are glad to hear from me by letter, for you have so stated to me by letter and face to face. I love to hear from my brethren rather than to be heard from, and this is the main reason why I do not write oftener. I do not think that I have ever labored more earnestly than in the past six months, though my principal efforts in behalf of the truth as it is in Jesus have been, comparatively, with a few persons, as my business has been in country places. Many learned brethren are well suited to teach the multitude, when they find a multitude who will give heed to sound words; but as for me, I am satisfied that I can do most good with few persons at a time, and that in private readings and conversations.

I think that I can count at least six persons, who commenced six months ago to learn the true way, who have unlearned their former errors, and are so honestly and earnestly hungering and thirsting for that wisdom which cometh from above, that I trust they will press forward to perfection, and not turn back, nor any more give heed to the traditions of men. There are other persons throughout these highlands, in several counties, who profess to really desire to be taught the way of life.

I have lately made a trip through Haywood, Jackson, Macon, and Cherokee counties, traveling on foot over mountains and valleys, at least one hundred and fifty miles. On that trip I talked with many persons, and scattered a great many tracts and papers, and trust that good may result. I am nearly out of proper tracts and papers for distribution, and wish that many brethren may aid in sending me a supply. Some of the tracts that I most desire may be out of print, but I will enumerate some that I would be glad to receive by the dozens, or in smaller quantity; namely, "A Letter to a Friend," by Mrs. Woodruff; "Scripture, or Popular Theology," by S. L. Manley; "What is Man?" by Miles Grant; "Exposition of the Parable of the Rich Man and Lazarus"; "Forty Questions on Immortality"; "Can you Believe?" (4 pp.) by H. V. Reed; "God and Man's Word Contrasted" (4 pp.), issued by T. G. Newman; "Ghostology," "Two Adams'," "Plain Truths" (36 pp.), "Key of Truth," "Immortality through Christ alone," "Intermediate State," "The Kingdom of God," by S. S. Brewer; "Reasons for my Hope," by H. L. Hastings; "Exposition of the Answer to the Thief on the Cross"; or any of those, or others of similar teaching, or old papers teaching the truth, all of which I will try to use for good.

Now I wish to say to those who desire to settle in this section, that I have made a tour of examination, taking with me a clever Welchman, who came to this country for observation; and now I am decided as to the right place, and for many reasons the most desirable place (in the woods) that I have ever seen. The entire plateau, to which I refer, embraces those delightful highlands in the southern parts of Macon and Jackson counties, N. C., at an altitude of 3200 to 3800 feet. Several worthy gentlemen of intelligence, learning, refinement, and practical experience in farming and other business, have already located there, and are highly pleased. Good lands are sold at one to three dollars per acre. For the present, you may address C. C. Hutchinson, or S. T. Kelsey, at Horse Cove, Macon Co., N. C.; or write to me at Turnpike, Buncombe Co., N. C., as my business may continue me here for several months to come.

P. S.—To those who may wish to join the Colony, or visit the new settlement, in the new county of Macon, in the old State of North Carolina, I should have told them how to get there. Those coming from the North and West should go via. Chattanooga, Tenn., Atlanta, Ga., and Walhallah, S. C., by Rail, and from there it is about thirty miles north to Mr. S. T. Kelsey's. Those from the East and North-east may come via. Richmond, Va., or Wilmington, N. C., thence via. Greenville and Walhallah, S. C. If they wish to live economically after leaving the R. R., it may be well that they bring small tents and cooking utensils with them, also a small amount of provisions, axes, etc., for ready use.
R. H. G.

From Sr. N. A. Grant.

Dear Crisis:—I thought a few words from the little band out here with the Evangel tent might interest your readers; especially those who are looking for the soon coming of Jesus. The tent is now pitched at Washington Mills, Me. The interest here is very good. The people seem anxious to hear the truth. God is with us by his Spirit, and is blessing us. One young lady has come out from the world, and decided to stand for Christ. Brother F. E. Blaisdell is all the preacher we have with us yet. Brother R. Hall was with us Sunday evening, June 20th, and preached. We had a blessed good meeting all day Sunday.

This is a new place, and many come out to hear something new. Thank the Lord for his glorious truths, and I believe we have got the truth. At the close of the meeting Sunday, many came for tracts, showing that they are interested. Let us be faithful in scattering the good seed. The harvest truly is great, but the laborers are few. Time is short, and what we do must be done quickly. I feel that the great day of God's wrath is just upon us. My prayer is that we may be cleansed from all sin; for we must be pure in heart if we would see God. Praise his holy name. I am sweetly resting in Jesus, and trusting his word. I have been out this way for nearly five years, but I never saw the truth so clearly as for a few months in the past. I am so glad that he does not leave his people in the dark, but we have the sure word of prophecy as a lamp to our feet. Glory to his holy name. I love him to-day.

We are out here, a little company of us, trying in our weak way to scatter the truth. We are weak, but in God is our strength, and he has said, My grace is sufficient for thee. We can but cry, O God, lead; O Father, hear; and save souls as we go. We have seen some good done in Jesus' name, and to the Lord be all the praise and the glory. Brethren, pray for us, that our faith fail not, and that we may prove faithful till Jesus our Life-giver comes, that we with you may have eternal life.
Washington Mills, Me.

From Sr. M. L. Hughes.

Beloved Friends:—How good God is to us, poor, weak, mortal worms of the dust. It is to be feared we do not thank him enough for what he has done for us. What love our heavenly Father must have for us, when we were sinners, to send Jesus, our great High Priest and Savior, to die for us, the just for the unjust, to bring us to himself. Love is the fulfilling of the law. He that loveth not his brother whom he hath seen, how can he love God whom he hath not seen? We ought to be as united to Christ as the branches are to the vine, so that the world will say, when they look on us, Behold, how those christians love one another. The churches, as a general thing, are in a cold, formal state. They need to be quickened by the Holy Ghost, so that they will not be puffed up one above another. I want to see the ministers of Christ preaching the whole gospel, as the Holy Spirit shall move them to preach. The word tells us that in "the last days" men "will not endure sound doctrine."

I am a poor afflicted widow. God is my all in all. I am trusting wholly in him for my daily living. He has been the widow's God to me. In him will I trust. I am trying to live every day as if I knew it to be the last. I have a peace that passeth all understanding. Glory to God. I am on my journey home. Being at peace with the world, and at peace with God, I rest in hope. We are living in perilous times. Sin and iniquity abound, and the love of professors is growing cold. Let us up, and be doing something to draw them to the Lamb of God, that taketh away the sin of the world. Let us so let our light shine in the world, that the world may take knowledge of us that we are truly living as we profess; being living epistles, known and read of all men. The time is short. What is done must be done quickly.
Boston, Mass.

From Bro. S. Woodruff.

Dear Brn. and Srs. of Ct.:—The time has fully arrived when we should put forth every effort on our part to save the perishing. The evenings are of sufficient length to call the attention of the people more fully to the great subject of salvation and eternal life. The past season has been one of trial and perplexity in the direction of our conference. Those desiring its welfare have been at times almost discouraged, seeing no doors opened to give it a chance to breathe. Death seemed to stare it in the face. I have prayed over the matter, desiring a speedy recovery from its illness.

This morning I feel like thanking the good Lord and taking courage. The subject was brought before our brethren and sisters at the Ct. campmeeting, and they acted nobly. Some said they never had attended, and had felt no interest in the past, but resolved to be at our next meeting. Doors were opened, and a spirit of welcome manifested such as I have not seen before. Thank the good Lord for the prospect which opens before us. Let every one rally to the standard of truth, and speed on this glorious cause; for the night is far spent, the day is at hand. What we do must be done quickly.

I shall expect at our next conference a full attendance. Come with praying hearts,

IMPERFECT IN ORIGINAL

for we need your earnest, fervent prayers for God's blessing to rest upon the people. Let our conference be truly an institution sent of God to the people for good, wherever it may go; that the object of its coming into being may be fully carried out, and many be saved thereby. Let all its members be active. Be ye filled with the Spirit, that great good may be done in the name of the Lord Jesus. The Lord will bless our earnest efforts, and victory will turn on Zion's side.

S. WOODRUFF, President.

From Bro. A. W. Lloyd.

We have had an interesting series of meetings at North Adams, conducted by Bro. Arthur A. Waite, the "Boy Preacher," as he is called. The meetings were held in Miller's Hall, commencing Aug. 29th, and closing Sept. 5th. The preaching was practical, instructive, and interesting. It was plain, pointed, and heart-searching. Some rose the first evening for prayers; and, excepting the first and last evening, the anxious seat was well filled with those seeking blessings from the Lord. Several have been converted, and others reclaimed. Nine have been buried with Christ in baptism. Others are waiting for an opportunity.

During the meetings Christ has been kept continually in the foreground, like a "strong tower," into which the people may run for safety. The audiences have been large and attentive. The prospect is very encouraging.

From Sr. A. E. Millard.

Dear Editors:—I am looking for the coming of our Lord, and long for the time to arrive when the world shall be made free from sin. I feel a greater need of living a pure and holy life than ever before. I am deeply thankful for the Crisis, and the many precious truths it contains. Living as I do far away from meetings of any kind, its truths are doubly dear. I believe it has been the means, in God's hands, of bringing my husband to see the error of his ways. I thank the Lord with all my soul, that he has saved my husband. Brothers and sisters, pray for us, for we need your prayers. After reading the paper, we send it round to the different families. Some are eager to receive it. How I wish we could attend some of those meetings of which we read in the paper.

Evart, Osceola Co., Mich.

BRO. D. MATHEWSON writes from San Francisco, Sept. 6th, 1875:—"Our journey was pleasant. The scenery was fine as we passed the mountains. The evidence of an Almighty hand was seen everywhere. Well, the Lord is good to all who trust him. Brn. Nichols and Ficks met us at Sacramento, and Brn. Dibble and Snow met us at Leandro, and others at Oakland. All seemed glad to see us. The prospect is quite encouraging. May the Lord direct us, is our prayer. He keeps us in peace, and the good Spirit prevails in our meetings. Our congregations are pretty good, and on the increase. We thank the Lord for this. At our communion last evening, over fifty remained and communed. We had a blessed time. I like Bro. Howell, and all the friends. It seems as though we had been acquainted for a long time. It seems as though we were in old New England. We admire the climate, although they say this is the most unpleasant time of the year. It is neither cold nor hot, but 'lukewarm.'

Well, Bro. G., we are glad we are here, and we trust the Lord will keep us, and cause our coming to be a blessing to all. Pray for us."

KEEP UNDER THE BODY.

Rev. Dr. Richard Storrs, in a recent lecture at New York upon "the conditions of success in preaching without notes," relates the following incident:

"I remember when I was ordained I had just recovered from a sickness and was somewhat thin; but the minister who gave me the charge, an old friend of my father's and of myself, a man of very full and florid habit, said, with his eyes filled with tears: "My young brother, I charge you to keep under the body." It was rather ludicrous, but sound and apostolic. Keep under the body, only do not abuse it. Keep it under as a rider keeps under him his spirited horse, or as a captain manages his ship, or as a mason his scaffolding. Keep it under, that you may rise on it. Use good, simple food. Take plenty of sleep. Beauty-sleep comes to the mind before twelve o'clock at night. Do your work in the sunshine that God gives, not in the artificial light. Use relaxation. For your health you are responsible to no man, but to God. It must be kept in good tune; then come strength and elasticity in preaching without notes."

Obituaries.

EDWARDS. In Casco, Me., Dec. 7th, 1874, Lucy A., wife of Harrison Edwards, aged twenty-nine years and eleven months.

Her struggle with disease was long and persistent, for she had dear friends to live for; but when at length she found she must go, she gave up husband, child, and all, resigning herself to the last sleep with good hope in Him who hath declared, "I am the resurrection and the life," and who for many years she had loved and served.

J. ALBERT LIBBY.

GLINES. In Paris, Me., May 11th, 1875, Mr. Orin Glines, aged fifty-three years.

His fall by the hand of the destroyer was quite unexpected, and the loss of one in the strength of manhood to the wife and children is very great; yet in the midst of so great a grief, they know how to stay their sorrowing hearts on Him who has always been near his own, to solace and to cheer.

J. ALBERT LIBBY.

CHAMBERLAIN. Fell asleep in Jesus, in Portland, Me., Aug. 25th, 1875, Charles O. Chamberlain, aged thirty-one years and five months.

Charles was beloved by all who knew him. Relatives and friends were comforted with the assurance that he was prepared to awake in the likeness of his Redeemer, when he shall return to gather his special treasures.

Then he, arising from the tomb,
Immortal, bright, shall ever shine;
Reviving in eternal bloom,
Safe from diseases and decline.

S. S. BREWER.

CHACE. In Arkwright, R. I., Aug. 21st, Sally Chace, in the eighty-seventh year of her age.

Sister Chace was a loving and faithful sister, and a tender and affectionate mother. She did not find the Savior until a few months before her death. May God impart grace to the bereaved friends, and bring them all at last to enjoy the rest that remains for the people of God. Funeral sermon by the writer. Text, Rev. 1: 18.

Farewell, dear mother,
Sleep on, and take your rest,
Till Jesus bids you welcome come,
And be his honored guest.

J. MIETT.

MANN. In North Scituate, R. I., April 26th, 1875, Anna M. Mann, aged two years, two months, and twenty-two days.

The enemy has laid his hands upon the little one, and we have laid her low in the grave; but soon He who said, I have the keys of hell and of death, will come again, and will open the graves, and bring little ones back again to live on the new earth. Funeral sermon by the writer. Text Jer. 31: 16.

S. MIETT.

MALLEY. In Northfield, Mass., Sept. 7th, of cholera infantum, my little grandson, John Edward, son of M. C. and J. P. Malley, aged seven months and sixteen days.

Words of comfort were spoken by Bro. Cook, of Vernon, from Jer. 31: 15-17.

"Asleep in Jesus, blessed sleep,
From which none ever wake to weep."

ZEBINA MARSH.

Adv. Chris. Times, please copy.

WALSH. In New York City, Sept. 10th, 1875, Etta, wife of H. J. Walsh, and daughter of John Willey, aged twenty-four years.

Funeral services by Eld. Gale, from Job 3: 25, assisted by the writer. She sleeps, but not forever.

JOHN B. DEARING.

ALDRICH. At Sugar Hill, Sunday, Sept. 5th, Bro. Enoch Aldrich, aged sixty-seven years.

"Blessed are the peacemakers." The large chapel was filled, and over sixty relatives were present. We addressed them from the text found in Gen. 5: 24.

N. WHEELER.

HALL. At Whitefield, Sept. 12th, Sr. Mary, wife of Bro. Royal Hall, aged sixty-five years.

Her last words were, "I love Jesus, and I know that he loves me." We tried to comfort them with gospel truth.

N. W.

Married.

MUHLIG—DORR. In Cordaville, Mass., Sept. 13th, by Eld. C. Goodrich, Bro. J. A. Muhlig, of Natick, Mass., and Sr. Lizzie Dorr, of Cordaville.

GOWELL—RICH. In Oxford, Me., Sept 5th, by Eld J. Albert Libby, Mr. Willis S. Gowell and Miss Emma Rich, both of Oxford.

INSCHOE—GEORGE. In Brookfield, Penn., Aug. 8th, 1875, at the house of the bridegroom, by Eld. D. B. Hunt, Mr. Hiram Inschoe and Miss Lucretia S. George, both of Brookfield.

FOREIGN NEWS.

TURKEY.

LONDON, Sept. 16. A Berlin special to the Times says the recent successes of the insurgents render the continuance of a guerrilla warfare until spring possible. In such case it will be difficult to restrain the Servians from participating. Austria, with an eye to these contingencies, has issued orders regulating the supply of horses in the event of a mobilization.

VIENNA, Sept. 19. An insurrection has broken out at Tiskorre, near Arachowo. The insurgents burned a Turkish guard-house, the garrison of which fled. The insurrection is said to be spreading in Western Bosnia, and it is rumored that preparations have been made for a general rising in Bosnia.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept 14. Serious fighting occurred on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday last, in which the Turks were defeated. This has resulted in the renewal of the siege of Trebigue by the insurgents.

BELGRADE, Sept. 13. On account of the threatening concentration of Turkish troops on the frontier, the Servian Government has ordered the mobilization of six frontier brigades, aggregating 24,000 men. Each soldier must be supplied with one hundred rounds of ammunition, and special precautions will be taken during the night.

LONDON, Sept. 16. The Madrid correspondent of the Times summarizes the circular of the Papal Nuncio to the Bishop as follows: The Nuncio claims the fulfillment of the concordat which forbids the exercise of any non-Catholic creed, requires the transfer of the superintendence over education to the clergy, and pledges the co-operation of the secular power in suppressing heretical teaching and literature. He says one of the causes of civil war is the way in which religious unity has been misunderstood by previous governments. For these reasons and in view of these consequences the Holy See believes itself strictly obliged to present these observations to the government. The Times correspondent adds: No doubt the presentation of this audacious claim, at a time when a liberal cabinet has just been installed, implies a threat that if the government reject it, the blessing of the church will be definitely transferred to Don Carlos, and peace retarded in every possible way.

LONDON, Sept. 17. The announcement is made to-day, from Constantinople, that Turkey is thoroughly aroused in consequence of the Eastern troubles. The forces in Bulgaria are being placed on a war footing, and all the fortresses on the Danube are being thoroughly overhauled and put in readiness for any emergency. The announcement of these precautionary measures by Turkey causes some flurry in political circles here.

DOMESTIC NEWS.

New York, Sept. 17. A special from Houston, Texas, dated yesterday, says there has been a fearful gale at Galveston since yesterday morning. The city is partially under water, which is several feet deep in the principal streets. Several wrecks are reported. The Ocean House on Gulf Beach is entirely surrounded by water, and much damage is already sustained by citizens, who are terribly frightened, and the storm is pronounced the heaviest since 1867. Thirty workmen on the Breakwater, being built by the Government, were cut off and are lost. The Santa Fe railroad bridge across the bay was swept away, and the Houston railroad bridge is under water, twenty feet of this end being washed away. The water at Virginia Point has backed up for three miles on the main land, and is still rising. The gale is increasing and the barometer is falling. The bay is so full of water that if the wind changes to the north the whole island is lost and no lives can be saved. The shipping in the harbor was having a fearful time at the last accounts. The latest news, at five this afternoon, announces the safety of the ship channel dredging fleet.

Philadelphia, Sept. 17. Last evening Gerdemann, the ex-priest, delivered a lecture in Masonic Hall at Manayunk on the Roman Church as it is at present, and from the beginning until the lecturer had made his exit from that village, there seemed a disposition on the part of the natives to treat him to anything else but courtesy.

Upon concluding, Gerdemann placed himself under escort and left the building, proceeding to the railroad station, while a mob which had already collected, continued in close proximity to the party until they reached that place. He was placed in the smoking-car and both doors locked, while a posse of police remained outside. The mob, numbering about one thousand, was a dangerous one, and subsequently rallied, beat the officers out of the way, captured the car, broke in the doors, and commenced an assault upon the ex-priest. He was protected, however, from serious injury by the police, receiving only a few bruises. Gerdemann escaped finally to a rear car and under the care of officers was brought to this city.

ITEMS.

— Five years ago a Baptist religious meeting was prohibited in Rome. Now there is a church dedicated, with a membership of ninety-two.

— The late Emperor Ferdinand of Austria has left by his will to the Pope $6,000,000, which has been already paid.

— It is estimated that in fourteen counties of Illinois the damage by recent storms will reach the enormous aggregate of $12,000,000.

— Three hundred and fifty painters are engaged on inside work on the Palace Hotel, at present, in San Francisco.

— The law subjecting priests and divinity students to military duty has passed the Italian Senate.

Advices from Egypt state that the Abyssinians are making active preparations to attack the Egyptians. The Khedive is greatly alarmed, and is sending reinforcements to the frontier.

— A young Norwegian, who was converted at one of the earlier meetings held by Messrs. Sankey and Moody in England, has returned to Norway and started a Sunday-school, the first ever opened in the northern part of that county.

— On the 16th of the month Pope Pius IX. completed the 29th year of his pontificate, and if he lasts two years longer he will be able to keep the 50th anniversary of his episcopal rank, as he was created Archbishop of Spoleto, his native place, in the year 1827.

— Mr. C. H. Spurgeon, of the Metropolitan Tabernacle, is reported to have said at the quarterly meeting of the London Association, held at Tottenham, that he was appalled upon learning on the Sunday night previous, that the membership of his church now consisted of 4,999.

— The Butler county "gas well" which is to be made to discharge itself through iron pipes eighteen miles distant from the point of its situation, supplies 200,000 feet of gas per minute, sufficient to run a large number of rolling mills and light the cities of Alleghany and Pittsburgh with the remainder.

— A San Francisco dispatch says a succession of typhoons has swept the coast of Japan, doing great damage in Yokohama, causing great destruction among the fishing junks and entailing loss of life. Disastrous floods have caused great loss of life in the interior, between Yeddo and the coast.

The Catholics have uttered a warning to the New York Herald. That paper is informed that if it does not change its tone on Catholicism, the priests will from the pulpit forbid its entrance into Catholic families. The experiment would be an interesting one to look upon—this attempt of the Catholics to muzzle the press.

Notices.

Notice.

The Quarterly Conference of the Eastern District of Massachusetts will be held at the Advent Chapel, Lawrence, Mass., to commence Thursday evening, Oct. 7th, and continue over Sunday, the 10th.

It is desired that all the preachers of Eastern Mass. and as many of the brethren and sisters of the churches as can, may attend. An invitation is also extended to all others who may esteem it a privilege or duty to meet with us in this christian convocation. Let all pray for the divine blessing.

J. COUCH.

Notice.

The meeting of the Alton Bay Campmeeting Committee is postponed from Sept. 28th to October 6th.

J. COUCH.

Tent Meeting.

A Second Advent Tent Meeting will commence in Harwich Centre, Mass., near the depot, under the Mass. Advent Mission Tent, on Friday evening, Sept. 24th, continuing over the following Sunday, and longer if duty demands. Meetings afternoon and evening daily, when preaching may be expected. Come one and all to these meetings, and help save the perishing.

L. BOUTELL, for the Committee.

Hoosick Valley Conference.

The annual meeting of the Hoosick Valley Conference will be held at Hoosick, N. Y., commencing Wednesday, Oct. 6th, 1875, to continue over the following Sunday. Particulars hereafter.

A. W. SIBLEY, President.
W. O. HIGLEY, Secretary.

NOTICE.—A quarterly session of the New Hampshire A. C. Conference will be held at Salisbury, South Village, commencing Thursday evening, Oct. 7th, and hold over the following Sabbath. It is hoped that a number of our preachers and many brethren and sisters will be present. Elders Stockman, Ross and others are expected to assist in preaching the word. D. W. DAVIS, for Com.

Connecticut A. C. Conference.

The Lord willing, this conference willl meet at Plainville, Wednesday evening, Oct. 13th, and hold over Sunday, Oct. 17th. This is the annual meeting, and we hope to see a general gathering of preachers, delegates, and brethren and sisters interested, throughout the State. You expressed sympathy for the well being of the conference at our late campmeeting, and we trust it will now be practically endorsed. Thursday, Oct. 14th, is set apart for the transaction of conference business. Come promptly and attend to it, that the remainder of the time may be devoted to the preaching of the word and labor for the perishing.

SETH WOODRUFF, President.
O. D. WOODRUFF, Secretary.

Tent Meeting.

The Lord willing, the Conn. Mission Tent will be pitched in Tylerville, Conn., Wednesday, Sept. 29th, and remain over Sunday, Oct. 3d. Tylerville is in the town of Haddam, on the Connecticut river, below Middletown. Take cars on the Conn. Valley R. R. to Goodspeed's Station, or boat from Hartford to Goodspeed's Landing, the opposite side of the river, and cross over by ferry. Fare from Hartford by rail one dollar; by boat fifty cents. From Middletown fifty cents by either route. The tent will be pitched about one fourth of a mile from Goodspeed's Station. May the Lord bless the effort in this field of labor.

O. D. WOODRUFF.

CONFERENCE.—The Nova Scotia A. C. Conference will hold its next quarterly session with the church at Bear Point, Barrington, commencing Thursday, Oct. 7th, at two P. M., and continue over the Sabbath. An invitation is extended to preaching brethren to come and aid in this meeting. Come all who can in the name of the Lord Jesus, and labor for the salvation of precious souls.

WM. HALLIDAY.

QUARTERLY MEETING.—The fourth quarterly meeting of the Kansas Central Advent Christian Conference will be held with the church on the Marais-des-Cygnes River, east of Arvonia, Osage Co., Kansas, on Saturday, Oct. 2nd, at 2 o'clock P. M., and will hold over Sunday. Brethren and sisters, and all who love Jesus, come; let us worship together. Let us sing glad anthems together to the Rock of our salvation. All are invited to come.

H. H. KLOCK, Secretary.

CONFERENCE.—The fourth session of the Maine Westerly Quarterly Conference will meet with the church at Brunswick (Yellow School-house), on Thursday evening, Oct. 7th, and hold over Sunday. Come, brethren and sisters, in the name of your Master, and work for the salvation of sinners.

H. D. REED, Pres.
H. S. MITCHELL, Sec.

THE ANNUAL MEETING of the church of God in Darien, Genesee Co., N. Y., will commence Friday evening, Sept. 24th, and hold over the Sabbath. Elds. J. B. Cook, Colegrove, Low, and others, will be present. Come, brethren in the Spirit, that God may bless the meeting, as he always has in years past. Conveyance at Croft's Station, as usual.

A. C. NEWELL.
B. C. SIMONDS.
G. STRONG.

THE EVANGEL TENT will continue in West Waterville over Sunday, the 26th. Meetings afternoons and evenings. Brethren and sisters can find accommodations in small tents. Bring food and bedding.

F. E. BLAISDELL.
H. B. SEVEY.

Campmeeting.

The Advent Christian Campmeeting of Northern Kansas and Southern Nebraska will be held at Peach Creek, Washington Co., beginning October 7th, and continue over two Sundays. Come all that can. Make a sacrifice to come, and come filled with the Spirit to work for God. Bring plenty of bedding, and all bring tents that can. Bro. and Sr. Clark will be present (D. V.), with a large missionary tent.

Committee: C. D. Potter, A. S. Field, J. W. Elliott, and Theodore Bedgar.

Brn. G. G. Godfrey, James Hayworth, F. O. Cutler, J. S. Thorp, E. N. Bliss, James Page, R. F. Clark, Sr. Clark, and others, will be present to assist in preaching the word.

For additional information, address C. D. POTTER, Peach Creek, Washington Co., Kansas.

The Advent Christian Conference of Northern Kansas and Southern Nebraska will be held during the early part of the meeting. Per order of Committee.

Conference.

The next Annual Advent Christian Conference of Northern Pa. and Southern N. Y. will be held at Little Marsh, Tioga Co., Pa., commencing Thursday evening, Oct. 14th, and continuing over the following Sunday. We hope to see a general gathering of the friends of truth. Come in the name of the Lord. Ticket by railway from Corning (Tioga depot) to Middlebury. Teams will be at Middlebury to convey to Little Marsh.

E. C. COWLES, President.
A. H. BRIGGS, Secretary.

A CONFERENCE.—The Lord willing, there will be a conference in North Hermon, Me., in the Advent Chapel, about five miles from Bangor, on the avenue road, commencing Friday, Oct. 1st, at two o'clock P. M., and continue over Sunday. Whoever will, let them come and worship the Lord. Hope he will send some of the preaching brethren to preach the word of life. In behalf of the brethren,

S. BRAGG.

CONFERENCE.—The Lord willing, there will be a conference in Wesley, Me., to commence Thursday, Sept. 30th, at six o'clock P. M., and continue over the Sabbath. We extend the invitation to all who can come and meet with us, to advance the cause of truth and the salvation of sinners.

M. W. CORLISS.

MY LABORS for the present and on until further notice, will be with the church in Whitefield, N. H. Brethren, please remember and address all communications designed for me to the above place.

T. E. LANG, JR.

NOTICE.—I would say to the preaching brethren, when they send their appointments to Richmond, please name the place, Reed meeting-house, Richmond Corner, or at the Village. F. BATES.

BRO. G. F. HAINES having accepted the call given him by the church of Bonny Eagle, Me., hereafter all matters of exchange or supply must be made through him.

T. R. LIBBY, Clerk.

THE Advent Church in Wakefield having secured the services of Eld. Benj. Finney as their Pastor, all preaching brethren wishing to come there to labor, will please confer with him.

GEO. R. TYZZER, Clerk.

Those wishing to correspond with the church at Raymond, Iowa, will please write to the following committee: Dr. B. Banton, Wm. Waterfield, W. S. Detrick.

J. W. BURROUGHS, Pastor.

Appointments.

☞ APPOINTMENTS MUST BE RECEIVED AS EARLY AS TUESDAY MORNING (as our paper goes to press about noon) to insure insertion for the coming week.

☞ The following RESOLUTION was passed at the late meeting of the A. C. P. Society:—

"RESOLVED, That no appointments be published in the CRISIS henceforth for persons unknown to the Editorial Board (by which is understood the Editors, Editorial Committee, and Business Agent), unless satisfactory reference shall be given."

The Committee appointed by the Adv. Chris. Association, at its last Annual Meeting, to advise with the Editorial Board "in relation to the publication in the World's Crisis of the appointments of men unworthy of recognition as preachers," having attended to the duty assigned them, recommended, and the Editorial Board have adopted, and ordered to be published, the following resolution:—

"RESOLVED, That when the Editorial Board is properly notified by any of our Churches, or Ministers, or responsible persons by a written allegation that a certain minister, or ministers lack moral character, that they be instructed to notify such minister, or ministers, of the information received as a reason for withholding their appointments till after a proper trial and acquittal."

All communications in relation to this matter should be addressed to the Secretary of the Board—GEO. T. ADAMS, Boston, Mass.

Boston (Branch Chapel) 2029 Washington Street, (corner of Madison Street.)
Love Feast at 10½ a. m. Preaching at 3 and 7½ p. m. Prayer meeting Tuesday and Friday evenings.

BOSTON (Repository Hall) 712 Washington St., corner of Kneeland St.
Preaching at 10½ a. m. and 3 and 7 p. m. Sunday School at 1.30 p. m. Prayer meeting Wednesday evening.

EAST BOSTON (Central Hall, 152 Meridian Street.)
Meetings every Sunday, at the usual hours, also prayer and conference meetings Wednesday and Friday evenings, at 7½ o'clock p. m.

CHARLESTOWN (HALL NO. 70 MAIN STREET.)
W. S. Campbell........Sunday, Sept. 26th

Chelsea, Mass.
Preaching Sundays, at 10.30 A. M. and 3 P. M.
Conference Meeting at 7 o'clock Sunday evenings. Tuesday and Friday evenings, at 7½ o'clock.

SOMERVILLE, Mass (Pilgrim Hall, Summer Street.)
Meetings every Sunday, at the usual hours, also prayer and conference meetings Tuesday and Friday evenings, at 7½ o'clock p. m.
Geo. W. Sederquest........1st and 3d Sundays in each month till further notice.
B. Emery........Sunday, Oct. 31st

HYDE PARK, MASS. (Connor's Hall.)—Meetings every Sabbath at the usual hours. T. M. PREBLE.

Springfield, Mass., Wednesday evening, Sept. 22d and onward in a series of meetings as the Lord may direct. MILES GRANT.

Tremont, Mass........Sundays, Oct. 3d and 10th
C. E. BARNES.

Hartford, Conn........Sunday, Oct. 3d
A. W. SIBLEY.

Sugar Hill, N. H........Sunday, Sept. 26th
Lake Village, N. H........Sundays, Oct. 3d and 10th
S. S. BREWER.

Natick, Mass........Sunday, Sept. 26th
Plymouth........Sunday, Oct. 3d
New Bedford........Sunday, Oct. 10th
Tremont........Sunday, Oct. 17th
J. S. WHITE.

Vineland, N. J........Sunday, Sept. 26th
A. A. PHELPS.

Great Falls........Wednesday, Sept. 22d
Dover........Thursday, Sept. 23d
Manchester, N. H........Friday evening, Sept. 24th
North Adams, Mass........Friday evening, Oct. 1st
Pittstown (if desired)........Saturday evening, Oct. 2nd
Hoosick, N. Y........Sabbath, Oct. 3d
The three following evenings at liberty.
Hoosick Conference three days, Oct. 7th, 8th, and 9th
Rutland, Vt........Sabbath, Oct. 10th
Addison, Vt. (if desired) Tuesday and Wednesday, Oct. 12th and 13th. Northam (if desired) Thursday evening. Bro. Flagg proposes these two places. Please write him.
Castleton, Vt........Friday evening, Oct. 15th
Poultney, Vt........Sabbath, Oct. 17th
Low Hampton, N. Y........Tuesday evening, Oct. 19th
Sandy Hill, N. Y........Wednesday evening, Oct 20th
Saratoga Springs, from Thursday evening over the following Sabbath, where Bro. Duran appoints.
The following week at liberty. H. MUNGER.

Fairhaven, Mass........Sunday, Oct. 3d
M. BATCHELOR.

Meredith Neck, N. H........Sunday, Sept. 26th
J. G. SMITH.

Rochester, N. Y........Sabbath, Sept. 26th
Nevada, Ohio........Sabbath, Oct. 3d
E. MCCULLOCH.

East Weymouth........Sunday Oct. 3d
New Britain, Conn........Sunday, Oct. 10th
W. S. CAMPBELL.

Gilmantown, N. H........Sabbath, Oct 3d
J. T. LIBBEY.

Cabot, Vt........Sunday, Oct. 17th
DANIEL D. PAGE.

Rye, N. H........Sunday, Sept. 26th
C. S. EMERSON.

Plymouth........Sunday, Sept. 26th
E. OWEN.

Danville, P. Q........Sunday, Sept. 26th
L. C. MCKINSTRY.

Montreal, P. Q........Sunday, Sept. 26th
M. MCKINSTRY.

Sutton, N. H. (Palmer school-house) Sun., Sept 26th
Bradford, N. H. (Bush meeting-house)...Sun., Oct. 3d
A. S. WILLIAMS.

Strafford, N. H. (Robert's school house) Sun., Oct. 3d
Farmington Village........Sunday, Oct 10th
WM BODGE.

Loudon Village, N. H. (as Bro. Parker may arrange) Sunday, Sept. 26th.
Canterbury, N. H. (as Bro. Tucker may arrange) evening, Oct. 2d, and Sunday, Oct. 3d
Epsom, N. H (Marden's Corner)....evening, Oct. 23d
Chichester, N. H. (Pine Ground)....Sunday, Oct. 24th
N. B. MCMURPHY.

Tamworth, N. H. (Fowler's Mills..Sabbath, Sept. 26th
Albany, N. H. (Great Intervale)...Sabbath, Oct. 10th and onward as duty may demand. S. DINSMORE.

Springfield, Mass........Thursday evening, Sept 23d
Norwalk, Ohio........Saturday evening, Sept. 25th and over Sunday, Sept. 26th.
Chicago Ill........Tuesday evening, Oct. 28th
Peach Creek, Kansas........Sunday, Oct. 3d
R. F & M. J. CLARK.

Hurding school-house........Sunday, Sept. 26th
Great Falls........Sunday. Oct 3d
Mayberry school-house........Sunday, Oct. 10th
Sebago (Lake school-house)........Sunday, Oct. 17th
MRS. H. S. CLARK.

Stowe, Mass. (Osgood's Hall)........Sunday, Sept. 26th
Z. BOODRY.

Batchelder's Grove, near Loudon Mills, N. H., Sabbath, Sept. 26th.
Northwood Narrows, N. H........Sunday, Oct. 3d
O. W. KIMBALL.

Pleasant Valley, N. H........Sunday, Sept. 26th
J. DAVIS.

East Weare, N. H. (in Freewill Baptist house) Sunday, Sept. 26th. C. H. FLETCHER.

Pleasant Valley, N. H........Sunday, Oct. 10th
West Ossipee, N. H........Sunday, Oct. 17th
T. L. CHURCHILL.

West Parsonsfield, Me........Sunday, Sept. 26th
C. H. SWEET.

Castleton, Vt........Sunday, Sept. 26th
RICHARD MOSHER.

Kingston, N. H........Sunday, Sept. 26th
West Lebanon, Me. (Gerrish school-house)...Oct. 3d
J. F. CHAMBERLIN.

Brimfield, Mass........Sabbath, Sept. 26th
Wilbraham, Mass........Sabbath, Oct. 3d
G. L. TEEPLE.

Dorchester, N. H. (Town House)....Sunday, Sept. 26th
Hebron, N. H. (McClure school-house) Sun., Oct. 3d
East Holderness, N. H. (Stephen's meeting-house) Sunday, Oct. 10th.
Moultonborough, N. H. (at Bro. Hodgern's school-house) evening, Oct. 16th.
Sandwich, N. H. (Vitum school-house) Sun., Oct. 17th
JOHN H. EVANS.

Andover, N. H. (Kearsarge school-house) Sabbath, Sept. 26th.
Northfield, N. H. (Oak Hill school-house) Sab., Oct. 3d
Manchester, N. H........Tuesday evening, Sept. 28th
Hill, N. H. (Centre meeting-house) Sabbaths, Oct. 17th and 24th. SIMEON ROBY.

Hall Stream, P. Q. (Red school-house) Sun., Sept. 26th
U. G. LADD.

Freedom, N. H. (Advent Chapel) Sunday, Sept. 26th
N. GLIDDEN.

Lisbon, N. H., through the week, and over Sunday, Sept. 26th. DANIEL D. PAGE.
GEO. E. BROWN.

West Deerfield........Sunday, Sept. 26th
Lee, N. H. (as brethren may arrange)...Sun., Oct. 3d
Lake Village, N. H........Sunday, Oct. 17th
Meredith, N. H. (Dolloff Hall)........Sunday, Oct. 24th
West Alton, N. H. (Chapel)........Sunday, Oct. 31st
C. R. PARSONS.

Dover, N. H........Sunday, Sept. 26th
WM. BODGE.

Sandy Hill, N. Y., Sunday, Sept. 26th, and each evening during the following week, as interest demands. Address all letters to Rutland, Vt.
ARTHUR A. WAITE.

Square Pond, Ct........Sunday, Sept. 26th
S. WOODRUFF.

South Windsor, Ct........Sunday, Sept. 26th
GEO. L. WHITE.

Cushing, Me........Sunday, Sept. 26th
H. S. MITCHELL.

Bristol, Ct........Sunday, Oct. 10th
Square Pond, Ct........Sunday, Oct. 31st
P. S. BUTLER.

Square Pond, Conn........Sunday, Oct. 3d
I. B. POTTER.

Bristol, Ct........Sunday, Oct. 3d
Campville, Ct........Sunday, Oct 10th
Morris, Ct........Sunday, Oct. 17th
W. TEFFT.

Bethel (Camp Brook)........Sunday, Sept. 26th
Stockbridge (Stony Brook)........Sunday, Oct. 5th
L. H. BRIGHAM.

Harrison, Me. (Woodsome school-house) Sun., Sept. 26th. J. T. JORDAN.

South Rochester, N. H. (Chapel)..Sunday, Sept. 26th
West Alton, N. H........Sunday, Oct. 3d
D. F. LEAVITT.

Otisfield, Gore........Sabbath, Sept. 26th
West Poland (Chapel)........Sabbath, Oct. 3d
Oxford, Richville........Sabbath, Oct. 10th
G. L. TRACY.

Moultonboro, N. H. (Neck Road school-house) evening, Sept. 24th.
Moultonborough Neck (Lower school-house) Sunday, Sept. 26th.
Meredith Neck, N. H........Sunday, Oct. 17th
LEVI ALLEN.

Exeter, N. H........Sundays, Sept. 26th and Oct. 3d
WM. M. HARMON.

Cheshire Street, Ct........Sunday, Sept. 26th
A. ELLIOTT.

New York (24th Street)........Sunday, Sept. 26th
WM. SHEPHERD.

Charlton, Mass........Sunday, Sept. 26th
M. E. OTIS.

Woodville, Ct........Sunday, Sept. 26th
MRS. E. L. CRUMB.

Haverhill, Mass........Sunday, Sept 26th
J. R. BOYNTON.

North Adams, Mass........Sabbath, Sept. 26th
North Greenwich, N. Y........Sept. 30th
Fort Ann, N. Y........Oct. 2d and over the Sabbath
WM. J. BLANCHARD.

Enfield, N. H. Fox Hollow, Thursday eve., Sept. 30th
Hanover N. H., Mountain Road (as Bro. Nelson Merrill may arrange) Friday evening, Oct 1st.
Dorchester, N. H. (Town House)...Sunday, Oct. 3d
JOS KIMBALL.

West Deerfield........Sunday, Sept. 26th
Limington, Me. (Hanscom school-house) Sun., Nov. 7th
J. L. CHUTE.

Haverhill Corner, N. H. (Sandbank school-house) Sunday, Oct. 3d. G. E. BROWN.

East Acworth, N. H........Sunday, Oct. 3d
Dorchester, N. H........Sunday, Oct. 10th
Warren Summit........evening, Oct. 12th
Piermont, N. H........evening, Oct. 13th
Haverhill N. H. (Brook Village)...evening, Oct. 14th
Benton (where Brn. may appoint)...evening, Oct. 15th
Haverhill (Brook Village)........Sunday, Oct. 17th
J. B. S. PILLSBURY.

Charlton, Mass........1st Sunday in every month
Southbridge, Mass........4th Sunday in every month
SAM'L. AYRES.

Salem, Mass........2d and 4th Sundays in each month until further notice. GEO. W. SEDERQUEST.

Granby, Mass. (Batchelder Street) the second Sunday in each month.
North Rutland, Mass..the last Sunday in each month
GEO. A. STREETER.

I will preach at Piermont, N. H. (Clay meeting-house) the second and fourth Sundays of each month until further notice. A. GORDON.

Franklin, N. H....2d and 4th Sunday in each month
G. H. WALLACE.

Palmer, Mass., the 1st and 3d Sundays in each month
Granby, Mass........fourth Sunday in each month
H. H. TUCKER.

Hinesburg, Vt., Sundays for one year excepting the last Sunday in each month.
Bristol, Vt., the last Sunday in each month for one year. WM. C. STEWART.

HAVERHILL, MASS. (New Chapel on Walnut St.)
W. H. Mitchell........2d Sunday in each month
C. S. Shattuck........3d Sunday in each month
A Ross........Sunday, Sept. 26th

NATICK, MASS.
E. Owen........Sunday, Oct. 3d
L. Boutell........Sunday, Oct. 10th
C. Goodrich........Sunday, Oct. 17th

CHICOPEE FALLS, MASS.
I. B. Potter........Sunday, Sept. 26th
A. Morse........Sunday, Oct. 3d

NEW BEDFORD, MASS.
F. H. Burbank........Sundays, Sept. 26th and Oct. 3d
J. S. White........Sunday, Oct 10th
A. W. Sibley........Sundays, Oct. 17th and 24th

CLINTON, MASS.
H. H. Tucker........Sunday, Oct. 31st

NORTH RUTLAND, MASS.
H. H. Tucker........second Sunday in each month

HAMPTON, N. H.
B. Finney........Sunday, Sept. 26th
Enoch Morrill........Sunday, Oct. 3d
D. F. Leavitt........Sunday, Oct. 10th
Geo W. Brown (of So Elliot, Me.) Sunday, Oct. 17th
C. Goodrich........Sunday, Oct 31st
Wm. W. Sutherland........Sunday, Nov. 7th
A. Ross........Sunday, Nov. 14th
J. F. Chamberlin........Sunday, Nov. 21st

EXETER, N. H.
W. M Harmon........Sundays, Sept. 26th and Oct 3d
Geo. W. Sederquest........Sunday, Oct. 10th
B Woodside........Sunday, Oct. 17th
T. W. Piper........Sunday, Oct. 24th
W. M Harmon........Sunday, Oct 31st
W. W. Sutherland........Sunday, Nov. 14th
C. S. Shattuck........Sunday, Dec. 12th

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.
A. Simpson........Sunday, Sept. 26th
B. S. Emery........Sunday, Oct. 10th
Sr. Annie Smith........Sunday, Oct. 3d
Wm. M. Harmon........Sunday, Oct. 17th
E. A. Stockman........Sunday, Oct. 24th
Jane Benson........Sunday, Oct. 31st
M. Batchelor........Sunday, Nov. 7th

SEABROOK, N. H.
C. Goodrich........Sunday, Sept. 26th
J. Bickford........Sunday, Oct. 3d
T. W. Piper........Sunday, Oct. 10th
J C Smith........Sundays, Oct. 17th, 24th, and 31st
Sr. Annie Smith........Sundays, Nov. 7th and 14th
Joseph Pinkham........Sunday, Nov. 21st
D. F. Leavitt........Sunday, Nov. 28th

CONCORD, N. H.
H. Munger........Sunday, Sept. 26th
S. S. Brewer........Sundays, Oct. 17th and 24th

EAST CONCORD, N. H. (Ward House).—Meetings three times Sunday, also Tuesday and Thursday evenings.
C. H. Fletcher........first Sunday in each month
D. W. Davis........third Sunday in each month

GREAT FALLS, N. H. (Franklin Hall.)
L. E. Saulpaugh........Sunday, Sept. 26th
C. S. Shattuck........Sunday, Oct. 3d
C. Goodrich........Sunday, Oct. 10th
J. W. White........Sunday, Oct. 17th
L. E. Saulpaugh........Sunday, Oct. 24th
J. Bickford........Sunday, Oct. 31st

NEW DURHAM, N. H.
T. W. Piper........Sunday, Oct. 3d

MANCHESTER, N. H. (corner of Elm and Lowell Sts.)
Wm. N. Pile........Sunday, Sept. 26th

SABBATUS, ME. (Jones' Hall.)
C. Good........Sunday, Sept 26th
R. R. York........Sunday. Oct. 3d
Jared Whitman........Sunday, Oct. 10th
H. D. Reed........Sunday, Oct. 17th

BANGOR, ME.
J. Lane........Sunday, Sept. 26th
S. K. Partridge........Sunday, Oct. 3d
F. A. Baker........Sunday, Oct. 10th
Each of the above will preach once in four weeks for the present.

BIDDEFORD, ME.
J. Albert Libby........Sunday, Sept. 26th
Jesse Gay........Sunday, Oct 3d
Geo. W. Brown........Sunday, Oct. 10th
Wm. H. Mitchell........Sunday, Oct. 17th
J. Albert Libbey........Sunday, Oct 24th
E. A. Stockman........Sunday, Oct. 31st

SOUTH ELLIOT, ME.
J. Pinkham........Sunday, Sept. 26th

SOUTH BERWICK, ME. (Great Works.)
Geo. W. Brown........Sunday, Sept. 26th
T. L. Churchill........Sunday, Oct. 3d

PORTLAND, ME. (Union Hall.)
E. A. Stockman........Sundays, Sept. 26th and Oct. 3d
E. S. Potter........Sunday, Oct. 31st
E. A. Stockman........Sunday, Dec. 5th

PUTNAM, CT.
L. Boutell........Sunday, Sept 26th
C. Goodrich........Sunday, Oct. 3d
Sr. E. L. Crumb........Sunday, Oct. 10th
H. Pratt........Sunday, Oct. 17th
B. Woodside........Sunday, Oct. 24th
A. Durfee........Sunday, Oct. 31st

WOODSTOCK VALLEY, CT.
A. Morse........Sunday, Sept. 26th
P. S. Butler........Sunday, Oct 3d
A. Morse........Sunday, Oct. 10th
P. S. Butler........Sunday, Oct. 17th
C. Goodrich........Sunday, Oct. 24th
Sr. E. L. Crumb........Sunday, Oct. 31st

PLAINVILLE, CT.
Wm. J. Ripley........Sunday, Sept. 26th
B. Hitchcock........Sunday, Oct 3d
R. K. Stark........Sunday, Oct. 10th
W. Tefft........Sunday, Oct. 24th
B. Hitchcock........Sunday, Nov. 14th

BRIDGEPORT, CONN.
Mrs. E. A. Warren........Sundays, Oct. 3d and 17th
Mrs. E. L. Crumb........Sundays, Oct. 24th, Nov. 7th, Dec. 5th, and Jan 1st.
Mrs. E. A. Warren........Sunday, Oct. 31st

NEW HAVEN, CONN.
A. W. Sibley........Sunday, Sept. 26th
S. Woodruff........Sunday, Oct. 3d

WAREHOUSE POINT, CT.
Mrs. Jane Benson........Sunday, Oct. 3d

MILLDALE (Southington, Ct.)
Enoch Phelps........Sunday, Sept. 26th
G. L. White........Sunday, Oct. 3d

YALESVILLE, CT.
B. Hitchcock........Sunday, Sept. 26th
S. Woodruff........Sunday, Oct. 10th

SOUTH WEST HOOSICK, N. Y.
Arthur A. Waite........once in four weeks
Flora Blanchard........once in four weeks

CHICAGO, ILL.—Green Street Tabernacle Church hold services in their Chapel on Green Street, near Madison Street, Chicago, Ill., every Lord's day, morning and evening. Prayer meetings in the Basement room of the Tabernacle every Wednesday and Friday evenings of each week. Brethren and sisters passing through Chicago are invited to call. All correspondents will write to L. C. RICE, 168 West Madison St.
FRANK BURR, Pastor.

CHICAGO, ILL.—The Advent Christian Church meets at their Hall, No. 213 West Madison St., every Lord's day. There will be preaching at 10½ a. m. and 7½ p. m.; prayer meeting every Thursday evening, at 7½ o'clock. All preaching brethren visiting, or passing through the city, and desiring to preach, will please correspond with Bro. H. P. WRIGHT, Board of Health, Chicago, Ill. H. P. Wright, R. P. Price, Elders.
ELD. H. G. MCCULLOCH, Pastor.

REMOVAL.—The Star of Hope Mission (late of 229 South 5th Avenue), has removed to 185 Spring Street, between Thompson and Sullivan Streets, to the large hall lately occupied by the City Mission. Services will be held on Sundays at 10½, 3 and 7½ o'clock. Class meeting Monday evenings, at 8 o'clock; prayer and conference Wednesday and Friday evenings, at 8 o'clock. MRS. ANNA E. SMITH, Sup't.

WORCESTER, MASS.
Union meetings, for the promotion of christian holiness, are changed from 379 Maine street to the Director's room of the Y. M. C. Association. Meeting held every Thursday evening, at 7½ o'clock.
G. E. MERRILL, Com.

PHILADELPHIA, PA. (Sunny Side Hall.)—Meetings every Sunday morning, afternoon and evening; also on Wednesday evening of each week, at the usual hours. Correspond with I. N. WILFONG, No. 135 North 22nd Street.

PHILADELPHIA, PA. (Adv. Chris. Church, Eighth Street, above Noble.
Meetings are held every Sabbath at 10½ A. M. and 7½ P. M. Prayer and conference meeting Friday evenings. GEO. A. BROWN, Pastor.

BIDDEFORD, ME.—Meetings are held at the Advent Chapel, Hill Street, every Sabbath morning, afternoon and evening; also Wednesday and Saturday evenings, at the usual hours; preachers will please correspond with T. W. Applebee, Box 1340.

PORTLAND, ME.
The Advent Christian Church of Portland, Me., hold meetings every Sabbath, also on Tuesday and Friday evenings, in "Union Hall," on Free Street, entrance nearly opposite the Baptist church. James Berry, John Higgins, Asa L. Ames, Church Com.

AUGUSTA, ME.—Meetings are held at the Young Men's Christian Association Room, Darby Block, on Water Street. Preaching brethren wishing to visit the church at Augusta, will correspond with Brn. George B. Choate and H. G. Smiley, Committee.

RYE, N. H.—Bro. E. B. Wells having been chosen pastor of the church in Rye will supply the desk every Sabbath, except the first of each month (that being supplied by Bro. J. W. White) All communications relative to preaching should be directed to him at North Hampton Depot, care of Chesley Bros.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., A. C. Church, Hammond Street, near Division. Sabbath—Social meeting 9 a. m. Sabbath school 10.30 a. m.; preaching 2.45 p. m.; social meeting 7 a. m. Social meetings Wednesday and Friday evenings, at 7.30 P. M.

☞ Meetings are held regularly every Lord's day in Paddock's Village, St. Johnsbury, Vt.; preaching at quarter before eleven A. M., and quarter before two P. M.; prayer meeting at six o'clock in the evening.
M. A. POTTER.

NEW YORK CITY.—Advent meetings at 138 West 24th Street, between 6th and 7th Avenue, every Sabbath, at 10½ a. m., 3 and 7½ p. m. Prayer and Conference meetings Wednesday evenings.
THOMAS J. COX, 273 West 22d Street.

CAMDEN, N. J.—Meetings are held at the Hall, corner of Third and Federal Streets. Preaching or conference meetings every Sunday afternoon and evening, at 3 and 7 P. M. WM. H. FAY, Cor. Sec.

CLINTON, MASS.—Meetings are held every Sunday, also Wednesday evenings, at Union Hall. Preachers will please correspond with C. H. Hudson, Clinton.

Preaching in Quincy Hall, 127 Leacock Street, Alleghany, Pa., every Sunday, at 10.30 A. M., and in the evening at seven o'clock P. M., by G. D. CLOWES.

PAWTUCKET, R. I.—Advent meetings are held every Sunday, at 10½ a. m. and 7½ p. m., at Masonic Hall, Mill Street.

DEXTER, ME.—Meetings are held at Central Hall. Preaching brethren wishing to visit the church at Dexter, will correspond with Bro. O. S. French, Clerk.

THERE will be preaching at Cabot, Vt., in the Advent Chapel, every Sabbath, at the usual hours, until further notice. E. N. MORSE.

☞ Meetings are held every Sunday in Kennebunkport, Me., also Tuesday and Thursday evenings.

STAR-BEAMS; OR, RAYS OF LIGHT.

BY J. W. THOMAS.

This is a new book of 363 pages, and is filled with stirring, practical, interesting articles. It is an excellent book to put in your Sabbath-school Library, or to give as a present to a friend. It contains something for all classes—saints, sinners, young, old, rich, poor, married, single, afflicted and prosperous. Every young christian should have a copy and read it carefully. No family should be without it. It talks of Jesus, of holy living, and the coming glory. It cannot fail to exert a healthful, saving influence wherever it is circulated. Who will help to spread it far and wide? Price $1.00. Direct to J. W. THOMAS, 12 Arnold Street, Providence, R. I. For sale at this Office.

THE BIBLE BANNER.

This is a large, illustrated, monthly paper, conducted by A. A. PHELPS, A. M., assisted by an able corps of Special Contributors. It contains various departments—Doctrinal, Prophetical, Practical, Bible Class, Miscellany, and Items of Interest. It is devoted to a critical exposition of Bible Truth, and an earnest advocacy of Bible Salvation. Only One Dollar a year, and postage free. Liberal terms to Agents. Address THE BIBLE BANNER, Vineland, N. J.

UNION IN CHRIST.

AN ILLUSTRATED MONTHLY.

Thoroughly Christian, entirely unsectarian; devoted to the promotion of Christian union, holiness of heart and activity in the Master's work.

As one of the leading features of the paper it will advocate Union revival meetings in cities, villages, and rural districts, everywhere, as a means of uniting christians, promoting holiness, and saving souls. Able writers in the various denominations will contribute to its columns.

TERMS: Post-paid, single copy, 60 cts. a year; 25 cts. to ministers of the Gospel, and any person who will solicit subscriptions. Ten copies one year for $4; thirty copies for $10; $1.00 a year, with Chromo or Bible Reader's Map.

This paper one year free, with any paper or book on our Clubbing List at publisher's prices, explained in sample copy sent free. Agents wanted everywhere. Address H. A. KING, Box 2289, 37 Park Row, New York.

The Crisis and Union in Christ a year, to old or new subscribers, remitting $2 50 to World's Crisis, 160 Hanover Street, Boston, Mass.

A NEW WORK.

SATANIC SPIRITUALISM.

I have just published a work on Spiritualism, with the above title, containing 96 pp., 16 mo. It aims to establish the satanic character of spirit manifestations, both ancient and modern, and shows also that they are through demons instead of the spirits of the dead. These demons are shown to be the evil angels of Scripture, and to have their location in our atmosphere. The "familiar spirits" in the early Bible times, and the demons in the days of Christ and the early church, are shown to have the same general character which we find in the spirits of Spiritualism; while the phenomena in the Salem witchcraft, and several other occasions in modern times, are shown to have all the usual features of the reports of spirit manifestations in our day.

After noticing various instances of spirit manifestations in the past, the principles and doctrines of modern Spiritualism are given in numerous quotations from the spirits and leading Spiritualists, showing that they are every way blasphemous and anti-christian; and finally the tendency of popular religious teachings toward the doctrines of Spiritualism is shown to be fearfully manifest in all directions. While from its thorough treatment of the subject the work will prove invaluable to inquirers after truth, it will be found of especial service to ministers and others as a book of reference from its numerous quotations of authorities on various points.

I shall have the pamphlet on sale at my stand at Alton Bay campmeeting, and will fill orders for them at 20 cts. single copy, six copies $1.00, by addressing me there during the meeting, or afterward at Burke, Vt. Those wishing larger quantities will be allowed a further reduction.

I. K. LOMBARD.

☞ For sale at this Office.

Business.

Notes to Correspondents.

☞ We cannot discontinue or send your orders, unless you give us the POST OFFICE and STATE in PLAIN LETTERS.

☞ DR. D. MATHEWSON'S address is San Francisco, California.
☞ R. F. & M. J. CLARK'S address is Peach Creek, Washington Co., Kansas.
☞ WM. C. STEWART'S address hereafter will be Hinesburg, Vt.
☞ J. C. and S. E. SMITH'S address is Newton Upper Falls, Mass.
☞ ELD. J. PORTER'S address is Danville, P. Q.
☞ H. G. McCULLOCK'S address is DeKalb, DeKalb Co., Ill.
☞ JOHN PARSON'S address is 14 High Rock Street, Lynn, Mass.
☞ H. L. STEVENS, Jr.'s address is Coles Ferry, Charlotte Co., Virginia.
☞ E. BUNDAGE'S address is Black Walnut, Halifax Co., Va.
☞ A. GORDON'S address is Piermont, N. H.
☞ JOHN B. DEERING'S address is Centre Bartlett, N. H.

LIST OF PERSONS SENDING MONEY FOR OTHERS.—S A Ingham, Geo A Streeter, H G McCulloch, A F Quimby, A P Moore, Wm. Sheldon, M E Hooker, N M Perley.

CASH RECEIVED FOR BOOKS AND TRACTS.—D Nettleton 20c, Geo A Glidden 40c, S P Shorey $10 00, D Lathrop & Co. $4 50, E D Kentfield 40c, J B Richards 40c, Mrs Coleman 50c, Flora H Quimby 80c, A C Johnson 20c, M Croft 50c, M Wade 20c, Wm W Burgess $1.00.

BOOKS AND TRACTS SENT.—By Mail—Geo A Glidden, D Nettleton Jr., Abbie Cook, Jennie Humphreyville, Mrs. Coleman, E D Kentfield, H F Parker Otis G Trundy, J B Richards, B J Dowling, Mathew Croft, Flora H Quimby, Mrs A E Millard, A C Johnson, Wm Reynolds, E E Woodford, M Wade, Wm W Burgess, F M Brown.

ARTICLES RECEIVED.—F P Drew, D F Newton, A W Lloyd, J Finn, A. M. B., I Fancher, M L Pratt, G L Tracy, A E Millard, C Colegrove, B B Currier, F A Baker, N M Tripp, H Pratt, S Woodruff, C Mendenhall, C Tuller.

Catalogue
OF BOOKS AND TRACTS
FOR SALE AT THE OFFICE OF
"THE ADV. CHRIS. PUB. SOCIETY,"
160 HANOVER STREET.

BIBLE DICTIONARY. Five colored maps, two hundred and fifty Engravings. Sheep, $2 25; cloth, $1.50; postage, 25 cts.
BEREAN'S CASKET AND REPOSITORY. By I. C. Wellcome Cloth, $2.00; leather, $2.50.
CRUDEN'S CONCORDANCE. Sheep, $2.00; cloth, $1 50; postage, 25 cts.
CHRISTIAN BAPTISM. By I. C. Wellcome. 25 cts.
ENGLISH REFERENCE BIBLES. Minion: calf, morocco, circuit bindings, from $2.50 to $4 25. Nonpareil: calf, morocco, circuit bindings, from $2.00 to $3.50. Pearl: calf, morocco, circuit bindings, from $1.50 to $3 00. Diamond: calf, morocco, circuit bindings, from $1.25 to $2.00.
FABLES OF INFIDELITY and Facts of Faith. By Robert Patterson. Cloth, $1.00.
FUTURITY; or, The Hereafter of all Men. By Wm. Sheldon. 22 cts.
GOOD TIDINGS. Cloth, 50 cts. Postage, 16 cts. By express, $5.00 per dozen.
GREEK AND ENGLISH CONCORDANCE. By Hudson and Hastings. Cloth, $2.50; leather. $3.50; postage, 12 cts.
HYMNS OF JUBILEE HARP. Cloth, sprinkled edges, $7.00 per dozen; $55.00 per hundred; single, 75 cts. Leather, gilt edge, $9.50 per dozen; $75.00 per hundred; single, $1.00; postage 15 cts. single copy.
IMMORTALITY. By J. H. Whitmore. Cloth, $1.00.
IS IT HERESY? By J. Couch. 15 cts. per doz.
JUBILEE HARP, Hymn, and Tune Book. Plain cloth, leather back, colored edge, $9.00 per doz.; single, $1.00. Extra cloth, leather back, gilt edge, $10.50 per dozen; single $1.15. Extra cloth, leather back, gilt edge and covers, $12 per doz.; single, $1.25. Postage 12 cts. single copy.
HISTORY OF THE ADVENT MESSAGE. I. C. Wellcome. Price $3.50.
JUDGMENT IMPENDING. By L. T. Cunningham. 8 cts.; 75 cts. per doz.; $5.00 per hundred.
MATTHEW 24 and 25. An Exposition. By I. C. Wellcome. 27 cts.
PILGRIM PSALMS. Sunday-school Hymn an Tune Book. Paper covers, $3.00 per dozen; stiff covers, $3.60.
PREPARE TO MEET THY GOD. Behold, the Judge standeth before the door. 10 cts. per dozen; 40 cts. per hundred.
REASONS FOR MY HOPE; or, Tokens of Redemption. By H. L. Hastings. 25 cts.
SCRIPTURAL QUESTION-BOOK. Single, 17 cts.; per dozen, by express, $1.25; by mail, $1.60.
SYMBOLIZATION of the World's Eventful Crisis. By O. R. Fassett. 4 cts; 20 cts. per dozen.
SPIRITUALISM UNVEILED. By M. Grant. 15 cts; 8 copies, $1.00; $10.00 per hundred.
THE End of the King of the North and the Impending time of Trouble. By L. T. Cunningham. 48 pages; 8 cts; 75 cts. per dozen; $5.00 per hundred.
THE Bible Text-Book. For Ministers, Teachers, and Students. 50 cts.
THE Plan of Redemption. By Wellcome & Goud. $1.25.
The Nature of Man. By M. Grant and others. 25 cts; $2 25 per dozen.
The Emphatic Diaglott. Containing the original Greek Text of the New Testament, according to the recension of Griesbach; with an interlinear word-for-word translation. Cloth, $4.10; leather back, $5.16.
The First-day Sabbath. By T. M. Preble. $1 50.
The Destiny of Man. By W. Erwin, $1.35; gilt, $1 65.
Trumpet for the Watchman. By Geo. Thomson. 20 cts. $1.75 per dozen; $11.00 per one hundred.
Who are Sadducees? By Geo. Thomson. 10 cts.
What is Man? By M. Grant. 6 cts.
Young Pilgrim Stories. Illustrated. By "Uncle Pilgrim." 2 vols., 50 cts. each.
Young Pilgrim Stories. Tract form. 30 cts. per dozen; $2.00 per hundred.
Yahveh-Christ. The Coming One. By L. T. Cunningham. 8 cts. 75 cts.
Is Christ's Second Coming in the Past? By Wm. Sheldon. 15 cts. per dozen; 60 cts. per hundred.

THE TRUE SABBATH.
WHICH DAY SHALL WE KEEP?
AN EXAMINATION OF
MRS. ELLEN G. WHITE'S VISIONS.
BY MILES GRANT.
ISSUED
BY THE ADV. CHRIS. PUB. SOCIETY,
A NEW WORK

On the Sabbath of the Old Covenant. An investigation of Mrs. E. G. White's Visions, showing that they are not from God.

All who have accepted Mrs. White's visions as coming from heaven, or who have been led to rest on Saturday instead of the Lord's day, should read this work. Let those who live among our Seventh-day brethren send and get a number of the books to give away. If the reader has friends at a distance who have received Mrs. W.'s Visions as true, have a copy of this work sent to them.

It contains 106 pages, and we will send it at the following prices: Single copy, 20 cts.; per doz., $1.75 by mail; per hundred, $10.00 by express. AGENT.

A NEW TRACT.
ATHEISM CONFOUNDED,
AND
THE FACT OF GOD'S EXISTENCE ESTABLISHED.
BY A. W. SIBLEY.

A valuable little Tract of eight pages—just the thing to circulate in these times of unbelief and skepticism. Price by mail, 15 cents per dozen. AGENT.

☞ PRICE REDUCED.
A NEW EDITION JUST PUBLISHED.
THE DURATION AND NATURE OF FUTURE PUNISHMENT.

By Henry Constable, A. M., Prebendary of Cork.

Reprinted from the second London edition, with an Introduction by Prof. C. L. Ives, of Yale College. 8vo., 68 pp.

All things considered, we regard this the best work on the subject treated of now before the public, and the one to distribute, especially among our friends and neighbors who do not hold with us on the subject.

We have procured a large lot of the publisher, and put them at the following low prices:—One copy, 25 cts.; one dozen for $2.50; sent by mail, postpaid. $17 per hundred, by express. Please order freely. AG'T.

NO NIGHT.

"There shall be no night there."

No night of sorrow shall be there,
All griefs, all sighs are o'er;
No bleeding heart, no tear-dimmed eyes,
On that celestial shore.
God with his gentle hand of love
Shall wipe all tears away;
And in his presence we shall joy,
Secure in cloudless day.

No night of sin can enter there,
Like Jesus we shall be;
For we shall see him as he is,
And holy be as he.
No wandering thoughts, no anxious cares
Shall agitate our breast;
No sin shall mar our services,
In yonder land of rest.

No night of ignorance is there,
We'll know as we are known;
And through a blest eternity,
Rejoice before the throne.
No clouds shall e'er o'ershadow us,
Faith shall be changed to sight;
All gloomy doubts and fears dispelled,
In that fair land of light.

No night of suffering is there,
No weariness, no pain;
The ransomed in that better land
Shall ne'er be sick again.
No aching head, no fevered brow
Shall weigh our bodies down;
For in Immanuel's happy land,
All sickness is unknown.

No night of parting shall be there,
Our loved are gone before;
We'll meet them in that better land,
And meet to part no more.
To be forever with the Lord,
Our griefs, our trials o'er;
No tearful eye, no sad farewell,
On yonder radiant shore.

No night of death can enter there,
To close our peaceful rest;
No tender ties are severed
In the mansions of the blest.
Once in our happy, longed-for home,
We are safe forevermore;
For ah! no night can enter
On that celestial shore.

—Selected by L. H. ADAMS.

NATURE AND GRACE.

MRS. J. B. BAXTER.

Nature is crafty. She allures, ensnares and deceives; and continually designs her own gratification as her ultimate end; but grace walks in simplicity and truth; "abstains from all appearance of evil;" pretends no fallacious views; but acteth from the pure love of God, in whom she rests as her supreme and final good. Nature abhors the death of self; will not be restrained, will not be conquered, will not be subordinate, but reluctantly obeys when obedience is unavoidable. Grace, on the contrary, is bent on self-mortification, continually resists the sensual appetite, seeks occasions of subjection, longs to be subdued, and even uses not the liberty she possesses; loves to be restrained by the rules of strict discipline, and has no desire for the exercise of authority and dominion.

Nature is always laboring for her own interest, and in her intercourse with others, considers only what advantages she can secure for herself; but grace regards that most which is most subservient to the common good. Nature, as her chief distinction, is fond of receiving honor and applause; grace faithfully ascribes all honor and praise to God, as his inalienable right. Nature dreads ignominy and contempt, and cannot bear them even in the cause of truth, but grace rejoices to suffer reproach for the name of Jesus. Nature courts idleness and rest; grace shuns idleness as the nurse of sin, and embraces labor as the dnty and blessing of life.

Nature delights in the splendor of dress, hates and despises what is coarse and vulgar, and wearies imagination in the contrivance of ornament; but grace, instead of decorating the body, spontaneously puts on plain and humble garments, nor refuses even those that are disagreeable to the flesh, ill-fashioned and decayed. Nature regards only the good and evil of this temporal world, is elated with success, depressed by disappointment, and kindled into wrath by the least breath of reproach; but grace adheres not to the enjoyments of time and sense, is neither moved by loss or gain, nor incensed by the bitterest invectives, but lives in the hope of eternal life. Nature continually seeks after those treasures which may not only be corrupted by moth and rust, and stolen by thieves, but which are in themselves perishing and evanescent. Grace lays up treasures in heaven, where nothing perisheth, nothing fadeth, and "where neither moth nor rust do corrupt, nor thieves break through and steal." Nature is covetous, grasps at peculiarity of possession, and greedily takes what she hates to give away. Grace is benevolent and bountiful to all, is content with the necessary support of life, and esteems it "more blessed to give than to receive." Nature is strongly disposed to the enjoyment of the creature, to the gratification of sensual desire, and to incessant wanderings from place to place, in quest of new delight. Grace is continually drawn after God and goodness; she restrains the desire of wandering, and even for shame declines being seen in places of public resort. Nature, in the depths of distress, seeks all comfort from that which produces animal delight. Grace has no comfort but in God, and leaving below, this visible world, seeks rest only in the enjoyment of the sovereign good. Nature always acts upon principles of self-interest, does nothing good for its own sake, but for every benefit expects either a present recompense, of such an establishment in the favor and approbation of men; grace, for the highest offices of charity and bounty, expects no recompense from men, but continually looks up to God, as her exceeding great reward.

Nature, when she feels her want and misery, quickly and bitterly complains; grace bears, with meekness and patience, all the poverty and wretchedness of this fallen state. Nature refers all excellence to herself, argues and contends for her own wisdom, and her own goodness; but grace, conscious of divine origin, refers all the excellence she has to God. Nature is fond of deep researches, and with eager curiosity listens to that which is new and strange; but grace does not follow the cry of novelty, nor is captivated by subjects of curious and refined speculations, knowing that the lusts of vain wisdom is derived from the old stock of human corruption. Such is the the transcendency of grace to nature. She is the offspring of the light of heaven, the immediate gift of God, the peculiar distinction of the elect, and the pledge of eternal happiness. The more, therefore, our sinful nature is suppressed and subdued, the more grace lives and triumphs; and by communications of light and strength, "the inward man is renewed day by day," more and more, after the image of Him that created h m.

Prov., R. I.

THE ESSENTIALS OF SALVATION.

A. G. GORDON.

What must a person believe in order to be saved? A sinner must, in the first place, believe that he is lost, for none but the lost and those that are conscious of their lost condition, will seek to be saved. He must see that this condition is irreparable unless aid is proffered from a higher power than man. Now the question is, "What must I do to be saved?" "Have faith in God." "And it shall come to pass that whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord, shall be saved." "He that cometh to God must believe that he is, and that he is a rewarder of them that diligently seek him." Faith in God's ability and willingness to save is therefore necessary. Having learned this fact, the way that he saves now demands our attention. We must come to God through Christ. "For there is none other name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved." How shall we come through Christ? Believe that he "tasted death for every man;" "that whosoever believeth on him should not perish, but have everlasting life." Believe that the atonement is sufficient; that the moment we repent of our sins God is "faithful and just to forgive us our sins."

Now it is plain to the mind of those who have "tasted of the good word of God, and the powers of the world to come," that these truths had to be received before the mind became subject to the Spirit of God. It is also necessary to know that our sins are forgiven, and God has given us the rule to judge by: "The Spirit itself beareth witness with our spirit that we are the children of God." We must also believe that God is able and willing to keep us from sin after our sins are forgiven, else we shall become "entangled again in the yoke of bondage." We must recollect that we have a work on our part, for we must "work out our own salvation with fear and trembling," knowing God will not do that which he has assigned to us to do. "Keep yourselves in the love of God." "Seeing you have purified your souls in obeying the truth, through the Spirit, unto unfeigned love of the brethren, see that ye love one another with a pure heart fervently." A decision of mind that we will obey the leadings of God's Spirit as far as understood, is absolutely necessary; because "as many as are led by the Spirit of God, they are the sons of God." And the "Spirit and the word agree." The fruits of the Spirit are given so plainly in the word of God, that "they that run may read."

In short, to sum it all up, the essentials of salvation are: (1) A knowledge of the lost condition of man by nature, and man's inability to extricate himself. (2) A belief in one God, who is both able and willing to save. (3) A belief in his Son Jesus Christ as the medium through which God saves. (4) An acknowledgement of the duty of repenting of, and forsaking, all sin, in order to be saved by this Savior. (5) And a life in accordance with the teachings of Christ, and his holy apostles, as near as we are able to attain unto. (6) Also a willing mind to receive any truth, whether doctrinal or practical; ever taking heed to this injunction,—"Prove all things, hold fast that which is good." I believe that no one can have salvation from all sin in this life, and eternal salvation in the "world to come," unless they accept these fundamental principles of Christianity.

Leeds, Maine.

MY EXPERIENCE.

W. G. FREEMAN.

Before I was converted, religious persons used to talk to me about coming to Jesus. But what puzzled me the most was, how can I come? There he is, in the heavens, and how can I come to him? Said a person to me, you must pray. Yes, said I; but I do pray every night. Then another question was put to me, How do you pray? I said to him, I say my prayers every night. Question, what makes you do that? Because my mother told me to do it. I finally said to the person that had the last interview with me, It is no use to talk to me, I don't feel like seeking the Lord. I said, It is all Chinese to me. I told him I could read a Chinese newspaper just as easily as I could get religion. People got tired of reasoning with me, and so years rolled away.

In 1868, my mother was taken sick with a cancer, and had an operation performed, but instead of curing her, she grew worse. During the latter part of her life, she used to talk to me about Jesus. She did also when I was young, and even to the time that she died. She counseled me, but the light did not seem to come. Finally, in January, 1869, she died. I could not weep as others wept, for there were no tears to drop; but oh! what agony I was in. I could not call her back, she was such a sufferer; but oh! those words that fell from her lips, "Weston, prepare to meet me."

Time rolled on, and those words went with me—"Prepare to meet me." As the months of that year rolled along, I thought to myself, why can't I be a christian? I prayed for it, but no light came. I thought to myself, why don't I go to meeting? I finally said to myself, well, next Sunday I will go to meeting. When Sunday came, the old thoughts came again, I can stay at home and read. I did so, but I did not feel right. Thus the week passed off, and another Sabbath; but I stayed at home. I was very uneasy in my mind. I retired to rest, but oh! how glad I was when morning came. I could not rest. My mind was fluttering all night long. Towards morning, I fell asleep, but what a thought presented itself to me. While I was in my sleep, I dreamed I was lost. I awoke, but that thought—lost! lost! Oh, how I prayed for God to open my understanding. Finally the thoughts came to me, be not afraid, only believe. Believe what? I thought to myself. Speak, Lord, let more light come. I stood as one amazed. I felt that a turning point was presenting itself. Pretty soon another passage came to me, I am he that speaketh to you. I then turned to my Bible, and opened to the 40th chapter of Jeremiah. My eyes, as it were, fixed right on the latter clause of the 4th verse of that chapter: "Whether it seemeth good and convenient for thee to go, thither go." Then I said, "Lord, I come now to surrender to thee, just as I am, without one plea." I then prayed to the Lord, and asked him to strengthen me, and make this conviction my conversion. I said, "Lord, it is now or never. Save me now, or I perish." I walked the room to and fro, and it did seem to me as if it were a hard struggle. "Oh Lord relieve me of my burden." I walked to and fro for three hours. It was now time to light up, as it was evening, but I chose to be in a dark room; and I said, "Lord, relieve me. Again let me hear from thee." All at once, a still small voice came and said, "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved." I said to myself, "Believe, believe, there is a meaning to that word." Lord, let me know your own meaning of that word believe. I knew I could find the definition of the word in the dictionary, but I wanted the Lord's meaning. After praying once, my heart seemed all warmed up with the love of God, but no answer. And so I sent another telegraphic message to him, but no answer; and while I was praying the third time, when right in the midst of my prayer, there came, as it were, a sharp sight across my eyes, that looked like lightning, and the voice came with it, and said, "What I mean by believe is, do not distrust my word, but rely on me. Let your mind be stayed on me." My heart was made to rejoice in answer to my prayers, and I was released from my burden. Oh, what a happy night I had!

This is my experience, and how many a time I have thought of the words of the poet:

"O for a faith that will not shrink,
Though pressed by many a foe."

Plymouth.

MOODY AND SANKEY.

H. PRATT.

I have watched with deep interest the effect of such earnest labor. Unlike most of the latter-day revivalists, they accept no money, follow no tradition, or heed any "old wives' fables." They sing, pray and preach the Bible, and especially and emphatically the soon coming of Jesus. "Hold the fort" is the first piece in the songs of Sankey, as published in London. How soul-reviving to the long-waiting pilgrim.

"Hold the fort for I am coming,
Jesus signals still."

Again—

"Fierce and long the battle rages,
But our help is near;
Onward comes our great Commander,
Cheer, my comrades, cheer!
Hold the fort."

Another—"When Jesus comes."

"Down life's dark vale we wander,
Till Jesus comes;
We watch and wait and wonder,
Till Jesus comes;
Oh, let my light be burning,
When Jesus comes;
For him my soul be yearning,
When Jesus comes."

In the preaching of Mr. Moody, as reported by James L. Bruce in the Examiner and Chronicle, New York, Aug. 12th, touching the "Ark," he says: "Of course they thought he (Noah) was mad." "If," says he, "you had gone out to dinner with any of those antediluvians, you would have heard them talking over Noah's folly, as they sat over their wine. And if they had theatres in those days, as no doubt they did, (for people lived long enough to devise all kinds of wickedness), I feel sure there was a farce called "Noah's Ark," and they got a good deal of fun out of it. But," he cried, subduing in an instant the smile provoked by this droll suggestion, "was the purpose of God any the less sure, because of their scoffing? Was the coming of the flood any the less certain, because they thought Noah a harmless lunatic? And is God's judgment not going to fall on us now, because men pay no attention to the voice of warning? Why, his own voice tells us in the chapter I read (2 Pet. 3) what we have to expect, and it seems to me," he added, so overwhelmed with the truth he was uttering that he could not stop to find impressive words to clothe it in, "it seems to me to be downright folly for us not to believe it."

Another assurance of his mission, though his words are not quoted, comes from the N. Y. Witness. Speaking of the prohibition of Gladstone's pamphlet in France, the writer says: "A message from Gladstone's pen, or Moody's voice, alarms her to the core. . . . Popery once ruled in Rome; she now rules in New York. . . . Gladstone and Disraeli have sounded the alarm to the English nation. Bismarck, for Germany, says to the tyrant, "Submit to law," and Moody and Sankey have stiffened the backbone of England with fresh drafts from the Bible." Glory to God!

When Alexander was out growing his peers, and the nation was hesitating concerning their rash and impetuous leader, the high priest stiffened up his backbone, and his followers, by shewing them the prophecy of Dan. 8, that the first noted king of Grecia should overthrow the Persians. Fired with ambition, he soon fulfilled the prophecy. Now, while these "mighty men" are awake to the situation, the nations falter and faint at such temerity, and it was necessary that a Moody and Sankey should be prepared to stiffen up the backbone of England by (prophetic) drafts from the Bible concerning the downfall of the Papacy right here. How else could they cause the Papacy to tremble and stiffen up the backbone of the opposing power with fresh drafts from the Bible, only by the light of prophecy? When I see my Father's handy work, I say with Mary, "My soul doth magnify the Lord."

TENT MEETING AT HAVERHILL.

By request, we give a few particulars of this meeting. Haverhill is the county seat of Grafton Co., N. H., situated on the Connecticut river. It is quite a large village, with two churches—Methodist and Congregationalist. There have never been but few Advent meetings in the place. The tent was pitched Sept. 1st, and meetings held days and evenings and over Sunday, Sept. 12th. There was a strong prejudice existing in the vicinity against us, as a people, and also the doctrines that we believe; but which, in a great measure, we think, was removed. Bro. A. Simpson presented the prophecies in such a clear light that men feared and trembled. Bro. and Sr. Clark, from Kansas, who had charge of the meetings, and others, presented the "blessed hope" in such a way that sinners were led to Christ and found pardon. Backsliders were reclaimed, and saints quickened.

The whole community and surrounding country are stirred. People are convinced that we have got the truth; and they begin to see the necessity of a hiding-place from the storm that will soon burst on this world. In short, we think that the result of the meeting was glorious. Bro. Simpson remarked that he had attended but two or three such meetings since 1843. The last day it was estimated that one thousand people were present. The best attention was given throughout the meeting, and excellent order prevailed. There were five baptized, and probably more will follow soon. There will be an effort made to support meetings a part of the time, at least. We think that many will say, "Thank the Lord for the tent-meeting at Haverhill." G. M. LITTLE.

"THERE'S A DEADLY CURSE IN THE CHURCH."

These words were uttered one morning by my dear brother upon his sick and dying bed. Gasping for breath, and summing up all the energy that remained, he said to his pastor: "There's a deadly curse in the church, and I may as well tell you now. I want you to impress it upon the young men of the church, that if they must use that filthy weed, tobacco, not to do so before entering a sick room, but defer it until after the visit. Some of the brethren have caused me a great deal of suffering. The effluvia of tobacco has been so strong upon them, that it has almost taken my breath. A few evenings ago, Bro. P—— called to see me, and I suppose he thought I was drinking in all he said; but instead of that, I became almost unconscious, and if a deadly poison had been given to me, it could not have affected me worse than did the strong smell of that vile pipe, in which he had so lately indulged. I did not recover from its evil effects until the next morning."

The night to which he referred, his suffering was great, and at last he fell into a stupor, the family watching around his bed all through the night, not expecting him to rouse again until the resurrection morn. But as morning began to dawn, he became conscious, his first words being, "That dreadful tobacco, it almost overcame me." Clothing and bedding had to be changed; the rank smell seemed, to his sensitive nerves, to have penetrated everything. After this many near and dear friends had to be denied the privilege of seeing him, simply because they were in the habit of using tobacco.

O, I think, if those who profess to be the Lord's, who indulge in this unclean practice, could have witnessed the sad effect that it had upon my brother, they would not only be persuaded to defer the use of it until after visiting a sick room, but would discard it forever. It is not only unpleasant to the sick, but also to the well.

A short time since, a brother in meeting, by whom I sat, having no book, mine was held between us, accommodating us both. But when the second hymn was given out, I passed him the book, and removed to the further end of the pew, in order to get as far as possible from the strong odor of the tobacco, and ever since I have taken good care to keep at a respectable distance from him.

The object of writing the experience of a dying christian is with the hope that it may be the means of inducing some church members, and some preachers also, to abandon the use of that filthy weed. I cannot expect it to have much weight on those who, like one professing christian, who told me he would give twenty, yes, fifty, or a hundred dollars a pound for tobacco, before he would give it up. Is it hard to decide which is his God? A. U. B.

THE BURNING WORLD.

T. S. SCOVILLE.

Many seem to fall short of a proper understanding of the Scriptures in relation to the burning of the world. Let me say a few words through the columns of your paper, for I consider your paper, the Crisis, among the nearest perfection in its views of all publications I know at the present day.

If I can show any one a point yet in darkness, I shall give light. Let me try. In 2nd Peter 3d chapter we read these words: "But the heavens and the earth, which are now, by the same word are kept in store, reserved unto fire against the day of judgment and perdition of ungodly men." Here we find "the heavens and the earth which are now" are to be burned; and the question comes up naturally, when? and how? The answer lies in the same verse; at "the day of judgment." The millennium, the reign of Christ, and the day of judgment, are all one and the same day of one thousand years, the Sabbath of the world, the day of rest and happiness to the righteous. In the morning the Lord comes, accepts his watching saints, raises his sleeping saints from the grave, and leaves the wicked dead in the grave to sleep on the thousand years. See Rev. 20—"But the rest of the dead [wicked dead] lived not again until the thousand years [Christ's reign and judgment day] were finished." If these wicked dead rise not, and the world is burned in the morning of the judgment day, then they have no knowledge of the burning of the world, and cannot be punished by it. Then, too, we are told that the wicked living on the earth at the time shall be destroyed by the brightness of his coming, which will be, as Isaiah states it, seven times brighter than the sun; a light which no man in the body can stand for more than a few months or year or two. This is the glorious light of our coming Lord and King of glory.

Here, then, we see the wicked dead stay in their graves, and the living wicked die and go into the ground, and stay with their wicked brethren until the close of the thousand years. Then we say, if they do, they will not be present in a conscious state when the world is burned, and will not be cast into the lake of fire and brimstone predicted in God's word. Let us look at the verse again, and see if there is new light in it. We read—"Reserved unto fire against the day of judgment and perdition of ungodly men." Ah! now I see the key to the whole affair; "reserved unto . . . the day of judgment" any time during the thousand years. Well, I see plainly that the righteous are to be judged and accepted in the morning; and the wicked being in their graves until the evening of the day, then the resurrection of the wicked comes in the evening. The perdition of the wicked cannot come before that time, and the world, by the text, is to be burned at the perdition of the ungodly; and the burning world is the lake of fire into which they are to be cast and destroyed.

Let us see how it is in Rev. 20th chapter. The 2nd and 3d verses shut up the dragon. The 4th places the righteous. The 5th consigns the wicked to the grave one thousand years. The 6th repeats the ecstatic joy of the righteous. The 7th says Satan shall be loosed out of his prison, at which time the wicked are loosed from the grave, and cover the earth. Their very first move is to try to destroy the saints and Christ's kingdom, now one thousand years old. The 9th verse says God rains fire down from heaven upon them, and destroys them all.

This is where the burning world comes in, and the very object of burning the world is to destroy the concentrated strength of the devil, his angels, and all men who oppose Christ. They find themselves instantly swamped in a great lake of fire and brimstone, without being conscious of danger up to that moment. The oxygen of the atmosphere will be released, and like those persons burned some years ago at an oil well, which was throwing oil and gas at a rapid rate, the lookers on were not conscious of the gas that was filling the entire atmosphere about them, until instantly it took fire, and they were breathing flame, and so frightened they knew not the way out, and some twenty men were burned to death; so, when the oxygen of the atmosphere is released, fire will go like lightning all around the world, and the rocks will melt, and the consternation will be instantaneous and universal, while the hundred and forty-four thousand will stand on the top of this sea of glass molten with fire, having the harps of God in their hands, praising him for deliverance.

Here we see, too, that the death, burial and resurrection of the wicked will not change their nature a particle; but the same malice, hate and revenge toward Christ and his followers will exhibit itself. After this destruction of the wicked, and the songs of deliverance by the thousands and millions of saints, there will open to this earth a new scene, yet more glorious than the millennium itself. In the 11th verse of the 20th chapter, we find the great white throne established, and then comes a glory on this earth which is spoken of nearly in this way: "Eye hath not seen, or ear heard, nor hath entered into the heart of man to conceive, the things God has prepared for those that love him." The millennium is described. All that follows cannot be portrayed to man. Here the Bible description ends, and then the Bible will be laid aside.

Elmira, N. Y.

REJOICING.

S. SHRINER.

Rejoicing in hope of the glory to come,
When Christ the life-giver appears;
We'll smile at the sorrows and burdens of life,
And banish our doubts and our fears.

For the promise is sure to all who endure
To the end of life's labor and care;
That they shall be saved in the day of reward,
And the life of the blessed shall share.

This hope is our anchor, and to it we'll cling,
Though tempest and storm rage around;
Our bark through the billows in safety 'twill bring,
Till we shall with vict'ry be crowned.

We rejoice that we to our Father may go,
And ask for such things as we need;
Assured that each blessing he'll freely bestow,
Each feeble petition will heed.

We'll rejoice for the Comforter promised and sent,
The water of life freely given;
The words of rich grace recorded and sealed,
And the bread which cometh from heaven.

We rejoice and are glad that a way has been made
For sinners to come unto God;
That Jesus has died, and the law satisfied,
By shedding his own precious blood.

We rejoice that he rose and ascended on high,
To make intercession for men;
That soon he is coming in glory and power,
And on the new earth he shall reign.

And what though our names be as evil cast out,
For the love that we bear to our Lord;
We'll rejoice and be glad, for the promise is ours,
And blessed shall be our reward.

Yes, glory to God, we'll rejoice evermore,
And earnestly strive to prepare
For the rest that remains for the people of God,
That its blissful repose we may share.

REPORT OF UNION TENT MEETING IN VINALHAVEN.

Our tent was pitched in this place July 15th. This is one of the Fox Islands, fifteen miles from the main land, containing some two or three thousand inhabitants. The principal business is stone cutting for the Government buildings. Several hundred men are now at work, but not as many as formerly, owing to the hard times. Some of the stones are polished so one can see their face in them. Fifty pillars, some fifteen feet in length, and eighteen inches through, are thus polished. Our meetings were largely attended evenings, and good interest was manifested. The Young Men's Christian Association united with us, suspending their meetings while we were holding our tent meetings. It seemed blessed to see brethren dwell together in unity. Some confessed they believed what we preached, and were blest; others were deeply convicted, and promised to obey their Lord. Four went forward in baptism. Others intend to soon, if an opportunity is granted them.

Our meetings continued until Aug. 8th, with unabated interest. We had some opposition from the Catholics, when we referred to the persecution on the saints by that power. The same spirit is plainly manifest among them now, and, had they the power, they would do the same again; but we have great reason to thank the Lord that that power has been crippled, and will soon be destroyed by the brightness of our coming King. Others were much stirred on the mortality of man. Some questions were asked, which brought out light on the subject. One Bro. said, at sunset, he believed he should go to heaven when he died; but before ten o'clock his mind was changed by the word of the Lord, and he was led to believe that eternal life would be given by Jesus at the resurrection.

We had a very pleasant talk with a gentleman on the subject, which continued one hour after the close of our meeting. All the congregation were interested, and listened with interest to his texts, and our answers. We think good results will follow such investigations, when done in a good spirit.

At our last meeting, a man of the baser sort, as Paul called such, came to impose upon our liberty, as given in our meetings for the worship of God to all believers. One of the officers of the town ordered him to sit down, as we should be protected in our meeting. This was after we had closed our discourse. We found many more friends, as all law-abiding citizens were in our favor, and praised the Lord we ever went to Vinalhaven with our tent. We were obliged to stop Monday. By arrangement, we gathered at Bro. Howland's, to partake of the Lord's supper with his believing children. It was truly blessed to know that our absent Lord would soon return, and we share his glory in the kingdom of God, and eat and drink at his table. Let us work. We must let our light shine, as our time is short in this world, and what we do must be done quickly. Shall we have it said to us, "Well done"? H. B. SEVEY.

Camden, Me., Aug. 24th, 1875.

OPPOSITION TO TERMS.

We often hear persons in speaking of holiness say, they have no objection to the thing itself, but they do not like the terms used to designate it.

We must remember that words are only the names of things, and the signs of ideas. If we have the thing we must have the name, which must convey as nearly as possible the idea. An appropriate terminology is one which accurately describes the things or ideas attempted to be set forth. Every thing actually existing takes on a terminology which conveys as far as language is capable, the truth concerning it. There is an intimate and necessary connection between things and their terms. Terms are innocent and irresponsible of themselves, simply existing because the thing exists; and any objection to the term, is against the thing of which the term is only an accurate description. The reproaches of them that reproach the term, fall on the thing and not on the term.

Do yon love the landscape? Then you love the picture of it, and love it more, the more nearly it resembles it. Do you love holiness? Then will you love the word that most nearly expresses it. But the opposition lies not against the lack of expression, but against its too full expression, which is not according to the logic of love. What we love, we also love the exact image of; and if we love holiness we will love the language that most correctly images it.

Hence we must insist that opposition to terms is opposition to the thing.

If your physician calls to see you, and prescribes calomel, and you object, is it because of the name or the thing? Do you say, Doctor, I like calomel, but do not like the name. Call it magnesia and I will take it. Would you like your physician, who knows your likes and dislikes, to change his terms to suit your fancy, while the offensive remedies remained the same? It would be gross deception. Terminology is so important among chemists that they employ a dead language that is not subject to the fluctuations of a living language, and carefully label their goods. Likewise we had better adhere to the old and standard terms in speaking of the things of God, "not words which man's wisdom teacheth."

The terms "healed" and "fully cured" are not distasteful to a sick man, for he prizes health and soundness. He loves the terms because they so accurately express the thing he covets. He would not discharge his physician for the use of terms which simply and truly expressed the thing he longed for, and for which he employed him, viz.: perfect health. He would cooperate with him, and when restored, would do his best to state the nature and extent of the cure wrought. If he come to Christ for spiritual wholeness, it is folly for him to claim that he loves the thing, but dslikes the term that expresses it. If he gets the thing, none other than these extreme terms will suffice. He puts himself into Christ's hands for a thorough work, and feels in himself that he is made whole, accompanied with a sense of strength and witness to inward purity; he seems to walk on rock and carry himself with a poise that he never before was able to command. He asks himself What is this? How shall I designate it? The Spirit whispers, this is sanctification, and his spirit says, yes, the term is fit and expressive of what I definitely enjoy.

Terms become necessary to accurate description. To be true, I must use terms commensurate with the fact, else I mislead and deceive. If I have the privilege, as I once did, of standing in Yosemite Valley, and beholding its sublime and awful glory, and I tell you of its massive granite sides, from three-fourths to over a mile in perpendicular height, with a waterfall of half a mile, awakening in the breast the most sublime emotions; I say it is unique, wonderful, an exceptional creation. I talk of gigantic cliffs, stupendous masses of rock, lofty and imposing peaks that seem to "Have reared their heads among the stars,

As islands in the upper deep."

You cry, "Hold! I do not like such terms." But I say that you must let me have my terms, or I can give you no idea of the valley. It is a marvel of nature, and requires extreme diction.

So with the experience of sanctification; it is a marvel of grace, and you must let us have the terms, or we cannot give you the aide of this valley of blessing so sweet, into which we have entered. We have an extreme experience, and must have an extreme terminology. Nothing else will suffice. May we all "be able to comprehend with all saints what is the breadth, and length, and depth, and height; and to know the love of Christ, which passeth knowledge, that we might be filled with all the fulness of God. Now unto him that is able to do exceeding abundantly above all that we ask or think, according to the power that worketh in us, unto him be glory in the church by Christ Jesus, throughout all ages, world without end."—Advocate of Chris. Holiness.

WHAT IS TRUTH?

B. PERHAM.

This is a very important question, and should be answered in the very clearest manner. Our blessed Savior tells us, in John 14:6, that he is "the way, the truth, and the life." Then with propriety we may exclaim, "Thy word is truth." Jesus is called the "Word of God," for it is written, "In these last days" God hath spoken "unto us by his Son." So we see that our lovely Redeemer is the very embodiment of the truth of God. Then, of course, the gospel of God is a record of the whole truth of God to man. Beware of the dreadful consequences of rejecting the pure gospel of the Son of God! What will be the punishment of those who hold the truth in unrighteousness? How many there are who profess to be the followers of Christ, and yet will twist the Bible all out of joint to make it agree with some human creed.

It is a mystery to me why people will receive and cherish a needless error quicker than they will a plain, simple truth recorded in the Bible. We will state an instance. In Luke 20:37, 38, our Savior defeated the Sadducees by showing them that the patriarchs must have a resurrection in order to be the servants of God, and have him for their Father. But nearly all who advocate that man has an immortal soul will construe that passage to prove that Abraham, Isaac and Jacob were alive and praising God in heaven, when the fact was, Jesus was trying to show the Sadducees that the patriarchs must have a resurrection, in order to be alive. How much better it would be for all who read the holy Book of God, to understand it so as to make it harmonize with itself. The Bible is plain, and easy to understand, if we lay aside human tradition and man-made creeds, and let it explain itself, looking to the blessed Lord for wisdom and instruction, in humble prayer.

Vernon, Vt.

THERE is no greater every-day virtue than cheerfulness. This quality in man among men is like sunshine to the day, or gentle, renewing moisture to parched herbs. The light of a cheerful face diffuses itself, and communicates the happy spirit that inspires it.

HOME AND HEALTH.

HOLD FAST THE TRUTH.

There were prizes to be given in Willie's school, and he was very anxious to merit one of them. As Willie was young, and had never had much chance to learn, he was behind the other boys in all his studies except writing. As he had no hope to excel in anything but writing, he made up his mind to try for the special prize with all his might. And he did try so that his copy-book would have done honor to a boy twice his age. When the prizes were awarded, the chairman of the committee held up two copy-books, and said: "It would be difficult to say which of these two books is better than the other, but for one copy in Willie's, which is not only superior to Charlie's, but to every other copy in the same book This copy, therefore, gains the prize."

Willie's heart beat high with hope, which was not unmixed with fear. Blushing to his temples, he said: "Please, sir, may I see that copy?"

"Certainly," replied the chairman, looking somewhat surprised.

Willie glanced at the copy, and then handing the book back: "Please, sir, that is not my writing. It was written by an upper class boy, who took my book by mistake one day instead of his own."

"O, O," said the chairman, "that alters the case. The two books went back to the committee, who, after comparing them carefully, awarded the prize to Charlie. The boys laughed at Willie. One said he was silly to say anything about the mistake.

"I wouldn't have told," said another.

"Nor I," added a third boy, laughing. "The copy was in your book, and you had a right to enjoy the benefit of it."

But in spite of all their quizzing, Willie felt that he was right. "It would not have been the truth," he replied, "if I had not told who wrote the copy. I would rather hold fast the truth," than have a prize, for truth is better than gold."

"Hurrah for Willie?" "Three cheers for Willie! "Well done, Willie! shouted the boys, and Willie went home to his work happier than he could have done if by means of a silent lie he had won the prize.

You see now, if Willie had not spoken he would have told a silent lie. His silence would have made a false impression on the minds of the committee, and he would have wronged Charlie out of the prize. We hope our little readers will resolve never to be guilty of silent lying. Hold fast the truth. —Ex.

ONLY A GRAIN OF SAND.

A man who had for years carried an old and cherished watch about him, one day called on its maker, and told him it was no longer useful, for it would no longer keep time correctly.

"Let me examine it," said the maker; and, taking a powerful glass, he looked carefully and steadily into the works, till he spied one little grain of sand.

"I have it," he said; "I can get over your difficulty."

About this moment, by some powerful but unseen power, the little grain, suspecting what was coming, cried out:

"Let me alone. I am but a small thing, and take up so little room I cannot possibly injure the watch. Twenty or thirty of us might do harm, but I cannot, so let me alone."

The watchmaker replied: "You must come out, for you spoil my work, and all the more so that you are so small, and but a few people can see you."

Thus it is in the home. One cross feeling, one hasty word, one angry look, may mar and hinder the running of the perfect machinery. We may go alone, and with God set again the time-piece; but if we do not trust in his keeping power, how soon the old enemy is on hand to thrust in again the little grain which will impair the works and hinder the wheels, and present a false face to all who are around! Let us then look to our Savior as one who is able to "keep us from falling," and trust him as the God who will deliver in the temptation and keep the home watch running perfectly. —Selected.

THE TRUE STANDARD OF DRESS.

We are always excessive when we sacrifice the higher beauty to obtain the lower one. A woman who will sacrifice domestic affection, conscience, self-respect and honor, to love of dress, we all agree loves dress too much. She looses the true and higher beauty of womanhood for the lower beauty of gems, and flowers, and colors. A girl who sacrifices to dress all her time, all her strength, all her money, to the neglect of the cultivation of her mind and heart, and to the neglect of the claims of others on her helpfulness, is sacrificing the higher to the lower beauty; her fault is not the love of beauty, but in loving the wrong and inferior kind.

In fine girls, you may may try yourself by this standard. You love to dress too much, when you care more for your outward adornings than for your inward dispositions; when it afflicts you more to have torn your dress than to have lost your temper—when you are much more troubled by an ill-fitting gown than by a neglected duty—when you are less concerned at having made an unjust comment, or spread a scandalous report, than at having worn a passee bonnet; when you are less troubled at the thought of being found at the last great feast without the wedding garment, than at being found at the party to-night in the fashion of last year. No christian woman, as I view it, ought to give such attention to her dress as to allow it to take up all of three important things: viz., all her time, all her strength, all her money. Whoever does this, lives not the christian, but the Pagan life—worships not at the christian's altar of our Lord Jesus, but at the shrine of the lower Venus of Corinth and Rome.—Mrs. Stowe.

The World's Crisis
AND
SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

RULES FOR CORRESPONDENTS.

Over all matters not intended for publication, write:—PRIVATE.
Over all business matters, write:—BUSINESS.
Over all articles intended for the paper, write:—For the Crisis.
☞ Put business matters and appointments on separate pieces of paper, so that they can be detached without interfering with any other communication.
When the names of NEW subscribers are sent, please say they are NEW, and it will save much labor.
PRIVATE LETTERS.—Those wishing to address the Editor on matters not connected with the office, please write PRIVATE on the outside of the envelope.
☞ All persons writing to the office should give distinctly and plainly the POST OFFICE, COUNTY and STATE at which they wish to be addressed; and all orders, subscriptions, communications and remittances, should be plainly directed to

☞ "THE WORLD'S CRISIS,"
Boston, Mass.

PUBLISHED ALSO AT THE SAME OFFICE,
Semi-monthly,
THE YOUNG PILGRIM
An Illustrated Sunday-School Paper,
FOR CHILDREN AND YOUTH.

TERMS: ☞ Payable always in advance.
Single copy, 50 cts. a year; and at the same rates or any number of copies under ten.
Ten copies, and any larger number under fifty, when sent to one address, 40 cts. a year for each copy.
Fifty copies, and any number over fifty, when sent to one address, 35 cts. a year for each copy.
To Canada subscribers at the same rates. No extra charge for American postage.
☞ All communications, orders, and remittances should be addressed to
"THE YOUNG PILGRIM,"
Boston, Mass.

The World's Crisis

AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

"BEHOLD I COME QUICKLY; AND MY REWARD IS WITH ME."

WHOLE NO. 1037. BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 29, 1875. VOL. XLI.—NO. 24.

The World's Crisis, AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER, Issued every Wednesday Afternoon, by the ADVENT CHRISTIAN PUBLICATION SOCIETY, At No. 160 Hanover Street, Boston, Mass.

GEO. T. ADAMS, TREASURER AND BUSINESS AGENT.

JOHN COUCH, MILES GRANT, } EDITORS.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE: S. G. MATHEWSON, L. BOUTELL, WM. H. MITCHELL.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEE: H. V. DAVIS, M. BATCHELOR, L. T. CUNNINGHAM, J. G. HAMBLIN, J. HEMENWAY.

The CRISIS is devoted to the exposition of all Bible truth; especially the doctrine of the immediate, personal coming and reign of Christ on the earth; holiness of heart; the unconscious state of the dead; their literal resurrection, and final destruction of the wicked.

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

(Continued)

To the American Advent Mission Society, greeting:—

For many years Satan has been trying with artful skill to weaken christianity by making it popular. In order to be successful, it was necessary, in some way, to lower its standard, and persuade the followers of Jesus to accept a mixed religion. To accomplish this result, he led them into debt by extravagant church building, and then introduced fairs, festivals, lotteries, and other worldly means to raise money to pay off the debts, not letting them see that every such movement only served to run them in debt spiritually, destroying thair vitality in Christ. In order to secure the patronage desired, they must make their fairs and festivals attractive for worldly people. Thus step by step a large proportion of church members have been led along by the wiles of the deceiver, till the standard has become so low, that only a few know what it is to be free in the Lord. This declension has gone so far, and its supporters have become so popular, that there is scarcely any ground to hope there will be any improvement in the great Protestant body. Thus it was with the Jewish church at the first; then those who became the disciples of Christ, found it necessary to separate themselves from the worldly-spirited church, in order to be his humble followers. The change was brought about by missionary work, supported by those who loved the blessed Savior, and were willing to turn away from a religion that had degenerated into mere formalism.

So now, the present state of things in religious matters seems quite like that in the first century. Paul was inspired to tell us, "that in the last days" there would be among professors of religion a form of godliness, without "the power;" and a love for pleasures, more than for God. Then comes the instruction, "from such turn away." When the last day arrives, as foretold by the apostles, it will be necessary for those who would be ready to meet Christ at his second advent, to follow this divine instruction, and "turn away" from the cold, formal, pleasure-loving, proud, boastful, heady, and high-minded professors, be clothed with the righteousness of Christ, "filled with the Spirit," dead to the world, passively resting in Jesus, while actively engaged in leading others to the same blessed position.

We most sincerely believe we are now living in the very period which the Bible calls "the last days," to which reference has just been made. This being true, the time has fully come for the active movements required to cause the bride of Christ to make the suitable preparation for the coming of her Lord. As John the Baptist was sent to call out a people to welcome Jesus at his first advent, so we believe means are now being employed that will result in having a church ready to meet him when he shall return, but it will not be those who are pleasure-lovers, having a form of godliness. It will not be any particular denomination, or creed, but a pure church made up of all the saints, or holy ones, to be found in all denominations, who shall have turned away from the fair-and-festival religion, that is bringing a reproach on the cause of Christ.

This is to be brought about by missionary work, like that of John the Baptist. A cry like John's, in the wilderness, "Prepare ye the way of the Lord," must be made. It is being made by holy men and women in all evangelical denominations, and is waxing louder and louder as we approach the end. Those who are looking for the speedy coming of Christ should occupy the front rank in this last great and glorious work. They should stand shoulder to shoulder with every true man of God, lifting up their trumpet voice, sounding the warning notes in all directions. The moral church corruptions at the present time, like the political, have become truly alarming, and call for thousands of Luthers and Wesleys to stand forth with christian boldness to expose and nullify the effects of the worldly-minded, pleasure-loving, lascivious, slimy religion that is prevailing in these last days. He who steps forth into the midst of this last conflict will need on "the whole armor of God."

"See the mighty host advancing,
Satan leading on;
Mighty men around us falling,
Courage almost gone.
'Hold the fort, for I am coming,'
Jesus signals still;
Wave the answer back to heaven,
'By thy grace, we will'"

He who enters the fight for the honors of this world, will find none; if for ease, or worldly store, he will meet with sad disappointment; but if only to please Christ, his peace will be like a river, his victory certain, and his reward eternal life.

Who is ready to enter the battle, making no provision for retreat or furlough? Who will lay himself on the altar of sacrifice, and say, Here am I, send me? And who will say, Here are the means to sustain you on the battle-field? go with our prayers and sympathies; tell the people of the Coming One, and the necessity of a pure heart, if they would meet him joyfully; go with speedy feet, North, South, East and West, saying, "Behold the Bridegroom cometh," let the bride get ready, and be clothed with garments spotless and undefiled, shining forth "in the beauty of holiness."

Dear Brn. in Christ, what is your response? Do the deep sympathies of your hearts gush forth in this direction? Will you provide the means to send the men whose hearts are in the work, and keep their families comfortable while these self-denying missionaries are toiling night and day to persuade the people to be reconciled to God?

For this object the Mission Society was formed, and if ever needed, there are now stronger reasons for its continuance and support than at any former period. We believe important and glorious truths have been committed to our trust. Shall that trust be betrayed in the closing conflict with the powers of darkness? Shall the banner of the cross be trailed and soiled by its bearers, just before the triumphal march to meet our coming King, as he returns to crown the faithful soldiers? Is this the time to be faint-hearted? or to make a compromise with Satan? to sneak as a coward, and flee before the advancing foe? Nay, verily, but with fresh vigor, and the boldness of the lion, let us rush upon the embattled legions of the advancing enemy, with a zeal and enthusiasm that shall do honor to the friends of the Crucified—shouting:

"Lift up the trumpet, O, loud let it ring,
Jesus is coming again;
Coming in glory, the Lamb that was slain,
Jesus is coming again.

Sound it, old ocean, in thy mighty wave,
Jesus is coming again;
Break on the sands of the shores that ye lave,
Jesus is coming again."

This is the hour for brave men. Men who can smile at the finger of scorn, and treat with contempt an unrighteous public opinion; men who dare expose corruptions in Church and State, at any cost, and who will not uphold iniquity any sooner among the high than the lowly; men who can neither be bought or sold at any price; who are ready to stand for the right if the heavens fall, and joyfully wait the issue. Let us be such men, and the Divine Master will find a place for us in the coronation jubilee. When the trumpet sounds to waken the dead, and the lightning glory of the coming Royal One illumines the heavens, and the beauties of his shining face and regal form appear; then the men of clean hearts will rejoice with joy unspeakable, as the immortal life dances in their veins.

Dear brethren, the mere mention of the things promised to the christian are enough to fill one with rapture. But who can picture the reality, when the whole earth shall be full of the glory of God, sorrow forever gone; pain and sickness unknown, and every inhabitant of that land shall be immortally holy and happy? Are these things receiving the attention they deserve? Are we doing what we can to carry these blessed truths to those who know them not? Can we not by increased efforts reach many who are sitting in gloomy darkness, sighing for the light we enjoy? These and similar questions, are pressing themselves upon us with a weight that should move us to immediate and earnest endeavors to persuade men to seek a home in the blissful Eden of the redeemed. What shall we do? Remember, one of the two great commandments is, to love our neighbor as ourselves. With this commandment before us, what ought we to do? Were we in their places, and they in ours, what might we expect from them? Certainly, that they would do all in their power to induce us to leave the broad road. Let us, then, do it for them, for Jesus, who died that we might live eternally. Let us make no excuses, or apologies, but take hold of the work with a spirit of earnestness that shall be commendable to the true followers of Jesus. Half-way, half-hearted measures, with their cold, formal results, are abundant, but they only serve to fit men for perdition.

These times call for live men; men filled with the Holy Spirit, and dead to the world and sin; men who are willing to preach the truth at the risk of losing every thing they hold dear in this world; men who have an eye single to the glory of God, and are willing to stand alone in Christ and his truth, rather than hold an honored position with the popular multitude in error; men who are willing to work now, and wait till Jesus comes for their reward, and who are not ashamed to bear reproach with the righteous so long as we are in the land of the enemy. Such men will find plenty of work, and open doors on every side. They are called to the front, in the name of the Captain of their salvation. Who is ready to go into the hottest of the fight, in the last battle with the powers of darkness? Let such gird on their armor, and prepare for the grand closing triumph.

"They are slaves who fear to be
In the right with two or three."

To the true and brave victory is sure, and the reward eternal life in glory.

(To be concluded.)

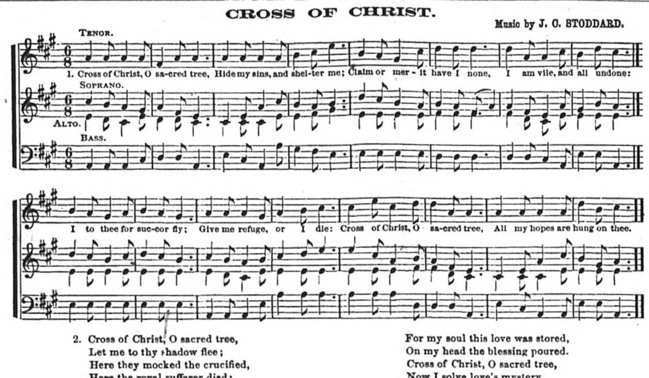
GOD'S WORD.—There is something amazing in the power of God's word. It differs from all other writing. It is an effluence from the uncreated light, and must endure forever. It is more replete with meaning, with faithfulness, with grace, than the best minds and the strongest faith have alleged. Christian, hide God's word in your heart. Read it with care, study it with diligence, pray over its hallowed contents with fervor and importunity. Ask the teaching of the divine Spirit that you may understand and obey its pure dictates. There is something amazing in the power of God's word.

CROSS OF CHRIST.

Music by J. C. STODDARD.



2. Cross of Christ, O sacred tree,
Let me to thy shadow flee;
Here they mocked the crucified,
Here the royal sufferer died;
Here was shed the atoning blood,
Till it crimsoned all the sod.
Cross of Christ, O sacred tree,
Can the guilty trust in thee?

3. Cross of Christ, O sacred tree;
Type of love's deep mystery;
'Twas my sins provoked this love,
I this matchless passion moved;
For my soul this love was stored,
On my head the blessing poured.
Cross of Christ, O sacred tree,
Now I solve love's mystery.

4. Cross of Christ, O sacred tree,
This my boast shall ever be;
That the blood for me was shed,
That for me he groaned and bled;
Now I catch that gracious eye,
Now I know I shall not die.
Cross of Christ, O sacred tree,
All my guilt is lost in thee.

[Words from "Hymns of the Morning."

THE GOSPEL.

JAMES PIGGOT.

"I declare unto you the gospel."—1 COR. 15: 1-4.

With the meaning of this term gospel, I presume all are familiar. It is simply, good news, glad message, or good tidings. In the Bible, as in our common conversation, it is applied to different things, or persons; hence we can only find out the value of each glad message by a full understanding of the terms which come with the message to qualify it. For example, in the Scriptures we have the good news, or "gospel of God," (Rom. 1: 1), "the gospel of Jesus Christ, the Son of God, (Mark 1: 1); "the gospel of the grace of God" (Acts 20: 24); "the gospel of your salvation" (Eph. 1: 13) "the gospel of peace (Eph. 6: 15); and "the everlasting gospel" (Rev. 14: 6). Here, then, we have six different messages of joy to the children of men; but this passage in Corinthians stands at the top of the list. It is this message which brings to us justification, redemption, salvation from sin, and the hope of life. This is emphatically the gospel, as the apostle has it, "By which also ye are saved, if ye keep in memory what I preached unto you." According to this language, it is of the utmost importance that we have a correct understanding of what this gospel is.

First, then, the apostle says, "I delivered unto you first of all that which I also received, how that Christ died for our sins, according to the Scriptures." In consulting learned men on this scripture, they tell us that Christ in reality did not die, as death is only a separation; and while our Lord's body was laid in the tomb, his soul was released from its prison house. It is impossible for the popular mind to believe this grand old apostolic statement, for they claim that he had a promise to fulfill, and a work to do during these three days and three nights; so we find one claiming that Christ went to heaven with the penitent thief; another says he went to hades, or hell, and preached to the spirits who were then in prison; and still another claims that he went to both places, which things our Lord neither promised, nor fulfilled; but Paul's statement "that Christ died for our sins, according to the Scriptures," though eighteen hundred years old, is just as true to-day as when it was uttered.

Remember, it was not said that Christ died according to popular opinion, but "according to Scripture." The best way, yes, and the only way, to find out the truth on this point, will be to "search the Scriptures." In Psalm 16: 10, when speaking of Christ, David says, "Thou wilt not leave my soul in hell" (hades or the grave); "neither wilt thou suffer thine Holy One to see corruption." In Acts 2: 31, we have the same thought. Peter here tells us that David, speaking of the resurrection of Christ, said, "His soul was not left in hell (the grave), neither his flesh did see corruption." While these passages prove that his soul was not left in the grave, they also prove that his soul was in the grave, and under the power of death. In the 10th chapter of John our Savior says, "The good Shepherd giveth his life for the sheep." Again he says: "I lay down my life, that I might take it again; no man taketh it from me, but I lay it down of myself. I have power to lay it down, and I have power to take it up again." Isaiah 53: 10 says, "His (that is, Christ's) soul" was made "an offering for sin." In the 12th verse God says, "Therefore will I divide him a portion with the great, and he shall divide the spoil with the strong; because he hath poured out his soul unto death." These passages tell us plainly that Christ's flesh, and body, and life, and soul, were all under the power of death, and this proves the apostle's words true, which says,—"Christ DIED for our sins."

The second proposition in the gospel is, "that HE was buried." As there is little difference of opinion regarding this, it is unnecessary to dwell on it. There is abundant testimony that he was laid in Joseph's new tomb. Ask those forlorn disciples, what was the cause of their sadness; and they would say, Our Lord is dead and buried. Put the same question to those chief priests and Roman soldiers, and they would frankly inform you that he is sealed in the tomb; and more, it was their intention to keep him there, for they watched the sepulchre night and day, lest his disciples might steal him away; but our blessed Lord needed no human power to help him in fulfilling this. He told them just how long he would remain in the tomb, and as the appointed time came, he rose, a triumphant conqueror.

Turn to Corinthians again, and you will find that the third point in this important message is, "That he rose again the THIRD DAY, according to the Scriptures." Some deem it of little moment when he rose, resting satisfied in the fact that he did rise; but the word of the Lord dwells more on time and particulars than most people think. We are told plainly in the New Testament, nine times, that he would rise again from the grave the THIRD day. But before going further into this, let us compare it with popular teaching, and we will find out how utterly hopeless it is for us to trust in men. Consult their writings, and they almost invariably tell us that our Savior was crucified at nine o'clock, Friday morning, and was buried on the same day; indeed, they give us the exact time he was in the grave, as they suppose, namely, thirty-six hours. How many days and nights can you make out of thirty-six hours? All that can be made is Friday night, Saturday and Saturday night, which are only two nights and one day. This does not, and cannot be made to harmonize with the plain words of inspiration. It will be remembered that the enemies of Jesus asked him for a sign, when he answered, "There shall no sign be given; . . . but the sign of the prophet Jonah; for as Jonah was three days and three nights in the whale's belly, so shall the Son of Man be three days and three nights in the heart of the earth." Read the history of this sign, as given by the four evangelists, and it is astonishing to see how closely this sign was watched. Had the Lord risen any other than the third day, it would have proved his own words untrue.

It may be asked by some, How can so many learned men, of all denominations, be so far astray on a plain subject like this? We can easily find out the reason. Daniel, in speaking of the "little horn" (which is the head of the papacy), says: he would "think to change times and laws," and they would "be given into his hand." This we know he did change, making Friday the Crucifixion day, and calling it "Good Friday." Why should we be led by such a person, ever the Lord's greatest enemy?

"He rose again the third day," is the scripture declaration; and in looking at this from a Bible stand-point, the first thing to settle is, when does a Scripture day begin? The answer is plain. All through the book, the Scripture day begins at even, at sunset.

Our Lord was betrayed and mocked by Judas and his band at night. "And straightway, in the morning" he is brought before Pilate and condemned. Turn to Matt. 15: 25, where it reads: "And it was the third hour, and they crucified him," which was nine o'clock in the morning. The 33rd verse reads: "And when the sixth hour was come, there was darkness over the whole land until the ninth hour." This darkness lasted from twelve o'clock, noon, till three o'clock, afternoon. The 34th verse reads: "And at the ninth hour Jesus cried with a loud voice," and died. 42nd verse: "And now, when the even was come." If we can find out what day this even in the 42nd verse begins, the whole subject is settled. Let us read: "And now, when even was come, because it was the preparation, that is, the day before the Sabbath." This was the time when Joseph went to Pilate and begged the body of Jesus, "when even was come." The even of what day? Why, "the preparation day; that is, the day before the (Jewish) Sabbath," which we call Friday. Our Lord, then, was taken down from the cross and laid in the tomb on the even of Thursday? Yes. Well, when was he crucified? About nine hours before this time, which would be Thursday morning, at nine o'clock.

Thus we can tell almost to an hour how long our Savior was in the tomb, by simply reading a few verses in Mark's gospel. Taking this subject as it stands, Christ was three full nights and two full days in the grave, and "rose again the third day, according to the Scriptures." Bless the Lord for the simplicity of his truth. O that men would listen to the words of divine wisdom, before it is too late!

Chicago, Ill.

DO GOOD to all men, as you have opportunity. Deal out kindness and favors with an unsparing hand. The cause you understand not, search out. If you cannot find happiness by direct search, try anotner plan. Make others happy, and see if that does not make you truly blessed.

SIGNS OF THE SPEEDY COMING OF CHRIST.

WM. SHEPHERD.

"And there shall be signs in the sun, and in the moon, and in the stars; and upon the earth distress of nations, with perplexity; the sea and the waves roaring, men's hearts failing them for fear, and for looking after those things which are coming on the earth, for the powers of heaven shall be shaken. And then shall they see the Son of man coming in a cloud, with power and great glory. And when these things shall begin to come to pass, then look up, and lift up your heads, for your redemption draweth nigh."—LUKE 21: 25-28.

That the end of this dispensation is near, and hence the second coming of our ever blessed and adorable Redeemer is impending, we cannot doubt for a moment. Every day's observation fully demonstrates the fact. The warlike attitude of the nations—the great powers, such as Russia, Germany, Austria and France (as a shrewd observer writes)—are "literally armed to the teeth." Europe at the present moment, in fact, is groaning under the weight of arms. The political, social and ecclesiastical condition of the world is a credible witness to this. And does not this condition quite fill out the prophetic mould, and run in exact lines parallel with those described by the holy apostles and prophets?

It cannot be denied but what we are living in an age of wonders—the age of surprising developments. Principles which have long operated in secret are every where starting up, as it were, by magic into sudden and startling manifestation. No man can tell what a day may bring forth. The tendency to development is in the same ratio to the tendency to dissolution, with an equal desire to reconstruct. Past things are every where giving way, and men are seeking to reconstruct the world politically, socially, and religiously, upon new principles and under new forms; but upon no warrant, except the pressure from beneath. The masses are pressing upward, progressing as they vainly suppose. Obedience to the majority is the new law; faith in the multitude is the new creed. The top must go to the bottom; the tail must take the place and perform the functions of the head. And what remains but the time of trouble (Dan. 2: 1; Rev. 3: 10), the second chaos, out of which none but the Almighty can reconstruct. As we are hastening on to that state of things aptly prefigured by the agitated and troubled sea of Tiberias, to whom Jesus spake in his authoritative voice, saying, "Peace, be still," and immediately there was a calm; so we may feel assured that we are rapidly approximating to that eventful epoch when he will descend from heaven, with the voice of the archangel, and with the trump of God, and, among other great and glorious things, this world, in widespread commotion, by that commanding voice will be hushed down into a sweet, harmonious, lasting tranquility, and peace will prevail.

The disposition now, as indicated in the movements on the part of mankind; their apparent dissatisfaction with the present condition, and the wild unrest manifested in the masses, is a marked sign of the approach of the end. Observe: "Woe be to the multitude of many people, which make a noise like the noise of the seas; and to the rushing of nations, that make a rushing like the rushing of mighty waters. The nations shall rush [or become restless, in a state of commotion] like the rushing of many waters; but God shall rebuke them [or exert his mighty power, as did Jesus at the sea of Tiberias], and they shall flee far off, and shall be chased as the chaff of the mountains before the wind, and like a rolling thing before the whirlwind." Isa. 17: 12, 13. Compare Dan. 2: 35; Jer. 30: 23; Job 18: 18; 2 Thess. 1: 7-9.

The physical condition of our globe, the varied changes taking place daily, is another great sign, and indicates that we are nearing the end. This is indicated by the great fires with which we have been visited of late years, and which would seem to remind us of the prophet's words (see Isa. 24: 15; 66: 15, 16); by the terrible earthquakes in South America but a few weeks past, which swallowed up many villages in its greedy jaws, together with thousands of their inhabitants, leaving many more shelterless and to perish with hunger; by the fearful inundations in France, destroying millions of dollars of property, and burying thousands of souls in a watery grave, leaving thousands more helpless and destitute of the common necessaries of life; by the many volcanic eruptions of recent date; by the extensive famine in India, in Asia Minor, and that of but a few days past in Southern and Northern Portugal,* where thousands have perished for want of bread; by the astonishing tempest, of which we learn while writing, which occurred at Geneva, and which is described by an eye witness as presenting the most alarming aspect of any storm on record. The scene was terrible in the extreme. Says a correspondent to the N. Y. Tribune:—

"At the end of it, the city of Geneva was wrecked as no army of besiegers could have wrecked it in the same space of time. It came with the suddenness of a thunderclap. Only a few minutes previously there had been a warning voice, which those who heard it describe to have been a very terrible one; which was not the sound of the wind, even when it blows its hardest; which was not the sound of thunder, but a kind of strange, hollow, angry growl, with an ever crescendo force. . . . The windows of the dwelling-houses were forced from their fastenings, besides having all the glass shivered; and bed-rooms and stair-cases and saloons were thus thrown open to the storm, and in a minute or two half filled with masses of ice, far beyond the immediate power of the inhabitants to remove. For the storm was was marked by this peculiarity, that the hailstones, or ice fragments rather, compacted themselves in one solid mass as soon as they fell. An accurate inquiry enables me to state, without fear of exaggeration, that the greater part of the hailstones, before they fell, were about the size of chestnuts or walnuts; a smaller quantity was no larger than hazlenuts, and large numbers were as big as the largest fowl's eggs. One was picked up at midday on the following day, and found to weigh two pounds. As for the consternation which reigned throughout the city, when the people sprang from their beds (this happened at midnight) at the alarm of such an awakening, it may be fancied; and the scenes which occurred may be more easily imagined than described."

It is said that the tiles of many houses were "absolutely beaten to powder; and more wonderful still, stout partitions of wooden plank were pierced by holes such as might have been made by a musket ball!"

And still later reports come in. The awful cyclone in Indiana,—"tearing houses to pieces, uprooting trees, and sweeping them generally before it; . . . crops in every section are entirely ruined." "Reports from Southern Ohio are gloomy. Big Miami River is rising at the rate of six inches per hour. Thousands of acres are ruined, and towns are flooded. The wheat and corn crops are entirely wasted away."

Vevay, July 28th. "A tornado passed through this county, carrying away harvested grain, overturning buildings, tearing up forests, prostrating young crops, uprooting, and leaving in its track desolation and ruin."

Indianapolis, July 28th. "During last night, a destructive cyclone passed this way, producing consternation and ruin in its track." We hear of heavy rains in Arkansas. In Kentucky the weather is "without a parallel. In the last day or two, the rain-floods have increased, and gloomy apprehensions are felt in all sections of the country." "The situation is extremely precarious." "Gloomy apprehensions are felt," etc. What a striking fulfillment—"Looking after those things which are coming on the earth."

That singular phenomenon called the "Tidal Wave," which exposes more especially sea-girt towns and cities to its fearful ravages, is another sign in fulfillment—"the sea and waves roaring." All these are but so many mighty pulsations of a sin-burdened and devil-ridden world, groaning, laboring and agonizing to be delivered from the bondage of corruption into the glorious liberty of the children of God. Rom. 8: 20, 23.

The social state of the world, the fearful increase of crime, according to the late criminal statistics, far exceeds in proportion the increase of population; showing the downward tendency to be on the advance, and that as it increases in age, it increases in crime. "As it was in the days of Noah." Matt. 24: 37-39.

The greed of gain, the strange infatuation possessed by man to become wealthy, either by fair means or foul, this worship of mammon seems to be the idol god of the day, and commands universal homage. Go where you will, you find devout devotees to his shrine. Men are laboring everywhere to faithfully serve him, by adding dollar to dollar, lot to lot, house to house; notwithstanding the warning voice, "The love of money is the root of all evil." Covetousness, which is idolatry, is one of the prevailing sins of the age. Mankind are represented as having an insatiate desire to hoard up money, strangely cherishing the idea that it may prove a sort of defense against the time of trouble, which they somehow anticipate. The hoarding up, and packing away in their iron chests these immense sums of money, until much of it has corroded, is no doubt in fulfillment of James 5: 1-8. This is another notable sign, as James declares, that "the coming of the Lord draweth nigh"; or, as in another place, that "the Judge standeth at the door."

Another sign, characteristic of the age, is the pride, extravagance, and fashion. Never, in the history of this country, at least, were people so lifted up with pride, and given to such reckless extravagance, and such costly, vain, and foolish fashions, as to-day. Well has one said, tracing the origin of our fashions—"We get them from England, England gets them from France, and France gets them from the devil." The passion for dress is without a parallel. There seems to be no limit in this direction, especially on the part of the fairer sex. I am told that it requires more goods to make one fashionable garment for a female now, than it would formerly to make two or three; and that the trimmings alone on some of these dresses costs more than would purchase a dozen decent gowns in the days that are past. The love of show, and to make a fair appearance, is prevalent wherever you may turn. People are determined to "keep up appearances," whatever it may cost, and upon whomsoever the cost may fall. The masses seem "bound to blaze," or "shine," as they term it; and to make the very best of this life, regardless of the future. Like the condemned culprit, who would seem to enjoy his cigar and wine, and partake of a hearty meal just prior to his execution, and with the very instrument of death—the gallows—before his eyes.

What does all this pride, extravagance, love of fashion, and indifference as regards the future, indicate? We answer, it is another evidence that we are hastening to the closing scenes and inevitable doom of the age. The prophetic picture in this department is quite filled out, and will soon receive the finishing touch.

(To be continued.)

* "Portugal is one of the latest nations to suffer from natural disasters. While France and Great Britain are enduring many hardships on account of freshets and inundations, two provinces of Portugal—Minho and Algarve—are smitten with drought. The first named of these is at the extreme north, and the other is the most southerly of the kingdom. Famine and riot are imminent, and the government is obliged to come to the relief of the people. The list of great calamities by flood, fire, pestilence, earthquake, and storm, will be very large by the end of the year. Already, nearly every part of Europe has been visited by some severe disaster; and uncommon commotions in the earth and air are reported from Asiatic and South American countries. Had these things happened during the prevalence of the singular 'Second Advent' delusions of 1840, we should have been treated to portentous and conclusive essays, showing that they were in fulfillment of prophecies and visions of the Apocalypse."—N. Y. Times.

THE BAPTISM OF FIRE.

F. A. BAKER.

"He shall baptize you with the Holy Ghost, and with fire."—MATT. 3: 11.

Vers. 1, 2—"In those days came John the Baptist, preaching in the wilderness of Judea, and saying, Repent ye." Verse 5—"Then went out to him Jerusalem, and all Judea, and all the region round abont Jordan, confessing their sins." Ver. 7—"But when he saw many of the Pharisees and Sadducees come to his baptism, he said unto them, O generation of vipers, who hath warned you to flee from the wrath to come? Bring forth therefore fruits meet for repentance; and think not to say within yourselves, We have Abraham to our father; for I say unto you that God is able of these stones to raise up children unto Abraham." Ver. 10—"And now, also, the axe is laid unto the root of the trees; therefore every tree that bringeth not forth good fruit is hewn down and cast into the fire." Ver. 11—"I indeed baptize you with water unto repentance; but he that cometh after me is mightier than I, whose shoes I am not worthy to bear; he shall baptize you with the Holy Ghost and with fire; whose fan is in his hand, and he will thoroughly purge his floor, and gather his wheat into the garner; but he will burn up the chaff with unquenchable fire."

1. The fire in verses 10, 11, and 12, is to be taken in the same sense, and literally, and is related or refers to the "wrath to come" of verse 7.

2. This idea of "wrath" and fire! fire!! FIRE!!! is suggested to John's mind by the circumstance of the "generation of vipers" who were resting in their Abrahamic parentage, and manifesting no genuine repentance, offering themselves for baptism, being entirely unfit. Vers. 8, 9. A severer test is to be applied by one infinitely greater than John, who said—"I baptize with water" merely. You vipers may impose your wicked selves upon me, and this ordinance; but One is to come who knows all hearts; and the scrutiny of that awful presence who can bear? Those who have truly repented, he will baptize with his Spirit; but those who have not fled from the "wrath to come," but retained the viper within, notwithstanding all their high professions, will fall with the chaff in the unquenchable fire, when the floor shall be thoroughly purged.

Frankfort, Me., Sept. 17th.

ENCOURAGEMENT.

C. MENDENHALL.

We are so constituted that we are more or less dependent upon each other. There is in the bosom of all men a sympathetic chord, which may be touched, unless, indeed, he should be a stoic. This being true, we need encouragement from each other. The minister, in his manifold duties, perhaps feels this need more keenly than those of any other class. His duties at times are unpleasant, and if a true man of God, he ever feels a weight of responsibility resting upon him, by virtue of his office. He needs not your criticisms so much as your prayers. Not your unkind words so much as your christian counsel. He needs to have his hands stayed up by your aid.

When one feels depressed in spirit, fatigued in body, or invo ved financially, oh, how like cold water to a parched tongue, comes the kind word, the proffered rest, or the timely aid. In all our intercourse with our fellow-creatures, it becomes us, as the followers of Jesus, to help one another over life's rugged way; to "weep with those that weep," to cheer, comfort, counsel or aid those with whom we come in contact. "Do good"—is a divine command, and may we ever be thus found faithful unto the coming of the Lord. We must pray for each other, walking together in holy unison, working in harmony, avoiding strife, being full of love to all mankind. May God keep us all. With Paul, "Let us therefore fear, lest, a promise being left us of entering into his rest, any of you should seem to come short of it." Surely we may all of us feel encouragement, for Jesus is near. We are now in the time when we may consistently rejoice, knowing that our redemption is nigh. Even so, come quickly, Lord Jesus. "Brethren, pray for us."

Liberty Centre, O.

The World's Crisis
AND
SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

Boston, Wednesday, Sept. 29, 1875.

TAKE NOTICE.

All subscriptions for the "CRISIS," issued from this time forward, are at the rate of

$2.25 a year, payable IN ADVANCE.

POSTAGE FREE TO ALL within the United States, the Canadas, and the British Provinces.

Please Remember!

All remittances to this office, in the form of Drafts, Bank Checks, and Postal Money-Orders, should be made payable to the Business Agent, GEO. T. ADAMS.

THOSE who send articles for the "CRISIS," should direct them to the EDITORS OF WORLD'S CRISIS," Boston, Mass.

PLEASE READ, REMEMBER, AND ACT ACCORDINGLY.

The brethren, sisters, friends—one and all—whoever may write to this office, sending articles for insertion in the Crisis, or subscriptions for the same, notices, appointments, reports, or orders for papers, books, tracts, or anything of the kind, will confer a favor and do the right way by directing their letters in either one of the following ways:—

"EDITORS OF WORLD'S CRISIS, Boston, Mass."

"WORLD'S CRISIS, Boston, Mass.," or

GEO. T. ADAMS, Agent, Boston, Mass.

Those who send articles for the Young Pilgrim should address—

"EDITOR YOUNG PILGRIM, Boston, Mass."

In no case address letters on business connected with the papers, or office, to any of the clerks, compositors, or helps in this office.

AGENT.

HEREAFTER address me at BOSTON, MASS. All private letters should be marked "personal." MILES GRANT.

SPRINGFIELD.—We are now having the best meetings we have ever enjoyed in Springfield. The Holy Spirit is blessedly present to convict the sinner, and comfort the saint.

M. G.

MISSION WORK.—Do not forget that on the first Sunday in October every church is desired to take up a collection for the support of the mission work the coming year. Do not let the mission work flag now, when we are so near the coming of Jesus. M. G.

WE have received the October number of the Science of Health. It is excellent. In our "Home and Health" column, we give a part of the first article. Price $2 a year. Address S. R. Wells & Co., 737 Broadway, New York. M. G.

RARE BOOKS.—If any of our readers wish to obtain any rare, valuable books, from antiquarian libraries, they will do well to address Bro. Isaac Monroe, World's Crisis Office, Boston, Mass. Bro. Monroe is well posted in the business, and those who purchase of him may expect to buy as low as of any other person. We have bought of him more or less for several years. We state this as a favor to our readers who are searching for rare books. M. G.

PRAYING TO THE SPIRIT.

Is there any example in the Bible where any patriarch, prophet, priest or king, or where Christ, apostle, or any saint, ever prayed to the Holy Spirit? If so, will some one please give chapter and verse? We have noticed that it is is becoming quite common for some to pray to the Holy Spirit, but we can find no authority or example for it in the Sacred Scriptures.

We are taught to pray to the Father in the name of Jesus; and that "the Spirit also helpeth our infirmities; for we know not what we should pray for as we ought; but the Spirit itself maketh intercession for us with groanings which cannot be uttered." Rom. 8: 26. "The Spirit itself maketh intercession for us"; not that we make intercession to the Spirit. As the Spirit "proceedeth from the Father" (John 15: 26), "he that searcheth the hearts knoweth what is the mind of the Spirit, because he [margin, that] maketh intercession for the saints according to the will of God." Rom. 8: 27.

We read about "praying in the Holy Ghost" (Jude 20); "praying always with all prayer and supplication in the Spirit" (Eph. 6; 18); but not TO the Spirit.

When persons pray to the Holy Spirit, as a person distinct from the Father and the Son, we think they have departed from "the form of sound words" (2 Tim. 1: 13) that should be used in prayer. Let holy men adhere closely to the Bible in all things.

M. G.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL BOOKS.

Those who have charge of Sunday schools have found it difficult to obtain good reading for the scholars. There are two special defects in many of the S. S. reading books: (1) their unscriptural doctrines, (2) their resemblance to novels. The first defect may be turned to good account. Suppose, for instance, the superintendent, or teacher should be aware that false doctrine might be found in some of the books, let it be said to the school, that every one is requested to mark any sentence in the reading book that contains unscriptural expressions. Then have those passages brought before the class, or whole school, for examination. By pursuing such a course, the scholars would soon become skillful critics, so that they could detect an error as readily as the teachers.

Such exercises could be made exceedingly interesting. For example, suppose a scholar finds it stated in his reading book that man has an "immortal soul," and that "when good people die, they go to heaven." Let the teacher or superintendent, ask all in the school to raise their hands who believe these things are taught in the Bible, and then inquire in the same way, How many think the Bible does not teach such doctrines? Very likely some will vote one way, and others the opposite. Then have them bring in their proof texts the next Sunday. In this way a great interest might be awakened in the examination of these important subjects, and the school become better informed, and in less time than any other way.

We think this method could be made one of the most successful means of waking up an interest in the study of the Sacred Scriptures, and of educating the scholars so that they will be prepared to detect and meet the theological errors now so common in religious books and preaching. M. G.

QUERY.

Do the dead rise mortal, and do they rise before the living saints are changed?

D. COGSWELL.

Paul says to the Thessalonian Brn.: "The Lord himself shall descend from heaven with a shout, with the voice of the archangel, and with the trump of God; and the dea din Christ shall rise first; then we which are alive and remain, shall be caught up together with them in the clouds, to meet the Lord in the air." 1 Thess. 4: 16, 17. Again he says to the Corinthian Brn.: "I show you a mystery; we shall not all sleep, but we shall all be changed, in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trump; for the trumpet shall sound, and the dead shall be raised incorruptible, and we shall be changed. For this corruptible must put on incorruption, and this mortal must put on immortality." 1 Cor. 15: 51-53.

If we turn back to the account of the creation of man, as given in Genesis, we find the man was formed complete in all his parts before he received the breath of life," instead of giving life to each particle of his organism, separately, before the formation of the man. Reasoning from analogy, we should naturally conclude that at the resurrection, the dust of the dead will first be reorganized into men, as at the first creation, then "this corruptible" will "put on incorruption, and this mortal" will "put on immortality." At the same time, the living saints will "be changed," and all "caught up together . . . to meet the Lord." This looks to us more consistent, than that each particle of the dead man should be made alive before the organization takes place. As a watch that has been taken in pieces for repairs is put together again before it is set running, so dead men must be reorganized before they again breathe the breath of life, and "put on immortality."

But when the wicked dead arise, they are not changed to incorruptibility and immortality, but "shall utterly perish in their own corruption." 2 Pet. 2: 13. They are as truly raised from the dead as the righteous, but must die "the second death," and forever cease to exist. M. G.

HOLINESS.

The question of What is gospel holiness, and how is it obtained? is now exciting special interest among all professed believers in the Christian religion. It is a subject made so prominent in the gospel, and represented as being so essential to present and future salvation, that it demands the most thorough examination and critical analysis by every christian, and especially by every christian teacher.

The Scriptures teach, unequivocally and positively, that God requires men to possess it, and that without it he will not accept them at the last judgment as heirs of his heavenly kingdom. It is presented in the gospel as being as essential to the enjoyment of eternal life as faith or hope; and all true believers of the apostolic church were called, by inspiration, "Holy brethren."

The word holiness represents a state or condition, and not a principle or element. It does not represent a grace, but a condition produced by grace.

The word is from holy, and signifies "the state or quality of being holy; purity or integrity of moral character."—Webster. He defines the word holy as literally signifying "sound, safe, whole." In its scriptural use it means to "set apart to the service or worship of God; hallowed; sacred." It is applied to men and things as being thus devoted to sacred use; as, "holy men" and "holy temple." It not only represents the idea of being set apart to the service of God, but also as being "worthy to be employed in the service of God; acceptable to God; commanded by God; hence free from sinful affections; characterized by religious principle; pure; irreproachable; guiltless."

A holy man is, therefore, in a gospel, spiritual sense, sound, safe, whole; that is, he is "sound," not defective, in christian character, in faith, hope, charity, and obedience to God. He is "safe" as to his personal condition from present transgressions and future punishment, and also in his influence over others to lead them to Christ and not to perdition. He is "whole;" that is, his christian character is complete, lacking no part of all the graces necessary to make him an acceptable servant of God. He is wholly in the condition and position required by the gospel, to be received as a child of God. He is in possession of all the elements which constitute a christian character. He is wholly the Lord's, without reservation of time, talents, friends or property. In a word, he is in the condition of a true christian; his sins are washed away, his heart made pure, and his steps directed in the narrow way; an obedient follower of Christ.

Holiness being a religious or spiritual condition or state, we now inquire, How is that state obtained? By whose power and through what means is the change made from the former condition to that of holiness? When and under what circumstances is this state reached? What evidences do we have in our experience that we are in that condition?

1st. How is holiness obtained? We answer, By a voluntary and complete surrender to God. Paul expresses this truth plainly when he says, "As ye have yielded your members servants to uncleanness and to iniquity unto iniquity; even so now yield your members servants to righteousness unto holiness." Rom. 6: 19. The statement is clear that men become sinful by "yielding"—voluntarily submitting—to a power which produces that unholy state, and men also become holy by submitting to a power which produces a state of holiness. God does not take away from man the condition of probation, which is the power of choice, by arbitrarily forcing upon him a state of sinfulness or holiness; but leaves him by his volition to choose either as he wills.

2nd. By whose power and through what means is the change made? We answer, By the power of God, through Jesus, the Word and Spirit of God. Paul says—"The Lord make you to increase and abound in love one toward another, and toward all men, even as we do toward you; to the end he may establish your hearts unblameable in holiness before God." 1 Thess. 3: 12-13. It is the Lord that makes us "increase and abound in love," by which he establishes our hearts unblameable, in a justified state, in holiness, in a sinless condition. Again the apostle says, "Put off concerning the former conversation, the old man, which is corrupt, according to the deceitful lusts; and be renewed in the spirit of your mind; and put on the new man, which after God is created in righteousness and true holiness." Eph. 4: 22-24. We think none can doubt that the putting off the old man and putting on the new signifies conversion—a change of moral government, from the control of the fleshy lusts and carnal nature, led by Satan, to the control of the divine nature and righteous will, directed by Christ.

This great moral change is represented as being in the "spirit of the mind;"—the religious condition of the man; and is so radical a change that it is called a creation—"a new creature," "created in righteousness," i. e., takes on a righteous character "and true holiness," or "holiness of truth," margin; that is, this change is produced by the same power of God which "created" man in the beginning, when he stamped him with his moral image, which was lost by sin and is restored by conversion. Paul says, "And have put on the new man, which is renewed in knowledge after the image of him that created him." Col. 3: 10. This image is seen in "righteousness" and "holiness of truth;" that is, a holiness produced by the acceptance of and obedience to inspired truth. It is a likeness to God produced by possession of and being governed by the same principles which characterise him, viz., righteousness and holiness.

That holiness is a state or condition of Deity, and that we are made like him and become sons of God by receiving the same, or being put in the same condition, is clearly stated by Paul thus: "For they (our earthly fathers) verily, for a few days, chastened us after their own pleasure; but he (our heavenly Father) for our profit, that we might be partakers of his holiness." Heb. 12: 10. He then gives an exhortation to all christians to "Follow peace with all men, and holiness, without which no man shall see the Lord." The words peace and holiness each represent a state or condition; and to follow peace and holiness with men is to maintain the position of peace and holiness in all our associations with them.

This practical and experimental rule by which God designs to govern his people in their associatians with men, making peace and holiness the ruling principle, is made imperative, and absolutely essential to the enjoyment of eternal life. God is holy, and it is perfectly reasonable and scriptural that none but holy beings shall see him; that is, dwell in his direct presence.

As this is the only state of our existence in which this condition can be obtained, it is infinitely important that we know, by all the tests and evidences that God has given us, whether we are enjoying this heavenly state. Paul, in writing to the church at Corinth, exhorts them not to be "unequally yoked together with unbelievers;" and to "come out from among them," and "touch not the unclean;" giving them the promise that the Lord Almighty would be a Father unto them, and that they should be his sons and daughters; and adds, "Having, therefore, these promises, dearly beloved, let us cleanse ourselves from all filthiness of the flesh and spirit, perfecting holiness in the fear of God." 2 Cor. 7: 1.

Holiness is a condition of perfection, and presents the idea of a perfect state. With God it is infinite and absolute perfection; but with men it is limited and progressive perfection. God's holiness cannot progress to a higher state, as to its volume, quality or results; man's holiness may increase in volume and beneficial results, but cannot in quality.

Holiness is dependent for its existence upon knowledge, love and other gospel principles. We cannot be in a state of loyalty to a government of which we have no knowledge of its requirements and laws. As holiness is a state of loyalty to God, it consists in a voluntary and hearty acceptance of and obedience to his revealed will. Hence gospel holiness is enjoyed from the time that gospel faith is exercised, and continues parallel with its continuance. The believer is holy, and the unbeliever is unholy. Obedience to God's law is the result or fruit of holiness; but holiness is never the reward or result of obedience.

Holiness is a twin sister to righteousness. Both are received at the same time and by the same rule, through the exercise of faith, and not by works. The relative volume of holiness, enjoyed by any being, is in proportion to his volume of knowledge; for a state or condition extends to those circumstances known to him as relating to that condition, and not to those unknown. A ruler's official power extends to those classes, and only those, known to him as being legitimately under his domininion; a tribe may, by some ancient treaty, lawfully belong to his subjects, but the volume of his constitutional power does not embrace them until he gains a knowledge of that treaty; but, after having an opportunity to gain that knowledge, he is unfaithful in his office if he does not exercise his official power in protecting and ruling that tribe. The knowledge and executive power of the Emperor of Russia extends through all his dominion; but a corporal in his army may be as faithful, officially, as the Emperor, although his knowledge and power may be vastly less.

So it is with professed christians. Their religious condition is related to all the circumstances and beings within their knowledge, connected with their spiritual state. They can have no moral accountability for their relations to things of which they have no knowledge or means of knowing. A man may kill his friend, thinking that he is killing a mad dog, and be innocent; for the moral character of an act is produced through the knowledge the actor possesses of its nature.

Perfect ignorance cannot produce moral character, either good or bad. Human sinfulness and holiness cannot commence prior to obtaining a certain degree of human knowledge. When a sufficient degree of light is received, so that our obligations to God are understood, and one obligation to him is known, and a voluntary purpose is formed to obey him in that duty as he requires, the yielding to him in that act of obedience involves all the principles producing true loyalty to God, and requires as full submission to him, and as fixed a purpose, as it would to obey in a thousand acts. The first act of exercising saving faith produces a true christian character and just as pure a quality of holiness as can be produced, but less in volume; for the revealed knowledge by which it was produced extended to but one requirement of God. But as that knowledge increases, and the understood commandments are multiplied, and the same obedience extends to all, the same status of purity continues, while the sphere of action is greatly enlarged; and as the moral character extends to all, holiness must be greatly extended, while its quality remains the same.

God's holiness is infinite because his knowledge is unlimited; and every act produced by it is designed for and results in the benefit of all connected. Man's holiness is limited and progressive as long as his knowledge of heavenly things is limited and he is a learner in the school of Christ. The expression of the apostle—"perfecting holiness in the fear of God," evidently conveys the idea of extending, enlarging it by enlarging our knowledge of and obedience to God, and our usefulness in saving lost men. He expressed the way of perfecting holiness when he said—"Let us cleanse ourselves from all filthiness of the flesh and spirit"; that is, cease to follow the example and habits of those who abuse their persons in eating, drinking, and many other pernicious practices, and also in ceasing to religiously associate with "unbelievers" and idolatrous worshipers, which produces defilement of spirit; but to be separate from all of these, and be joined to the Lord to follow his Word and Spirit. All these habits and associations are not changed at once, for men are too weak to comprehend all the truth at the beginning; but God deals it out to them as they are able to receive it. Good christians practice some things, for a time, with perfect innocence, which afterward by increased light is shown to be wrong; and if it be corrected holiness is enlarged or matured.

J. C.

(To be continued.)

QUERY.

I wish to ask if the word "wind," in Job 7: 7, is from ruach in the Hebrew; also if the word life is from nephesh.

W. S. MCFARLAND.

Job 7: 7 reads—"O remember that my life is wind." "Wind" is from ruach. The word "life" in this passage is from the Hebrew word ghah'y, corresponding with the Greek word zoe, in the New Testament. The word first occurs in Gen. 1: 20, and reads—"God said, Let the waters bring forth abundantly the moving creature that hath [ghah'y] life." The word is eight times applied to the animal creation before the formation of man.

We have seen it stated somewhere, that when "life" is from zoe, the corresponding Greek word, it does not mean animal life, but applies only to the righteous, and means the happy life of the saved. If this be true, how would those holding such a view harmonize it with the following texts: "And the Lord God said unto the serpent, Because thou hast done this, thou art cursed above all cattle, and above every beast of the field; upon thy belly shalt thou go, and dust shalt thou eat all the days of thy life." Gen. 3: 14. The word life, in this passage, is from the Hebrew ghah'y, and the Greek zoe. Does it mean all the days of his happy life? Again we read in Gen. 3: 17—"And unto Adam he said, Because thou hast hearkened unto the voice of thy wife, and hast eaten of the tree of which I commanded thee, saying, Thou shalt not eat of it; cursed is the ground for thy sake; in sorrow shalt thou eat of it all the days of thy life." Life in this verse is from the same word. Does it mean all the days of Adam's happy life? In Gen. 6: 17, we find the same word again. "And behold, I, even I, do bring a flood of waters upon the earth, to destroy all flesh, wherein is the breath of life, from under heaven; and every thing that is in the earth shall die." Does it mean the breath of the happy life? their spiritual life? or does it mean their natural life?

The fact is, the word, like psukee, or nephesh, is applied indiscriminately to all living beings. It is first applied to man in Gen. 2: 7—"And the Lord God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life; and man became a living soul." The word is rendered both life and living in this passage.

In Gen. 6: 17, already noticed, it will be observed that "all flesh" destroyed by the flood had the same "breath of life"—zoe.

When speaking of all the animals that went into the ark, it is expressed as follows: "And they went in unto Noah into the ark, two and two of all flesh, wherein is the breath of life." Gen. 7: 15. Here the word life is also from the Hebrew ghah'y, and the Greek zoe, and applied to all the animals in the ark. Further evidence is not needed to show that zoe has no peculiar meaning, implying spirituality, or moral character, any more than psukee. Both are alike applicable to men and animals. M. G.

"GOSPEL SONGS."

"A choice collection of Hymns and Tunes, New and Old, for Prayer Meetings, Sunday Schools, etc."

This is a new book that has had a large sale at our campmeetings this season, and contains some very choice pieces:—"When Jesus Comes," "More to Follow," etc., etc. For sale at this Office. Price, 35 cts. per copy; $3.60 per dozen by express; by mail, 40 cts. per copy. AGENT.

WEAKNESS.

Many churches in the various denominations are becoming weak; not financially, or in numbers, but in vital godliness, and holy living. They are losing their power for good. They are like Samson shorn of his locks,—weak as other men. A church, or individual, that is not energized by the power of the Holy Spirit, is like a natural man without the "breath of life." What is true of other denominations, may be said of our own: there is weakness, a lack of vitality. Many are obliged to confess they are not free in Christ. Where is the remedy? In the language of the editor of the Christian Standard, we may truthfully say:

"Nothing will save us from being fatally shorn of our strength but a general revival of personal holiness in the ministry and membership. Nothing else will prevent rapid degeneracy, and restore to us primitive simplicity and power."

Though the foregoing was written for another denomination, it is also applicable to Adventists. As a body, we need a fresh baptism of the Holy Spirit, in order that we may go forth with new vigor in the service of the Lord, to arouse the people to a thorough preparation for the coming of Christ. No class of people have so strong reasons for being fully alive in Christian work, as those who are looking for the speedy coming of Jesus. Dullness and stupidity should have no room in our hearts. All should be on the altar, to be disposed of as may be pleasing to the Lord.

Those who wish to make an entire surrender, may see the road in the following from the Christian Standard:

"The factors employed in the calculation are, on the one hand, the promises of God, the efficacy of the blood, and the potency of the Holy Ghost. On the other hand, the conditions are absolute renunciation of sin, full and irrevocable consecration to Jesus, and the exercise of unquestioning faith. On these premises as upon solid rock, seekers of holiness "lift up holy hands without wrath and doubting." They meekly accept the wonderful challenge from the lips of God: "Come and let us reason together, though your sins be as scarlet they shall be as white as snow; though they be red like crimson they shall be as wool."

Is it not high time to give candid and serious attention to these things? Lukewarmness is too cold to give satisfaction. A warm, fresh experience is needed. Peace and joy experienced twenty-five years ago, was valuable then, but does not satisfy now. None should rest without the present, continual witness of the Holy Spirit, that they are abiding in Christ, abounding in "perfect love," and all ready to depart "when Jesus comes." M. G.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

It is well known that the Catholics are decidedly opposed to Protestant schools, and demand an independent system of education for their children, including a d[illegible] share of public money for their schools. This question has been agitated for some years, and the feeling on the subject continues to increase. The Catholics are laying large plans to obtain the political, and consequent religious control of this country. If Jesus was not soon coming, we might expect a success on the part of the Catholics.

Cardinal Manning, of London, one of the Pope's most noted men, has spoken plainly on the subject of schools. He is one of the most zealous defenders of the Pope's infallibility. He recently made a speech in Liverpool, of which the reporter says in the New York Times, Sept. 10th, 1875:

"He did not fail to tell his audience that of all the questions that would come before them as good Catholics, that of public education was by a long way the most important. Speaking with Papal authority, he pronounced it a vital necessity that more influence should be obtained over the public schools. The object, he says, will brook no delay. To secure an education which shall everywhere be 'Christian, religious, and Catholic,' should be, according to his declaration, the first duty of every man who has a vote. He admitted that unless children are trained to grow up as Catholics, they will not become Catholics. Protestant education is the most powerful lever against the spread of Romanism, and it must be checked. Control must be obtained of the public schools, so that children shall hear nothing of Protestant heresies. The war must be waged at once. Every effort, without scruple, must be used to stop the progress of Protestant teaching, and of secular teaching guided by Protestants. This is the first political duty of Catholics, before which all others sink into insignificance. So it has been decreed by the Pope, and so it must be; for the Pope is infallible, incapable either of uttering falsehood or of misleading the faithful who are committed to his charge.

By reasoning such as this, Cardinal Manning laid before the Roman Catholics of England the imperative nature of the duty that now devolves upon them. But his remarks apply not to England only. The policy of the Pope is the policy of the Roman Catholic church everywhere. We have seen long enough how the same policy is being acted upon in this country. But the movement against the public schools here has been largely of a surreptitious character. It has been ably and persistently followed, but it has not been thus openly avowed. Now the avowal comes, not only from one of the highest dignitaries of the church, but from that one who, of all outside of the Vatican, has the repute of being most favored by the Roman Pontiff." M. G.

COVENTRY CENTRE (R. I.) CAMP-MEETING.

A ten days meeting, from Sept. 8th to 18th. The grove is very pleasantly situated, abont ten minutes walk from Coventry depot. A quiet feeling crept over us on entering the encampment. I think it not all imagination, for the place had before this been sanctified by prayer and the assembly of the saints. The large, new Massachusetts Mission Tent, under the care of Bro. I. I. Leslie, made quite an addition to the meeting this year. Under it sinners were converted, backsliders reclaimed, and believers sanctified more fully for the Master's work. Bro. Leslie's earnestness in laboring for the salvation of sinners and backsliders was manifest, not only in his labors in meetings, and in personal conversation, but in his serious face and deportment. Both preaching and social meetings were excellent. The meetings in the Mass. Mission Tent were mostly devoted to the salvation of sinners, with the exception of a 1 P. M. Consecration meeting, conducted by Mrs. A. E. Bennett. To those quiet holiness meetings hungry souls flocked for food.

A few christians from other denominations came into the meetings from time to time, taking a part while with us. A Free will Baptist preacher, from Providence, Elder Crook, preached once from the stand. Bro. A. A. Phelps, of the Bible Banner, was with us two days, preaching two excellent sermons. Bro. H. L. Hastings spent one day with the people, and gave a sermon on the study of the Bible from more than a score of texts. It seemed good to hear his voice again. Many regrets were expressed because Bro. Hastings is about to take his departure to the old world. May God bless him in his "work of faith, and labor of love, and patience of hope." Elders Simpson, Flagg, Tucker and Woodside preached several times. The help from these brethren from abroad was much in the Lord.

West Killingly, Ct. V. P. SIMMONS.

TENT-MEETING REPORT.

The tent-meeting commenced at Haverhill, Grafton Co., N. H., Wednesday evening, Sept. 1st, according to notice, with very small attendance. At the first meeting there were only about forty present. There has been very much prejudice in this section, partly on account of former preaching, and other reasons; but from the beginning prejudice began to give way, and the meeting increased in numbers and interest until it closed, Sunday, Sept. 12th, when there were at least one thousand people present.

The church has been greatly strengthened, and desired to have a deeper work of grace; in fact, consecrated all to the Lord. Have seen that without holiness no man shall see the Lord. Thirty-one started for the kingdom, among these are some who have never made a start before. Five were baptized the last Sunday, and "more to follow." One man was baptized, who has been palsied for seven years, and has had no use of his lower limbs. He is as helpless as a child, and had to be carried into the water. This scene left a very solemn impression on the people. He thought this ordinance would help him, and I am informed he is better. To God give all the glory forever and ever.

The meeting has been a success in every particular. From this meeting, we went to North Haverhill, and had a meeting Monday night. It was a full house, and good interest. Four desired to become christians, by coming forward for prayers. We think that if the right kind of an effort could be made at this place, much good would be done. It's too late for hobbies and side issues. The harvest is ripe. Just a little longer to work.

R. F. & M. J. CLARK.

A REQUEST.

Dear Brn. and Srs.:—My dear wife is in Gorham, N. H., very sick, and I ask the dear ones in Jesus scattered abroad to pray for her. Last year when she was thought to be near death's door, I requested prayers for her through the Crisis, and she recovered soon; and now again I appeal to the faithful in Christ Jesus. Will you remember her to our Father, and ask him to heal her? I start to see her next Tuesday, and pray that I may find her better. She loves the blessed hope, and wants to live till His coming. Your Bro. in deep tribulation,

O. F. GOODWIN.

Colletsville, N. C., Sept. 18th.

MECHANIC FALLS CAMPMEETING.—Our heavenly Father favored us with beautiful weather throughout the entire meeting. The gathering was not large, like that of Springfield or Alton Bay, but enough to secure the presence of the Holy One, which made the place a hallowed spot.

The preaching was clear and pointed, and accompanied with the Spirit of the Highest. The prayer-meetings were fraught with interest, and some thirty requested prayers, some of whom were blest, and four were buried in the likeness of Christ's death.

Good order prevailed, and everything contributed to make the meeting a very pleasant and profitable one. W. H. MITCHELL.

SR. E. MARSTON writes from Ashland, N. H.:—"I have been examining the evidences of Christ's soon coming for some time, and am convinced that we shall soon see that very same Jesus that was taken up into heaven. In connection with this subject, the necessity of entire consecration to God suggests itself. Without holiness of heart, no one can reasonably expect to dwell with Jesus. Merely believing will not save us. One may be sound upon doctrinal points, and yet be finally rejected when Jesus comes. I am striving to put away all malice, evil speaking and wrath, believing that it is now high time to awake out of sleep, and get on the whole armor of God."

THE TRACT FUND.

THE ADVENT CHRISTIAN PUBLICATION SOCIETY, at a meeting on Springfield camp-ground, August 11th, 1875, voted to raise Two Thousand Dollars for the free distribution of Tracts the ensuing year; and they invite the help and co-operation of all lovers of the Lord and of his truth, in the furtherance of the good cause. The times are ominous of coming events, and admonish us to diligence in the Master's work. The Lord is at the door, and what we do must be done quickly. Let the contributions be prompt, hearty, and liberal. The Lord will reward the liberal giver.

A. W. SIBLEY, Sec. Adv. Chris. Pub. Soc.

Remittances should be sent to the Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS, Boston Mass. or they may be enclosed with remittances to the Crisis Office.

DONATIONS FOR THE TRACT FUND.

Previous acknowledgments	$46 46
Coventry Campmeeting	1.00
Hiram Munger	3 00

POOR FUND.

TO SEND THE "CRISIS" TO THE POOR.

Previous acknowledgments	$6 90
E. W Starratt	8 30
Levi Nutting	1.00

YOUNG PILGRIM FUND.

AMER. ADV. MISSION SOCIETY.

Donations are earnestly solicited, to enable this Society to send out missionaries, and other means, into the Southern States, and elsewhere, as the Lord may open the door, to proclaim "the glad tidings of the kingdom at hand"; and should be sent, as also payments of pledges made, to the

Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS,

P. O. Drawer 5002, Boston, Mass.

who will acknowledge the same in the columns of the Crisis.

Aug. 6th, 1875, and onward.

Previous acknowledgments	$1000.63
R. R. Holbrook	3 00
Hiram Munger	2 00
Levi Nutting	1.00
Coventry Campmeeting	1 00

Correspondence

From Bro. J. J. Smith.

I send the following letter from Eld. Geo. M. Prime, of El Dorado, Ark. He has been doing a good work in his region for about three or four years. He is about seventy-five years of age; is infirm, cannot get away from home very much, but is ever doing what he can to spread the true light. I hope he may still be supplied with papers and tracts with which to do good. If the Lord opens the way, I hope to visit his section, and preach the word to that people, sooner or later.

Long Island, Ala., Sept. 13th, 1875.

"ELD. J. J. SMITH:—Dear Bro.,—The publishers of the Crisis and the Times still continue to send me those two papers, and they are all the truth, as preaching, I can get. I give away all these papers, and also many packages sent me from the East. They are doing good, and the readers inquire for them as they see me in town. I wish to acknowledge two several packages of second-hand papers—Times, Crisis, Banner and Christian, amounting to thirty or forty cents postage, paid on each package, with no clew to who sent them, but on the margin is the print occasionally of J. Frost, S. Studio. I am very grateful for these papers and tracts that some time (eight or nine months) ago were sent me. I have enjoyed myself greatly with much satisfaction in carefully distributing them where I thought they would do the most good.

Those papers and tracts have done much good. The old hatred of orthodoxy is much softened by the report of the people, who have read them. They say that they carry a clear tone of religious purity on their pages. What is wanted now in this vast unoccupied territory is two or three live Advent preachers. Brn. J. J. Smith and Cargile would fill the bill first rate, I think, as I have read their reports of success in other quarters. The people generally are looking for some great disaster in the near future.

A revival has broken out in the Baptist church here (El Dorado), and some twenty or twenty-five have united with that sect; and they offer me a place within their ranks, but I decline, stating to them that I belong to the church of Christ. I feel as though I ought to have some church connection, so that I can have a communion now and then. The Baptists turn the cold shoulder to me now, and I should feel lonely, were it not for the two visiting preachers—the Times and Crisis. O, they are a great comfort to me. I wish I had more tracts and second-hand papers to give away. Dear Bro., cannot you come down here, and wake up the people as to the near coming of Christ?

Yours in Christ, GEO. M. PRIME."

From Bro. R. B. Currier.

It was my privilege to see Messrs. Moody and Sankey at Northfield, Mass., last Sunday all day, and Monday and Tuesday evenings, and to hear Mr. Moody preach. I believe he is a child of God from head to foot. The Spirit of God seems to radiate from him, and you feel its quickening and blessed influence while you listen to his preaching. He is a short, fleshy, plain-looking man. His delivery is plain and pointed. He is thoroughly in earnest, and presents the gospel message in its simplicity and beauty, and tries to draw his hearers to Jesus by showing them his love as manifested toward them. He preaches without notes, and after reading his text, usually shuts his Bible, and speaks rapidly, usually quoting Scripture without referring to his Bible. His illustrations are very apt, and he acts as if he loved God and sinners more than anything else. Mr. Sankey seems to preach by singing. His music is soul music, not studied or artistic. It has a great effect upon the audience, and he seems to try to draw the unconverted to Jesus. However men may criticize their methods of labor, we cannot deny that God is with them. Now I believe that the promises of God are as good to-day as they ever were, and that he is ready and willing to save sinners.

There are some Advent brethren who believe we may not expect many conversions now. They argue that the day has gone by for a pentecostal shower; what we need is to be rooted and grounded in our doctrines, and let the poor sinners take care of themselves. "O!" they say, "preach the truth, and if men will not be converted by hearing the truth preached (as we believe it), why, let them alone, for there is no hope for them, except they believe the truth." I thank God that his promises are broad, and that he will not confine himself to saving only "Advent believers," but that all who believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, in sincerity, will be saved. Away with such narrow views of God's love. It has brought too many divisions, separations, and coldness among us. What does Christ say in John 3: 16? Let us quote it: "For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life." Blessed text. Let us remember it.

I regret to say that I know of christians who never act or seem to care whether their fellow men are saved or not; and yet you will hear them speak of the joy and comfort they have in the blessed promises of God, and in the views they hold. This is well as far as it goes; but let us come up higher, and pray earnestly that sinners may come to Jesus, and enjoy these blessings too. Let us get rid of sectarianism, and enter into a broader position before God, and thank him for the good Messrs. Moody and Sankey have done, and pray for their success in the future; for it is to the glory of God they work. May God raise up many who shall preach the gospel to the people as they preach it; and may our hearts be enlarged so much that we shall love Christians of all denominations, and realize that they are our brethren and sisters indeed. Let us remember the instructions to Peter on this point. All christians should be united in spirit, as one man, for we need this concentration when we see the present state of affairs in our world. May God bless this letter, is the wish of your Bro. in Christ.

Springfield, Mass.

THE TRIAL OF ADAM.

The trial of man was a necessity of his nature as a created moral agent, for otherwise his moral character could not be formed. Holiness was not otherwise attainable. It was the only path to moral perfection and improvement of condition. In all trial there is hazard; for the liberty essential to voluntary obedience, renders its possessor liable to sin; and man by his very nature was capable of either.

Hence Adam was placed in a state of trial, corresponding to the requirements of his nature and the relations he sustained in the covenant of works, and the result of his trial would be his confirmation in the dominion of the world by his obedience, or dethronement because of transgression.

Some have supposed that man might have been so constituted and situated as to have ensured holiness either by or without trial; and that the world might have been made in a state of absolute perfection. But this is an erroneous supposition. The doctrine of the Bible is that GOD created the world and all things in it in a very good condition; one exactly adapted to the end in view, and fit for the residence and discipline of a sinless and yet untried moral agent: a condition therefore susceptible of being improved, and intended to be improved if man should by voluntary obedience confirm himself in uprightness, but liable to deterioration if man should transgress.

In man himself was implanted a desire for improvement, an upward tendency, designed to operate as a strong motive to obedience so long as he retained confidence in the goodness of God and the wisdom of the divine plan; but which would, on the contrary, become a motive to transgression should distrust of God be generated in his mind, and some other plan appear more feasible.

We know not how long the trial of Adam would have continued before he would by obedience have become established in holiness; but it must have been long enough to have attained that end. It might have required years, or only months. It is not probable that a single test would have been sufficient. It was possible to fall by the first temptation to evil, while it might require long endurance to mature the mind in obedience and become immoveable in holiness. There are reasons to suppose that man spent many pure and happy days in his first estate before he yielded to temptation and disobeyed God. It must have required some time for the inspection and naming of all the animals which were made to pass before him in consecutive order. And as the first sacrifice offered for sin, on the day of his transgression, was a lamb, it must have been some months after the creation before that sacrifice became necessary by the introduction of sin. He had therefore not only a correct knowledge of his nature, relations and duties, but he must have acquired an experience of good arising from daily obedience to God and intercourse with God. He was not a novice, unaware of his danger; nor so inexperienced as to fall an easy prey to temptation. His strength was proportioned to his trial, and if he sinned the fault would be his own.—Watch Tower.

THE GREAT ECLIPSE.—On the 29th of this month—which, by the way, happens to be the date of the Republican State Convention, although the two facts have nothing to do with each other—there will occur one of the most beautiful eclipses of the sun ever afforded to the gaze of the learned or the unlearned. It will be annular, or ring-like, caused by the shadow of the moon thrown on the sun, not being large enough to cover the surface af the latter, but leaving at the middle period of the eclipse a ring of light outside of the total shadow. This annular phase will be visible throughout a belt of land running across the Eastern States of the Union, beginning its northern border at sunrise on the shore of Lake Ontario and extending eastward to a point five miles south of Portland, Me., and with its southern and parallel border beginning near Ithaca, N. Y. and running to Duxbury, Mass. This belt is about one hundred and ten miles in width. The middle of it, of course, will give the annular appearance most perfectly—the observer on each side, as he goes toward the edges, finding the eclipse having more and more the appearance of a crescent. The phenomenon occurs in the morning at sunrise. An astronomer says: "Every object will have, or rather would have, if the sun were higher, a yellow, sickly, deathly appearance, which can only be appreciated when seen." This is one of the eclipses which has long been carefully observed. At each recurrence it passes about sixty miles further south, and it will finally pass off the earth at the South Pole after having appeared seventy-seven times from its first appearance at the North Pole, occupying 1388 years. After this it will not touch the earth, but will take place in space till after the lapse of 12,492 years, when it will touch the earth again at the North Pole as before. That, however, is a matter of but little popular interest.

MOODY AT NORTHFIELD.—Mr. Moody continues his revival work at Northfield, and draws very large crowds to hear him—many coming from a great distance. He is listened to with the deepest interest, and his words impress and move his audience in a remarkable manner. A correspondent who heard him on Sunday writes of the effect of his work thus far as follows:

"The church was full, and that has seldom been the case during the past dozen years, since the unfortunate division in the society on the matter of selling the pews. The preciousness of such a season to such a people cannot be overestimated. The old wounds have been healed, and long estrangements are forgotten. Among the young converts are a number of the old residents who, before Mr. Moody's coming, had not been in the church for a decade. One of the most conspicuous conversions is that of a prominent business man over fifty years of age; a man of wealth, but a notoriously profane man. He is a leader in the town, a man of the kind that you can always tell where they are. Outspoken, bluff, hearty and profane. He attended Sunday school to-day, and broke down during the singing of an old hymn familiar to his childhood. He wept like a boy, and he was not ashamed of it either, not he! He had taken two days to consider the matter, having attended the meetings and having become interested. Mr. Moody's business way of putting the subject had caught his attention, where forty ministers had failed to do so. It is worth something to have such a man come out and boldly tell his old associates that he 'is as far for God now as he was for the devil before.' This man is not alone. We heard to-day of another prominent business man over fifty years of age, who has also come out emphatically 'on the side of the Lord and Bro. Moody.' Of course it is impossible to say just how many have met with a change of heart during this revival, for the number of those almost persuaded is large, but there is every reason to believe that among the North Church people alone there are already over twenty converts fully persuaded and beyond the slightest hesitation. The homely words of a big, brawny farmer to his son as they two drove away from the church to-night ahead of us are quite true, and may be taken as very just testimony of a more or less general application: 'I tell you what, Jim, I think that man has done me a good deal of good, that's what's the matter.'"—Boston Journal.

Obituaries.

KENT. In Ascott, P Q, Aug. 5th, 1875, Sister Louisa, wife of Bro. Blaisdel Kent, aged fifty-five years.

Sr. Kent was eminently a christian. In the family circle and everywhere her "light" shone clearly and steadily, and she devoted herself to her life duties with unwavering fidelity. Added to her many other cares and burdens, some twelve years ago her husband was stricken down with paralysis, and became as helpless as an infant; and in his helplessness it has been our sister's duty and pleasure to minister to his wants, so that in her last moments the thought of leaving him was the only one that made her leave-taking hard; but she resigned him and all her interests to the care of her Father above, and amidst excruciating pains trusted in Jesus in her last days, enjoying the prayers of those who came in to pray, saying, "I can endure prayers if I can any thing." And so she fell asleep, giving the brightest evidence that she will come forth to immortality in the resurrection morning—

"Where will be no dying,
No more pain, no sighing,
And with Jesus' saints will reign."

Sermon by the writer. Text, Job 19: 22-26.
L. C. MCKINSTRY.

BROWN. In East Kingston, N. H., Sept. 14th, Anna Ellen, wife of Rufus Brown, aged sixty-three years.

Sr. Brown experienced religion and was baptized about twenty years ago. Some time after she received an enlargement of mind and fuller blessing of salvation, and has since been walking in the commands of the Lord. She was at Alton Bay through the whole of the late campmeeting, where many will remember her warm and hearty exhortations. After a brief illness of nine days she died, and now rests in hope. During her sickness she said she was "sweetly resting in Jesus." Funeral services on the 16th by Rev. J. J. Miller, East Somerville, Mass.
A. R. BROWN.

ELDEN. In Buxton, Me., Aug. 12th, 1875, Charles, son of Bro. Wm. and Sr. Sarah Elden, aged five years and three months.

Also, Sept 3d, Emma Jane, aged seven years and four months.

Also, Sept. 11th, Annie D., aged about eleven years.

Thus in one short month have this dear brother and sister been bereft of three of their tender offspring. Never did we more fully realize the cheering effects of the resurrection hope than in the case of these believing parents, for, without a murmur, with hearts riven with anguish, they laid them down to rest, rejoicing the time was so soon to come when they would again clasp them in their arms. May the God of all grace continue to comfort and cheer them, and bring the entire family to his heavenly kingdom at last.
W. H. MITCHELL.

SNELL. In Haverhill, Mass., Sept 7th, Georgie, son of John C. and Nellie Snell, aged seven years, six months, seventeen days.

Words of comfort were spoken by the writer, from Matt. 2: 17, 18. What a sad hour in the stillness of night, while our beloved Bro. and Sr. sat by the bedside of their only child, and

"Those sweet, loving eyes
They closed at night,
'Mid sorrow's bitterest tears,
Will be beaming bright
In that morn of life,
Untouched by the frost of years."

D. M. LEAVITT.

ROGERS. In Bethel, Vt., Aug. 5th, 1875, Bro. A. Rogers, aged sixty-seven years.

He died in peace, and sleeps in Jesus.

FOREIGN NEWS.

TURKEY.

KRAGNJOWATS, Sept. 20. Advices from Bosnia report an engagement yesterday between 2500 Insurgents and a Turkish brigade, which resulted in the retreat of the Turks. The insurrection continues to spread.

The Daily News correspondent at Vienna telegraphs that the Turks now have a force of 48,000 men concentrated on the frontier of Servia.

DOMESTIC NEWS.

New York, Sept. 20. It is calculated that there are 5000 horses suffering in some degree from colds and sore throats at the present time in New York and vicinity, the symptoms being precisely those manifested when the epizootic first showed itself. Most of the private stable proprietors acknowledge that their horses are also affected. As near as can be ascertained there are now laid up over 2000 suffering from the disease and unfit for duty.

New Orleans, Sept. 21. The town of Matagorda is swept away. Only two houses remain standing. The town of Cedar Lake is washed away and all the people are lost.

A public meeting of the citizens was held this evening. It was largely attended. Many liberally subscribed to aid the Indianola and other sufferers. A steamer will leave here to-morrow morning with provisions and clothing.

Information received from East Bay states that the suffering among the people is terrible. Out of twenty-eight human beings, five are known to be alive.

THE EQUINOCTIAL IN TEXAS.—A special direct from Galveston, dated the 19th, says: Wednesday morning the wind began blowing from the northeast, forty miles per hour, forcing the water into the street from to a depth varying from one to four feet, covering nearly half of the island. Thursday the wind changed to the south, when the water from the gulf came across, adding to that from the bay. The waves came eight feet high. On the southeast end of the island houses were driven one and two blocks from their their former localities. Some two hundred small buildings were thus moved. Fifty were completely demolished. The street cars were carried a block, and the tracks were washed out. The cotton presses, one church and three larger buildings were unroofed. The English ship Australian is badly beached. She now lies in only six feet of water. She draws seventeen feet. The Government works on the bar are damaged, several men also being drowned. The railroad on the island is badly torn up. The track is twisted and culverts washed out. It will take two weeks to repair the bridge over the bay. Everything is clear and pleasant to-day. Friday morning the wind veered and drove the water from the bay and land, into the Gulf which in its rush cut a channel across nearer the city, of what depth is not known.

It is rumored to-day that the rush of water increased the depth on the bars considerably. Soundings will be taken to-morrow. Reports from a radius of sixty miles represent the storm as doing general damage. The telegraph wires on the coast west are down. It causes anxiety as to Indianola, Corpus Christi and Brownsville. Friday morning the wind changed into the northwest and ceased, after three days steady blow. Passengers report that from one-half to three-fourths of Galveston Island was submerged, and estimate the damage at not less than a million of dollars.

Notices.

Notice.

The Quarterly Conference of the Eastern District of Massachusetts will be held at the Advent Chapel, Lawrence, Mass., to commence Thursday evening, Oct. 7th, and continue over Sunday, the 10th.

It is desired that all the preachers of Eastern Mass. and as many of the brethren and sisters of the churches as can, may attend. An invitation is also extended to all others who may esteem it a privilege or duty to meet with us in this christian convocation. Let all pray for the divine blessing.
J. COUCH.

Notice.

The meeting of the Alton Bay Campmeeting Committee is postponed from Sept. 28th to October 6th.
J. COUCH.

NOTICE.—A quarterly session of the New Hampshire A. C. Conference will be held at Salisbury, South Village, commencing Thursday evening, Oct 7th, and hold over the following Sabbath. It is hoped that a number of our preachers and many brethren and sisters will be present. Elders Stockman, Ross and others are expected to assist in preaching the word. D. W. DAVIS, for Com.

Hoosick Valley Conference.

The annual meeting of the Hoosick Valley Conference will be held at Hoosick, N. Y., commencing Wednesday, Oct. 6th, 1875, to continue over the following Sunday. Let there be a rally of those interested in the return of our Lord to this earth, in all the country embraced in the territory of the Hoosick Valley Conference, to this annual feast. The church in Hoosick have kindly invited this annual session to be held with them. The friends in Hoosick will entertain and make comfortable all who come.

Let there be delegates appointed in all the churches and localities where meetings are held, that the state of things may be understood, and arrangements made to visit and hold meetings, etc. Do not fail to attend this meeting.

There will be teams at the depot to take those who come to the meeting free of charge. Purchase your tickets to Hoosick Corners, and take cars so as to arrive there on the noon trains. In the mean time let prayer be offered that God may graciously bless at this gathering of Immanuel's friends.
A. W. SIBLEY, President.
W. O HIGLEY, Secretary.

CONFERENCE NOTICE.—The annual conference of the Canada A C. Conference will be held in Hatley, P. Q., commencing Wednesday evening, Oct. 13th, and holding over the following Sabbath. Important business connected with the conference and campmeeting interests will be attended to, and all are urged to attend.
L. C MCKINSTRY, Sec. pro tem.

Connecticut A. C. Conference.

The Lord willing, this conference will meet at Plainville, Wednesday evening, Oct. 13th, and hold over Sunday, Oct. 17th. This is the annual meeting, and we hope to see a general gathering of preachers, delegates, and brethren and sisters interested, throughout the State. You expressed sympathy for the well being of the conference at our late campmeeting, and we trust it will now be practically endorsed. Thursday, Oct. 14th, is set apart for the transaction of conference business. Come promptly and attend to it, that the remainder of the time may be devoted to the preaching of the word and labor for the perishing.
SETH WOODRUFF, President.
O. D. WOODRUFF, Secretary.

Tent Meeting.

The Lord willing, the Conn. Mission Tent will be pitched in Tylerville, Conn., Wednesday, Sept. 29th, and remain over Sunday, Oct. 3d. Tylerville is in the town of Haddam, on the Connecticut river, below Middletown. Take cars on the Conn. Valley R. R. to Goodspeed's Station, or boat from Hartford to Goodspeed's Landing, the opposite side of the river, and cross over by ferry. Fare from Hartford by rail one dollar; by boat fifty cents. From Middletown fifty cents by either route. The tent will be pitched about one fourth of a mile from Goodspeed's Station. May the Lord bless the effort in this field of labor.
O. D. WOODRUFF.

NOTICE.—The annual session of the Advent Christian Conference of the Province of Quebec will be held at the "Old meeting house," in Hatley, P. Q., commencing Wednesday, Oct 6th, at one o'clock P. M., and continue over the following Sabbath. Eld. T. W. Piper, the Vice President of the New Hampshire Conference, is appointed delegate, and is expected to attend. Let written reports of churches, ministers, official members, and duly appointed delegates, be present in time, as a Vice President is to be elected, and other business done. Come in the right spirit.
CHAS. P. DOW, President.
E. C. ORCUTT, Secretary.

CONFERENCE.—The Nova Scotia A. C. Conference will hold its next quarterly session with the church at Bear Point, Barrington, commencing Thursday, Oct. 7th, at two P. M., and continue over the Sabbath. An invitation is extended to preaching brethren to come and aid in this meeting. Come all who can in the name of the Lord Jesus, and labor for the salvation of precious souls.
WM. HALLIDAY.

QUARTERLY MEETING.—The fourth quarterly meeting of the Kansas Central Advent Christian Conference will be held with the church on the Marais-des-Cygnes River, east of Arvonia, Osage Co., Kansas, on Saturday, Oct. 2nd, at 2 o'clock P. M., and will hold over Sunday. Brethren and sisters, and all who love Jesus, come; let us worship together. Let us sing glad anthems together to the Rock of our salvation. All are invited to come.
H. H. KLOCK, Secretary.

CONFERENCE.—The fourth session of the Maine Westerly Quarterly Conference will meet with the church at Brunswick (Yellow School-house), on Thursday evening, Oct. 7th, and hold over Sunday. Come, brethren and sisters, in the name of your Master, and work for the salvation of sinners.
H. D. REED, Pres.
H. S. MITCHELL, Sec.

Campmeeting.

The Advent Christian Campmeeting of Northern Kansas and Southern Nebraska will be held at Peach Creek, Washington Co., beginning October 7th, and continue over two Sundays. Come all that can. Make a sacrifice to come, and come filled with the spirit to work for God. Bring plenty of bedding, and all bring tents that can. Bro. and Sr. Clark will be present (D. V.), with a large missionary tent.

Committee: C. D. Potter, A. S. Field, J. W. Elliott, and Theodore Bedgar.

Brn. G. G. Godfrey, James Hayworth, F. O Cutler, J. S. Thorp, E. N. Bliss, James Page, R. F. Clark, Sr. Clark, and others, will be present to assist in preaching the word.

For additional information, address C. D. POTTER, Peach Creek, Washington Co., Kansas.

The Advent Christian Conference of Northern Kansas and Southern Nebraska will be held during the early part of the meeting. Per order of Committee.

Conference.

The next Annual Advent Christian Conference of Northern Pa. and Southern N. Y. will be held at Little Marsh, Tioga Co., Pa., commencing Thursday evening, Oct. 14th, and continuing over the following Sunday. We hope to see a general gathering of the friends of truth. Come in the name of the Lord. Ticket by railway from Corning (Tioga depot) to Middlebury. Teams will be at Middlebury to convey to Little Marsh.
E. C. COWLES, President.
A. H. BRIGGS, Secretary.

A CONFERENCE.—The Lord willing, there will be a conference in North Hermon, Me., in the Advent Chapel, about five miles from Bangor, on the avenue road, commencing Friday, Oct 1st, at two o'clock P. M., and continue over Sunday. Whoever will, let them come and worship the Lord. Hope he will send some of the preaching brethren to preach the word of life. In behalf of the brethren,
S. BRAGG.

CONFERENCE.—The Lord willing, there will be a conference in Wesley, Me., to commence Thursday, Sept 30th, at six o'clock P. M., and continue over the Sabbath. We extend the invitation to all who can come and meet with us, to advance the cause of truth and the salvation of sinners.
M. W. CORLISS.

THE Maine Mission Tent will be pitched at Frankfort, Me., Tuesday, Sept. 28th, and hold as long as thought proper. If the weather is rough, meetings will be held in the Advent Hall. Preachers and people are invited.
F. A. BAKER.

Appointments.

APPOINTMENTS MUST BE RECEIVED AS EARLY AS TUESDAY MORNING (as our paper goes to press about noon) to insure insertion for the coming week.

The following RESOLUTION was passed at the late meeting of the A. C. P. Society:—

"RESOLVED, That no appointments be published in the CRISIS henceforth for persons unknown to the Editorial Board (by which is understood the Editors, Editorial Committee, and Business Agent), unless satisfactory reference shall be given."

The Committee appointed by the Adv. Chris. Association, at its last Annual Meeting, to advise with the Editorial Board "in relation to the publication in the World's Crisis of the appointments of men unworthy of recognition as preachers," having attended to the duty assigned them recommended, and the Editorial Board have adopted, and ordered to be published, the following resolution:—

"RESOLVED, That when the Editorial Board is properly notified by any of our Churches or Ministers, or responsible persons by a written allegation that a certain minister, or ministers lack moral character, that they be instructed to notify such minister, or ministers, of the information received as a reason for withholding their appointments till after a proper trial and acquittal."

All communications in relation to this matter should be addressed to the Secretary of the Board—GEO. T. ADAMS, Boston, Mass.

Boston (Branch Chapel) 2029 Washington Street, (corner of Madison Street.)

Love Feast at 10½ a. m. Preaching at 3 and 7½ p. m. Prayer meeting Tuesday and Friday evenings.

BOSTON (Repository Hall) 712 Washington St., corner of Kneeland St.

Preaching at 10½ a. m. and 3 and 7 p. m. Sunday School at 1 30 p. m. Prayer meeting Wednesday evening.
E. Owen................Friday evening, Oct. 1st

EAST BOSTON (Central Hall, 152 Meridian Street.) Meetings every Sunday, at the usual hours, also prayer and conference meetings Wednesday and Friday evenings, at 7½ o'clock p. m.

CHARLESTOWN (HALL NO. 70 MAIN STREET.)
G. W. Brown................Sundays, Oct 31 and 10th
Wm. N. Pile................Sunday, Oct. 17th

Chelsea, Mass.
Preaching Sundays, at 10.30 A. M. and 3 P. M.
Conference Meeting at 7 o'clock Sunday evenings. Tuesday and Friday evenings, at 7¾ o'clock.

SOMERVILLE, Mass (Pilgrim Hall, Summer Street.) Meetings every Sunday, at the usual hours, also prayer and conference meetings Tuesday and Friday evenings, at 7½ o'clock p. m.
Geo. W Sederquest.......1st and 3d Sundays in each month till further notice.
B Emery................Sunday, Oct. 31st

HYDE PARK, Mass. (Connor's Hall.)—Meetings every Sabbath at the usual hours. T. M. PREBLE.

Brooklyn, N Y. (with Bro S. H Platt, Pastor of the church 466 De Kalb Avenue) Oct. 31, and onward.
MILES GRANT.

Tremont, Mass................Sundays, Oct. 3d and 10th
C. E. BARNES.

Hartford, Conn................Sunday, Oct. 3d
A. W. SIBLEY.

Lisbon, N H................Sunday, Oct. 31
Lake Village, N. H................Sunday, Oct 10th
S. S BREWER.

Plymouth................Sunday, Oct. 3d
New Bedford................Sunday, Oct. 10th
Tremont................Sunday, Oct. 17th
J. S. WHITE.

North Adams, Mass................Friday evening, Oct. 1st
Pit stown (if desired)................Saturday evening, Oct 2nd
Hoosick, N. Y................Sabbath, Oct. 3d
The three following evenings at liberty.
Hoosick Conference three days, Oct 7th, 8th, and 9th
Rutland, Vt................Sabbath, Oct 10th
Addison, Vt. (if desired) Tuesday and Wednesday, Oct 12th and 13th. Northam (if desired) Thursday evening. Bro Flagg proposes these two places. Please write him.
Castleton, Vt................Friday evening, Oct. 15th
Poultney, Vt................Sabbath Oct. 17th
Low Hampton, N. Y................Tuesday evening, Oct. 19th
Sandy Hill, N. Y................Wednesday evening, Oct 20th
Saratoga Springs, from Thursday evening over the following Sabbath, where Bro. Duran appoints.
New Bedford, Mass................Sabbaths, Nov 7th and 14th
The week evenings between where Bro. Davis appoints. The two following Sabbaths at liberty.
Direct to Chicopee Falls, Mass. H. MUNGER.

Fairhaven, Mass................Sunday, Oct 3d
Plymouth................Sunday, Oct. 17th
M. BATCHELOR.

Holden, Mass................Sunday, Oct. 3d
New Britain................Sunday, Oct. 10th
WM. N. PILE.

Hyde Park, Mass................Sunday, Oct. 10th
Plymouth, Mass................Sunday Oct. 31st
A. SIMPSON.

Erving, Mass. (at Bro. Weaver's)................Sunday, Oct. 31
Town Hall in the evening.
Greenwich, Mass. (Town Hall) Tuesday evening Oct. 12th, and through the week. GEO. A. STREETER.

Nevada, Ohio................Sabbath, Oct. 3d
K. MCCULLOCH.

East Weymouth................Sunday, Oct. 3d
New Britain, Conn................Sunday, Oct. 10th
W. S. CAMPBELL.

Gilmantown, N. H................Sabbath, Oct 3d
J. T. LIBBEY.

Cabot, Vt................Sunday, Oct. 17th
DANIEL D. PAGE.

Bradford, N. H. (Bush meeting-house)...Sun., Oct 31
A. S. WILLIAMS.

Strafford, N. H. (Robert's school house) Sun., Oct. 3d
Farmington Village................Sunday, Oct 10th
WM HODGE.

Canterbury, N. H. (as Bro. Tucker may arrange) evening Oct. 2d, and Sunday, Oct. 3d.
Epsom, N H (Marden's Corner)....evening, Oct. 23d
Chichester, N. H. (Pine Ground)....Sunday, Oct 24th
N. B. MCMURPHY.

Albany, N. H. (Great Intervale)...Sabbath, Oct 10th and onward as duty may demand. S. DINSMORE.

Chicago Ill................Thursday evening, Oct. 28th
Peach Creek, Kansas................Sunday, Oct. 3d
R. F & M. J. CLARK.

Great Falls................Sunday, Oct. 3d
Mayberry school-house................Sunday, Oct. 10th
Sebago (Lake school-house)................Sunday, Oct. 17th
MRS. H. S. CLARK.

Levant (at John Emerson's school-house) Oct. 6th, at seven o'clock p. m.
Hudson (at Bro Tozier's school house) Friday and Saturday, Oct. 8th and 9th, at two o'clock p. m., and over Sunday, the 10th. S. & L. W. BRAGG.

Northwood Narrows, N. H................Sunday, Oct. 3d
O. W. KIMBALL.

Pleasant Valley, N. H................Sunday, Oct. 10th
West Ossipee, N. H................Sunday, Oct. 17th
T. L. CHURCHILL.

West Lebanon, Me. (Gerrish school-house)...Oct. 3d
J. F. CHAMBERLIN.

Wilbraham, Mass................Sabbath, Oct. 3d
G. L. TEEPLE.

Hebron, N. H. (McClure school-house) Sun., Oct. 3d
East Holderness, N. H. (Stephen's meeting-house) Sunday, Oct. 10th.
Moultonborough, N. H. (at Bro. Hodgern's school-house) evening, Oct 16th.
Sandwich, N. H. (Vitum school-house) Sun., Oct. 17th
JOHN H. EVANS.

Northfield, N. H. (Oak Hill school-house) Sab., Oct 3d
Manchester, N. H................Tuesday evening, Sept. 28th
Hill, N. H. (Centre meeting-house) Sabbaths, Oct. 17th and 24th. SIMEON ROBY.

Lee, N. H. (as brethren may arrange)...Sun., Oct. 3d
Lake Village, N. H................Sunday, Oct. 17th
Meredith, N. H. (Dolloff Hall)................Sunday, Oct. 24th
West Alton, N. H. (Chapel)................Sunday, Oct. 31st
C. R. PARSONS.

Bristol, Ct................Sunday, Oct. 10th
Square Pond, Ct................Sunday, Oct 31st
P. S. BUTLER.

Square Pond, Conn................Sunday, Oct. 3d
I. B. POTTER.

Woodville, Conn. (in company with Bro. Glover) at the Methodist church, Sunday, Oct. 10th.
WM. J. RIPLEY.

Cabot. Vt................Sunday, Oct. 3d
Haverhill Corner (Sand Bank school-house) Sunday, Oct. 10th.
Piermont, N. H. (Town House)................Sunday, Oct. 17th
Piermont, N. H. (Clay meeting-house) Sun., Oct. 24th
A. GORDON.

Albany, N. H. (Bell school-house)................Sunday, Oct. 3d
Moultonborough Neck (Lower school-house) Sunday, Oct. 10th.
N. GLIDDEN.

Castleton, Vt................Sunday, Oct. 3d
R. MOSHER.

Porter, Me................Sunday, Oct. 31
Freedom (Advent Chapel)................Sunday, Oct. 17th
M. STEVENS.

East Haverhill, Mass................Sabbath, Oct. 3d
S. S. MOONEY.

North Fayston, Vt................Friday evening, Oct. 8th and over Sunday, the 10th.
Warren, Vt................Tuesday evening, Oct. 12th
L. H. BRIGHAM.

Brentwood................evening, Sept. 29th
Exeter................evening, Sept. 30th
Melvin Village, N. H................Sunday, Oct. 10th
E. OWEN.

Willand's Pond, N. H................Sunday, Oct. 3d
Milton (Three Ponds)................Sunday, Oct. 10th
Newcastle................Sunday, Oct. 17th
H. S. PINKHAM.

Stewartstown, N. H. (Bare Rock school-house) Sunday, Oct. 31.
Magog, P. Q (Pond school-house) Saturday evening Oct. 9th, and Sunday, the 10th.
Newville, Stanstead, P. Q................Sunday, Oct. 17th
Pittsburg, N. H. (Stream school-house) Sun., Oct. 24th
North Troy, Vt. (Baptist house) Sunday, Oct. 31st, and onward as the Lord may direct. Will Bro. Magoon meet with me? U. G. LADD.

Bristol, Ct................Sunday, Oct. 3d
Campville, Ct................Sunday, Oct. 10th
Morris, Ct................Sunday, Oct. 17th
W. TEFFT.

West Alton, N. H................Sunday Oct 3d
D. F. LEAVITT.

West Poland (Chapel)................Sabbath, Oct. 3d
Oxford, Richville................Sabbath, Oct. 10th
G. L. TRACY.

Meredith Neck, N. H................Sunday, Oct. 17th
Porter, Me................Sunday, Nov. 7th
LEVI ALLEN.

North Greenwich, N. Y................Sept. 30th
Fort Ann, N. Y........Oct. 2d and over the Sabbath
WM. J. BLANCHARD.

Enfield, N. H. Fox Hollow, Thursday eve., Sept 30th
Hanover N. H., Mountain Road (as Bro. Nelson Merrill may arrange) Friday evening. Oct 1st.
Dorchester, N. H. (Town House)....Sunday. Oct. 3d
JOS KIMBALL.

Limington, Me. (Hanscom school-house) Sun., Nov. 7th
J. L. CHUTE.

Haverhill Corner, N. H. (Sandbank school-house) Sunday, Oct. 3d. G. E. BROWN.

East Acworth, N. H................Sunday, Oct. 3d
Dorchester, N. H................Sunday, Oct 10th
Warren Summit................evening. Oct 12th
Piermont. N. H................evening, Oct. 13th
Haverhill N. H. (Brook Village)...evening. Oct 14th
Benton (where Brn may appoint)..evening, Oct. 15th
Haverhill (Brook Village)................Sunday, Oct 17th
J. B. S. PILLSBURY.

Montreal................Sunday, Oct. 3d
Danville................Tuesday evening, Oct. 12th
Costicook................evenings, Oct. 14th and 15th
Dixville................Oct. 16th, and Sunday, Oct. 17th
Kinney school-house................Oct. 19th
Wayville................evenings, Oct. 20th and 21st
Colebrook, N. H., eve., Oct. 23d, and Sun., Oct. 24th
West Poland, Me................Tuesday evening, Oct. 26th every evening, and over the Sabbath Oct. 31st.
Biddeford, Me................Tuesday evening, Nov 9th
Kennebunkport................Nov. 10th
Great Works................Nov 10th
Seabrook, N. H., Tuesday, Nov 16th, and other churches in the vicinity, as Bro Barton may arrange, till the 19th.
Salem, Mass................Sunday, Nov. 21st
ANNIE E. SMITH.

Charlton, Mass...........1st Sunday in every month
Southbridge, Mass...........4th Sunday in every month
SAM'L. AYRES.

Salem, Mass.......2d and 4th Sundays in each month until further notice. GEO. W. SEDERQUEST.

Granby, Ma (Batchelder Street) the second Sunday in each month.
North Rutland, Mass..the last Sunday in each month
GEO. A. STREETER.

Palmer, Mass., the 1st and 3d Sundays in each month
Granby, Mass................fourth Sunday in each month
H. H. TUCKER.

Franklin, N. H....2d and 4th Sunday in each month
G. H. WALLACE.

Hinesburg, Vt., Sundays for one year excepting the last Sunday in each month.
Bristol, Vt., the last Sunday in each month for one year. WM. C. STEWART.

MANCHESTER, N. H.—George H. Wallace having been chosen Pastor of the church of Manchester, will commence his pastoral labors the first Sunday in Oct.

HAVERHILL, Mass. (New Chapel on Walnut St.)
D. M Leavitt................Sunday, Oct. 3d
W. H. Mitchell................Sunday, Oct. 10th
C. S. Shattuck................Sunday, Oct. 17th
I. B. Potter................Sunday, Oct. 24th
A. Simpson................Sunday, Oct. 31st

NATICK, MASS.
E. Owen................Sunday, Oct. 3d
L. Boutell................Sunday, Oct. 10th
C Goodrich................Sunday, Oct. 17th

CHICOPEE FALLS, MASS.
A. Morse................Sunday, Oct. 3d

NEW BEDFORD, MASS.
F. H. Burbank................Sunday, Oct. 3d
J. S. White................Sunday, Oct 10th
A. W. Sibley................Sundays, Oct. 17th and 24th

CLINTON, MASS.
H. H. Tucker................Sunday, Oct. 31st

NORTH RUTLAND, MASS.
H. H. Tucker................second Sunday in each month

HAMPTON, N. H.
Enoch Morrill................Sunday, Oct. 3d
D. F. Leavitt................Sunday, Oct. 10th
Geo W. Brown (of So Elliot, Me.) Sunday, Oct. 17th
A Simpson................Sunday, Oct. 24th
C. Goodrich................Sunday, Oct. 31st
Wm. W. Sutherland................Sunday, Nov 7th
A. Ross................Sunday, Nov. 14th
J. F. Chamberlin................Sunday, Nov. 21st

EXETER, N. H.
W. M Harmon................Sunday, Oct. 3 l
Geo W. Sederquest................Sunday, Oct. 10th
B Woodside................Sunday, Oct. 17th
T. W. Piper................Sunday, Oct. 24th
W. M Harmon................Sunday, Oct 31st
W. W. Sutherland................Sunday, Nov. 14th
C. S. Shattuck................Sunday, Dec. 12th

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.
B. S. Emery................Sunday, Oct. 10th
Sr. Annie Smith................Sunday, Oct 3d
Wm. M. Harmon................Sunday, Oct 17th
E. A Stockman................Sunday, Oct. 24th
Jane Benson................Sunday, Oct. 31st
M. Batchelor................Sunday, Nov. 7th
Annie E. Smith................Sunday, Nov. 14th

SEABROOK, N. H.
J. Bickford................Sunday, Oct. 3d
T. W. Piper................Sunday, Oct. 10th
J. C. Smith........Sundays, Oct. 17th, 24th, and 31st
Sr. Annie Smith........Sundays, Nov 7th and 14th
Joseph Pinkham................Sunday, Nov. 21st
D. F. Leavitt................Sunday, Nov. 28th

CONCORD, N. H.
A. Ross................Sunday, Oct 3d
S. S. Brewer................Sundays, Oct. 17th and 24th

EAST CONCORD, N. H. (Ward House).—Meetings three times Sunday, also Tuesday and Thursday evenings
C. H. Fletcher................first Sunday in each month
D. W. Davis................third Sunday in each month

GREAT FALLS, N. H. (Franklin Hall.)
C. S. Shattuck................Sunday, Oct. 3l
C. Goodrich................Sunday, Oct. 10th
J. W. White................Sunday, Oct. 17th
L. E Saulpaugh................Sunday, Oct. 24th
J. Bickford................Sunday, Oct. 31st

NEW DURHAM, N. H.
T. W. Piper................Sunday, Oct. 3d

SABBATUS, ME. (Jones' Hall.)
R. R. York................Sunday. Oct. 3d
Jared Whitman................Sunday, Oct. 10th
H. D. Reed................Sunday, Oct. 17th

BANGOR, ME.
S. K. Partridge................Sunday, Oct 3d
F. A. Baker................Sunday, Oct. 10th
Each of the above will preach once in four weeks for the present.

BIDDEFORD, ME.
Jesse Gay................Sunday, Oct 3d
Geo. W. Brown................Sunday, Oct. 10th
Wm. H. Mitchell................Sunday, Oct. 17th
J. Albert Libbey................Sunday, Oct 24th
E. A. Stockman................Sunday, Oct. 31st

SOUTH BERWICK, ME. (Great Works.)
T. L. Churchill................Sunday, Oct. 3d
J. W. White................Sunday, Oct. 10th
Joseph Pinkham................Sunday, Oct. 17th
Geo. W. Brown................Sunday, Oct. 24th
C. S. Shattuck................Sunday, Oct. 31st

PORTLAND, ME. (Union Hall.)
E. A. Stockman................Sunday, Oct. 3d
K. S. Potter................Sunday, Oct. 31st
E. A. Stockman................Sunday, Dec. 5th

SOUTH ELLIOT, ME.
D. M. Leavitt................Sunday, Oct. 10th
J. L. Chute................Sunday, Oct. 17th
J. W. White................Sunday, Oct. 24th
L. Boutell................Sunday, Oct. 31st

LEWISTON, ME.
J. A. Libby................Sunday, Oct. 3d
C. Goud................Sunday, Oct. 10th

PUTNAM, CT.
C. Goodrich................Sunday, Oct. 3d
Sr. K. L. Crumb................Sunday, Oct. 10th
H. Pratt................Sunday, Oct. 17th
B. Woodside................Sunday, Oct. 24th
A. Durfee................Sunday, Oct. 31st

WOODSTOCK VALLEY, CT.
P. S. Butler................Sunday, Oct 3d
A. Morse................Sunday, Oct. 10th
P S. Butler................Sunday, Oct. 17th
C. Goodrich................Sunday, Oct 24th
Sr. E. L. Crumb................Sunday, Oct. 31st

PLAINVILLE, CT.
B. Hitchcock................Sunday, Oct 3d
R. K. Stark................Sunday, Oct. 10th
W. Tefft................Sunday, Oct. 24th
B. Hitchcock................Sunday, Nov. 14th

BRIDGEPORT, CONN.
Mrs. E. A. Warren........Sundays, Oct. 3d and 17th
Mrs. E. L. Crumb........Sundays, Oct. 24th, Nov. 7th, Dec. 5th, and Jan 1st.
Mrs. E. A. Warren................Sunday, Oct. 31st

NEW HAVEN, CONN.
S. Woodruff................Sunday, Oct. 3d
Wm. N. Pile................Sunday, Oct. 24th

WAREHOUSE POINT, CT.
Mrs. Jane Benson................Sunday, Oct. 3d

MILLDALE (Southington, Ct.)
G. L. White................Sunday, Oct. 3d
O. D. Woodruff................Sunday, Oct. 10th
R. K. Stark................Sunday, Oct. 17th
B. Hitchcock................Sunday, Oct. 31st

YALESVILLE, CT.
S. Woodruff................Sunday, Oct. 10th
Enoch Phelps................Sunday, Oct. 31

SOUTH WEST HOOSICK, N. Y.
Arthur A. Waite................once in four weeks
Flora Blanchard................once in four weeks

CHICAGO, ILL.—Green Street Tabernacle Church hold services in their Chapel on Green Street, near Madison Street, Chicago, Ill., every Lord's day, morning and evening. Prayer meetings in the Basement room of the Tabernacle every Wednesday and Friday evenings of each week. Brethren and sisters passing through Chicago are invited to call. All correspondents will write to L. C. RICE, 168 West Madison St.
FRANK BURR, Pastor.

CHICAGO, ILL.—The Advent Christian Church meets at their Hall, No. 213 West Madison St., every Lord's day. There will be preaching at 10½ a. m. and 7½ p. m.; prayer meeting every Thursday evening, at 7½ o'clock. All preaching brethren visiting, or passing through the city, and desiring to preach, will please correspond with Bro. H. P. WRIGHT, Board of Health, Chicago, Ill. H. P. Wright, R. P. Price, Elders.
ELD. H. G. MCCULLOCH, Pastor.

REMOVAL.—The Star of Hope Mission (late of 229 South 5th Avenue), has removed to 185 Spring Street, between Thompson and Sullivan Streets, to the large hall lately occupied by the City Mission. Services will be held on Sundays at 10½ 3 and 7½ o'clock. Class meeting Monday evenings, at 8 o'clock; prayer and conference Wednesday and Friday evenings, at 8 o'clock. MRS. ANNA E. SMITH, Sup't.

WORCESTER, MASS.

Union meetings, for the promotion of christian holiness, are changed from 379 Maine street to the Director's room of the Y. M. C. Association. Meeting held every Thursday evening, at 7½ o'clock.
G. E. MERRILL, Com.

PHILADELPHIA, PA. (Sunny Side Hall.)—Meetings every Sunday morning, afternoon and evening; also on Wednesday evening of each week, at the usual hours. Correspond with I. N. WILFONG, No. 135 North 22nd Street.

PHILADELPHIA, PA. (Adv. Chris. Church, Eighth Street, above Noble.

Meetings are held every Sabbath at 10½ A. M. and 7½ P. M. Prayer and conference meeting Friday evenings.
GEO. A. BROWN, Pastor.

STAR-BEAMS; OR, RAYS OF LIGHT.
BY J. W. THOMAS.

This is a new book of 363 pages, and is filled with stirring, practical, interesting articles. It is an excellent book to put in your Sabbath-school Library, or to give as a present to a friend. It contains something for all classes—saints, sinners, young, old, rich, poor, married, single, afflicted and prosperous. Every young christian should have a copy and read it carefully. No family should be without it. It talks of Jesus, of holy living, and the coming glory. It cannot fail to exert a healthful, saving influence wherever it is circulated. Who will help to spread it far and wide? Price $1.00. Direct to J. W. THOMAS, 12 Arnold Street, Providence, R. I. For sale at this Office.

THE BIBLICAL MESSENGER.

This monthly is well printed, and is a bold advocate of Bible truth. It gives prominence to holiness of heart, and the speedy return of Christ to resurrect the dead and set up his everlasting kingdom.

EDITORS: A. A. Hoyt, H. F. Carpenter, A. W. Sibley, Frank Burr, M. R. Phetteplace, C. Mendenhall. TERMS: Sixty cents a year. Agents wanted. Send for sample copies. Address the "Biblical Messenger," Waterbury, Vt.

The Biblical Messenger and World's Crisis will both be sent to one address for $2.60. Address all orders for both papers to World's Crisis, 160 Hanover Street, Boston, Mass.

THE TOBACCO PLUG AND CIGAR
shown in their true character, with some of their terrible results upon mankind.

From Zion's Herald:—"Rev. George Trask is in a fair way to have an efficient successor in Rev. I. C. Wellcome, of Yarmouth, Me. We have received a spirited tract from his pen, entitled, 'The Tobacco Plug and Cigar.' Its seventy-two pages are crowded with facts and figures, forming a terrible indictment against the foolish and vulgar habit and expensive indulgence of the use of tobacco. We wish it the widest circulation and the utmost success in its important mission."

From the Portland Transcript:—"Rev. I. C. Wellcome, of Yarmouth, Me., publishes a neat pamphlet of seventy-two pages, against the use of the 'The Tobacco Plug and Cigar,' being a friendly talk with those who use tobacco, with the hope of benefitting them in health, mind and money. It is a complete treasury of anti-tobacco argument and appeal. Sold for $10 per hundred, $1 50 per dozen, 15 cents single copy. Send order to the author." Sold at the Crisis Office.

UNION IN CHRIST.
AN ILLUSTRATED MONTHLY.

Thoroughly Christian, entirely unsectarian; devoted to the promotion of Christian union, holiness of heart and activity in the Master's work.

As one of the leading features of the paper it will advocate Union revival meetings in cities, villages, and rural districts, everywhere, as a means of uniting christians, promoting holiness, and saving souls. Able writers in the various denominations will contribute to its columns.

TERMS: Post-paid, single copy, 60 cts a year; 25 cts. to ministers of the Gospel, and any person who will solicit subscriptions. Ten copies one year for $4; thirty copies for $10; $1.00 a year, with Chromo or Bible Reader's Map.

This paper one year free, with any paper or book on our Clubbing List at publisher's prices, explained in sample copy sent free. Agents wanted everywhere. Address H. A. KING, Box 2289, 37 Park Row, New York.

The Crisis and Union in Christ a year, to old or new subscribers, remitting $2 50 to World's Crisis, 160 Hanover Street, Boston, Mass.

THE TOKEN OF TRUTH

is a four-page monthly paper, unsectarian in its character, devoted entirely to the spread of christian holiness, purity of heart, the higher experiences of the christian life, and an entire consecration and devotedness to God.

In every issue it will present valuable articles on the doctrine, the experience, and the practice of Christian Holiness, and will be the bearer of many blessed, inspiring, encouraging, and comforting messages to all God's children who are "hungering and thirsting after righteousness," and who are earnestly seeking "through sanctification of the Spirit and belief of the truth," to be made "perfect in Jesus Christ."

TERMS: Single copy, postpaid, 25 cts. per annum.
RICE & MORRIS, Publishers,
168 W. Madison Street, Chicago.

The World's Crisis and Token of Truth will be sent, postpaid, one year to any one remitting $2.40 to the Crisis Office, 160 Hanover Street, Boston.

A NEW WORK.
SATANIC SPIRITUALISM.

I have just published a work on Spiritualism, with the above title, containing 96 pp, 16 mo. It aims to establish the satanic character of spirit manifestations, both ancient and modern, and shows also that they are through demons instead of the spirits of the dead. These demons are shown to be the evil angels of Scripture, and to have their location in our atmosphere. The "familiar spirits" in the early Bible times, and the demons in the days of Christ and the early church, are shown to have the same general character which we find in the spirits of Spiritualism; while the phenomena in the Salem witchcraft, and several other occasions in modern times, are shown to have all the usual features of the reports of spirit manifestations in our day.

After noticing various instances of spirit manifestations in the past, the principles and doctrines of modern Spiritualism are given in numerous quotations from the spirits and leading Spiritualists, showing that they are every way blasphemous and anti-christian; and finally the tendency of popular religious teachings toward the doctrines of Spiritualism is shown to be fearfully manifest in all directions. While from its thorough treatment of the subject the work will prove invaluable to inquirers after truth, it will be found of especial service to ministers and others as a book of reference from its numerous quotations of authorities on various points.

I shall have the pamphlet on sale at my stand at Alton Bay campmeeting, and will fill orders for them at 20 cts single copy, six copies $1.00, by addressing me there during the meeting, or afterward at Burke, Vt. Those wishing larger quantities will be allowed a further reduction.
I. K. LOMBARD.

For sale at this Office.

"THE CHILD'S BIBLE QUESTION BOOK."
BY ELD. C. GOODRICH.

This is the title of a work just issued by the A. C. P. Society, designed for the small children in the Sabbath Schools and in the family. Just what we have long wanted. Price 10 cts. single copy; $1.00 per doz. sent by mail. AG'T.

THE FUTURE OF OUR PLANET
AS VIEWED FROM A
BIBLICAL STANDPOINT.
BY A. W. SIBLEY.

This is the title of a new Tract of 16 pages, issued by the A. C. P. Society. Just the thing to circulate widely. Price, 3 cents per copy; 20 cts. per dozen; $1.40 per hundred, by mail. AG'T.

Business.

Notes to Correspondents.

We cannot discontinue or send your orders, unless you give us the POST OFFICE and STATE in PLAIN LETTERS.

DR. D. MATHEWSON'S address is San Francisco, California.
R. F. & M. J. CLARK'S address is Peach Creek, Washington Co., Kansas.
WM. C. STEWART'S address hereafter will be Hinesburg, Vt.
J. C and S. E. SMITH'S address is Newton Upper Falls, Mass.
ELD J. PORTER'S address is Danville, P. Q.
H. G. McCULLOCK'S address is DeKalb, DeKalb Co., Ill.
A. GORDON'S address is Piermont, N. H.
C. MENDENHALL'S address is Norwalk, Huron Co., Ohio.
JOHN C. WRIGHT'S address is Montpelier, Vt.

LIST OF PERSONS SENDING MONEY FOR OTHERS—M S Reed, E A Willard, H B Sevey, E W Starratt, W H Mitchell, H A Olmsted, R H Bateman, N A Hitchcock, G F Haines.

CASH RECEIVED FOR BOOKS AND TRACTS.—C J Allen $1 12, J Dix $6.00, M P White $1 00, J Taylor 45c, C Case 50c, A C Johnson $1.20, Mis M A Badger 40c, J B Richards 45c, E W Starratt 40c, Mrs M Becker 75c, Wm C Stewart 45c, Wm C Manning 60c, M D Avery 40c, W H Mitchell 75c, L Nutting 50c, J L Bever 25c, H F Parker 80c, F Bates 25c, F E Barnett 20c, J B Richards 40c, A J Abbott 20c.

BOOKS AND TRACTS SENT.—By Mail—J Dix (two packages), C J Allen, M P White, A C Johnson, J B Richards (two packages), Mrs H Case, J Taylor, F E Barnett, M A Badger, Mrs Martha Becker, Wm C Manning, Mary D Avery, E W Starratt, J L Bever, L Nutting, F Bates, W H Mitchell.

ARTICLES RECEIVED.—D. W. Davis, G A Streeter, Jas. Morrison, M Trask, O D Woodruff, J R Cooper, B Pernam, H B Sevey, D M Leavitt, M P Burbank, E Owen, W F R., C A Osgood, O F Goodwin, A A Waite, I I Leslie, P G Bowman, H Jackman, C Pire, R H Gresham, A Richardson, L C McKinstry, W H Mitchell.

A LIST OF NEW BOOKS,
JUST RECEIVED FROM
KELLAWAY & CO.'S ENGLISH REPOSITORY.
FOR SALE AT THE OFFICE OF
"THE ADV. CHRIS. PUB. SOCIETY,"
160 HANOVER STREET.

Persons purchasing from the following list, help in so doing to sustain the English Repository.

COVERDALE'S ENGLISH BIBLE. A large volume, being a copy of the first Bible ever printed in the English language. Very curious, and in many texts favoring the truth of life only in the Christ. $8.

OLD TESTAMENT SCRIPTURES IN HEBREW AND ENGLISH. 4th size. Bagster's edition. A nice edition of the Scriptures. $8.

"RAINBOW," VOLUME FOR 1874. The English Monthly that utters the truth about immortality. Edited by W. Leask, D. D. $3 bound in cloth.

"BIBLE ECHO," VOLUME I., FOR 1874. This is the only English weekly newspaper that maintains what as a people we consider to be teachings of God. It is conducted by Eld. W. Kellaway. We have a good supply of this book, to meet expected sale. It contains the history of the truth in England and its Colonies. $3 bound in cloth.

CRITICAL NEW TESTAMENT, with Emendations by Fregelles, Lachmann, Griesbach, and Tischendorff. $1 50.

CATHOLIC APOSTOLIC CHURCH (Irvingism): Its Pretensions and Claims considered in connection with the facts of its history, and the teaching of the New Testament and early Christian Antiquity. Cloth limp, 65 cts.

BIBLE TRIUMPHANT: a Reply to "144 Self-Contradictions of the Bible" 50 cts.

"THE WAY EVERLASTING," by S. Minton, M A. Review of the English Controversy on Eternal Evil. 30 cts.

SUNLIGHT DISPERSING THE DISMAL SHADOWS: or, The Doctrine of Eternal Torments shown to lack Reason and Scripture alike. 25 cts.

PHOTOGRAPH OF H. CONSTABLE, M. A., one of the chief of English writers on Life only in the Christ, author of "Hades," and "The Duration of Future Punishment, etc., late Prebendary of Cork, Ireland. 25 cts

PHOTOGRAPH OF S. MINTON, M. A., also a prolific writer on Human Mortality and the Divine Gift of Eternal Existence. Late of Eaton Chapel, London. 25 cts.

LAST WAR; a little book treating upon the Last War, with a Diagram. 15 cts

HARMONY OF SCRIPTURE UPON FUTURE PUNISHMENT. The Death View. By S. Minton, M. A 20 cts.

IMMORTALITY ONLY IN CHRIST, AND ETERNAL DEATH. The subjects of Two Lectures delivered in Birkenhead. By H S. Harleigh, M. A. Capt. Ward in the Chair. 20 cts.

A NEW BIBLE: or Scripture Re-written to prove the Doctrines of Necessary Immortality and Eternal Evil. By S. Minton, M A. 10 cts.

IMMATERIALISM: or, The Fruits of Believing the Soul of Man to be the Personality. 6 cts.

CHAOS, KOSMOS, THE KINGDOM OF DARKNESS AND THE KINGDOM OF GOD. By E. White, M. A. Our Earth's history from beginning to end. 5 cts.

WHO ART THOU THAT JUDGEST? A Letter addressed to one, but applicable to many. By Joseph Stratford, Minister of the Gospel. A Rebuke with Doctrine of such as are cruel in their treatment of Christians holding life in Jesus. 5 cts.

WORDS OF HOLY WRIT ON FUTURE PUNISHMENT. 50 cts.

SCRIPTURE DOCTRINE OF A FUTURE LIFE. By W. Leask, D D. 12 copies for 50 cts.

POPULAR OBJECTIONS TO THE RESURRECTION of the Body. 12 copies for 50 cts.

WHOSE CHILD ARE YOU? 12 copies for 35c.

REPORT of a large Meeting at Chelsea on Life only in Christ. Reported by Bro. W. Kellaway. 12 copies for 50 cts.

LIFE EVERLASTING. By W. Leask, D. D. 12 copies for 25 cts.

DIALOGUE between a Pedestrian and his Friend. A lot of valuable extracts. 12 copies for 25 cts.

LIFE AND DEATH. Extract from Archbishop Whateley's "Future Life." 20 copies for 25 cts.

IMMORTALITY. Extracts from numerous authors on Life and Immortality by the Lord Christ. By H. Constable, M. A. Enlarged by Bro. W. Kellaway. 20 copies for 25 cts.

IMMORTALITY ONLY IN CHRIST. A concise presentation of the truth stated in its title, in twenty-three paragraphs and extracts from Fathers. 20 copies for 25 cts.

ETERNAL LIFE THE GIFT OF GOD. 20 copies for 25 cts.

A JESUIT'S LETTER. Jesuitry as it is, and not as it seems. 25 copies for 10 cts.

THE EVILS OF TOBACCO USING. Reprinted from the "American Health Reformer." 12 copies for 50 cts.

THE TRUE SABBATH.
WHICH DAY SHALL WE KEEP?
AN EXAMINATION OF
MRS. ELLEN G. WHITE'S VISIONS.
BY MILES GRANT.
ISSUED
BY THE ADV. CHRIS. PUB. SOCIETY,
A NEW WORK

On the Sabbath of the Old Covenant. An investigation of Mrs. E. G. White's Visions, showing that they are not from God.

All who have accepted Mrs. White's visions as coming from heaven, or who have been led to rest on Saturday instead of the Lord's day, should read this work. Let those who live among our Seventh-day brethren send and get a number of the books to give away. If the reader has friends at a distance who have received Mrs. W.'s Visions as true, have a copy of this work sent to them.

It contains 106 pages, and we will send it at the following prices: Single copy, 20 cts.; per doz., $1.75 by mail; per hundred, $10.00 by express. AGENT.

A NEW TRACT.
ATHEISM CONFOUNDED,
AND
THE FACT OF GOD'S EXISTENCE ESTABLISHED.
BY A. W. SIBLEY.

A valuable little Tract of eight pages—just the thing to circulate in these times of unbelief and skepticism. Price by mail, 15 cents per dozen. AGENT.

THE DOCTRINE OF IMMORTALITY.
BY J. H. WHITMORE.

The former pamphlet edition of this valuable work having long since been exhausted, another edition has just been published, and we are now ready to supply orders for this book of 310 pages, for wide and general circulation, at the following very low rates: Single copy, 25 cents; per dozen, $2.50 by mail; $17.00 per hundred, by express. AG'T.

OLD TIME WORN OUT.—NEW THINGS COMING.

T. S. SCOVILLE.

Old time is tried and well worn;
He's wrinkled, and he's gray;
His sands of life have nearly run,
He's surely had his day.

He's weary now, his locks are thin,
His race is almost run;
Almost worn out, yes, almost dead,
Old time will soon be done.

The great world ship is sinking fast,
And driving on the sand;
'Tis full of sorrow, wails, and woe,
No helm, and no command.

Thank God, eternity soon will come,
And Jesus take the helm;
The world will then be his alone,
His kingdom and his realm.

Amen say we, so let him come,
And make it all his own;
Our shattered world is growing worse,
'Twill ne'er be better grown.

His glorious kingdom will then be
Filled with love and truth;
Old age will never more be known,
But only vigorous youth.

A sevenfold light will then surround
The world on every side;
Beautiful flowers forever bloom,
And spring will there abide.

No more will be the darkened night,
But light will hold the sway;
Around the world, on every side,
'Twill be eternal day.

And such a day earth never saw
Since Adam ruled the hour;
And such will never come again,
Till Jesus comes with power.

Then let Him come, with banners too,
To right a suffering world;
We'll shout with joy, without alloy,
When they are once unfurled.

We will be glad, when all that's sad,
All suffering, and all sin,
Forever flee from all we see,
And time is buried in.

Elmira, N. Y.

"PREACH THE GOSPEL TO EVERY CREATURE."

C. HELME.

My dear friends, God sends us to you. He bids us tell you good news; the very best that ever reached the ears of man; news in which you are deeply interested. News which should be heard with reverence, received with gratitude, and believed with the strongest confidence. We cannot speak to every man with the tongue; therefore we employ the pen. Our only aim is to do you good; our only desire is your present and everlasting happiness. We speak to you as sent of God. We address you in God's stead. He speaks by us; will you devote a few minutes to the subject? It concerns you, for it concerns "every creature." It is a subject of infinite importance; it sets before you what God requires of you, what God thinks of you, what God has provided for you, and what God is willing to bestow upon you in time and eternity. Can any thing be more interesting than this? Ought it not to engage your attention? If God speaks ought you not to listen? If God condescends to become a teacher, ought you not to receive with meekness his wise and holy instructions? Is it not most reasonable? would not the opposite course be highly inconsistent? Your good sense must lead you to decide as to what is right. May conscience lead you to lend a listening ear.

God says to you, "Hearken, and hear my speech." Let this solemn consideration rightly affect you—the great, the holy, the merciful God speaks to me! Decide with the Psalmist, "I will hear what God the Lord will speak." Remember the apostle's admonition, "See that ye refuse not him that speaketh; for if they escaped not who refused him that spake on earth, much more shall not we escape, if we turn away from him that speaketh from heaven." But, if you would understand and rightly appreciate the good news sent unto you by the Lord, you must know your true state, and understand the character and circumstances in which you stand before God. Ignorance of these points will render you incapable of entering into, and enjoying, the glorious gospel of the blessed God. Man is not what he ought to be; he is not what he was once. A change has passed upon him, and another change must take place before he can be holy and happy here, or enjoy the pleasures and employments of the heavenly world. On these points let us dwell for a few minutes.

Let these solemn subjects engage our minds. We cannot be better employed, and we shall never regret that we gave attention to these important realities. We have neglected them too long already; they are of the first importance, and should have our early and serious attention. If we despise them and treat them with neglect, wrath will come upon us unto the uttermost, and we shall not escape. But if we receive them into our minds, are really influenced by them, and regulate our conduct accordingly; we shall enjoy peace with God on earth, and glory with God in heaven. God sends them to us in love, and shall we treat that love with contempt? they flow from his tenderest mercy, and shall we insult that mercy by casting them behind our backs? Let us not be guilty of such folly. Let us not display such hardness of heart. Let us rather say, "Speak, Lord, for thy servant heareth"; and receive with meekness the word of his grace. To-day let us hear his voice, nor dare to provoke his wrath, for his wrath is unspeakably dreadful.

May the Lord send the Holy Spirit into our hearts, that both writer and reader may be suitably impressed and properly affected, for without the presence and power of the Holy Spirit, we shall derive but little profit from any thing we read; nor shall we glorify God in any thing we do. O, Holy Spirit, shine into our hearts, quicken our souls, and write out a fair copy of the truth on our minds, that we may be the epistles of Christ, known and read of all men; and that we may understand that "sin is the transgression of the law." 1 John 3: 4.

All God's creatures are under law. The law under which we are placed by nature is holy, just, and good. It requires that we should love God with all our hearts, minds, souls, and strength; and our neighbor as ourselves. It requires that we do so every moment, and that we do so perfectly. This law was intended to regulate our thoughts, feelings, words, and actions. It placed us within bounds, and forbade our breaking through them under pain of death. It is of universal and everlasting obligation. Every thought, feeling, word, or action that is contrary to law is sin; for "sin is the transgression of the law," and every sin incurs the penalty of death. How solemn is this thought; and the law is not repealed, nor are its requirements in the least relaxed, nor are we freed from the obligation to obey it. God requires of every man, woman, and child, obedience to this just and holy law. He requires that we, at this moment, and every moment of our lives, love him supremely, and all our fellow creatures affectionately, no matter whether they be rich or poor, learned or illiterate; the unalterable requirement is, "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." A thought contrary to this is sin. Have all your thoughts of God, of your fellow-man, been loving thoughts? If not, by your thoughts you have transgressed the law. Have all the words you have spoken about God or your fellow creatures been loving words? If not, by your words you have transgressed the law. Have all your feelings toward God and toward men been the feelings of pure and holy love? If not, you have transgressed the law in your feelings. Have all your actions toward God and men been influenced by love? If not, you have transgressed the law in your actions. But you may ask, "Does God require me to think, feel, speak, and act thus?" He does, and as a holy God he can require no less. If he were to require less, he would not require what is holy, just and good; he could not be righteous; and if he were not righteous, he could not be God. "But will nothing less than perfect obedience to this law gain for me acceptance with God?" Nothing less. "For whosoever shall keep the whole law, and yet offend in one point, he is guilty of all." One sin breaks the law, insults the law-giver, degrades the transgressor, introduces disorder into God's world, and deserves death. The law requires of us the constant and perfect obedience of the heart and life.

Dear reader, have you kept the whole law? Compare your conduct and your heart with it; for "by the law is the knowledge of sin," and it is by comparing our hearts and lives with God's holy law that we discover what sinners we are. Gracious God! send thy Holy Spirit to uphold and apply the truth to our consciences, and make us feel our true condition. Let us not go on in darkness, or remain ignorant of the just claims of thy law, or the glorious provisions of thy gospel; but may we know the truth, and may the truth make us free. Lord, save us from deception. Let us not deceive ourselves, or be deceived by others.

Hingham Centre, Mass.

THE TRUE LIGHT.

B. PERHAM.

"I am come a light into the world."—JOHN 12: 46.

The evangelist prophet spake of that great light over seven hundred years before its brilliancy shone upon the human family. Isa. 9: 2, 6, 7; 42: 6, 7. St. Matthew refers to this prophecy in Matt. 4: 15, 16, as proof that Jesus was the great light that was sent "a light into the world" to enlighten the Gentiles. Many who saw the light improved it, and became heirs of God and joint heirs with Jesus Christ to the heavenly inheritance, which is close at hand.

But will that great light do us any good, if we do not take heed to it and be governed by its brilliant rays? What are light-houses for that are built on the shore? Are they not to guide the mariner safely into port in time of peril? What would be the consequence if the mariner refused to pay any attention to that light? Would he not be shipwrecked, and go to ruin? Let us attend to that great centre light that our heavenly Father has sent into our world, whose rays are so brilliant that they shine all over the world into every land and nation under the whole heavens? This great light is set in the midst of the tempestuous ocean of this world, to guide us to the heavenly port of endless rest. We have a chart and guide Book, that will show us all the dangerous places. We are told to study the Book for information, and are also informed by our great Captain that, if we need wisdom, we must ask for it, and we shall have it.

Here comes a very important question: Who placed this great light in this world, in order that we may have a sure guide to lead us into the heavenly port? We answer: "God so loved the world, that he gave his only only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life." This shows the boundless love of God to man.

"O, for such love, let rocks and hills
Their lasting silence break;
And all harmonious human tongues
The Savior's praises speak."

In the great day of accounts, what excuse can we make for our folly in rejecting all the kind invitations of heaven? Surely none can be made; for the Creator has done everything that could be done for our salvation; and he is now sending out his messengers into every part of the world, to invite them to come to Jesus. Of course, all who will not come will be condemned to the "second death." We are now very close to the great judgment day, and soon it will be too late to prepare for the coming of Christ; for the great proclamation will soon be sounded through the whole world—"He that is filthy, let him be filthy still; . . . and he that is holy, let him be holy still"; and then that great light will appear on the judgment throne, while thousands and millions will call for rocks and mountains to fall on them and hide them from the face of the dreadful Judge of all the earth. May the good Lord save us from destruction. Amen.

Vernon, Vt.

TO MY SCATTERED FRIENDS.

JOHN FINN.

You may address me at Orlando, Orange Co., Florida. You are not forgotten. Fond memory flies back on the speedy wings of thought to scenes and seasons of by-gone days, and with sweet recollections dwells on our social joys together in the past. Then comes the silent thought, Shall we meet again? At present, dark clouds overcast the skies; a gathering storm is impending; but still comes the thought, Shall we meet again? Lurking foes on every hand beguile, seduce, ensnare, and frown. Surely, the days are evil, and perilous times have overtaken us; yet the lingering thought comes, Shall we meet again? We look around us. The picture is a sad one. We listen, and hear the notes of alarm. We listen more closely; and amid the loud tumult of a gathering storm, we catch the sweet music of Hope. We look; the dashing billows foam, the darkening tempest howls. We gaze. We see a ray of light, growing brighter and brighter. Hope's music charms. All hail! Just down the misty future, the sun shines out again. The storm will pass away, the billows sink to rest; our lurking foes will disappear, and perils be in the past, when this turmoil is over.

My heart is glad, because I have sweet visions of the brighter day. Here is no rest. Here we have no abiding city. I have made up my mind to settle for life on the other side, beyond the storm, where all is peace. Will you meet me where all is pure? Will you meet me at "the marriage of the Lamb," that joyous feast, in the kingdom of God? Will you meet me where there is no sadness, no parting, no toil, no pain; when the whole earth in beauty shall bloom again; away from these scenes of sorrow and strife; in our Eden home, by the river of life? It is the pilgrim's home, long to endure. By the help of God, I will meet you there. Remember me kindly, though I am away. Watch and be sober; have your garments pure, and your light burning. Be ye also ready; be humble; be patient; be strong in faith.

WORK IN GOD'S VINEYARD.

Work in God's vineyard—the Savior hath called thee,
Called thee from darkness to marvelous light,
Breaking the chain that so long hath inthralled thee:
Work while the day lasts, and work with thy might.

Faithful is He who hath promised salvation—
Faithful thy burden of sorrows to bear;
Leading the penitent safe through temptation,
Up to the mansions he goes to prepare.

Mourner! bowed low o'er the sod newly riven,
Love hath laid on thee that chastening rod;
Look through the mists of thy sorrows to heaven:
Rise, then, and toil in the vineyard of God.

—Selected.

MOODY AND SANKEY.

H. PRATT.

Being too unwell to preach, I concluded to listen to these men, who, as Spurgeon says, "have got a grip on the people." I soon learned that from beginning to end they meant business. Work began when either of them came in. They did not sit down until the clock struck seven, and then begin. They commenced at once, and if Mr. Sankey did not sing, Mr. Moody would pray. And, by the way, we were favored with the presence and help of Prof. Bliss and Col. Whipple, the revivalists from the west; workmen that need not be ashamed. The directness with which Mr. Moody fastens the attention of his hearers upon the subject reminds one of Advent preaching in former years. The first evening the subject was

BLOOD.

Commencing with Gen. 3: 21, he read: "Unto Adam also, and to his wife, did the Lord God make coats of skins, and clothed them." The shedding of blood was the first thing instituted as a covering of sin. God shed the blood of those innocent animals to get a covering for sin. Gen. 4: 4. Here we have a controversy on this subject of blood. While Abel, having the mind of God, brought blood for an offering, Cain thought that looked cruel, and so he got mad with Abel's God for accepting it. So the first dispensation was introduced acceptably only by blood. So also the second, Gen. 8: 20,—"And Noah builded an altar unto the Lord; and took of every clean beast, and of every clean fowl, and offered burnt offerings on the altar." When we reach Abraham's day we find God providing a ram for an offering, instead of Isaac. Gen. 22; 13. God loved Abraham, and would not let him kill his son; but God loved the world so much, he gave his Son for its redemption. But in Ex. 12: 14, God gives blood as a token. Door-posts must be sprinkled. But here again the Cainites find fault. They say, "A live lamb tied to the door would look much more merciful." But death must be met with death, and not by work. That little three-year-old girl is just as safe inside that door, sprinkled with blood, as Joshua or Moses. Not by works, lest any man should boast. The fly was as safe in the ark as the elephant. Ex. 12: 11. Not only shielded by blood, but must eat the lamb. You orthodox people like the idea of being shielded by blood, but you won't eat the lamb. You'll come here to-morrow (Sunday), and you'll listen to the preaching and singing with interest; but you won't eat the lamb. Instead of talking about the word of God at noon-time, the first thing you'll say to your neighbor will be, "Did you get any tobacco ketched out in the frost, Friday night? or did you get your hay in before the storm, Thursday?" You won't eat the lamb.

But why blood? because the life is in the blood; life for life. Peter says we were not redeemed by such corruptible stuff as gold or silver, but by "the precious blood of Christ." Redemption here means buying back. The Irish boy that had caught a sparrow, and was carrying it home in a cage, was requested by a gentleman passing to let it go. "No," says the boy; "do you think I would have all this long run for nothing?" "But what do you ask for it?" "Sax-pence." The money was paid, the cage opened, and after sitting a moment on the finger of her deliverer, she flitted away with joy and song. Just so Christ wants to set you free here, to-night.

There are two cries for blood; one for redemption, the other for vengeance. That Roman spear caused the blood of Christ to trickle upon the earth, and it will redeem the earth, much sooner than you expect, too. The avenging cry will be heard; the mighty King will come, and be avenged, and earth will be redeemed. The Jewish Rabbi, in Paris, said, a few years ago, "We killed the Christian's God." Alas! Alas! This doomed people said, "his blood be upon us, and our children." What a cry for blood then.

Dr. Tysng, in passing through a hospital, heard a soldier crying blood, and supposing a bandage had got removed, he hastened to his side and says, "Are you bleeding?" "No. It is the precious blood of Christ that I was talking about." Oh, sinner, send up your cry for blood now, ere it shall cry for vengeance.

P. S. In order to condense, I have left out nearly one-half of the Bible quotations, and the beautiful songs of Bliss and Sankey. Suffice it to say, that "Wondrous Love," "There is a fountain," and "Almost persuaded," were expressed in tearful melody.

H. P.

"'TIS THE VERY SAME JESUS."

NETTIE M. SWETT.

Jesus of the manger; Jesus of Gethsemane; Jesus of Pilate's court; Jesus of the cross; Jesus of the tomb; Jesus of the ascension; Jesus the resurrection and the life; and 'tis this very same Jesus whom we look to see coming in the clouds. "Even so, come, Lord Jesus."

While we for thy coming wait,
Purge our hearts from sin or hate;
Make us pure, and let us be
Worthy of a crown, and thee.

Lynn, Mass.

"THE COMFORTER."

R. P. ELDRIDGE.

"It is expedient for you that I go away; for if I go not away, the Comforter will not come unto you; but if I depart, I will send him unto you."—JOHN 16: 7.

What blessed words! What a soul-cheering and precious promise! How befitting the One by whom they were spoken. Truly, "never man spake like this man." We hear and adore; we hear and believe. We do not wonder that the disciples were sorrowful, that their hearts were filled with sadness, when they learned that their blessed Master was going away. They had been present with him, and beheld the great and wonderful works which he had performed in healing the sick, in raising the dead, in restoring sight to the blind, and causing the lame man to walk, leap, and praise God; in turning water into wine, and feeding great multitudes on a few loaves and a few small fishes.

We do not wonder, I say, that the disciples were unwilling to part with him, and expressed a wish to follow him, as they did not then understand his mission. But the blessed Jesus, who was a "man of sorrows, and acquainted with grief," understood their feelings; and to cheer them and inspire them with courage, he said unto them, "I go to prepare a place for you; and if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again, and receive you unto myself; that where I am, there ye may be also." Still they were unwilling to part with him. Then it was that he made that sweet and precious promise that he would send the Comforter, which would abide with them forever. The Savior went away, and soon was that glorious promise fulfilled, on the day of Pentecost.

We thank God that that sweet promise of the Comforter was made for all. Yes, dear brother, sister, and friend, for you and for me, and for all that will accept of it as long as time remains. The love of Jesus is as great for his followers to-day, as it was for those who first obeyed the gospel. We rejoice that we have such a a precious, loving Savior. Love was the ruling element of his life and practice. How sweet to feel that we are beloved by such a Savior. What peace and joy and consolation it affords. How it rejoices the heart, revives the spirit, and lifts up the soul to mighty faith in an omnipotent God. No wonder the saints shout, "Glory to God in the highest," when they feel the power of this love in their hearts. Then they can exclaim—

"On Christ, the solid Rock, I stand;
All other ground is sinking sand."

O what a happy day it will be when all the saints of every land are gathered on Mount Zion, where they will meet one another to part no more forever. Will not the heavenly mansions ring with shouts of everlasting praise to Him who has redeemed them with his own precious blood? Praise his dear name; for while I am penning these lines I feel that the gentle zephyrs from the holy hill of Zion are wafted upon me.

O let us, dear ones, often look away by an eye of faith, and see if we cannot almost behold the spires of the beautiful city—that city which John saw; for we are nearing it. Though the Bridegroom may seem to tarry, and we may at times feel weary in the way (though not of the way), yet, let us lift up our heads and rejoice, for our "redemption draweth nigh." Jesus is surely coming to take his faithful children home to dwell with him forever in his everlasting kingdom. He has told us to "watch"; so let us keep watching and waiting, with our lamps trimmed and burning, ready for the Master's appearing.

Chatham, Mass., Sept. 18th.

MERCY AND WRATH.

The following is an extract from an article written by S. W. Anderson, of High View, Va., and published in the Herald of Gospel Liberty; a paper published in Ohio, by the Christian denomination. A. G. GORDON.

Leeds, Me.

"For as the heaven is high above the earth, so great is his mercy toward them that fear him," writes the Psalmist. God's mercy toward his children is immensely great; so great, that we are not capable of perceiving the extent thereof. The Psalmist compares God's mercy to a distance that is beyond our comprehension, beyond our imagination. Our capacity is too shallow, and our intellect too narrow, to conceive the greatness of God's mercy. We may compute the distance from earth to a star, and yet we have but little comprehension of the distance. We may let our imagination extend still further, to stars that are so far off that their light cannot be seen. Our minds are lost in the vast expanse of ether, but far as the heaven is high above the earth, so great is his mercy toward them that fear him. God's mercy is infinitely great. Great toward whom? toward sinners? No, no; toward them that fear, love and obey him, and not toward sinners, for sinners do not fear God; if they did, they would not be sinners.

True, God's mercy is great toward sinners only in the present life, for he allows the tares to grow up with the wheat; but when the harvest shall have come, the reaping angel will thrust in his sharp sickle; and as the tares are gathered and burned in the fire, so shall it be in the end of the world. "The Son of man shall send forth his angels, and they shall gather out of his kingdom all things that offend, and them which do iniquity." We know not how soon we may sigh, The jubilee is ended, and the sun begins to fade; the lamps of heaven begin to fall like blasted figs. O, ye righteous, put on your armor now; put the helmet of salvation on, and gird your loins about with truth; put on the shield of faith, and take the sword of God, for the day is near, the great day of God Almighty and the Lamb.

The harvest of the earth is fully ripe; vengeance begins to tread the great wine-press of wrath. O that dreadful place whence comes darkness, whence oome wails of woe! Thunderings that shake the world are heard; righteous men tremble; angels are pale; all is fear. What has become of hope? God comes; God in his car of vengeance comes. Louder on the blast hollow shrieks of dissolution are heard. In the fitful scowl of night, nearer and more near, angels of death incessantly flap their wings, and fly through the fevered air. The mountains rock, the moon is sick, and all the stars of heaven burn feebly. Night comes. It is the last night, the long, dark night that has no morn beyond. O, ye wicked, weep and howl, for all that God hath written against you is at hand. The cry of violence hath reached his ear. Hell is prepared, and justice whets his sword. "Weep, all of every nation; begin the woe, ye woods, and tell it to the doleful winds; and, doleful winds, wail to the howling hills; and, howling hills, mourn to the dismal vales; and, dismal vales, sigh to the sorrowing brooks; and, sorrowing brooks, weep to the weeping stream; and, weeping stream, awake the groaning deep; and let the instrument take up the song, responsive to the voice of harmonious woe; heaven's great archway of the universe, put on sackcloth; ye stars, that walk the pavement of the sky, cease dancing now, your lamps are growing dim, and God's mercy is withdrawn forever from all them that refused to obey him and live in his fear."

But what shall we say of them that lived in the fear of God, who devoted their lives in serving the Lord? They shall receive the crown of life, and be placed on the right hand of God, to dwell with angels and archangels forever. What a contrast between mercy and wrath! The sight of the saints arrayed in robes of everlasting wear will be so glorious, so grand, so sublime, that the archway of heaven will not be veiled, nor will God draw a mantle arouud his throne. "Thy mercy, O Lord, reacheth unto the clouds." How essential it is that we should live in the fear of the Lord, that we may have our names written in the Lamb's book of life, and that we may be fit subjects to dwell in that city which has "no need of the sun, neither of the moon, to shine in it; for the glory of God" doth "lighten it, and the Lamb is the light thereof."

THE DAY IS FAR SPENT.

T. P. DREW.

Stay with us, stranger, stay and share
Our evening meal, our evening prayer;
The light which gilds the western sky
Is fading out, the night is nigh;
Its shadows dim are gliding near,
And we, oppressed with care and fear,
Will seek for rest till breaks the day;
Remain with us, kind stranger, stay.

Our hearts are sad, bowed down with grief,
Our gracious Prince, our mighty Chief,
Will gently greet us nevermore;
Our Israel, who will now restore?
We thought that he, so like a king,
Would make the desert places ring;
Alas! vain hopes, forever fled,
Our friend, our mighty friend, is dead.

The two disciples paused and sighed,
With tender words the stranger tried
To soothe their hearts, to bring relief,
And win them from their thoughts of grief.
The simple board was quickly spread,
He blessed, and, while he held the bread,
The darkness vanished from their sight,
They saw the Lord of life and light.

FROM SR. C. TULLER.

Dear Brn. and Sisters:—For a long time I have wished to address you, but I have found our blessed papers so full of rich thoughts, that I felt in my heart that I could add nothing that would edify, and so have been content to feast on the fat things, so richly prepared for poor pilgrims. I do enjoy in my isolation these weekly visitors. They contain all the preaching I have, that comes to my heart as a whole gospel. A close communion Baptist minister preaches near me once a month. I try to get all the good I can from his sermons, but they give an uncertain sound on the great themes that ought to interest the present generation. I have longed and hoped that some one capable of rightly dividing the word of life might be sent this way. A few weeks since, the principal of Berea college came this way, and would lecture on "Education for the masses." I asked permission of the trustees of the white people's church for him to lecture in, thinking it might do some good. They all consented, but when evening came an excitement was raised about "Nigger equality," and it was thought not best to use it. But if one could come here with a heart full of love, and a desire to win souls to Christ, I think a hearing could be gained, and good be done. There are two persons, at least, greatly interested in our publications, and decided for the whole truth; and many others friendly, and might be benefited. Oh for a tent to go through Kentucky, this fall! Prejudice against my work has been wearing away. I have kept steadily about my special calling, and distributing trrcts and papers. In the spring, my poor colored children and youth had to go to work. The white people around begged me to teach their children. I did so for a short time, and had an interesting school. Have been told that if I would give up my colored schools, I could soon establish a popular Institute for whites. But I have no doubts about my duty. Have been trying to rest a little, and am now getting ready to welcome back my dusky friends. Poor things! they have few to care for them. While white children can draw near two dollars each of public money, this paying a good salary to the teacher, the blacks this year can draw but thirty cents each, and they are too poor to do any thing of account for schools.

We have never realized such a time of poverty since I have been here as now, from the scarcity of labor, and no money to pay for it. Last year, the country was parched with drouth, and this year flooded with rains, and no fruit. The best farmers have not many to hire. There are noble youth scattered about, anxious to fit themselves for teaching. I am anxious to take in a number of such for two months, and then send them out to impart to others some of the knowledge they have gained; but I have nothing to feed them. My own wants are supplied by the most rigid economy. Could I have a teacher's salary, I could do much more. Generous hearts helped in this work last year, and I have felt drawn to ask if there are any now who feel a duty in this direction? I ought to have a cheap building put up for school, or worship, as needed, to be all their own when I am laid aside. The weakness of my eyes will soon demand a change of occupation if mortality continues. But I have pupils who, I trust and hope, will exert a good influence, and be useful to their people. They have all the season conducted a Sabbath-school at the Point, with credit. The last time I visited it, I thought how much I would like friends to look in and see their neat and orderly appearance, and hear them read the Testament, and answer questions, and sing. After talking to them a while, an old preacher, who had learned to read, arose and said he thought the teacher might be encouraged to hope her labors had not been in vain. My thoughts were with those who had sustained the teacher, and felt that their gifts had not been wasted. I could not have done as I have, unless God had moved upon their hearts, and I see not now how I can do for these youth as their circumstances need, to help them on in the path of usefulness, unless God directs. But I can trust him, while I will strive, with his help, to do all I can.

I consider the hardness of the times, and the great need of sending the living preacher with the last gospel message; still, it seems to me that it is strictly mission work to call the outcasts, and teach them to read the word of God. Allow me to ask what might have been our condition now, if we had never been taught to read? As thereby good seed has taken root in many, may we not hope it may in other hearts? And as time lingers, ought we not to improve each hour in trying all ways to lift up the lowly, and let in the sunlight into darkened windows? True, such is poor human nature, but little comparatively can be done in life's short day; but let us hope that the aggregate of all time's earnest, God-inspired labor will cause a mighty shout, when "Harvest Home" is chanted by earth's redeemed millions.

I cannot but feel great pity for this poor people. Many of them are trying hard to keep up and be good. Some are working hard to get little homes of their own, but with all their industry and patching, many children are almost naked; and if a few barrels of clothing could be sent here this fall, they would do much good. I wonder if some of my young sisters would not like to engage in begging? I well remember when, forty-three years ago, after a long season of almost despair, and while struggling for light, a voice spake within, saying, "Go work." A very poor family needed help, and after my mother had given her mite, I was drawn to go and beg for them. As I started, my heart lightened, and I fairly ran for joy. Since then, begging has been a part of life's work, and I always felt that God was pleased with such efforts.

Again, brethren and sisters, and the dear friends of the long ago, who may read this, I ask your prayers, that I may be fitted to meet you in the home of the holy. Since my last, I have received from J. P. Marquand, $1; M. E. Green, $2; Sr. Locke, Salem, $5.50, also several bundles of papers.

CAROLINE TULLER.

West Point, Ky., Sept. 15th.

CHRISTIAN PRACTICE.

All the ordinances, ceremonies, and professions in this world will be utterly empty without a holy life. Nearly all the precepts of the Bible aim at the production of practical righteousness. We must be actuated by right motives, and breathe the right spirit. Our conversation is to be seasoned with grace. We are to trample pride and self-conceit under our feet, and to lead a life of humility and prayer. No animosities or relations are to be indulged, but rather the spirit of forgiveness and good will to all. Whether we eat or drink or dress, we are to do all to the glory of God. This excludes all intemperance, vanity, trickery, malice and anger. Surely the way of salvation is a narrow way. To walk in it, is to obey the Lord in all things. To walk in it, is to enjoy that divine fellowship which eclipses the glitter of the earth. To continue this obedient walk, is to secure a fadeless crown in the coming kingdom.—Banner of Holiness.

HOME AND HEALTH.

PUGILISTIC TRAINING.

Without reference to the hygienic system, we find that medical men of the various drug schools admit the following as results of pugilistic training: First, hardness and firmness of muscles. Second, clearness of skin. Third, capability of bearing continued and severe exercise. Fourth, a feeling of freedom and lightness in the limbs. Fifth, a rapid recovery from injuries. Sixth, an easy healing of wounds. Seventh, cutaneous eruptions disappear. Eighth, clearness and vigor of mind.

Now, the training which pugilists are subjected to, is based upon hygienic principles, so that any one admitting the value of the one, must of necessity acknowledge the reasonableness and truth of the other.

Look at this nation of miserable dyspeptics! Is it not time this question of physical culture was ventilated until every man, woman and child in the land was conscious, that to be sick is a sin? So that when we met a diseased or crippled person, we would cry out, Who did sin, this man or his parents, that he is blind?

Now, if a man of a low animal nature can appreciate the value of a course of training which shall render him a first-class eye-gouger of his fellows, and for the applause of a few as low as himself, how much more ought men of higher intelligence, broader culture, and deeper refinement, to feel the necessity of following a similar course to render the "temple of God" pure. And not only that, but how else can we become co-workers with Him, and conscious agents in his hands for the upraising of fallen humanity? It is indeed high time that we had cultivated and enlightened consciences in regard to our bodies. Time that we saw and felt that intimate relation existing between body and soul, before we can become God-like in the highest sense of the word. How many people, nay, how many professed christians, make the eating of food a matter of conscience? Again, let a young girl take arsenic to beautify her complexion. What a cry there is raised against such a sin. Right. Let another subsist chiefly on candies and sweetmeats, until her face becomes inflamed with erysipelas, and we sigh and say, poor child, she is greatly afflicted. The hand of Providence is heavy upon her.

Again, in some churches they will not allow a suicide to be buried from the sanctuary. Yet if another should feed on roast pork, suet pudding, wine sauce, mince pie, etc., until he induced death by apoplexy, such an one would not be thought to defile the holy place by having the last sad rites performed therein. Is there not an urgent call in this the nineteenth century for strong pure, brave men and women? Are not strength, purity, and bravery desirable? How many have valor enough to pay the price? We hear so many say I had rather not live so long if I have to punish myself by eating as you do. Live! if you say that, you have not even entered the vestibule of life. It is the beast that perisheth, that is in you, that says that.

But to begin at the beginning, right living secures to one hardness and firmness of muscle. To procure these, the trained is put on a diet of plain, solid, nutritious, muscle-making food, consisting chiefly of bread and meat. Of meats, the lean of beef and mutton are considered the best. But these are fast being superseded by oatmeal, Graham, peas and beans, by trainers, as superior muscle making articles. Stimulants are avoided. This diet is coupled with wise exercise and rest. Men, as a class, have firmer and larger muscles than women. This is owing principally to difference in exercise. The Arabian women, being mere beasts of burden, are stronger than many of our men. But there is no immediate danger of our women becoming thus muscular; although it would be commendable for them to aspire to enough muscularity to hold themselves together without stays, and enough back-bone not to be like a mass of quivering jelly. In all candor it seems that every woman should have sufficient muscularity to be thoroughly womanly, and to make her husband stand in wholesome fear of her if he be a brute, and to respect her if he be a man. She should have muscle enough to keep all her organs in their integrity, and to be able to bear active and energetic children.—Science of Health.

"LITTLE JACK."

The following sketch will stir the sensibilities of many a heart.

"I saw my wife pull out the bottom drawer of the old family bureau this evening, and I went softly out and wandered up and down until she shut it up and went to her sewing. We have some things laid away in that drawer which the gold of kings could not buy, and yet they are relics that grieve us until both our hearts are sore. I haven't dared to look at them for a year, but I remember each article.

There are two worn shoes, a little chip hat, with part of the brim gone, and some stockings, pants, a coat, two or three spools, bits of broken crockery, a whip, and several toys. Wife—poor thing—goes to that drawer every day of her life, and prays over it, and lets her tears fall upon the precious articles, but I dare not go!

Sometimes we speak of little Jack, but not often. It has been a long time, but somehow we can't get over grieving. He was such a burst of sunshine into our lives that his going away has been like covering our every-day existence with a pall. Sometimes when we sit alone—I writing and she sewing—a child on the street will call out, as our poor boy used to, and we will both start up with beating hearts and a wild hope, only to find the darkness more of a burden than ever.

It is still and quiet now. I look at the window where his blue eyes used to sparkle at my coming, but he is not there. I listen for his pattering feet, his merry shout and his ringing laugh, but there is no sound. There is no one to climb over my knees, no one to search my pockets and tease for presents, and I never find the chairs turned over, the broom down, or ropes tied to the door-knobs.—Ex.

RULES FOR YOUNG CHRISTIANS.

1. Never neglect daily private prayer; and, when you pray, remember that God is present, and that he hears your prayers.

2. Never neglect daily private Bible-reading; and, when you read, remember that God is speaking to you, and that you are to believe and act upon what he says. I believe all backslidings begin with the neglect of these two rules.

3. Never let a day pass without trying to do something for Jesus. Every night, reflect on what Jesus has done for you, and then ask yourself, "What am I doing for him?"

4. If ever you are in doubt as to a thing being right or wrong, go to your room, kneel down, and ask God's blessing upon it (Col. 3: 17.) If you cannot do this, it is wrong.

5. Never take your christianity from christians, or argue, that, because such people do so and so, therefore you may (2 Cor. 10: 12). You are to ask yourself, "How would Christ act in my place?" and strive to follow him.

6. Never believe what you feel, if it contradicts God's word. Ask yourself, "Can what I feel be true, if God's word is true?" and, if both can not be true, believe God, and make your own belief submit.—Well-Spring.

THE TOOTHACHE.

A gentleman says, after suffering excruciating pain from toothache, and having tried in vain to obtain relief, Betty told me a gentleman had been waiting some time in the parlor, who said he would not detain me one minute. He came—a friend I had not seen for years. He sympathized with me, while I briefly told how sadly I was afflicted.

"My dear friend," exclaimed he, "I can cure you in ten minutes."

"How? how?" inquired I; "do it in pity."

"Instantly," said he. "Betty, have you any alum?"

"Yes."

"Bring it, and some common salt."

They were produced; my friend pulverived them, mixed in equal quantities; then wet a small piece of cotton, causing the mixed powders to adhere, and placed it in my hollow tooth.

"There," said he, "if that does not cure you I will forfeit my head. You may tell this in Gath, and publish it in Askelon; the remedy is infallible."

It was so. I experienced a sensation of coldness on applying it, which gradually subsided, and with it the torment of the toothache.—Cincinnati Gazette.

THE Medical Record says that castor oil applied to corns, after paring closely, softens the corn, and it becomes as the other flesh.

The World's Crisis AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

RULES FOR CORRESPONDENTS.

Over all matters not intended for publication, write:—PRIVATE.

Over all business matters, write:—BUSINESS.

Over all articles intended for the paper, write:—For the Crisis.

☞ Put business matters and appointments on separate pieces of paper, or so that they can be detached without interfering with any other communication.

When the names of NEW subscribers are sent, please say they are NEW, and it will save much labor.

All articles should be accompanied by the writer's NAME, for the Editor's information, even if it is not published.

PRIVATE LETTERS.—Those wishing to address the Editor on matters not connected with the office, please write PRIVATE on the outside of the envelope.

☞ All persons writing to the office should give distinctly and plainly the POST OFFICE, COUNTY and STATE at which they wish to be addressed; and all orders, subscriptions, communications and remittances, should be plainly directed to

☞ "THE WORLD'S CRISIS," Boston, Mass.

PUBLISHED ALSO AT THE SAME OFFICE, Semi-monthly,

THE YOUNG PILGRIM

An Illustrated Sunday-School Paper, FOR CHILDREN AND YOUTH.

TERMS: ☞ Payable always in advance.

Single copy, 50 cts. a year; and at the same rates or any number of copies under ten.

Ten copies, and any larger number under fifty, when sent to one address, 40 cts. a year for each copy.

Fifty copies, and any number over fifty, when sent to one address, 35 cts. a year for each copy.

To Canada subscribers at the same rates. No extra charge for American postage.

☞ All communications, orders, and remittances should be addressed to

"THE YOUNG PILGRIM," Boston, Mass.

The World's Crisis

AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

"BEHOLD I COME QUICKLY; AND MY REWARD IS WITH ME."

WHOLE NO. 1038. BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 6, 1875. VOL. XLI.—NO. 25.

The World's Crisis,
AND
SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER,
Issued every Wednesday Afternoon, by the
ADVENT CHRISTIAN PUBLICATION SOCIETY,
At No. 160 Hanover Street, Boston, Mass.
GEO. T. ADAMS,
TREASURER AND BUSINESS AGENT.

JOHN COUCH, MILES GRANT, } EDITORS.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE:
S. G. MATHEWSON, L. BOUTELL,
WM. H. MITCHELL.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEE:
H. V. DAVIS, M. BATCHELOR,
L. T. CUNNINGHAM, J. G. HAMBLIN,
J. HEMENWAY.

The CRISIS is devoted to the exposition of all Bible truth; especially the doctrine of the immediate, personal coming and reign of Christ on the earth; holiness of heart; the unconscious state of the dead; their literal resurrection, and final destruction of the wicked.

IN HIS VINEYARD.

There is never a way so narrow or short,
But the Master's work is there;
There is something to do for His dear sake,
Or something to calmly bear.

There are trials to meet with christian faith,
And duties with christian grace:
And there's christian sweetness to every one,
To be given in every place.

Their working days are never so hard,
Who find in Christ a stay;
And days of darkness are days of light
When Jesus leads the way.

And the waiting days of those who hope,
Are days of quietness;
And the praying days of those who trust,
Are days of perfect peace.

There are flowrets down in the valley low,
And over the mountain side,
Which were never praised by a human voice,
Nor by human eyes descried;

Yet as sweet as the breath of the royal rose
Is the perfume they exhale;
And why they bloom, and where they bloom,
The good Lord knoweth well.

—Whispers of Peace.

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

(Concluded.)

To the American Advent Mission Society, greeting:—

The present outlook is very ominous of the end of this dispensation. Time's hour-glass is dropping its last sands, before the coming of the Holy One. He has been in heaven over eighteen hundred years, and the time has now come for him to return and set up his kingdom. The signs he promised to give to tell us when we should be "near" the grand event, have been seen in "this generation," and coupled with these is the blest assurance that men now living may lift up their heads and rejoice because their redemption draweth nigh. We may well sing:—

"O hail, happy day, that ends our tears and sorrows,
That brings us joy without alloy,
O hail, happy day."

And again:

"Fly swifter round, ye wheels of time,
And bring the welcome day."

When we cry, "Come, Lord Jesus," "come quickly," we are in harmony with the spirit of him, of whom it was said, he was that "disciple whom Jesus loved." The same spirit is in many hearts at the present time, and some are now listening, who have a burning longing to see the King of glory. We believe a majority vote of those present would be heartily given in favor of the immediate coming of the Son of the Highest.

Why desire his coming? Because the world, as a whole, will grow worse till his appearing. When speaking of "the last days," says Paul: "Evil men and seducers shall wax worse and worse." Said Jesus, "It shall be as it was in the days of Noah and Lot, when the Son of man is revealed.' The tares and wheat must grow together till the harvest. The harvest is said to be at the end of the world. The prophet says that when the harvest is ripe the wickedness in the world will be great; and that the body of professors, at that time, will be noted for pride, selfishness, covetousness, high-mindedness, fierceness, boasting, pleasure loving, and formalism. All this we see now, and we may look for no abatement, except in individual cases, before the coming of him who is "mighty to save." The picture is a dark one, but it represents the condition of things in the last generation, —just what we are seeing in the world at the present time. Is it not desirable to have Christ come and put a perpetual end to the corruptions of Satan? The stream of wickedness is daily becoming wider, deeper, and more offensively impure, in consequence of what is flowing in from the filthy sewers of society. Till Christ comes, this shocking sight will become more and more appalling and revolting. Pure benevolence would cry out earnestly, Come, "come quickly."

The multiplying, startling calamities by fires, floods, famines, and earthquakes, accidents and disease, poverty and death, all say "Come." The oppression and misrule, corruption in Church and State, wickedness in high and low places, all demand the presence of the rightful heir to David's throne to remove the curse from the earth, restore the lost paradise, and establish the everlasting kingdom in righteousness. The blood of martyrs too, crieth,

"Come and reign, come and reign,
Jesus, on thy throne."

All that is good says, Come. If he cometh not, then the dead must sleep for ever, and future life be to them for ever unknown.

It is right to love the appearing of Jesus. None can expect to be accepted when he comes, who wish him to remain longer away. He is our best, dearest friend. It is most reasonable that the christian should exclaim like John on Patmos Isle, "Come quickly."

There are very strong reasons why we may expect the Savior soon, even in our day. In the brief address at the present time, we can only glance at the overwhelming amount of evidence that might be presented as proof that in a brief period, we may expect to see the dear One who died to make it possible sor us to secure eternal life in the world to come. When he was about to leave the world, and go to his Father, he informed his disciples that he would return again, after a long absence. They asked him if there would be any signs to indicate when his second coming would be near? He then gave them a prophetic series of events that would transpire, at the close of which he would again visit this planet. Our Savior was born during the reign of Augustus Cæsar, the first Roman emperor. For nearly four hundred years, the rulers of that vast empire held sway over most of the known world, but the prophet Daniel had been inspired to say that the fourth kingdom should be divided into several parts. Afterwards, three of the divisions would be destroyed by a leading member of the empire, which would become a terrible persecutor of the saints, and continue a long time; after which there would be a general revolution, when "the saints of the Most High" would take the kingdom, at the coming of the Son of man, and possess it for ever and ever. There would be no opposing power after that, but the prevalence of eternal peace, harmony, and happiness.

When speaking of the progress of events that would transpire between his two advents, the Savior said kingdom would rise against kingdom, and nation against nation, which could not take place till after the the Roman empire was broken up into its fragmentary condition. As clearly intimated, this did not occur before the fifth century, while the empire continued in its undivided state; but after its division into separate kingdoms, in the sixth century, then they warred with each other, as foretold by Christ. Next following, came the "great tribulation" upon the saints, continued for many centuries, during which time from fifty to seventy-five millions were slaughtered by the Roman power, symbolized by the "little horn," with eyes like the eyes of a man, and a mouth speaking great things;" also by the leopard beast of the thirteenth of Revelation, and blood-drunken woman on the scarlet-colored beast of the seventeenth. All these foretold events are now recorded on the pages of history.

According to Daniel and John, this power would lose its dominion, and the opportunity to persecute the saints a short time before the coming of Christ. Its former lovers and supporters were to become its haters and spoilers. Since 1859, this prophecy has had a remarkable fulfillment. The prophet had said: "They shall take away his dominion, to consume and to destroy it unto the end." On the 20th of Sept., 1870, the last vestige of temporal power was taken by force of arms from the would-be-infallible Pope. In Oct. 2nd, 1870, the Italians voted to renounce the temporal power of the Pope. Nov. 1st, 1870, the Italian government issued the following decree: "All the political authority of the Pope and the Holy See is abolished, and will remain so." [History of Italy, by Abbott, p. 619.]

Thus the prophecies are verified, as they have been unfolding for twenty-five centuries, until we have now come very near the spot where all the prophetic streams that terminate at the coming of Christ, must soon meet in the grand focal point of his glorious appearing. We see no room for doubt that the greatest of all great events is at hand. The clock of time will soon strike the closing hour of the old, and the opening of the new dispensation. The signs in the sun, moon, and stars, which Christ said should be seen in the last generation, are already recorded among past events, and the distress of nations, with perplexity, is looming up like the double-headed thunder cloud, just before the outburst of the terrible tempest. There is a deep sensation pervading the minds of intelligent, careful observers, that some important, unparalleled event is at our doors.

Those who neglect the prophetic light, now shining so brightly, are filled with fearful conjectures and forebodings, as to what may be the coming event now casting such a lengthened, impressive shadow upon their pathway; but to the prophetic student all is plain and glorious. He joyfully sings:

"See the glorious banner waving,
Hear the bugle blow;
In our Leader's name we'll triumph
Over every foe.

Fierce and long has been the battle,
But our help is near;
Onward comes our great Commander,
Cheer, my comrades, cheer."

As the ocean mariner, approaching his long-sought home harbor, rejoices when he reaches the sure signs that prompt him to cry, "Land ho!" so the faithful christian voyager can now shout from his Pisgah, top-most height, Behold, behold the "summer land" of the redeemed, the saints' Eden home, where the toil-worn and weary will rest and rejoice evermore. The land where the oppressor's foot never treads; where the frowning face is never seen; where no unkind, impure, or offensive words are ever spoken; where the love cords of affection are never broken; where sorrow's tears never flow, and none feel pain or woe, or have fear of its coming. It is "the kingdom of heaven," the abode of the immortal, the incorruptible, the pure and holy. It is just the place for those who are to live for ever. What a blessed hope is the christian's! It includes eternal life, eternal health, eternal honor, eternal glory, eternal friends, eternal joy and peace; in short, perfect and eternal satisfaction.

Are not these sublime truths sufficient to cause us to do all in our power to spread them far and wide? Shall we withhold our means to send them to those who have never heard the good news, that soon, very soon, this charming ideal will end in the glorious real? Let us make a free-will offering to the Lord at this time worthy of our high calling; worthy of the sons and daughters of the Most High; worthy of redeemed ones, whose home, happiness, and life are to be unending in boundless glory. Let it be a sacrifice that we can feel; one free from stingy covetousness; a noble, whole-souled heart offering; not forgetting that the two mites of the widow won the premium praise from the lips of Jesus. She alone did all she could; and doing that, did more than all the rest. Remember also, the Lord loves a cheerful giver. He enjoys no offering grudgingly given. He is liberal, and commends the same spirit in his children. His only begotten Son gave his all, even his life-blood, to cancel our sinful debts, and to secure to us life eternal. Shall we murmur or look sour, when asked to assist in leading others to the cleansing stream? Nay, verily. Let us be noble according to our means, and honor our high calling by an act of generous benevolence, that shall be a sweet savor to our coming King. Let us live where we can heartily sing:

"My all to Christ I've given,
My talents time and voice,
Myself, my reputation,
And Jesus is my choice."

All of which is respectfully submitted.

Boston, Aug. 5th, 1875.

SIGNS OF THE SPEEDY COMING OF CHRIST.

WM. SHEPHERD.

"And there shall be signs in the sun, and in the moon, and in the stars; and upon the earth distress of nations, with perplexity; the sea and the waves roaring, men's hearts failing them for fear, and for looking after those things which are coming on the earth, for the powers of heaven shall be shaken. And then shall they see the Son of man coming in a cloud, with power and great glory. And when these things begin to come to pass, then look up, and lift up your heads, for your redemption draweth nigh."—LUKE 21: 25–28.

(Continued)

Another sign of the approaching doom of the world is the wonderful astronomical phenomena which presents itself to the eye of the observer from time to time. We have had many singular appearances of late in the heavens. The planetary system, it is affirmed, is undergoing great changes. Some of the fixed stars, so called, are being moved out of their places; while others appeared wrapped in flames and disappear from the firmament altogether. The moon presents a stranger face than it was wont, as though it was not well pleased with the situation; but last, not least, are those large spots on the sun, visible to the naked eye. The aspect of the sun, through a large telescope, is one just now of singular interest, and seems to claim special attention from scientists. Says an intelligent observer:—

"The remarkable changes of the solar surface have formed the subject of repeated observation. Daily maps of the position of these spots are made, and their singular variations have been the object of most interested scrutiny. The area of one of the large spots, which is now near the centre of the disc, has been computed from careful measurements, and found to exceed 2,300,000,000 square miles. Such immense numbers convey no very definite impression, and perhaps a more vivid idea of the size may be gained by comparing it with that of the earth, whose entire area is less than a tenth of that just given.

This is the area of the penumbraan immense expanse of variegated forms, crossed by channels and convergent streams of luminous matter, all shifting under an action like that of some whirlwind, which is twisting them from one position to another, and changing their forms from hour to hour. The current sometimes seems to rush downward, carrying with it great masses of luminous matter to lower depths, and opening as it does to black cavities of a size commensurate with the scale on which this action is carried on. The largest of these cavities is seen to be overhung with parts of the brilliant surface, which visibly break away in enormous portions, and sink in it out of sight. Indeed it is quite within the truth to say, that a globe the size of the world might be dropped in without touching either side. It is impossible to convey an adequate idea of the impression of infinite and exhaustless energy, of which one is conscious while beholding this with adequate optical aid. Masses, the size of whole continents, are utterly changed in shape, or disappear from one day to another, sometimes while the observer watches them; and the whole spot is to all appearance being slowly rotated by the cyclones, which are visibly working there.

This is one of the many centres of similar action, not all on the same scale, but baffling the eye by their number and incessant change of form, which the draughtsman labors after in vain, and which even the photograph can but imperfectly render. The public may not share the interest of the professional observer in such matters, but our own planet is too intimately connected with these phenomena not to make them claim some interest from all of us."

The stellar, planetary, and solar systems, all present an unnatural aspect, while the meteorological economy seems to show signs of unrest, as there are remarkable changes taking place in our atmosphere, turning the seasons out of their wonted courses, producing marvelous appearances, and singular effects. See Joel 2: 28–32; Rev. 6: 12, 13.

Again, the picture drawn by the inspired apostle, as found in 2 Tim. 3, would seem to have its perfect counterpart here. It might require yet a few slight touches to bring it out a perfect likeness, and when the picture is completed, we may look with additional assurance for the speedy coming of the JUST ONE in glory.

In this chapter of signs, as here given by the apostle, the most distinguished of which is—"having a form of godliness, but denying THE POWER thereof" (i. e., repudiating experimental religion, denying the life and power of godliness—the vital element of Christianity, which is the most important part of all—Rom. 8: 9); being but christians in theory. When we carefully look at this entire prophecy, and then cast our eyes over Christendom, if facts are convincing, we must come to the conclusion that we are in the last of the last days, and that "the end of all things is at hand." It would appear, according to this prediction, that some of the greatest and most reliable signs given us, as tokens of our blessed Lord's return, are to be found, not so much in the visible heavens, or upon the earth in a geological sense, but within the pale of the nominal church. Little did we suppose that a professed church was to become so fallen, so degenerated, so backslidden from God, so averse to the truth of the gospel, so worldly-minded, so cold and formal, as to virtually deny God and Christ, in denying the power of godliness, and thus become the place of so many signs of the Lord's speedy coming.

It is also said in the next chapter, "They will not endure sound doctrine, but after their own lusts shall they heap to themselves teachers having itching ears; and they shall turn away their ears from the truth, and shall be turned unto fables." Look over Christendom to-day, and see if her fallen condition does not tally with these prophetic utterances. Are not her "lovers of pleasure more than lovers of God" crowding her stately sanctuaries, treading her gorgeous courts, and increasing in numbers daily? And do not her gaudy forms, and captivating rites and pompous ceremonies, bespeak her want and destitution of that primitive Christianity which comes clothed in humble garb, like its divine Author, who once appeared upon the mountain tops and on the plains of Judea, divested of all human appendages, rendering it "the power of God nnto salvation to every one that believeth?" Does not that fulness without give witness to an utter emptiness within?—"professing to know God, but in works denying him." We might go on and give a volume of testimony in proof that these two last features in the dark category of signs—"lovers of pleasure," etc., and "having a form of godliness," are fulfilled before our eyes to-day; but time would fail, and place could not be afforded.

The most marvelous sign of the near approach of Christ is that, perhaps, which is the least noticed, and yet is the most dangerous—infidelity under the guise of Christianity. Satan is transformed into an angel of light. There is a tendency of false systems to combine into what are called union conclaves. In proportion as we see opposing systems converging, and preparing to coalesce, we may recognize a sign of the near approach of the Son of man.

Another is the promulgation of error under the garb of Christianity. The assaults of Satan (as a sagacious writer justly observes) are increasingly specious, as the world grows older. Simple heathenism and simple infidelity are rough forms of evil, and not at all likely to deceive many, on whom the light of the gospel has shone. And there is not a single intimation in Scripture of any such rough assaults in the time immediately preceding our Lord's coming; but rather the reverse. So far from a prevalence of avowed infidelity being a sign of the near approach of the end, the apostle has told us that the form of religion would prevail. The assaults of the enemy will become more and more subtle, captivating, and likely to deceive by so close an imitation of the truth; and hence the more to be feared. The present infidel tendency, instead of resulting in the triumph of infidelity, will, after a while, drive men into sympathy with Roman apostasy. The necessity under which infidelity lies of assuming a christian name, and of wearing the dress of a christian minister, in the garb of an angel, is characteristic of this period. The enemy's final effort will be as an angel of light; and the more moral, religious, and christian-like his minister, the stronger is the sign that we are drawing toward the end. We do not suppose that Satan overcame our first parents in the garden, at the time of the temptation, by showing his true colors. His appearance, doubtless, was nowise repulsive, but rather seductive and captivating.

"Ye shall not surely die," was the biggest lie ever palmed off upon the human family, and has proved the most disastrous to the race of man. Satan, seeing this, did not fail to employ every means at his command in order to make sure of success; hence, it was a great day with him. He put on an unusually winning appearance, which was well calculated to gain his point in the great deception. This great falsehood has been handed down through all succeeding generations, under various forms and modifications, and has been incorporated into all the varied systems of theology extant. It is to-day spreading itself like the green bay tree, passing current under the names of "natural," "innate," "constitutional immortality," "never-dying soul," "immortal soul," "deathless spirit," etc. The Pantheists, Mohammedans, Mormons, Quakers, Pagans, Chinese, Japanese, Brahmins, Indians, Infidels, Atheists, Spiritualists, Jews and Gentiles, Catholics, Protestants, and Scientists; yea, all classes, all nations, tongues and people, seem to join here. Though they differ in so many other respects, on this matter they join hand in hand, and seem to have endorsed this great lie of Satan, and have it incorporated into almost all their creeds and articles of faith, regarding it as the most important feature contained therein.

We are fast verging on the winding up of the present economy, when this great falsehood will be fully exposed before the blazing light of heaven. Satan, being well aware of the issue impending, is busy making his last and final effort to do what he can for the ruin of man, and to cheat as many more as possible out of eternal life; and need we expect that his method will prove any the less seductive and subtle now than at the first? We may be assured he fully understands the "situation," and is not ignorant of the etiquette of the age. As Satan is transformed into an angel of light, working with "all deceivableness of unrighteousness in them that perish," we may understand more clearly the import of Paul's "perilous times," and of John's "hour of temptation."

(To be concluded.)

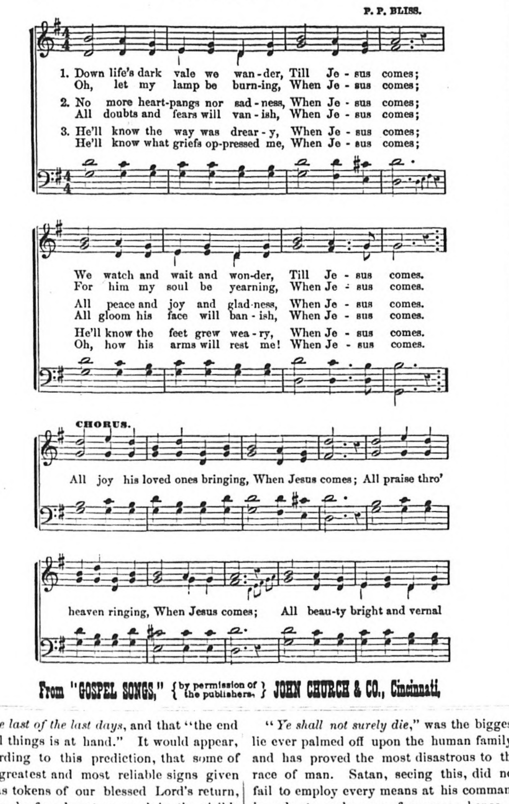
38 When Jesus Comes.

P. P. BLISS.



From "GOSPEL SONGS," {by permission of the publishers.} JOHN CHURCH & CO., Cincinnati.

WHAT GOD COULD NOT DO.

D. K. BARRETT, JR.

It has been said, "If God could have utterly destroyed, or annihilated man after he had sinned, he never would have given his Son to die to redeem him. But God had made man a living soul—an immortal soul, and he could not annihilate him; so he must give his own dear Son to redeem him."

Now let us not be hasty, but think a moment about this.

1. The Bible does not say God "made man an immortal soul"; that cannot be said upon Bible authority. It says "man became a living soul" (or "living creature"—Heb., nephesh chaiyah), and this the fish of the sea are called. Gen. 1: 20—"the moving creature that hath life" (margin—soul). And in Rev. 16: 3—"And the second angel poured out his vial upon the sea, and it became as the blood of a dead man; and every living soul died in the sea." This is the literal death of a "living soul," as fish do not die spiritually. So "living souls" are not immortal souls. See also Gen. 1: 21—"living creature" for fish; verse 25, for cattle, "creeping thing, and beast of the earth.' Verse 30 includes "fowls of the air" as "living soul"—margin.

2. God never has said in the Bible that he could not destroy man, or the soul; but on the contrary, after man sinned, his days were represented as numbered. "Cursed is the ground for thy sake; in sorrow shalt thou eat of it all the days of thy life." Gen. 3: 17. Then, too, it was declared that he should be unmade. "In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread, till thou return unto the ground; for out of it wast thou taken; for dust thou art, and unto dust shalt thou return." ver. 19. A literal unmaking of man. Then I cannot think all the precaution God took was in vain. Notice, and you will see God did not know but he could stop man from living forever, for he says—"And now, lest he put forth his hand, and take also of the tree of life, and eat, and live forever, therefore the Lord God sent him forth from the garden of Eden, to till the ground from whence he was taken; . . . and he placed a flaming sword . . . to keep the way of the tree of life." Vers. 22–24. Did this precaution fail? Let us read a little further and see. "And all the days that Adam lived were nine hundred and thirty years, and he died." Gen. 5: 5. Is this a true record? If so, Adam is not alive now, unless he has been raised from the dead.

But his soul, you will say, lived on, and is still alive. Then the soul was not Adam, for he died; but the Bible says, "Man became a living soul" after he was made and received the breath of life. And it follows that when he is unmade, "his breath goeth forth, he returneth to his earth, in that very day his thoughts perish." Ps. 146: 4. He has ceased to be a "living soul"; or, if the soul still lives, it is without thoughts. The Bible, however, says not a word about the soul living when man is dead. But it does speak of souls dying, and that literally. And it is declared—"The soul that sinneth, it shall die." Ezek. 18: 4, 20. Here the whole connection shows literal death is meant. Besides, the sinner is already spiritually dead. A man already spiritually dead cannot die spiritually, any more than one literally and physically dead can die physically. Then, too, Jesus declares, God is able to do just what you say he cannot do; i. e., "destroy both soul and body." Matt. 10: 28. Let us look and see what Robinson's Greek Lexicon says is the meaning of the word apollumi, here translated "destroy": 1. To destroy utterly, to perish utterly, to perish. (a) to put to death, to kill, to slay, to put an end to. (b) to destroy, to bring to an end, or to nought. 2. To lose utterly, to lose.

3. So it was not because God could not have destroyed man utterly that he did not; but as Jesus said—"As Moses lifted up the serpent in the wilderness, even so must the Son of man be lifted up; that whosoever believeth in him should not perish (be destroyed—apollumi), but have eternal life. For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life." John 3: 14–16. Thus the love of God is magnified, and the love of Christ. Not that he had made such a blunder (for God does not make blunders; he has infinite wisdom and foresight) as to make a being he could not unmake, but must eternally endure, though hateful to him. No, no; it could not be that God would have preferred mankind to have been annihilated, rather than that his Son should redeem them by his death; for if so, all must acknowledge he in his infinite wisdom would have so ordered it, and in his infinite power have executed it. But Jesus did it willingly out of love, that we might not thus perish. "For the joy that was set before him, he endured the cross, despising the shame." And that joy was to see those that believed on him glorified and immortalized in his heavenly kingdom. "He shall see of the travail of his soul and shall be satisfied."

Let us be like Jesus in this, seeking no greater reward for our labor for sinners than to see in the coming kingdom the fruit of our labor. Paul anticipated this and said, "What is our hope, or joy, or crown of rejoicing? Are not even ye in the presence of our Lord Jesus Christ at his coming? For ye are our glory and joy." 1 Thess. 2: 19, 20. God is love. In this was manifest the love of God toward us, because that God sent his only begotten Son into the world, that we might live through him. Herein is love, not that we loved God, but that he loved us, and sent his Son to be the propitiation for our sins. Beloved, if God so loved us, we ought also to love one another." 1 John 4: 8–11.

4. Now let us see what it was God could not do. His power is not limited; he had power to annihilate man, soul and body; why did he not do so? Ah! it was his love. He could not let man thus perish, without providing a way of escape; without offering salvation from the sin and misery man had brought upon himself. Justice alone might have said, He is worthy of death; let him die. But his love said, Save him; save him at the expense of the shame, the ignominy, that they will heap upon thine only begotten Son, when he comes to offer himself for them; yea, at the expense of the death of thy dear Son, the Lamb of God, on the cross. And Jesus, "for the joy that was set before him, endured the cross, despising the shame." Glory be to Jesus! Glory to the Father! Reader, will you despise such love? Will you suffer it to be in vain in your case that Jesus came and died for you? O make sure. He is soon coming again. Be ready to meet him. Amen.

APOLOGIES.—Do not make them, dear young brethren, just entering upon the noblest of vocations—the christian ministry. Your self-respect, respect for your audience, the high character of your office, all require that you should feel the solemnity of the occasion, the fitness of the theme, and your ability to improve the opportunity. If you have failed to qualify yourself for the service, an apology will not benefit you; it will excite distrust or commiseration, and thus rob the cause of a certain power. Better fail many times, and let these failures teach you a salutary lesson, than to get into a habit which so ill befits the pulpit. Do not apologize no matter what has happened. It is your duty to be in the pulpit, it is your right to be there without a word of explanation or apology.—Ex.

"BE YE ALSO READY."

JOHN FINN.

We hear much said about our "blessed hope," the coming of Christ, and the great change that will then take place. But are we really ready to meet the Judge of all the earth? Are we not too much given to pride? Hark! All the proud will God destroy. Let us beware of making a vain show. There is death pronounced against it. Are vanity and worldly amusements entirely rooted out of our habits? Are we dead to them? if not, it is time they were expelled from us. Are we really unspotted from the world? "If any man love the world, the love of the Father is not in him." Again; whoso "hath this hope in him purifieth himself." Are we pure? are we ready? We know the day will soon come that will try us, so as by fire. Seeing we look for such things, what manner of persons ought we to be, in all holy conversation and godliness. How is it with us? and what is our example before the world? Are our lights burning, that others, seeing our good works, may glorify our Father which is in heaven? Are we in all respects like those who are really waiting for their Lord's return? It is no small thing that we are looking for. Eternal life in a perfect state is a great reward, offered for obedience. Remember that Christ died that we might live; and unless we forsake all and follow him, we cannot be his disciples. We must be dead to the world, and alive to Christ, if we ever gain the priceless boon of an endless life.

Remember, it is because we have accepted God's everlasting truth, against all manner of sectarianism, that has made us a people; and while the truth cuts off all false doctrine, it also cuts off all ungodliness and worldly lusts. Although we have been wonderfully blessed with a knowledge of God's sanctifying truth, yet, I fear we have not been careful enough to walk square up to its requirements. Brethren and sisters, let us wake up to the just claims of a loving Savior. We have already trifled too long with the vain allurements of this fleeting world. A few more days, or years, at most, and where are they? Forever gone! Let us be wise for ourselves, and in good earnest lay hold on the hope set before us. Let us make no further delay. If we are not ready now, let it not be so said to-morrow.

Our motto is, "First pure, then peaceable." The cause of truth is gaining slowly, even here in South Florida; but, oh! how busy the enemy of all righteousness is to counteract it. Yet we have "great peace" among ourselves. We are settled and established in God's all-prevailing truth, and are patiently waiting for our blessed Lord to come again, that we may behold his glory, and reign with him on the earth restored; that we may rest from our toils, where there is no more curse; that we may sing the songs of redeeming grace, where there is no more sin. O, how we long for the reign of perfect peace, where all will be pure, and all will be blest.

No hand of oppression in that blissful state,
Not a shade of transgression, no feeling of hate;
Not a note of discord through the regions afar,
Not a voice of dissension our union to mar
No sickness, no sadness, no lingering pain,
But health and bright beauty forever shall reign

Our hearts are glad, because we have sweet visions of a brighter day. We know that we are now in perilous times, that delusive snares are spread on every side; therefore it becomes us to "watch and pray, lest we enter into temptation"; for as long as we trust in God, and walk humbly before him, we need fear no harm; we can calmly view the angry world.

Though the tempest is cruel, and reckless the storm,
We know, by the tokens, to us us they're no harm;
Our faith is unshaken, and firmly we trust
That our merciful Father is mindful of us.
The storm of life is raging high.
And adverse winds are whistling by;
Still in God's hand I will patient be,
I know the dear Lord is remembering me.
The sea is rough, and the night is dark,
And the billows lash my little bark;
'Mid threatening waves of a troubled sea,
I know the good Lord is mindful of me.
Christ has my heart, and he has my hand
To walk by his side in that beautiful land.
Where the river of life rolls its sparkling flood,
'Mid the trees of life, in the city of God.
O that we all, like an unbroken band,
Might walk side by side in that holy land;
No sadness, no parting, no toil, no pain,
When the whole earth in beauty shall blossom again.

But, ah! have you seen the dark, turbid waters that are rolling between? Have you seen the black folds of the uprising storm that will mantle the earth before the bright morn? Have you heard the low rumble of the world's coming strife? Soon the billows of nations will be contending for life. O let us all be ready ere that dreadful day. At present the picture is sad, look which way you will (except by faith). It is distress of nations with perplexity. We listen. It is the note of alarm. We listen more closely, and we catch the sweet music of hope. We look; the dashing billows foam, the darkening tempest howls. We gaze; we see a ray of light, which grows brighter and brighter. Hope's music charms. Just down the misty future the sun shines out again. The storm will pass away, the billows sink to rest; our lurking foes will disappear, and perils be in the past, when this world's turmoil is over.

But who shall abide when "destruction upon destruction is cried"; when the whole land is spoiled. It will be only those that are ready; those who are unspotted from the world; the meek, the lowly, the pure in heart; those that believe the truth and obey it. But O what a day of disappointment that will be to many, even to those who profess to do many wonderful works in Christ's name. Let us beware lest there be spots of worldliness still about us, some lingering pride, some unholy lusting after worldly pleasure or gain; that bewitching, hankering desire to follow the vain, delusive fashions. It is one of the most effectual snares of the last-day perils.

I often inquire, with deep, fervent prayer,
In that beautiful world, O who will be there?

Yours in hope of life through Christ.

Apopka, Florida.

The World's Crisis
AND
SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

Boston, Wednesday, Oct. 6, 1875.

TAKE NOTICE.

All subscriptions for the "CRISIS," issued from this time forward, are at the rate of

$2.25 a year, payable IN ADVANCE.

POSTAGE FREE TO ALL within the United States, the Canadas, and the British Provinces.

Please Remember!

All remittances to this office, in the form of Drafts, Bank Checks, and Postal Money-Orders, should be made payable to the Business Agent, GEO. T. ADAMS.

THOSE who send articles for the "CRISIS," should direct them to the ' ITORS OF WORLD'S CRISIS," Boston, Mass.

PLEASE READ, REMEMBER, AND ACT ACCORDINGLY.

The br thren, sisters, friends—one and al—whoever may write to this office, sending articles for insertion in the Crisis, or subscriptions for the same, notices, appointments, reports, or orders for papers, books, tracts, or anything of the kind, will confer a favor and do the right way by directing their letters in either one of the following ways:—

"EDITORS OF WORLD'S CRISIS, Boston, Mass."
"WORLD'S CRISIS, Boston, Mass.," or
GEO. T. ADAMS, Agent, Boston, Mass.

Those who send articles for the Young Pilgrim should address—

"EDITOR YOUNG PILGRIM, Boston, Mass."

In no case address letters on business connected with the papers, or office, to any of the clerks, compositors, or helps in this office.
AGENT.

HEREAFTER address me at BOSTON, MASS. All private letters should be marked "personal." MILES GRANT.

SR. LADD, the widow of Bro. R. E. Ladd, is very sick at Tolland, Ct. She is resting sweetly in Jesus. Pray for her. M. G.

BRO. A. W. SIBLEY has been invited to become the pastor of the church meeting in Providence, R. I., and has accepted the call. M. G.

BRO. S. G. MATHEWSON has decided to comply with the earnest request of the church at Castleton, Vt., to return there to be their pastor. M. G.

THE Jewish year began at sunset, Wednesday evening, Sept. 29th. With the Jews, new year's day is one of solemnity, and is observed as a day of preparation for the day of Atonement, which occurs ten days afterwards. M. G.

THE SPRINGFIELD MEETING was a happy success. The interest continued to increase to the end. Some decided to be christians, and several made a full consecration to Christ, and entered "the valley of blessings so sweet." The power of the Holy Spirit was specially present. Methodists and Baptists were present, and were pleased to unite with the spirit of the meeting. There was much interest to hear the evidences which show that Jesus is coming soon, and also on the subject of holiness. These two themes should be made continually prominent. They are twins in the gospel dispensation.
M. G.

WHAT NEXT?—We find the following news item among the telegraphic news from Chicago:—

"At Chicago, Ill., Tuesday evening, Sept. 28th, the Board of Education, with but one dissenting vote, discarded the Bible from the public schools."

Did those noble souls, who landed on Plymouth Rock in 1620, suppose that the blessed Bible, which they loved so well, and which is the only book that tells us how to secure eternal life, would be excluded from the public schools, in one of the leading cities of the nation? This act will give the Catholics grounds for a strong plea for separate schools, that are not godless, and where the Bible can be used. M. G.

DAY OF PREPARATION.

The whole current of events shows very clearly that we are near the coming of Christ. Among the many bright evidences is the wide-spread feeling, now springing up in the hearts of professing christians, that they must be entirely consecrated to the Lord. None are satisfied till this is done. The Holy Spirit seems to be visiting all truly justified, or pardoned persons, urging them to place their all at the feet of Jesus, and say without reserve, "Thy will be done." They feel assured that the time has come to make full preparation to meet the coming of the great King. When they are all given up to Christ, and filled with the Holy Spirit, then they feel ready to meet him at any moment. The nearer the evidences show his coming to be, the more they rejoice. They are longingly and lovingly waiting for his return. They are separate from the spirit of the world, having no desire for its pleasures, honors, or riches. All who have thus become dead to the world and sin, feel a very strong union with each other; not because they think just alike on doctrinal points, but because their hearts are filled with the "one Spirit." There is no other union so strong and heavenly. It is just such a union as should exist between all who are to compose the bride of Christ when he appears.

All roots of bitterness, hatred or variance, pride, malice, envy, lasciviousness, covetousness, strife, deceit, and other evil things, must be removed from the heart before one ready to meet our coming Lord. Bad habits must be laid aside, and we must be cleansed from "all filthiness of the flesh and spirit."

The period in which we are living is one of thrilling interest, and is becoming increasingly so as we approach the winding up of this dispensation. We cannot write our feelings on this subject. Language is too tame to give utterance to the emotions that are welling up within, as we see the overwhelming evidence showing that soon the last sand will drop from time's hour-glass, and open to an astonished world the great day of the Lord. Is the reader ready for the event? Is the consecration complete? Is the heart pure and filled with the Holy Spirit? If the preparation is not complete, let this be the first business to receive attention. Let the work be done in the most thorough manner possible. Heed the special call of the Spirit of God, and give the heart unreservedly and for ever to Jesus.
M. G.

THE CONDITION OF TURKEY.

Those best qualified to judge correctly are well convinced that the end of Turkey in Europe is not far in the future, and no doubt all her neighbors would gladly see her depart to return no more. The Mohammedans have been a strong anti-christian people, and have done much to hedge up the way of a pure Christianity. The Mohammedan power has been operating about 1260 years. It has been running parallel with the Papacy. They rose together, and, no doubt, will end together. Their present positions are quite alike. Both must be near their death struggle. The time seems to have come, when the enemies of Christ must fall for ever. Their work is about done.

A correspondent of the Boston Journal, writing from Turkey, says:

"It is a well-known fact that for a long time the Ottoman Empire has existed only by the permission and direct assistance of the Powers of Europe. It is generally the case that after a patient has been nursed and cared for a reasonable length of time, the doctors and friends begin to look for signs of recovery. They expect to see him upon his feet again and able to care for himself, or else to grow weaker and weaker until death closes the scene. So with the "Sick man of the East." Having been nursed and shielded for fifteen or twenty years, it is but fair to expect the same result, recovery or death.

Government seems to have no other thought for the people except to plan ways to extort money from them. Taxes have greatly increased within a few years, and are still increasing. Every few months a new burden is laid upon the people in the shape of a new tax. . . .

It seems to be the general opinion of all, except the Turks themselves, that if Russia were to make war against Turkey in real earnest she would make quick work of it. It is not probable that England would again come to the rescue, in which case the struggle would be short and decisive." M. G.

HOLINESS.

(Concluded.)

Holiness being the state or condition of a true christian character, it is produced by the same power and act which constitutes that character.

Christianity is produced in man by God; the man passively yielding, as a patient yields to a physician. Man cannot purify his moral nature by his own power, any more than a leopard can change his spot or an African his skin.

As God does this work, it is all done perfectly. When sins are washed away by God, there are no stains remaining. The heart is made right, and not partially so. God accepts and saves men on the condition of their believing and practicing all truth which he presents to them.

God justifies a man when he submits to all his requirements. Justification is approval, acquittal, and cannot be received from God until we consent to be and do all he demands of us. As God requires us to be holy, he cannot justify us while we refuse or neglect to occupy the position of holiness; for then he would justify rebellion against his own will. When we fully yield to him we are made holy, or he fails to accomplish his purpose. Therefore justification and holiness are experienced at the same time.

Again, God cannot justify sin, therefore justification commences where sin ends; and as holiness is a sinless state, it must also commence where sin ends; therefore, both commence at the same point. They also end at the same point, for God ceases to justify where sin commences, and holiness ends where sin is introduced.

Holiness is the condition of a christian in a sinless state, the same as peace is the condition of those in a loving, harmonious state. It is a state of freedom from moral pollution and vileness, as peace is freedom from strife and contention. We can no more enjoy christianity without holiness than we can enjoy freedom from war and strife without peace. A christian is as truly and certainly holy as a rich man is wealthy. Holiness is the condition of a believer in Christ, just as illumination is the condition of a place filled with sun rays.

The gospel, in its operation, and the Spirit in its purification, produces holiness, just as naturally and certainly as the sun produces light and heat. They were instituted and given for that purpose, and it is a detraction from their glory and power to say that they fail to accomplish it in a single case where they are applied. We repeat the sentiment, God's work is perfect; and as he changes men's hearts and their moral condition by the means he himself has instituted—the gospel, Spirit and blood of Christ—and as this work is only done on the condition that the sinner fully surrenders to have it accomplished by God in the way and by the means he has instituted, it follows that it is as fully accomplished as he has purposed to do it. God never cleanses from some sins and leaves others unpardoned. He never partially changes the heart, leaving it neither holy nor wicked. We are either in a state of sinfulness or holiness; we are either righteous or wicked; we are either the servants of Christ or of Satan. Christ and Satan have no co-partnership in ruling the human heart. One or the other reigns supreme. The idea that we can walk with God and ride on the car of popularity, and at the same time enjoy a partial salvation, diluted christianity, and be in a salvable state is, we believe, a very dangerous error, and will carry millions down to perdition in the final issue.

God does not tell about the pure in heart being classified into partially pure, pure, and extra pure; but Jesus says, "Blessed are the pure in heart; for they shall see God." There is only one class, with one standard of character, with one shade of purity, and that absolute, for God himself makes it so. Paul did not write to his brethren, distinguishing them, some as being converted and justified only, and others as being sanctified and holy; but he said "Holy brethren," meaning all the believers in that place.

Again he says, "If any man be in Christ, he is a new creature; old things (sinful things) are passed away; behold, (mark this) all things are become new." To become new is to be put in a perfect state, or condition, like a new garment, or a new machine. God created man "very good," that is, in a very perfect condition; but sin impaired him, morally and physically, and the work of restoring him commences at conversion, when he is "renewed;" that is, he is made "very good" again, not physically, but morally, "in the spirit of his mind." The language of the text clearly expresses a thorough change, a completeness of character; "all things become new," perfected; and he adds—"And all things (the things made new) are of God." 2 Cor. 5: 17–18. He sums up his argument upon the great change produced in the sinner by the power and work of God through the gospel thus: "For he hath made him (Christ) to be sin for us who knew no sin; that we might be made the righteousness of God in him." To be made the "righteousness of God" is to be made righteous like him; to have the same kind of righteousness that he has, which is the same thing as being "partakers of his holiness." Jesus expressed the same truth when he said to his church—"Be ye therefore perfect, even as your Father which is in heaven is perfect." Matt. 5: 48.

John evidently accepted this high gospel standard of christian holiness, taught by Christ, and emphatically expressed it in the following language: "Herein is our love made perfect, that we may have boldness in the day of judgment; because as he is, so are we in this world." 1 John 4: 17. This perfection and likeness to Christ is not in the human nature, but is in the divine nature, which is received from God when we "escape the corruption that is in the world through lust." 2 Peter 1: 4. It is known and manifested through the perfect love enjoyed by every true believer. It was the same in Christ that it is in his people. He loved God supremely, and so do they. It was his meat to do the will of his Father, and so it is theirs. He loved the praise of God more than the praise of men, and so do they. He spake not his own words, but those the Father gave him to speak; so will his people delight in doing.

God constituted Abraham, by giving him a prophetic name and a characteristic righteous and holy character, the father or representative of all his holy people. He did this that his people might have a pattern of a holy character, and learn the way that it was obtained and sustained. It was obtained by faith in the Word of God, and sustained by obedience to that Word. Paul expresses it thus: "For we say that faith was reckoned to Abraham for righteousness;" that is, God reckoned him worthy of occupying the position and receiving the reward of a righteous and holy man, because he believed his Word. He then expresses the truth that his children, of the holy seed, should imitate him in their faith, by which they should sustain the same character, and be heirs to the same reward thus: "Who against hope believed in hope, that he might become the father of many nations, according to that which was spoken so shall thy seed be." God gave him a certain experience, so that it might become a sample of the experience of the righteous of many nations. "Righteousness is nearly equivalent to holiness." —Webster. The terms are always applicable to the same class, and the conditions expressed by them are obtained at the same time and in the same way.

This faith of Abraham was not an abstraction, which acknowledged God in some of his revelations, and scoffed at others because they were anti-scientific and unpopular, but the virtue of his faith consisted in believing that which the scientists and the masses discarded; viz., that Sarah should bear him a son when she had passed age, and that the son should inherit "the world." It was not enough for him to believe in general truths which could not test the fidelity of his heart, but he must believe specific revelations, which promised uncommon, unnatural events, so that his real confidence in God might be manifested.

This same test of the moral condition of the human heart has been applied, in every case when God has made known his decision, by separating the holy and the unholy by his judgments, since the world began. At the flood none were found holy, only those who were made so exactly as Abraham was, by believing specific truths, which drew out the highest degrees of confidence in the truthfulness of God's word. So it was at the burning of the cities, the journeyings in the wilderness, the first advent, the destruction of Jerusalem, and under all other circumstances where the real condition of the heart was manifested.

Satan has succeeded in deceiving nearly all who have failed of obtaining the favor of God in the past, by counterfeit religion, superficial sanctity. This was manifested clearly in the typical history of the Jews, in connection with the first advent of Christ. They classified themselves in their gradation of holiness and consecration, the Pharisees claiming to be the only truly holy class in the world. Their sanctity was superficial, but very deceptive; for its external, in profession and many good works, was, to the unanointed eye, very perfect, but to Christ this counterfeit holiness was the most dangerous element he found in the world. He represented that boastful, self-confident, self-righteous class as "whited sepulchres," which appear beautiful outward, but are within full of hypocrisy. He then with a terrible denunciation said unto them, "Even so ye also outwardly appear righteous unto men, but within ye are full of hypocrisy." He then tells us in what their hypocrisy consisted, which was in building the "tombs of the prophets" and garnishing the "sepulchres of the righteous," while they were then scoffing at the fulfillment of the predictions of those very prophets which they professed to honor as God's servants.

Those predictions presented the signs of the times, by which they were required to identify the event of Christ's first advent. God offered them the righteousness of Abraham, whom they professed to reverence, by believing the specific truths presented to them as Abraham believed those revealed to him. But they despised the prophets, by rejecting their predictions in their fulfillment, and the way by which God's ancient righteous servants obtained their holiness, by refusing to accept it for themselves.

We are taught distinctly in the Scriptures that the experiences of that people are presented to the gospel church as "types" and "examples," so that we may shun the snares in which some of them were taken and obtain the holiness and salvation which some of them enjoyed.

We wish it distinctly understood that we emphatically believe that holiness, with the divine stamp and seal upon it, obtained by the only way through which God has purposed to give it, is absolutely essential to present and eternal salvation. We cannot believe that men are enjoying high states and superior conditions of holiness while they long and persistently scoff at the most glorious, sublime and important truths now being preached and published with the Holy Spirit sent down from heaven.

We are conscious that we write these sentiments with our heart filled with love for our race. We wish to raise the true standard of holiness, so that we all may see our real standing, while we have the opportunity to plant our feet on the Rock, if we find that we are not there. J. C.

THE INFALLIBLE POPE.

There is pretty sure evidence that a terrible struggle is to take place between the supporters of "the infallible Pope," and those opposed. We believe it will be the death struggle of papacy, resulting in its utter and eternal defeat, followed immediately by the personal coming of Christ, the resurrection of the dead, and the establishment of "the kingdom of heaven." The Catholics are very actively employed in making preparations to secure success when the time arrives to strike. They are forming and drilling military companies, well armed and equipped for war service, stirring up their votaries to a high degree of religious fervor against whatever is opposed to "the infallible Pope," and are endeavoring to make them believe that sure success awaits the Catholic church. A spirit of infatuation has come over her members of late, giving them an insolent boldness, and causing them to take a firmer step, and to present a bolder front against all her foes, especially in America. Although her political dominion is gone, yet she is still prevailing in this country, and expects to wield the controlling power here in Church and State. If there is no other way to accomplish her object, the Pope may yet declare himself in favor of the popular reform principles, in order to obtain the support of the masses. No artifice will be untried that he may think will secure a Catholic triumph.

The spirit of papacy is the same that it has been for a thousand years—"the end justifies the means. The end to be gained is to put the greatest possible power in the hands of the Pope and his officials. The whole system is the devil's counterfeit of Christianity, with which he has deceived the whole world. The Catholic church is not composed of saints, but she is "drunken with the blood of the saints, and with the blood of the martyrs of Jesus."

Her history for the past few years shows that the time for her judgment has come, and soon the martyred saints will rise to "see the smoke of her burning."

The reports of the Ecumenical Council of 1869 and 1870, are still fresh in the minds of our readers. When the final vote was taken to decide whether the Pope was infallible or not, it stood 450 in favor, 88 against, and 862 did not vote. When describing that scene, Dr. Cumming, of London, says:

"The Revelator tells us that the great city was divided into three parts. In the first there were those who were in favor of the dogma of infallibility; then there were those opposed to it; and then those who were undecided—exactly three parts. After the majority vote declared him infallible, the Pope had a grand throne erected in front of the eastern window in St. Peter's, and arrayed himself in a perfect blaze of precious stones, and surrounded himself with cardinals, and patriarchs, and bishops in gorgeous apparel for a magnificent spectacular scene. The great decree of infallibility was to be read. He had chosen the early morning hour and the eastern window, that the rising sun should flash its beams full upon his magnificence, and by it his diamonds, rubies, emeralds, so refracted and reflected, that he should appear to be not a man, but what the decree proclaimed him, one having all the glory of God. In this fullness of splendor, with his illustrious dignitaries about him, and a vast throng assembled to witness the pageant, the Pope posted himself at an early hour before the eastern window and awaited the essential effulgence of the king of day. But the king did not appear. The sun refused to rise or shine. The dismal dawn darkened rapidly to a deeper and deeper gloom. The dazzle of glory could not be produced. The aged eyes of the would-be god could not see to read by daylight, and he had to send for candles. Candle-light strained his nerves of vision too much, and he handed the reading over to a cardinal. The cardinal began to read amid an ever blackening gloom, but had not read many lines before such a glare of lurid fire and such a crash burst forth from the inky heavens as never was equalled at Rome before. Terror fell upon all. The reading ceased. One cardinal jumped trembling from his chair, and exclaimed, 'It is the voice of God, speaking the thunders of Sinai;' and here was fulfilled the seventh vial saying that is written: 'There came a great voice out of the temple of heaven from the throne, saying, 'It is done.'" M. G.

YOUNG PILGRIM LESSON PAPERS.

We are about to add a new feature to our Sunday-school paper, The Young Pilgrim. The A. C. Pub. Society at first contemplated publishing weekly Lesson Papers, but after deliberation it was thought best to have them issued in the Young Pilgrim, thus giving to them a larger circulation than by the former method, and also adding to the interest of the Pilgrim. Two lessons will appear in each No. of the Pilgrim, except when five Sundays occur in one month, when there will be three in one No. and two in the other. The lessons the first month will be on the following subjects: The Bible, God, Jesus Christ, and the Holy Spirit. The lessons as they will appear from time to time, are intended to present the leading truths of the Bible, doctrinal and practical, in a form adapted to the capacity of children, and yet in a manner to deserve the attention of adults. In a word, they are intended for our Sabbath-schools, not for a few classes, but for all, old and young, and we hope they may be liberally subscribed for.

The preparation of them is entrusted to the Editor of the Youug Pilgrim. In addition to the subjects above mentioned, the lessons will in due time embrace biographical sketches of prominent Bible characters, enforcing the lessons to be learned from their lives. It is intended to make these lessons as attractive, interesting, and instructive as any that are published, and if our friends who have wished for them will now take hold of the work in good earnest in extending the circulation of the Pilgrim, and renewing their own subscriptions, we see no reason why their publication may not be a permanent arrangement. We hope all our Sunday-school superintendents will become interested in them at once, and begin their use with the first that are published. The first lessons may be expected to appear in the November Nos. of the Young Pilgrim.
AG'T.

LIGHT ADVANCING.

There has been no time, probably, for twenty-five years, when the interest in the coming of Christ wes spreading so rapidly as at the present time. This affords reason for rejoicing among all the friends of Jesus. One cause for this change lies in the fact, that many of our brethren and sisters have lost their sectarian spirit, and have been uniting with the christians in other denominations in efforts to save sinners, and have ceased throwing clubs at those who may honestly differ from them. They have found that when they are filled with the sweet Spirit of Jesus, their presence is welcome in prayer and conference meetings, and soon they are pleased to hear about our blessed hope of seeing Jesus in a short time.

In the Sunday N. Y. Herald, of Sept. 5th, may be found the following:

"Never in the history of the world has there been a period when animate and inanimate nature and the thought and soul of man were so involved in strife as at present. From all the civilized parts of the earth news is continually coming that either insects and pests, or storms and tempests are destroying the result of man's labor, as well as causing the race much direct physical annoyance, making a positive (not seeming) combination of the forces external to man to thwart him. Now, let us view man, as related to external things, this climax of creation, for whom the earth was made and to whom was given domimion over all therein. Never was he in such a state of war, never more ready and anxious for revolution in every part of the globe, than at present. Existing religious institutions are being questioned, for man finds that religion, as it exists, is not the pure thing it was when it first descended from heaven, but has become corrupted into a political power, or, to all intents, an element purely social in all its branches and ramifications.

Socially there exists great distrust among men because religion has ceased to be a bond. Politically there never were so many oppressors and oppressed, for the rich classes and the politicians in every country in the world never were more united in self aggrandizement to the exclusion of the rights of those upon whom they blindly look as their dependents; so that life is a continual strife for existence between the poor and the combination of the rich and the rulers. This is the secret of the present warlike state of Europe. It the combined sentiment of the oppressed of Europe against both church and State oppressions, which is causing politicians and statesmen so much uneasiness and so much doubt and uncertainty as to what move to make in order to retain their ascendency and power. Our own country is as deeply involved as any country in the world in this order of things, as every poor man can answer for himself.

Who is to be the leader of right and truth against might and corruption? Let our ministers turn to their Bibles and tell the people something of this, instead of preaching hollow-hearted sermons to hollow-hearted logs and semi-religious opponents of human freedom."

Religious and secular papers are speaking out plainly on the signs of the times, and expressing a strong expectation that the end of the present dispensation is at hand.
M. G.

WESTERN MISSOURI.

The crops in Bates and Vernon counties, in western Missouri, that were so ravaged by the grasshoppers last spring, are exceedingly good, considering the lateness of the planting. There will be an abundance of food in the country, for which we feel to thank God. I have received, to distribute to the needy, twenty-six dollars and forty-five cents, by which I have been enabled to prevent several worthy families from suffering. I have sent private acknowledgments to each donor, except one 50 cts.—no name—and a friend, from Orleans, Mass., $2. We all feel very grateful to those dear friends who so kindly extended to us a helping hand in our adversity. We are looking for our Elder Brother to return and divide his inheritance with us; then we shall meet in our Eden home, and toil and suffer no more. Thank God for the hope.
W. W. CATE.
Hudson, Bates Co., Mo., Sept. 23d.

THE TRACT FUND.

THE ADVENT CHRISTIAN PUBLICATION SOCIETY, at a meeting on Springfield camp-ground, August 11th, 1875, voted to raise Two Thousand Dollars for the free distribution of Tracts the ensuing year; and they invite the help and co-operation of all lovers of the Lord and of his truth, in the furtherance of the good cause. The times are ominous of coming events, and admonish us to diligence in the Master's work. The Lord is at the door, and what we do must be done quickly. Let the contributions be prompt, hearty, and liberal. The Lord will reward the liberal giver.
A. W. SIBLEY, Sec. Adv. Chris. Pub. Soc.

Remittances should be sent to the Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS, Boston, Mass., or they may be enclosed with remittances to the Crisis Office.

DONATIONS FOR THE TRACT FUND.

Previous acknowledgments	$50 45
A. D.	5.67
H. V. Davis	5.60
S Dodge	1.00

POOR FUND.

TO SEND THE "CRISIS" TO THE POOR.

Previous acknowledgments	$16.20

YOUNG PILGRIM FUND.

AMER. ADV. MISSION SOCIETY.

Donations are earnestly solicited, to enable this Society to send out missionaries, and other means, into the Southern States, and elsewhere, as the Lord may open the door, to proclaim "the glad tidings of the kingdom at hand"; and should be sent, as also payments of pledges made, to the

Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS,
P. O. Drawer 5002, Boston, Mass.

who will acknowledge the same in the columns of the Crisis.

Aug. 6th, 1875, and onward.

Previous acknowledgments	$1007.63
Miles Grant (on pledge)	25.00
Robert Allen (on pledge) for J. A. Cargile	10 00
" " for J. C. Smith, for Tracts	5.00
James Mayne	1.00

FOR THE POOR, ETC.

Previous acknowledgments	$2.00
A Sister in Putnam, Ct., for Sr. Tuller	5 00

FROM BRO. P. G. BOWMAN.

Dear Brethren:—I arrived home in due time after leaving Boston. I found my poor wife considerably wasted in flesh from the time I left home, which was some five weeks. She has to take morphine all the time to neutralize her dreadful pains. She sits up a portion of the time, and reads and sings. Whatever may be the result of this horrible disease, our consolation is, that she gloriously rejoices in hope of immortality and eternal life, by a resurrection from the dead, when Jesus the Lifegiver comes. O, is this not worth worlds on worlds such as this one now is? I do hope the saints of the Lord will make her case one of special prayer.

I have visited and preached at my three churches. Peace reigns among us, and the brethren are waiting in joyful expectation for God's Son from heaven. I hope to commence a series of protracted meetings next Saturday week. O that we had a dozen or two of the brethren and sisters, the sweet singers in Israel, such as I heard at our blessed campmeetings. What a power for good they would be among us. Now I do want all God's dear children to pray for these meetings, that we may have a pentecostal time. Amen, so let it be.

The first Sabbath after I left home in July I spent with the brethren in New York. Bro. Cox arranged for me on 24th St. We had three blessed meetings. Here I found, like in many other places, a great many good and intelligent men and women who believe in the immediate coming of the Lord, and the utter mortality of the race, but who, on some minor points, have become divided; while if they were united in Jesus, as they ought to be, they would be a power for good in that great city. O that the Lord would bring about some influence to accomplish this most desirable result, is my earnest prayer.

From New York I went to Concord, N. H., where I spent two Sabbaths, preaching in the City Hall and the Advent Chapel. The Advent church, which had been separated for many years, worshiping in two separate halls, had just buried the tomahawk, and come together in the unity of the Spirit and the bonds of peace. May they be kept blameless unto the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ. I visited a number of the brethren and sisters at their homes, and return them my sincere thanks for the kindness shown me. My home while in Concord was in the family of Eld. Andrew Simpson, and I am only sorry that, during their long stay with me last winter, I was not able to show them half the kindness I received from them during my ten or twelve days' sojourn with them. The Lord reward them a hundredfold in this, and in the world to come with eternal life. Amen.

On Monday morning, after the second Sunday in August, Bro. Simpson and myself started for good old Springfield campmeeting. Here every thing seemed to go ahead of previous years, except our missionary collections and pledges. By the by, is not the spirituality of a church measured pretty much by the amount of money given to spread the truth? and is not the amount of money given a pretty sure index of the depth of desire for the salvation of men?

From Springfield I went to Seabrook campmeeting. This was the first meeting ever held at the place. The salt water is close by, and the ocean is quite accessible by boats. This was a good meeting, and I have no doubt, if time should last, and meetings are continued here, much good will be the result. From Seabrook I went to Alton Bay, one of the most romantic spots in the world. This was a great and good meeting. It has become too large and unwieldy, and I sincerely pity the committee who have the wearing out and tearing out management of it. It seems to me they can scarcely have time to say their prayers. I am afraid it will break down under its own weight. It is said to be the largest campmeeting in the world.

From Alton Bay I went to spend a day, as usual, with my dear friend Bro. Hamblin, and his delightful family. He sent my poor afflicted wife a large basket of pears, which I forwarded by express. They reached here in a few days ripened beautifully, and were as luscious as if pulled directly from the tree. A thousand thanks to Bro. H. They did my wife a great deal of good, for all the fruit in this State was killed in April last by frost.

I preached one night in East Boston, and spent the night with my old friend George T. Adams, and his dear family. The Lord bless them for both worlds. One night I spent with Bro. J. Couch, the christian gentleman, the eloquent preacher, and an able Editor of the World's Crisis. And then homeward bound from New York to Washington. I had Bro. J. A. Cargile, of Ala., for a traveling companion. He is a good and amiable man, and an excellent preacher. I hope God will abundantly bless him in his field of labor.

Lydia, S. C., Sept. 22nd, 1875.

"AMONG THE PROPHETS."

As reported by the N. Y. Witness, in concluding his discourse concerning the taking of Ai by Joshua, Rev. T. De Witt Talmage says: "I believe that this year, between Sept. 1875 and Sept. 1876, will be the most stupendous year that heaven ever saw. The nations are quaking now with the coming of God. It will be a year of success for the men of Joshua, but of doom for the men of Ai. You put your ear to the rail track, and you can hear the trains coming miles away. So I, to-day, put my ear to the ground, and I hear the thundering of the lightning train of God's mercies and judgments. The mercy of God is first to be tried upon this nation. It will be preached in the pulpits, in the theatres, on the streets, everywhere. People will be invited to accept the mercy of the gospel; and the story, and the song, and the prayer, will be mercy. But suppose they do not accept the offer of mercy—what then? Then God will come with judgments, and the grasshoppers will eat the crops, and the freshets will devastate the valleys, and defalcations will swallow up the money market, and the fires will burn cities into ashes, and the earth will quake from pole to pole.

Year of mercies and judgments. Year of invitation and warning. Year of jubilee and woe. Which side are you going to be on? with the men of Ai, or the men of Joshua? Pass over, this autumnal Sabbath, into the ranks of Israel. . . . You cannot stand what is to come upon you, and upon the world, unless you have the pardon and the help of Christ. Come over! On this is your happiness and safety; on the other side disquietude. Eternal defeat to the men of Ai! Eternal victory to the men of Joshua! No more furloughs. Don the WHOLE armor. Our Joshua against the world." H. PRATT.

TO VERMONTERS.

Saints of the Most High: Your State missionaries, chosen for the purpose of carrying the latter-day gospel into new fields, and thereby establishing churches, which shall wait for the Son of God from heaven, are determined, by the help of the Lord, to push this work with undivided interest, perseverance and devotion. We ask the prayers, co-operation, spiritual and financial encouragement of all the lovers of God's work. Many of these new fields have no one to bear burdens, and consequently must be supported by donations from the saints in other places. For this purpose, we have a State Missionary Association, and all who will help the missionary cause here will send funds by money order, or registered letter, to A. A. Hoyt, Waterbury, Vt., and send their prayers up to the God of heaven.

Vermont is probably as good a missionary field as any in the country. Several flourishing churches have been raised up within the last three years, and still the work goes on. We are now holding meetings in Chester, under much pressure of opposition and prejudice; but though we commenced with few, our congregation is now good. It will take a long and strong pull to wear down this awful prejudice. We commenced in the Vt. Mission tent, but the weather was attended with so many sudden changes, high winds and cold evenings, that we have pulled down, and now hold meetings in a hall, which is far preferable, and much to the benefit of the work. Several calls are in from new fields for meetings. We hope the empty treasury will be replenished at once, so the work will not be hindered.
A. A. HOYT, for Mission.

Correspondence.

From Bro. L. Boutell.

Dear Brn. "of the most holy faith":—I feel deep humiliation and gratitude to God, who, by his divine goodness, has restored me by his miraculous power, so that I am able to be at my former labor, enjoying it exceedingly. I was permitted, by the blessings of Him whose I am, to attend three of our yearly campmeetings. I first attended for a short time the camp at Tremont, Mass., in July. There was evidently spiritual improvement beyond former years, and more interest manifested to rise higher in the scale of spiritual life, self-sacrifice for Christ, and the good news of his coming kingdom, with a corresponding determination to make more effort to save the sinner. This delighted my soul. When I received the hearty greetings of the dearly beloved, holy brethren, "looking for that blessed hope," I could but glory in the Lord, and thank him that I was alive, and not among the dead.

I also had strength to attend the National Campmeeting at Springfield, Mass., where I saw many familiar faces. I was at the annual business meeting; heard expression of differences plainly spoken, without detriment to the hidden, inner life of the disciples of Jesus. This was indeed gratifying. I also enjoyed some soul-refreshing prayer-meetings, where all hearts seemed to beat in harmony, with a strong, growing desire to be more dead to the world, and alive to Christ and his cause, as we are nearing the harbor of eternal glory. How blessed to be associated with such a godlike people, that, while they may differ, they would not for their lives do one another any hurt. O may it be my lot to be associated with such a brotherhood. This national meeting was good. Many resolved to live better in the future, renewed their covenant obligations, made new consecrations, were converted, and received new blessing, leaving all for Christ, and getting good, living religion.

I was also privileged to be at Alton Bay, N. H., a number of weeks before and during the campmeeting. This is a delightful spot to me; made so by twelve yearly visits to these feasts and convocations, amid the cottages and tents, where prayer, praise, and holiness meetings are in continual session, with songs of praise and hallelujah, joy unspeakable, and full of glory. How sweet! How blessed the affinity of spiritual life, brought about by the shedding abroad in our hearts of the Holy Ghost given to us. Then all is peace, sweet peace. Love then swallows up every evil. Christ then lives in us and we in him. That makes it blessed living. We then receive as many blessings as we know what to do with, while on this journey through trials and perils. This is the "good old way," good enough for our pilgrimage. It will certainly land us in glory, when Jesus comes. Let those who put their hands to the plough never look back. Remember Lot's wife. Put on the whole armor. Do not be afraid of being too dead to the world, or too much consecrated, sanctified, or holy. Come right up to the readiness to meet the Lord. "Be ye also ready." I do rejoice and feel blessed well to be alive in these wonderful times, so near our Lord's coming. I mean to improve the golden moments left us. Pray for me, dearly beloved.

Chelsea, Sept. 29th, 1875,

From Bro. G. W. Sederquest.

Dear Brethren and Sisters:—As many know of the recent affliction in our family, and have written to us to learn of our condition, I feel truly thankful to my heavenly Father for the privilege of writing a few lines to the Crisis, in answer to all inquiries relating to our sickness. For eleven weeks in the past we have been visited with typhoid fever, and it has made a clean sweep, till every member of my family has come down with it, myself included. Three of our children had recovered before the Alton Bay campmeeting, so that with my wife and two children I went to the campmeeting. While there my wife was taken down with the fever, and we were compelled to leave the ground and return home. One week later five others of the family were stricken down. But I can say, through the tender mercy of our Lord Jesus Christ, which hath abounded toward us, my family have rallied, and the greater part of them are up and active. My wife remains weak, but is gaining, and we hope will be about again in a few weeks.

I am improving wonderfully. God heard prayer and saved; how, I cannot tell, or why, I cannot tell; but I know he did, and we praise him for it. This has been a deep trial, but I have never complained. I felt like trusting God all the way through. Though means and money were scarce with me, yet I believed God, and rested in his promises, and have not suffered for anything. Praise the Lord.

I wish to acknowledge my heartfelt gratitude to the dear brethren and sisters of Lynn for their christian sympathy, and kind acts of real charity bestowed on us in a time of need. My head is too weak, and my hand trembles too much to write more at present. Pray for me.

Lynn, Mass., Sept. 24th.

From Bro. P. S. W. Deyo.

Dear Editors:—Having closed the tent-meeting at Waverly, which began July 27th, and lasted till August 1st, I went home to arrange for my southwest trip, and started Aug. 13th, with my family, consisting of four of us. Our conveyance being my team, we set in for a long pull, and a strong one, by the help of the Lord. We stopped the first night at Waverly, and found that the editor spoke well of the preaching, but said the sleep of the dead grated on the ears of some of the orthodox. I think the seed sown will be seen. Aug. 15th I left my family to rest, and went out to the church southwest of New Hartford, and met Bro. F. H. Kenney, who was to preach there that day.

July 20th, we arrived on the camp-ground, and found that the Iowa mission tent had not arrived; but it came the next day in time to get it up for evening meeting. Here we found old friends, and trust we found some new ones. The report of the meeting will be given by others, and the result will greatly cheer many who love the cause of truth in Iowa. I am glad that the way was opened for me to attend this meeting. I rejoice that the truth is on the gain. One of the seven that I immersed at this meeting was an Italian, a promising young man.

Aug. 30th, we struck the tent. Here is one of the trials of life. I fear to speak of it, lest some may think I am complaining. I had been out nearly all of the time, since June 1st, with the Iowa Mission Tent, and up to this meeting I had received, over and above the freight of the tent, about $15, to support myself and family.

Hamburg, Iowa.

From Bro. G. A. Streeter.

Dear Brn. and Srs.:—How have you been since campmeeting? How has the Lord dealt with you? and how have you enjoyed Christ and his religion? These and many other thoughts rush through my mind. How I should like to see you to-night. My heart is in this work—the work of Christ. But I am reminded often that trials and temptations abound. It seems that I never had so many as of late. But trials of every nature are calculated to wean us from the world, and cause us to think more of heaven and divine things. The promise is, "There hath no temptation taken you, but such as is common to man; but God is faithful, who will not suffer you to be tempted above that ye are able to bear; but will with the temptation also make a way of escape, that ye may be able to bear it." Thank the Lord for this. Then I am sure that I can bear it; so I go on, hoping and trusting that my God, whose I am, and whom I am endeavoring to serve in my feeble manner, will support me and keep me all along the line.

The battle rages hard. The enemy is bound to have the fort, but we can "hold the fort" still, by the grace of God. Then let us run up the banner with the motto, "HOLINESS TO THE LORD." This should be uppermost. God bless you all. I am laboring every Sunday in the highways, among the poor, with stated salary of houses and lands; and the prophet's bed is always in readiness for me. God and silver is short, but grace is not. Glory to God.

From Bro. E. Morrill.

Dear Editors:—I have had the pleasure of attending a Tent meeting here in East Concord. It commenced Sept. 19th, and is now on the second week, and the Lord is blessing. Sinners have started to serve the Lord, and wanderers have been reclaimed. It is good to see the old N. H. Mission Tent in the field again. I am glad that the Lord is still willing to bless under it. What blessed heavenly seasons I have enjoyed with the Lord and the brethren under it. I hope that it may yet be a Bethel where hundreds more may find sweet peace in Christ.

Sept. 30th, 1875.

J. W. BURROUGHS writes:—"It is a great consolation to see and hear that the work of our blessed Master is advancing. I love to hear from my brethren in the ministry, of their labors in the Lord, the progression of the work, etc. I would suggest that the ministry make brief reports of their labors of love. The cause in this vicinity is steadily advancing. I am preaching regularly at home (Raymond, Iowa), and at Cedar Falls and Waterloo. Baptized two at the latter place last Sabbath. May the Lord keep his own in perfect peace."

Obituaries.

GADSBY. In Ware, Mass., Feb., 1875, Mr. William Gadsby, aged about fifty-five years.

A christian, and one who waited for the "consolation of Israel."

In Ware, June 26th, 1875, Sarah, aged thirty-four years, widow of the above.

She was a long time sick of that fearful scourge, consumption, but bore all with christian fortitude, while her feelings revolted from death, and the prospect of leaving her children orphans. She repeatedly remarked, "I rest," "I have no sorrow," "My peace is made with God," "The will of God be done," and similar utterances. I visited her a few days before she died. She seemed ripe for the harvest. May God care for the dear children. "There is rest over there." E. O.

FOLLANSBEE. In Dorchester, N.H., Aug. 18th, 1875, Sarah C., wife of Lucian A. Follansbee, aged sixty years and ten months.

By request we tried to speak words of comfort to a large circle of mourning friends, from words found in 1 Thess. 4: 18. Sr. Follansbee died in full assurance of soon hearing the voice of her Master calling her to a reunion with her husband and children. May the grace of God sustain them in their hour of affliction. D. W. DAVIS.

ANDERSON. In Limington, Me., Sept. 2nd, 1875, of putrid sore throat, Howard A. Anderson, aged sixteen years and eleven months.

Howard was soundly converted some three years ago, and has lived a consistent christian life from that time to the hour of his death. His last hours of life were spent in exhorting his believing friends to faithfulness, and in inviting his unconverted ones to seek Christ. The entire community mourn his loss, as they all respected and loved him. Upon the occasion of the funeral Bro. J. A. Libby endeavored to console the bereaved.
C. H. SWEET.

CHENEY. In Sutton, N. H., Sept. 5th, 1875, Bro. Thomas Cheney, aged eighty years.

Bro. Cheney has been a believer in the coming of the Lord and literal resurrection for more than thirty years. May Sister Cheney in her feeble health and declining years lean on the arm of One she has so long trusted. D. W. D.

WELLS. In Rochester, N. Y., Aug. 19th, 1875, of marasmus, Florence Eleanor, only child of Jerome B. and Amelia E. Wells, aged four months and eight days.

Little Florence sweetly fell asleep when we were least expecting it, and although twice the rod of affliction has rested heavily upon us, we do not sorrow as those without hope, for we know our little ones "shall come again from the land of the enemy," when Christ comes "to make up his jewels."

Hope sweetly whisp'ring in our ears,
Tells of a brighter day,
When from our eyes the bitter tears
Shall all be wiped away.

Bro. J. B. Cook, of Brooklyn, spoke scriptural words of comfort. J. B. W.

Married.

HOYT—CHASE. In Warner, N. H., Sept. 23d, by Eld. Simeon Roby, Mr. JASON R. C. HOYT and Mrs. CLARA B. CHASE, both of Webster, N. H.

FOREIGN NEWS.

TURKEY.

LONDON, Sept. 29. The circular of the Porte declares that the present state of things renders it necessary to keep 100,000 men under arms between Mostar and Widden to watch trespassers, and Turkey is unable to continue this for an indefinite time.

DUBLIN, Sept. 28. A destructive flood occurred yesterday during the great gale, in the valley of the Lee lowland. The river rose several feet and inundated a portion of the city of Cork and the country for miles about, occasioning immense damage to property. Similar accounts have been received from other parts of Ireland and Scotland.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 28. The British squadron has gone to Chefoo, where the commander will await orders, pending a settlement of the difficulty existing between the Governments of Great Britain and China.

ROME, Sept. 30 Cardinal McCloskey was today installed in the Church of Santa Maria Sopra Minerva. There was a grand ceremonial and kissing of hands; the ceremony lasted over two hours.

VIENNA, Sept. 30. Seven thousand Turkish troops are concentrated on the frontier of Servia, and a collision with the insurgents is imminent.

MADRID, Sept. 30. A despatch received here says that bands of Republicans have appeared at Andalusia; cut the telegraphs and forced the suspension of railway traffic. Not being sufficiently supported they dissolved and are being pursued by Government troops.

DOMESTIC NEWS.

Washington, Sept. 29. The epizootic has appeared in every stable in this city, but in a very mild form. Only aged and feeble horses succumb to it. The fall races have been postponed on account of it.

Galveston, Texas, Sept. 28. Advices from Brashear dated Sept. 23, confirm the reports received from Matagorda that the town is wholly washed away, except four houses, which remain.

Sorel, Canada, Sept 29. A passenger train on the Richmond, and Drummond, and Arthabasca railway ran off the track six miles east of this place last night. Ten persons were killed and thirteen badly wounded. It is said a rail was placed across the tracks by some malicious person.

Notices.

NOTICE.—The Advent believers will hold meetings at the Sand Bank school-house, Haverhill Corner, N. H., on Sundays, as often as they can be supplied with a speaker. Any of the preaching brethren passing through this vicinity will please call on the writer, as I keep a pilgrim's home. Prayer meetings Thursday and Sunday evenings.
JAMES M. HARRIMAN.

THE Maine Second Advent Annual Conference is deferred till the second Tuesday in Dec., and will be holden with the church in Frankfort.
GEO. HUMPHREY, President.
W. H. MITCHELL, Secretary.

Campmeeting.

The Advent Christian Campmeeting of Northern Kansas and Southern Nebraska will be held at Peach Creek, Washington Co., beginning October 7th, and continue over two Sundays. Come all that can. Make a sacrifice to come, and come filled with the Spirit to work for God. Bring plenty of bedding, and all bring tents that can. Bro. and Sr. Clark will be present (D. V.), with a large missionary tent.

Committee: C. D. Potter, A. S. Field, J. W. Elliott, and Theodore Bedgar.

Brn. G. G. Godfrey, James Hayworth, F. O. Cutler, J. S. Thorp, E. N. Bliss, James Page, R. F. Clark, Sr. Clark, and others, will be present to assist in preaching the word.

For additional information, address C. D. POTTER, Peach Creek, Washington Co., Kansas.

The Advent Christian Conference of Northern Kansas and Southern Nebraska will be held during the early part of the meeting. Per order of Committee.

Conference.

The next Annual Advent Christian Conference of Northern Pa. and Southern N. Y. will be held at Little Marsh, Tioga Co., Pa., commencing Thursday evening, Oct. 14th, and continuing over the following Sunday. We hope to see a general gathering of the friends of truth. Come in the name of the Lord. Ticket by railway from Corning (Tioga depot) to Middlebury. Teams will be at Middlebury to convey to Little Marsh.
E. C. COWLES, President.
A. H. BRIGGS, Secretary.

CONFERENCE.—The Nova Scotia A. C. Conference will hold its next quarterly session with the church at Bear Point, Barrington, commencing Thursday, Oct. 7th, at two P. M., and continue over the Sabbath. An invitation is extended to preaching brethren to come and aid in this meeting. Come all who can in the name of the Lord Jesus, and labor for the salvation of precious souls. WM. HALLIDAY.

SPECIAL MEETING OF THE A. C. A.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Advent Christian Association held in Boston, Mass., Sept. 30th, it was voted that a special meeting of the Advent Christian Association be held on Tuesday, Dec. 14th, at two o'clock P. M., to consider the expediency of revising the Constitution of the Association, particularly with regard to forming a new basis of representation. A full attendance of preachers and delegates from the churches is earnestly desired. Each church is entitled to one delegate, and one additional delegate for every fifty members above twenty-five. The meeting will be held at the Advent Chapel in either Chelsea or Worcester, Mass., the churches in both places having invited the Association to hold the meeting with them. It will be positively stated in which place in the next Crisis.
S. G. MATHEWSON, President.
C. E. BARNES, Secretary.

Notice.

The Quarterly Conference of the Eastern District of Massachusetts will be held at the Advent Chapel, Lawrence, Mass., to commence Thursday evening, Oct. 7th, and continue over Sunday, the 10th.

It is desired that all the preachers of Eastern Mass. and as many of the brethren and sisters of the churches as can, may attend. An invitation is also extended to all others who may esteem it a privilege or duty to meet with us in this christian convocation. Let all pray for the divine blessing.
J. COUCH.

NOTICE.—The next annual session of the N. H. Advent Christian Conference will be held with the church in Concord, N. H., commencing Wednesday evening, Nov. 3d, and continue over the following Sabbath. An effort will be made to secure reduction of fare on the various railroads. Particulars hereafter.
A. ROSS, President.
C. H. FLETCHER, Sec.

Hoosick Valley Conference.

The annual meeting of the Hoosick Valley Conference will be held at Hoosick, N. Y., commencing Wednesday, Oct. 6th, 1875, to continue over the following Sunday. Let there be a rally of those interested in the return of our Lord to this earth, in all the country embraced in the territory of the Hoosick Valley Conference, to this annual feast. The church in Hoosick have kindly invited this annual session to be held with them. The friends in Hoosick will entertain and make comfortable all who come.

Let there be delegates appointed in all the churches and localities where meetings are held, that the state of things may be understood, and arrangements made to visit and hold meetings, etc. Do not fail to attend this meeting.

There will be teams at the depot to take those who come to the meeting free of charge. Purchase your tickets to Hoosick Corners, and take care so as to arrive there on the noon trains. In the mean time let prayer be offered that God may graciously bless at this gathering of Immanuel's friends.
A. W. SIBLEY, President.
W. O HIGLEY, Secretary.

NOTICE.—A quarterly session of the New Hampshire A. C. Conference will be held at Salisbury, South Village, commencing Thursday evening, Oct. 7th, and hold over the following Sabbath. It is hoped that a number of our preachers and many brethren and sisters will be present. Elders Stockman, Ross and others are expected to assist in preaching the word. D. W. DAVIS, for Com.

DEDICATION.—Dear brethren and sisters: The Second Advent Society in Palmer, Mass., have, through the goodness of the blessed God, and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, erected a chapel 34×50 for the worship of God. It is situated on Park Street. We shall (D. V.) dedicate the same Wednesday, Oct. 13th, and the church cordially invite brethren and sisters in the towns and villages to spend the day with us. Pray before you come, while you are coming, and after you get here, that God may bless this dedication to the saving of perishing men. Sermon at two o'clock P. M., by H. L. Hastings.
H. H. TUCKER, Pastor.

MISSION MEETINGS.—By request, we hereby give notice that the Vermont Mission is holding meetings at North Chester, Vt., and several have started for the kingdom of God. The spiritual tide is rising. We hold meetings afternoons and evenings. Brethren in adjoining towns will please come and help us. A. A. HOYT, for the Board.

CONFERENCE NOTICE.—The annual conference of the Canada A. C. Conference will be held in Hatley, P. Q., commencing Wednesday evening, Oct. 13th, and holding over the following Sabbath. Important business connected with the conference and campmeeting interests will be attended to, and all are urged to attend.

Reduction of fare over the Grand Trunk R. R. has been secured,—two thirds of one fare off. All persons, therefore, who intend to attend, will please drop me a postal card at once, that I may send them a certificate to present to the ticket office, so as to secure the double journey ticket.
L. C. MCKINSTRY, Sec. pro tem.

Connecticut A. C. Conference.

The Lord willing, this conference will meet at Plainville, Wednesday evening, Oct. 13th, and hold over Sunday, Oct. 17th. This is the annual meeting, and we hope to see a general gathering of preachers, delegates, and brethren and sisters interested, throughout the State. You expressed sympathy for the well being of the conference at our late campmeeting, and we trust it will now be practically endorsed. Thursday, Oct. 14th, is set apart for the transaction of conference business. Come promptly and attend to it, that the remainder of the time may be devoted to the preaching of the word and labor for the perishing.
SETH WOODRUFF, President.
O. D. WOODRUFF, Secretary.

NOTICE.—The annual session of the Advent Christian Conference of the Province of Quebec will be held at the "Old meeting-house," in Hatley, P. Q., commencing Wednesday, Oct. 6th, at one o'clock P. M., and continue over the following Sabbath. Eld. T. W. Piper, the Vice President of the New Hampshire Conference, is appointed delegate, and is expected to attend. Let written reports of churches, ministers, official members, and duly appointed delegates, be present in time, as a Vice President is to be elected, and other business done. Come in the right spirit.
CHAS. P. DOW, President.
E. C. ORCUTT, Secretary.

CONFERENCE.—The fourth session of the Maine Westerly Quarterly Conference will meet with the church at Brunswick (Yellow School-house), on Thursday evening, Oct. 7th, and hold over Sunday. Come, brethren and sisters, in the name of your Master, and work for the salvation of sinners.
H. D. REED, Pres.
H. S. MITCHELL, Sec.

THE quarterly meeting of the A. C. Church of Norwalk, Ohio, will be held on Saturday and Sunday, October 16th and 17th, and not during the fourth week of the month, as heretofore.
CYRUS MENDENHALL, Pastor.
A. C. Times, please copy.

NOTICE.—This is to certify that the A. C. Church worshiping on Hammond Street, Providence, R. I., have given Eld. A. W. Sibley a call to become their Pastor, and he has accepted the same. All preaching brethren wishing to exchange, or to preach, will confer with him.
J. W. LAKE, Church Clerk.

NOTICE.—Elder Cyrus Mendenhall having accepted the call given him by the church of Norwalk, Ohio, hereafter all matters of exchange or supply must be made through him. By order of the church. [A. C. Times, please copy.

SANDY HILL, N. Y.—Prayer meeting daily, and preaching each evening as interest continues. Next series of meetings to be held at Addison, Vt. Address all letters to Rutland, Vt., Box 70.
ARTHUR A. WAITE.

FOUND near Plymouth, Me., one tent, lost in going from the Pittsfield campmeeting, or coming to the Etna campmeeting. The owner can have it sent to him by describing the tent to me.
JOHN F. EMERSON, West Levant, Me.
Herald of Life, please copy.

LOST.—After locking up my trunks on the Alton Bay camp-ground, I lost a bunch of keys, all of which are valuable, belonging to my house, trunks, the church, etc., in all seven or eight. Our tent was right opposite the Mass. Mission Tent. Any one finding and forwarding the same to me, by mail, will do me a great favor.
ROLAND D. GRANT, Athol, Mass.

MY LABORS for the present and on until further notice, will be with the church in Whitefield, N. H. Brethren, please remember and address all communications designed for me to the above place. T. E. LANG, JR.

THE Advent Church in Wakefield having secured the services of Eld. Benj. Finney as their Pastor, all preaching brethren wishing to come there to labor, will please confer with him.
GEO. R. TYZZER, Clerk.

Appointments.

☞ APPOINTMENTS MUST BE RECEIVED AS EARLY AS TUESDAY MORNING (as our paper goes to press about noon) to insure insertion for the coming week.

☞ The following RESOLUTION was passed at the late meeting of the A. C. P. Society:—

"RESOLVED, That no appointments be published in the CRISIS henceforth for persons unknown to the Editorial Board (by which is understood the Editors, Editorial Committee, and Business Agent), unless satisfactory reference shall be given."

The Committee appointed by the Adv. Chris. Association, at its last Annual Meeting, to advise with the Editorial Board "in relation to the publication in the World's Crisis of the appointments of men unworthy of recognition as preachers," having attended to the duty assigned them, recommended, and the Editorial Board have adopted, and ordered to be published, the following resolution:—

"RESOLVED, That when the Editorial Board is properly notified by any of our Churches or Ministers, or responsible persons by a written allegation that a certain minister, or ministers lack moral character, that they be instructed to notify such minister, or ministers, of the information received as a reason for withholding their appointments till after a proper trial and acquittal."

All communications in relation to this matter should be addressed to the Secretary of the Board—GEO. T. ADAMS, Boston, Mass.

Boston (Branch Chapel) 2029 Washington Street, (corner of Madison Street.)
Love Feast at 10½ a.m. Preaching at 3 and 7½ p.m. Prayer meeting Tuesday and Friday evenings.

BOSTON (Repository Hall) 712 Washington St., corner of Kneeland St.
Preaching at 10½ a.m. and 3 and 7 p.m. Sunday School at 1.30 p.m. Prayer meeting Wednesday evening.

EAST BOSTON (Central Hall, 152 Meridian Street.)
Meetings every Sunday, at the usual hours, also prayer and conference meetings Wednesday and Friday evenings, at 7½ o'clock p. m.
H. Pratt.........at 3 and 7½ P. M., Sunday, Oct. 10th

CHARLESTOWN (HALL NO. 70 MAIN STREET.)
G. W. Brown........Sunday, Oct. 10th
Wm. N. Pile........Sunday, Oct. 17th

Chelsea, Mass.
Preaching Sundays, at 10.30 A. M. and 3 P. M.
Conference Meeting at 7 o'clock Sunday evenings. Tuesday and Friday evenings, at 7½ o'clock.
B. Emery........Sunday, Oct. 24th
M. Batchelor........Sunday, Oct. 31st

SOMERVILLE, Mass (Pilgrim Hall, Summer Street.)
Meetings every Sunday, at the usual hours, also prayer and conference meetings Tuesday and Friday evenings, at 7½ o'clock p. m.
Geo. W. Sederquest.......1st and 3d Sundays in each month till further notice.
B Emery........Sunday, Oct. 31st

HYDE PARK, MASS. (Connor's Hall.)—Meetings every Sabbath at the usual hours. T. M. PREBLE.

Kennebunkport, Me........Sunday, Oct 24th
J. COUCH.

Tremont, Mass........Sunday, Oct. 10th
Holden, Mass........Sunday, Oct. 17th
Providence, R. I........Sunday, Oct. 24th
C. E. BARNES.

Lake Village, N. H........Sunday, Oct. 10th
S. S. BREWER.

New Bedford........Sunday, Oct. 10th
Tremont........Sunday, Oct. 17th
Plymouth, Mass........Sunday, Oct. 24th
J. S. WHITE.

Hoosick Conference three days, Oct. 7th, 8th, and 9th
Rutland, Vt........Sabbath, Oct. 10th
Addison, Vt. (if desired) Tuesday and Wednesday, Oct. 12th and 13th. Northam (if desired) Thursday evening. Bro. Flagg proposes these two places. Please write him.
Castleton, Vt........Friday evening, Oct. 15th
Poultney, Vt........Sabbath Oct. 17th
Low Hampton, N. Y......Tuesday evening, Oct. 19th
Sandy Hill, N. Y......Wednesday evening, Oct. 20th
Saratoga Springs, from Thursday evening over the following Sabbath, where Bro. Duran appoints.
New Bedford, Mass......Sabbaths, Nov 7th and 14th
The week evenings between where Bro. Davis appoints. The two following Sabbaths at liberty.
Direct to Chicopee Falls, Mass. H. MUNGER.

Plymouth........Sunday, Oct. 17th
Mattapoisett........Sunday, Oct. 24th
M. BATCHELOR.

Tremont, Mass........Sunday, Oct. 31st
B. WOODSIDE.

Alton, N. H........Sunday, Oct. 10th
W. M. HARMON.

Lynn, Mass........Sunday, Oct. 10th
E. A. STOCKMAN.

South Rochester........Sunday, Oct. 10th
MRS. A. MARSTON.

Warehousepoint........Sunday, Oct. 31st
H. PRATT.

Bridgewater, N. H. (Brick school-house, Nutting's Mills) Sunday, Oct 17th. C. W. NELSON.

Farmington, N. H........Sunday, Oct. 17th
Kingston, N. H........Sunday, Oct. 24th
J. F. CHAMBERLIN.

Dover, N. H (Willand's Pond)......Sunday, Oct. 10th
South Rochester, N. H........Sunday, Oct 31st
S. VARNEY.

Newark, N. J........Sundays, Oct. 10th and 17th
Camden, N. J........Sunday, Oct. 24th
New Jersey City (Cooper Institute) Sunday, Oct. 31st
F. H. BURBANK.

New Britain........Sunday, Oct. 10th
WM. N. PILE.

Hyde Park, Mass........Sunday, Oct. 10th
Plymouth, Mass........Sunday, Oct. 31st
A. SIMPSON.

Greenwich, Mass. (Town Hall) Tuesday evening. Oct. 12th, and through the week. GEO. A. STREETER.

Cabot, Vt........Sunday, Oct. 17th
DANIEL D. PAGE.

Farmington Village........Sunday, Oct 10th
WM. BODGE.

Epsom, N. H (Marden's Corner)......evening, Oct. 23d
Chichester, N. H. (Pine Ground)......Sunday, Oct. 24th
N. B. MCMURPHY.

Albany, N. H. (Great Intervale)...Sabbath, Oct. 10th and onward as duty may demand. S. DINSMORE.

Chicago, Ill........Thursday evening, Oct. 28th
R. F. & M. J. CLARK.

Mayberry school-house........Sunday, Oct. 10th
Sebago (Lake school-house)........Sunday, Oct. 17th
MRS. H. S. CLARK.

Hudson (at Bro. Tozier's school house) Friday and Saturday, Oct. 8th and 9th, at two o'clock p. m., and over Sunday, the 10th.
Bradford.......at 2 and 7 p. m., Tuesday, Oct. 10th
A conference at the Advent Chapel in Corinna, commencing Thursday, Oct. 14th, at 7 p. m., and over Sunday, Oct. 17th. S. & L. W. BRAGG.

Pleasant Valley, N. H........Sunday, Oct. 10th
West Ossipee, N. H........Sunday, Oct. 17th
T. L. CHURCHILL.

East Holderness, N. H. (Stephen's meeting-house) Sunday, Oct. 10th.
Moultonborough, N. H. (at Bro. Hodgern's school-house) evening, Oct. 16th.
Sandwich, N. H. (Vitum school-house) Sun., Oct. 17th
JOHN H. EVANS.

Hill, N. H. (Centre meeting-house) Sabbaths, Oct. 17th and 24th. SIMEON ROBY

Lake Village, N. H........Sunday, Oct. 17th
Meredith, N. H. (Dolloff Hall)........Sunday, Oct. 24th
West Alton, N. H. (Chapel)........Sunday, Oct. 31st
C. R. PARSONS.

Bristol, Ct........Sunday, Oct. 10th
Square Pond, Ct........Sunday, Oct. 31st
P. S. BUTLER.

Woodville, Conn. (in company with Bro. Glover) at the Methodist church, Sunday, Oct. 10th.
Becket........Sunday, Oct 17th
WM. J. RIPLEY.

Haverhill Corner (Sand Bank school-house) Sunday, Oct. 10th.
Piermont, N. H. (Town House)......Sunday, Oct. 17th
Piermont, N. H. (Clay meeting-house) Sun., Oct. 24th
A. GORDON.

Freedom (Advent Chapel)........Sunday, Oct. 17th
M. STEVENS.

North Fayston, Vt........Friday evening, Oct. 8th and over Sunday, the 10th.
Warren, Vt........Tuesday evening, Oct. 12th
L. H. BRIGHAM.

Melvin Village, N. H........Sunday, Oct. 10th
Sandwich (Vitum school-house) Tuesday eve., Oct. 12th
E. OWEN.

Milton (Three Ponds)........Sunday, Oct. 10th
Newcastle........Sunday, Oct. 17th
H. S. PINKHAM.

Magog, P. Q. (Pond school-house) Saturday evening, Oct. 9th, and Sunday, the 10th.
Newville, Stanstead, P. Q........Sunday, Oct. 17th
Pittsburg, N. H. (Stream school-house) Sun, Oct. 24th
North Troy, Vt. (Baptist house) Sunday, Oct. 31st, and onward as the Lord may direct. Will Bro. Magoon meet with me? U. G. LADD

Bradford, N. H. (Pond meeting-house) Sun., Oct. 17th
Sutton, N. H. (Palmer school-house)..Sun., Oct. 24th
Danbury, N. H. (Town House)........Sunday, Oct. 31st
Bradford, N.H. (Bush meeting-house)...Sun., Nov. 7th
A. S. WILLIAMS.

Kennebunk Depot, Me........Sunday, Oct. 10th
Kennebunkport, Me. (Smith school-house) Sunday evening, Oct. 10th, at 6-30, also evenings through the week, except Monday.
South Alfred, Sunday, Oct. 17th, at 10.30, and Smith school-house, Kennebunkport, at 6-30, in the evening of the same day. JER. HILL.

Shirley Mills, Me........Sunday, Oct. 17th
Frankfort, Me........Sunday, Oct. 31st
J. T. LANE

Hardwick, Vt........Sunday, Oct. 17th
A. A. HOYT.

Barnstead, N.H. (Tuttle school-house) Sun., Oct. 10th
Pleasant Valley........Sunday, Oct. 24th
JANE DAVIS.

Campville, Ct........Sunday, Oct 10th
Morris, Ct........Sunday, Oct. 17th
W. TEFFT.

Oxford, Richville........Sabbath, Oct. 10th
Brighton Hill, Hebron, Sabbath Oct. 17th. Also prayer meeting Saturday evening, Oct. 16th, at seven o'clock. G. L. TRACY.

Meredith Neck, N. H........Sunday, Oct. 17th
Sandwich, (Vitum school-house)..Thursday evening, Nov. 4th.
Porter, Me........Sunday, Nov. 7th
LEVI ALLEN.

Limington, Me. (Hanscom school-house) Sun., Nov. 7th
J. L. CHUTE.

Dorchester, N. H........Sunday, Oct 10th
Warren Summit........evening, Oct. 12th
Piermont, N. H........evening, Oct. 13th
Haverhill, N. H. (Brook Village)..evening, Oct. 14th
Benton (where Brn may appoint)..evening, Oct. 15th
Haverhill (Brook Village)........Sunday, Oct. 17th
J. B. S. PILLSBURY.

Danville........Tuesday evening, Oct. 12th
Coaticook........evenings, Oct. 14th and 15th
Dixville........Oct. 16th, and Sunday, Oct. 17th
Kinney school-house........Oct. 19th
Wayville........evenings, Oct. 20th and 21st
Colebrook, N. H., eve., Oct. 23d, and Sun., Oct. 24th
West Poland, Me........Tuesday evening, Oct. 26th every evening, and over the Sabbath, Oct. 31st.
Biddeford, Me........Tuesday evening, Nov. 9th
Kennebunkport........Nov. 10th
Great Works........Nov. 10th
Seabrook, N. H., Tuesday, Nov 16th, and other churches in the vicinity, as Bro. Barton may arrange, till the 19th.
Salem, Mass........Sunday, Nov. 21st
ANNIE E. SMITH.

Charlton, Mass........1st Sunday in every month
Southbridge, Mass........4th Sunday in every month
SAM'L. AYRES.

Rockland, Me........Saturday evening, Oct. 23d and over Sunday, Oct. 24th.
St. George (as the Brn. may appoint) Friday, Oct. 29th and over Sunday, Oct. 31st.
Manhegin Isle........Friday, Nov. 5th and over Sunday, Nov. 7th.
Friendship, Me., Long Isle........Wednesday evening, Nov. 10th. H. S. MITCHELL.

Westport (at Bro. Admiral Tripp's) Sunday, 2 p. m., Oct. 10th
Plainville (Dartmouth)........Sunday, Oct. 17th
Charlton........Sunday Oct. 31st
M. E. OTIS.

West Otis........Sunday, Oct. 17th
Becket........Sunday, Oct. 24th
ENOCH PHELPS.

Farmington, N. H........Sabbath, Oct. 24th
South Rochester N. H. (Chapel)......Sabbath, Oct. 31st
East Canaan, N. H........Sabbath, Nov. 7th
Salisbury (South Road)........Nov. 17th
D. F. LEAVITT.

Salisbury, South Road, at the Conference) Oct. 7th and 8th.
East Concord........Saturday evening Oct. 9th
Fremont........Sunday Oct. 24th
ENOCH MORRILL.

Warren Summit, N. H........Sunday, Oct. 10th
G. W. LITTLE.

Ashland, N. H. (Plaisted school-house) eve., Oct. 16th
Ashland, N. H. (Pease school-house) Sunday, Oct. 17th, and onward. JOS. HARVEY.

Limerick, Me. (Holland's)........Sunday, Oct 10th
Bonny Eagle, Me. (exchange with Bro. Haines) Sunday, Nov. 14th. C. H. SWEET.

West Waterville (Memorial Hall)...Sunday, Oct. 10th and as much longer as thought best.
F. E. BLAISDELL. H. B. SEVEY.

Norwichville, Ontario......Sunday, Oct. 10th, at 10.30 a. m. and 2.30 p. m.
Houghton, Ontario, the following Sunday, at whatever hours the brethren there may arrange.
Fonthill, Ontario (hours yet unknown) Sun., Oct. 24th
L. C. KERR.

Sandwich (Vitum Hill)........evening, Oct. 28th and over Sunday, Oct 31st.
Freedom (Chapel)........evening, Nov. 1st
Steep Falls........evenings, Nov. 2d and 3d
South Windham, Me........evening, Nov 4th and over Sunday, Nov. 7th. E. S. MOULTON.

Salem, Mass......2d and 4th Sundays in each month until further notice. GEO. W. SEDERQUEST.

Granby, Mass. (Batchelder Street) the second Sunday in each month.
North Rutland, Mass..the last Sunday in each month
GEO. A. STREETER.

Palmer, Mass., the 1st and 3d Sundays in each month
Granby, Mass........fourth Sunday in each month
H. H. TUCKER.

Franklin, N. H....2d and 4th Sunday in each month
G. H. WALLACE.

Hinesburg, Vt., Sundays for one year excepting the last Sunday in each month.
Bristol, Vt., the last Sunday in each month for one year. WM. C. STEWART.

HAVERHILL, Mass. (New Chapel on Walnut St.)
W. H. Mitchell........Sunday, Oct. 10th
C. S. Shattuck........Sunday, Oct. 17th
I. B. Potter........Sunday, Oct. 24th
A. Simpson........Sunday, Oct 31st

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (Franklin Hall)
E. Owen........Sundays, Oct 17th and 24th

NATICK, MASS.
L. Boutell........Sunday, Oct. 10th
C. Goodrich........Sunday, Oct. 17th

NEW BEDFORD, MASS.
J. S. White........Sunday, Oct. 10th
A. W. Sibley........Sundays, Oct. 17th and 24th
S. S. Brewer........Sunday, Oct. 31st

CLINTON, MASS.
H. H. Tucker........Sunday, Oct. 31st

NORTH RUTLAND, MASS.
H. H. Tucker........second Sunday in each month

HAMPTON, N. H.
D. F. Leavitt........Sunday, Oct. 10th
Geo W. Brown (of So. Elliot, Me.) Sunday, Oct. 17th
A Simpson........Sunday, Oct 24th
C. Goodrich........Sunday, Oct. 31st
Wm. W. Sutherland........Sunday, Nov. 7th
A. Ross........Sunday, Nov. 14th
J. F. Chamberlin........Sunday, Nov. 21st

EXETER, N. H.
Geo. W. Sederquest........Sunday, Oct. 10th
B Woodside........Sunday, Oct. 17th
T. W. Piper........Sunday, Oct. 24th
W. M Harmon........Sunday, Oct 31st
W. W. Sutherland........Sunday, Nov. 14th
C. S. Shattuck........Sunday, Dec. 12th

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.
B. S. Emery........Sunday, Oct. 10th
Sr. Annie Smith........Sunday, Oct. 3[illegible]
Wm. M. Harmon........Sunday, Oct. 17th
E. A. Stockman........Sunday, Oct. 24th
Jane Benson........Sunday, Oct. 31st
M. Batchelor........Sunday, Nov. 7th
Annie E. Smith........Sunday, Nov. 14th

SEABROOK, N. H.
T. W. Piper........Sunday, Oct. 10th
J. C. Smith........Sundays, Oct. 17th, 24th, and 31st
Sr. Annie Smith........Sundays, Nov. 7th and 14th
Joseph Pinkham........Sunday, Nov. 21st
D. F. Leavitt........Sunday, Nov. 28th

CONCORD, N. H.
S. S. Brewer........Sundays, Oct. 17th and 24th

EAST CONCORD, N. H. (Ward House).—Meetings three times Sunday, also Tuesday and Thursday evenings
C. H. Fletcher........first Sunday in each month
D. W. Davis........third Sunday in each month

GREAT FALLS, N. H. (Franklin Hall.)
C. Goodrich........Sunday, Oct. 10th
J. W. White........Sunday, Oct. 17th
L. E Saulpaugh........Sunday, Oct. 24th
J. Bickford........Sunday, Oct. 31st

WEST DEERFIELD, N. H.
Enoch Morrill........Sunday, Oct. 10th
John Marsh........Sunday, Oct. 17th
John B. Paine........Sunday, Oct 24th
J. L. Chute........Sunday, Oct. 31st
C. R. Parsons........Sunday, Nov 7th

SOUTH ROCHESTER.
C. E. Hurd........Sunday, Oct. 10th
Jane Davis........Sunday, Oct. 17th
C. E. Hurd........Sunday, Oct. 24th

PORTLAND, ME. (Union Hall.)
R. R. York........Sunday, Oct. 10th
E. A Stockman........Sunday, Oct. 17th
R. R. York........Sunday, Oct. 24th
I. B. Potter........Sunday, Oct. 31st
E. A Stockman........Sunday, Nov. 7th
J. Couch........Sunday, Nov. 14th

SABBATUS, ME. (Jones' Hall.)
Jared Whitman........Sunday, Oct. 10th
H. D. Reed........Sunday, Oct 17th
E. S. Moulton........evening, Nov. 24th and over Sunday, Nov. 28th.

BANGOR, ME.
F. A. Baker........Sunday, Oct. 10th
J. T. Lane........Sunday, Oct. 24th

BIDDEFORD, ME.
Geo. W. Brown........Sunday, Oct. 10th
Wm. H. Mitchell........Sunday, Oct. 17th
J. Albert Libbey........Sunday, Oct 24th
E. A. Stockman........Sunday, Oct. 31st

SOUTH BERWICK, ME. (Great Works.)
J. W. White........Sunday, Oct. 10th
Joseph Pinkham........Sunday, Oct. 17th
Geo. W. Brown........Sunday, Oct. 24th
C. S. Shattuck........Sunday, Oct. 31st

SOUTH ELLIOT, ME.
D. M. Leavitt........Sunday, Oct. 10th
J. L. Chute........Sunday, Oct. 17th
J. W. White........Sunday, Oct. 24th
L. Boutell........Sunday, Oct. 31st

LEWISTON, ME.
C. Goud........Sunday, Oct. 10th

NEW HAVEN, CONN.
Jane Benson........Sunday, Oct. 10th
Enoch Phelps........Sunday, Oct. 17th
Wm. N. Pile........Sunday, Oct 24th

YALESVILLE, CT.
S. Woodruff........Sunday, Oct. 10th
Enoch Phelps........Sunday, Oct. 3d

WOODSTOCK VALLEY. CT.
A. Morse........Sunday, Oct. 10th
P. S. Butler........Sunday, Oct. 17th
C. Goodrich........Sunday, Oct 24th
Sr. E. L. Crumb........Sunday, Oct. 31st

PLAINVILLE, CT.
R. K. Stark........Sunday, Oct. 10th
W. Tefft........Sunday, Oct. 24th
B. Hitchcock........Sunday, Nov. 14th

BRIDGEPORT, CONN.
Mrs. E. A. Warren........Sunday, Oct. 17th
Mrs. E. L. Crumb......Sundays, Oct. 24th, Nov. 7th, Dec. 5th, and Jan. 1st.
Mrs. E. A. Warren........Sunday, Oct. 31st

MILLDALE (Southington, Ct.)
O. D. Woodruff........Sunday, Oct. 10th
R. K. Stark........Sunday, Oct. 17th
B. Hitchcock........Sunday, Oct. 31st

PUTNAM, CT.
Sr. E. L. Crumb........Sunday, Oct. 10th
H. Pratt........Sunday, Oct. 17th
B. Woodside........Sunday, Oct. 24th
A. Durfee........Sunday, Oct. 31st

SOUTH WINDSOR, CT.
I. B. Potter........Sunday, Oct. 10th
Mrs. Jane Benson........Sunday, Oct. 17th
G. L. White........Sunday, Oct. 24th

SOUTH WEST HOOSICK, N. Y.
Arthur A. Waite........once in four weeks
Flora Blanchard........once in four weeks

"GOSPEL SONGS."

"A choice collection of Hymns and Tunes, New and Old, for Prayer Meetings, Sunday Schools, etc."

This is a new book that has had a large sale at our campmeetings this season, and contains some very choice pieces:—"When Jesus Comes," "More to Follow," etc., etc. For sale at this Office. Price, 35 cts. per copy; $3.60 per dozen by express; by mail, 40 cts. per copy. AGENT.

THE ADVENT MINSTREL;

A choice collection of Spiritual Songs. Flexible cloth, 25 cents single copy; per dozen, $2.50 by mail. For sale at this Office.

PRICE REDUCED.

The great Map of History, twenty-two feet long, and about thirty inches wide. This valuable work, of which mention has been made in the Crisis, we now have a supply of, and will send to those who may order at the publisher's reduced price of $12.00 per copy, by express. We have them on rollers, and in book form, and can supply either way.

The best method of using the chart or map of history is to hang the frame on the wall of the room (the map being in the frame, of course), by the two hooks in the upper bar of the frame, high enough to stand, or sit, in front of it, and there examine or study it.

Students and beginners in history should occasionally look over the map in its entire length—drawn out on the wall, or tables, or on the carpet—until they are well acquainted with the entire outlines, plan and compass of the map, which embraces all history. AG'T.

A NEW TRACT.
"WHAT TO BELIEVE:"
A Work upon the Materiality of Man.
HIS CONDITION IN THIS AND THE FUTURE WORLD.
BY S. GUTHRIE.

This is an interesting and valuable tract of 48 pages, just issued by the A. C. P. Society. Price 10 cents per copy; 90 cents per dozen, by mail. AG'T.

THE DOCTRINE OF IMMORTALITY.
BY J. H. WHITMORE.

The former pamphlet edition of this valuable work having long since been exhausted, another edition has just been published, and we are now ready to supply orders for this book of 310 pages, for wide and general circulation, at the following very low rates: Single copy, 25 cents; per dozen. $2.50 by mail; $17.00 per hundred, by express. AG'T.

GERMAN TRACTS.

A new German Tract just out: "Does the Bible teach the Immortality of the Soul?" A reply to a letter from a German theologian in Prussia.

Other tracts as follows: "The Fifth Universal Kingdom, or Kingdom of Christ on Earth." "What is Man?" "Future Doom of the Ungodly." "Resurrection," etc.

LOUIS REIMER, No. 639 North Eighth Street, above Wallace, Philadelphia, Pa.

THE DURATION AND NATURE OF FUTURE PUNISHMENT.
BY HENRY CONSTABLE, A. M.

We have this valuable work in its unabridged form of 330 pages, neatly bound in cloth, for sale. Price, $1.00; postage, 16 cts.

STANDARD ENGLISH WORKS.
FOR SALE AT THE OFFICE OF
"THE ADV. CHRIS. PUB. SOCIETY,"
160 HANOVER STREET.

These works are imported from the London Repository, kept by Bro. W. Kellaway, and persons purchasing them will be helping to ensure the success of the English Depot. Works not in stock procured in a few weeks.

THE CRITICAL GREEK AND ENGLISH LEXICON and Concordance, designed for those who do not understand Greek. By the Rev. E. W. Bullinger. To be completed in from 12 to 14 parts of 64 pp. Royal 8vo. At 40c. per part to subscribers for the whole work, or 50c. to non-subscribers. Subscription for the complete work in advance, $7.00 cloth, and $8.00 leather. This work is highly recommended by the best English scholars. Part I. and II ready for delivery.

ENGLISHMAN'S HEBREW AND CHALDEE CONCORDANCE. 2 vols. The value of this work is proverbial. $20.00 by Express.

ENGLISHMAN'S GREEK CONCORDANCE. A companion volume of the above. $16.00 by Express.

ANTITYPICAL PARALLELS: or, The Kingdom of Israel and of Heaven. With Notes, Illustrations, and specially-prepared Maps of the original occupations of the Land of Canaan and of the Millennial Kingdom. By Lt. Gen. Goodwyn. $5.50 by Express.

THE LAST ADAM. (The Second Man, the Lord from Heaven.") By Lt. Gen. Goodwyn. $1.15; postage 16 cts.

THE WHOLE ARMOR OF GOD: an Explanation of the Christian Conflict and the Divine Panoply provided therefor. 75 cts.; postage 12 cts.

TRUTH AND TRADITION: a Defence of the Doctrine that "The Wages of Sin is Death, but the Gift of God is eternal life in Jesus Christ our Lord." 30 cts.; postage 2 cts.

THE MYSTERIES OF THE KINGDOM OF HEAVEN: An Explanation of Matt. 13th. 18 cts.; postage 1 ct.

NEW FACTS UPON ALL SUBJECTS. By the Author of "Enquire Within upon Everything." Useful to the housekeeper, and to persons of every profession. $1.00; postage 12 cts.

GOD MISUNDERSTOOD: or, Is Eternal Evil compatible with the character of God? By David Wardlaw Scott. 40 cts.; postage 3 cts.

CHRISTIANITY IN RELATION TO JUDAISM: A reply to the Pan-Christianism of N. Meyer. By G. Greenwell. 25 cts.; postage 2 cts.

THE LIFE OF JESUS: A CRITICAL EXAMINATION of Ernest Renan's famous work. By the same author. 25 cts.; postage 2 cts.

THE HOPE OF LIFE ETERNAL. By the same author. 25 cts.; postage 2 cts.

REASONS WHY ALL CHRISTIANS SHOULD READ God's written Word in Greek. 25 cts.; postage 2 cts.

HOMES OF OLD ENGLISH WRITERS, introducing the reader to the birth places and homes of old English authors. $1.00; postage 16 cts.

BUNYAN'S HOLY WAR. A pretty edition of the Dreamer's Work. $1.00; postage 16 cts.

FOX'S BOOK OF MARTYRS. In the same binding as the two preceding. $1.00; postage 16 cts.

Rev. H. Constable's Works.

DURATION AND NATURE OF FUTURE PUNISHMENT—fourth and last edition—containing 330 pp. Neatly bound. $1.00; postage 16 cts.

THE LOVE OF GOD VINDICATED. By the same author. Per dozen, 36 cts.; postage 2 cts.

THE QUESTIONS OF FUTURE PUNISHMENT and Contingent Immortality. By Chas. Underhill. 8 cts.; postage 1 ct

POPULAR THEOLOGY BROUGHT TO THE TEST OF Holy Scripture. By the same author. 8 cts.; postage 1 ct.

IMMORTALITY ONLY IN CHRIST. By J. G. Groom. Per dozen, 12 cts.

Business.

Notes to Correspondents.

☞ We cannot discontinue or send your orders, unless you give us the POST OFFICE and STATE in PLAIN LETTERS.

☞ DR. D. MATHEWSON'S address is San Francisco, California.

☞ R. F. & M. J. CLARK'S address is Peach Creek, Washington Co., Kansas.

☞ WM. C. STEWART'S address hereafter will be Hinesburg, Vt.

☞ J. C and S. E. SMITH'S address is Newton Upper Falls, Mass.

☞ ELD. J. PORTER'S address is Danville, P. Q.

☞ H. G. McCULLOCK'S address is DeKalb, DeKalb Co., Ill.

☞ A. GORDON'S address is Piermont, N. H.

☞ GEO H. WALLACE'S address is Manchester, N. H., No. 30 Orange Street.

☞ M. A. POTTER'S address is St. Johnsbury, Vt.

☞ C. MENDENHALL'S address is Norwalk, Huron Co., Ohio.

LIST OF PERSONS SENDING MONEY FOR OTHERS.—C. H. Williams, J. N. Taylor, C E Marshall, P W Hough, C W Smith.

CASH RECEIVED FOR BOOKS AND TRACTS.—J Whyman $1 50, F Kruson 20c, Mrs M Trask 35c, S A Roberson $1 25, G Duntley 25c, A H Blaisdell $2.00 A S Richards 25c, E D Kentfield 15c, J Hemenway $3 [illegible], J W Goodwin 50c, H S Kinsey $1 00, H G Whitaker 45c, Maria Mace 35c, W W Cate 85c, M Croft $2 00, I Van Tassel 41, W C Long 25c, J A Spofford 15c, Mrs R E Northey 20c, J Moody 20c, C T Tirrell 20c, H Pratt 33c, W J Blanchard $4.75, Mrs A T StClair 25c, Wm R Petersons $1.25, E G Benson 25c, G B Macomber 40c, L Watson 50c.

BOOKS AND TRACTS SENT.—By Mail—A H Blaisdell, S A Roberson, G Duntley, Mrs M Trask, J Whyman, F Kruson, F A Maxwell, W W Cate, J W Goodwin, H S Kinsey, I Van Tassell, Maria Mace, M Croft, Wm C Long, A A Stiles, H G Whitaker, Mrs R E Northey, Mrs C S Tirrell, Mrs A T StClair, L Watson. By Express—C. Pike.

ARTICLES RECEIVED.—C H Sweet, W W Cate, J A Spencer, H S Tuttle, T S Scoville, I K Lombard, J M Lean, G E Morrell, L A Gunn, C M Berry, J F Emerson, J M Ducker, H Munger, E Marston, C Howe, R P Eldridge, C S Branch, V P Simmons, C D [illegible]ett, H Pratt, G W Sederquest, L M Stoddard, B Perham, L H Chase, P W Hough, W H Bishop, N Orcutt.

Catalogue
OF BOOKS AND TRACTS
FOR SALE AT THE OFFICE OF
"THE ADV. CHRIS. PUB. SOCIETY,"
160 HANOVER STREET.

BIBLE DICTIONARY. Five colored maps, two hundred and fifty Engravings. Sheep, $2.25; cloth, $1.50; postage, 25 cts.

BEREAN'S CASKET AND REPOSITORY. By I. C. Wellcome. Cloth, $2 00; leather, $2.50.

CRUDEN'S CONCORDANCE. Sheep, $2.00; cloth, $1.50; postage, 25 cts.

CHRISTIAN BAPTISM. By I. C. Wellcome. 25 cts.

ENGLISH REFERENCE BIBLES. Minion, calf, morocco, circuit bindings, from $2.50 to $4 25. Nonpareil: calf, morocco, circuit bindings, from $2.00 to $3.50. Pearl: calf, morocco, circuit bindings, from $1.50 to $3 00. Diamond: calf, morocco, circuit bindings, from $1 25 to $2.00.

FABLES OF INFIDELITY and Facts of Faith. By Robert Patterson. Cloth, $1.00.

FUTURITY; or, The Hereafter of all Men. By Wm. Sheldon. 22 cts.

GOOD TIDINGS. Cloth, 50 cts. Postage, 16 cts. By express, $5.00 per dozen.

GREEK AND ENGLISH CONCORDANCE. By Hudson and Hastings. Cloth, $2.50; leather, $3.50; postage, 12 cts.

HYMNS OF JUBILEE HARP. Cloth, sprinkled edges, $7.00 per dozen; $55.00 per hundred; single, 75 cts. Leather, gilt edge, $9.50 per dozen; $75.00 per hundred; single, $1.00; postage 15 cts. single copy.

IMMORTALITY. By J. H. Whitmore. Cloth, $1.00.

IS IT HERESY? By J. Couch. 15 cts. per doz.

JUBILEE HARP, Hymn, and Tune Book. Plain cloth, leather back, colored edge, $9.00 per doz.; single, $1.00. Extra cloth, leather back, gilt edge, $10.50 per dozen; single $1.15. Extra cl[illegible] leather back, gilt edge and covers, $12 per doz.; single. $1.25 Postage 12 cts. single copy.

HISTORY OF THE ADVENT MESSAGE. I. C. Wellcome. Price $3.50

JUDGMENT IMPENDING. By L. T. Cunningham. 8 cts.; 75 cts. per doz.; $5.00 per hundred

MATTHEW 24 and 25. An Exposition. By I. C. Wellcome. 27 cts.

PILGRIM PSALMS. Sunday-school Hymn and Tune Book. Paper covers, $3.00 per dozen; stiff covers, $3.60.

PREPARE TO MEET THY GOD. Behold, the Judge standeth before the door. 10 cts. per dozen; 40 cts. per hundred.

REASONS FOR MY HOPE; or, Tokens of Redemption. By H. L. Hastings. 25 cts.

SCRIPTURAL QUESTION-BOOK. Single, 17 cts.; per dozen, by express, $1.25; by mail, $1.60.

SYMBOLIZATION of the World's Eventful Crisis. By O. R. Fassett. 4 cts; 20 cts. per dozen.

SPIRITUALISM UNVEILED. By M. Grant. 15 cts; 8 copies, $1.00; $10.00 per hundred.

THE End of the King of the North and the Impending time of Trouble. By L. T. Cunningham. 48 pages; 8 cts; 75 cts. per dozen; $5.00 per hundred.

THE Bible Text-Book. For Ministers, Teachers, and Students. 50 cts.

THE Plan of Redemption. By Wellcome & Goud. $1.25.

The Nature of Man. By M. Grant and others. 25 cts; $2 25 per dozen.

The Emphatic Diaglott. Containing the original Greek Text of the New Testament, according to the recension of Griesbach; with an interlinear word-for-word translation. Cloth, $4.10; leather back, $5.16.

The First-day Sabbath. By T. M. Preble. $1 50.

The Destiny of Man. By W. Erwin, $1.35; gilt, $1.65.

Trumpet for the Watchman. By Geo. Thomson. 20 cts. $1.75 per dozen; $11.00 per one hundred.

Who are Sadducees? By Geo. Thomson. 10 cts.

What is Man? By M. Grant. 6 cts.

Young Pilgrim Stories. Illustrated. By "Uncle Pilgrim." 2 vols., 50 cts. each.

Young Pilgrim Stories. Tract form. 30 cts. per dozen; $2.00 per hundred.

Yahveh-Christ. The Coming One. By L. T. Cunningham. 8 cts. 75 cts.

Is Christ's Second Coming in the Past? By Wm. Sheldon. 15 cts. per dozen; 60 cts. per hundred.

THE TRUE SABBATH.
WHICH DAY SHALL WE KEEP?
AN EXAMINATION OF
MRS. ELLEN G. WHITE'S VISIONS.
BY MILES GRANT.
ISSUED
BY THE ADV. CHRIS. PUB. SOCIETY,
A NEW WORK

On the Sabbath of the Old Covenant. An investigation of Mrs. E. G. White's Visions, showing that they are not from God.

All who have accepted Mrs. White's visions as coming from heaven, or who have been led to rest on Saturday instead of the Lord's day, should read this work. Let those who live among our Seventh-day brethren send and get a number of the books to give away. If the reader has friends at a distance who have received Mrs. W.'s Visions as true, have a copy of this work sent to them.

It contains 106 pages, and we will send it at the following prices: Single copy, 20 cts.; per doz., $1.75 by mail; per hundred, $10.00 by express. AGENT.

A NEW TRACT.
ATHEISM CONFOUNDED,
AND
THE FACT OF GOD'S EXISTENCE ESTABLISHED.
BY A. W. SIBLEY.

A valuable little Tract of eight pages—just the thing to circulate in these times of unbelief and skepticism. Price by mail, 15 cents per dozen. AGENT.

"THE CHILD'S BIBLE QUESTION BOOK."
BY ELD. C. GOODRICH.

This is the title of a work just issued by the A. C. P. Society, designed for the small children in the Sabbath Schools and in the family. Just what we have long wanted. Price 10 cts. single copy; $1.00 per doz., sent by mail. AG'T.

THE FUTURE OF OUR PLANET
AS VIEWED FROM A
BIBLICAL STANDPOINT.
BY A. W. SIBLEY.

This is the title of a new Tract of 16 pages, issued by the A. C. P. Society. Just the thing to circulate widely. Price, 8 cents per copy; 20 cts. per dozen; $1.40 per hundred, by mail. AG'T.

"HE CARETH FOR YOU."

I was weary of planning and working,
And my frame seemed strangely weak;
And I took up the old black volume,
As I settled into my seat.

Seeking no special chapter,
Drifting just here and there;
Listlessly turning the pages,
To read what the tide should bear.

Feeling that not a creature
Knew of the heavy load,
Which I was striving to carry
Over the rugged road.

And this was the loving sentence,—
Opening the book I read:
"He careth for you." How blessed!
How beautiful! how complete!

Travel we sad and lonely
Over life's rough highway,
Veiling our deepest sorrows
Carefully day by day.

What if our griefs are hidden,
E'en from our dearest friends;
When the compassionate Savior
Over the soul will bend.

Caring as no one earthly
Ever had love to care;
Bearing as no one earthly
Ever had strength to bear.

Beautiful words of blessing,
Making the darkness light;
He who beholds the sparrow,
Keepeth us ever in sight.

—Selected by THERIA B. WEAVER.

CHRIST'S REIGN.---1 Cor. 15: 26.

J. ALBERT VERGE.

Among the many subjects of prophecy, the glorious Messianic reign stands second to none. "Holy men" of old, who "spake as they were moved by the Holy Spirit," could not rest satisfied without striving to know and understand something of its blessedness and splendor, "Searching what, or what manner of time the spirit of Christ which was in them did signify, when it testified beforehand of the sufferings of Christ, and the glory that should follow." 1 Peter 1; 11. They knew how that God had sworn by himself, because he could swear by no greater, that through Abraham and his seed all nations of the earth should be blessed (Gen. 18: 17, 18; and 22: 16, 17, 18); and they believed it. The spirit of God also made known to them the fact that the same oath of Jehovah was renewed to Isaac (Gen. 26: 4), and more fully confirmed to Jacob (Gen. 28: 14), and also unto David, in that the Lord covenanted with him, saying thou shalt "never want a man to sit upon the throne of the house of Israel." Jer. 33: 17; and 2 Sam. 7: 15, 16, 17.

The prophet Isaiah, rejoicing in this, saith, "Unto us a child is born, unto us a son is given, and the government shall be upon his shoulder; and his name shall be called Wonderful, Counsellor, the Mighty God, the Everlasting Father, the Prince of Peace. Of the increase of his government and peace there shall be no end upon the throne of David, and upon his kingdom, to order it, and to establish it with judgement and justice, from henceforth even for ever." Christ, then, is the promised seed of Abraham, through whom all the nations of the earth will be blessed. So Paul argues in his epistle to the Galations, chap. 3rd, 16—"Now to Abraham and his seed were the promises made. He saith not, And to seeds, as of many; but as of one, and to thy seed, which is Christ." And he is also the Son of David, through whom the same work is to be accomplished, and the "Son of Man," of whom David said that "all peoples, nations, and languages should serve" him "and obey him," of whose "kingdom there shall be no end." Here we have reached the point when Christ, the "Lord of lords, and King of kings," in the character of the "Prince of peace," has taken to himself his power to reign. This reign of the anointed Messiah, while it is one of peace and glory transcendant, is also one of iron strength; for we are told that "he shall rule them with a rod of iron." Of course, this reign is of necessity, as Paul says in 1 Cor. 15: 25:—"For He must reign till he hath put all enemies under his feet. The last enemy that shall be destroyed is death." We must not forget this, as we shall have to make application of it further on.

At this point, a question of vast importance forces itself upon us, which we must not pass unnoticed; viz., when shall this take place, and how shall we stand related to it? It is certain that scripture testimony is explicit on subjects of such importance as this; and the Lord in this case, has not left us to grope in darkness, or to conjectural opinions. No, my brethren, the blessed God has, in his infinite mercy, given us a chart by which to navigate the sea of holy faith, while surrounded by the boisterous waves of spurious ones. He has placed a guiding star within our hand to guide us to the wonderful heights of heirs of God, and joint heirs with the "wonderful counsellor" of Daniel's prophetic vision. A lamp of glorious brilliancy has been granted us, to enable us to see through the darkness, and clear away the rubbish of human speculations.

Let us now see what we can find in this treasure-house of revelations for our guidance on the subject before us. Daniel says that he saw "One like the Son of Man," "who came with the clouds of heaven, and came to the Ancient of days, and they brought him near before him; and there was given him dominion, and glory, and a kingdom." Dan. 7: 13, 14. David said, he "shall bind their kings with chains, and their nobles with fetters of iron." Psalm 149: 8. This is prophesied of the saints associated with Christ in his work. Rev. 17: 14. "He shall judge the poor of the people, he shall save the children of the needy, and shall break in pieces the oppressor. . . . He shall come down like rain upon the mown grass; as showers that water the earth. In his days shall the righteous flourish; and abundance of peace so long as the moon endureth. He shall have dominion also from Sea to Sea, and from the river [Euphrates] unto the ends of the earth. They that dwell in the wilderness shall bow before him; and his enemies shall lick the dust. . . His name shall endure for ever; his name shall be continued as long as the sun; and men shall be blessed in him; all nations shall call him blessed." Psalm 72nd; Dan. 7: 14.

Saint Paul in writing to his Corinthian brethren, speaks thus of the resurrection state: "But every man in his own order; Christ the first-fruits, afterward they that are Christ's at his coming." Here is the end of the gospel dispensation. "Then cometh the end." What end, Bro. Paul? why, that "when he shall have delivered up the kingdom to God, even the Father; when he shall have put down all rule and all authority and power [opposing power]; for he must reign till he hath put all enemies under his feet. The last enemy that shall be destroyed is Death." 1 Cor. 12: 23–26. But, say you, the 27th and 28th verses show that it is the Father that does the work, do they not? Most certainly they do; but how is it done, and what means doth the Father use for the accomplishment of this mighty purpose? To this, let the Scriptures answer: "For this purpose the Son of God was manifested, that he might destroy the works of the Devil." 1 Jno. 3: 8. Again, in the "all rule, and all authority and all power," is included that of the devil and death; and the Lord Jesus Christ is he that abolished death (prospectively and will literally); compare 2 Tim. 1: 10 with Isaiah 25: 8, 9. "He will swallow up death in victory, and the Lord God will wipe away tears from off all faces; and the rebuke of his people shall he take away from off all the earth; for the Lord hath spoken it. And it shall be said in that day, Lo, this is our God; we have waited for him, and he will save us; this is the Lord [Jesus]; we have waited for him, we will be glad and rejoice in his salvation." This has its fulfillment in the persons of his saints, who shall put on immortality at his coming, as spoken of by Paul, 1 Cor. 15: 54, 55; and Rev. 7: 9–17, as the last scene of the opened sixth seal. After this, at a later period, he shall destroy it in all things. Rev. 20: 14. Here, in connection with the complete destruction of death, he that had its power is also destroyed, as we learn from the 10th verse of the same chap. Thus you see that the Father accomplishes the work through his Son, in whose hands he has invested all power. Matt. 28: 18. "In him dwells all the fullness of the God-head bodily. Col. 2: 9, From the foregoing we gather the following points:

1st. That Christ is to reign.

2nd. That this reign is ordained of the Father for the destruction of all opposing elements to the King of kings, and Lord of lords.

3rd. For the gathering together in one all things in Christ, in heaven and earth.

4th. That this reign of Christ begins at his second Advent.

5th. That this reign of the Christ, in the midst of his enemies, shall end, at which time he shall deliver the kingdom to God the Father, in glory and peace, having taken it in terrible confusion and strife.

6th. That onward from that period, he shall reign as long as the sun and moon endure, not over his enemies (for there shall then be none left), but with his immortal saved ones; having proved his ability to reign eternally. As to the length of that reign over his enemies, John says it will be a "thousand years" (Rev. 20: 4), and I believe it. Here is where this scripture finds its fulfillment.

Now we have reached the place where we must answer the question, as to our relation to this kingdom, the King of kings and Lord of lords, and to those mighty events that shall crumble earth's kingdoms to dust, sending them as the chaff of the summer's threshing floor, for which no place shall be found, into nothingness and eternal oblivion; upon whose ruins the everlasting kingdom of God shall be established. The question involving our eternal glory and life, as thus brought before us, need not remain unanswered. "Secret things belong to God;" but this is not one of them. The word to us concerning it is, "search the scriptures," as accountable and intelligent beings, who have one master, even Christ; and who must give account to God for the use of our mental faculties, as well as for the ordinary actions of life; being fully determined that neither the assumed authority of human creeds, nor the ingenious policy of sectarians, shall hinder us from using all the means within our reach for thinking on these things with due attention and fairness of mind. Here, then, dear reader, let me say, that Christ the anointed of God, at his coming in power and glory, shall call to his weary, waiting, and long-mourning bride, to enter upon the pleasures of the marriage supper. O Hallelujah! what complete fullness of joy shall the enraptured saints of God realize.

"There shall I bathe my weary soul
In seas of heavenly rest,
And not a wave of trouble roll
Across my peaceful breast."

(To be concluded.)

DUST THEOLOGY.

The following is an editorial in a recent number of the Examiner probably the most prominent and influential Baptist newspaper in the United States.

THE "DUST THEOLOGY."

That is, that theology which, professing to be Christian and Scriptural, denies that there is any immortal spirit in man. It is a late development of what is known as the "Second Advent" theory. Many people, probably most people in our churches, do not know to what lengths the Adventists have gone. The full-fledged system at the present time includes more than the idea that Christ must come before the Millennium. The following fatal errors are now held and taught. That the "soul," so often spoken of in Scripture, means nothing but the animal life, or breath. That "death" is not the separation of soul and body, since the soul has no existence apart from the body, but death is the quenching of the physical life, the ending of existence. That "life," spoken of in Scripture as God's gift to the righteous, means future existence; hence the wicked will not exist in the future; that is, will be annihilated—quod erat demonstrandum! Now this is what a friend of ours has not unfitly called the "dust-theology." It leaves to man nothing but the matter of which his disintegrating body is composed. It is, indeed, the "ethics of the dust," in a different sense from Ruskin's. Now, we have a word or two on this. Many readers will soon have these seducing doctrines pressed upon them, for the advocates of them are aggressive and diligent.

And first, this whole scheme is an attempt to eliminate the plain scriptural teaching with reference to eternal punishment. It is a bald and bold attempt to annihilate the meaning of God's word. As they could not face the awful artillery of the Bible on this point, they have crept, as friends, inside the fort, and are seeking to spike the guns. True, the scriptural doctrine of future punishment is a hard saying; who is sufficient for it? But it were better for us to be still, and know that He is God, than to make his words of none effect. And let us remember, he that disproves hell has disproved heaven.

Again, this theology of dust is a natural outcome of Millenarianism. Not, perhaps, a necessary, but a natural development of it. For the essence of pre-millenarian doctrine is a kingdom of this world—a man reigning on the earthly Zion. Of course it is easy and natural to carry this idea farther, and make the wicked to be literally nothing but ashes under the soles of the feet of the righteous. Hence, though not every "Adventist" is a believer in annihilation, yet the advocates of "annihilation" as a scriptural doctrine are, almost always, Adventists.

The only peculiarly dangerous feature of this heresy is its showy use of Scripture. Many people may think, when they see the array of texts which they print, that they must have a strong case. To this we answer: Brethren, if one single text of Scripture could bear the meaning they put upon it, they might sweep us from the field. They would have no need of the hundreds they quote. And if they quoted ten thousand, it would not better their cause. Some of their books are actually made up of a kind of concordance of the words "soul" and "death," as if there were any proof in that, for their theory. A man may as well flourish a blank check-book as evidence of his wealth. For they must first impose a false meaning on the words "soul" and "death" before these can be of any avail to them. Perhaps we can more completely illustrate their position by supposing a check-book filled with checks for large sums, but signed by names that have no account at the bank. How many of such checks would pay an honest debt?

The simple and crushing fact is, that the meaning they impose upon scripture words is absurd and unscriptural. How many texts, then, would it take to prove their point? If they print them by the myriad, we can say, "Every one of the blessed witnesses we receive and believe; and they do not testify what you say they testify." But as to their use of Scripture, two plain things may be seen. One is, that they mostly affect the Old Testament. This being the obscurer part of Scripture, is more easily perverted. Another is, that they harp upon words which, from the nature of language, must be used in more senses than one. Then having found the narrowest and lowest meaning of which the word is capable, they give it that meaning wherever it occurs. A very plain and easy method, but contrary to common-sense, to the laws of language, and to the honor of God. It involves the Bible in countless and hopeless contradictions.

There is one thought we would gladly commend to any one who is in danger of this heresy. When our Lord gave up his spirit (into his Father's hands, too), then, according to this theology, there remained no God-man, no Immanuel, no Son of man. There was a lump of clay in a tomb, and a God, again separated from man. There was no soul, exceeding sorrowful, made an offering for sin, or poured out unto death. God had departed from among men as suddenly as he came. But why go on with such frightful suppositions? How can any christian suffer himself to be carried away by a theory which makes such frightful havoc of the word of God?

REPLY TO THE FOREGOING.

BY C. COLEGROVE.

Much as we dislike controversy and controversial composition, we think there may be an opportunity and a demand for an answer to the allegations of this article. We will examine a part of them at least. It is true enough, as the editor says, that there is a "theology, . . . professing to be christian and scriptural," which "denies that there is any immortal spirit in man." A most strenuous and emphatic denial it is, too; not for oddity's sake, nor for the sake of enmity or dissent, controversy or independence, but for simple truth's sake; for righteousness' sake, and for Christ's sake. This theology insists by everything sacred and blessed and momentous in the scheme of God the Creator, that natural immortality is a mere conjecture or invention; that it is wholly unscriptural; that it is Satanic in its earlier, and heathenish in its later origin; and that besides being false in its philosophy, it is detrimental in its effects, and dishonorable to God. That is the character and teaching of what the Examiner, at somebody's suggestion, is pleased to entitle, "dust-theology." But it is not true that the advocates of this belief declare "that the soul, so often spoken of in Scripture, means nothing but the animal life or breath." It has an undoubted diversity of meaning, sometimes denoting animal life, but quite frequently the mind, heart, body, and especially in a familiar and comprehensive sense, the speaker's own self, without any implication whatever of an internal entity, that is incapable of extinction, and that has a capacity of disembodied existence with consciousness and intelligence. Those who maintain this, appeal confidently and constantly to the Bible for a justification of their belief and position. They do insist, indeed, "that 'life,' spoken of in scripture as God's gift to the righteous, means future existence," in plain and emphatic contra-distinction from any natural and present life assumed to be inextinguishable, and from any life that can possibly have existence without a resurrection. In other words, eternal life is alone realized or realizable through a resurrection.

There is, indeed, the promise of life to the believer, and the promise is so plain and so positive, and so near to be realized, that it is taken by anticipation for possession. The title itself is glorious. He who is so happy as to have an heirship by faith to eternal life, has just that possession which is always connected with the heirship. And more particularly, he who is new-begotten, by the Spirit, through the gospel, has written in him that very spiritual life which is the earnest of an eternal life. He has that germ and frame of moral character, which is the indispensable condition and qualification for life by the resurrection. Nay, he has a new life of faith, of enjoyment, of preference, of intention, of disposition, and action. But the literal living of man after death is resurrectional, and that only.

The inquiry by one of ancient days, was not, "If a man die, is he nevertheless alive?" but rather, "If a man did, shall he live again?" We learn from the word of God, that when a man dies, he is dead, and not alive. He is not conscious, but unconscious in death. He is not unconscious and conscious at the same time; he does not at the same moment "know nothing," and also know something. Certainly the "dust theology" maintains so much; to wit, that a dead wicked man can by no means live again, except through a resurrection. And it is unnecessary to annex or interpose the Latinism—quod erat demonstrandum, for the very reason that the Scripture most emphatically declares death to be a state of inaction and unconsciousness, and greatly magnifies the doctrine of resurrection as the only avenue and medium of future literal life.

This doctrine, says the Examiner, "leaves to man nothing but the matter of which his disintegrating body is composed;" and this is "not unfitly called the 'dust-theology.'" Very well, dust theology it is, then; and be sure, it is God's theology in regard to man at his creation, in his constitution, and in his dissolution. God "formed man of the dust of the ground." That was the manner of his creation. Abraham calls himself "but dust and ashes." To Adam God said: "Dust thou art." The psalmist says, "he remembereth we are dust." This is the manner and matter of his constitution. And again, "unto dust shalt thou return;" "and now shall I sleep in the dust," says Job; and in Isaiah an address is directed to them "that dwell in dust;" and in Daniel a notable reference is made to them "that sleep in the dust of the earth." This is man in his dissolution; and, in short, it is positively and comprehensively said of organized and earthly creatures "all are of the dust." Can we slight or ignore these texts? Can we deny or contemn the solemn declarations of man's real nature?

Now in regard to the meaning which should be put upon such texts of scripture, in the name of all that is intelligible in language, and trustworthy in simplicity, what meaning shall be put upon scripture, except just what properly belongs to it? Indeed, justice and rectitude forbid that we should put a meaning upon scripture at all, but rather take the meaning of scripture according to the plain sense of sentences and words.

When a good man is dead, there is left to him, in addition "to his disintegrating body," the promise of a resurrection. There is left a spirit of life, lodged now securely in God's infinite care, and this spirit of life is indeed most invaluable and precious; because essential to existence and intelligence; but it is not in itself alone the personality of a man. The spirit of life will be most delightfully restored and inherent in a future spiritual and immortal body; but there is nothing naturally immortal in man; there was no immortal soul in Adam, or one of his progeny,—no, nothing of the kind from first to last; nothing immortal in his body, soul, or spirit, until the resurrection, and here we stand undoubting and unshaken.

But this reasoning, or interpretation, is called "a bald and bold attempt to annihilate the meaning of God's word." Is it, indeed? Is it not rather quite the opposite of this, and really an attempt to vindicate and honor both God and his word; vindicate and honor the dear Lord Jesus Christ, who only hath immortality, of all humankind, and who shall have the pre-eminent and illustrious honor, as the second Adam and quickening Spirit, of rousing and raising from their dusty chambers, the countless multitude of his beloved, at his coming? We believe it. We are not afraid or ashamed to say that we believe it, and wait on the Lord in the truth and integrity of our faith. Is it true, as the Examiner says, that we can "not face the awful artillery of the Bible?" Indeed, we have never sought to face any scripture artillery, but rather to claim the protection of its great guns, whither we have endeavored to flee, to lay hold of the gospel hope. The Examiner makes some very hard accusations. It imputes to the "dust theologians" a very reprehensible and wicked enterprise. We humbly think we can say we are looking forward to a better day, when our blessed Lord shall be pleased to solve some of these questions in controversy; and we are not terrified by the denunciations of some who oppose us, and who, we think, are themselves, even though unconsciously, really opposing the truth.

But the Examiner declares that "this whole scheme is an attempt to eliminate the plain scriptural teaching with reference to eternal punishment." Are you sure of that, dear sir? Instead of an attempt to eliminate, it is much rather an attempt to substantiate. It is very true that the question of eternal punishment is vitally involved, but this is not the only question. No, indeed. The grand aim and study of a truly good and teachable man is to know what is the whole truth, in relation to man, both as to his nature and destiny; and the truth in regard to Christ, as to his work, and the honor and glory that belong to him. That man is immortal by nature or creation, and that Christ is the resurrection and the life, are, we think, two antagonistic declarations, and the false must go down before the true, for Christ will not call out to immortal souls to descend from heaven at the resurrection, but call to the dead to come to life. The Examiner declares that the "the scriptural doctrine of future punishment is a hard saying; who is sufficient for it?" The orthodox teaching of eternal torment is indeed a hard saying; and not only hard because of the inconceivable terribleness of it, but because it so dishonors God, and also hard because it contradicts scripture. It is very singular indeed, that so many are unable to conceive of eternal punishment apart from the idea of eternal misery. But when it is admitted and understood that death is indeed a punishment, and an adequate punishment for great offences, and that it is indeed "the wages of sin," and the true scripturally certified penalty of transgression, then, it may be also conceived and understood that eternal death is indeed eternal punishment. Is there nothing to dread in this? Is there nothing in it to restrain an intelligent mind? Most certainly there is, and it is only the imperceptive, and we might say over-wrought, habit of mind, created by the error and enormity of a doctrine of horrible suffering, without end or mitigation; and a habit which indeed has come at length, perhaps, to demand the infliction of such an astounding horror, as an indispensable supplement to a sinful life; which fails to perceive in death a penalty and a punishment, and in eternal death, eternal punishment. It is indeed "a hard saying" to say that God will torment, if you please, a heathen who never heard the gospel, and torment through ten thousand million of ages. And then comes the oft-repeated addition, that the hell of this eternity, or the eternity of this hell, is but just commenced. But "let us remember," says our reprover, "he that disproves hell has disproved heaven." Singular enough that our denunciatory friend has not learned by this time, that the people styled "Adventists," (with some exceptions) do not try to disprove hell. They try to disprove, and effectually do disprove, endless torture in hell; a life immortal in torture, and most miserable consciousness of life that can not discover or attain to death,—this they deny and disprove as not of God, as contrary to scripture, and therefore untenable, for the simple reason, among others, that the uniform signal and substance of retribution is death, death, and not life, hopeless and eternal death; which in the view of high heaven, is the suitable penalty, and by its deeree, the established penalty of unrepented sin, and not life to which death is impossible.

Many will persist in characterizing endless suffering as death; but it is not death. It may be a thousand million times worse than death. But who has the right to change or exaggerate the divine penalty? God is a better judge of the suitableness of punishment for sin than man. It is the very figment of Adamic immortality, that has imposed on the believers in this human tradition, a necessity of interpreting death as agonized life forever. So much the worse for the falsehood that for consistency's sake involves the sequent untruth. The progeny of a lie cannot be better than the parent, and both are alike corrupt, and worthy of rejection.

Our Baptist mentor is not quite satisfied with the Adventist's "showy use of scripture." And yet surely scripture is worthy of being sufficiently quoted and displayed to disprove any dogma, however orthodox or popular, provided it is false. This is a right employment of time and strength. It is true that a whole column of texts set in solid array, whose simple, and plain, and natural signification is adverse to Adamic eternity of life, or alleged eternity of pain, such a collection of inspired testimonies has an undoubted "show" of strength. "Many people" will "think" (and think truly) that the aggregate forces of such a harmonious host is not to be despised. But only let us look at what the editor says in this very connection.

"Brethren, if one single text of scripture could have the meaning they put upon it, they might sweep us from the field." Is not this a very hazardous admission? We bless God for the privilege of accepting any positive declaration in the divine book, without the labor of refining, deflecting, spiritualizing, or exaggerating it; or without any helpless captivity to corrupt tradition. God's declaration of human unintelligence in death, and of entire perdition to the sinner, over and over again, is enough for us. The time is coming when every erroneous construction of sacred writ will indeed be swept from the field, and we say, supreme goodness and power hasten the day. Groaning creation longs for deliverance.

We are very thankful for any "concordance of the words 'soul' and 'death,'" by which we may learn their proper signigcation in their various connections, and from which we understand perfectly that the one has not naturally endless and deathless vitality, nor the other also, with the inseparable incident of misery past conceiving or computing. When the folly and fallacy of imagined eternal life in the soul is seen and felt, then with it goes every false sequence into the abyss of nothingness, where it belongs. If the wicked finally reach nothingness, as we feel assured, because the soul is not immortal, the doctrine of error, in passing forever out of its sovereignty over the mind, will leave a jubilee behind it, and we can rejoice in the joy of those who shall hereafter love the truth they now combat.

"Again, this theology of dust," observes the Examiner, "is a natural outcome of millennarianism." And we infer that our Baptist friend thinks adversely of the doctrine, which it calls "a kingdom of this world, a man reigning in the earthly Zion." Now, no Adventist imagines that the kingdom of the Lord Jesus is a kingdom of this world, in respect to its origin, or structure, or principles of administration; but that it is emphatically a kingdom applying to the territory of the earth, comprehending and enclosing it in its blessed jurisdiction, he understands to be a cardinal truth of inspiration. It seems a very marvel, that a diverse or opposite opinion could become current in such an age of scripture study and general intelligence as this. And we have sometimes thought with trembling of those solemn words of the great Teacher: "If therefore the light that is in thee be darkness, how great is that darkness!" How singularly ignored appear to be a few scriptures of such unmistakable plainness, that a misapprehension would have been thought most unlikely. In the book of the highly revered prophet Daniel, it is expressly declared that "the kingdom and dominion, and the greatness of the kingdom under the whole heaven shall be given to the people of the saints of the most High." Is it in mid heaven, that we are cited to look for the dominion of God's people? Is the majestic greatness of the kingdom to be seen unfolding in the vastness of ethereal space, or expanding in boundless immensity above the sky? No, it is "under the whole heaven." The locality is specific. And without disparaging one iota from the regal dignity of Jesus, we know perfectly that "the Lord God shall give unto him the throne of his father David, and he shall reign over the house of Jacob forever." And as to the literality of the nothingness of the wicked in their reduction to ashes beneath the tread of the righteous, why should we etherealize positive prophecy? Why metamorphose and misinterpret it? Why spiritualize the ashes, or the fire, that by its destroying energy assigns the wicked to a state of "annihilation?" This very word, so deprecated as awful and unlovely of sound and signification, is nevertheless, we think, every way and infinitely preferable to any word or phrase that represents a sinner doomed to eternal life in fire, that gnaws in unavailing fierceness upon a soul, that by virtue of its immortality, though it is damned, yet never can die. "Annihilation" is simply reduction to nothing, and the Bible plainly says of the wicked, that they shall be as "the fat of lambs," eminently combustible and destructible; "they shall consume into smoke," "they shall utterly perish," "they shall be as though they had not been." And the entire phraseology of scripture, instead of imputing durability and duration to wicked men, imputes to them rather fragility, weakness, and combustibility. They have no inherent power of resistance to the annihilating fire. If they have, then why are they not compared to the most indestructible things in nature? As a matter of fact, they are not. Chaff, rottenness, dust, smoke, wax, thorns; such are the most frail and unsubstantial things in nature that represent unrenewed and impenitent man. Like an untimely birth, like a melting snail, puny, corruptible and destructible altogether; such is he. What is this strange strength and tenacity of opinion that credits the heir of inevitable perdition with fire-defying immortality?

But we can not minutely attend to all the Examiner's complaint. Its closing reference to a so-called "frightful supposition" may merit a moment's notice. After the death of Christ, it observes that by the "dust theology, there remained no God-man. . . . There was a lump of clay in a tomb. . . . There was no soul, exceeding sorrowful," etc. Now in answer to all that may be said, either critically, regretfully, or solemnly, by those who think in the orthodoxic manner of this subject, we simply ask, was it in the power of Almighty God, that his Son Jesus Christ should die—die, and become a few hours unconscious? Was it in his power? Will some one deny it? If this is not positively denied, then surely it was in the power of Jesus to do and suffer his Father's will. It was a most suitable and majestic act of condescension for the Prince of Life, not only to die in seeming, but in truth, not to become extinct, for the simple reason that the veracity and energy of an infallible Deity were devoted to the speedy resurrection of the dead and beloved Christ. Heaven, holiness, strength and truth were under bond in the wisdom and word of God, to resurrect the Son. Death could not hold him, though it did indeed have him for a moment. Jesus, himself, magnified his perfect faith in his Father's faithfulness by daring to die, and this he did, committing his spirit of life into a Father's care. He knew he would raise him. The sublimity of the faith is just so much magnified as we understand the perfect fact of the death; a death in truth and in deed; and dare any man assert that Christ could not possibly die and be dead? could not possibly be unconscious in death? David in Psalm 49 declares that "God will redeem my soul from the power of the grave." Is it not honest and fair to say that the soul was under subjection, a subjection with locality? Truly so. The glory of redemption arises from the fact of the subjection. A redemption without a subjection must be unpresumable and impossible. So also in Psalm 16, quoted in Acts 2, Christ prophesies by David—"Thou wilt not leave my soul in hell," or the grave. Or if hades or sheol be transcribed unchanged from the original, then we are simple enough to believe exactly what Scripture positively declares, that in sheol there is no intelligence. We think Ecclesiastes is canonical, and chapter 9th with the rest. Christ could be unconscious in hades, as all men are to this day. In this he became like the dead for whom he died, faithful in all points. We see nothing frightful about it, but far otherwise. What Jesus could do, he did do. We say nothing of the mystery of his Deity, but his human soul, his human life, was poured out and given up, truly and perfectly in the grand sacrifice. Let him have the glory.

And now we must come to a conclusion, although charged in a respectable and largely circulated denominational weekly with making "frightful havoc of God's word," because we believe man is in no sense immortal until the coming of Christ, and believe it simply and alone, because we so understand the word of God to teach. This faith is sacred and true, and the word that inspires it is precious. Strange indeed it may seem, that different persons should deduce things so opposite from the Bible, but nevertheless we have taken our position, and taken it with the whole weight of popular opinion against us; taken it at sacrifice and loss of earthly good; taken it purely from a force of necessity which belonged to christian loyalty to Christ. If we are defamed or despised we suffer it, taking the reproach willingly and even joyfully.

Sardinia, N. Y., Sept. 1st.

HOME AND HEALTH.

BEGIN NOW.

Lizzie sat among her pets, her face between her hands, thinking. She did not notice Rover gazing wistfully up into her face, nor did she see Pussy perched near her. You might have thought she was watching her pet chickens eat the supper she had just brought them, but you would have been wrong. It was Sunday afternoon. Lizzie was thinking over her Sunday school lesson. Mrs Parker had asked all her scholars to become christians that morning in Sunday school.

"Dear girls," she had said, "if ever you mean to be christians you must begin some time. Why not begin now?"

This was what interested Lizzie so much. "I do want to be a christian," she thought, "but I know I shall get cross and scold the children. I know I will be saucy to mother. I know I will disobey her. I know I can't keep God's commandments. Oh dear! I am so wicked. A great tear stole down her cheek. Just then the minister, old Dr. Gray, went by, on his way from afternoon service. Quick as a flash Lizzie jumped up and ran to meet him. All the children loved Dr. Gray, and no one ever felt afraid of him. Lizzie slipped her hand in his.

"May I walk a little way with you, please?" asked she. The minister pressed her fingers.

"Of course, my dear. Why were you not in church this afternoon?

"Because mother went, sir, and I staid at home to tend the baby," answered Lizzie.

"And so you were about your Father's business," said Dr. Gray.

Lizzie looked at him in surprise. "Was taking care of the baby that?" said she. "Oh! Dr. Gray, if you only knew how I wanted to be about my Father's business! I do want to be a christian, but I'm afraid!"

"Afraid of what, dear child?" asked he tenderly.

"I know I could not be good and holy," whispered Lizzie. "I could not keep from doing naughty things and saying cross words."

"The Lord is thy keeper," repeated Dr. Gray. "Trust in him, Lizzie. Jesus is able, not only to save you now, but also to keep you from falling."

Just then Lizzie's mother was heard calling through the still evening air.

"Good-bye, Lizzie," said Dr. Gray. "Do not forget, 'The Lord is thy keeper.'"

Lizzie ran home to set the table for supper, then helped wash up the dishes, then put baby to bed, and when at last the tired little feet sat down to rest, mother kissed her, saying, "I thank my little christian daughter for all her help."

That repaid Lizzie. "The Lord is my keeper," she repeated, half aloud. "He did keep me to-night, mother. I am not afraid any more." Then she told her mother all her fears, and the little talk with Dr. Gray.

Children, if any of you are afraid to begin to follow Jesus, don't hesitate any longer. He is able to keep us, big or little, great or small, young or old. Trust in him, and fear not, for 'The Lord is thy keeper."—Missionary Herald.

HIGH HEELS.

A cursory view of the customs of society, or of some neighborhoods, might convince one of the truth of the doctrine of depravity (total or otherwise), or at least of the idea that many persons are apparently trying to do as much violence as possible to this physical organism, so "fearfully and wonderfully made." This thought is naturally suggested by an acquaintance with many of the prevailing customs and fashions of the present day, prominent among which, as illustrating prevailing follies, is the high heel fashion. We cannot avoid the conclusion that the human foot was originally made just right, and that ease in locomotion, not only for man but for the lower orders resembling man in structure, is best secured by the original form of the foot. In other words, if a high heel is really necessary for ease in walking, the Creator would have placed a prominence on this part of the foot corresponding with the "hump" of the camel. But such a hump would now be regarded as a deformity, a malformation, if inside of the boot.

The most that we can claim in this respect is that a broad, low heel may be of service in rapid walking, but experience and observation can but teach us that heels worn by both sexes are a nuisance, if worn as the manufacturers intend. Many of these are so high and and so small at the top that walking—naturally a fine exercise, among the best—generally becomes irksome, a task, and productive of very many deformities and ailments. It is not too much to say that most of the deformities—of which so little is known in savage and barbarous life—such as corns, bunions, incurvation of the nails, sprained and deformed ankles, the misplacement and crooking of the toes, etc., are attributable to this cruel custom. "Fashion is at best a cruel tyrant; but the whole history of her capricious rule does not exhibit a grosser violation of natural position. It crowds the foot forward into the boot, resting too much of the weight of the body on the fore part of the foot, crowding the toes into the front of the boot, of course chafing them and in a variety of ways deforming them and making business for a class of men now in demand, the chiropodists. Lameness, sprains, turned ankles and distortions in general, are the inevitable results, and most of the wearers of these know the fact—at least in some degree—yet these high heels are still tolerated; high heels versus brains. Custom rules, at east, a certain class, compelling to such submit to arrant cruelty.—Chris. Monitor.

A RARE DISCOVERY.

In early years I had a large supply of fine hair upon my head, but for some years past it began to come out badly, or in such quantities as to lead me to fear I might soon lose a large part of it, and become baldheaded.

Three months ago I commenced washing my head all over thoroughly every morning with cold water, rubbing dry with two stiff hair brushes used briskly over my head till all aglow; soon the feverish heat of my head was gone, itching ceased, hair stopped coming out, and now I have, after about three months, as full a head of hair as is often seen at any period of life, although now an old man. In addition, I have made it a point to comb my head with a fine comb every other day, or not less than twice a week.

This receipt, not patent, nothing needed but thorough washing, brushing and combing, to secure a thick healthy head of hair. Try it. If nothing else is accomplished you will have the satisfaction of knowing you have a clean head and soft silky hair as a result.

SUNSHINE AND SLEEP.

No syrup of poppies, no tincture of opium, no powders of morphine, can compare in sleep-inducing power with sunshine. Let sleepless people court the sun. The very worst soporific is laudanum, and the very best is sunshine. Therefore, it is very plain that poor sleepers should pass as many hours of the day in sunshine, and as few in the shade as possible. Many women are martyrs, and do not know it. They shut the sunshine out of their houses and hearts, they wear veils, they carry parasols, they do all that is possible to keep off the subtlest and yet most potent influence which is intended to give them strength, and beauty, and cheerfulness. Is it not time to change all this, and so get roses and color in your pale cheeks, strength in your backs, and courage in your timid souls? The women of America are pale and delicate; they may be blooming and strong, and the sunlight will be a potent influence in this transformation.—Dr. Hall.

SCARLET FEVER.—The Chicago Inter Ocean says: "Hundreds of children have fallen victims to scarlet fever in this city during the past three months. Concerning the treatment of this disease, an eminent physician says that he does not fail in effecting a cure more than once in a hundred cases, by giving the patient warm lemonade with gum arabic dissolved in it. A cloth wrung out in hot water and laid upon the stomach should be renewed as rapidly as it becomes cool. To this simple treatment the most obstinate cases seldom fail to succumb."

The World's Crisis

AND

SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

RULES FOR CORRESPONDENTS.

Over all matters not intended for publication, write:—PRIVATE.

Over all business matters, write:—BUSINESS.

Over all articles intended for the paper, write:—For the Crisis.

☞ Put business matters and appointments on separate pieces of paper, or so that they can be detached without interfering with any other communication.

When the names of NEW subscribers are sent, please say they are NEW, and it will save much labor.

All articles should be accompanied by the writer's NAME, for the Editor's information, even if it is not published.

PRIVATE LETTERS.—Those wishing to address the Editor on matters not connected with the office, please write PRIVATE on the outside of the envelope.

☞ All persons writing to the office should give distinctly and plainly the POST OFFICE, COUNTY and STATE at which they wish to be addressed; and all orders, subscriptions, communications and remittances, should be plainly directed to

☞ "THE WORLD'S CRISIS,"
Boston, Mass.

PUBLISHED ALSO AT THE SAME OFFICE,
Semi-monthly,

THE YOUNG PILGRIM

An Illustrated Sunday-School Paper,
FOR CHILDREN AND YOUTH.

TERMS: ☞ Payable always in advance.

Single copy, 50 cts. a year; and at the same rates for any number of copies under ten.

Ten copies, and any larger number under fifty, when sent to one address, 40 cts. a year for each copy.

Fifty copies, and any number over fifty, when sent to one address, 35 cts. a year for each copy.

To Canada subscribers at the same rates. No extra charge for American postage.

☞ All communications, orders, and remittances should be addressed to

"THE YOUNG PILGRIM,"
Boston, Mass.

The World's Crisis

AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

"BEHOLD I COME QUICKLY; AND MY REWARD IS WITH ME."

WHOLE NO. 1039. BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 13, 1875. VOL. XLI.—NO. 26.

The World's Crisis,
AND
SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER,
Issued every Wednesday Afternoon, by the
ADVENT CHRISTIAN PUBLICATION SOCIETY,
At No. 160 Hanover Street, Boston, Mass.
GEO. T. ADAMS,
TREASURER AND BUSINESS AGENT.

JOHN COUCH, MILES GRANT, } EDITORS.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE:
S. G. MATHEWSON, L. BOUTELL, WM. H. MITCHELL.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEE:
H. A. DAVIS, M. BATCHELOR, L. T. CUNNINGHAM, J. G. HAMBLIN, J. HEMENWAY.

The CRISIS is devoted to the exposition of all Bible truth; especially the doctrine of the immediate, personal coming and reign of Christ on the earth, holiness of heart; the unconscious state of the dead, their literal resurrection, and final destruction of the wicked.

SIGNS OF THE SPEEDY COMING OF CHRIST.

WM. SHEPHERD.

"And there shall be signs in the sun, and in the moon, and in the stars; and upon the earth distress of nations with perplexity; the sea and the waves roaring; men's hearts failing them for fear, and for looking after those things which are coming on the earth, for the powers of heaven shall be shaken. And then shall they see the Son of man coming in a cloud, with power and great glory. And when these things begin to come to pass, then look up, and lift up your heads for your redemption draweth nigh."—LUKE 21: 25–28.

(Concluded.)

Again, as a still further proof that we are nearing the end, mark the prevalence of intemperance. Never were our cities, towns and villages so infested with rum-holes and lager-beer saloons as to-day. Millions of dollars are expended yearly for this cursed stuff. Millions of bushels of God's precious grain are converted into poison, producing misery, degradation, poverty and ruin on every hand, and inciting its victims to perform the blackest of crimes. The cruelty to animals has gone to such an extent, that some have been forced to organize a system to defend the poor dumb beasts from the rough treatment of their unfeeling masters.

Again, rarely has the world ever before presented such a spectacle as now of cheating, lying, and fraudulent transactions, and this too in "high places." We can scarcely take up a daily paper without noticing accounts of "Canal contract frauds," "Indian frauds," "Government frauds," "Government defaulters," and "heavy failures." All seem to be addicted to cheating, falsehood, and dissimulation. False balances, false weights, and false measures, are the order of the day. Scarcely an article of merchandise purchased, when examined carefully, is found to be as represented. Every thing is diluted, adulterated, and mixed. It is not an uncommon thing to observe stuck up at dry goods and grocery stores, "pure linen," "warranted all wool," "pure coffee," "pure milk," "pure Irish whiskey," etc. Drugs, medicines, cosmetics, and almost all staple articles, provisions of various kinds, are more or less mixed up and prepared to deceive and cheat the buyer, if possible. Almost every thing presents a false face. Things are not made to wear, but to sell Things are gilded over, and are not what they appear to be. Man has lost confidence in man. Principles have been displaced for policy.

Truly the outlook for the world presents no very favorable aspect. Its troubled sky is filled with many sombre clouds of portentous forms, and ominous appearances, betokening no good. But the saint of God faintly descries on those clouds a golden edge, to him a proof that just behind, the Sun of ineffable brightness is ready to burst in plenitude of glory upon their devoted heads, dissipating the darkness forevermore.

Another circumstance now rife in the world, and which will hasten on the "time of trouble," is the fact that almost all the mechanical and business departments have become paralyzed more or less. Take one or two instances:—"Thirty-one mills are closed at Dundee, and twelve thousand persons are out of employment." "Out of one hundred and sixty-two mills, at Oldham, only two are running"; and thus it is all over the country. Thousands of men can find nothing to do, which must tend to bring on a terrible crisis. Thus the prophetic picture, so clearly portrayed on the pages of the inspired record, is being filled up in every department. Soon the mighty angel of the Apocalypse will cry, "IT IS DONE!" Rev. 16: 17.

It is true many of those singular phenomena in the heavens and upon the earth,—those geological changes, awful floods, terrific tornadoes, tidal waves, and other remarkable appearances, are not regarded by the masses as having any relation whatever to the prophecy. They say, "Where is the promise of his coming? for since the fathers fell asleep, all things continue as they were from the beginning of the creation." 2 Pet. 3: 4.

All the great lines of prophecy, pointing down to the consummation; all the prophetic periods, as given in Scripture; all the varied signs, celestial, terrestrial, military, political, social, moral, and ecclesiastical, seem to point down here, like so many rays of light converging to a focal point.

What, then, is the important duty of the hour? If the premises be correct, our conclusions must be no less so. Then shall we not turn this matter to a practical account? Were these signs given merely as things to amuse and gratify a morbid curiosity? or were they not to warn the world of its approaching doom, and to notify the church to live in a state of joyful expectancy for the coming of her Lord, to crown her expectations with untold bliss, and fulfill her hopes? Were these signs not designed to effect a still wider separation from the world? We believe they were. The fact of the verification of those predictions, relative to these signs, must, as a philosophical consequence, result in the awakening of the slumbering energies of the church to life and renewed activity and expectation; and this, as a matter of course, will produce in the natural order a separation, and hence a preparation.

We remark, there is to be a special preparation for this event. Great occasions demand great preparations sometimes to meet them. As this is one of that character, a preparation on the part of the church is required which will comport with the important nature of the event. Observe: the parable of the ten virgins—"they that were ready," etc. Matt. 25. "Watch, therefore." "Let your loins be girded about, and your lights burning." Luke 12: 35. "Therefore, let us not sleep, as do others, but let us watch and be sober." 1 Thess. 5: 6. And why is this enjoined upon us? That this day of Christ should not overtake us as a thief. What is the advice of James?—"Be ye also patient; stablish your hearts; for the coming of the Lord draweth nigh."

And does not Peter fall in with the same strain of exhortation?—"Wherefore gird up the loins of your mind, be sober, and hope to the end for the grace that is to be brought unto you at the revelation of Jesus Christ." 1 Pet. 1: 13. Again—"Seeing, then, that all these things shall be dissolved, what manner of persons ought ye to be in all holy conversation and godliness; looking for and hasting unto the coming of the day of God," etc. "Wherefore, beloved, seeing that ye look for such things, be diligent that ye may be found of him in peace, without spot and blameless." 2 Pet. 3: 14. John follows in the same line—"And now, little children, abide in him; that when he shall appear, we may have confidence, and not be ashamed before him at his coming." 1 John 2: 28. And so in Revelation—"Watch," lest I "come on thee as a thief." "Behold, I come as a thief. Blessed is he that watcheth, and keepeth his garments, lest he walk naked, and they see his shame." "Behold, I come quickly; blessed is he that keepeth the sayings of the prophecy of this book." "And behold, I come quickly, and my reward is with me, to give every man according as his work shall be."

And, finally—"He which testifieth these things saith, Surely, I come quickly." And shall we not send back the cry to heaven, and respond with the holy John, "Amen, even so, come, Lord Jesus"? Yes, the waiting church receives the soul-thrilling announcement most cheerfully of the speedy coming of her ever blessed and adorable Redeemer, to reign and rule over a restored and renovated earth, and happily unites with the Revelator in his joyful anthem,—"Amen, even so, come, Lord Jesus."

CHRIST'S REIGN.---1 Cor. 15: 26.

J. ALBERT VESOR.

(Concluded.)

Yes, Brn., beloved of the Lord, that the immortal saints, the bride of God's dear Son, is to share in the glory of the Bridegroom, being chosen out of the Gentiles for this purpose, is clear from scripture testimony. John, in his vision on Patmos Island, when God caused him to behold what should take place in the wonderful future, saw in blessed harmony with the prophetic utterances of those holy men of old, who spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost, the church adorned for the King of kings, in resplendant glory, as a queenly bride, reigning with Christ, her head, sharing with him all the blessed and heavenly honors, which shall be ascribed to him by all the saved nations of the earth. Then, thank God, as Cowper truthfully said:—

"The groans of nature in this nether world.
Which heaven has heard for ages, will have an end.
Foretold by prophets, and by poets sung,
Whose fire was kindled at the prophet's lamp.
The time of rest, the promised Sabbath comes.
Six thousand years of sorrow have well nigh
Fulfilled their tardy and disastrous course
Over a sinful world; and what remains
Of this tempestuous state of human things,
Is only as the workings of a sea
Before a calm, that rocks itself to rest.
For He whose ear the winds are, and the clouds
The dust that upon his sultry march,
When sin hath moved him and his wrath is hot,
Shall visit earth in mercy, shall descend
Propitious in his chariot, paved with love.
And what his storms have blasted and defaced
For man's revolt, shall with a smile repair.
Sweet is the harp of prophecy, too sweet
Not to be wrong'd by a mere mortal touch.
Nor can the wonders it records be sung
To meaner music, and not suffer loss."
"O scenes, surpassing fable and yet true;
Scenes of accomplished bliss, which who can see,
Though but in distant prospect, and not feel
His soul refreshed with foretastes of the joy.
Rivers of gladness water all the earth,
And clothe all climes with beauty. The reproach
Of barrenness is past. The fruitful fields
Laugh with abundance, and the land once lean,
Or fertile, only in its own disgrace,
Exults to see the thistly curse repealed.
The garden fears no blight, and needs no fence,
For there are none to covet; all are full.
The lion, and the leopard and the bear,
Graze with the fearless flocks, all bask at noon
Together, or all gambol in the shade
Of the same grove, and drink one common stream.
Antipathies are none. No foe to man
Lurks in the serpent now. The mother sees,
And smiles to see her infant's playful hand
Stretched forth to dally with the crested worm;
To stroke its azure neck, and to receive
The lambent homage of his arrowy tongue.
All creatures worship man, and all mankind
One Lord, one Father; error has no place.
The dwellers in the vales and on the rocks
Shout to each other, and the mountain tops
From distant mountains catch the flying joy,
Till nation after nation caught the strain,
Earth rolls the rapturous hosannas round.
Behold the measure of the promise fill'd;
See Salem built, the labor of a God.
Bright as a sun, the sacred city shines,
All kingdoms and all princes of the earth
Flock to that light; the glory of all lands
Flow into her; unbounded is her joy,
And endless her increase."

Glory! glory! hallelujah! read it (Cowper) again, my brethren. Yes, Brn., in the patience of Christ, the reign of our glorious head, the Messiah of God, will be one of unparalleled grandeur and unsurpassed glory. Imagine, if you can, Jesus enthroned on Mount Zion, as King of kings and Lord of lords, attended by his heavenly bride, one with him; all glorious within, her clothing of wrought gold, brought to the King in raiment of needlework. Psalm 45th. The sun shining as the light of seven days, and the moon as the present sun, thus excluding night; and all this eclipsed by the ineffable glory proceeding from the eternal city, the palace of the saints and Christ. The whole earth filled with glory, Satan destroyed, no more curse on the burdened bosom of groaning creation, the inhabitants of the world dwelling in peace, good will every where from God to man; nothing to hurt or destroy in all God's holy mountains; the fields all clothed with heavenly verdure, for in the wilderness shall waters break out, and springs in the desert.

Here language fails to portray the fulness of the transcendent glory of that scene, unparalleled in fabled greatness. Imagination, however vivid, fails to depict the splendor which shall be enjoyed by us, if faithful; and in these days of evil and sin, dear brethren, let us not fail to procure for ourselves the robe of righteousness, holiness of heart and life, crying, Come, Lord Jesus, and come quickly. Amen.

Shelburne, N. S.

THE KINGDOM OF GOD.

R. MORRILL.

Five hundred years or more after the children of Israel were delivered from their Egyptian bondage, they desired a king to rule over them, and God granted their request. He also gave them rules by which to conduct the affairs of the kingdom. 1 Sam. 10: 24, 25. And while they obeyed the Lord, he was with them and delivered them from all their enemies, and they were united in one nation, the king reigning over the twelve tribes—the whole house of Jacob; and the throne of the kingdom was the throne of the Lord; consequently, the kingdom was the kingdom of the Lord, including all the lands of Palestine, or Canaan. 1 Chron. 29: 23–26. But in the beginning of the reign of the fourth king, ten of the twelve tribes revolted from the Lord and from their king, and set up another kingdom, and followed all the evil practices of the heathen around them, worshiping molten images and all the host of heaven, until the Lord removed them to the land of Assyria, in fulfillment of the word of the prophet Ahijah. 1 Kings 14: 15; 2 Kings 17: 5–23.

In about a century, the wickedness of the kings of Judah, and the iniquity of the people became so great that the Lord could bear with them no longer; and he sent against them the king of Babylon, who destroyed Jerusalem, and carried the Jews captive to Babylon, which fulfilled the words of Jeremiah. Jer. 25: 8–11. See also Ezek. 21: 20–27. The last three verses read as follows: "And thou profane and wicked prince of Israel, whose day is come, when iniquity shall have an end, thus saith the Lord God; Remove the diadem and take off the crown; this shall not be the same; exalt him that is low, and abase him that is high. I will overturn, overturn, overturn it; and it shall be no more, until he come whose right it is, and I will give it him." How wonderfully this prophecy has been fulfilled. God did truly remove the diadem and crown, and the kingdom has been thrice overturned, and it is no more, according to his word.

But about forty years before its last overturn, Jesus, the rightful heir to the throne, came to the Jewish nation in person, and made one more effort to prevent its destruction; hence, he commenced his mission by saying, "Repent, for the kingdom of heaven is at hand," or within your reach; or, as rendered in the Emphatic Diaglott, "His Royal Majesty has approached." Matt. 4: 17. He preached the "gospel of the kingdom" throughout all Galilee, and in all the cities and villages. Matt. 4: 23; 9: 35. Shortly before his crucifixion, he rode into Jerusalem with triumph, amid the shouts of the whole multitude of his disciples, who cried with a loud voice, "Blessed be the King that cometh in the name of the Lord; peace in heaven and glory in the highest' (Luke 19: 35–40), which fulfilled these words of the prophet: "Rejoice greatly, O daughter of Zion; shout, O daughter of Jerusalem; behold, thy King cometh unto thee; he is just and having salvation." Zech. 9: 9.

He went into the temple and cast out all them that sold and bought there, and overthrew the tables of the money changers, and the seats of them that sold doves, evidently giving a sample of his kingly authority in miniature, and signifying to the Jews that he claimed to be their rightful King. Matt. 21: 12. Had the Jews, as a people, received Jesus as their king, they would have been a peculiar treasure unto God, above all people, a kingdom of priests and a holy nation (Ex. 19: 5, 6), and the conditional promises of the Scriptures would have been fulfilled in them. But they rejected their King, and slew him, saying, "We have no king but Cæsar." Therefore, the offer of national salvation was withdrawn, the kingdom of God was taken from them, and they were destroyed as a nation (Matt. 21: 33–43); which was accomplished by the Romans, about A. D. 70, when the kingdom received its final overturn, and the Jewish nation was completely broken up. Then thousands upon thousands fell by the sword, and the remnant were led captive into all nations, and Jerusalem has been trodden down by the Gentiles ever since, with all the land of Israel, and will be till the times of the Gentiles are fulfilled, agreeably to the prediction of our Savior. Luke 21: 24. Then Jesus, whose right it is, will come and take the kingdom. Then "the Lord God shall give unto him the throne of his father David, and he shall reign over the house of Jacob forever; and of his kingdom there shall be no end." Luke 1: 32, 33. And this will be in the regeneration, when Jesus will "sit in the throne of his glory,"—the throne of David,—and the apostles "shall sit upon twelve thrones, judging the twelve tribes of Israel." Matt. 19: 28.

We find, then, that Palestine is, in a special sense, the kingdom of God, and the whole Bible is in harmony with this view. With this view, we can understand what Jesus meant when he said to the Jews, "The kingdom of God shall be taken from you, and given to a nation bringing forth the fruits thereof." Matt. 21: 43. The holy land, together with the city of the great King (Matt. 5: 35), was taken from them by the Romans; and, in the restitution, will be given to that "holy nation," "royal priesthood," "peculiar people," mentioned in 1 Pet. 2: 9, which will comprise all in every nation who fear God and work righteousness. We can understand also what our Savior meant when he told the Jews they should be thrust out of the kingdom of God. He did not say left out, but thrust out, where there will "be weeping and gnashing of teeth." Luke 13: 25–28.

When "the Lord himself shall descend from heaven with a shout, with the voice of the archangel and with the trump of God," he will first raise to life his sleeping saints; then we who "are alive and remain, shall be caught up together with them in the clouds, to meet the Lord in the air;" and this will separate the righteous from the wicked, as a shepherd divideth his sheep from the goats, for then we shall ever be with the Lord, never, nevermore to mingle with the ungodly. 1 Thess. 4: 16, 17.

Please remember that Jesus is coming into his kingdom. Luke 23: 42. He is coming to take the throne of David and reign in Mount Zion (Isa. 9: 7; Ps. 2): 6–9; and we shall meet him in the air, to accompany him to his kingdom. We read in John 13: 36, "Whither I go thou canst not follow me now, but thou shalt follow me afterward." Truly, we shall then follow him to his kingdom, when the angels shall have gathered out of it all things that offend. Matt. 13: 41.

When Jesus shall have conducted his dear saints to Jerusalem and taken the throne of David, he will set them on his right hand. Then will the wicked, both the living and the dead, be gathered before him and placed upon his left hand, Matt. 25: 33. That the wicked dead will be there is clearly shown in Rev. 20: 13, 15: "And the sea gave up the dead which were in it, and death and hell [the grave—margin] delivered up the dead which were in them, and they were judged every man according to their works. . . . And whosoever was not found written in the book of life was cast into the lake of fire." So we find that all will be resurrected before the great judgment scenes will be realized; and a part of that great company, whom the sea, death and the grave deliver up, will be found written in the book of life, and a part will not.

When all are thus gathered, the King will then say to them on his right hand, "Come, ye blessed of my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world." Matt. 25: 34. Does not our Lord here mean that beautiful garden which God, at the creation, planted in Eden, full of all kinds of beautiful trees, loaded with fruit for the man whom he made and put there, in the midst of which was the tree of life, of which if the man had eaten he would have lived forever? And who can say this was not the very land the Lord afterwards gave to the children of Israel? O, may we be found among those blessed ones, so that our dear Savior can welcome us to that beautiful kingdom,—Eden restored—in the midst of which will again be the tree of life. Rev. 2: 7; 22: 2. By the help of the Lord we will be there. But he will say to them on his left hand, "Depart from me, ye cursed, into everlasting fire prepared for the devil and his angels." Matt. 25: 41.

O, awful thought! that a great part of the family of man must share the doom of the devil and the wicked angels, because, like them, they are rebels against God; and, although they have the offer of pardon, if they will become loyal, they refuse. Therefore, after receiving their sentence, they will "go away into everlasting cutting-off" (Emphatic Diaglott). Matt. 25: 46. The holy angels will gather them out of the kingdom, into which they are gathered to receive their sentence, and "cast them into a furnace of fire; there shall be wailing and gnashing of teeth." Matt. 13: 41, 42. Those who, when our Lord was upon the earth, eat and drank in his presence, and heard the word from his lips, but refused to obey, will then be among the wailing ones. Luke 13: 25–28. The persecutors of the Thessalonian brethren will then be recompensed with tribulation, and "everlasting destruction." 2 Thess. 1: 6–10. And all who obey not the truth, but obey unrighteousness, will then suffer "indignation and wrath, tribulation and anguish," and perish. Rom. 5: 8, 9, 12. O, that sinners would turn to the Lord and escape that awful doom.

(To be concluded.)

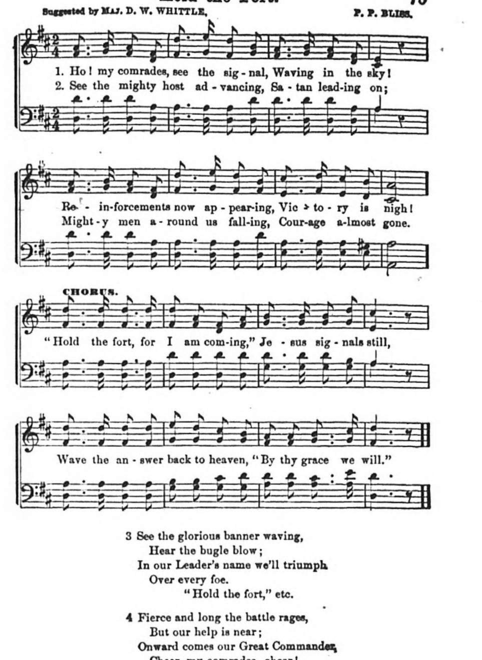
Hold the Fort. 79

Suggested by MAJ. D. W. WHITTLE. P. P. BLISS.



3 See the glorious banner waving,
Hear the bugle blow;
In our Leader's name we'll triumph
Over every foe.
"Hold the fort," etc.

4 Fierce and long the battle rages,
But our help is near;
Onward comes our Great Commander,
Cheer, my comrades, cheer!
"Hold the fort," etc.

From "GOSPEL SONGS," {by permission of the publishers.} JOHN CHURCH & CO., Cincinnati.

UNITY.

J. D. MERRIAM.

"Behold how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity."

It is a fact no one can deny, and which it is to be deeply deplored, that among us, who are looking for the near personal appearing of Jesus Christ to earth the second time, here is a lack of unity.

Is there a remedy for this state of things? Can there ever be union where division has been so long the rule? A union in every shade of opinion on Bible questions, may never be expected, while encompassed with the infirmities of mortality; but may there not be an improvement on the present state of things, so there shall be at least an approximate unity? that where there is contention and strife on these questions, it shall cease?

Let us seek for the things which make for peace. Jesus prayed for his disciples "that they all might be one." What is the principle on which alone unity can prevail? The great apostle says, "Put on charity, which is the bond of perfectness." Now if unity is not to be expected in opinions, shall we not find it in the development of christian character? LOVE lies at the foundation of christianity. It personates its entire superstructure, and will, in the end, be the keystone to the arch, which is to bind the whole church together in perpetual unity. "God is love." "God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life." So the command is, "Thou shalt love the Lord with all thy heart, and . . thy neighbor as thyself." The wise man has written: "Fear God, and keep his commandments, for this is the whole duty of man." Love to God, and love to man are not to be separated, "for he that loveth not his brother whom he hath seen, how can he love God, whom he hath not seen?" When love reigns in us, there is no room left for envy and malice, and the evil passions to which we were subject when in a state of nature. "Love worketh no ill to his neighbor." But my neighbor does not believe as I do; shall I love him still? Love him still.

While christians have an undying love for all mankind, there is, without doubt, a peculiar love for those who are the children of God by faith in Jesus Christ. "By this we know that we love the children of God, when we love God and keep his commandments." Who are the children of God? "Not every one that saith unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter the kingdom of heaven; but he that doeth the will of my Father who is in heaven." Again, "Ye are my friends, if ye do whatsoever I command you." Obedience, then, is a characteristic of a child of God. Not forced, legal obedience, induced by fear, but filial, childlike obedience; the out-gushing of a heart full of love, showing forth its gratitude by continued acts of devotion to God, and kindness to men. We can show forth our love to God as we minister to his children. He that "hath this world's good, and seeth his brother have need, and shutteth up his bowels of compassion from him, how dwelleth the love of God in him?" "If we walk in the light, as he is in the light, we have fellowship one with another, and the blood of Jesus Christ, his Son, cleanseth us from all sin."

A christian character is developed by walking in the light, by obedience and love, which must be the basis for all christian fellowship. For we are made "partakers of the divine nature, having escaped the corruption that is in the world through lust." If we love him that begat, we shall love him that is begotten of him. Thus we are in the family of God. In this family, harmony must prevail. It is called "the church of the living God, the pillar and ground of the truth." It is compared to the human body. As all the members are in harmony with each other; so we are the body of Christ, and members one of another. All are needed, and must be in their place, doing their allotted work; then there is harmony in the body. Baptized by one Spirit into one body, whether we be Jews or Gentiles, male or female, "bond or free, and have been all made to drink into one Spirit." Elect through sanctification of the Spirit, and belief of the truth. "Now, if any man have not the Spirit of Christ, he is none of his."

Do we ignore the truth, because we do not consider unity of sentiment the basis of Christianity? By no means. The grand leading truth, which has a special application to this generation, is doubtless that which relates to the evidences of our proximity to the coming of Jesus, the second time, without sin unto salvation, and a preparation to meet him. If our interpretation of prophecy is correct, then there can be no reasonable doubt, but we are near the end of our work. We all agree that time must soon close. How applicable now, all those warnings and admonitions, which were given by Christ and his apostles. "Take heed to yourselves, lest at any time your hearts be overcharged with surfeiting, and drunkenness, and the cares of this life, and so that day come upon you unawares." "Watch ye, therefore, and pray always, that ye may be accounted worthy to escape all these things that shall come to pass, and to stand before the Son of man." "Grudge not one against another, brethren, lest ye be condemned; behold, the Judge standeth before the door." "Seeing that ye look for such things, be diligent, that ye may be found of him in peace, without spot, and blameless." "He that endureth unto the end, shall be saved."

Now, shall we waste these precious moments of time in discussing questions which engender strifes? in proselyting people to our views, while their characters remain unchanged? Let us not be content to labor merely for intellectual enlightenment, but to reach the heart. Apostolic preaching pricked men in their hearts, which led them to cry out, "Men and brethren, what shall we do to be saved?" O, for more of such preaching, brought to bear on the hearts and consciences of men, leading them to forsake a life of sin, for one of prayer and obedience, having the fruit "to holiness, and the end, everlasting life." O, that God would impart to all who are professedly looking for Jesus, that wisdom which is first pure, then peaceable, gentle, easy to be entreated, full of mercy and good fruits, without partiality and hypocrisy. Contentions and strife will then give place to mutual forbearance and love; each esteeming others "better than themselves," thus keeping "the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace," and be ready, with garments all made white in the blood of the Lamb, for the Bridegroom to come and take them to the marriage supper. God grant we may all be present to share in the felicities of that grand day.

"LOVE HIS APPEARING."

"This same Jesus who is taken up from you into heaven, shall so come again in like manner as ye have seen him go into heaven." "For the Lord himself shall descend from heaven with a shout, with the voice of the archangel, and the trump of God."

Do these assurances give us joy? Are we looking forward with eager desire to that glorious event? Do our hearts respond, "Amen; even so come, Lord Jesus, come quickly?" His first advent was for suffering, his second will be for victory; in the first he began a great work, in the second he will finish it; in the first he planted a vineyard, in the second the fruit will be gathered; in the first he atoned for sin, in the second he will glorify the redeemed. Blessed and holy will they be who have part in that work of glorifying.

Vast physical changes, too, will attend the second advent; revolutions in the sun, in the moon, among the stars, and in the earth. The rocks testify that God brought up the earth from chaos, to its present perfection, through successive revolutions, transformations, reconstructions. With thunderings, explosions, quakings, conflagrations, the work went on, step by step, until the "garden" was ready for man. The testimony of the rocks agrees with the record of Scripture, that infinite power has done wonders in the past, and may be expected to exceed them in the future. This earth will be destroyed, and new heavens and a new earth will come forth in their place by the Almighty fiat. Does the tremendous fact give us joy?

This earth belongs to Christ; he made it, and has redeemed it. Satan is a usurper, a thief. As a prince he "works in the hearts of the children of disobedience," the children of that one sad disobedience in Eden, and resists the rightful King. . . . In long suffering love, Christ extends probation that man may forsake the usurper and turn to the King of kings. But he will not always tarry; the last moment for repentance will come, "the trump of God" will startle the nations, power will assert its supremacy, and Satan will fall.

Praise the Lord! Satan will fall, and his works be all destroyed. Death and the grave, pain and grief, sin and shame, mortality and corruption, will be swept away. The earth will be renovated, reconstructed, purged of every vile touch of Satan, every dark spot, and made meet for a habitation for the Lord. He will possess his own and fit it up in a style worthy of his nature and work.

But his chiefest work will be expended upon his saints. The new earth will be given to them, and a glory like unto the Lord's own glory shall become their own. The possibilities of knowing, doing, enjoying, traveling, association, progress, in that new earth, will be rich beyond all present power of conception. The eloquence of speech, melody of song, grace of manner, luxury of fellowship, beauty of person, glory of surroundings, grandeur of thought, freshness of new discoveries and rapidity of progress, will so far excel our highest ideals here, that we shall smile at our childish admirations while in the flesh. This precious life will seem altogether insipid when compared with existence there.

Chief among the blessings and glories in the new earth, will be constant, free, familiar converse with Christ. "The meek shall inherit the earth" redeemed, Satan driven out, the true King in full possession, and always to be seen and loved. With this in view, how can we fail to "love his appearing?" Our inheritance will not be complete until Jesus comes "to be glorified in his saints." . . . "How long, oh Lord?" is prayed from "beneath the altar," and breaks from millions of hearts still in the flesh. We do love his appearing, and long for the day to come, the trump to sound.—Baptist Union.

OUR GREAT WANT IS CHRIST.

For six thousand years the earth has been smitten, ravaged, broken, parcelled among the nations; the nations, relatively, increasing and diminishing; empires rising and falling; governments forming, flourishing and falling; but, under all circumstances, at all times, and in all places, man—sinning, sorrowing, dying! Such a world, oh, ye antichrists! if purposely made so, and hopelessly kept so, were a shame, a disgrace, a curse to its Maker. And do ye still bespeak for it the innumerable ages? Ah! God knows better and will do better.

There is a being, hidden from us, though not we from him, clothed in our own nature, perfected and glorified, sitting and reigning at the centre and zenith of this universal circle of light and life, of whom it is declared, "In the beginning was the word, and the word was with God, and the word was God." At the close of his last prophetic interview with his latest surviving apostle he declared, "Surely I come quickly, Amen," to which the apostle replied, in behalf of the church and the world, "Even so, come, Lord Jesus!"

I profess no skill or assurance, in determination of prophetic times and seasons, I simply wait on the Lord. Nevertheless, I can but understand that we are now nearly eighteen centuries nearer the fulfillment of the promise than when it was given. Neither can I forget that many lines of prophecy, relating to the same great event, converge about the present era. And neither can I be unobservant of the fact that the world is now open from pole to pole—that the gospel has already performed its office, to a great extent, as a witness for Christ among all nations—and that the condition of nature and society, everywhere, seems to invite divine intervention for the resurrection of the dead, the transformation of the living, the judgment of all, the renovation of heaven and earth, the establishment of everlasting righteousness, and the universal development and triumph of the kingdom of glory and of God.

All we can say is—and this must be said with infinite reverence—"the sooner the better;" the sooner Christ's time comes, the better for all who wait for his coming. If, amidst the conflict of empires, the revolution of kingdoms, and the consequent amazement and alarm of all mankind, we seem to hear a repetition of the promise as just about to be realized—"Surely I come quickly"—let our hearts leap within us as we answer, "Even so, come, Lord Jesus!"

Here is our want—Christ! "Thou, oh, Christ, art all we want!" He, essentially and truly, whether known or unknown, is "the desire of all nations." Let the antichrists say what they will, the only hope of the world is in Jesus Christ. I shall gain my chief object if I can only persuade you duly to remember this. Whatever personal dangers or social dangers may at any time press upon us, however we may humble ourselves before God, and fast and pray for deliverance from them, and even though our prayers be heard and answered, and the dangers which threaten us be removed, still, in all conditions and at all times, our own supreme and most urgent want, and that of the whole world quite as well, is Christ—Christ's spirit, Christ's advent, Christ's miracles, Christ's kingdom, Christ's goverment, Christ's people, and Christ's perfect and everlasting salvation.—Prophetic Times.

"TURN to the right, and go straight ahead," was the reply of the late Bishop of Litchfield to a fellow traveler who sneeringly asked him to point out the way to heaven.

The World's Crisis
AND
SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

Boston, Wednesday, Oct. 13, 1875.

☞ TAKE NOTICE.

☞ All subscriptions for the "CRISIS," issued from this time forward, are at the rate of

$2.25 a year, payable IN ADVANCE.

POSTAGE FREE TO ALL within the United States, the Canadas, and the British Provinces.

☞ Please Remember!

☞ All remittances to this office, in the form of Drafts, Bank Checks, and Postal Money-Orders, should be made payable to the Business Agent, GEO. T. ADAMS.

☞ THOSE who send articles for the "CRISIS," should direct them to the " ITORS OF WORLD'S CRISIS," Boston, Mass.

PLEASE READ, REMEMBER, AND ACT ACCORDINGLY.

The brethren, sisters, friends—one and all—whoever may write to this office, sending articles for insertion in the Crisis, or subscriptions for the same, notices, appointments, reports, or orders for papers, books, tracts, or anything of the kind, will confer a favor and do the right way by directing their letters in either one of the following ways:—

"EDITORS OF WORLD'S CRISIS, Boston, Mass."

"WORLD'S CRISIS, Boston, Mass.," or

GEO. T. ADAMS, Agent, Boston, Mass.

Those who send articles for the Young Pilgrim should address—

"EDITOR YOUNG PILGRIM, Boston, Mass."

In no case address letters on business connected with the papers, or office, to any of the clerks, compositors, or helps in this office.

AGENT.

HEREAFTER address me at BOSTON, MASS. All private letters should be marked "personal." MILES GRANT.

MUSIC.—The beautiful piece of music in the last Crisis, entitled, "When Jesus comes," is not complete. When too late to make the correction, it was discovered that one score was omitted. We will endeavor to have the whole piece in soon. M. G.

AN interesting series of sermons is to be delivered at the Music Hall, Boston, on Wednesday evenings, by the following persons, on the specified dates: Dr. C. F. Deems, Oct. 13th; Dr. Geo. Douglass, Oct. 27th; Bishop M. Simpson, Nov. 3d; Dr. G. D. Cummins, Nov. 10th; Dr. Duncan, Nov. 24th. M. G.

PERSONAL.—Rev. S. G. Mathewson, who has served so acceptably for the last two or three years as pastor of the Central street Advent church of this city, has received a pressing call to return to his former charge at Castleton, Vt., where he labored successfully for nine years, but the members of his church here are reluctant to part with him, and have not yet accepted his resignation. His many friends here hope to prevail on him to remain."—Worcester Spy.

We understand the church in Worcester refused to accept the resignation of Bro. Mathewson. M. G.

"LOVE HIS APPEARING," is the heading of an article in another column, from the Editor of the Baptist Union, published at 37 Park Row, New York City. Bro. Ball, the Editor, is one of the leading men in the holiness movement. When he says, at the close of the article, "We do love his appearing, and long for the day to come," he expresses the feelings of those who love God with all the heart. Such language is in keeping with the spirit of holiness. M. G.

CORRECTION.—In the Crisis for Sept. 22nd, 1875, we gave a part of a sermon of Elder James White, as reported in the Burlington Free Press. In setting the sermon, it appears an omission was made by the compositor, which was not noticed by the proofreader. Instead of reading, "the heavenly sanctuary . . . . was to be cleansed by the blood of goats," it should read—"The heavenly sanctuary . . . . was to be cleansed by the blood of Christ, as the earthly sanctuary was by the blood of goats." M. G.

CONQUEST OF THE GOTHS.—In Bower's History of the Popes, Vol. I. p. 369, when speaking of the time that the Greeks conquered the Goths in Italy, he says Pope Vilgilius "did not leave Constantinople till he had obtained of the Emperor [Justinian] a constitution, with several grants, privileges, and exemptions, not for the Romans only, but for the inhabitants of Italy in general, that country being then reduced to a most deplorable condition, by the war between the Goths and the Greeks, which was carried on, without intermission, from the year 535, to the present 554, when the reduction of Italy was completed by Narses."

We can give no better authority than Bower's History of the Popes. M. G.

A CHOICE BOOK.—We have just met with a precious book, entitled, "Walks and Words of Jesus," by Bro. Miles N. Olmsted, of Saugatuck, Ct. This work has two special characteristics, which make it valuable to the Bible reader:

1. It contains a complete harmony of the four Evangelists, arranged in chronological order, thus giving in one view a full account of the Savior's life and ministry. The four Gospels ars so interwoven as to make one continued statement of historic facts relating to the walks and words of Jesus.

2. The words spoken by Jesus himself are in much larger type, so that one can read by themselves all the words of Christ left on record, without the trouble of selecting them from what others had said. This is a very interesting feature of the book. It is a choice book for family reading. Price $1.50; gilt illustrated, $2.00.

Bro. H. A. King, 37 Park Row, New York, offers this book, post paid, and his valuable paper—Union in Christ—one year for the price of the book, $1.50. The book is also for sale at this Office. M. G.

The ADDRESS of the President of the A. C. P. Society, delivered at the late Annual Meeting of the A. C. Association, is now ready. Those desiring it will please order.

AG'T.

FAITH-CURE.

We are now (Oct. 6th) holding a series of meetings in the De Kalb Avenue M. E. Church, Brooklyn, N. Y., with Bro. S. H. Platt, who has been healed in answer to prayer. The cure is genuine and remarkable. He had been lame for twenty-five years. His lameness was caused by a kick of a horse against one of his knees, and subsequently the other knee received a similar injury by striking it against the corner of a box. He suffered much, and consulted several eminent surgeons and physicians, who pronounced his injuries incurable. Being unwilling to use crutches, if he could possibly avoid them, he managed to get around with two walking canes.

Since being cured in answer to the prayer of Sr. Mossman, at Ocean Grove, N. J., Bro. Platt trips about as lively as any other person, having no need of canes, more than before his injuries.

We are giving lectures from the great historical and prophetical chart, in Bro. Platt's church, to large and very attentive audiences. The outlook is very encouraging. Pray for us. M. G.

A PROPOSITION.

That we are very near the close of the present dispensation, there seems to be no room for doubt. Thousands upon thousands are calling for light on this important subject. What can be done? Something extra should be done, and done at once. Men are perishing for lack of knowledge, for lack of light and truth, which are shining so gloriously on our pathway. Shall anything be done to help those who are stretching forth their hands for assistance? or shall we work on quietly, and see them plunge into the Niagará of destruction, when we might have sent them the means of rescue?

Brn. and Srs., what is the heart's response? We do not put this question to the cold, worldly formalist, blinded by the god of this world; but we do press it upon every warm-hearted, devoted christian reader; what will you do to assist in spreading the glorious news of Jesus' coming, and the importance of a pure heart, in order to be ready to meet him joyfully?

After looking over the matter carefully, we have come to the conclusion that one of the best things that can be done is to make an extra effort to increase the circulation of the World's Crisis. Our subscription list should be doubled this year. Ten thousand should be added to the present circulation. Cannot every subscriber, with a little effort, secure one new one? As a general rule, we have found that when "our paper" is sent by friends to persons not acquainted with our position, the reading of the paper has led them to see the "blessed hope," and to subscribe for the paper.

Now our proposition is this: Let those who wish to aid in this glorious work of telling the people that our dear Savior is about to return to establish "the kingdom of heaven," and that they must be holy in order to be ready for the great event, send the Crisis for three months to one or many ministers, friends, relatives, or neighbors, who are not now taking the paper. With this arrangement, the paper may be sent three months for fifty cents. Let us have an immediate shower of letters with lists of names and the money for this blessed object. Are there not some generous souls who will pay for one hundred, others for fifty, others for twenty-five copies? We believe the money thus invested will yield a very rich income. Let every one take at least one share. We will take ten. M. G.

DOMESTIC HARMONY.

Social harmony is essential to human happiness. The proper family relations are primary and most important for the peace and welfare of our race. God incorporated the social element, prominently, in all his creatures, especially in man, showing it to be eminently essential in the accomplishment of his merciful purpose to all happiness and peace.

The Creator has given to all grades of social life intuitive and revealed knowledge of the order and principles by which all social relations should be governed. Primary and important with man is the family government. Here are exhibited the first principles of heavenly union and order, binding in love and domestic fellowship the first classification of human society. There are laid the foundations for all human government and fraternal intercourse.

The first heaven established social harmony on the earth was the sacred union between husband and wife. God himself decreed it, arranged for it and established it. He manifested his design, as to the perfection of the union, by giving the pair at first but one organism, making them completely one in location, intellect, love, sympathy, purpose, effort and destiny. After having manifested his purpose as to human oneness and harmony, by organizing under one head the members of a future association of individual members, he parted the first compacted body, thus granting the privilege and blessing of social life in the united body of humanity. This appears from his record of the creation. For in Gen. 1: 26 he says: "Let us make man in our image, after our likeness; and let them have dominion," etc. He contemplated the two, while as yet there was but one.

The purpose was evidently to produce human society, in which the individual members should be so blended and united in mind and heart, that envy, strife and war should be unknown in their happy ranks. The divine purpose as to the social position to be occupied by the two blended parties, the husband and wife, was clearly indicated by the position occupied by the wife in the organic union before separation. She was located at his side; not at his head or feet, but nearest to his heart; at his side. If she had been taken from his head it would have indicated government, superiority, headship; or if she had been taken from the feet it would have indicated service, inferiority, slavery. But she was taken from the side; a position between the extremes of rulership and servitude; near the heart, the fountain of life and love.

If he would have his own life perpetuated in posterity, the wife stands to transmit it. If he would have his voice of love and sympathy echo back to his own heart, his wife can successfully do it. If he asks for a helper to share the toils, cares and burdens of life, his wife is at his side to assist him through the heat and storm of a toilsome day. He is not allowed to dictate, as if she were a trembling slave at his feet, and so crush and debase the God-exalted nobility of true womanhood; neither should he allow his wife to take the power of headship, and exercise authority over him as a superior, thus displacing him from his divinely appointed position.

Heavenly harmony is always preserved when heavenly order is followed; for God can never fail to bless those who yield obedience to his laws. If a man would enjoy real tranquility and peace in the domestic circle, let him observe God's laws and order, and the great blessing will never fail him.

If his benevolence would share with some lone heart the endearing love of companionship, and divide with some true friend the bounties of a kind Providence, a truly wedded wife is the divinely appointed recipient. If a christian man would have a home where his wearied head can rest, and his grieved spirit find sweet repose, where the sounds are soft and soothing, and the influences assuring and comforting, let him ask God to give him a wife fitted for the position according to his own purpose. Let him be influenced in his choice more by virtue of character than by external adornments; more by an affectionate heart than by a blushing cheek; more by domestic skill and useful habits than by artistic embellishments and coquettish attractions. Let him esteem true womanly dignity as consisting in real intelligence, retiring modesty, unyielding virtue, christian purity, and real fidelity; and not in a bold intrusion into public notice, a vain show of aristocratic importance, and a heartless disregard of moral obligations and christian responsibilities.

If these few rules were followed, we believe much domestic woe and misery would be escaped, and much real happiness and comfort secured.

No good woman should accept the hand of a man in wedlock, who has not manifested the true nobility of manhood. She should accept only him whom she can reverence as her head, and truly love on account of real loveliness, seen in his capacity for intelligence, his well established virtuous habits, his loving, sympathetic nature, his domestic economy, and above all, his reverence for God, his Word, and the holy religion of Jesus Christ.

When the divine union of this sacred covenant is formed, it can only be perpetuated, in its fullness and joyfulness, by the husband and wife each occupying their appointed place, performing their proper part of life's duties, assisting in bearing each other's burdens, soothing each other's troubled hearts by soft and sympathetic words, long forbearance, and deeds of heartfelt love. The rising wave of strife and discord should be stayed at its first appearance.

It will take much less power and effort to prevent the golden chord of union from breaking, than to repair it after being severed. How unwise to suffer the peace and happiness of a family to be destroyed for a long time, and perhaps forever, by indulging in a few hasty, censorious words, the expression of unfounded jealousy, a little foolish criticism or the unholy ambition to exercise undue authority.

When a wrong step is taken, or a bitter word spoken, the sooner the poison is extracted by an honest and full confession, the easier the wound is healed. The sweetness and value of domestic life is dependent upon these things.

Happiness never dwells where love and harmony are absent. Riches and honor can not retain it. The stately hall or palace is not its native home. It follows love and union into the beggar's cot, and long remains with loving hearts, although they may be despised and outcast.

Secure love and concord in your homes, and happiness will take up its abode there, and will never be absent when the circle gathers around the hearth-stone, morning, noon and evening. They who waste the family love, squander its richest treasure. Better by far have your house laid in ashes, and be homeless, than have your domestic peace destroyed by strife. A thief would not rob you of so valuable a treasure to take all your goods, as Satan will to destroy your love and harmony. "Better is a dinner of herbs where love is, than a stalled ox and hatred therewith."

If our faith does not save us from family strife and hatred, we may feel assured that we are not enjoying gospel salvation. When our religion does not make us loving and kind in our families, we had better not recommend it when absent from home. The union which exists between truly wedded hearts is so perfect that it is taken to represent the divine union between Christ and his church. Eve was the bride of the first Adam, and the church is the bride of the second Adam. Then let us so love our wives as Christ loved the church, and let the wives see that they reverence their husbands.

As the first Adam's bride was taken from his side by the direct power of God, she receiving the nature and mind of her head, so the church is taken from the second Adam's side by the operation of divine power, she receiving the divine nature, and is united to Christ by a holy espousal. O the glorious unity of divine oneness with the King Eternal, the Immanuel of a holy race. J. C.

YOUNG PILGRIM LESSON PAPERS.

We are about to add a new feature to our Sunday-school paper, The Young Pilgrim. The A. C. Pub. Society at first contemplated publishing weekly Lesson Papers, but after deliberation it was thought best to have them issued in the Young Pilgrim, thus giving to them a larger circulation than by the former method, and also adding to the interest of the Pilgrim. Two lessons will appear in each No. of the Pilgrim, except when five Sundays occur in one month, when there will be three in one No. and two in the other. The lessons the first month will be on the following subjects: The Bible, God, Jesus Christ, and the Holy Spirit. The lessons as they will appear from time to time, are intended to present the leading truths of the Bible, doctrinal and practical, in a form adapted to the capacity of children, and yet in a manner to deserve the attention of adults. In a word, they are intended for our Sabbath-schools, not for a few classes, but for all, old and young, and we hope they may be liberally subscribed for.

The preparation of them is entrusted to tha Editor of the Youug Pilgrim. In addition to the subjects above mentioned, the lessons will in due time embrace biographical sketches of prominent Bible characters, enforcing the lessons to be learned from their lives. It is intended to make these lessons as attractive, interesting, and instructive as any that are published, and if our friends who have wished for them will now take hold of the work in good earnest in extending the circulation of the Pilgrim, and renewing their own subscriptions, we see no reason why their publication may not be a permanent arrangement. We hope all our Sunday-school superintendents will become interested in them at once, and begin their use with the first that are published. The first lessons may be expected to appear in the November Nos. of the Young Pilgrim.

AG'T.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS.

In another column will be noticed a call for a meeting of the Advent Christian Association, to be held Tuesday, Dec. 14th, for the purpose of amending its Constitution. The occasion of this call is on account of some dissatisfaction with the working of the present system, which has been in operation some sixteen years. If any improvements can be made, we are ready to give our heart and hand to the work.

Since the Board of the Association decided to call the above named convention, for the purpose specified, we have devoted considerable thought to the subject, and will lay some of the results before our readers, for their consideration, before we meet for action, as is required by the Constitution of the A. C. A.

The object in forming a new Constitution of the A. C. A. may be expressed as follows: To secure the greatest possible impartial representation of the voice of the people, at the least possible expense and trouble. The system that best corresponds with the foregoing proposition is the one that should be unanimously adopted. We are well satisfied that the present Constitution of the A. C. A. may be much improved. If possible, it is desirable that some system be adopted so that every co-operating church in the world may find it convenient to be represented in the annual meetings of the Association, having a voice in the choice of officers, and in the direction of business matters.

The system should be as democratic as possible, and well guarded against all abuse of power by any who might seek an undue controlling influence. It should be arranged with reference to economy in saving traveling expenses, and the trouble of entertainment; hence the system should aim to reduce the representation to as small a number as will give satisfaction to the whole body.

It also seems desirable that the Association should become more like a General Conference, and have some judicial as well as executive power, and become a body to which appeals may be made from churches and State Conferences.

With these general thoughts before us, we offer the following suggestions:

1. The name of the Association shall be changed to that of "The General Conference of the Advent Christian Church."

2. Every church co-operating with the General Conferenee may send one delegate. He may be a minister, or lay member,* as the church may prefer; or he may be a member of any other co operating church, than of the one by which he is chosen; but no one can be a member of the General Conference, unless duly appointed by some co-operating church, and provided with a certificate signed by the Chairman or Secretary of the meeting at the time of the appointment.

In the arrangement of this amended Constitution, we have endeavored to combine the principles that govern the election of the members of the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States Cóngress. A given number of persons secures a Congressional Representative; but every State, without regard to its population, sends the same number of Senators. So far as we know, all General Conferences, of different denominations, are made up of delegates from local or State Conferences, and not by delegates from churches; hence the latter are not directly represented in the General Conference; but in allowing every church to send one delegate, each church acts in the General as directly as in the State Conference. The allowance of but one delegate from each church, without regard to the number of its members, is analagous to the law regulating the choice of United States Senators, which permits but two from each State, without respect to the population. In allowing but one delegate from each church, the number admitted by the old Constitution will be reduced full one half, which is a desirable result as to expense. It also prevents the churches living near the place where the Conference is held from having an undue control, in always being represented by their full number of delegates; while those at a distance cannot afford the expense, and consequently are not represented at all, thus giving ground for complaint about the working of the present system. In order to fully remove this objection, we offer the following:

3. Any church being over one hundred miles from the place appointed for the meeting of the Conference may vote by proxy through any properly chosen delegate of any other church, by making known to the Secretary of the Conference the church whose delegate is to be the proxy. In this plan, every church has an equal voice, and all living over one hundred miles from the place of meeting can vote for every officer at the expense of but three cents—or the cost of a letter to the Secretary.

4. In case it is known to the Conference that any delegate takes measures to secure proxies, he shall forfeit his membership in the Conference.

5. Delegates shall not be officially informed that they are to act as proxies, till the fact is made known to them at the meeting of the Conference, by the Secretary, who shall prepare an alphabetical list of the churches voting by proxy.

6. All officers appointed by the General Conference shall be considered as delegates, but shall not act as proxies for any church. In case it should happen that any officer should be chosen as a proxy, the Conference shall have power to appoint a substitute, through a committee of three, nominated from the floor, one of whom shall be said officer. This section shall not be construed to apply to officers elected during the session of the Conference.

As it would be quite natural for distant churches to name some official member as their proxy, thus giving the officer undue power in the Conference, this section is offered as a guard.

7. In case any delegate, living within one hundred miles of the Conference, is chosen more than two weeks before its session, he shall forfeit his membership. This clause is designed as a guard against "wire-pulling."

8. In case any churches, represented by proxies, wish to express affirmative or negative votes on any particular questions, they can so state it in their letters to the Secretary, who will give the information to the proxies, whose duty it shall be to comply with the request of said churches.

9. All officers appointed by the Conference shall be nominated by nominating committees, nominated from the floor. This is to prevent any individual from making a hasty nomination.

10. Printed lists of acting officers shall be distributed by the tellers to the delegates, in connection with the ballot papers, but shall not be read publicly. As but few of the delegates may know all the acting official members, it is proper that they should have this information to assist them, when desired.

11. The meetings of the General Conference shall not be held in connection with any other meeting. This is to prevent either a hurry or neglect of business, which has sometimes occurred when mixed with our campmeetings.

12. The evening sessions of the Conference shall be occupied in religious exercises.

13. The General Conference shall have judicial as well as executive power. Any individual or church, that cannot be represented in a State conference, or any church or individual dissatisfied with the decision of a State conference, may appeal to the General Conference, and its decision shall be final.

14. The General Conference shall have the power of discipline over its official members, but shall entertain no charges against individuals, churches, or conferences, excepting written appeals, with written charges and specifications from some individual, church, or conference.

15. The General Conference shall have the supervision of our publication interests, and appoint the officers of the A. C. P. S.

16. The officers of the Mission Society shall be chosen by the General Conference, but the annual meetings of the Society shall be at such time and place as the Society may appoint, or amend, as they may think best, when they come together.

In conclusion, we will give a few reasons why we have offered this plan.

1. It is universal, as every church can be represented.

2. It is impartial, as it gives no preference to ministers above laymen.

3. It will cause the least possible expense and trouble to all who live over one hundred miles from the place of meeting, as it is only necessary for each church, when together, to select their proxy. This need not take over five minutes, and in another five minutes a letter may be ready to mail to the Secretary of the Conference, so that the whole trouble and expense would amount to about ten minutes of time, and three cents in money.

This system, we think, reduces the trouble and expense to the lowest possible figure, and removes all objection against distance. It is also carefully guarded against any "wire pulling" or "ring" movements. It is self-regulating. If there be any advantage, it is transferred to those who are so far away they cannot be present to speak for themselves. It also diminishes the number of delegates, and thus saves expense to the whole church family, which is an important item.

At the opening of the meeting, the Secretary will announce who are to vote as proxies, and how many votes. This number, including the delegate's own vote, will be placed on the ballot at the time of voting, so that the assorting and counting will be as easily done as in the common system. While it may increase the number of votes a hundred times, it will cut off from a half to three-fourths of the delegates in the locality of the meeting, thus removing the objection now existing in some minds against the present system. For instance, Worcester sends five delegates, Chelsea three, making eight. In the proposed plan, each would send one, thus cutting off three-fourths of the present number, and three-fourths of the expense.

We believe this proposed system is the most important, the most economical, the most easily executed, the best guarded from abuses, of any we have yet ever considered.

NOTE.—We would suggest another arrangement of the proxies: That, instead of having the churches that vote by proxies name any particular delegates of other churches to represent them, the Conference, through its Secretary, shall divide all the proxies equally among all the delegates, taking them by rotation as they stand on the respective lists of proxies and delegates. This arrangement would prevent any accumulation of proxies in the hands of any one delegate. It would only require that a church signify to the Secretary of the Conference that it wishes a proxy, without specifying the delegate of any particular church.

In case this plan is adopted, the Conference may appoint a committee of three, nominated from the floor, who shall assort and cast the special votes sent by proxy churches, as found in the Secretary's list.

M. G.

* Lay members may be as good business men as ministers.

TEMPTATION.

Can a holy, pure being be tempted? Yes. Adam was pure, yet was tempted, and yielded. Christ was holy, "but was in all points tempted like as we are, yet without sin." Heb. 4: 15. It is sometimes said there can be no temptation, unless the one tempted has a desire to comply with the temptation. A temptation is a trial. When one is tempted, there may be a favorable response to the temptation, or there may be a hearty resistance and abhorrence. For instance: an intemperate man may be asked to take a drink of whisky. His appetite and will respond, Yes. At the same time, the whisky may be offered to a temperance man, but his appetite and will say, No. The temptation is the same in both cases, but the persons tempted are in different conditions.

A pure heart has no desire for impure things; but it would be untrue to say that a person with a pure heart can not be tempted, or tried. All men are tempted. If it claimed that there can be no temptation unless the one tempted desires to comply with the temptation, then it would follow that there are no pure hearts; which is an unscriptural conclusion, and would make out that Christ was impure. The Bible informs us that we "shall be purified, and made white, and tried." Dan. 12: 15. It will be seen that the trial, in this case, is after they are "purified and made white"; consequently the trial comes when the heart has no desire for impure and filthy things. The tempted person must be in one of three conditions: (1) He may desire and yield; (2) he may desire and resist; (3) he may have no desire, and resists. In the first case, the individual says Yes to the temptation; in the other two, No. Jesus was in the third position; and so are all holy beings. M. G.

REPORT OF TENT MEETING IN CAMDEN, ME.

Our seventh meeting was held in this place, commencing Aug. 22nd. We found a few brethren and sisters looking for the "blessed hope" in this place and vicinity. Eld. S. Hall's residence is in Camden. He labors mostly in other places to good acceptance, and contends for the faith once delivered to the saints. Our meetings continued over two Sundays, were well attended, and with good results, as we have reason to hope. Three made a start for the kingdom; others were strengthened in the hope of soon seeing Jesus. We were obliged to move our tent, as the school was to commence near by. At this time I thought it duty to go home with my family, as they had been with us four weeks, and one was sick. We left the tent with Brn. Hall and Dinsmore, hoping to return the last of the week; but learned they moved the tent to Thomaston, where they held meetings a few days. Thinking it too cold to tent on the seashore, they packed up the tent. One was reclaimed, others are under conviction.

Our work is almost done. Our reward will soon be given. May it be said, "Well done," for Jesus' sake. H. B. SEVEY.

West Waterville, Me., Sept. 24th.

RESOLUTIONS.

At an adjourned meeting of the Alton Bay Campmeeting Association of the Advent Christian Church, held at Alton Bay, Aug. 28th, 1875, the following resolutions were unanimously passed:

Resolved, That the thanks of this Association be and are tendered to their Treasurer the past year, Bro. J. W. C. Pickering, for the careful and accurate manner in which he has performed his duties as Treasurer; and we hereby express ourselves as more than satisfied with the manner in which the financial matters of the Association have been conducted the past year.

Resolved, That our thanks as an Association are tendered to our Executive Committee for the faithful performance of their arduous duties, and that we express our entire satisfaction with their untiring efforts to promote the interests of our campmeeting.

C. H. FLETCHER, Secretary.

DR. DODDRIDGE'S prescription for the hour—"Forget the steps already trod, and onward urge thy way."

THE TRACT FUND.

THE ADVENT CHRISTIAN PUBLICATION SOCIETY, at a meeting on Springfield camp-ground, August 11th, 1875, voted to raise Two Thousand Dollars for the free distribution of Tracts the ensuing year; and they invite the help and co-operation of all lovers of the Lord and of his truth, in the furtherance of the good cause. The times are ominous of coming events, and admonish us to diligence in the Master's work. The Lord is at the door, and what we do must be done quickly. Let the contributions be prompt, hearty, and liberal. The Lord will reward the liberal giver.

A. W. SIBLEY, Sec. Adv. Chris. Pub. Soc.

Remittances should be sent to the Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS, Boston, Mass., or they may be enclosed with remittances to the Crisis Office.

DONATIONS FOR THE TRACT FUND.

Previous acknowledgments	$62 72
N. W. Wait	20.00
P. S. Ward	5.00
J. Crosby	1.00

POOR FUND.

TO SEND THE "CRISIS" TO THE POOR.

Previous acknowledgments	$16.20
N. W. Wait	10.00
Isaac Richards	.46

YOUNG PILGRIM FUND.

AMER. ADV. MISSION SOCIETY.

Donations are earnestly solicited, to enable this Society to send out missionaries, and other means, into the Southern States, and elsewhere, as the Lord may open the door, to proclaim "the glad tidings of the kingdom at hand"; and should be sent, as also payments of pledges made, to the

Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS,

P. O. Drawer 5002, Boston, Mass.

who will acknowledge the same in the columns of the Crisis.

Aug. 6th, 1875, and onward.
Previous acknowledgments	$1048.63
R. A.	10.00
Mrs. Maria Drury	2.00
J. F. Clothey (on pledge)	10.00
Second Advent Church at Marblehead, Mass., by Bro. J. F. Clothey	15.00
S. A. Church at Carver, Mass., by Bro. J. R. Boynton (for Bro. E. Bundage)	10.95
S. A. Church at Manchester, N. H., by Bro. W. A. Lovejoy	3.00
S. A. Church at Plymouth, Mass., by Bro. L. Boutell	6.65
S. A. Church, Athol, Mass., by Bro. R. D. Grant	9.50

FOR THE POOR, ETC.

Previous acknowledgments	$7.00
N. W. Wait	5.00

TO SEND THE WORLD'S CRISIS THREE MONTHS TO THOSE WHO DO NOT NOW RECEIVE IT.

The one who sends the money, will please name the person, or persons, to whom they wish the paper sent three months (50 cents per copy.)

Miles Grant (10 copies)	$5.00

FROM BRO. J. A. CARGILE.

TO THE A. A. M. SOCIETY.

Dear Brethren:—I am thankful to be able to report the blessing of God upon my labor thus far.

Since I left the campmeetings I have met many who are anxious to know the truth. I stopped with the brethren and sisters in Biddeford, Worcester, Putnam, Abington and Woodstock Valley, who helped me after a godly sort.

In Washington, I met some of like precious faith, who went with me to the Y. M. C. Association, to whom I was introduced, and with whom I enjoyed a six o'clock meeting in their room, in which I saw on the wall, the first thing on entering the door, the song of Mr. Sankey, headed "When Jesus comes." At eight o'clock we had street preaching. From nine till ten we enjoyed social meetings in their rooms. It was really a blessed time.

I left Washington Wednesday evening, at eleven o'clock, and arrived in Morganton, N. C., on Friday, the 19th, at two P. M., where I met Bro. Israel Coffey, who had come to meet me with a hack.

We drove that night to this place (Colletsville) a distance of sixteen miles. Saturday morning met a large crowd in the new house built by the brethren, whom Bro. Moody had excluded from the Baptist church. The new house stands in a few steps of Bro. Moody's church. I tried to preach Saturday, A. M., and the friends insisted, and I agreed to preach again in the afternoon, as people kept coming in till we closed the morning service. Sunday, 12th. The large house did not seat all the people by at least one hundred, who thronged the doors and windows. In the forenoon we dedicated the house to God. In the afternoon we, in answer to a written request, formed a church with fourteen members. After the little band was united in solemn covenant, I invited all christians, who could wish us God speed, to extend the hand of fellowship.

To my surprise, one brother, who said last June that he would take a club and guard the church door to keep me from preaching in it, came forward, all melted down by the power of God, and threw his arms around our brethren, who had been considered leaders in the Advent heresy. We indeed had a blessed good time.

Monday 13th, met in the evening; eight forward for prayer, and thirteen joined the church, of whom about five were colored.

Tuesday, by special request, I mounted one of Bro. D. D. Coffey's mules, and rode thirteen miles to a place called Lower Creek church. Passing through the village of Lenoir, the people seemed somewhat stirred to think the heretic was going to Lower Creek. One said, "That fellow has broken up one of our best churches, and I think that ought to satisfy him."

We found the church door locked against us, and a crowd standing in the yard looking rather sad. I spoke in a grove within twenty steps of the church door. The people gave the best attention.

We then enjoyed one of the best social meetings I ever enjoyed (save at campmeeting) at the house of a private family in the evening.

Wednesday, 11 A. M., back to the grove again, met an increased crowd, one minister present who refused to come forward to take part. We had a good time, the audience seemed all melted to tenderness, and many said with tears, "Come again."

I then started back to this place, in company with Bro. O. F. Goodwin, who has been with me through all the meetings, and labored to great advantage. In Lenoir we were separated by his having gone to get a shoe for his mule, and I missed him. I knew I had not time to tarry and reach my appointment ten miles that night, so I started alone through the strange hills. About six miles from the village I was lost, and wandered through some by-paths, down ravines so steep that I was forced to dismount and lead my mule. To my astonishment I found a small cabin up in the very head of a hollow, where I learned the way out. I reached the main road at dark, and then rode four miles, but was too late for the meeting. This is missionary work.

Thursday morning I started and rode six miles to the church, and tried to preach; five forward for prayer, two converted,—praise God,—one joined the church, and we enjoyed a melting time. Thursday evening spoke again, scarcely able to stand so worn out. Bro. Goodwin talks, and with that exception I have had all the burden, and have the ague "in the bargain," but how can I stop when people are so eager to hear as to come twenty-five miles, and from four different counties, some on horses and mules, and others in ox wagons. We had a good time; ten forward for prayer, and three joined the church.

To-day, Friday 17th, I am resting, and suffering with a severe pain in my head. Shall try to preach again to-night, the Lord willing. I praise God for the encouragement I have here.

The devil has tried every way to keep the truth down by telling falsehoods, but still God blesses and the cause prospers.

O, dear brethren and sisters, pray for us here, that we may keep humble at the Master's feet, and work while the day lasts. Two Baptist ministers here believe the truth, but need a little more "back bone," Bro. Ross, to stand up for it. God pity such preachers.

To those precious brethren and sisters who contributed so liberally to me, let me say, God bless you. I do not know you all, but Father does, and he takes cognizance of your act of charity. By your help, together with that of the Mission Board, I can now preach free from embarrassment. The devil cannot say "he'd better pay his bills." I owe no man after I reach home. This morning I received by mail a chart from Bro. L. T. Cunningham. God bless him.

I have many pleasant recollections of campmeetings. I will continue meetings here till next Tuesday, then go to Blowing Rock. Hope to reach home in two weeks. Pray for me. J. A. CARGILE.

Collettsville, N. C.

QUERY.

Editors World's Crisis:—On Sunday last I listened to a discourse by one of the celebrated divines of New York upon the eternal life, in which he endeavored to show that eternal life and life everlasting were two entirely different things, and that eternal life was separate and distinct, entirely outside, and beyond the life everlasting.

I find by consulting Webster that eternal is something which never had a beginning, or will ever have an end; while everlasting is something which has had a beginning, but will have no end.

Now in view of the above fact, in what sense can man be said to have eternal life? Are eternal and everlasting synonymous terms, as in Rom. 6: 22, 23—"And the end everlasting life. . . . But the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord"?

Yours in hope, A. J. MUNGER.

Correspondence.

From Bro. C. Carman.

Editors Crisis:—I wrote to the Crisis last June saying that the grasshoppers had eaten up thousands of acres of corn in our county. The people went to work like men and replanted the ground that was eaten bare. The season was favorable, and in forty-five days the corn was in tassel, and the people said, "Oh! if we could only have forty days more good weather, without frost, we shall have bread for our children and feed for our stock." The good Lord, whose ears are ever open to the prayers of his children, gave the forty days, and not only that, but fifty, and no frost to kill or hurt corn. Corn is good, and more in this county than was ever raised before in one year.

But notwithstanding the mercies of God have been so signally lavished upon the people, they still go on in their sins, just as though death and starvation had not been at their door.

Brn. Deyo and Marsh have been at our place with the Iowa Mission Tent. They commenced preaching Sept. 15th, and held them over two Lord's days. Much interest was awakened and prejudice removed, both in and out of the church. Sinners arose for prayer, backsliders were reclaimed, and strong men and women saw the true light under Bro. Deyo's powerful appeals, aided by the Spirit of God; and we hope the seed has been sown that will yield some sixty, some thirty, and some an hundred fold in the soon coming harvest; for the fields are turning; soon the Lord will come and gather home his ransomed ones now scattered from Maine to Texas, from Florida to Oregon. Then we shall enjoy a meeting that will not break up; then our lungs will not grow tired, or our eyes heavy with sleep, for this dull mortality will put on immortality.

Hamburg, Iowa, Oct. 4th.

From Bro. John McLean.

Dear Editors:—Thinking some would like to hear from this part of Michigan, I write a few lines. I think it is the duty of all who profess to believe in the soon coming of our Lord, to cheer and comfort one another, as we see the time approaching for the coming of our Savior and the establishment of his kingdom on the earth. Blessed truth! I thank God that my eyes have been opened to this important truth. I feel sad to see so few manifesting the sweet spirit of Jesus. It is time all were united in one spirit. Wickedness is indeed abounding, and it requires great christian faith and fortitude to withstand the assaults of the wicked one. We cannot withstand them, unless we come to our King in prayer. Brn. and Srs. in Christ, let us cheer one another by words of comfort and deeds of kindness, and let us be united together in brotherly love, enduring all things patiently, knowing the hour of our redemption draweth nigh. Let us live our religion every day, and in all our business relations with one another, and with the world, giving unto every one his due. Let us be united in supporting the cause of Christ, and spreading the glad tidings that Jesus is soon coming.

I know some will complain of hard times and say they cannot give anythsng to support the gospel; but still they can get money to gratify selfish desires. These things ought not so to be.

Prairieville, Mich.

— In Germany the loss of young men in the war has been so great that there are at present nearly a million more women than men.

Obituaries.

BERRICK. At Richmond, Me., of billious typhoid fever, after a severe illness of nine days, Mrs. M. Berrick, widow of the late Harmoness Berrick, of Lowell, Mass., aged eighty-two years, six months.

A mother in Israel has fallen. Sister Berrick's piety was deep rooted. She experimentally knew Jesus and his love. No sooner than she heard the good news of Christ's coming to reign on the earth renewed, she fell in love with it; and "the hope" was as a "blessed" hope to her. I knew her and the family well since our expectation of soon seeing "the King in his beauty," and from that time to her death, she has been "steadfast, unmoveable," a practical Bible Christian, and every sign of approaching glory would cheer her waiting soul.

The house of prayer and praise was her delight. She spoke in love of Christ's soon coming, "was ready to be offered," longed to be at rest. She was brought to Lowell, Mass., the funeral attended by Elder M. R. Phetteplace, and buried in Chelmsford, Mass., where she sleeps in Jesus till the trumpet calls her forth to her reward of eternal life. May the same good hope prepare all the children to meet their sainted mother in the kingdom of life and glory. L. BOUTELL.

ALLEN. In Saco, Me., Sept. 9th, 1875, Bro. John M. Allen, aged fifty-three years.

A good man has fallen by the hand of death, whose place can hardly be filled. At home he was kind and cheerful, attentive to the wants of his family, making it happy and pleasant for all; and his cordial greeting to visitors, and especially to the pilgrims, made his home one of sweetness and rest to the weary traveler. In the church, as an elder, he was patient and forbearing, manifesting such a sweet, loving spirit as to gain the confidence of all. His loss will be greatly felt by us, but his companion and children will mourn most sadly.

Death has torn from Sr. Allen's embrace two sisters, a dear mother, and a darling child; but there has hitherto been one to comfort and help. Now that one is gone. No earthly arm can support but the strong arm of God. May the God of all comfort give them consolation in this hour of bereavement and sorrow, and bring them soon to meet where parting shall be known no more. A very large company manifested their sympathy and respect at the funeral, while we tried to comfort them with the Word of life, assisted by Bro. George Brown. J. GAY.

PRESCOTT. In Saco, Me., March 28th, 1875, Sister Mehitable D., wife of Bro. Benjamin H. Prescott, aged sixty-five years.

Sister P. has for a long time been a servant of Christ, and was ready and waiting for rest. Her sickness was long and distressing, but she bore it patiently, quietly falling asleep in Christ, and is awaiting the trump of God to break the slumbers of the dead. She leaves a husband, two daughters, and a blind son to mourn her loss. She will be greatly missed at home, especially by the dear blind one, who had her constant care and love to cheer him in this world of darkness, and who has taught him to sing so sweetly of that world of light, where we hope he soon will see the loved ones of earth, and gaze on Him who died to save. J. GAY.

CONNOR. In Salem, N. H., Sept. 25th, Nathan Connor, aged sixty-seven years and two months.

Bro. Connor was a Christian, a lover of Jesus and his word, always ready to give a reason of his hope, which was in the coming of Jesus and the resurrection of the dead to immortal life and beauty in God's everlasting kingdom, to be enjoyed on the new earth. We miss him. May the Lord comfort the afflicted family. A good selection of the word of life was read, and words to comfort the afflicted family, by the pastor of the M. E. Church. C. RICHARDSON.

DOLLEY. In Biddeford, Me., Sept. 20th, 1875, Wm. Dolley, aged eighty years.

This aged pilgrim long ago sought and found the Lord, and was one of the first in this region of country to look for his return; and for long years he has waited and watched for his coming, but at length death has laid him low, and he rests in hope. May God bless the aged widow, and bring the children to know the God of their father. J. GAY.

SMITH. At South Creek, Pa., Aug. 21st, 1875, Albert Jesse, son of Charles and Ida Smith, aged two months.

The enemy has again entered my home, and taken a dear grandchild. We long for Jesus to come and raise our dear dead ones to immortality. Words of comfort were spoken by Eld. E. C. Cowles, from Matt. 2: 18. MRS. JESSE MOORE.

Married.

HUNKINS—KIRBEY. In Plymouth, N. H., Sept. 27th, 1875, by Eld. C. W. Nelson, Mr. CHARLES HUNKINS, of Hebron, N H., and Mrs. EMELINE J. KIRBEY, of Plymouth, N. H.

LANDERS—HAYNES. In Bowdoin, Me., Oct. 2d, 1875, by Eld. H. S Mitchell, Mr. LEWIS LANDERS, of Lisbon, Me., and Miss EMMA HAYNES, of Bowdoin, Me.

FOREIGN NEWS.

LONDON, Oct. 2. The Daily News correspondent at Ragusa telegraphs that three battalions of Turks were totally defeated, and sixty-five beheaded.

A special dispatch from Vienna to the Daily News announces that Servia has summoned all her subjects abroad to return within three weeks and join the Landwehr.

Oct. 8. The News despatch from Ragusa says: Sjubobratich estimates that the Herzegovinians have lost one thousand killed and wounded during the campaign. He declares they now number 2500 and are as determined as ever.

Oct. 9. The Porte has consented to withdraw its troops from the frontier of Servia, where they are now operating against the insurgents, the European powers agreeing to guarantee the peace of the disturbed provinces.

PEKIN, Oct. 5. The Gazette to-day publishes an official edict of the Government, allowing the chiefs of the Government departments to communicate with the foreign Ministers.

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 4. The Swedish steamer L. J. Bager, running between Lubeck and Copenhagen, has been burned in the Baltic. Twenty-four of the passengers and eleven of the crew perished. The steamer was a small one, and was built in 1858 at Gottenburg.

MONTREAL, Oct. 5. With a view to render impossible the disinterment of Guibord's remains, a stone coffin twelve feet long by four feet wide is being made. This will be covered by a stone slab, riveted, and bolted with six iron bars, and will require ten horses to move it. It will be finished on Saturday. The burial will probably take place a few days later.

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 5. It is rumored that several companies of the Governor-General's foot guards have been ordered to Montreal to be present at Guibord's funeral.

DOMESTIC NEWS.

Manchester, N. H., Oct. 6. The horse disease is prevalent here. A number of horses have died and many are sick.

Philadelphsa, Oct. 6. The veterinary surgeons state that eighty per cent of the horses in this city are now suffering from the epizootic.

Montreal, Oct. 6. The epizootic disease is spreading among the horses here, those in all the large stables being affected. The disease is also prevalent in Toronto, Hamilton, and London.

A NOVEL ILLUSTRATION OF A DISCOURSE.—The De Kalb Avenue Methodist Church, Rev. S. H. Platt, pastor, opened their revival services for the season last evening in a novel manner. Stretched across the entire church, over the platform, and some distance down each gallery front, was a beautifully painted chart, sixty-eight feet long and seven feet wide, synchronizing to the eye sacred and profane history, and Rev. Miles Grant, of Boston, delivered an interesting lecture upon "The Correspondences in the History of the World and the Prophecies of the Bible."

A crowded congregation listened with deep interest, and unmistakably indicated their gratification at the announcement that the lectures will be continued during the week. The hours of service are at 8 o'clock on Tuesday and Friday, and 7:30 on Wednesday and Thursday evenings.—Brooklyn (N. Y.) Argus.

ITEMS.

— Moody and Sankey begin their Evangelical work in Brooklyn, in the Rink, on the 31st inst.

— It is estimated that there are one million of people in London who never attend church.

— Switzerland is engaged in a fierce struggle with the Catholic church, and has forbidden public religious processions under severe penalties.

— In accordance with instructions from the British War Office, the Martini-Henry rifle is to be in the hands of all the troops in the colonies by the end of the financial year.

— The Catholic population of Pennsylvania has doubled since 1860. It is now 600,000. They have 622 churches, chapels, etc., and 541 priests.

— Another Texas town is reported swept away by the Cyclone of last week,—Cedar Lake, a small village of Brazoria county,—and all the inhabitants are supposed to have perished.

— California expects to produce during the present year 50,000,000 pounds of wool, 15,000,000 gallons of wine, and 45,000,000 bushels of wheat.

Notices.

SPECIAL MEETING OF THE A. C. A.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Advent Christian Association held in Boston, Mass., Sept. 30th, it was voted that a special meeting of the Advent Christian Association be held on Tuesday, Dec. 14th, at two o'clock P. M., to consider the expediency of revising the Constitution of the Association, particularly with regard to forming a new basis of representation. A full attendance of preachers and delegates from the churches is earnestly desired. Each church is entitled to one delegate, and one additional delegate for every fifty members above twenty-five. The meeting will be held at the Advent Chapel in either Chelsea or Worcester, Mass., the churches in both places having invited the Association to hold the meeting with them.

Arrangements as to the place of holding the meeting have not yet been perfected, but notice will be given in due time.

S. G. MATHEWSON, President.
C. E. BARNES, Secretary.

NOTICE.—The next annual session of the N. H. Advent Christian Conference will be held with the church in Concord, N. H., commencing Wednesday evening, Nov. 3d, and continue over the following Sabbath. An effort will be made to secure reduction of fare on the various railroads. Particulars hereafter. A. ROSS, President. C. H. FLETCHER, Sec.

CONFERENCE NOTICE.—The annual conference of the Canada A. C. Conference will be held in Hatley, P. Q., commencing Wednesday evening, Oct. 13th, and holding over the following Sabbath. Important business connected with the conference and campmeeting interests will be attended to, and all are urged to attend.

Reduction of fare over the Grand Trunk R. R. has been secured,—two thirds of one fare off. All persons, therefore, who intend to attend, will please drop me a postal card at once, that I may send them a certificate to present to the ticket office, so as to secure the double journey ticket. L. C. MCKINSTRY, Sec. pro tem.

Connecticut A. C. Conference.

The Lord willing, this conference willl meet at Plainville, Wednesday evening, Oct. 13th, and hold over Sunday, Oct. 17th. This is the annual meeting, and we hope to see a general gathering of preachers, delegates, and brethren and sisters interested, throughout the State. You expressed sympathy for the well being of the conference at our late campmeeting, and we trust it will now be practically endorsed. Thursday, Oct. 14th, is set apart for the transaction of conference business. Come promptly and attend to it, that the remainder of the time may be devoted to the preaching of the word and labor for the perishing.

SETH WOODRUFF, President.
O. D. WOODRUFF, Secretary.

Conference.

The Delaware District A. C. Conference is hereby called to meet and hold its semi-annual session, at the Advent Christian Church, Eighth Street, above Noble, commencing on Friday evening, Nov. 5th, and continue over the Sabbath. This conference embraces the District of Columbia, Maryland, Delaware, New Jersey, and Eastern Pennsylvania. It is earnestly hoped that every church sympathizing with us will be represented, either by letter or delegates. Every church or religious body co-operating with this conference is entitled to one delegate, and an additional delegate for every ten members. All letters of correspondence for the conference can be addressed to EDWIN KING, 1716 Francis St., Philadelphia, Pa. WM. ASHMAN, President. E. KING, Secretary.

NOTICE.—The East Maine Missionary Association will hold its first meeting with the church in Levant, at the new chapel, commencing Oct. 28th, and hold over the following Sunday. Brethren and sisters are earnestly invited to come to this meeting, to labor for the salvation of sinners and confirmation of saints. O. S. FRENCH, Sec.

Conference.

The next Annual Advent Christian Conference of Northern Pa. and Southern N. Y. will be held at Little Marsh, Tioga Co., Pa., commencing Thursday evening, Oct. 14th, and continuing over the following Sunday. We hope to see a general gathering of the friends of truth. Come in the name of the Lord. Ticket by railway from Corning (Tioga depot) to Middlebury. Teams will be at Middlebury to convey to Little Marsh.

E. C. COWLES, President.
A. H. BRIGGS, Secretary.

NOTICE.—The Advent believers will hold meetings at the Sand Bank school-house, Haverhill Corner, N. H., on Sundays, as often as they can be supplied with a speaker. Any of the preaching brethren passing through this vicinity will please call on the writer, as I keep a pilgrim's home. Prayer meetings Thursday and Sunday evenings. JAMES M. HARRIMAN.

NOTICE.—Brethren: I have closed my labors with the church at Morrisville, Vt. I am now at liberty to go anywhere the way opens to preach the gospel of the kingdom. If any of the brethren want I should preach to them, they can write me at West Randolph, Vt. ELD. J. A. CLEAVELAND.

NOTICE.—The Advent Christian Church worshiping at Union Hall on Free St., Portland, Me., have given Eld. E. A. Stockman a call to become their Pastor, and he has accepted the same, and will commence his labors on Sunday, Oct. 17th. All preaching brethren wishing to exchange, or to preach here, will please confer with him. H. C. FREEMAN, Church Clerk.

THE Maine Second Advent Annual Conference is deferred till the second Tuesday in Dec., and will be holden with the church in Frankfort.

GEO. HUMPHREY, President.
W. H. MITCHELL, Secretary.

THE quarterly meeting of the A. C. Church of Norwalk, Ohio, will be held on Saturday and Sunday, October 16th and 17th, and not during the fourth week of the month, as heretofore. CYRUS MENDENHALL, Pastor.

A. C. Times, please copy.

NOTICE.—This is to certify that the A. C. Church worshiping on Hammond Street, Providence, R. I., have given Eld. A. W. Sibley a call to become their Pastor, and he has accepted the same. All preaching brethren wishing to exchange, or to preach, will confer with him. J. W. LAKE, Church Clerk.

NOTICE.—Elder Cyrus Mendenhall having accepted the call given him by the church of Norwalk, Ohio, hereafter all matters of exchange or supply must be made through him. By order of the church. [A. C. Times, please copy.

SANDY HILL, N. Y.—Prayer meeting daily, and preaching each evening as interest continues. Next series of meetings to be held at Addison, Vt. Address all letters to Rutland, Vt., Box 70. ARTHUR A. WAITE.

MY LABORS for the present and on until further notice, will be with the church in Whitefield, N. H. Brethren, please remember and address all communications designed for me to the above place. T. E. LANG, JR.

THE Advent Church in Wakefield having secured the services of Eld. Benj. Finney as their Pastor, all preaching brethren wishing to come there to labor, will please confer with him. GEO. R. TYZZER, Clerk.

NOTICE.—I would say to the preaching brethren, when they send their appointments to Richmond, please name the place, Reed meeting-house, Richmond Corner, or at the Village. F. BATES.

BRO. G. F. HAINES having accepted the call given him by the church of Bonny Eagle, Me., hereafter all matters of exchange or supply must be made through him. T. R. LIBBY, Clerk.

Appointments.

☞ APPOINTMENTS MUST BE RECEIVED AS EARLY AS TUESDAY MORNING (as our paper goes to press about noon) to insure insertion for the coming week.

☞ The following RESOLUTION was passed at the late meeting of the A. C. P. Society:—

"RESOLVED, That no appointments be published in the CRISIS henceforth for persons unknown to the Editorial Board (by which is understood the Editors, Editorial Committee, and Business Agent), unless satisfactory reference shall be given."

The Committee appointed by the Adv. Chris. Association, at its last Annual Meeting, to advise with the Editorial Board "in relation to the publication in the World's Crisis of the appointments of men unworthy of recognition as preachers," having attended to the duty assigned them, recommended, and the Editorial Board have adopted, and ordered to be published, the following resolution:—

"RESOLVED, That when the Editorial Board is properly notified by any of our Churches, or Ministers, or responsible persons by a written allegation that a certain minister, or ministers, lack moral character, that they be instructed to notify such minister, or ministers, of the information received, as a reason for withholding their appointments till after a proper trial and acquittal."

All communications in relation to this matter should be addressed to the Secretary of the Board—GEO. T. ADAMS, Boston, Mass.

BOSTON (Branch Chapel) 2029 Washington Street, (corner of Madison Street.)
Love Feast at 10½ a. m. Preaching at 3 and 7½ p. m. Prayer meeting Tuesday and Friday evenings.
Geo. W. Sederquest..........Sunday, Oct. 17th

BOSTON (Repository Hall) 712 Washington St., corner of Kneeland St.
Preaching at 10½ a. m. and 3 and 7 p. m. Sunday School at 1.30 p. m. Prayer meeting Wednesday evening.

EAST BOSTON (Central Hall, 152 Meridian Street.)
Meetings every Sunday, at the usual hours, also prayer and conference meetings Wednesday and Friday evenings, at 7½ o'clock p. m.
H. Pratt..........Sunday, Oct. 24th

CHARLESTOWN (HALL NO. 70 MAIN STREET.)
Wm. N. Pile..........Sunday, Oct. 17th

Chelsea, Mass.
Preaching Sundays, at 10.30 A. M. and 3 P. M.
Conference Meeting at 7 o'clock Sunday evenings. Tuesday and Friday evenings, at 7¾ o'clock.
B. Emery..........Sunday, Oct. 24th
M. Batchelor..........Sunday, Oct. 31st

SOMERVILLE, Mass (Pilgrim Hall, Summer Street.)
Meetings every Sunday, at the usual hours, also prayer and conference meetings Tuesday and Friday evenings, at 7½ o'clock p. m.
Geo. W. Sederquest..........1st and 3d Sundays in each month till further notice.
B. Emery..........Sunday, Oct. 31st

HYDE PARK, MASS. (Connor's Hall.)—Meetings every Sabbath at the usual hours. T. M. PREBLE.

Kennebunkport, Me..........Sunday, Oct 24th
J. COUCH.

Holden, Mass..........Sunday, Oct. 17th
C. E. BARNES.

Tremont..........Sunday, Oct. 17th
Plymouth, Mass..........Sunday, Oct. 24th
J. S. WHITE.

Castleton, Vt..........Friday evening, Oct. 15th
Low Hampton, N. Y..........Tuesday evening, Oct. 17th
Poultney, Vt..........Sabbath, Oct. 19th
Sandy Hill, N. Y..........Wednesday evening, Oct. 20th
Saratoga Springs, from Thursday evening over the following Sabbath, where Bro. Duran appoints.
New Bedford, Mass..........Sabbaths, Nov. 7th and 14th
West Troy, N. Y. (if Bro. Douglas appoints) Oct. 25th to 27th.
North Adams, Mass., from Thursday, Oct. 28th, and over the Sabbath, Oct. 31st.
Direct to Chicopee Falls, Mass. H. MUNGER.

Mattapoisett..........Sunday, Oct. 24th
Fairhaven, Mass..........Sunday, Nov. 14th
New York City (as Bro. Cox may appoint) Sunday, Nov. 21st.
Hartford, Conn..........Sunday, Nov. 28th
M. BATCHELOR.

Tremont, Mass..........Sunday, Oct. 31st
B. WOODSIDE.

Warehousepoint..........Sunday, Oct. 31st
H. PRATT.

Bridgewater, N. H. (Brick school-house, Nutting's Mills) Sunday, Oct. 17th. C. W. NELSON.

Farmington, N. H..........Sunday, Oct. 17th
Kingston, N. H..........Sunday, Oct. 24th
West Lebanon, Me. (where Bro. Johnson may appoint) Sunday, Oct. 31st. J. F. CHAMBERLIN.

South Rochester, N. H..........Sunday, Oct. 31st
S. VARNEY.

Newark, N. J..........Sunday, Oct. 17th
Camden, N. J..........Sunday, Oct. 24th
New Jersey City (Cooper Institute) Sunday, Oct. 31st
F. H. BURBANK.

Plymouth, Mass..........Sunday, Oct. 31st
A. SIMPSON.

Cabot, Vt..........Sunday, Oct. 17th
DANIEL D. PAGE.

Epsom, N H (Marden's Corner)..........evening, Oct. 23d
Chichester, N. H. (Pine Ground)..........Sunday, Oct. 24th
N. B. MCMURPHY.

Chicago, Ill..........Thursday evening, Oct. 28th
R. F. & M. J. CLARK.

Sebago (Lake school-house)..........Sunday, Oct. 17th
MRS. H. S. CLARK.

A conference at the Advent Chapel in Corinna, commencing Thursday, Oct. 14th, at 7 p. m., and over Sunday, Oct. 17th.
Simpson's Corner, Oct. 23d, at 7 p. m., and Sunday, Oct. 24th, at 2 and 7 p. m.
Swansville (at Bro. Curtis' school-house) Thursday, Oct 28th, at 7 p. m.
Lincolnville, Friday, Oct. 29th, at 7 p. m., and over Sunday, Oct. 31st. S. & L. W. BRAGG.

West Ossipee, N. H..........Sunday, Oct. 17th
T. L. CHURCHILL.

Hill, N. H. (Centre meeting-house) Sabbaths, Oct. 17th and 24th.
Dorchester, N. H. (Town House)..Sunday, Nov. 14th
SIMEON ROBY.

Lake Village, N. H..........Sunday, Oct. 17th
Meredith, N. H. (Dolloff Hall)..........Sunday, Oct. 24th
West Alton, N. H. (Chapel)..........Sunday, Oct. 31st
C. R. PARSONS.

Square Pond, Ct..........Sunday, Oct. 31st
P. S. BUTLER.

Becket..........Sunday, Oct. 17th
WM. J. RIPLEY.

Melvin Village..........Sundays, Oct. 17th and 31st
T. W. PIPER.

Piermont, N. H. (Town House)..........Sunday, Oct. 17th
Piermont (where Bro. Amos Clarke may appoint) Wednesday evening, Oct. 20th.
Piermont, N. H. (Clay meeting-house) Sun., Oct. 24th
Cabot, Vt..........Sunday, Oct. 31st
A. GORDON.

Freedom (Advent Chapel)..........Sunday, Oct. 17th
M. STEVENS.

Newville, Stanstead, P. Q..........Sunday, Oct. 17th
Pittsburg, N. H. (Stream school-house) Sun., Oct. 24th
North Troy, Vt. (Baptist house) Sunday, Oct. 31st, and onward as the Lord may direct. Will Bro. Magoon meet with me? U. G. LADD

Bradford, N. H. (Pond meeting-house) Sun., Oct. 17th
Sutton, N. H. (Palmer school-house)..Sun., Oct. 24th
Danbury, N. H. (Town House)..........Sunday, Oct. 31st
Bradford, N. H. (Bush meeting-house)..Sun., Nov. 7th
A. S. WILLIAMS.

South Alfred, Sunday, Oct. 17th, at 10-30, and Smith school-house, Kennebunkport, at 6-30, in the evening of the same day. JER. HILL.

Shirley Mills, Me..........Sunday, Oct. 17th
Frankfort, Me..........Sunday, Oct. 31st
J. T. LANE.

Hardwick, Vt..........Sunday, Oct. 17th
A. A. HOYT.

Pleasant Valley..........Sunday, Oct. 24th
JANE DAVIS.

Moultonborough, N. H. (at Bro. Hogdern's school-house) evening, Oct. 16th.
Sandwich, N. H. (Vitum school-house) Sun., Oct. 17th
East Canaan, N. H..........evening, Oct. 23d and over Sunday.
Danbury, N. H. (where the brethren may appoint) evenings, Oct. 25th and 26th.
Dorchester, N. H..........evenings, Oct. 28th, 29th, 30th and over Sunday.
North Haverhill, N. H..........evening, Nov. 6th and over Sunday.
Swiftwater, N. H..........evening, Nov. 8th
North Benton, N. H. (new school-house) evening, Nov. 9th.
East Landaff, N. H....evenings, Nov. 11th, 12th, 13th and over Sunday. JOHN H. EVANS.

East Holderness, N. H..........Sunday, Oct. 17th
Moultonboro Neck, N. H. (Lower school-house) Sunday, Oct. 24th.
Moultonboro, N. H. (Neck Road school-house) Sunday, Nov. 7th. J. G. MOULTON.

Plymouth, Mass..........Sunday, Oct. 17th
Northwood Narrows, N. H..........Sunday, Nov. 14th
Fairhaven, Mass..........Tuesday evening, Nov. 23d and onward.
Mattapoisett, Mass..........Sunday, Nov. 28th
Putnam, Conn..........Sundays, Dec. 5th and 12th and evenings through the week. A. SIMPSON.

Lewiston, Me...(baptism expected) Sunday, Oct. 17th
Kennebunk, Me..........Sunday, Oct. 31st
I. C. WELLCOME.

Cherokee, Iowa, Wednesday evening, Oct. 20th, and remain over two Sundays, and hold meetings as the brethren may arrange. J. RIDLEY.

Limington, Me. (Hanscom school-house) Thursday and Friday evenings, Oct. 28th and 29th.
Harrison, Me (Woodsom school-house) Saturday evening, Oct. 30th, and over Sunday.
Norway, Me., Monday and Tuesday evenings, Nov. 1st and 2nd.
East Sumner, Me. (as Thomas Stevens may arrange) Wednesday evening, Nov. 3d.
Hartford, Me..........Thursday, Nov. 4th
South Livermore, Friday and Saturday evenings, Nov. 5th and 6th, and over Sunday, Nov. 7th.
JESSE GAY.
GEO. W. BROWN (of Elliott.)

Morris, Ct..........Sunday, Oct. 17th
W. TEFFT.

Brighton Hill, Hebron, Sabbath. Oct. 17th. Also prayer meeting Saturday evening, Oct. 16th, at seven o'clock.
Harrison (Woodsom school-house)..........Sab., Oct. 24th
G. L. TRACY.

Meredith Neck, N. H..........Sunday, Oct. 17th
Sandwich, (Vitum school-house)..Thursday evening, Nov. 4th.
Porter, Me..........Sunday, Nov. 7th
LEVI ALLEN.

Limington, Me. (Hanscom school-house) Sun., Nov. 7th
J. L. CHUTE.

Haverhill, N. H. (Brook Village)..evening, Oct. 14th
Benton (where Brn. may appoint)..evening, Oct. 15th
Haverhill (Brook Village)..........Sunday, Oct. 17th
East Acworth, N. H..........evening, Oct. 30th and over Sunday, Oct. 31st.
Unity Centre, N. H..........Sunday evening, Oct. 31st
J. B. S. PILLSBURY.

Coaticook..........evenings, Oct. 14th and 15th
Dixville..........Oct. 16th, and Sunday, Oct. 17th
Kinney school-house..........Oct. 19th
Wayville..........evenings, Oct. 20th and 21st
Colebrook, N. H., eve., Oct. 23d, and Sun., Oct. 24th
West Poland, Me..........Tuesday evening, Oct. 26th every evening, and over the Sabbath, Oct. 31st.
Biddeford, Me..........Tuesday evening, Nov. 9th
Kennebunkport..........Nov. 10th
Great Works..........Nov. 10th
Seabrook, N. H., Tuesday, Nov. 16th, and other churches in the vicinity, as Bro. Barton may arrange, till the 19th.
Salem, Mass..........Sunday, Nov. 21st
ANNIE E. SMITH.

Charlton, Mass..........1st Sunday in every month
Southbridge, Mass..........4th Sunday in every month
SAM'L. AYRES.

Rockland, Me..........Saturday evening, Oct. 23d and over Sunday, Oct. 24th.
St. George (as the Brn. may appoint) Friday, Oct. 29th and over Sunday, Oct. 31st.
Manhegin Isle..........Friday, Nov. 5th and over Sunday, Nov. 7th.
Friendship, Me., Long Isle..........Wednesday evening, Nov. 10th. H. S. MITCHELL.

Plainville (Dartmouth)..........Sunday, Oct. 17th
Westport (head of the river)..Saturday eve., Oct. 23d
Pine Hill..........Sunday, a. m., Oct. 24th
Tripp Wharf..........Sunday, p. m., Oct. 24th
Coventry Centre, R. I..........Monday evening, Oct. 25th
Charlton..........Sunday. Oct. 31st
M. E. OTIS.

West Otis..........Sunday, Oct. 17th
Becket..........Sunday, Oct. 24th
ENOCH PHELPS.

Salisbury (South Road)..........Sunday, Oct. 17th
Farmington, N. H..........Sabbath, Oct. 24th
South Rochester N. H. (Chapel)..Sabbath, Oct. 31st
East Canaan, N. H..........Sabbath, Nov. 7th
D. F. LEAVITT.

Fremont..........Sunday. Oct. 24th
ENOCH MORRILL.

Ashland, N. H. (Plaisted school-house) eve., Oct. 16th
Ashland, N. H. (Pease school-house) Sunday, Oct. 17th, and onward. JOS. HARVEY.

Bonny Eagle, Me. (exchange with Bro. Haines) Sunday, Nov. 14th. C. H. SWEET.

Houghton, Ontario, Sunday, Oct. 17th, at whatever hours the brethren there may arrange.
Fonthill, Ontario (hours yet unknown) Sun., Oct. 24th
L. C. KERR.

Haverhill, N. H. (Sandbank school-house) Sunday, Oct. 24th.
Sandwich (Vitum Hill)..........evening, Oct. 28th and over Sunday, Oct 31st.
Freedom (Chapel)..........evening, Nov. 1st
Steep Falls..........evenings, Nov. 2d and 3d
South Windham, Me..........evening, Nov. 4th and over Sunday, Nov. 7th. E. S. MOULTON.

Addison, Vt..........Sunday, Oct. 17th
H. B. QUIMBY.

Pittsfield, N. H..........Sunday, Oct. 24th
W. M. HARMON.

Dorchester, N. H..........evenings, Oct. 21st, 22d, 23d and over Sunday, Oct. 24th. J. B. S. PILLSBURY.
D. W. DAVIS.

Hartland, Vt. (Dinsmore Hill)..........Sunday, Oct. 17th
Haverhill N. H. (where Bro. James Harriman may arrange) Thursday evening, Oct. 21st. Also, Friday and Saturday evenings, and over Sunday.
I. DAMMAN. J. G. SMITH.

Orrington, Me..........Sundays, Oct. 24th and 31st
GEO. W. BROWN.

Lisbon, N. H. (Streeter school-house) Saturday evening, Oct. 23d, over Sunday, Oct. 24th, through the week, and over Sunday, Oct. 31st, if the Lord will.
GEO. E. BROWN.
DANIEL D. PAGE.

New Britain..........Sunday, Oct. 24th
S. WOODRUFF.

Sandy Hill, N. Y..........each evening, till 16th
Castleton, Vt..........Sunday, Oct 17th
The week following each evening at Sandy Hill, as interest continues. ARTHUR A. WAITE.

Warehousepoint, Ct..........Sunday, Oct. 17th
North Somers, Ct..........Tuesday evening, Oct 19th and through the week. G. L. WHITE.

Salem, Mass..........2d and 4th Sundays in each month until further notice. GEO. W. SEDERQUEST.

Granby, Mass. (Batchelder Street) the second Sunday in each month.
North Rutland, Mass..the last Sunday in each month
GEO. A. STREETER.

Palmer, Mass., the 1st and 3d Sundays in each month
Granby, Mass..........fourth Sunday in each month
H. H. TUCKER.

Hinesburg, Vt., Sundays for one year excepting the last Sunday in each month.
Bristol, Vt., the last Sunday in each month for one year. WM. C. STEWART.

HAVERHILL, Mass. (New Chapel on Walnut St.)
C. S. Shattuck..........Sunday, Oct. 17th
I. B. Potter..........Sunday, Oct. 24th
A. Simpson..........Sunday, Oct 31st

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (Franklin Hall.)
E. Owen..........Sundays, Oct 17th and 24th

NATICK, Mass.
C. Goodrich..........Sunday, Oct. 17th
I. B. Potter..........Sunday, Oct. 24th
C. S. Shattuck..........Sunday, Oct. 31st
C. Goodrich..........Sunday, Nov. 7th

NEW BEDFORD, Mass.
M. Batchelor..........Sunday, Oct. 17th
A. W. Sibley..........Sunday, Oct. 24th
S. S. Brewer..........Sunday, Oct. 31st
A. Simpson..........Sunday, Nov. 21st

CLINTON, Mass.
H. H. Tucker..........Sunday, Oct. 31st

NORTH RUTLAND, Mass.
Willard M. Hall..........first Sunday in each month
H. H. Tucker..........second Sunday in each month

HAMPTON, N. H.
Geo W. Brown (of So. Elliot, Me.) Sunday, Oct. 17th
A Simpson..........Sunday, Oct. 24th
C. Goodrich..........Sunday, Oct. 31st
Wm. W. Sutherland..........Sunday, Nov. 7th
A. Ross..........Sunday, Nov. 14th
J. F. Chamberlin..........Sunday, Nov. 21st

EXETER, N. H.
B. Woodside..........Sunday, Oct. 17th
T. W. Piper..........Sunday, Oct. 24th
W. M. Harmon..........Sunday, Oct. 31st
W. W. Sutherland..........Sunday, Nov. 14th
C. S. Shattuck..........Sunday, Dec. 12th

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.
Wm. M. Harmon..........Sunday, Oct. 17th
E. A. Stockman..........Sunday, Oct. 24th
Jane Benson..........Sunday, Oct. 31st
M. Batchelor..........Sunday, Nov. 7th
Annie E. Smith..........Sunday, Nov. 14th

SEABROOK, N. H.
J. C. Smith..........Sundays, Oct. 17th, 24th, and 31st
Sr. Annie Smith..........Sundays, Nov. 7th and 14th
Joseph Pinkham..........Sunday, Nov. 21st
D. F. Leavitt..........Sunday, Nov. 28th

NEW DURHAM, N. H.
A. Ross..........Sunday, Nov. 7th
T. W. Piper..........Sunday, Nov. 21st

CONCORD, N. H.
S. S. Brewer..........Sundays, Oct. 17th and 24th

EAST CONCORD, N. H. (Ward House).—Meetings three times Sunday, also Tuesday and Thursday evenings
C. H. Fletcher..........first Sunday in each month
D. W. Davis..........third Sunday in each month

GREAT FALLS, N. H. (Franklin Hall.)
J. W. White..........Sunday, Oct. 17th
L. E Saulpaugh..........Sunday, Oct. 24th
J. Bickford..........Sunday, Oct. 31st

WEST DEERFIELD, N. H.
John Marsh..........Sunday, Oct. 17th
John B. Paine..........Sunday, Oct. 24th
J. L. Chute..........Sunday, Oct. 31st
C. R. Parsons..........Sunday, Nov. 7th

SOUTH ROCHESTER.
Jane Davis..........Sunday, Oct. 17th
C. E. Hurd..........Sunday, Oct. 24th

PORTLAND, Me. (Union Hall.)
E. A. Stockman..........Sunday, Oct. 17th
R. R. York..........Sunday, Oct. 24th
I. B. Potter..........Sunday, Oct. 31st
E. A. Stockman..........Sunday, Nov. 7th
J. Couch..........Sunday, Nov. 14th

SABBATUS, Me. (Jones' Hall.)
H. D. Reed..........Sunday, Oct. 17th
C. Goud..........Sunday, Oct. 24th
J. A. Libbey..........Sunday, Oct. 31st
R. R. York..........Sunday, Nov. 7th
H. S. Mitchell..........Sunday, Nov. 14th
H. D. Reed..........Sunday, Nov. 21st
E. S. Moulton..........evening, Dec. 8th and over Sunday, Dec. 12th.

BIDDEFORD, Me.
Wm. H. Mitchell..........Sunday, Oct. 17th
J. Albert Libbey..........Sunday, Oct. 24th
E. A. Stockman..........Sunday, Oct. 31st
Albert Robinson..........Sunday, Nov. 7th
Geo. W. Brown..........Sunday, Nov. 14th
Wm. H. Mitchell..........Sunday, Nov. 21st
J. Albert Libby..........Sunday, Nov. 28th

BANGOR, Me.
J. T. Lane..........Sunday, Oct. 24th

SOUTH BERWICK, Me. (Great Works.)
Joseph Pinkham..........Sunday, Oct. 17th
Geo. W. Brown..........Sunday, Oct. 24th
C. S. Shattuck..........Sunday, Oct. 31st

SOUTH ELLIOT, Me.
J. L. Chute..........Sunday, Oct. 17th
J. W. White..........Sunday, Oct. 24th
L. Boutell..........Sunday, Oct. 31st

BRIDGEPORT, Conn.
Mrs. E. L. Crumb..........Sundays, Oct. 17th and 24th
Mrs. E. A. Warren..........Sunday, Oct. 31st
Mrs. E. L. Crumb..........Sunday, Nov. 7th
Warren Tefft..........Sundays, Nov. 14th and 21st
Mrs. E. A. Warren..........Sunday, Nov. 28th
Mrs. E. L. Crumb..........Sunday, Dec. 5th
Mrs. E. A. Warren..........Sunday, Dec. 12th
A. A..........Sunday, Dec. 19th
Mrs. E. A. Warren..........Sunday, Dec. 26th
Mrs. E. L. Crumb..........Sunday, Jan. 1st

NEW HAVEN, Conn.
Enoch Phelps..........Sunday, Oct. 17th
Wm. N. Pile..........Sunday, Oct 24th

WOODSTOCK VALLEY, Ct.
P. S. Butler..........Sunday, Oct. 17th
C. Goodrich..........Sunday, Oct 24th
Sr. E. L. Crumb..........Sunday, Oct. 31st

PLAINVILLE, Ct.
Mary E. Otis..........Sunday, Oct. 17th, and through the week following until Saturday.
W. Tefft..........Sunday, Oct. 24th
B. Hitchcock..........Sunday, Nov. 14th

MILLDALE (Southington, Ct.)
R. K. Stark..........Sunday, Oct. 17th
O. D. Woodruff..........Sunday, Oct. 24th
B. Hitchcock..........Sunday, Oct. 31st

PUTNAM, Ct.
H. Pratt..........Sunday, Oct. 17th
B. Woodside..........Sunday, Oct. 24th
A. Durfee..........Sunday, Oct. 31st

SOUTH WINDSOR, Ct.
Mrs. Jane Benson..........Sunday, Oct. 17th
G. L. White..........Sunday, Oct. 24th

SOUTH WEST HOOSICK, N. Y.
Arthur A. Waite..........once in four weeks
Flora Blanchard..........once in four weeks

"GOSPEL SONGS."

"A choice collection of Hymns and Tunes, New and Old, for Prayer Meetings, Sunday Schools, etc."

This is a new book that has had a large sale at our campmeetings this season, and contains some very choice pieces:—"When Jesus Comes," "More to Follow," etc., etc. For sale at this Office. Price, 35 cts. per copy; $3.60 per dozen by express; by mail, 40 cts. per copy. AGENT.

THE ADVENT MINSTREL;

A choice collection of Spiritual Songs. Flexible cloth, 25 cents single copy; per dozen, $2.50 by mail. For sale at this Office.

A LIST OF NEW BOOKS,

JUST RECEIVED FROM

KELLAWAY & CO.'S ENGLISH REPOSITORY.

FOR SALE AT THE OFFICE OF

"THE ADV. CHRIS. PUB. SOCIETY," 160 HANOVER STREET.

Persons purchasing from the following list, help in so doing to sustain the English Repository.

COVERDALE'S ENGLISH BIBLE. A large volume, being a copy of the first Bible ever printed in the English language. Very curious, and in many texts favoring the truth of life only in the Christ. $8.

OLD TESTAMENT SCRIPTURES IN HEBREW AND ENGLISH. 4th size Bagster's edition. A nice edition of the Scriptures $8.

"RAINBOW," VOLUME FOR 1874. The English Monthly that utters the truth about immortality. Edited by W. Leask, D. D. $3 bound in cloth.

"BIBLE ECHO," VOLUME I., FOR 1874. This is the only English weekly newspaper that maintains what as a people we consider to be teachings of God. It is conducted by Eld. W. Kellaway. We have a good supply of this book, to meet expected sale. It contains the history of the truth in England and its Colonies. $3 bound in cloth.

CRITICAL NEW TESTAMENT, with Emendations by Fregelles, Lachmann, Griesbach, and Tischendorff. $1.50.

CATHOLIC APOSTOLIC CHURCH (Irvingism): Its Pretensions and Claims considered in connection with the facts of its history, and the teaching of the New Testament and early Christian Antiquity. Cloth limp, 65 cts.

BIBLE TRIUMPHANT: a Reply to "144 Self-Contradictions of the Bible." 50 cts.

"THE WAY EVERLASTING," by S. Minton, M. A. Review of the English Controversy on Eternal Evil. 30 cts.

SUNLIGHT DISPERSING THE DISMAL SHADOWS: or, The Doctrine of Eternal Torments shown to lack Reason and Scripture alike. 25 cts.

PHOTOGRAPH OF H. CONSTABLE, M. A., one of the chief of English writers on Life only in the Christ, author of "Hades," and "The Duration of Future Punishment, etc., late Prebendary of Cork, Ireland. 25 cts.

PHOTOGRAPH OF S. MINTON, M. A., also a prolific writer on Human Mortality and the Divine Gift of Eternal Existence. Late of Eaton Chapel, London. 25 cts.

LAST WAR; a little book treating upon the Last War, with a Diagram. 15 cts.

HARMONY OF SCRIPTURE UPON FUTURE PUNISHMENT. The Death View. By S. Minton, M. A. 20 cts.

IMMORTALITY ONLY IN CHRIST, AND ETERNAL DEATH. The subjects of Two Lectures delivered in Brikenhead By H S. Harleigh, M. A. Capt. Ward in the Chair. 20 cts.

A NEW BIBLE: or Scripture Re-written to prove the Doctrines of Necessary Immortality and Eternal Evil. By S. Minton, M. A. 10 cts.

IMMATERIALISM: or, The Fruits of Believing the Soul of Man to be the Personality. 6 cts.

CHAOS, KOSMOS, THE KINGDOM OF DARKNESS AND THE KINGDOM OF GOD. By E. White, M. A. Our Earth's history from beginning to end. 5 cts.

WHO ART THOU THAT JUDGEST? A Letter addressed to one, but applicable to many. By Joseph Stratford, Minister of the Gospel. A Rebuke with Doctrine of such as are cruel in their treatment of Christians holding life in Jesus. 5 cts.

WORDS OF HOLY WRIT ON FUTURE PUNISHMENT. 50 cts.

SCRIPTURE DOCTRINE OF A FUTURE LIFE. By W. Leask, D. D. 12 copies for 50 cts.

POPULAR OBJECTIONS TO THE RESURRECTION of the Body. 12 copies for 50 cts.

WHOSE CHILD ARE YOU? 12 copies for 35c.

REPORT of a large Meeting at Chelsea on Life only in Christ. Reported by Bro. W. Kellaway. 12 copies for 50 cts.

LIFE EVERLASTING. By W. Leask, D. D. 12 copies for 50 cts.

DIALOGUE between a Pedestrian and his Friend. A lot of valuable extracts. 12 copies for 25 cts.

LIFE AND DEATH. Extract from Archbishop Whateley's "Future Life." 20 copies for 25 cts.

IMMORTALITY. Extracts from numerous authors on Life and Immortality by the Lord Christ. By H. Constable, M. A. Enlarged by Bro. W. Kellaway. 20 copies for 25 cts.

IMMORTALITY ONLY IN CHRIST. A concise presentation of the truth stated in its title, in twenty-three paragraphs and extracts from Fathers. 20 copies for 25 cts.

ETERNAL LIFE THE GIFT OF GOD. 20 copies for 25 cts.

A JESUIT'S LETTER. Jesuitry as it is, and not as it seems. 25 copies for 10 cts.

THE EVILS OF TOBACCO USING. Reprinted from the "American Health Reformer." 12 copies for 50 cts.

"THE CHILD'S BIBLE QUESTION BOOK."

BY ELD. C. GOODRICH.

This is the title of a work just issued by the A. C. P. Society, designed for the small children in the Sabbath Schools and in the family. Just what we have long wanted. Price 10 cts. single copy; $1.00 per doz., sent by mail. AG'T.

THE FUTURE OF OUR PLANET

AS VIEWED FROM A

BIBLICAL STANDPOINT.

BY A. W. SIBLEY.

This is the title of a new Tract of 16 pages, issued by the A. C. P. Society. Just the thing to circulate widely. Price, 3 cents per copy; 20 cts. per dozen; $1.40 per hundred, by mail AG'T.

GERMAN TRACTS.

A new German Tract just out: "Does the Bible teach the Immortality of the Soul?" A reply to a letter from a German theologian in Prussia.

Other tracts as follows: "The Fifth Universal Kingdom, or Kingdom of Christ on Earth." "What is Man?" "Future Doom of the Ungodly." "Resurrection," etc.

LOUIS REIMER, No. 639 North Eighth Street, above Wallace, Philadelphia, Pa.

Business.

Notes to Correspondents.

☞ We cannot discontinue or send your orders, unless you give us the POST OFFICE and STATE in PLAIN LETTERS.

☞ DR. D. MATHEWSON'S address is 331 Seventeenth Street, San Francisco, California.

☞ R. F. & M. J. CLARK'S address is Peach Creek, Washington Co., Kansas.

☞ WM. C. STEWART'S address hereafter will be Hinesburg, Vt.

☞ J. C. and S. E. SMITH'S address is Newton Upper Falls, Mass.

☞ ELD. J. PORTER'S address is Danville, P.Q.

☞ H. G. McCULLOCK'S address is DeKalb, DeKalb Co., Ill.

☞ A. GORDON'S address is Piermont, N. H.

☞ M. A. POTTER'S address is St. Johnsbury, Vt.

☞ C. MENDENHALL'S address is Norwalk, Huron Co., Ohio.

☞ ELD. C. PIKE'S address is Massena, N. Y.

☞ J. A. CLEAVELAND'S address will be West Randolph until further notice.

☞ GEO. H. WALLACE'S address will be No. 30 Orange Street, Manchester, N. H., till further notice.

LIST OF PERSONS SENDING MONEY FOR OTHERS.—G A Streeter, J A Cargile, H W Snow, J Hill, C C Bragg, J F Emmerson, Geo Roberts, F Burr.

CASH RECEIVED FOR BOOKS AND TRACTS.—J Cotel $3 50, L D Small 25c, G H Sawyer $1 00, J Hemenway $6.90, W M Wilcox 50c, Mrs E Elliott 50c, Idella C Osgood $1.00, I I Leslie $4.44, E K Barnhill 60c, D G Sawyer 80c, F Burr 50c, M Ham 25c, A J Balfour 88c, J Gierlow $1.00, Wm M Buzzell 40c, J C Osgood $1.00, Geo E Hooper 40c, D T Ross 45c, E Owen 86c, R Whitehead 70c, B F Wise $1.34, H E Cook $1.37, Eld J J Wallace $1.00, Joe L Whipple 25c, J Crosby 25c, Wm M Laren $4.10, L Record $1 25, F Burr 40c.

BOOKS AND TRACTS SENT.—By Mail—J A Spofford, J Moody, G E Merrill, E D Kentfield, A J Abbott, A S Richards, C Stratton, H K Stratton, G H Sawyer, J Cotel, L D Small, W W Burgess, Wm M Wilcox, Mrs. H Elliott, J C Osgood, Wm M Buzzell, E K Barnhill, D G Sawyer, Mark Ham, A J Balfour, Miss Martha Spencer, Benj. F Steiner, W S McFarland, Eld J J Wallace, H E Cooke, R Whitehead, D T Ross, G E Hooper, J L Whipple, E K Dodge, J Gierlow, Mrs J C Osgood, J M Divine, Sarah E Stringer, Lemuel Record, Wm M Laren.

By Express—Mrs L M Stoddard, J Hemenway, W O Higley.

ARTICLES RECEIVED.—J A Cargile, C Richardson, P C Marsh, E I Crouse, J S Hill, A R Brown, N F Nason, C H Fletcher, O S French, Mrs Moore, Geo. A Streeter, J C Smith, J W Burroughs, E M Lunt, J Thompson, L D Small, I C Wellcome, B Perham, G Thomson, N. A. G., C Carman, L Boutell, I I Leslie, L A Dewey, B. M., A S Munger.

Catalogue

OF BOOKS AND TRACTS

FOR SALE AT THE OFFICE OF

"THE ADV. CHRIS. PUB. SOCIETY," 160 HANOVER STREET.

BIBLE DICTIONARY. Five colored maps, two hundred and fifty Engravings. Sheep, $2.25; cloth, $1.50; postage, 25 cts.

BEREAN'S CASKET AND REPOSITORY. By I. C. Wellcome. Cloth, $2.00; leather, $2.50.

CRUDEN'S CONCORDANCE. Sheep, $2.00; cloth, $1.50; postage, 25 cts.

CHRISTIAN BAPTISM. By I. C. Wellcome. 25 cts.

ENGLISH REFERENCE BIBLES. Minion: calf, morocco, circuit bindings, from $2.50 to $4 25. Nonpareil: calf, morocco, circuit bindings, from $2.00 to $3.50. Pearl: calf, morocco, circuit bindings, from $1.50 to $3.00. Diamond: calf, morocco, circuit bindings, from $1.25 to $2.00.

FABLES OF INFIDELITY and Facts of Faith. By Robert Patterson. Cloth, $1.00.

FUTURITY; or, The Hereafter of all Men. By Wm. Sheldon. 22 cts.

GOOD TIDINGS. Cloth, 50 cts. Postage, 16 cts. By express, $5.00 per dozen.

GREEK AND ENGLISH CONCORDANCE. By Hudson and Hastings. Cloth, $2.50; leather, $3.50; postage, 12 cts.

HYMNS OF JUBILEE HARP. Cloth, sprinkled edges, $7.00 per dozen; $55.00 per hundred; single, 75 cts. Leather, gilt edge, $9.50 per dozen; $75.00 per hundred; single, $1.00; postage, 5 cts. single copy.

IMMORTALITY. By J. H. Whitmore. Cloth, $1.00.

IS IT HERESY? By J. Couch. 15 cts. per doz.

JUBILEE HARP, Hymn, and Tune Book. Plain cloth, leather back, colored edge. $9.00 per dozen; single, $1.00. Extra cloth, leather back, gilt edge, $10.50 per dozen; single $1.15. Extra cloth, leather back, gilt edge and covers, $12 per dozen; single, $1.25. Postage 12 cts. single copy.

HISTORY OF THE ADVENT MESSAGE. I. C. Wellcome. Price $3.50.

JUDGMENT IMPENDING. By L. T. Cunningham. 8 cts.; 75 cts. per doz.; $5.00 per hundred.

MATTHEW 24 and 25. An Exposition. By I. C. Wellcome. 27 cts.

PILGRIM PSALMS. Sunday-school Hymn and Tune Book. Paper covers, $3.00 per dozen; stiff covers, $3.60.

PREPARE TO MEET THY GOD. Behold, the Judge standeth before the door. 10 cts. per dozen; 40 cts. per hundred.

REASONS FOR MY HOPE; or, Tokens of Redemption. By H. L. Hastings. 25 cts.

SCRIPTURAL QUESTION-BOOK. Single, 17 cts.; per dozen, by express, $1.25; by mail, $1.80.

SYMBOLIZATION of the World's Eventful Crisis. By O. R. Fassett. 4 cts; 20 cts. per dozen.

SPIRITUALISM UNVEILED. By M. Grant. 15 cts.; 8 copies, $1.00; $10.00 per hundred.

THE End of the King of the North and the Impending time of Trouble. By L. T. Cunningham. 48 pages; 8 cts.; 75 cts. per dozen; $5.00 per hundred.

THE Bible Text-Book. For Ministers, Teachers, and Students. 50 cts.

THE Plan of Redemption. By Wellcome & Goud. $1.25.

The Nature of Man. By M. Grant and others. 25 cts; $2.25 per dozen.

The Emphatic Diaglott. Containing the original Greek Text of the New Testament, according to the recension of Griesbach; with an interlinear word-for-word translation. Cloth, $4.10; leather, $5.50.

The First-day Sabbath. By T. M. Preble. $1 50.

The Destiny of Man. By W. Erwin, $1.35; gilt, $1.65.

Trumpet for the Watchman. By Geo. Thomson. 20 cts.; per dozen, by express, $1.75; by mail, $1.80.

Who are Sadducees? By Geo. Thomson. 10 cts.

What is Man? By M. Grant. 6 cts.

Young Pilgrim Stories. Illustrated. By "Uncle Pilgrim." 2 vols, 50 cts. each.

Young Pilgrim Stories. Tract form. 30 cts. per dozen; $2.00 per hundred.

Yahveh-Christ. The Coming One. By L. T. Cunningham. 8 cts. 75 cts.

Is Christ's Second Coming in the Past? By Wm. Sheldon. 15 cts. per dozen; 60 cts. per hundred.

THE TRUE SABBATH. WHICH DAY SHALL WE KEEP?

AN EXAMINATION OF

MRS. ELLEN G. WHITE'S VISIONS.

BY MILES GRANT.

ISSUED

BY THE ADV. CHRIS. PUB. SOCIETY, A NEW WORK

On the Sabbath of the Old Covenant. An investigation of Mrs. E. G. White's Visions, showing that they are not from God.

All who have accepted Mrs. White's visions as coming from heaven, or who have been led to rest on Saturday instead of the Lord's day, should read this work. Let those who live among our Seventh-day brethren send us their names, or a number of the books to give away. If the reader has friends at a distance who have received Mrs. W.'s Visions as true, have a copy of this work sent to them.

It contains 106 pages, and we will send it at the following prices: Single copy, 20 cts.; per doz., $1.75 by mail; per hundred, $10.00 by express. AGENT.

A NEW TRACT. ATHEISM CONFOUNDED, AND THE FACT OF GOD'S EXISTENCE ESTABLISHED.

BY A. W. SIBLEY.

A valuable little Tract of eight pages—just the thing to circulate in these times of unbelief and skepticism. Price by mail, 15 cents per dozen. AGENT.

THE DOCTRINE OF IMMORTALITY.

BY J. H. WHITMORE.

The former pamphlet edition of this valuable work having long since been exhausted, another edition has just been published, and we are now ready to supply orders for this book of 310 pages, for wide and general circulation, at the following very low rates: Single copy, 25 cents; per dozen, $2.50 by mail; $17.00 per hundred, by express. AG'T.

SUPPLICATION.

Thou who ever art the same,
Lord, I supplicate thy name,
Knowing that I find in thee
Blessings rich and full and free.
Gracious let thy answer be,
As I come in prayer to thee;
All my past, Lord, thou hast seen,
All that is or might have been.

All the folly, all the sin,
All the wrong my heart within,
All the faith and all the love,
All the spirit from above;
Crooked steps, anon more straight,
Trembling at thy mercy gate,
Filled with hope, again with fear,
Following far and following near.

Much or little, right or wrong,
Scattered all my path along,
Thou, dear Lord, dost know it all,
So on thee I love to call;
And as every want I bring,
To the old cross let me cling,
Type of all thy child can bear,
Or hath ever need to fear;

Type of all the Savior's glory,
Birthplace of redemption's story,
Type of all the Savior's pain,
Borne our once lost souls to gain,—
That shall be my only plea,
As I dare to come to thee;
Let me hang on it my claim,
While I supplicate thy name.

—Selected by N. A. G., Sugar Hill, N. H.

THE PUSHING OF THE RAM.
Dan. 8: 2-4.

C. H. WYMAN.

I wish to call attention to my article in the Crisis of Dec. 2nd, 1874, for the purpose of correcting a mistake in the date of one event in that article, of the above heading. A few days ago, while at work, some thoughts came to my mind which led me to see that I had made this mistake; to wit: for the pushing of the ram, I took the decree that was sent forth by Ahasuerus, or Artaxerxes and Haman, in the first month, of his twelfth year, for the slaughter of all the Jews; whereas, I ought to have taken the execution of the decree of the third month, which execution took place in the twelfth month of his twelfth year. The reason why I ought not to have taken the decree of the first month, is because the prophecy says that those whom the ram pushed against could not stand before him, neither be delivered out of his hand. But the Jews, against whom the first decree was issued, did stand before the kings, and were delivered out of the hands of Haman, and all saved; therefore, the first decree could not be the pushing of the ram.

Let us now notice the second decree, and afterward the execution thereof. The second decree we find in Esther eighth chapter, given in the third month. The account is in verses 9–14. In verse ten, we learn this decree was written in the king's name, and sealed with his ring, and was to be sent throughout his one hundred and twenty-seven provinces. In verse eleven, we have the decree, which reads thus: "Wherein the king granted the Jews which were in every city to gather themselves together, and to stand for their life, to destroy, to slay, and to cause to perish, all the power of the people and province that would assault them." Verse thirteen says—"The copy of the writing, for a commandment to be given in every province, was published unto all people, and that the Jews should be ready against that day to avenge themselves on their enemies."

Thus we see how extensive this destruction and slaughter was to be made, by the execution of this commandment. And when we call to mind that the one hundred and twenty-seven provinces were located westward, northward and southward from Shushan the palace, we can see how exactly the execution of this decree fills the mould of the pushing of the ram, in the vision of Dan. 8: 2–4. From Shushan, Daniel says, "I saw the ram pushing westward, and northward, and southward, so that no beasts might stand before him." I do rejoice to see how exactly the execution of this decree of Artaxerxes points out the great characteristics of the ram of Dan. 8.

We wish to take notice of the record of this second decree of Artaxerxes, as given in Esther, chapter 9, to see how exactly it points out the same great characteristics of the pushing of the ram. In Esther 9: 1, it says—"Now in the twelfth month, that is, the month Adar, on the thirteenth day of the same, when the king's commandment and his decree drew near to be put in execution, . . . the Jews gathered themselves together in their cities throughout all the provinces of the king Ahasuerus, to lay hands on such as sought their hurt; and no man could withstand them." How exactly this fulfilled that pushing of the ram that says—"No beasts might stand before him." Again in verse three, we learn that by the power of the rulers of the provinces, and the lieutenants, and deputies, and officers of the king, the Jews smote all their enemies with the stroke of the sword; and in verses six and fifteen, we learn that eight hundred men were slain on those two days, in Shushan the palace. How exactly this slaughter at Shushan answers to both the description and the locality of Daniel's vision of the ram, where he says—"And it came to pass, when I saw, that I was at Shushan in the palace." Dan. 8: 2. And then again, verse sixteen describes the great slaughter that took place at the same time, outside of Shushan the palace, in the one hundred and twenty-seven provinces; for it says—"The other Jews, that were in the king's provinces, gathered themselves together, and stood for their lives, and had rest from their enemies, and slew of their foes seventy and five thousand." Verse five says—"The Jews smote all their enemies with the stroke of the sword." And this is just what Artaxerxes purposed to do in his decree; for it says—"to destroy, to slay, and to cause to perish, all the power of the people and province that would assault them." And thus we see the exact fulfillment of the three great characteristics of the ram, when pushing westward, and northward, and southward; viz., (1) "No beasts might stand before him." (2) "Neither was there any that could deliver out of his hand." (3) "But he did according to his will."

We wish to notice one more fact concerning his doing according to his will. Artaxerxes' first decree was written against the Jews, and gave them all into the hands of Haman to be destroyed. Esther, in speaking of this decree, says to the king in chapter 8: 5—"Let it be written to reverse the letters devised by Haman, ... which he wrote to destroy the Jews"; and so in verse eleven, we find the king's decree written exactly the reverse, for it commanded the destruction of all the Jews' enemies; whereas his first decree gave the Jews into the hands of their enemies. Also his second decree reversed all the first commandments to the deputies, to the lieutenants, and to all the king's officers; and so calling to mind that the laws of the Medes and Persians altereth not, we can see how exactly Artaxerxes fulfilled that saying, "He did according to his will."

Again, when his second decree says, "To cause to perish all the power of the people and province," it goes to explain what Daniel meant when he said, "No beasts," that is, no power might stand before him. The execution of these events I do most solemnly believe to be the fulfillment of the pushing of the ram of Dan. 8.

We come now once more to notice the execution of this second decree, in order that we may learn the true chronology of these great events, and this we do by turning to Esther 3: 7, which says that it was "in the twelfth year of king Ahasuerus"—that is, Artaxerxes, as it is translated by the Septuagint. By reading the account carefully from chap. 3 to chap. 9, ver. 1, we find that it says the execution took place "in the twelfth month, that is, the month Adar," in the same twelfth year of Artaxerxes; for it says, "In the day that the enemies of the Jews hoped to have power over them," and that was in the twelfth month of the twelfth year of Artaxerxes; see chap. 3: 13.

So, then, these events, which constitute the pushing of the ram in the vision of Dan. 8, beginning in the twelfth month of the twelfth year, it shows that the vision could not begin in the first month, as some have supposed.

OUR CAMPMEETING TOUR.

Our campmeetings for 1875 are past, and we hope for much fruit as a result. We believe that in some important points there has been a reform, worthy of mention, since the previous year. It has been our privilege to attend six campmeetings since Aug. 8th.

SPRINGFIELD CAMPMEETING.

This was not so largely attended as in former years; but a goodly number did attend, and many of them came possessed of the Spirit of the Lord, with commendable zeal for the truth, and actively engaged in winning souls to Christ. The preaching was of a high order, and thrillingly earnest. The social meetings were characterized by fervor and sincere devotion. There was less visiting, less gossip, less gaudy show, less useless speculation in fancy hobbies; also less useless articles for sale at the stands. (We did not see any of the latter.) Consequently many were blessed and filled with joy and peace. Some were reclaimed, some were converted, others had their faith much enlarged, and many went home better than they came.

SEABROOK CAMPMEETING.

This is a newly located camp, and well chosen, we believe. It should not be called "a sea-side" campmeeting. I was on the encampment one week, and neither saw the sea nor heard it near; yet the sea is not far off, and a few visited it to bathe. The ground is a fine flat, well situated, near the R. R. station, well shaded, well watered, and in the midst a kind people. If time continues a few years, the interest in this encampment will be greatly increased. Considering the newness of the enterprise, the conflicting reports, and the heavy rains during the week, it was truly a success against severe influences.

The attendance was not large, but enough to make good audiences, through the week; and Sundays some two thousand attended. Twenty-six ministers attended, all or a portion of the time, and the most of them preached. Brn. Ross, Leavitt, Couch, Cargile, Bowman, Phelps, Smith, Hoyt, Hastings, Durand, Burnham, Wells, Grant, Wellcome, (Sisters Smith and Durand) and others, were there. The preaching was better than we usually hear at campmeetings. It seemed as though the Lord especially blessed each speaker with a holy unction, so that the word was set home with power to the hearts of the people. The social meetings were excellent. The boarding department was certainly the best arranged and conducted we have ever seen at a new meeting, and by inexperienced hands. The Lord will gather good fruit as the result of this meeting, and greatly incline many others to attend there next year, beside those who came this year.

ALTON BAY CAMPMEETING.

This mammoth meeting performed its usual revolutions this year in better style than for several years past. There seemed a deeper sense of the responsibilities of a great body engaged in a great work for the Lord. Owing to the scarcity of money and an increase of numbers of campmeetings, there were not so many in attendance as last year, yet quite too many for all to be benefited.

The grounds and seats had been much improved. The preachers seemed greatly quickened by the Holy Spirit, and preached with more power than usual. The people had a mind to work for the Lord. Less vanity, gossip, visiting, and gaudy trappings, were visible, and more of praying, exhorting, and praising God, was manifest. The Lord seemed pleased with this reform, and greatly blessed the people, and made it much more profitable to the cause of our soon coming Lord. Great good must result from such faithful labors.

MECHANIC FALLS CAMPMEETING.

This meeting was not so largely attended as usual, excepting on Sundays. Neither was it of so much general interest to the cause of Christ, to appearance, as in some of the past years. Yet it seemed far better than the large meetings, compared with the facilities and number of laborers. It was better than the previous year. The preaching was of the first class, deep toned, and with the unction of the Spirit. The social meetings were marked by deep devotion to God, and great anxiety for the salvation of souls. Some were converted, others reclaimed, and the many attendants heard the good news that Christ will soon come to judge the world and establish his righteous reign.

PITTSFIELD CAMPMEETING.

This meeting is fast increasing in interest and usefulness. More tents, and many more people this year than ever before. The ground and stand had been much improved. The believers, generally, came to work for the Lord. The Spirit of Christ was manifestly with them, and an earnest christian zeal for the upbuilding of the church and the conversion of souls was clearly seen and felt. The preaching was good, fully up to former years, some new beginners, whom the Lord has called into the vineyard. The social meetings were extra good; many testified, having been converted as a result of attending meetings there last year. There were several converted during the week, and others returned home under deep conviction of sin, who we trust will find the Savior. The evidences of Christ's soon coming were clearly presented and deeply impressed upon many hearts. If time continues, a much larger gathering of saints and sinners will be found on that encampment next year.

MAGOG., P. Q., CAMPMEETING.

This is a new encampment; the result of much effort by our Canada brethren. They have not held a campmeeting for many years until now. They are widely scattered, and found it difficult to locate at a central point, where all could gain ready access. Magog was selected, and ground prepared near a pleasant and quiet village, at the foot of Magog Lake. There are a number of self-sacrificing believers in the place who did nobly to provide for strangers. A good chapel is built on the ground, capable of seating some three hundred, with a preacher's desk so situated that the speaker can speak to an audience in the chapel in wet or cold weather, or by turning around, speak from the same desk to an audience in the seated grove. This is an important plan, and proved very useful this year, as it was late in the season, cold, and very rainy for several days.

The meeting began well, some fifteen hundred in attendance the first Sunday. Congregations were small after that, as the weather was cold, with two days heavy rain. But the people came to worship God, and labor for the salvation of souls. They were in good earnest, with zeal and faith. There we saw more of the primitive style of christianity than for many years. Plain dressing, plain speaking, social with strangers: large heartedness, a free table for all strangers, deep devotedness to God and his truth, with joyful hope, were characteristics well developed at this meeting. The speakers were in good earnest, and spoke with power, as the Spirit helped their infirmities. The truths of Christ's speedy coming and kingdom were clearly presented, and listened to with deep interest. Several sought and found the Savior, and the faith of the saints was much enlarged, while sinners returned home deeply impressed with their duty to serve the Lord. Taking into account the adverse circumstances, we are constrained to say that we found deeper piety, more zeal, greater liberality and humility, and a better meeting, according to its size, than at any other encampment for the season. About thirty preachers were in attendance during some portions of the meeting, several of whom we had not met before. We think all returned to their homes with a deeper sense of the great truths which distinguish us as a people, and a strong hope of soon meeting in the new earth.

I. C. WELLCOME.

NEW YORK A. C. QUARTERLY CONFERENCE.

The first quarterly session of this conference, for the coming year, met according to appointment with the church at Ontario, in the Wayne Co. Tent, Wednesday evening, Sept. 8th, 1875. Bro. R. H. Bateman gave the opening discourse, from Acts 8: 35, to a fair congregation for the first evening. On Thursday morning, at eleven o'clock, we met for prayer and conference. At two P. M., Bro. P. A. Smith preached from Heb. 9: 27, 28. At seven, we met again for prayer and conference, which was a profitable place for all; after which the people gave the best of attention while Bro. A. P. Moore discoursed on the "purifying hope," from 1 John 3: 2, 3.

Friday. During last night, a terrific gale of wind swept over this part of the country, which demolished our cloth meeting-house. The centre pole broke, and a large rent was made in the canvas. In this dilemma, our President thought the Methodist Society would kindly offer us their church. We applied to the Pastor, who referred us to the chief trustee and manager. On applying to him, he felt it to be too much of a responsibility (without conferring with the other trustees) to say, Yes, and neither did he say, Nay. But the friends in Ontario made up their minds that the conference, with its large delegation of ministers, brethren and sisters, should have a place, and, as there was no other place in the village, the tent must go up again, if it did rain; and by four o'clock we were pleased to see the canvas spread to the breeze. In the morning, the tent being down, we met in conference capacity in the school-house, at ten o'clock. This was the only business session during this conference. The meeting was called to order by the Vice President, R. H. Bateman, and after prayer, the President, M. R. Miles, took the chair. The following committees were appointed:

Devotional—Brn. Jas. E. Wells, George Waugh, and Wm. Wood.

On Business—Brn. C. F. Sweet, B. P. Stevens, and A. C. Newell.

Quarterly collections were received from only six churches by their delegates, as follows: So. Butler, $2; Kendall, $2; Yorkshire, $3.50; Martville, $3; Ontario, $2; Pineville, $1. The following ministers were present: R. H. Bateman, A. P. Moore, P. A. Smith, A. C. Newell, C. F. Sweet, E. F. Sergisson, Chas. P. Greenman, S. C. Gove, M. R. Miles, B. P. Stevens, A. H. Dunbar, Wm. Ingmire, C. Colegrove, J. B. Cook, and Jas. E. Wells. Letters were read from Elds. W. J. Hobbs, C. W. Low, and C. H. Williams, regretting that they could not be present. But very little business was effected at this meeting, and we were glad that there was so little to do, as it left more time for social meetings. At two o'clock P. M., Bro. A. C. Newell preached from 1 Thess. 4: 16, 17. Prayer and conference at seven P. M., after which we listened to a discourse by Bro. C. F. Sweet, from Matt. 26: 22.

Saturday. At 11 A. M., Bro. C. P. Greenman spoke from 1 Cor. 16: 22. At 2 P. M., Bro. Wm. Ingmire spoke from 2 Tim. 1: 12. In the evening, we met at an early hour for prayer and conference, which was a rich feast to all. After this meeting, Bro. E. F. Sergisson gave a discourse on Ps. 43: 3.

Sunday. Met for love-feast at half past nine, when many soul-cheering testimonies were given for Jesus and his truth. Preaching at eleven by Bro. M. R. Miles, from Eph. 2: 19, 20. At two o'clock P. M., Bro. C. Colegrove preached a telling discourse on the nature of man, and his resurrection. At seven, we had another blessed season in prayer and conference. All our meetings were signally blessed with the spirit of love and union, and a marked desire to be wholly the Lord's.

After this meeting, we listened to a sermon by that old veteran soldier in the cause of truth, Bro. J. B. Cook, from 1 Cor. 1: 4–8. Following this discourse, we gathered around the table, to commemorate the death, resurrection and coming again of our adorable Lord.

The speedy coming of the Redeemer was the mainspring of all hearts. The cause of truth is rising higher in Western N. Y. And what we have regretted most is, that there were not more of our brethren and sisters in attendance at this conference. We speak for a larger meeting at our next quarterly in Dec. The brethren in Ontario have under way a house of worship, which they expect to have completed and ready for dedication about Dec. 1st. The conference, we believe, has left a healthy influence on the people in Ontario. We hope that the churches throughout the bounds of this conference will attend to the matter of electing their delegates, and taking up the quarterly collections in time for the next conference. The coming of the Lord draweth nigh.

JAS. E. WELLS, Sec. and Treas.

A. C. Times, please copy.

"YOURS IN JESUS."

"Yours in Jesus," sweet conclusion,
To a letter full of love;
Yours, in all the joy of Jesus,
Yours until we meet above.

"Yours in Jesus," blessed sentence,
Love's cementing, all divine;
Yours in patience like the Savior's,
Yours in gentleness sublime!

"Yours in Jesus," O what friendship,
Broad and deep as love can be;
Yours in all the grief of Jesus,
Yours in sorrow's deepest sea.

"Yours in Jesus," sweet conclusion,
As to letter, ever given;
Yours in deathless love of Jesus,
Yours on earth, and yours in heaven.

—Record.

EXEGESIS.

A precious thought and fundamental doctrine we find in the following words: "For in Jesus Christ neither circumcision nor uncircumcision availeth anything, but faith which worketh by love." Gal. 5: 6. The gospel abrogates all legal observances and rites, as essential to salvation. The whole conditionality of life is resolved into faith. Uncircumcision, or the state of the Gentiles, and circumcision, the state of the Jews, contribute equally to salvation, and neither contributes anything. Faith supersedes the entire Levitical code, so far as the terms of justification and acceptance with God, are concerned. We do not work, but believe ourselves into Christ, and up to heaven. It is not ceremony, but trust, that forms the hinge of redemption. And this trust is so near nothing as a process of causation and procurement, that the ideas of merit and boasting are absolutely excluded. What merit can there be in relaxing our hold upon everything, and subsiding into a state of rest and security in the arms of another?

And yet this condition of rest and security, is not the rest of stagnation and inertness. Faith is a force, an operative force, a productive principle; it "works by love." While it has no merit, it has great activity. It is like a stream, being fed by a perennial spring, its nature is to run, to agitate itself, and affect other things. Like the stream, faith is cumulative, mighty, and often overwhelming; and yet not independently so; its power comes from borrowed replenishishments.

Faith "works," but does not work abstractly or unassociated. Its element is love. It originates in love, is fed by love, produces love, increases by love, and devises schemes of love. Love is both the essence and boundary of faith's operations. In this regard it is like the natural sun. This great orb of day performs a thousand beneficent offices to human and animal life, to vegetation, and to inanimate nature. The sun is the world's great source of life and beauty. But the sun works all his munificent changes by light. That subtle substance is the embodiment and basal principle of all his bounteous and powerful distributions. The sun works by light, as faith "works by love."

Faith is both subjective and objective; subjective in its effect and evidences; objective in its dependence; in its meritorious foundation and sustaining resources. Faith works subjectively when causing emotional fruits; that is, when it produces peace, love, purity, fortitude, assurance and zeal in its subject. It acts objectively by transferring all trust, hope, and absolute dependence, out of self into Christ; by locating in Christ all meritorious causation, all life, all quickening potencies, and all saving efficacy. Faith is truly objective when it comes to confess to God with full conviction and joyous consent. "All my springs are in Thee." Ps. 87: 7.

Christ is the object of faith, but the object summarily expressed. Trust in Christ does not mean abstract trust in the person of Christ; but trust in his work as well. Amplified it signifies trust in his atonement, promises and advocacy. It is an accepting him in the aggregation of his offices, and in the fulness of his unsearchable riches and grace. It is to receive him as the way, the truth, and the life. Faith so transfers and appropriates a whole Christ, that he verily "dwells in the heart by faith," and by the same faith-work, in conjunction with and actuated by love, we become "rooted and grounded in love," and possess "a life hid with Christ in God."—Advocate of Holiness.

GOSPEL ARMOR.

Yes, go armed! Not with pistol or dagger, with which to frighten or destroy, but with the armor of God. If you have enlisted in the army of Jesus, dear reader, you are commanded to "put on the whole armor of God, that you may be able to stand against the wiles of the devil." You need this armor constantly. You may not safely lay it down a moment. For in that moment you might become a prey to your spiritual foes.

Yes, go armed with the armor of God, which is the breast-plate of righteousness, the shield of faith, the helmet of salvation, and the sword of the Spirit. With these only you may hope to vanquish the enemies of your soul.

Some professors of religion occasionally try the experiment of using an armor of their own selection or construction. They always do so to their sorrow. Defeat inevitably follows. Have you ever been guilty of such folly? Are you now clad simply in such an armor? If so, discard it at once, before it proves your ruin. The cumbrous thing will certainly be in your way, as Saul's humanly contrived armor was in that of David. You can only vanquish the giant, sin, by having on the whole armor of God.

With this armor only the enemy of inbred sin can be dislodged. If it still lurks in the precints of your heart, you need this armor all the more. Whatever your experience is, you need it all the time. May God help us all to put it on, to keep it on, and to use it successfully in the great conflict wtth the world, the flesh and the devil!—Christian Harvester.

EXTRACT FROM A LETTER.

Brn. Editors:—I copy, without special permission, the following from a private letter to myself, from a devoted lay brother in Mass. It afforded me so much comfort, and is so instructive, I felt it should not be withheld from the public. E. OWEN.

Pittsburgh, Pa.

. . . "I cannot speak of anything that I think the Lord specially makes known, but this thought is in my mind: "What thou knowest not now, thou shalt know hereafter." That is safe on general terms, and would do credit to the 'Delphic' or any other oracles. But if God speaks in that way, he will give an after unfolding, that will abundantly identify it as of himself. God sometimes withholds the full light concerning the course we are to pursue, but gives sufficient to light up the path, so that we can walk. It may not be the flashing gleam of the light-house, or the strong reflection of the locomotive head-light, casting its illumination far on into the darkness; but it will be sufficient to light our feet, showing us, at least, that we are in the path, and moving on, as it is the will of Him who has promised to guide his people. 'I will instruct thee, and teach thee in the way which thou shalt go; I will guide thee with mine eye.' Ps. 32: 8.

Sometimes, when we desire more light, God would have us trust with what we have. When we, in the agony of our minds, are praying, God would have us believe. Sometimes our prayers are born of our anxieties and doubts, when trust in the promises already in our possession would dispel our doubts and fears, and bring the peace and rest that comes from believing; though feeling nothing, yet believing. Nothing behind, nothing before; the steps of faith fall upon the apparently open void, and find the rock beneath. The promises we have are as good as any we can have. To take up a note with another promise to pay, makes nothing stronger. If you have any promises, hang on to them. They are good with interest to date. How beautiful the language of Isaiah—'I will trust, and not be afraid.' Well might Israel thus speak, when they could say, 'Behold, God is my salvation.' Isa. 12: 1.

God's methods in the spiritual world are as manifold as in the natural. In the latter we behold the manifold wisdom of God, often discerning the double purpose and more; so in the spiritual. We discover different purposes in providential dispensations, to try our faith, to purify by chastisement, to build up the faith of others. 'None of us liveth to himself' (Rom. 14: 7), and for his own glory; and by the after lesson, we discern that God was in it. 'How unsearchable are his judgments, and his ways past finding out.' Rom. 11: 33. 'Thy righteousness is like the great mountains, thy judgments are a great deep.' Ps. 35: 6. Christ said to Peter—'Satan hath desired to have thee, that he may sift thee as wheat; but I have prayed the Father for thee, that thy faith fail not.' Luke 21: 31, 32. So we conclude with the apostle—'We wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers," etc. Eph. 6: 12. And with the same apostle, can inquire, 'Who shall separate us from the love of Christ?' Rom. 8: 35. So whether on the mountain top, or in the valley, we can sing, 'In God I have found a retreat,' etc. And like David can say, 'My soul shall make her boast in the Lord.' Ps. 34: 2. And again, 'Why art thou cast down, O my soul? . . . hope thou in God, for I shall yet praise him.' Ps. 42: 5.

Faith should be the constant and continual condition of the mind. 'Without faith it is impossible to please God.' Sometimes, when we cease our struggling, and simply believe, then comes a peace we were trying to supply by gaining new promises, when those we had already were ample for all our needs. I mean those which past experiences in prayer had procured for us, and the trial through which we might be passing was testing our faith in them, and the truthful ness of that experience, rather than to supply us with other promises, and give us rest from new experience. God does give to us wonderful experiences and illuminations at times, and he designs to have them remembered and relied upon. His word to us is, Believe my promises. 'Who against hope believed in hope.' Rom. 4: 18. W. F. K."

THE CANADA CAMPMEETING.

The campmeeting lately held at Magog, in Canada, deserves a brief notice in the Crisis, as it was in some important respects one of the best of the season. The meeting encountered various difficulties in the way of a disagreement as to the location, a two days rain, cold weather, and limited tent accomodations; but Bro. Marsh, and also Bro. Orcutt, kindly opened their doors, and welcomed all to their tents and their tables, while the brethren in the vicinity,—Chapman, Mitson, Tilson, Dow, etc.,—took horse-loads home to their houses, and returned with provisions to supply the free tables of Brn. Marsh and Orcutt. Never before have I seen such brotherly love and self-sacrifice in behalf of a campmeeting, as the brethren there showed in sustaining this meeting.

The location was quite unfavorable, even in fair weather, on account of the inconvences in getting there, rough ground, bad water, etc.; but it was especially so in foul weather, as the soil continued cold, wet, and even muddy for several days after the rain; and had it not been for the chapel, 28 x 30 feet, the meeting would have proved a failure.

These inconveniences, however, tested the hospitality of the Canada brethren, and long will their acts of kindness be remembered by most of us, as among the sweetest tokens of self-sacrifice and brotherly love, connected with campmeeting experience. The brethren who were dissatisfied with the location were generally there, and though all the unfavorable circumstances would have ruined almost any other meeting, all present seemed disposed to have brotherly love prevail, and thus we had an excellent meeting, notwithstanding all its inconveniences and discouragements.

This campmeeting was an experiment. And as such, it has decided the question that the Canada brethren deserve an established campmeeting; and that most of us who were there will want to attend the next one. It seemed also settled in the minds of more than three-fourths of those present, ministers and all, that it ought to be located on some rail-road, with a better grove and better soil. I. K. LOMBARD.

COMING OF JESUS.

JAMES MORRISON.

Jesus said,—"I will come again and receive you unto myself." Happy reunion! It will be a meeting of the whole ransomed family, the head with all its members, the vine with all its branches, the shepherd with all his flock. O what a halo of glory hangs around the coming of Jesus! What sweet and precious promises are laid up in store for the righteous! Palms of victory, crowns of glory! Praise the Lord! These things are worth living and striving for; worth denying self, and bearing the cross daily.

Dear saint, thine is a high and holy calling. O run the race for everlasting life! Just before us lies the bright sunshine of eternal day. Let us press forward with the eye fixed upon the goal, and the ear deaf to every sound but that of eternal life. Jesus told us what events would transpire previous to his return. "The fig tree" hath blossomed; look up, lift up your heads, "for your redemption draweth nigh." The prophecies show unmistakably that the last sands of time are falling, and the Gentile kingdoms are preparing for their last fearful conflict. Soon the storm will rage over the earth, and Christ's footsteps will be heard treading in the winepress of his wrath; "For the day of vengeance is in mine heart, and the year of my redeemed is come."

These wonderful events are coupled with the awakening of many by the jubilee trump, who sleep in the dust of the earth, to shine as the brightness of the firmament, and as the stars for ever and ever. May God help us all to be on the watchtower, looking for the promised Sabbath of rest.

"Though long we've been waiting, 'twill not be in vain,
Oh, shout hallelujah! he's coming again."

New Glasgow, P. Q.

YORK CO. CONFERENCE.

The York Co. A. C. Conference convened in quarterly session at Hollis Centre, Me., Sept. 16th, at 2 P. M. The meeting was called to order by Eld. J. Hill, our President. Motion made and carried to adjourn our business session to Sept. 18th, at 8 o'clock A. M. The remainder of the afternoon was profitably spent in social worship. In the evening, Eld. G. W. Brown, of Elliot, gave us a timely word from Acts 9: 6.

Friday, Sept. 17th, in addition to the social meetings, which we all enjoyed exceedingly, we were favored with good sermons preached by W. H. Mitchell, from Rom. 14: 16, and J. Gay, from Matt. 18: 20. Sept. 18th, 8 A. M., we met for business. Secretary's report was read and accepted. Eld. J. Gay was elected Treasurer of this conference, in place of Bro. J. M. Allen, deceased. G. W. Brown, J. Gay, and G. H. Haines, were appointed a committee to draft resolutions of respect to the memory of Bro. Allen.

The committee chosen at the last session to disburse the funds in the treasury reported. The resolution passed at that conference, instructing the committee as to what disposition they should make of these funds, was rescinded, and the following passed in its place:

Resolved, That our committee be instructed to make such disposition of the conference funds as they shall in their judgment deem proper. We next listened with much interest to the brief reports of labor given by the following named preachers: W. H. Mitchell, M. Stevens, C. H. Sweet, G. W. Brown, G. H. Haines, J. N. Remick, Webster Stevens, E. A. Stockman, and J. Hill. Brn. J. Gay and J. H. Tripp were with us during the conference, but were not present at this meeting.

Our churches did not do as well as the preachers. Biddeford, Bonny Eagle, Hollis Centre, and Steep Falls, were all that reported themselves. Will you not, dear brethren, endeavor to do better in the future?

The following but faintly expresses our real feelings:

Whereas, Our much beloved brother, John M. Allen, of Saco, Me., after a short and severe illness, fell suddenly by the hand of death, on Sept. 8th, 1875, thereby depriving us of the society and counsel of a worthy brother, and the conference of a Treasurer; therefore,

Resolved, That we do deeply mourn his loss, and heartily sympathize with his bereaved and afflicted family.

Adjourned, to meet at Bonny Eagle, Me., Thursday, Dec. 9th, 1875.

During Saturday and Sunday, we had sermons by G. W. Brown, M. Stevens and C. H. Sweet. We all felt as we parted that in point of interest and profit, this session would compare favorably with those we have before enjoyed. C. H. SWEET, Sect.

NEARNESS TO CHRIST.

Without entering into the disputed questions concerning special opinions, there is one thing clear, that christians generally live on a plane of feeling and action far below their privilege and duty. This being a matter of general consent and common confession, we should not discourage any effort to remedy so great an evil; but rather encourage every aspiration of souls who "hunger and thirst after righteousness."

Why may we not daily, hourly, constantly feel that Christ is not a God afar off, but an ever-present friend and helper, his ear attentive and his hand ready to help? Let this be fully appreciated as an unquestionable and precious fact, and what more does the christian need? Is he in doubt as to the wisdom of a given line of conduct? Jesus is at his side to solve the doubt. Is he burdened with some great responsibility? Jesus is waiting to lift his burden. Is he oppressed under some sad heartache? The Savior is present with a human heart to sympathize with him, a divine power to relieve him. Is he overwhelmed with a sudden bereavement? Oh, how precious and tender are the comfortings of his elder Brother, who walks by his side through the darkness! An ever present, loving, all-powerful Christ—that is the privilege of every christian to have.—Selected.

THREE friends are useful to us—a candid friend, a faithful friend, and a friend who will listen to what we say—who will consider of what is said to him, and who speaks little, but to the purpose. Also, three are pernicious: the hypocrite, the flatterer, and the great talker.

HOME AND HEALTH.

INDICTMENT OF KING ALCOHOL.

The history of King Alcohol is a history of shame and corruption, of cruelty and crime, of rage and ruin.

He has taken the glow of health from the cheek, and placed there the reddish hue of the wine cup.

He has taken lustre from the eye, and made it dim and blood-shot.

He has taken beauty and comeliness from the face, and left it ill-shaped and bloated.

He has taken firmness and elasticity from the step, and made it faltering and treacherous.

He has taken vigor from the arm, and left flabbiness and weakness.

He has taken vitality from the blood, and filled it with poison and the seeds of disease and death.

He has transformed this body, fearfully and wonderfully made, God's masterpiece of mechanism, into a vile, loathsome, stinking mass of humanity.

He has entered the brain, the temple of thought, dethroned reason, and made it reel with folly.

He has taken the beam of intelligence from the eye, and left in exchange the stupid stare of idiocy and dullness.

He has taken the impress of ennobled manhood from the face, and left the mark of sensuality and brutishness.

He has taken cunning from the hands, and turned them from deeds of usefulness to become instruments of brutality and murder.

He has broken the ties of friendship, and planted the seeds of enmity.

He has made the kind, indulgent father a brute, a tyrant, a murderer.

He has transformed the kind and affectionate mother into a very fiend of brutish incarnation.

He has made obedient sons and daughters the breakers of hearts and the destroyers of homes.

He has taken luxuries from off the table, and compelled men to cry on account of famine, and to beg for bread.

He has stolen men's palaces and given them hovels in exchange.

He has robbed men of valuable acres, and given them not even a decent burial-place in death.

He has filled our streets and highways with violence and lawlessness.

He has complicated our laws and crowded our courts.

He has filled to overflowing houses of correction and penitentiaries.

He has straitened us for room in our insane asylums.

He has taken away faith, hope, and charity—yea, all that is lovely and of good report—and given despair, infidelity, enmity, and all the emotions and deeds of wickedness.

He has banished Christ from the heart, and created hell within it.

He has wrecked and enfeebled the bodies, shattered and destroyed the minds, imperilled and damned the souls of our fellowmen.

These are counts of the indictment. Let the world judge of the truth.—Selected by T. M. Preble.

HOW TO SWEEP.

Sweeping for a well woman, is one of the best kinds of exercise. It calls in play especially the muscles of the upper extremities and chest, and, indeed, it is a pretty good "thorough exerciser," almost too strong for any woman with a weak back, though this depends very much on what is to be swept. A painted floor and Canton matting sweep easily; an ingrain carpet is harder still; while Brussels and velvet are "awful." Well, then, in any case, cover your head, and if it is in the parlor or sitting-room, cover your furniture and books, dampen your broom, let it stand ten to twenty minutes, and then sweep carefully, but persistently. In the corners insert your broom repeatedly until quite clean. Heavy carpets are best swept with a quick, short stroke. In any case bring the broom towards you or even with you; do not flirt it in front of you. That motion kicks up a dust which is bad for the lungs. Some things, like straws, ravellings, and bits of paper, are best picked up with the hand or with a small broom, to which they readily cling, and may be removed with the other hand. To conclude, have as few carpets as possible. They are dirty, unwholesome, and expensive. Painted or oiled floors and Canton matting are better.—Science of Health.

OVER-STUDY.

Could not persons suffering from over study and mental labor be cured after a lapse of eight or nine months? How long would it be likely to require, and what is the proper treatment? Can one suffering from over study be cured if he continue his mental labor?

The remedy, then, is to cease irritating and exciting the brain by study, and engage in something that requires just mental action enough to keep the mind from getting rusty.

Sleep as many of the twenty-four hours as you can. Eat plain and simple food especially that which sustains the brain and muscles. Wheat ground without sifting makes the best bread—in fact, it is good food. You must avoid the superfine flour bread, tea, coffee, and sugar. Eat ripe fruit liberally, also vegetables, so as to keep the bowels free. Bathe sufficiently to keep the pores of the skin open and healthy. Avoid spices, tobacco, and alcoholic stimulants. Six months' time thus living will be likely to bring you about all right. Then study with moderation, exercise abundantly, and continue to live temperately, and if you are not too far gone, you may hope for recovery. Medicines can do you no good.—Phrenological Journal.

The World's Crisis
AND
SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

RULES FOR CORRESPONDENTS.

Over all matters not intended for publication write:—PRIVATE.
Over all business matters, write:—BUSINESS.
Over all articles intended for the paper, write:—For the Crisis.

☞ Put business matters and appointments on separate pieces of paper, or so that they can be detached without interfering with any other communication.

When the names of NEW subscribers are sent, please say they are NEW, and it will save much labor.

All articles should be accompanied by the writer's NAME, for the Editor's information, even if it is not published.

PRIVATE LETTERS.—Those wishing to address the Editor on matters not connected with the office, please write PRIVATE on the outside of the envelope.

☞ All persons writing to the office should give distinctly and plainly the POST OFFICE, COUNTY and STATE at which they wish to be addressed, and all orders, subscriptions, communications and remittances, should be plainly directed to

☞ "THE WORLD'S CRISIS,"
Boston, Mass.

PUBLISHED ALSO AT THE SAME OFFICE,
Semi-monthly,
THE YOUNG PILGRIM
An Illustrated Sunday-School Paper,
FOR CHILDREN AND YOUTH.

TERMS: ☞ Payable always in advance.

Single copy, 50 cts. a year; and at the same rate for any number of copies under ten.
Ten copies, and any larger number under fifty, when sent to one address, 40 cts. a year for each copy.
Fifty copies, and any number over fifty, when sent to one address, 35 cts. a year for each copy.
To Canada subscribers at the same rates. Ten cents extra charge for American postage.
☞ All communications, orders, and remittances should be addressed to
"THE YOUNG PILGRIM,"
Boston, Mass.

The World's Crisis
AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

"BEHOLD I COME QUICKLY; AND MY REWARD IS WITH ME."

WHOLE NO. 1040. BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 20, 1875. VOL. XLII.—NO. 1.

The World's Crisis,
AND
SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER,
Issued every Wednesday Afternoon, by the
ADVENT CHRISTIAN PUBLICATION SOCIETY,
At No. 160 Hanover Street, Boston, Mass.
GEO. T. ADAMS,
TREASURER AND BUSINESS AGENT.

JOHN COUCH, } EDITORS.
MILES GRANT, }

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE:
S. G. MATHEWSON, L. BOUTELL,
WM. H. MITCHELL.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEE:
H. V. DAVIS. M. BATCHELOR,
L. T. CUNNINGHAM, J. G. HAMBLIN,
J. HEMENWAY.

The CRISIS is devoted to the exposition of all Bible truth; especially the doctrine of the immediate, personal coming and reign of Christ on the earth; holiness of heart; the unconscious state of the dead; their literal resurrection, and final destruction of the wicked.

WAITING.

ELLA M. LUNT.

"And it shall be said in that day, Lo, this is our God, we have waited for him, and he will save us."

Yes, we wait, we wait for Jesus,
And our waiting is not vain,
For the holy angels promised
That our Lord would come again.

Then let daring scoffers thicken,
And the word of God deride,
They will call for rocks and mountains,
That they from his face may hide.

Yes, we wait, we wait for Jesus;
What a blessed thought to me!
For the Son of God has promised
That our home this earth shall be.

Let dark war clouds gather o'er us,
And the waves of sin roll high,
We will trust our blessed Savior,
For his coming draweth nigh.

Yes, we wait, we wait for Jesus,
But the tarrying is most o'er,
Soon the vision will be ended,
Then we'll wait and die no more.

O, I turn my eyes to Zion,
Where the saved of earth shall dwell,
And my heart doth beat with rapture
Since I know that all is well.

In the day of retribution,
When the saints of God are free,
Loud we'll sing that promised anthem,
"We have waited Lord, for thee."

Biddeford, Oct. 4th, 1875.

THE BLESSED HOPE.

J. R. SMITH.

"The grace of God that bringeth salvation hath appeared to all men, teaching us that denying ungodliness and worldly lusts, we should live soberly, righteously, and godly in this present world; looking for that blessed hope, and the glorious appearing of the great God, and our Savior Jesus Christ."

The second personal coming of Christ, to raise the slumbering dead, and change the righteous living, and establish his everlasting "kingdom under the whole heaven," is the hope of the church, and ever has been, and ever will be. The christian's hope all centres upon the real personal coming of Christ. This is the grand culminating point; "For this we say unto you by the word of the Lord, that we which are alive, and remain unto the coming of the Lord, shall not prevent [or go before] them which are asleep; for the Lord himself [not a spirit] shall descend from heaven with a shout, with the voice of the archangel, and with the trump of God; and the dead in Christ shall rise first; then we which are alive and remain, shall be caught up together with them in the clouds to meet the Lord in the air; and so shall we ever be with the Lord. Wherefore comfort one another with these words." What a glorious hope! Sweet, precious words of comfort to the mourning heart—the coming of the Lord to raise the sleeping dead, and change the righteous living.

When the inspired apostle was brought before king Agrippa, and accused of the Jews, the Christian's hope of a coming Jesus to redeem man from the bondage of death, was ably and clearly presented. "And now," says Paul, "I stand and am judged for the hope of the promise made of God unto our fathers, unto which promise our twelve tribes, instantly serving God day and night, hope to come; for which hope's sake, king Agrippa, I am accused of the Jews." What was this hope, so prominent in all of Paul's experience, writings, and preaching, of the gospel of Christ? Paul tells us what this hope was that he cherished so; for immediately after the words just quoted he says: "Why should it be thought a thing incredible with you that God should raise the dead?"

There were infidels and skeptics in Paul's day, and there are infidels and skeptics now. They called God's living word heresy then, and they call it heresy now. "But," says the apostle, "this I confess unto thee, that after the way which they call heresy, so worship I the God of my fathers, believing all things which are written in the law and in the prophets; and have hope toward God, which they themselves also allow, that there shall be a resurrection of the dead, both of the just and the unjust." But if man never dies (as falsely taught by modern theology), how can there ever be a resurrection of the dead? and, "if the dead rise not, then is not Christ raised; and if Christ be not raised, your faith is vain; ye are yet in your sins; then they also which are fallen asleep in Christ are perished." But if those who are fallen asleep in Christ are in heaven (as is claimed by modern theologians), how could they ever perish? has there ever been any death in heaven? has any one ever perished there? Then as certain as God's written word is true, man is not immortal in this life, but is wholly and absolutely unconscious between death and the resurrection, and sleeps, as the Bible plainly and positively declares.

Inspired patriarchs and prophets, who lived under the old dispensation, looked forward to the "blessed hope" of a future release from the bondage of death. Good old father Abraham, the friend of God, recognized his almighty power in liberating men from the bondage of death; and when called to immolate his only son Isaac, he immediately prepared to obey the heavenly mandate, "accounting that God was able to raise him up even from the dead." This also was Job's hope; for this hope that perfect man of God was willing to wait all his "appointed time," until his change should come; and as he looked far down into futurity, through the telescope of faith, and saw the dawn of "the latter day," and although he expected to become food for worms long before its arrival, yet in that day Job expected his Redeemer would stand "upon the earth," and call him from his slumbers, and that in his flesh, and with his own eyes, he should see the Lord. Job distinctly saw a future life; not in death, but far beyond it, even at the dawn of "the latter day." Job believed that when a man died, he was dead clear through. Job had no faith in the common theology of a man moving out of the old house at death, and flying away "beyond the bounds of time and space." Job speaks very clearly and very emphatically upon this interesting subject. Hear him: "As the waters fail from the sea, and the flood decayeth and drieth up; so man lieth down, and riseth not; till the heavens be no more, they shall not awake, nor be raised out of their sleep." But says Job, "If a man die, shall he live again?" Yes, glory be to God! God, speaking through his holy prophet Isaiah, says—"Thy dead men shall live, together with my dead body shall they arise."

"O grave, where [now] is thy victory?" You once held me in your cold and icy embrace, but you can hold me no longer; I have been released from your ruthless grasp; I have been redeemed from your cruel bondage, and am now free. "Thanks be to God, which giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ." The long, dark night of mourning and death is almost over; and a firmament beaming with promise, bending low over the graves of our loved ones, giveth bright tokens of a coming morning, when they "shall live again." Let us feed upon this manna in the wilderness; let us feed upon this "blessed hope"—the hope of a coming Deliverer to destroy the work of the devil, and put our last and longest lived enemy forever under his feet. As we bow around the altar of prayer, and think of the crucified Jesus, who bore "our sins in his own body on the tree," let this "blessed hope" irradiate and illuminate our souls; let this song cheer our lonely hearts amid the dark night of sorrow and death. It is the song of the crucified One. He gave it to us, that we may sing when we are shrouded in darkness, and sorrow, and gloom; sing it when the shadows refuse to flee away; sing it when the winds blow; sing it when the hurricanes roar; sing it when all earthly hopes have been driven from our view. Sweet song! angels catch the seraphic music borne on Mount Olivet's heavenly breezes, and join the glad refrain—"I will come again, and receive you unto myself; that where I am, there ye may be also."

Glory to God! for this "blessed hope." I am glad that the usurper's time has about run out. He has held dominion over this world for about six thousand years, and must soon give up his heartless and wicked reign. Soon the prophecy which is written in the twenty-first chapter of Ezekiel will have a glorious fulfillment—"And thou, profane, wicked prince of Israel, whose day is come, when iniquity shall have an end; thus saith the Lord God, Remove the diadem, and take off the crown; this shall not be the same; exalt him that is low, and abase him that is high. I will overturn, overturn, overturn it; and it shall be no more, until He come whose right it is; and I will give it him." Christ will then take his lawful throne, which the cruel usurper has held these long and weary years. Then the kingdoms of this world shall pass away, and shall "become the kingdoms of our Lord and of his Christ." "His dominion shall be from sea to sea, and from the river to the ends of the earth"; and this very planet upon which we live, and where the blessed Redeemer was a despised outcast and a homeless wanderer, smitten and buffeted, and crucified upon the cross of Calvary, is destined to shine forth in its Eden beauty, having been redeemed, and purified, and beautified, and glorified, and adorned in everlasting splendor and transcendent loveliness, as the home of the saints and the crucified King of eternal glory; for "we, according to his promise, look for new heavens and a new earth, wherein dwelleth righteousness." Then "the earth shall be filled with the glory of the Lord." Then the universal prayer of the church of God shall be answered, and the kingdom of God shall indeed come; and then shall his "will be done in earth, as it is in heaven." Then the righteous shall inherit the land, and dwell therein forever."

Blessed home! redolent with life, and joy, and gladness; where no blight, disease nor death shall ever come; a land "where violence shall no more be heard," neither wasting or destruction within her borders. Here, the sky of our happiness is often clouded by the grim messenger of death; but in "the new earth," "thy sun shall no more go down, neither shall thy moon withdraw itself; for the Lord shall be thine everlasting light, and the days of thy mourning shall be ended. Thy people also shall be all righteous; they shall inherit the land forever." Glory be to God for this "blessed hope."

"And, oh! it fills my heart with joy,
To know we're almost home."

New Bedford, Mass.

CHEERFULNESS honors religion. It proclaims to the world that we serve a good Master. Cheerfulness is a friend to grace; it puts the heart in tune to serve God. Uncheerful christians, like the spies, bring an evil report on the good land; others suspect there is something unpleasant in religion, that they who profess it walk so dejectedly.

FEELING vs. FAITH.

O. B. MERRILL.

Christians are often inclined to judge of their standing before God, of the reality of their religion, by the state of their feeliny. This is wrong. We must not judge of the reality or the degree of our religion by the feeling we have. Feeling is a poor criterion by which we may judge of our acceptance with God. Our feelings are ever changing, like the sky above us; sometimes clear, sometimes cloudy. The question should not be, What is the state of our feelings? but, What is the condition of our faith? Feeling is not faith, nor is faith feeling. Feeling is knowledge. When a person feels pain, he knows it, he feels it. When an individual has the headache, or the toothache, we never hear him say, "I have faith that my tooth aches"; or, "I believe I have the headache." It is knowledge. He is sensible of it, from the fact he feels pain. When we feel a thing to be true, it is no longer faith. It is knowledge. It is no credit to any body to believe when he feels. We must believe, when we feel a thing is not true. Our friends may say it is not true, and we may think it is not true; but if God says it, believe. Let God be true, if every man is a liar.

Dear, doubting soul, do not trust in feeling for salvation. Lose sight of self. Look to Jesus. Have faith in God. Rest not for safety and for peace upon your feelings, but upon Jesus, who is "the same, yesterday, to-day, and for ever." "We walk by faith, not by sight." Faith is losing all right or thought of self in looking to Jesus. Look, then, only to him. Think of him, not of self, not of feeling. Remember the promise is, "Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace, whose mind is stayed [upon feeling? no,] on Thee." Faith is belief, trust, confidence. To have faith in God is to believe him, trust him, have confidence in him.

The christian's life here is not a life of feeling, sight, knowledge; but a life of faith, trust, confidence. The life we live here in the flesh, we "live by the faith of the Son of God"; a life of sincerity and honest belief in God, and in the promises he has given us. We must not lose sight of faith. It is "the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen." According to our faith it shall be done unto us; not according to our feeling. "By grace are ye saved through faith." By faith Christ dwells in our hearts. By faith we live. "The just shall live by faith." Faith purifies the heart, and overcomes the world. We have access by faith to the throne of grace, whereby we become the children of the great "I AM." "Without faith it is impossible to please God." They that come to God must believe that he is. He that believeth shall be saved.

Truly the christian life is a life of faith. Paul calls it "the good fight of faith," and he exhorts us not to cast away our faith, but to keep the faith. It is faith, faith, faith, all through the Scriptures of divine truth, not feeling. Faith brings peace, joy, happiness. Should we, however, feel "blessed ill," as we may very often, we can trust in God, as did Abraham when he went up to the mount to slay his son Isaac. No doubt he felt badly, "blessed ill" indeed; but he went in faith, "accounting that God was able to raise him up even from the dead."

We may, dear brother, sister, friend, have the same faith. Things may look dark and forbidding around us, and we not know how or which way to go; but "the Lord will provide." O for a true, a saving faith, a practical confidence in God. When we read, "The Lord is my shepherd, I shall not want," believe it. "Let not your heart be troubled." "Fear not, little flock." "Seek first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness, and all these things shall be added unto you." Who, I ask, can fear? Who can worry at all, or take anxious thought for the future, with these texts before them, and with a strong faith in them? They authorize us to expect sufficient spiritual aid to overcome the world. A true believer shall never suffer real evil. He shall have food and raiment, blessings sufficient to do God's will, and to gain eternal life at last in the kingdom of God, where faith is turned to sight, and prayer to praise.

Reader, will you, with me, cease to trust in feeling? It is only found in looking to Jesus and trusting in God. Don't depend on feeling within, but on a Savior without. "Have faith in God." Feelings fluctuate. God never changes. "He is the same yesterday, to-day, and forever." In him "there is no variableness, neither shadow of turning." What a God! unchanging. He loves us as much when we are tried and tempted, as when we are free from them. No matter what our circumstances are, God's love to us is the same. A steady, firm, simple faith in him will carry us through and above all sorts of circumstances. By faith we see the future joys of a never-ending eternity. Faith makes Jesus precious. It brings the kingdom nigh. It is the mainspring to all our actions. "Have faith in God." Trust in him. "In the Lord Jehovah is everlasting strength." Faith is the tower of strength. O "let us lay aside every weight, and the sin that doth so easily beset us, and let us run with patience the race that is set before us, looking unto Jesus, the author and finisher of our faith." Yes, look to him; trust him, always, under all circumstances—when tempted, when afflicted, when sick, when poor, when forsaken, when dying; always look to him. "Abandon thyself to him, as absolutely as possible, and continue to do so to thy latest breath, and he will never desert thee," but will be with thee unto the end. "Trust in the Lord." "Have faith in God." May this ever be your motto, till Christ the Lord shall come; and then faith will be turned to sight.

Worcester, Mass.

Confidence is the companion of success.

38 When Jesus Comes.

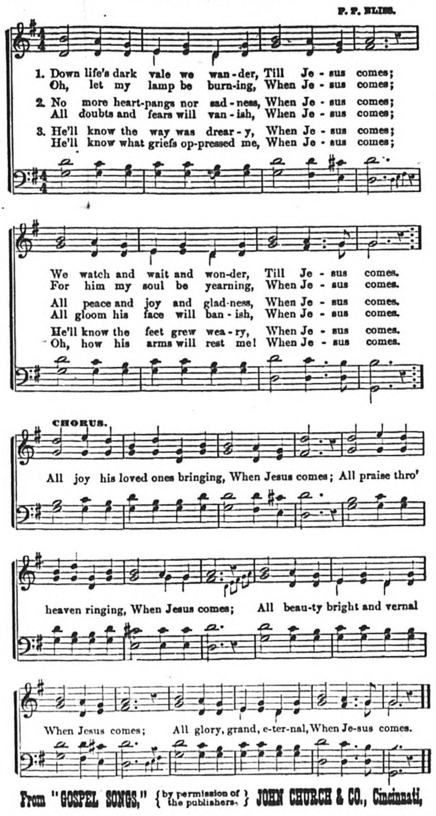
P. P. BLISS.



From "GOSPEL SONGS," {by permission of the publishers.} JOHN CHURCH & CO., Cincinnati,

THE REVOLVING LIGHT OF PROPHECY.

Standing once by the sea coast on a dark cloudy night, and looking far away in the distance, I noticed a very brilliant light, which seemed to be in motion. Having never seen anything of the kind before, I inquired of a sailor what it meant? Said he, "That is a revolving light, and is placed there to guide the mariners who are constantly going out and coming into the harbor. There are many rocks and dangerous places along the coast, and vessels sometimes run upon them and are wrecked. This light, like many others along the sea coast, is erected in an elevated position, and can be seen at a distance. Those who are accustomed to following the sea, are well acquainted with it, and know just where they are whenever they see it."

But this revolving light brings to my mind another light to which I must briefly allude. It is the light of prophecy. This world is a dark and stormy place, like the great ocean. Christians are sometimes compared to mariners, and their journey to the New Jerusalem like a voyage over the great and perilous water. They are continually surrounded with dangers, but more especially as they near the heavenly harbor. Thus it reads on the chart: "In the last days perilous times shall come." But God has hung out a revolving light, which, to the believer, is a token of safety and of joy. Let Peter describe it: "We have also a more sure word of prophecy, whereunto ye do well that ye take heed, as unto a light that shineth in a dark place, until the day dawn." (2 Pet. 19.) What day does he refer to? Evidently the day of final deliverance. The day when the christian mariner shall furl his sails, and cast anchor in the heavenly port.

As the Government has caused the channels along the sea coast to be marked with buoys, light-ships, and light-houses, that seamen may know where they are, and how to sail from one port to another in safety; so the Ruler of the universe has caused the great events in the world's history to be marked in prophecy, that his church may know her whereabouts on the great ocean of time, and her proximity to the holy city.

Prophecy is history written in advance. In the book of Daniel and Revelation are a number of prophecies, which point out very clearly the great revolutions that were to take place in earthly governments, from the days of Babylon, down to the time when God should set up an everlasting kingdom under the whole heavens. By carefully studying these prophetic Scriptures, and comparing them with history, which shows their fulfillment, the christian may be able to identify his position.

Where are we? Do we see the light shining which indicates our nearness to the eternal harbor? Are we discerning the signs of the times? Can the faithful watchmen give us meat in due season? Take a glance around the world. Look over into Europe. See the political upheavals. The nations seem to be seething and tossing like ocean in a storm. Strife and divisions abound. Crime is on the increase. Statesmen are appalled. Warlike preparations are being made. Nations are angry. Earth seems to be visited with the judgments of heaven. Earthquakes, tidal waves, floods, flames, famine, pestilences, sweep over the land. The professed church is in a fearfully backslidden condition. Pride, formality, unbelief, oppression, licentiousness, covetousness, and pleasure seeking are the order of the day.

Where are we? What does this state of things mean? Can any one give us light? Let us turn to the language of the Savior. In the twenty-first of Luke, we find a prophecy which shines as a light in a dark place. He says, "There shall be signs in the sun, and in the moon, and in the stars, and upon earth distress of nations, with perplexity; the sea and the waves roaring; men's hearts failing them for fear, and for looking after those things which are coming on the earth; for the powers of heaven shall be shaken. And they shall see the Son of man coming in a cloud with power and great glory." How are these things to affect the christian? What is he to understand by them? "And when these things begin to come to pass, then look up, and lift up your heads; for your redemption draweth nigh."

Is it not joyful news to know that we are nearing home? Does not the sailor rejoice when he passes the last light-house on his homeward voyage? catches the land breezes, and sees the hills of his native country? How greatly then ought we to rejoice in the rapid approach of the second coming of Christ.—Signs of our Times.

WHEREFORE DIDST THOU DOUBT?

When Peter "saw the winds boisterous, he was afraid; and beginning to sink, he cried, saying, Lord, save me, and immediately Jesus stretched forth his hand and said unto him, "O thou of little faith, wherefore didst thou doubt?"

How many sink as they walk the sea to Jesus. There is a young man who ventured out on the sea of time to meet the only one that could save him. He had not gone far, when he began to be afraid, and instead of looking to Jesus for the needed help, looks at the boisterous waves of earthly opposition. Old associates shun his society, and the remembrances of pleasing self indulgences flash across his mind like lightning. He refuses to renounce the vain pomp and glory of the world, and look to Jesus for a full, present, and complete salvation from all sin, both inward and outward, and as a matter of course he must sink.

Another starts to meet Jesus, and the waves of intemperance roll angrily all around him. Early in life he became infatuated with the intoxicating cup. He spent his substance in riotous living, serving the god of wine, until he became drenched in all manner of vice and crime. He has exhausted all such helps, as signing the pledge, etc., and at last, just as he is about to fill a drunkard's grave, is induced to fly to Christ as the last and only hope of deliverance, being fully assured by his friends and the word of God that Christ is an all-sufficient Savior; he repents of his sins and finds peace in believing on the Lord Jesus Christ. He is now a new creature in Christ Jesus, and with a firm step, starts out on the sea to meet him. The hours and days glide sweetly by, and he believes himself more than conqueror. But the fervor of his first love is soon hushed amid the bustle and hurry of business life, and he is soon surprised at the serpent-like appearance of his former lusts crawling before his spiritual vision. These, overpowered by the grace of God, now come forth in all their hideous forms, to enslave their victim and assert their rights again.

He stands aghast, filled with astonishment at the return of those lusts that he in all confidence thought had been banished forever from his heart. The first thing that the enemy presents is that he was never truly and solemnly converted to God, Here unbelief begins to assert its claims. But he is not to be thus deceived, for he remembers that he was powerfully blessed, and that the things he once loved he now hates. And he is also fully persuaded that he has not backslidden, and is astonished beyond neasure, when he discoveres, by the light of regeneration, that the same lust that had well nigh damned him before his conversion was still in his heart, stunned by the electric shock of the Holy Ghost, and there were no signs that it would ever return again.

He now discovers that what he sought for and obtained, was pardon for past sins and transgressions. His prayer was "Lord, save or I perish." And now he realizes that what he needs to save him from being ensnared through these lusts again, is their entire extermination, or sanctification. This is a necessary consequence, and he is either led to cry out, "Create in me a clean heart, O God, and renew a right spirit within me," or else he loses confidence in the power of Christ to save him, and sinks as he walks the sea to Jesus.

O how important that all young converts should be well established in this doctrine, and be prepared for coming emergencies. The business man that foresees the coming financial crash, meets it with a firm step. The traveler who has been faithfully apprized of the danger on his way, prepares to meet his enemy. And is it not our duty, as bearers of the sacred vessels of the Lord, to be particular in indoctrinating our young converts, and show them how to guard themselves against this common foe?

Brethren, let us not take the responsibility of generalizing with our converts at this dangerous point, but keep the doctrines of the Bible before them, "so that we may present every man perfect in Christ Jesus," and that those under our charge may not sink as they walk the sea to Jesus.—Christian Standard.

"IF JESUS LEADS ME THERE."

Jesus never misleads, or carelessly leads a soul that seeks his guidance. If there are conflicts, temptations, trials in the way, when we reach them, led by the divine hand, we shall wonder that they so affrighted us. Daniel's night with the lions was undoubtedly a happy one.

Many look with eager desire at the blessing of holiness, but the crosses they see, or fancy they do, frighten them back into the old wilderness route. With one, it is duties in the family; with another, it is personal effort to save souls, or social duty in the prayermeeting, or they fear if they place all the loved ones, around whom the heart clings, on the altar, they will be taken from them; and so in anticipation of what might be the furnace fire they would have to endure, if the offering was made without reserve, they suffer more than they would if all they feared came upon them, and the blessing of God was theirs all the way through.

But the compassionate Savior does not delight to lead those who follow him with single eye, in hard ways. If he wishes a vessel for some peculiarly honorable service, it may have to be submitted to processes that the meaner one escapes; but we are quite as likely to spend much of our time in green pastures and beside still waters, when we go there willingly, upon the first invitation, as we shall be if we wait to be driven there, our foolish hearts fearing evil lies before us.

If we would but trust him, who is most worthy of our confidence, how our lives would be filled with songs of praise, even in furnace fires, or in the face of our enemies; and often where we expected conflict, we would find the sword of our foe sheathed, and his battalions withdrawn; and so, instead of the noise of battle, we might sit down in a garden of spices, with our beloved. The heart where sin is, is full of alarms. The land of holiness is a land of peace. The dwellers there ask not concerning their own, or the enemy's strength, so long as they know they have a Captain that never lost a battle.—Sel. by May P. Burbank, Biddeford, Me.

IMPORTANT QUESTION.

R. B. CURRIER.

How can I serve God to the best advantage? This question has been upon my mind for some time past. That it is an important one, no Christian can doubt; but how to answer it is the question. God chooses human instrumentalities for the accomplishment of his purposes. He uses man to bring man back to himself, and to instruct him in the way of truth and righteousness. God has no waste timber. He uses the work of his creation for its best good and his own glory. How beautiful the thought that God should deign to fill men's hearts with his Holy Spirit, and use them for his glory here, and promise them not only eternal life, but an exaltation to the position of equality with Jesus, "our Elder Brother."

Now, to the thoroughly devoted christian comes the question, in view of what God has promised and done for him, Lord, how can I serve thee to the best advantage? There is but one way that I know how to answer it; and that is, First, an entire and unreserved consecration to God. Second, pray, Lord, what wilt thou have ME to do? Third, when we find out, do it, whatever the cost may be. No matter in what position in life it may place us; remember, that when called of God to labor, it is a "high calling." Do it heartily, lovingly, cheerfully, trusting in Jesus for help. We are not all called to work on the same line, but, thank God, the lines all run to the one grand centre; and if we tread the path patiently and faithfully, we shall come to the point in due time.

"All for Jesus, all for Jesus,
All my being's ransomed powers,
All my thoughts, and words, and doings,
All my days and all my hours.
Let my hands perform his bidding,
Let my feet run in his ways;
Let my eyes see Jesus only;
Let my lips speak for his praise."

THE CHRISTIANS.

GEO. THOMSON.

What constitutes a christian? This may seem at first sight a simple question, and one very easily answered. And so it is in the light of God's word. But in view of the multitude of theories, creeds, and interpretations of scripture, it is not quite so easy.

A christian is a disciple of Christ. A disciple is a learner, or pupil. "If any man will be my disciple, let him deny himself, take up his cross and follow me." We cannot follow the Savior as his first disciples did, nor is it expected of us. They gave up their daily avocations, and became his constant companions. But we can follow him as learners, taking him as our teacher and exemplar in all things. If we follow him, it is because we love him. If we love him, we will keep his commandments. If we keep his commandments, we will imbibe his spirit. "If any man have not the spirit of Christ, he is none of his."

Now, if I understand aright, such an one is a christian, a saint, whether you call him justified or sanctified. If he has the spirit of Christ, he cannot improve on that (only in degree or measure); if he has not the spirit of Christ, he is no Christian.

Now this appears to be the plain scriptural statement of the case, divested of all theological circumlocution and ambiguity. We must keep this idea of disciples (learners) constantly before our minds, for we shall never get beyond this, in the present life, if we do in the future. Look at the terms of the great commission. "Go ye into all the world . . . and make disciples" (learners). Again, Jesus says, "Learn of me, for I am meek and lowly of heart." Do we not err when we use the terms "fully saved," "perfect salvation," as applicable to present experience? Should we not rather say with the poet—

"Insatiate to this spring I fly,
I drink, and yet am ever dry."

The apostle Paul was certainly a consecrated man, yet at no period during his eventful career, till about to lay down his life, could he say, "I have finished my course." But, methinks, I hear one say, "You are trying to frame an argument against sanctification." Not at all. I disclaim any such purpose. I love the doctrine of holiness; it is precious to my poor heart. Without it none can enter the blessed kingdom, and I am glad of it. It is a Bible doctrine; so is repentance, justification by faith, baptism, etc. etc. But I do wish to argue against the mistaken policy of deifying one doctrine, to the detriment of others equally as essential. It is rather a delicate matter for one to take exceptions to this holiness movement, or rather to the wrong features of the movement, from the fact that many oppose it in a rash and inconsiderate manner, reasoning to the opposite extreme and denying the doctrine entirely. But such are mistaken as the other extremists, while both may be honest and sincere.

While I am satisfied that the standard of purity and Bible holiness cannot be placed too high, I am also convinced that there is a possibility of becoming sectarian or dogmatic by making any one doctrine a speciality. Let us candidly inquire if it would not be as consistent to hold special meetings and conventions for Repentance, Faith, Baptism, Works of Righteousness*, etc., as for Holiness. "What God hath joined together, let no man put asunder." I think the apostolic plan was to blend all together in one harmonious compact, all bound together with love. There are doctrines which may and do have precedence, but none should have preference.

We think if we have the mind of the Spir[illegible] it concerning present truth, or "meat in du[illegible] season," that the second coming of Chris[illegible] should have the precedence, being the tru[illegible] motive to repentance. So, then, the salva[illegible]tion of sinners is of the first importance, an[illegible] any movement that would have a tendenc[illegible] to make it secondary, must in so far b[illegible] wrong.

Let us stop a moment and reflect. Is [illegible] not barely possible that there is a degree [illegible] selfishness in this exclusive holiness move[illegible]ment?

It is very pleasant to feel good; it is ver[illegible] gratifying; and it is the christian's privileg[illegible] to rejoice continually, even in tribulatio[illegible] Our dear Master has told us that in th[illegible] world we should have tribulation, but [illegible] him peace. O, blessed peace!

I presume that my religious experien[illegible] has not been peculiar, and it has ever bee[illegible] about as follows:—Just in proportion as [illegible] have been zealous and devoted in the servi[illegible] of my Master, co-operating with my fello[illegible] servants in the great work of human redem[illegible]tion, just in that proportion have I enjoy[illegible] purity and peace, and that without speci[illegible] seeking for those blessings. Satan don't g[illegible] much work out of an active christian. A[illegible] I have ever realized that a prompt obedien[illegible] on my part never fails to bring every need[illegible] blessing to my trusting heart. "This is t[illegible] Lord's doings, and it is marvelous in o[illegible] eyes." The sentiment embraced in the poe[illegible] lines—

"Nothing, either great or small, Remains for me to do,"

has wrought more harm, we fear, than goo[illegible] Why is it we hear the significant question [illegible] late, Why do we have so few conversions [illegible] our great meetings, compared with form[illegible] years? Who likes to risk an answer, wh[illegible] all agree that we should expect m[illegible] "Watchman, what of the night?" "Watc[illegible]man, what of the night?"

Prairie du Sac, Wis., Oct. 3rd.

* Brotherly love.

"How wonderfully," says an ancient w[illegible]ter, "does the new-born soul differ from [illegible] former self! He liveth a new life; he wal[illegible]eth in a new way; his principles are ne[illegible] his practices are new; his projects are ne[illegible] all is new. He ravels out all he had wov[illegible] before, and employs himself wholly ab[illegible] another work."

The World's Crisis
AND
SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

Boston, Wednesday, Oct. 20, 1875.

TAKE NOTICE.

All subscriptions for the "CRISIS," issued from this time forward, are at the rate of

$2.25 a year, payable IN ADVANCE.

POSTAGE FREE TO ALL within the United States, the Canadas, and the British Provinces.

Please Remember!

All remittances to this office, in the form of Drafts, Bank Checks, and Postal Money-Orders, should be made payable to the Business Agent, GEO. T. ADAMS.

THOSE who send articles for the "CRISIS," should direct them to the "EDITORS OF WORLD'S CRISIS," Boston, Mass.

PLEASE READ, REMEMBER, AND ACT ACCORDINGLY.

The brethren, sisters, friends—one and all—whoever may write to this office, sending articles for insertion in the Crisis, or subscriptions for the same, notices, appointments, reports, or orders for papers, books, tracts, or anything of the kind, will confer a favor and do the right way by directing their letters in either one of the following ways:—

"EDITORS OF WORLD'S CRISIS, Boston, Mass."

"WORLD'S CRISIS, Boston, Mass.," or

GEO. T. ADAMS, Agent, Boston, Mass.

Those who send articles for the Young Pilgrim should address—

"EDITOR YOUNG PILGRIM, Boston, Mass."

In no case address letters on business connected with the papers, or office, to any of the clerks, compositors, or helps in this office.

AGENT.

HEREAFTER address me at BOSTON, MASS. All private letters should be marked "personal." MILES GRANT.

BRO. MOODY has finally decided to commence meetings first in Philadelphia, instead of Brooklyn. The people in B. are quite disappointed. M. G.

THE CHRISTIAN AT WORK is a live Christian weekly paper of twenty large quarto pages, ably conducted and edited by Bro. De Witt Talmage, 102 Chambers St., New York. Price $3. a year. M. G.

A SUGGESTION.—When persons write letters for the Crisis, we wish they would so sign their names that we shall be able to tell whether it is a Bro. or Sr. who is writing; that we may place a correct heading to the letter. M. G.

IF any of our readers, who have not ordered it, should receive the Crisis for a few weeks, they may understand it is sent by some friend. If pleased with it, it is hoped that, after two or three months, they will conclude to become permanent subscribers. M. G.

CORRECTION.—In the article on the "Constitutional Amendments," in the last paragraph before the "Note," instead of reading "We believe this proposed system is the most "important," read "the most impartial, the most economical, the most easily executed, the best guarded," etc. M. G.

SPEECH BY PROXY.—We omitted one item in the proposed "Amendments to the A. C. A. Constitution," which we now offer: Any church voting by proxy can select any member of the Conference to speak for them on any specified subject. This will give every church the power of speaking, as well as voting, by proxy. M. G.

BRIGHT OMENS.—There is a continual increase of evidence that a bold, pure Christianity is coming to the front, and that cold formalism must soon freeze up entirely, or be warmed into life and earnest activity. Protestantism, as a system, has been sinking down for years, until it had reached zero point, where faith is changed to doubt, or to decided infidelity. Now, there is a great waking up on the part of many, accompanied by the spirit of holy union in Christ, a love for the coming of Jesus, and a belief that his advent is near at hand. Praise the Lord. M. G.

BROOKLYN.—Our meetings in the De Kalb Avenue M. E. Church, Brooklyn, N. Y., continue to increase in interest. Some have been converted, and others are seeking the Lord. We have given six discourses on the great chart to large and attentive audiences that seemed delighted with the prophetic Scriptures, showing we are truly near the great day of the Lord. So far as we can learn, no opposition has been manifested by a single member of the church. Bro. Platt, the pastor, is well satisfied that we are near the second coming of Christ. Last evening (Wednesday, Oct. 13th), about one hundred came forward for prayers, most of whom were professors of religion, who are seeking a full preparation for "the marriage supper of the Lamb," at his coming. We purpose to continue our meetings about two weeks longer. Pray for us. M. G.

THE COMING STRUGGLE.—The evidence keeps increasing that indicates a sharp struggle between Catholics and Protestants, in this country. A feeling of hostility is rising up on either side, that is very decided. Each feels that the time is near when the question of supremacy must be settled. We have no doubts as to the issue. The days of the "Little Horn" are numbered, and about expired, but it will not step down and out with a peaceful, low bow. Its death struggle will be terrible, its plagues awful and agonizing. The Roman "woman" is about to drink from the wine cup containing her death plagues. When her final burning comes, the martyrs are to be raised from the dead, and see the smoke of her burning, and then go to "the marriage supper of the Lamb."

Is the reader ready to meet Jesus? Is the heart pure? Are you clothed with the righteousness of Christ, and free from condemnation? If so, lift up your head and rejoice. M. G.

COMING OF THE LORD.—There is a steadily increasing interest among the churches in the coming of the Lord. Quite a number of ministers are beginning to speak out boldly on the subject. We clipped the following notices from the New York Sunday Herald, of Oct. 10th:

"The hope of the instant coming of our Lord" will be inspired and strengthened this evening in the Catholic apostolic church."

"The pastor of Mount Zion will ask, 'Has the time come for sounding the last trumpet and finishing the mystery of God' in the University chapel, this afternoon."

"Pure religion' and 'the time of Christ's coming and the end of the world,' will be discussed to-day in the Seventeenth street Methodist church, by Rev. J. H. Lightbourn." M. G.

SACRIFICE.—In Psalm 51: 5 we read: "Gather my saints together unto me; those that have made a covenant with me by sacrifice." Those who make a sacrifice for the cause of Christ, will find special promises in the Bible for their comfort. We wish to press upon our readers the importance of sending the Crisis to those who have it not, and thus help them to see the glorious truths that are causing thousands to rejoice in the hope of soon seeing our blessed Savior. Let every one take a share in the three months' list. A little self-denial will save fifty cents with which to send the paper to some hungry soul. Now is the time. Others can send to ten, twenty, thirty, or a hundred. Let every minister be supplied. Do not forget the poor. M. G.

BRO. MOODY.—Great interest is manifested in the visit of Brn. Moody and Sankey to Brooklyn, who are expected the 24th of this month. There is a demand for the plain, common-sense talk on religious subjects so peculiar to Bro. Moody. People are tired of forms, ceremonies, and flowery pulpit essays. They call for something real. They are tired of shams. The veneering of popular religion is about worn off, and now there is felt need of a thorough heart work, that makes a man a "new creature" in Christ Jesus;—a religion that leads one to be perfectly honest in all his deal, causing him to keep all his promises, be kind in all his social relations, and to labor for the salvation of others;—a live, working religion, that is the same every day in the week, and in all situations. M. G.

"AMERICA FOR ROME," seems to be the Catholic motto at present. Great efforts are being made by the Catholics to secure the controlling power in this country. They have devised shrewd plans to get the colored population in the south, and now they are after the Indians, as shown by the following:

"Washington, Oct. 10th. A movement looking to an increase of the means for promoting the welfare of the Indians has recently been inaugurated among influential clergymen of the Catholic church, and it was announced from the pulpit of St. Aloysius' church that the formation of the Ladies' Catholic Indian Missionary Society was contemplated for the purpose of raising funds for the support of the missionaries and the establishment of a fund to be applied to the evangelization of the red men. The appeal will be addressed to every Catholic clergyman in the United States to form a parish society, and to collect annually a small amount and forward it to the central society, which is to have its headquarters in Washington." M. G.

RATHER GLOOMY.—We clip the following from a New York paper:

"WALL STREET RUMORS.

How can you have such a fearful smoke without some fire? The very air is full of panic! Guion begs the Stock Exchange to hunt down the Rumor Committee. He says he is solvent. Does a virtuous woman go around with a placard saying, "I am virtuous?" Is a solvent merchant afraid of any one saying he is going to fail? The fact is, all these steamship lines are bankrupt. They have sunk ten millions the last two years. There are four hundred steamships laid up in the Liverpool docks. Every one of these English steamers drop $30,000 every voyage! Our factories are as insolvent as our railways, merchants and bankers. Lake Shore is now seven per cent. less than in the Jay Cooke panic. Gould and Vanderbuilt are bursting the whole rotten system. The first houses to fail will be Monroe, Drexel, Morton, Brown, Belmont, and all those who draw accommodation bills on England. Back will come our bonds; down will go prices! Four National banks will break; then forty, then twenty-three hundred! Then down tumbles the whole rotten concern of Church and State! Who wonders at the rumors that pass from mouth to mouth? Repudiation of all debt fills the financial atmosphere."

To the men of the world, who have no hope in Christ, the future must look gloomy indeed; but to the devoted christian the outlook is very encouragimg. Deliverance is rapidly approaching. M. G.

SPIRITUALISM AND DEMONISM.

The entire system of Spiritualism is satanic in its tendencies. It invariably leads its votaries away from Christ, God and the Bible. Thousands upon thousands have been turned by it into infidelity, free love, and other wicked things. Satan is its founder, and his spirit, with that of his associate demons, its moving power. Its entire influence is antichristian. Yesterday (Oct. 5th) an intelligent gentleman called on us at Bro. Platt's, in Brooklyn, saying he had been a medium, and had been led by the spirits to do many wicked deeds, especially of a licentious character. He said he was deeply anxious to get free from the control of the demoniacal power, for he had become convinced it was satanic in its nature.

He was in the church the night before, to hear a lecture on the great chart, and had become deeply interested, so much so that he had decided to become a christian, if he could get free from the power of the demons who had controlled him. We told him we knew of but one way out of the snare, and that was by the power of Christ in answer to prayer. We then inquired if he was ready to become a follower of Christ, and obey him, so far as duty was made plain? He gave a prompt affirmative answer. We then invited him to unite with us in prayer, which he did readily, and was blest, and we expect to baptize him to-morrow. M. G.

A BEAUTIFUL FLOWER.

We called on Bro. T. De Witt Talmage, New York, Oct. 11th, and were shown a very delicate and beautiful flower, called the "Flower of the Holy Ghost." It is the only one we ever saw. The following is Bro. Talmage's own description of it, as given in the Christian at Work:

"One of our parishoners sets upon our table this morning a floral creation that thrills through and through us. It is the 'Flower of the Holy Ghost,' brought hither from the Isthmus of Panama. We never saw anything more tenderly beautiful. It is twice the size of an orange blossom, and white as the snow on the morning of its descent, its aroma suggestive of Paradise. As your eye walks in under the dome of alabaster you see a dove's head a little bowed, and with tinged beak; wings spread as if descending, the plumage seemingly sprinkled with coagulated blood. Underneath it is a crown, as though the dove had dropped it. To our eye the flower is an evangel. It seems as if it must be a blossom from the Tree of Life, shaken over the wall by a breeze from heaven. Here is the dove of the eternal Spirit descending, on its wing the blood of redemption to apply to the soul, which application being made, here is the crown of pardon and life and heaven to be set upon the brow. The flower comes from a warmer climate, and we wrap it up in cotton, and place it in a box. To-day or to-morrow it will die, but neither its delicate fragrance nor its divine architecture can be forgotten. Some flowers are typical of pride, of human affection, or remembrance; but this stands in none of those groups." M. G.

NEW SUBSCRIBERS.

Have you obtained any new subscribers? Have you sent on the money and names of any for the three months' list? If not, lend a helping hand at once. Let us make a grand rally, and help spread the truth in all directions. The powers of darkness are thoroughly awake. Christians, especially those looking for the speedy coming of Jesus, should not be less in earnest than the enemies of Christ. The literature of darkness is flying in all directions. Satan knows the power of the press, and is turning it, as far as possible, to advance his own purposes and plans.

Now is the time for every minister who is in sympathy with the evidences that show Jesus is coming soon, to gird on "the whole armor of God," and to do all in his power to reach the unprepared, and to awaken a new interest in these things among all professors of the christian religion.

To do this, we think one of the best means is to introduce "our paper" into as many families as possible. Let us all make a united effort to obtain many new subscribers during the next three months. In doing this, it may result in leading many to prepare to meet Jesus, who would have been found sleeping, had it not been for what they read in the Crisis. There is no time to be lost. We are rapidly approaching the end of the present dispensation, the coming of Christ, the resurrection of the dead, and the setting up of the ever lasting kingdom. Spread the news! M. G.

THE SCHOOL QUESTION.

When grave questions are beginning to be agitated, produced by strong currents of social influences designed and tending to revolutionize government, those subjects always manifest themselves in speeches and documents which exhibit the prospects and dangers rising in the future.

It has been known in this country for a number of years that the leaders of the Catholic church have instituted plans by which they design to overthrow our free institutions, and especially our free schools, and establish such institutions and schools as their infallible Head has been in the habit of establishing and sustaining in the Catholic countries in Europe, through the dark and bloody ages. Modern progress, in political liberty and literary enlightenment, has caused the Jesuitical leaders to wail and lament the loss of their priestly power over ignorant and superstitious people. True literary knowledge always destroys the bigotry of religious ignorance, so that an education, unalloyed with priestly superstition, robs those leaders of nearly all their power to tax and enslave the masses of the people.

From this stand-point they see the necessity of changing the mode of educating the rising generation, so as to restore confidence in the vagaries of their theological teaching, which they are now rapidly losing.

To accomplish this object they are making gigantic efforts to break up the system of free or unsectarian schools, so as to introduce to the children's minds, when they most easily receive impressions and most firmly retain them, all the blind and incredible superstitious ideas which shaded the world through the dark ages.

They have commenced this diabolical work in this country with great zeal and combined effort. They represent our school system as being irreligious, demoralizing and damnable in its tendencies. They attempt to drive the Bible from the school-room, and suffer no teachers to instruct their children who are not trained by the priests, to teach that, and only that, which their infallible head—the Pope—shall direct. This is putting an important branch of our government under the control of a foreign ruler.

The question now properly comes before the American people, Will they thus submit to have a branch of their government revolutionized and controlled by a foreign lord, from whose bloody persecutions our fathers fled to find a land of freedom safe from the galling yoke of a priestly dictation?

We are sincerely glad to find that the secret programme of these designing sons of the old harlot, and their satanic operations to ensnare the people, are being developed and discussed, so that a proper and perhaps timely resistance may be inaugurated. That the Roman Church has determined to regain her lost power and dominion, and restore the status of her ecclesiastical and political associations to the positions they occupied when she shrouded the world in the gloom of night, and her kings bathed their swords in the blood of helpless innocence and saintly purity, we have not a doubt. She has laid her iron hand upon the wealth and freedom of the nations, crushing free thought and speech, and driving into exile and upon the fagot-pile the friends of Jesus. If she is not now lamenting her loss of power to do those things, let her tell what she has lost that she is bewailing and is laboring to restore.

Her recent bloody acts in butchering Protestants, while peaceably worshiping God in Mexico and South America, demonstrates what they design and would do if they should obtain the power.

We are glad to learn that the eyes of some of our prominent rulers are being opened to see the importance of this Catholic movement, designed to regain their power over all parts of civil governments, and put under the direct supervision of the Pope, their legislative, executive, judicial, military, financial and educational departments.

This is exactly what they demand and are determined to accomplish. They have purposed to unite church and state again, putting the state under or in subordination to the Roman Church, so that a few priests can control all schools and social institutions. They despise free governments, and the diffusion among the people of general knowledge. Ignorance and superstitious fanaticism are the elements which they can use for the accomplishment of their satanic purposes.

President Grant recently expressed his sentiments, upon these great and momentous questions, in a speech delivered at a military reunion of the army of the Tennesee, at Des Moines, Ia. The Boston Globe reports him as saying, "To guard against a recurrence of those days, we must begin by guarding against every enemy preventing the prosperity of free Republican institutions. I do not bring into this assemblage politics, certainly not partisan politics, but it is a fair subject for the soldiers in their deliberations to consider what may be necessary to secure the prize for which they battled. The President urged the cultivation of an intelligence among the people in regard to political papers, and said if we are to have another contest in the near future of our national existence, I predict that the dividing line will not be Mason and Dixon's, but between patriotism and intelligence on one side, and superstition, ambition and ignorance on the other. On this Centennial year the work of strengthening the foundation of the structure begun by our forefathers a hundred years ago, at Lexington, should be begun. Let us all labor for the security of free thought, free speech, free press, pure morals, unfettered religious sentiments, and equal rights and privileges for all men, irrespective of nationality, color or religion. Encourage free schools, and resolve that not one dollar appropriated to them shall be applied to the support of any sectarian schools; resolve that neither State nor nation shall support institutions save those where every child in the land may get a common school education, unmixed with atheistic, pagan or sectarian teachings. Leave the matter of religion to the family altar; keep the Church forever separate. With these safeguards I believe the battles which created the Army of the Tennesee will not have been fought in vain. The President's speech was greeted with applause, which was repeated again and again."

The President unequivocally expresses his conviction that the next national struggle in this country will be a religious one, and his language implies that he understands it will be between Catholicism and free institutions. It is commencing in an effort to appropriate school funds to the support of "sectarian schools."

These miserable, sectarian principles are the same which have mantled the world in darkness, bound the millions in chains, and soaked the soil with martyrs' blood.

The efforts now being put forth here to crush political independence by religious dictation is also being manifested among all the nations of Europe, and in all the civilized world. We believe these antagonisms will ripen into a terribly bloody conflict, and end in the utter destruction of the Apocalyptic Babylon, the everlasting overthrow of all anti-christian powers, and the establishment of Christ's glorious kingdom.

Let all the friends of Jesus carefully watch the signs of the times, by marking well the progress of the school question and every movement tending to restore the former status of the Papacy. This is the great prophetic pivot on which the world is now balanced, and is swinging with increased forces, threatening to plunge it immediately into the vortex of perdition. God help us to cling to Christ, that when the world sinks under the weight of its insupportable curse, we may rise to peerage with angels and citizenship in the kingdom of God. J. C.

BLASPHEMOUS PAPER.

We have just been examining the most blasphemous paper we ever saw, and doubt if its equal ever existed before in the history of the world. It is is entitled, "The Holy Ghost." This number is dated, "Heaven, Oct. 3d, 1875." The editor says: "It will be seen . . . our present editorial sanctum is located on the right hand side of the throne of heaven." In a note to O. B. Frothingham, he says: "Go on, Bro. Frothingham, and the Holy Ghost will help you; but you must discontinue that ridiculous farce of offering up prayer. You only catch the ears of a few of the superstitious by this device, and the others laugh at your inconsistency. The ruse is too thin, and does not pay; give it up; be thoroughly candid, and true to your convictions."

When speaking of Christ, he says: "He was a great fraud." When speaking of the Bible, he says: "When the people of this world can treat all subjects affecting the lives and happiness of the race without caring the snaps of their fingers for what the Bible says about it, they will have made an immense stride towards ridding the world of those evils that destroy health and existence."

When speaking of God, he says: "Who could love such a fiend incarnate as God is painted in the Bible? What a hell hound he must have been to sacrifice his only Son."

When speaking of the Holy Ghost, he says: "Tom Paine believed in one God; we don't believe in any. . . . We only break up the church monopoly of the Holy Ghost, and make the old cuss walk among men."

We will not give further specimens. These are sufficient. M. G.

A. C. QUARTERLY CONFEEENCE.

The above named meeting met at Lawrence, Mass., commencing Oct. 7th, as announced. Eld. J. Couch was present, and preached to us from 1 Cor. 15: 5—"Death is swallowed up in victory." He said he did not intend to preach a funeral sermon, but thought the text very significant. He assured us that, as the words in the text were the words of God, certain victory would be ours. Although death has reigned for almost six thousand years, it would be conquered. The victory over death would be complete and final. To be "swallowed up" is to be annihilated, done away, put down, so completely destroyed as never more to arise. The evidence of this is abundant, and we need only to go back to the days of Jesus, and find that he has power, in a look, in a touch, in a word, to heal all manner of diseases. His power is further manifested when at the grave of Lazarus he by a word rolled back the bolt, and opened the grave, and raised him who had been conquered to life again. The time of the final victory would be when Jesus comes; and we have evident token of the proximity of that event. The speaker interspersed a number of beautiful illustrations to prove our position in relation to this great event. We give but one:—

A man starts on a journey through a piece of woods. He is weary and desires rest. He is told upon inquiry that the first mile is all that could be desired for beauty, but as he advances the way will become rougher; and near the end, very near it, there will be pitfalls, mud-holes, thorns, swamps, and at the very close the way will be almost impassable; but when he gets over this, he will find a place of rest, and all that is desirable. What do you think the speaker would desire most? It would be the very hardest of the road, because he knows rest is almost gained. So should it be with us, and when we reach the thickest dangers we are strengthened. Why? Because we know positively that we are soon to enjoy rest and and all that is desirable.

Oct. 8th, at 10 A. M., there was a social service. This was a blessed season to all present. God by his Spirit met with us, and we were blessed abundantly.

Half-past two P. M. Eld. Leavitt of Haverhill preached a good practical sermon from 1 Chron. 12: 32—"And of the children of Issachar, which were men that had understanding of the times, to know what Israel ought to do; the heads of them were two hundred; and all their brethren were at their command." He spoke of the governments of earth, and said naturally men desired the reins of government. He also called our attention to the Israelites,—how God bore with them, and gave them judges and kings. He spoke of the battle between David the shepherd boy and the giant, proving thereby that by simple trust in Israel's God we his children could conquer in our day. He made a number of fine points, which were applied practically.

7½ P. M. Eld. Batchelor delivered a sermon founded on 1 Thess. 5: 8—"But let us, who are of the day, be sober, putting on the breastplate of faith and love; and for an helmet the hope of salvation." The sermon was one of interest, and well calculated to move people. Solemnity prevailed while the speaker faithfully and earnestly pleaded with sinners to be reconciled to God; he felt the judgment near, and entreated men and women to make haste in the matter.

Saturday, Oct. 9th. There was a social meeting at 10 A. M. It was well attended; the feeling was good, and truly we could say we enjoyed a heavenly sitting together with Christ. There were a number of the preaching Brn. present part of the day, who left in the P. M. for their several appointments. At 2½ P. M., Eld. Stockman talked (as he termed it,) a little while about the man who had the palsy and whom Jesus healed. He said it was not only the palsy that he removed, but he said, "Thy sins are forgiven thee." This made a complete cure, because sin was the cause of all disease and distress. The remarks throughout were truly interesting. Brn. Couch and Phetteplace made timely and interesting remarks.

7½ P. M. Eld. Phetteplace delivered a discourse founded on James 1: 17—"Every good gift and every perfect gift is from above, and cometh down from the Father of lights, with whom is no variableness, neither shadow of turning." He said that man had nothing of his own, but was entirely dependent upon God. Man owns nothing, but is dependent on the sun, the rain, the dew, vegetation, the fruit, and in fact everything, for bread. We are dependent upon the air for the breath of life we breathe. One of God's great gifts was life. There are many things which prove God's goodness; but the giving of Christ proves his great love for humanity. Throughout the discourse the speaker advanced many beautiful and practical thoughts.

Sunday, Oct. 10th. Prayer-meeting at 9 A. M. was well attended and very interesting. At 10½ A. M., Eld. Couch preached a very interesting and powerful discourse founded on two texts in Eccl. 10: 14—"A man cannot tell what shall be." Dan. 2: 28—"But there is a God in heaven that revealeth secrets." He proved conclusively from the first part of his text the inability of man to determine anything in the beyond; but God could reveal secrets. He brought us to feel that we were very near the consummation. 2 P. M. He continued the subject, and proved what God had spoken concerning kingdoms, and said he believed we were very near the coming of Jesus. The congregation was large, and there was solemnity in all minds. 6½ P. M. We had a special revival service. This was a good season. Many spoke of the goodness of God, and one sinner rose for prayers. The meetings were all good. W. J. HALSE.

Lawrence, Mass., Oct. 14th.

THE TRACT FUND.

THE ADVENT CHRISTIAN PUBLICATION SOCIETY, at a meeting on Springfield camp-ground, August 11th, 1875, voted to raise Two Thousand Dollars for the free distribution of Tracts the ensuing year; and they invite the help and co-operation of all lovers of the Lord and of his truth, in the furtherance of the good cause. The times are ominous of coming events, and admonish us to diligence in the Master's work. The Lord is at the door, and what we do must be done quickly. Let the contributions be prompt, hearty, and liberal. The Lord will reward the liberal giver.

A. W. SIBLEY, Sec. Adv. Chris. Pub. Soc.

Remittances should be sent to the Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS, Boston, Mass., or they may be enclosed with remittances to the Crisis Office.

DONATIONS FOR THE TRACT FUND.

Previous acknowledgments	$88 72
Geo. E. Hooper	1.00
Mrs. Martha Becker	1.00

POOR FUND.

TO SEND THE "CRISIS" TO THE POOR.

Previous acknowledgments	$26 65

YOUNG PILGRIM FUND.

AMER. ADV. MISSION SOCIETY.

Donations are earnestly solicited, to enable this Society to send out missionaries, and other means, into the Southern States, and elsewhere, as the Lord may open the door, to proclaim "the glad tidings of the kingdom at hand"; and should be sent, as also payments of pledges made, to the

Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS,

P. O. Drawer 5002, Boston, Mass.

who will acknowledge the same in the columns of the Crisis.

Aug. 6th, 1875, and onward.

Previous acknowledgments	$1,115.73
Mrs. M. B. Cogswell (pledge paid	50.00
"Mission Money"	50.00
M. Sunderland (balance of pledge)	5 00

FOR THE POOR, ETC.

Previous acknowledgments	$7.00

TO SEND THE WORLD'S CRISIS

THREE MONTHS TO THOSE WHO DO NOT NOW RECEIVE IT.

The one who sends the money, will please name the person, or persons, to whom they wish the paper sent three months (50 cents per copy.)

Miles Grant (10 copies)	$5.00

THE WORK IN NORTH CAROLINA.

TO THE A. A. M. SOCIETY.

Dear Brethren:—My last report left me at Colletsville, N. C., Sept. 16th, I believe. On Friday, the 17th, I rested during the day and tried to preach at night. Nine came for prayer. Saturday, 18th, it rained so I did not expect any meeting, but at 11 A. M., several brethren and sisters came through a heavy shower, and we were very unexpectedly called for to go and speak to them. Sunday A. M., the people filled the large new house, and several stood outside, while I tried to show, by the aid of the chart kindly presented me by Bro. L. T. Cunningham, that the kingdom is near. At the close we went to John's River, where I buried four in baptism. At two P. M. lectured again from the chart. Over thirty came for prayer. Several old gray heads bowed who, it is said, never had started before. Thus we see that preaching God's love and the coming King will move men and women who never have been moved by hell-fire preaching. At the close five joined the church, to suffer reproach with the despised little band.

Monday, the 20th, went to Greasy Creek school-house; had a good time; sixteen forward for prayer. Spoke again in the evening, and twenty-nine came for prayer. I trust I spent the day to the glory of God, beside having a chill.

Tuesday, back to the church, where I tried to preach; then elected the officers for the church, and organized a Sabbath school. Three joined the church. We then went to the water, where I buried another one in baptism. We then returned to the church, where three others requested us to open the church doors and give them a chance to join before I left them. This makes forty-two members now in the church within nine days. We then gathered around the table to celebrate the Lord's Supper. I praise God that we had a most blessed season. It was the first time ever our people showed forth the death of our coming King in the State of North Carolina, and many seemed deeply impressed with the scene. A goodly number bowed for prayer, and one young husband, wife and sister were so earnestly seeking liberty in Jesus that they remained weeping, and I tried to pray with them after the people were dismissed. How strange it seems to me now, to be where I have to do all the talking and praying. Bro. Goodwin has faithfully spoken and prayed in the meeting. I labored hard to induce others to speak, but not having been accustomed to it they could not shoulder the cross. I could but compare it with campmeeting, where so many could be seen rising at the same time to speak for Jesus. But praise the Lord for the spiritual strength I received while among the dear brethren and sisters East. It seems that I am a new man religiously, and I never mean to stop struggling for a higher christianity in our little churches here. Pray for us.

Bro. D. D. Coffey and myself started very late in the afternoon (at the close of the blessed communion) to go to Blowing Rock, in Wautauga county, a distance of nearly twenty miles. I rode a horse, and Bro. Coffey and a sister (who happened to be going our road about half way) rode mules. The sister carried, on the little mule, a bolt of brown sheeting, thirty yards of calico and quite as much bleached domestic, besides a satchel of plates and a tin coffee pot. As it was very late, we rode in a fast gallop, and to my astonishment the sister kept up with us. I could hear her sycamore withe lashing the mule every few jumps. I wondered what some people would think to see us, who were not accustomed to horseback riding. We rode at this rate ten miles, and stopped with an old Bro. who had bitterly opposed us, but who treated us with great kindness.

Wednesday the 22nd, at 11 A. M., stopped and spoke in a small school-house on the roadside. Reached Blowing Rock at 4 P. M., and learned there was much opposition to the truth among the high priests, but the people were anxious to hear. A Baptist Bro. kindly opened his door, and I tried to preach. At the close, a man arose who spoke as follows, as nearly as I can recollect: "I would say a word, not against you, but in justification of you. I am an Episcopal clergyman, and think strange that people should call this heresy. We have heard of Jesus, and the resurrection. If that is heresy, what do your ministers preach here in Wautauga?"

A Baptist minister then arose and said: "We, the Baptist ministers, teach that the soul of man is somewhere, in a conscious state, between death and the resurrection, which our Bro. Cargile does not believe; he thinks the soul sleeps till the judgment."

The Episcopal clergyman then said: "Oh, I did not understand him, but if that is so he is wrong, for it is contrary to the Scriptures."

I then asked permission of the owner of the dwelling to say a word, who replied very kindly—"Go ahead! I am interested." I then told the two ministers that if they would produce one passage proving the man or any part of him conscious in death, I would pay them one hundred dollars. Every thing was suddenly silenced. I then proposed to meet them both in discussion next day. The Baptist said nothing, the Episcopalian refused, and we closed with good feeling. Thursday we spoke in an outhouse, kindly opened by the wife of a Baptist brother in his absence.

At night back again, where I met the two ministers the night before. The people gave the best attention, and being kindly invited I stayed over night with a Baptist minister (Bro. Nelson), who made us feel at home. Notwithstanding he with his amiable wife are Baptists, and hold to the Baptist faith, they treated us with great kindness, and showed that pure religion reaches beyond their own creed. I have not spent the time more pleasantly, among those who oppose me, since I have tried to preach.

Friday back to the workshop again, where I exhibited the chart, and tried to prove Jesus is near. At one o'clock I received a letter from my dear wife, telling me of sickness in our family. At two I mounted a horse, with my two valises under me in a large bag (in which I had carried them from John's River), and rode twenty-five miles that night. The same little friend, Finley Coffey, accompanied me; but he is now Bro. Finley, for he has given his young heart to Jesus, and I had buried him in John's River Saturday morning. We started and rode nearly ten miles before daylight. I was so uneasy about my sick family, we pushed on and reached Johnson City, Tenn., at three P. M., having made the quickest trip through the mountains ever made since the war.

Took train at 5 P. M., and Sunday A. M., at 7 o'clock, I had the pleasure of meeting dear wife and children; but my joy was mingled with sorrow when I saw our dear little babe, one year old, almost a lifeless skeleton, wasted by disease; but I prayed earnestly, and the Lord heard, and he is now gaining.

I have been home four days, and start to-night (Oct. 1st), at midnight, for my appointments in East Tennessee. I hope the dear saints will pray God to strengthen me. I found at least a dozen letters at home with the Macedonian cry, "Come." The harvest is great, and the laborers are few. Pray for us here. JOHN A. CARGILE.

Stevenson, Ala., Oct. 1st.

HOOSICK VALLEY CONFERENCE.

The H. V. Conference held its annual meeting with the church at Hoosick, N. Y., commencing Wednesday, Oct. 6th, 1875. The following members of the Conference were present: Preachers—H. K. Flagg, Dennis Sears, E. D. Kemp, C. W. Baker, R. Mosher, Wm. J. Blanchard, Mary L. Tower. Delegates—N. Robertson, Hoosick, N. Y.; R. Candlish, L. Burdett, Rutland, Vt.; E. Woodward, Hebron, N. Y.; F. Phelps, E. B. Granger, North Fort Ann, N. Y.; F. S. Wheelock, South Adams, Mass.

An interesting letter was received from Bro. A. A. Waite, who could not be present, as he was engaged in a protracted meeting in Sandy Hill, where the Lord was blessing his labors. Bro. R. L. Harrison sent in his resignation, which was reluctantly received.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year—President, H. K. Flagg. Vice President, R. Mosher. Secretary, R. Candlish. Treasurer, J. B. White. Ministerial Committee—R. Mosher, W. O. Higley, S. D. Hutchings. Tent Committee—A. A. Waite. Protracted Meeting Committee—H. K. Flagg. Tract Committee—Calvin Burdett, C. W. Baker, Wm. J. Blanchard, C. Lawton, Lyman Tower.

Brn. H. Munger of the Mass. State Conference, and James Wright, Pastor of the Christian church in Boyntonville, being present, were invited to take a seat with us in our deliberations.

The reports of preachers and delegates were encouraging, on the whole, although some were under trials. We were strongly reminded that we are living amid the rocks and quicksands of the last days, and all who expect to be sharers in the eternal inheritance of the saved must be "steadfast, unmovable, always abounding in the work of the Lord."

During the past season there have been Tent meetings held in the following places: No. Clarendon, Vt., No. Shrewsbury, Vt., No. Adams, Mass., Pittstown, N. Y., Hoosick, N. Y. At the four first-named places some were converted, and others quickened. All glory to the name of Jesus.

During the Conference there was preaching by Brn. Munger, Mosher, Higley, Sister Mary L. Tower, and others. The preaching was of that kind that is calculated to build up the church. If there ever was a time when faithfulness on the part of christians was demanded, it is now. We thought it good to take as our watchword the following—"Let all bitterness, and wrath, and anger, and clamor, and evil speaking, be put away from you, with all malice. And be ye kind one to another, tender-hearted, forgiving one another, even as God for Christ's sake hath forgiven you." Eph. 4: 31, 32.

W. O. HIGLEY, Secretary.

A. C. Times, please copy.

THE DISCUSSION AT EAST ROCHESTER, N. H.

Editors Crisis:—The discussion in this place between Jonathan Cummings and Bro. T. M. Preble has ended triumphantly for the truth. Cummings broke down Saturday evening, and has gone home. Bro. Preble camps on the field, and preached at the Advent Chapel on the Sabbath and on Monday evening. He will continue to lecture in the hall where the discussion was held, or some other place which will best accommodate the people. Particulars hereafter.

R. F. EMERSON, one of the Chairmen.

THE ROMAN CATHOLIC CHURCH.

It will be, in short, a sore day for the United States when the people of this country allow themselves to be seduced into the belief that the Church of Rome has become reconciled to Republicanism, or to liberty of thought or to anything else which recognizes the existence of any rule of conduct, in small things or in great, not furnished by herself, or that the Catholic clergy have the least intention of putting themselves on the same level with or using the same weapons as the Protestant clergy on the school question, or any other question which is likely to affect their own power, either nearly or remotely, directly or indirectly. The policy to which they have adhered for ages is to ask for everything, including the government of the country by an archbishop, but to take what they can get, and always after a rebuff to play the martyr, and when further gains are hopeless, to settle down cheerfully until the public irritation has subsided, and then try again. The bishops and priests die, and come and go, but whoever they are, and whatever they may say, we know that they do and must believe the whole of our political and social fabric, our government, our marriage, our education, our religion and manners, to be a monstrous and beastly revolt against God and his ministers. Any priest who professes he does not so regard them may be doing his duty, but any American voter who is led into carelessness or indulgence by these professions is not doing his duty. No church occupies or can occupy the same relation to the State as the Roman Church, and it may therefore be properly made the object of extraordinary vigilance and distrust.—The Nation.

PRESIDENT GRANT ON THE COMING STRUGGLE.

From the Witness:—It was only the other day that the President of the United States, shrewd soldier that he is, warned the people of a coming struggle between intelligence and patriotism on the one side, and the superstitious, the ignorant, and the ambitious on the other. Straightway the Roman Catholic church saw the application, and a servile press and the adherents of that church set about immediately to denounce the wise speech of the President."

The conflict is coming; the world is being warned, and "blessed is he that watcheth and keepeth his garments." H. PRATT.

A REQUEST.—Dear brethren and sisters of the belief of the soon coming of Christ, will you pray for my dear daughter, Nellie M. Tripp, who is very sick, both in body and mind? My heart is sad, but the Lord is with me, and sustains me in this hour of trial, feeling that all things work together for good to them that love the Lord. Do pray for her that she may be healed.

Alfred, Me. J. R. TRIPP.

The ADDRESS of the President of the A. C. P. Society, delivered at the late Annual Meeting of the A. C. Association, is now ready. Those desiring it will please order. AG'T.

Correspondence.

From Sr. C. Simmons.

While reading the many letters of the dear brethren and sisters in Christ, I feel like adding mine to the list, and giving something of my experience in the cause of Christ. I gave my heart to God a number of years ago, but was brought up to believe in the immortality of the soul, and the reward of all at death. I was not fully satisfied, consequently did not grow in grace as I might have done had I laid aside the doctrine of men, and taken the Bible as my only guide. I went to hear all denominations preach, and I thought the Adventists could not possibly be right, and all the rest wrong; but the more I went to hear them, and the more I read God's holy word, the more I was led to feel that I did not want to be one of the number that should be found fighting against God; so I took it all to the Lord in prayer, and took the Bible for my guide. Praise God, the way has grown brighter ever since. About this time, my husband was converted, and May 20th, 1873, we, with a number of others, were baptized by Elder C. H. Williams, and since that time I have tried to walk in the fear of the Lord, and to keep his commandments. Many times since then, I have felt that it was good to wait upon the Lord.

Truly, this world is full of sorrow and sadness. There are sighs, tears, sorrow, and death, all over the land, and loved ones are falling here and there; but I do rejoice that we read of a world where God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes; and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain. There the wicked shall shall cease from troubling, and the weary be forever at rest. When I look forward to the fulfillment of the precious promises that await the finally faithful, my heart is lifted above the sorrows of this life, and I sigh for the land that is promised. I long to enjoy a sweet repose in the house of the happy, and to rest secure from danger, and earthly woes, in that beautiful land of endless rest. My heart's desire and prayer to God is that I may be kept and guarded by his Almighty arm, that when Christ shall come in the clouds of heaven, I, with the redeemed of earth, may have it said unto me, "Well done, good and faithful servant, . . . enter thou into the joy of thy Lord."

Harrisburg, Sept. 28th.

From Sr. Martha Trask.

My heart is made to rejoice from time to time with the soul-cheering news in the Crisis, that there is a bright prospect that we shall see Jesus, and the many testimonies that come from north and south, from east and west, of the conflicts that are being fought with the enemy, and the victories won; but there are greater achievements ahead, and harder battles to be fought. Are our weapons in good order? have we on "the whole armor of God"? Dear brethren and sisters, let strife and division go to the winds. We cannot afford to lose our inheritance in the kingdom. In these last days, the tempter sees the advantage he is gaining by division. Let us get into the exhilarating sunshine that comes from the holy throne. Let us get out of this chilly shade into the illuminating rays of divine grace. Let us unfurl to the breeze our banners, with this inscription on them, "Behold, the Bridegroom cometh, go ye out to meet him." "Be ye holy, for I am holy." "Follow peace with all men, and holiness, without which no man shall see the Lord."

I bless God, that the coming of Christ, and purity of heart are twin sisters. They must go together. I praise the Lord that our dear Editors remain in the same capacity that they have been. We can't do without them. One fills one space, and the other fills the next space; and so we all get our meat in due season, according to our several wants. I am so situated that I have not the blessed privilege of meeting with those of like precious faith, so I hail the Crisis with joy.

Chicago.

From Bro. R. H. Gresham.

Dear Brn. and Srs. in Christ:—I greet you one and all affectionately. There are perhaps but few of you who have labored single-handed and alone, as I have done for some time past. I mean alone in the sense that I have had no brother or sister of like precious faith near at hand to assist, advise, and comfort me. I am satisfied a few honest, earnest men and women among these mountains are being prepared to become my brethren and sisters through the obedience of the one faith; and now I am extremely anxious to find yet other persons who will seek for endless life. It will add greatly to my pleasure if persons of like precious faith will send me their pictures. Let each write their name and address on the back. Were I not here alone in this romantic mountain country, I would not thus ask and so much desire the pictures of my dear brethren and sisters in Christ, even those whom I have never seen or heard of. Unless you were in my situation, or a similar one, you can scarcely imagine the comfort and joy it will give me to get your pictures, and to receive words of encouragement from you.

Turnpike, Buncombe Co., N. C.

Married.

RICHARDS—WHITNEY. In Athol, Mass., by Eld. Roland D. Grant, Mr. WALTER E. RICHARDS, of Greenfield, and Miss ELIZA E. WHITNEY, of Athol.

Obituaries.

HOWE. In Barford, P. Q., after a short and painful sickness, Sister Mary L., wife of David E. Howe, in the thirty-third year of her age.

Sister Howe gave herself to the Lord in early life, and for the past fifteen years has been striving to be faithful in her Master's service, in bearing her cross at home and in the public place of worship, as also in her private walks of life. Her work is done, but her influence lives, while she sweetly rests in the silent grave to wait the early call of her coming Lord, when death will yield up her precious dust, and she awake and sing the victor's song. She has left a lonely husband, one little boy little more than two years old, kind parents, brothers and sisters, to mourn their loss.

The writer endeavored to speak words of comfort to the mourners and sympathizing friends, from Rom. 8: 2, after which we laid her in her grave, and bid her good night till the morning comes. D. W. SORNBERGER.

BARNES. In Coaticook, P. Q., Sept. 21st, Marion A., eldest daughter of Bro. Thomas A. and Sr. Adelaide E. Barnes, aged fourteen years, ten months, and twenty-five days.

Marion died after a short but severe illness of one week. She was a lovely child, and is sadly missed by all who knew her; but "we sorrow not as those who have no hope," for we have a bright evidence that she is sleeping in Jesus, and when the glorious morning of the eternal day shall dawn, we expect to see her blooming in the loveliness of immortal beauty.

Words of comfort were spoken by the writer, from Jer. 31: 16. M. MCKINSTRY.

BARKER. In Hambleton, Ind., Aug. 31st, 1875, Bro. Barker, aged thirty-nine years, four months, and fourteen days.

His fall by the hand of the destroyer was quite unexpected, and sad the loss of one in the strength of manhood. He bore his sufferings patiently, and is now resting with the silent dead, awaiting the resurrection morning. He leaves a wife and six children to mourn his loss, and a large circle of friends. The hope of seeing Jesus, and being made like him, comforted his heart amid the trials and conflicts of life. J. CUNNINGHAM.

HOLDEN. In Wellsville, Mich., Sept. 11th, 1875, Caroline Holden, aged fifty years, seven months, and twenty-seven days.

She died as she lived, a firm believer in the truths of the gospel of the kingdom of God, and the name of Jesus Christ. "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord." Funeral discourse by the writer, from Job 14: 14. L. H. CHASE.

CHAMBERLAIN. In Sharon, Minn., June 24th, 1875, Nathan Chamberlain, aged sixty-seven years and five months.

Although his was a long and cruel bondage to Satan, yet within the last year, which was one of bitter suffering unto him, we trust that through faith in Christ that bondage was broken. E. BACON.

FOREIGN NEWS.

LONDON, Oct. 11. A terrible storm passed over a large portion of the United Kingdom to-day, doing great damage to crops, shipping, and other property. It is expected that numerous disasters at sea will be reported.

The English steamer Biscay, belonging to the port of Newcastle, has stranded off Jutland, while on a voyage from Cronstadt to Bremerhaven. Eleven persons were drowned. The Biscay was an iron steamer, built in 1772, and was owned in London.

Oct. 15. The Daily News' special from Vienna says Russia is preparing an expedition against Bodara out of revenge for the assistance rendered by the latter to the Khokand insurgents.

A despatch from Bombay, India, reports the occurrence of disastrous floods in the Province of Guzerat. The town of Ahmedabod has been inundated and many of the inhabitants drowned. The destruction of life and property has been very great. Over 20,000 of the people have been rendered homeless. The sufferings of the poor people are intense.

BERLIN, Oct 11. The "Kaiserhoff" (hotel) in this city has been entirely burned. It was the finest structure of the kind in Germany. The loss is estimated at a million dollars.

AFFAIRS IN SPAIN.—A letter from Madrid, makes a horrible revelation of the condition of affairs in Spain. The young King Alfonso has plunged into dissipation, and is following the course of his corrupt mother. His licentiousness, followed by a series of assassinations for the purpose of concealment has aroused the hatred of the populace, even in corrupt Madrid; secret circulars and handbills are passed about; and the people are ripe for revolt. The letter is startling and suggestive; and throws light upon the causes which underlie the popular discontent and restlessness in Spain.—Journal.

LONDON now covers seven hundred square miles and contains four millions of people. There is a birth every five minutes and a death every eight minutes. Nine thousand new houses and twenty-eight miles of new streets are built every year, and in the same period forty-thousand souls are added to its population.

DOMESTIC NEWS.

Washington, Oct. 8. The Catholic ladies of Washington, with Mrs. Gen. Sherman at their head, are organizing a permanent Indian Catholic Missionary Association. A number of prominent ladies of Washington will visit New York and other cities to aid in establishing a National Society. Missionary workers are to be sent amongst all the Indian tribes.

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 9. The services of the Mormon Conference to-day were chiefly devoted to dedicating the Tabernacle and the election of officers and missionaries. Brigham Young was again unanimously elected Prophet, Seer, Revelator, President, and Trustee in trust of the Mormon church, with Mayor only Chief Counsellor. The attendance numbered over fifteen thousand.

THE SNOW PLANT.—One of California's contributions to the Centennial Exposition will be a snow plant which has been brought from Calaveras county, near the Big Trees. This particular specimen is the largest ever seen on the Pacific coast. The cones, fifteen in number, are blood red, and grow together in a bunch. The plant forces its way up through the snow in the spring of the year, and the edges of the cones have an appearance of frost, covered by a fine white fringe of crystalline appearance. It is of parasitic nature, generally taking root in some rotten tree lying beneath the surface.

— According to Rowell's Directory, a thousand newspapers failed in this country last year.

Notices.

SPECIAL MEETING OF THE A. C. A.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Advent Christian Association held in Boston, Mass., Sept. 30th, it was voted that a special meeting of the Advent Christian Association be held on Tuesday, Dec. 14th, at two o'clock P. M., to consider the expediency of revising the Constitution of the Association, particularly with regard to forming a new basis of representation. A full attendance of preachers and delegates from the churches is earnestly desired. Each church is entitled to one delegate, and one additional delegate for every fifty members above twenty-five. The meeting will be held at the Advent Chapel, Central Street, Worcester, Mass.

S. G. MATHEWSON, President.
C. E. BARNES, Secretary.

NOTICE.—The next annual session of the N. H. Advent Christian Conference will be held with the church in Concord, N. H., commencing Wednesday evening, Nov. 3d, and continue over the following Sabbath. An effort will be made to secure reduction of fare on the various railroads.

On Concord road and branches, Conference tickets will be sold at the following places: Suncook, Manchester, Nashua, Epping Junction, New Market Junction, Portsmouth, Lawrence, Goffstown, North Weare. Those coming on the Concord and Claremont or Northern roads, will purchase Conference tickets on the cars of the conductors. Those coming on the Boston, Concord, and Montreal road, will purchase regular tickets, and be furnished with return passes at the Conference, provided they will send to the Secretary, C. H. Fletcher, Newport, N. H., the number of passes they want, and to what station on the road. Let this be done as early as possible before the meeting. We hope the churches will be particular to send delegates. A. ROSS, President.
C. H. FLETCHER, Sec.

Conference.

The Delaware District A. C. Conference is hereby called to meet and hold its semi-annual session, at the Advent Christian Church, Eighth Street, above Noble, commencing on Friday evening, Nov. 5th, and continue over the Sabbath. This conference embraces the District of Columbia, Maryland, Delaware, New Jersey, and Eastern Pennsylvania. It is earnestly hoped that every church sympathizing with us will be represented, either by letter or delegates. Every church or religious body co-operating with this conference is entitled to one delegate, and an additional delegate for every ten members. All letters of correspondence for the conference can be addressed to EDWIN KING, 1716 Francis St., Philadelphia, Pa. WM. ASHMAN, President.
E. KING, Secretary.

NOTICE.—The Maine Central Quarterly Meeting will be held in Mercer Village, commencing Thursday evening, Oct. 28th, and continue over the following Sunday. A general invitation is given to all. Provision will be made for man and beast. Come filled with the spirit of love and labor for the salvation of sinners, and the spread of the truth due this generation. Brethren, call on Elders T. Rines, Levi Eldridge, Eleazer Watson, and others. For the church, H. B. SEVEY.

NOTICE.—The East Maine Missionary Association will hold its first meeting with the church in Levant, at the new chapel, commencing Oct. 28th, and hold over the following Sunday. Brethren and sisters are earnestly invited to come to this meeting, to labor for the salvation of sinners and confirmation of saints. O. S. FRENCH, Sec.

NOTICE.—The Advent believers will hold meetings at the Sand Bank school-house, Haverhill Corner, N. H., on Sundays, as often as they can be supplied with a speaker. Any of the preaching brethren passing through this vicinity will please call on the writer, as I keep a pilgrim's home. Prayer meetings Thursday and Sunday evenings.
JAMES M. HARRIMAN.

NOTICE.—Brethren: I have closed my labors with the church at Morrisville, Vt. I am now at liberty to go anywhere the way opens to preach the gospel of the kingdom. If any of the brethren want I should preach to them, they can write me at West Randolph, Vt.
ELD. J. A. CLEAVELAND.

NOTICE.—The Advent Christian Church worshiping at Union Hall on Free St., Portland, Me., have given Eld. E. A. Stockman a call to become their Pastor, and he has accepted the same, and will commence his labors on Sunday, Oct. 17th. All preaching brethren wishing to exchange, or to preach here, will please confer with him.
H. C. FREEMAN, Church Clerk.

NOTICE.—A series of meetings will be held in the Anderson school-house, Limington, Me., commencing Wednesday evening, Nov. 10th, and continue as long as appears duty. We urge each and all of God's dear children, who feel that their heavenly Father can use them to his glory here, to come and help us. G. H. HAINES.
C. H. SWEET.

NOTICE.—Having changed my place of residence, please direct all my letters, documents, cards, and postal matter of every kind, until further notice, to 32 Bellevue Avenue, Providence, R. I. A. W. SIBLEY.

THE Maine Second Advent Annual Conference is deferred till the second Tuesday in Dec., and will be holden with the church in Frankfort.
GEO. HUMPHREY, President.
W. H. MITCHELL, Secretary.

NOTICE.—This is to certify that the A. C. Church worshiping on Hammond Street, Providence, R. I., have given Eld. A. W. Sibley a call to become their Pastor, and he has accepted the same. All preaching brethren wishing to exchange, or to preach, will confer with him.
J. W. LAKE, Church Clerk.

SANDY HILL, N. Y.—Prayer meeting daily, and preaching each evening as interest continues. Next series of meetings to be held at Addison, Vt. Address all letters to Rutland, Vt., Box 70.
ARTHUR A. WAITE.

NOTICE.—Lost, or left at the depot, on the Central Vt. R. R., a trunk purporting to be a campmeeting trunk, no name. The owner can have the same by describing it to the Station Agent, or to R. N. STETSON, West Hartford, Vt.

Those wishing to correspond with the church at Raymond, Iowa, will please write to the following committee: Dr. B. Banton, Wm. Waterfield, W. S. Detrick. J. W. BURROUGHS, Pastor.

STAR-BEAMS; OR, RAYS OF LIGHT.

BY J. W. THOMAS.

This is a new book of 363 pages, and is filled with stirring, practical, interesting articles. It is an excellent book to put in your Sabbath-school Library, or to give as a present to a friend. It contains something for all classes—saints, sinners, young, old, rich, poor, married, single, afflicted and prosperous. Every young christian should have a copy and read it carefully. No family should be without it. It talks of Jesus, of holy living, and the coming glory. It cannot fail to exert a healthful, saving influence wherever it is circulated. Who will help to spread it far and wide? Price $1.00. Direct to J. W. THOMAS, 12 Arnold Street, Providence, R. I. For sale at this Office.

THE BIBLICAL MESSENGER.

This monthly is well printed, and is a bold advocate of Bible truth. It gives prominence to holiness of heart, and the speedy return of Christ to resurrect the dead and set up his everlasting kingdom.

EDITORS: A. A. Hoyt, H. F. Carpenter, A. W. Sibley, Frank Burr, M. R. Phetteplace, C. Mendenhall. TERMS: Sixty cents a year. Agents wanted. Send for sample copies. Address the "Biblical Messenger," Waterbury, Vt.

The Biblical Messenger and World's Crisis will both be sent to one address for $2.60. Address all orders for both papers to World's Crisis, 160 Hanover Street, Boston, Mass.

Appointments.

☞ APPOINTMENTS MUST BE RECEIVED AS EARLY AS TUESDAY MORNING (as our paper goes to press about noon) to insure insertion for the coming week.

☞ The following RESOLUTION was passed at the late meeting of the A. C. P. Society:—

"RESOLVED, That no appointments be published in the CRISIS henceforth for persons unknown to the Editorial Board (by which is understood the Editors, Editorial Committee, and Business Agent), unless satisfactory reference shall be given."

The Committee appointed by the Adv. Chris. Association, at its last Annual Meeting, to advise with the Editorial Board "in relation to the publication in the World's Crisis of the appointments of men unworthy of recognition as preachers," having attended to the duty assigned them, recommended, and the Editorial Board have adopted, and ordered to be published, the following resolution:—

"RESOLVED, That when the Editorial Board is properly notified by any of our Churches, or Ministers, or responsible persons by a written allegation that a certain minister, or ministers, lack moral character, that they be instructed to notify such minister, or ministers, of the information received as a reason for withholding their appointments till after a proper trial and acquittal."

All communications in relation to this matter should be addressed to the Secretary of the Board—GEO. T. ADAMS, Boston, Mass.

Boston (Branch Chapel) 2029 Washington Street, (corner of Madison Street.)
Love Feast at 10½ a.m. Preaching at 3 and 7½ p. m. Prayer meeting Tuesday and Friday evenings.
John Parsons....Sunday, Oct. 24th
Geo. W. Sederquest....Sunday, Oct. 31st
J. S. White....Sunday, Nov. 7th

BOSTON (Repository Hall) 712 Washington St., corner of Kneeland St.
Preaching at 10½ a. m. and 3 and 7 p. m. Sunday School at 1.30 p. m. Prayer meeting Wednesday evening.

EAST BOSTON (Central Hall, 152 Meridian Street.)
Meetings every Sunday, at the usual hours, also prayer and conference meetings Wednesday and Friday evenings, at 7½ o'clock p. m.
H. Pratt....Sunday, Oct. 24th

CHARLESTOWN (HALL NO. 70 MAIN STREET.)
Sr. Townsend....Sunday, Oct. 24th
T. M. Preble....Sunday, Oct. 31st
J. F. Nickerson....Sundays, Nov. 7th and 14th
Wm. N. Pile....Sunday, Nov. 21st
E. Owen....Sunday, Nov. 28th

Chelsea, Mass.
Preaching Sundays, at 10.30 A. M. and 3 P. M.
Conference Meeting at 7 o'clock Sunday evenings. Tuesday and Friday evenings, at 7½ o'clock.
B. Emery....Sunday, Oct. 24th
M. Batchelor....Sunday, Oct. 31st

SOMERVILLE, Mass (Pilgrim Hall, Summer Street.)
Meetings every Sunday, at the usual hours, also prayer and conference meetings Tuesday and Friday evenings, at 7½ o'clock p. m.
Geo. W. Sederquest....1st and 3d Sundays in each month till further notice.
B. Emery....Sunday, Oct. 31st

HYDE PARK, Mass. (Connor's Hall.)—Meetings every Sabbath at the usual hours. T. M. PREBLE.

Kennebunkport, Me....Sunday, Oct. 24th
J. COUCH.

Brimfield, Mass....Sunday, Oct. 24th
I. I. LESLIE.

Plymouth, Mass....Sunday, Oct. 24th
J. S. WHITE.

Bar-Mills, Me....Sunday, Oct. 24th
Kennebunk, Me....Sunday, Oct. 31st
I. C. WELLCOMB.

Saratoga Springs, from Thursday evening over the following Sabbath, where Bro. Duran appoints.
West Troy, N. Y. (if Bro. Douglas appoints) Oct. 25th to 27th.
North Adams, Mass., from Thursday, Oct. 28th, and over the Sabbath, Oct. 31st.
New Bedford, Mass....Sabbaths, Nov. 7th and 14th
Direct to Chicopee Falls, Mass. H. MUNGER.

Mattapoisett....Sunday, Oct. 24th
Fairhaven, Mass....Sunday, Nov. 14th
New York City (as Bro. Cox may appoint) Sunday, Nov. 21st.
Hartford, Conn....Sunday, Nov. 28th
M. BATCHELOR.

Tremont, Mass....Sunday, Oct. 31st
B. WOODSIDE.

Warehousepoint....Sunday, Oct. 31st
H. PRATT.

Erving, Mass. (Town Hall)....Sunday, Oct. 24th
GEO. E. STREETER.

Kingston, N. H....Sunday, Oct. 24th
West Lebanon, Me. (where Bro. Johnson may appoint) Sunday, Oct. 31st.
Strafford, N. H. (Robert's school house) Sun., Nov. 7th
Farmington, N. H....Sunday, Nov. 28th
J. F. CHAMBERLIN.

South Rochester, N. H....Sunday, Oct. 31st
S. VARNEY.

Camden, N. J....Sunday, Oct. 24th
New Jersey City (Cooper Institute) Sunday, Oct. 31st
F. H. BURBANK.

Epsom, N. H. (Marden's Corner)....evening, Oct. 23d
Chichester, N. H. (Pine Ground)....Sunday, Oct. 24th
N. B. MCMURPHY.

Chicago, Ill....Thursday evening, Oct. 28th
R. F. & M. J. CLARK.

Simpson's Corner, Oct. 23d, at 7 p. m., and Sunday, Oct. 24th, at 2 and 7 p. m.
Swansville (at Bro. Curtis' school-house) Thursday, Oct. 28th, at 7 p. m.
Lincolnville, Friday, Oct. 29th, at 7 p. m., and over Sunday, Oct. 31st. S. & L. W. BRAGG.

Hill, N. H. (Centre meeting-house)....Sab., Oct. 24th
Dorchester, N. H. (Town House)..Sunday, Nov. 14th
SIMEON ROBY.

Meredith, N. H. (Dolloff Hall)....Sunday, Oct. 24th
West Alton, N. H. (Chapel)....Sunday, Oct. 31st
C. R. PARSONS.

Square Pond, Ct....Sunday, Oct. 31st
P. S. BUTLER.

Melvin Village....Sunday, Oct. 31st
T. W. PIPER.

Piermont, N. H. (Clay meeting-house) Sun., Oct. 24th
Cabot, Vt....Sunday, Oct. 31st
A. GORDON.

Pittsburg, N. H. (Stream school-house) Sun., Oct. 24th
North Troy, Vt. (Baptist house) Sunday, Oct. 31st, and onward as the Lord may direct. Will Bro. Magoon meet with me? U. G. LADD

Sutton, N. H. (Pa'mer school-house)..Sun., Oct. 24th
Danbury, N. H. (Town House)....Sunday, Oct. 31st
Bradford, N. H. (Bush meeting-house)..Sun., Nov. 7th
A. S. WILLIAMS.

Frankfort, Me....Sunday, Oct. 31st
J. T. LANE.

Pleasant Valley....Sunday, Oct. 24th
JANE DAVIS.

East Canaan, N. H....evening, Oct. 23d and over Sunday.
Danbury, N. H. (where the brethren may appoint) evenings, Oct. 25th and 26th.
Dorchester, N. H....evenings, Oct. 28th, 29th, 30th and over Sunday.
North Haverhill, N. H....evening, Nov. 6th and over Sunday.
Swiftwater, N. H....evening, Nov. 8th
North Benton, N. H. (new school house) evening, Nov. 9th.
East Landaff, N. H....evenings, Nov. 11th, 12th, 13th and over Sunday. JOHN H. EVANS.

Moultonboro Neck, N. H. (Lower school-house) Sunday, Oct. 24th.
Moultonboro, N. H. (Neck Road school-house) Sunday, Nov. 7th. J. G. MOULTON.

Northwood Narrows, N. H....Sunday, Nov. 14th
Fairhaven, Mass....Tuesday evening, Nov. 23d and onward.
Mattapoisett, Mass....Sunday, Nov. 28th
A. SIMPSON.

Cherokee, Iowa, Wednesday evening, Oct. 20th, and remain over two Sundays, and hold meetings as the brethren may arrange. J. RIDLEY.

Limington, Me. (Hanscom school-house) Thursday and Friday evenings, Oct. 28th and 29th.
Harrison, Me (Woodsom school-house) Saturday evening, Oct. 30th, and over Sunday.
Norway, Me., Monday and Tuesday evenings, Nov. 1st and 2nd.
East Sumner, Me. (as Thomas Stevens may arrange) Wednesday evening, Nov. 3d.
Hartford, Me....Thursday, Nov. 4th
South Livermore, Friday and Saturday evenings, Nov. 5th and 6th, and over Sunday, Nov. 7th.
JESSE GAY.
GEO. W. BROWN (of Elliott.)

Piermont, N. H. (Clay meeting-house) eve., Nov. 2nd
Lake Village, N. H. (North Church)....Sun., Nov. 7th
DANIEL D. PAGE.

Woodford, Vt....Sunday, Oct. 31st
MRS. M. L. TOWER.

Warren Summit....Sunday, Oct. 31st
A. H. CLARK.

Topsham, Vt. (Carson Bridge)....Sunday, Nov. 7th
GEO. E. BROWN.

Waterbury, Vt....Sunday, Oct. 24th
Hinesburgh, Vt....evening, Oct. 28th
Bristol, Vt....evening, Oct. 29th
Addison, Vt....Sunday, Oct. 31st
A. A. HOYT.

Bro. Bemans, Warren....Tuesday evening, Nov. 9th
Ellsworth....Thursday evening, Nov. 11th and over Sunday, Nov. 14th. G. L. WHITE.

Exeter, N. H....Tuesday evening, Oct. 26th
Will Bro. Harmon arrange?
North Berwick, Me....Wednesday evening, Oct. 27th
Will Bro. Erastus Hatch meet me on the arrival of the morning train from Exeter?
Kennebunkport....Thursday evening, Oct. 28th
Biddeford, Me....Friday evening, Oct. 29th
I. B. POTTER.

Luzerne Co., near the city of Scranton, Pa. (Methodist church), as Bro. T. Fenn may arrange, Sunday, Oct. 24th, through the week, and Sunday, Oct. 31st.
I. N. WILFONG.

Whitakerville, Vt....Sunday, Oct. 31st
J. A. PACKARD.

Harrison (Woodsom school-house)....Sab., Oct. 24th
G. L. TRACY.

Sandwich, (Vitum school-house)..Thursday evening, Nov. 4th.
Porter, Me....Sunday, Nov. 7th
LEVI ALLEN.

Limington, Me. (Hanscom school-house) Sun., Nov. 7th
J. L. CHUTE.

East Acworth, N. H....evening, Oct. 30th and over Sunday, Oct. 31st.
Unity Centre, N. H....Sunday evening, Oct. 31st
J. B. S. PILLSBURY.

Colebrook, N. H., eve., Oct. 23d, and Sun., Oct. 24th
West Poland, Me....Tuesday evening, Oct. 26th every evening, and over the Sabbath, Oct. 31st.
Biddeford, Me....Tuesday evening, Nov. 9th
Kennebunkport....Nov. 10th
Great Works....Nov. 10th
Seabrook, N. H., Tuesday, Nov. 16th, and other churches in the vicinity, as Bro. Barton may arrange, till the 19th.
Salem, Mass....Sunday, Nov. 21st
ANNIE E. SMITH.

Rockland, Me....Saturday evening, Oct. 23d and over Sunday, Oct. 24th.
St. George (as the Brn. may appoint) Friday, Oct. 29th and over Sunday, Oct. 31st.
Manhegin Isle....Friday, Nov. 5th and over Sunday, Nov. 7th.
Friendship, Me., Long Isle....Wednesday evening, Nov. 10th. H. S. MITCHELL.

Westport (head of the river)..Saturday eve., Oct. 23d
Pine Hill....Sunday, a. m., Oct. 24th
Tripp Wharf....Sunday, p. m., Oct. 24th
Coventry Centre, R. I....Monday evening, Oct. 25th
Charlton....Sunday, Oct. 31st
M. E. OTIS.

Becket....Sunday, Oct. 24th
ENOCH PHELPS.

Farmington, N. H....Sabbath, Oct. 24th
South Rochester N. H. (Chapel)....Sabbath, Oct. 31st
West Alton, N. H. (at the Chapel) Sabbath, Nov. 14th
D. F. LEAVITT.

Fremont....Sunday, Oct. 24th
ENOCH MORRILL.

Fonthill, Ontario (hours yet unknown) Sun., Oct. 24th
L. C. KERR.

Bonny Eagle, Me. (exchange with Bro. Haines) Sunday, Nov. 14th.
Standish Neck, Me. (as Bro. Shackford may arrange) Sunday, Oct. 24th.
Hollis Centre, Me....Sunday, Oct. 31st
C. H. SWEET.

Haverhill, N. H. (Sandbank school-house) Sunday, Oct. 24th.
Sandwich (Vitum Hill)....evening, Oct. 28th and over Sunday, Oct. 31st.
Freedom (Chapel)....evening, Nov. 1st
Steep Falls....evenings, Nov. 2d and 3d
South Windham, Me....evening, Nov. 4th and over Sunday, Nov. 7th. E. S. MOULTON.

Pittsfield, N. H....Sunday, Oct. 24th
W. M. HARMON.

Dorchester, N. H....evenings, Oct. 21st, 22d, 23d and over Sunday, Oct. 24th. J. B. S. PILLSBURY.
D. W. DAVIS.

Haverhill N. H. (where Bro. James Harriman may arrange) Thursday evening, Oct. 21st. Also, Friday and Saturday evenings, and over Sunday.
I. DAMMAN. J. G. SMITH.

Orrington, Me....Sundays, Oct. 24th and 31st
GEO. W. BROWN.

Sandwich, N. H. (Vitum school-house) Sun., Nov. 7th
Pleasant Valley, N. H....Sunday, Nov. 14th
T. L. CHURCHILL.

West Alton, N. H. (at the meeting-house) Sunday, Oct. 24th. N. GLIDDEN.
Salem, Mass....Sunday, Oct. 31st
Alton, N. H....Sunday, Nov. 7th
E. OWEN.

Freedom, N. H. (Chapel) evenings, Oct. 28th and 29th
Porter, Me....Sunday, Oct. 31st
J. T. JORDAN.

West Waterville (Memorial Hall) Friday and Saturday evenings, Oct. 22d and 23d, and Sunday, Oct. 24th
F. E. BLAISDELL.

Lisbon, N. H. (Streeter school-house) Saturday evening, Oct. 23d, over Sunday, Oct. 24th, through the week, and over Sunday, Oct. 31st, if the Lord will.
GEO. E. BROWN.
DANIEL D. PAGE.

New Britain....Sunday, Oct. 24th
S. WOODRUFF.

North Adams....Sunday, Oct. 24th
North Greenwich, N. Y....Friday evening, Oct. 29th
Fort Ann, N. Y....Oct. 30th, and over the Sabbath
WM. J. BLANCHARD.

Charlton, Mass....1st Sunday in every month
Southbridge, Mass....4th Sunday in every month
SAM'L. AYRES.

Salem, Mass....2d and 4th Sundays in each month until further notice. GEO. W. SEDERQUEST.

Granby, Mass. (Batchelder Street) the second Sunday in each month.
North Rutland, Mass..the last Sunday in each month
GEO. A. STREETER.

Palmer, Mass., the 1st and 3d Sundays in each month
Granby, Mass....fourth Sunday in each month
H. H. TUCKER.

Hinesburg, Vt., Sundays for one year excepting the last Sunday in each month.
Bristol, Vt., the last Sunday in each month for one year. WM. C. STEWART.

HAVERHILL, Mass. (New Chapel on Walnut St.)
I. B. Potter....Sunday, Oct. 24th
A. Simpson....Sunday, Oct 31st
J. Couch....Sunday, Nov. 7th
A. A. Robinson....Sunday, Nov. 14th
C. S. Shattuck....Sunday, Nov. 21st

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (Franklin Hall.)
E. Owen....Sunday, Oct 24th

NATICK, MASS.
O. S. Shattuck....Sunday, Oct. 31st
Anna E. Smith....Nov. 25th and 26th and Sunday, Nov. 28th.

NEW BEDFORD, MASS.
A. W. Sibley....Sunday, Oct. 24th
S. S. Brewer....Sunday, Oct. 31st
A. Simpson....Sunday, Nov. 21st

CLINTON, MASS.
H. H. Tucker....Sunday, Oct. 31st

NORTH RUTLAND, MASS.
Willard M. Hall....first Sunday in each month
H. H. Tucker....second Sunday in each month

HAMPTON, N. H.
A. Simpson....Sunday, Oct. 24th
C. Goodrich....Sunday, Oct. 31st
Wm. W. Sutherland....Sunday, Nov. 7th
A. Ross....Sunday, Nov. 14th
J. F. Chamberlin....Sunday, Nov. 21st

EXETER, N. H.
T. W. Piper....Sunday, Oct. 24th
W. M. Harmon....Sunday, Oct. 31st
W. W. Sutherland....Sunday, Nov. 14th
C. S. Shattuck....Sunday, Dec. 12th

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.
E. A. Stockman....Sunday, Oct. 24th
Jane Benson....Sunday, Oct. 31st
M. Batchelor....Sunday, Nov. 7th
Annie E. Smith....Sunday, Nov. 14th

SEABROOK, N. H.
J. C. Smith....Sundays, Oct. 24th and 31st
Sr. Annie Smith....Sundays, Nov. 7th and 14th
Joseph Pinkham....Sunday, Nov. 21st
D. F. Leavitt....Sunday, Nov. 28th

NEW DURHAM, N. H.
A. Ross....Sunday, Nov. 7th
T. W. Piper....Sunday, Nov. 21st

CONCORD, N. H.
S. S. Brewer....Sunday, Oct. 24th

EAST CONCORD, N. H. (Ward House).—Meetings three times Sunday, also Tuesday and Thursday evenings.
C. H. Fletcher....first Sunday in each month
D. W. Davis....third Sunday in each month

GREAT FALLS, N. H. (Franklin Hall.)
L. E Saulpaugh....Sunday, Oct. 24th
J. Bickford....Sunday, Oct. 31st

WEST DEERFIELD, N. H.
John B. Paine....Sunday, Oct. 24th
J. L. Chute....Sunday, Oct. 31st
C. R. Parsons....Sunday, Nov. 7th

SOUTH ROCHESTER, N. H.
C. E. Hurd....Sunday, Oct. 24th
J. F. Chamberlin....Sunday, Nov. 14th

PORTLAND, ME. (Union Hall.)
R. R. York....Sunday, Oct. 24th
I. B. Potter....Sunday, Oct. 31st
E. A. Stockman....Sunday, Nov. 7th
J. Couch....Sunday, Nov. 14th

SABBATUS, ME. (Jones' Hall.)
C. Goud....Sunday, Oct. 24th
J. A. Libbey....Sunday, Oct. 31st
R. R. York....Sunday, Nov. 7th
H. S. Mitchell....Sunday, Nov. 14th
H. D. Reed....Sunday, Nov. 21st
E. S. Moulton....evening, Dec. 8th and over Sunday, Dec. 12th.

BIDDEFORD, ME.
J. Albert Libbey....Sunday, Oct. 24th
E. A. Stockman....Sunday, Oct. 31st
Albert Robinson....Sunday, Nov. 7th
Geo. W. Brown....Sunday, Nov. 14th
Wm. H. Mitchell....Sunday, Nov. 21st
J. Albert Libby....Sunday, Nov. 28th

BANGOR, ME.
J. T. Lane....Sunday, Oct. 24th

SOUTH BERWICK, ME. (Great Works.)
Geo. W. Brown....Sunday, Oct. 24th
C. S. Shattuck....Sunday, Oct. 31st

SOUTH ELLIOT, ME.
J. W. White....Sunday, Oct. 24th
L. Boutell....Sunday, Oct. 31st

SOUTH WEST HOOSICK, N. Y.
Arthur A. Waite....once in four weeks
Flora Blanchard....once in four weeks

BRIDGEPORT, CONN.
Mrs. E. L. Crumb....Sunday, Oct. 24th
Mrs. E. A. Warren....Sunday, Oct. 31st
Mrs. E. L. Crumb....Sunday, Nov. 7th
Warren Tefft....Sundays, Nov. 14th and 21st
Mrs. E. A. Warren....Sunday, Nov. 28th
Mrs. E. L. Crumb....Sunday, Dec. 5th
Mrs. E. A. Warren....Sunday, Dec. 12th
A. A....Sunday, Dec 19th
Mrs. E. A. Warren....Sunday, Dec. 26th
Mrs. E. L. Crumb....Sunday, Jan. 1st

BRISTOL, CT.
R. K. Stark....Sunday, Oct. 24th
A. Elliott....Sunday, Oct. 31st
G. L. White....Sunday, Nov. 7th

NEW HAVEN, CONN.
Wm. N. Pile....Sunday, Oct. 24th

WOODSTOCK VALLEY, CT.
C. Goodrich....Sunday, Oct. 24th
Sr. E. L. Crumb....Sunday, Oct. 31st

PLAINVILLE, CT.
W. Tefft....Sunday, Oct. 24th
G. L. White....Sunday, Oct. 31st
B. Hitchcock....Sunday, Nov. 14th

MILLDALE (Southington, Ct.)
O. D. Woodruff....Sunday, Oct. 24th
B. Hitchcock....Sunday, Oct. 31st

PUTNAM, CT.
B. Woodside....Sunday, Oct. 24th
A. Durfee....Sunday, Oct. 31st
C. Goodrich....Sunday, Nov. 7th
A. Simpson....Sundays, Dec. 5th and 12th and evenings through the week.

SOUTH WINDSOR, CT.
G. L. White....Sunday, Oct. 24th

CHICAGO, ILL.—Green Street Tabernacle Church hold services in their Chapel on Green Street, near Madison Street, Chicago, Ill., every Lord's day, morning and evening. Prayer meetings in the Basement room of the Tabernacle every Wednesday and Friday evenings of each week. Brethren and sisters passing through Chicago are invited to call. All correspondents will write to L. C. RICE, 168 West Madison St.
FRANK BURR, Pastor.

CHICAGO, ILL.—The Advent Christian Church meets at their Hall, No. 213 West Madison St., every Lord's day. There will be preaching at 10½ a. m. and 7½ p. m.; prayer meeting every Thursday evening, at 7½ o'clock. All preaching brethren visiting, or passing through the city, and desiring to preach, will please correspond with Bro. H. P. WRIGHT, Board of Health, Chicago, Ill. H. P. Wright, R. P. Price, Elders.
ELD. H. G. MCCULLOCH, Pastor.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., A. C. Church, Hammond Street, near Division. Sabbath—Social meeting 9 a. m. Sabbath school 10.30 a. m.; preaching 2.45 p. m.; social meeting 7 a. m. Social meetings Wednesday and Friday evenings, at 7.30 P. M. A. W. SIBLEY, Pastor.

REMOVAL.—The Star of Hope Mission (late of 229 South 5th Avenue), has removed to 185 Spring Street, between Thompson and Sullivan Streets, to the large hall lately occupied by the City Mission. Services will be held on Sundays at 10½, 3 and 7½ o'clock. Class meeting Monday evenings, at 8 o'clock; prayer and conference Wednesday and Friday evenings, at 8 o'clock. MRS. ANNA E. SMITH, Sup't.

WORCESTER, MASS.
Union meetings, for the promotion of christian holiness, are changed from 379 Maine street to the Director's room of the Y. M. C. Association. Meeting held every Thursday evening, at 7½ o'clock.
G. E. MERRILL, Com.

"GOSPEL SONGS."

"A choice collection of Hymns and Tunes, New and Old, for Prayer Meetings, Sunday Schools, etc."

This is a new book that has had a large sale at our campmeetings this season, and contains some very choice pieces:—"When Jesus Comes," "More to Follow," etc., etc. For sale at this Office. Price, 35 cts. per copy; $3.60 per dozen by express; by mail, 40 cts. per copy. AGENT.

THE ADVENT MINSTREL;

A choice collection of Spiritual Songs. Flexible cloth, 25 cents single copy; per dozen, $2.50 by mail. For sale at this Office.

"THE CHILD'S BIBLE QUESTION BOOK."

BY ELD. C. GOODRICH.

This is the title of a work just issued by the A. C. P. Society, designed for the small children in the Sabbath Schools and in the family. Just what we have long wanted. Price 10 cts. single copy; $1.00 per doz., sent by mail. AG'T.

THE FUTURE OF OUR PLANET
AS VIEWED FROM A
BIBLICAL STANDPOINT.
BY A. W. SIBLEY.

This is the title of a new Tract of 16 pages, issued by the A. C. P. Society. Just the thing to circulate widely. Price, 3 cents per copy; 20 cts. per dozen; $1.40 per hundred, by mail. AG'T.

GERMAN TRACTS.

A new German Tract just out: "Does the Bible teach the Immortality of the Soul?" A reply to a letter from a German theologian in Prussia.

Other tracts as follows: "The Fifth Universal Kingdom, or Kingdom of Christ on Earth." "What is Man?" "Future Doom of the Ungodly." "Resurrection," etc.

LOUIS REIMER, No. 639 North Eighth Street, above Wallace, Philadelphia, Pa.

STANDARD ENGLISH WORKS.

FOR SALE AT THE OFFICE OF
"THE ADV. CHRIS. PUB. SOCIETY,"
160 HANOVER STREET.

These works are imported from the London Repository, kept by Bro. W. Kellaway, and persons purchasing them will be helping to ensure the success of the English Depot. Works not in stock procured in a few weeks.

THE CRITICAL GREEK AND ENGLISH LEXICON and Concordance, designed for those who do not understand Greek. By the Rev. E. W. Bullinger. To be completed in from 12 to 14 parts of 64 pp. Royal 8vo. At 40c. per part to subscribers for the whole work, or 50c. to non-subscribers. Subscription for the complete work in advance, $7.00 cloth, and $8.00 leather. This work is highly recommended by the best English scholars. Part I. and II. ready for delivery.

ENGLISHMAN'S HEBREW AND CHALDEE CONCORDANCE. 2 vols. The value of this work is proverbial. $20.00 by Express.

ENGLISHMAN'S GREEK CONCORDANCE. A companion volume of the above. $16.00 by Express.

ANTITYPICAL PARALLELS: or, The Kingdom of Israel and of Heaven. With Notes, Illustrations, and specially-prepared Maps of the original occupations of the Land of Canaan and of the Millennial Kingdom. By Lt. Gen. Goodwyn. $5.50 by Express.

THE LAST ADAM. (The Second Man, the Lord from Heaven.") By Lt. Gen. Goodwyn. $1.15; postage 16 cts.

THE WHOLE ARMOR OF GOD: an Explanation of the Christian Conflict and the Divine Panoply provided therefor. 75 cts.; postage 12 cts.

TRUTH AND TRADITION: a Defence of the Doctrine that "The Wages of Sin is Death, but the Gift of God is eternal life in Jesus Christ our Lord." 30 cts.; postage 2 cts.

THE MYSTERIES OF THE KINGDOM OF HEAVEN: An Explanation of Matt. 13th. 18 cts.; postage 1 ct.

NEW FACTS UPON ALL SUBJECTS. By the Author of "Enquire Within upon Everything." Useful to the housekeeper, and to persons of every profession. $1.00; postage 12 cts.

GOD MISUNDERSTOOD: or, Is Eternal Evil compatible with the character of God? By David Wardlaw Scott. 40 cts.; postage 3 cts.

CHRISTIANITY IN RELATION TO JUDAISM: A reply to the Pan-Christianism of N. Meyer. By G. Greenwell. 25 cts.; postage 2 cts.

THE LIFE OF JESUS: A CRITICAL EXAMINATION of Ernest Renan's famous work. By the same author. 25 cts.; postage 2 cts.

THE HOPE OF LIFE ETERNAL. By the same author. 25 cts.; postage 2 cts.

REASONS WHY ALL CHRISTIANS SHOULD READ God's written Word in Greek. 25 cts.; postage 2 cts.

HOMES OF OLD ENGLISH WRITERS, introducing the reader to the birth places and homes of old English authors. $1.00; postage 16 cts.

BUNYAN'S HOLY WAR. A pretty edition of the Dreamer's Work. $1.00; postage 16 cts.

FOX'S BOOK OF MARTYRS. In the same binding as the two preceding. $1.00; postage 16 cts.

Rev. H. Constable's Works.

DURATION AND NATURE OF FUTURE PUNISHMENT—fourth and last edition—containing 330 pp. Neatly bound. $1.00; postage 16 cts.

THE LOVE OF GOD VINDICATED. By the same author. Per dozen, 36 cts.; postage 2 cts.

THE QUESTIONS OF FUTURE PUNISHMENT and Contingent Immortality. By Chas. Underhill. 8 cts.; postage 1 ct.

POPULAR THEOLOGY BROUGHT TO THE TEST OF Holy Scripture. By the same author. 8 cts.; postage 1 ct.

IMMORTALITY ONLY IN CHRIST. By J. G. Groom. Per dozen, 12 cts.

Business.

Notes to Correspondents.

☞ We cannot discontinue or send your orders, unless you give us the POST OFFICE and STATE in PLAIN LETTERS.

☞ ELD. S. G. MATHEWSON'S address is Castleton, Vt.
☞ DR. D. MATHEWSON'S address is 331 Seventeenth Street, San Francisco, California.
☞ R. F. & M. J. CLARK'S address is Peach Creek, Washington Co., Kansas.
☞ WM. C. STEWART'S address hereafter will be Hinesburg, Vt.
☞ J. C. and S. E. SMITH'S address is Newton Upper Falls, Mass.
☞ ELD. J. PORTER'S address is Danville, P. Q.
☞ H. G. McCULLOCK'S address is DeKalb, De-Kalb Co., Ill.
☞ J. B. S. PILLSBURY'S address is Grantham, N. H.
☞ A. GORDON'S address is Piermont, N. H.
☞ M. A. POTTER'S address is St. Johnsbury, Vt.
☞ C. MENDENHALL'S address is Norwalk, Huron Co., Ohio.
☞ ELD. C. PIKE'S address is Massena, N. Y.
☞ J. A. CLEAVELAND'S address will be West Randolph until further notice.
☞ GEO. H. WALLACE'S address will be No. 30 Orange Street, Manchester, N. H., till further notice.

LIST OF PERSONS SENDING MONEY FOR OTHERS—J A Cargile, N W Wait, S Ayres, S F Rogers, Ira Green, R H Bateman, M W Wagner, A H Blaisdell.

CASH RECEIVED FOR BOOKS AND TRACTS.—Mrs. J Russell 30c, J M Harriman 35c, H Joyce 15c, E J Hursey 40c, A C Phipps $1.35, S Ayres 75c, J Kasler $1 50, Mrs O D Woodruff $1.00, H S Kinsey $1 00, Etta M Young 40c, J H Deyo 5c, J Bigwood 10c, E Forest 40c, Mrs J Howard 20c, J Gierlow $3.00, D Killam 25c, J P Goodwin 15c, W K Dewey 25c, J Newlin $9 00.

BOOKS AND TRACTS SENT.—By Mail—J Crosby, E G Hussey, C Jones, J M Harrison, P J Davis, H Joyce, Mrs J Russell, J Whyman, J M Prime, T J Williamson, W R Peterson, J Easler, J O Corttis, H S Kinsey, Mrs O D Woodruff, J B Wadsworth, Frank Burr, J Bigwood, Mrs J Howard, J H Deyo, Etta M Young, M Wade, J P Goodwin.
By Express—H T Hart, A C Phipps.

ARTICLES RECEIVED.—S E Teeple, A S Burnham, M Whitney, J M Crouse, D Killam, H W Williams, J Cunningham, R N Stetson, J R Smith, J Cunningham, V P Simmons, R F Emerson, —— Cameron, A P Moore, E L Jewell, D K Barrett, L J Bartlett, D W Sornberger, A Pomeroy, M McKinstry, W O Higley, E Bacon, D D Coffey, M Whitney, H Pratt, H A King.

Catalogue
OF BOOKS AND TRACTS

FOR SALE AT THE OFFICE OF
"THE ADV. CHRIS. PUB. SOCIETY,"
160 HANOVER STREET.

BIBLE DICTIONARY. Five colored maps, two hundred and fifty Engravings. Sheep, $2.25; cloth, $1.50; postage, 25 cts.
BEREAN'S CASKET AND REPOSITORY. By I. C. Wellcome. Cloth, $2.00; leather, $2.50.
CRUDEN'S CONCORDANCE. Sheep, $2.00; cloth, $1.50; postage, 25 cts.
CHRISTIAN BAPTISM. By I. C. Wellcome. 25 cts.
ENGLISH REFERENCE BIBLES. Minion: calf, morocco, circuit bindings, from $2.50 to $4 25. Nonpareil: calf, morocco, circuit bindings, from $2.00 to $3.50. Pearl: calf, morocco, circuit bindings, from $1.50 to $3 00. Diamond: calf, morocco, circuit bindings, from $1 25 to $2.00.
FABLES OF INFIDELITY and Facts of Faith. By Robert Patterson. Cloth, $1.00.
FUTURITY; or, The Hereafter of all Men. By Wm. Sheldon. 22 cts.
GOOD TIDINGS. Cloth, 50 cts. Postage, 16 cts. By express, $5.00 per dozen.
GREEK AND ENGLISH CONCORDANCE. By Hudson and Hastings. Cloth, $2.50; leather, $3.50; postage, 12 cts.
HYMNS OF JUBILEE HARP. Cloth, sprinkled edges, $7.00 per dozen; $55.00 per hundred; single, 75 cts. Leather, gilt edge, $9.50 per dozen; $75.00 per hundred; single, $1.00; postage 15 cts. single copy.
IMMORTALITY. By J. H. Whitmore. Cloth, $1.00.
IS IT HERESY? By J. Couch. 15 cts. per doz.
JUBILEE HARP, Hymn, and Tune Book. Plain cloth, leather back, colored edge, $9.00 per doz.; single, $1.00. Extra cloth, leather back, gilt edge, $10.50 per dozen; single $1.15. Extra cloth, leather back, gilt edge and covers, $12 per doz.; single, $1.25. Postage 12 cts. single copy.
HISTORY OF THE ADVENT MESSAGE. By I. C. Wellcome. Price $3.50.
JUDGMENT IMPENDING. By L. T. Cunningham. 8 cts.; 75 cts. per doz.; $5.00 per hundred.
MATTHEW 24 and 25. An Exposition. By I. C. Wellcome. 27 cts.
PILGRIM PSALMS. Sunday-school Hymn and Tune Book. Paper covers, $3.00 per dozen; stiff covers, $3.60.
PREPARE TO MEET THY GOD. Behold, the Judge standeth before the door. 10 cts. per dozen; 40 cts. per hundred.
REASONS FOR MY HOPE; or, Tokens of Redemption. By H. L. Hastings. 25 cts.
SCRIPTURAL QUESTION-BOOK. Single, 17 cts.; per dozen, by express, $1.25; by mail, $1.60.
SYMBOLIZATION of the World's Eventful Crisis. By O. R. Fassett. 4 cts; 20 cts. per dozen.
SPIRITUALISM UNVEILED. By M. Grant. 15 cts; 8 copies, $1.00; $10.00 per hundred.
THE End of the King of the North and the Impending time of Trouble. By L. T. Cunningham. 48 pages; 8 cts; 75 cts. per dozen; $5.00 per hundred.
THE Bible Text-Book. For Ministers, Teachers, and Students. 50 cts.
THE Plan of Redemption. By Wellcome & Goud. $1.25.
The Nature of Man. By M. Grant and others. 25 cts; $2.25 per dozen.
The Emphatic Diaglott. Containing the original Greek Text of the New Testament, according to the recension of Griesbach; with an interlinear word-for-word translation. Cloth, $4.10; leather back, $5.16.
The First-day Sabbath. By T. M. Preble. $1.50.
The Destiny of Man. By W. Erwin, $1.35; gilt, $1.65.
Trumpet for the Watchman. By Geo. Thomson. 20 cts. $1.75 per dozen; $11.00 per one hundred.
Who are Sadducees? By Geo. Thomson. 10 cts.
What is Man? By M. Grant. 6 cts.
Young Pilgrim Stories. Illustrated. By "Uncle Pilgrim." 2 vols., 50 cts. each.
Young Pilgrim Stories. Tract form. 30 cts. per dozen; $2.00 per hundred.
Yahveh-Christ. The Coming One. By L. T. Cunningham. 8 cts. 75 cts.
Is Christ's Second Coming in the Past? By Wm. Sheldon. 15 cts. per dozen; 60 cts. per hundred.

THE TRUE SABBATH.
WHICH DAY SHALL WE KEEP?
AN EXAMINATION OF
MRS. ELLEN G. WHITE'S VISIONS.
BY MILES GRANT.
ISSUED
BY THE ADV. CHRIS. PUB. SOCIETY,
A NEW WORK

On the Sabbath of the Old Covenant. An investigation of Mrs. E. G. White's Visions, showing that they are not from God.

All who have accepted Mrs. White's visions as coming from heaven, or who have been led to rest on Saturday instead of the Lord's day, should read this work. Let those who live among our Seventh-day brethren send and get a number of the books to give away. If the reader has friends at a distance who have received Mrs. W.'s Visions as true, have a copy of this work sent to them.

It contains 106 pages, and we will send it at the following prices: Single copy, 20 cts.; per doz., $1.75 by mail; per hundred, $10.00 by express. AGENT.

A NEW TRACT.
ATHEISM CONFOUNDED,
AND
THE FACT OF GOD'S EXISTENCE ESTABLISHED.
BY A. W. SIBLEY.

A valuable little Tract of eight pages—just the thing to circulate in these times of unbelief and skepticism. Price by mail, 15 cents per dozen. AGENT.

"THE MYSTERY EXPLAINED:
OR,
AN EXPOSITION OF THE WOMAN AND THE SCARLET-COLORED BEAST"
In the 17th Chapter of Revelation.
SHOWING WE ARE NEAR THE END OF THE PRESENT DISPENSATION."
BY MILES GRANT.

This valuable and interesting tract is now ready, and for sale at this Office. Price by mail, single copy, 8 cts; four copies for 25 cts.; per dozen, 75 cts. AG'T.

LOOKING FOR THE PERFECT.

I. I. LESLIE.

I look for the perfect,
But nevermore here;
The mortal is erring,
The tempter is near;
The darkness around us
Hides many a snare;
And few are the voices
That bid us beware.
I look for the perfect,
But not among men
As weak and as sinful
As angels have been.
The sanctified, holy,
Are frail as the reed;
Of mercy, forgiveness,
Each ever has need.
I look for the perfect—
Here changing are all;
The fairest and dearest,
Around me they fall.
The beautiful fadeth,
The firmest decays,
The purest corrupeth,
The best seek for praise.
I look for the perfect,
It comes by and by,
When the mortal has vanished,
And we no more die;
When thinking and acting
Will all be divine,
And in the full image
Of Him we shall shine.
I look for the perfect,
What day, O so bright!
Then beautiful ever,
We'll dwell in its light;
And mingle with angels,
That glittering throng,
And swell the long anthem,
The ever new song.

THE KINGDOM OF GOD.

R. MORRILL.

(Concluded.)

Having found by the word of the Lord, that the holy land is the locality of the kingdom of God, we will now inquire, Where is the furnace of fire? Where is the hell of the ungodly? As we, without the word, are entirely ignorant in regard to the matter, we will let the inspired apostle answer: "The heavens and the earth which are now . . . are kept in store, reserved unto fire against the day of judgment, and perdition of ungodly men." 2 Pet. 3: 7. See vs. 10. This makes it plain, that the earth, deluged with fire, will be the perdition, or hell, of the wicked. This will then be the hell which will destroy "both soul and body (Matt. 10: 28), which will burn up all the wicked, "that it shall leave them neither root nor branch." Mal. 4: 1. And the Bible mentions no place for the punishment of the wicked but the earth—the burning earth.

But we notice that the wicked will be gathered out of the kingdom, and cast into the fire, which we know would be unnecessary, if the kingdom should be deluged with fire. We notice also, that Jesus said these words in explaining a parable (Matt. 13: 41, 42); therefore he must necessarily be using literal language; for figurative language never can explain a parable. We notice further, that the angels will do this work. And, as this will be a literal event, we find that the literal angels will really gather the wicked out of Christ's kingdom, and cast them into literal fire.

But let us suppose that heaven is the kingdom; then the wicked will be gathered out of heaven! Do any of us suppose the ungodly will ever be permitted to enter that holy place? The idea is too absurd to require a serious thought. So, we are driven to the conclusion that the holy land, the place where our Lord preached and did his mighty works, is his kingdom; and when the fire deluges the earth, it will not reach God's holy mountain, nor the immortal saints, then dwelling there, with Jesus their king. There are exceptions to many general rules. Although "it is appointed unto men once to die" (Heb. 9: 27), and "death passed upon all men" (Rom. 5: 12), yet our dear Savior tells us that those who live at the time of the resurrection, and believe in him, will "never die." John 11: 26. And we read in 1 Cor. 15: 51, "We shall not all sleep." So, although the heavens and the earth which are now, by the same word are kept in store, reserved unto fire, although the mountains will melt like wax, and flow down (Mic. 1: 4; Isa. 64: 1), yet, the fire will not touch the kingdom where Jesus and all his dear saints are, shining as the sun. "Mount Zion which cannot be removed, but abideth forever." Ps. 125: 1. Still there is no contradiction in these texts. Although we read, "Death passed upon all men," we do not read, the sentence will be executed upon all. Although we read that the earth is reserved with fire, we do not read, that the whole earth will be enveloped in flame.

But we might suppose that, in Ps. 125: 1, the Psalmist means the church, if the church were not also referred to in the same text. It reads, "They that trust in the Lord shall be as mount Zion, which cannot be removed, but abideth forever." That is, mount Zion cannot be removed, but abideth forever; so with God's children. Other mountains will flow down like water, and the wicked will perish in the fiery deluge; but mount Zion will not be removed, neither will they that trust in the Lord, who are hid away there, in the many mansions of our Father's house (John 14: 2), the chambers the prophet refers to. Isa. 26: 20, 21. O, how beautifully harmonious is God's word.

But the kingdom will be cleansed by the angels; for, in the end of this age, not in the age to come, Christ "shall send forth his angels [if heaven were his kingdom, he would not need to send the angels], and they shall gather out of his kingdom all things that offend." Matt. 13: 40, 41. Then it will be as pure as fire could make it, as pure as heaven itself. It will be a fit place for our King to establish his throne,—the throne of his glory,—before which all nations will be gathered to receive sentence from their righteous Judge. After the sentence, the angels will gather out of the kingdom all the workers of iniquity, and cast them into the fire,—the earth deluged with fire—where they will receive their just reward, and be as though they had not been. Oba. 16.

But the dear saints will go into life eternal; be changed in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, and become immortal. 1 Cor. 15: 51–54. Then they will shine forth as the sun in the kingdom of their Father. Matt. 13: 43. We shall then eat of the tree of life, and drink of the water of life freely, in the New Jerusalem*, the paradise of God.

* Many suppose the New Jerusalem will not come down from heaven till the whole earth is made new. But please notice that Rev. 21: 2 commences with the words—"And I John saw"; and please observe that, in the book of Revelation, where this and similar expressions are found, it is generally the beginning of a new subject, which commences back and covers a part of the same ground again. Also please notice that the New Jerusalem descends to earth with the bride—the saints. Rev. 21: 9, 10; 19: 7, 8 And notice that the wicked exist for a time (for a short time only) after the holy city comes down (Rev. 22: 14, 15); which cannot be true after the burning day.

After the great burning day, when the whole face of the earth is purified and made like the garden of Eden, and the atmosphere we breathe is cleansed from all poisonous elements, then the "dominion, and the greatness of the kingdom under the whole heaven, shall be given to the people of the saints of the Most High, whose kingdom is an everlasting kingdom, and all dominions shall serve and obey him." Dan. 7: 27. Then Jesus will be king over all the earth, and the whole earth will be filled with his glory. O, it will be blessed living then—glorious—praise the Lord forever. And the best of it all is, we shall never die and lose that happy state. We shall always live, with perfect health to enjoy it. O let us all say, By the help of the Lord, we will be there.

"When we've been there ten thousand years,
Bright shining as the sun,
We've no less days to sing God's praise,
Than when we first begun."

AT HOME AGAIN.

The summer has passed and the frosts of autumn are upon us, and I can hardly realize the fact, as I have been "in journeyings often" since the first of June last, till Sept. 9th, only tarrying at home for a week during the time.

Early in June, I started for Reading, Mich., stopping one night in Gerry, Chaut. Co., to visit dear Bro. and Sr. Wilson, who are on the down-hill side of life, yet rejoicing in the "blessed hope" of soon seeing Jesus, whom they have waited for these many years, and have laid away children and an aged father (Jonathan Wilson, the Bibleite) during this waiting time. They have preaching here once a month by Eld. C. W. Low, of Fredonia.

Spent one Sunday with the scattered few at East Randolph, Catt Co., and endeavored to administer comfort as best I could from the word of truth. They are almost disheartened, as they have a nice chapel to worship in, but no one to preach the blessed truths we love so dearly.

A wide field is open in that locality, and the people are "perishing for lack of knowledge." Would that some faithful servant who knows how to trust in God might go there, "in the fullness of the blessing of the gospel," and gather the sheep who are scattered upon the mountains, and beseech the people to become reconciled to God through Jesus Christ, ere he shall leave the mercy-seat, and with the angels come to sever the "wheat from the tares."

Visited many families and commended them to God, during my short stay among them, and distributed tracts and back numbers of our papers, and went on to Jamestown, to find a cordial reception among tried friends, who love the truth. I had the privilege of speaking in the Baptist church from Matt. 24: 34—"Come, ye blessed of my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world." Left there in company with Sr. Burlin, for Norwalk, O., having been delayed over a week by the change made in Bro. A. W. Sibley's appointment, which caused the notice in Crisis, from the officers of the Norwalk church, for "ministering brethren to confer with church when wishing to preach there." But I did not apply this to myself, as I belonged to the "sisters," and I had conferred with said committee weeks previously, but gave Bro. S. the appointment, which gave me the chance to speak at Jamestown.

We had a refreshing time at Norwalk, and the church was well filled, while I spoke several evenings and over one Sunday. I also spoke one evening at Fairfield, meeting with warm-hearted friends, who made me very comfortable and much at home. This was especially the case at Bro. and Sr. Rogers', in Norwalk, who have kept a pilgrim's home for years. They invited many of the church to visit with me, to avoid the waste of strength in visiting from house to house, as is my usual custom. However, I made one visit at the house of Bro. P. Alling, who has a dear son, who met with an injury some three years ago, and who has no use of his lower limbs, and but little of his arms, not even to feed himself; yet he is an example of patience and cheerfulness, which would put to shame many professors of religion. He told me "the Lord had done much for' him, and that he had rather be as he was, than to be well, without the hope of eternal life in the world to come. I feel still to pray in faith that the Lord will restore the use of his limbs. Pray for him, ye who have access at the throne of grace, for "the prayer of faith shall save the sick."

The church at Norwalk were sadly disappointed in not securing Bro. Burr as pastor, but he had obligated himself as Editor of the A. C. Times for another year.

On July 2nd, I started for Reading, Mich., and arrived safely to find Eld. A. N. Seymour and Bro. Page at the depot, and was taken to the home of Bro. and Sr. Page, formerly from Albion, this State. Many friends called to see me in the evening, and made me feel quiet at home.

Bro. Thomas and wife, and two sons and wives, came to this place from Waterbury, Vt., a few years ago and settled, and because there was no Advent church, united with the Free-will Baptist people. Their minister was willing I should occupy the church when they had no meetings, which we accepted, speaking in the Presbyterian church a part of the time, when the Baptist occupied theirs.

Commenced my labor there on July 4th, and spoke in the morning from 2 Cor. 4: 5, "For we preach not ourselves, but Christ Jesus the Lord; and ourselves your servants for Jesus' sake." In the afternoon from Heb. 11: 14, "For they that say such things declare plainly that they seek a country." I thought it a befitting occasion to set forth a declaration of "the faith once delivered to the saints," as the people of these U. S. were celebrating the "Declaration of Independence."

The Lord blessed his own truth, and many who were before much prejudiced lost it all, and came ever after to hear. Bro. and Sr. Seymour, whom I had not seen for more than thirty years, assisted in the meetings. I spoke nine times there, and two of the ministers of the place came to hear me, but the Methodist would not so much as read a notice of the meetings from his pulpit, but said "he knew the Lord would not come for thousands of years yet," and preached a sermon after I left to that effect, as I am informed. Poor man. I pity him, for I fear while he is "crying peace and safety," he will be overtaken as a "thief." May his eyes be opened and anointed with the eye-salve of truth, that he "may discern the signs of the times." He endeavored to keep his people from going to hear on the subject, but some did break away, and were much blest, and said "the Bible had become a new book to them." Such is the power of truth upon the human heart, accompanied by the Holy Spirit. I feel that a good work might have been done, could the meeting have continued, though it was harvest time and very difficult for farmers to attend, only on Sundays.

I spent one Sunday at Alagansee, where Bro. Preston labors regularly, to much acceptance among the people. Found a good company of believers who meet in a school-house, who are looking for Jesus. The Lord helped me to speak to a full house three times, though I was threatened that day with chills and fever. Returned to Reading on the morrow, but was too unwell to meet my appointments, and used means for my recovery which the Lord blest, so that I was enabled to meet my engagedness at the Quarterly Meeting at Norwalk, on July 25th. The Lord gave me much liberty in presenting the truth, and strengthened me physically. Thank his great and holy name. We had a blessed time at the love feast and around the table of the Lord. We bade them adieu after the evening service, they extending to me a cordial invitation to come among them again, and preach the gospel in their midst. The way has not opened clearly as yet to accept it, though I do most sincerely appreciate their kindness to me.

Left N. on Monday morning, via Lake Shore R. R., stopping at Bro. and Sr. Alling's, Dunkirk, N. Y. Though strangers in the flesh, we soon became acquainted, for we are looking for the same things and same blessed country.

The next day arrived home to find my family all well as usual. Remained at home one week, and re-packed my trunk for Springfield campmeeting, arriving the day before it commenced. This is a hallowed spot to me, and though it costs me much effort to go there, I am always paid at that "Feast of Tabernacles." Here I met friends of "long ago," in my own N. E. home.

I did not expect to attend the Alton Bay meeting, but the Lord opened the way for me to go, and gave me the chance to visit our dear sister, Thera Weaver, which privilege I had not had for seven years. I found her the same sufferer, bearing her troubles with a brave heart, trusting in God, and looking earnestly for deliverance. I spoke two evenings in the house of Eld. G. A. Streeter, where she is, especially for her benefit. Many of their neighbors were in to hear, and we had, I trust, a profitable meeting.

I also spoke two evenings at Granby, Mass., at Batchelor St., and had a school-house well filled, notwithstanding the rain had poured during the daytime. Visited relatives at Leominster and Worcester, my native place, not forgotting to look at the green mounds in the cemetery, under which lie my dear ones who sleep in Jesus.

Had the privilege while at Worcester, Mass., of hearing Bro. Cargile from the South. My heart bounded with joy when first I saw him on the camp-ground. May God bless him more and more in that southern field this coming winter, and I have felt oftentimes when I have read his letters in Crisis, that if I had wings I certainly would help him sound the trumpet of alarm there, now and then. But go where you may, the "Macedonian Cry" is blown on every gale. Then I had the blessed privilege of visiting one of my old places of labor at Putnam, Ct., and though many of the church were absent at campmeeting, the chapel was well filled; but oh, death has done his work there. Bro. Read is no more, Bro. Leonard's seat is vacant, and Bro. Warren is gone, and their widows sit in mourning. Bro. P. S. Butler, the faithful watchman, still continues to preach statedly to them. Many were the recollections that crowded upon my mind, as I took my seat in the desk made by the hands of one who sleeps in the dust. A few years ago I went there a lone stranger, to speak about the coming of Christ, and but five could be found who were in sympathy with these truths. But now the prospect is that the chapel will soon be too small to accommodate the people, and the banner is lifted high, and a people are making ready to welcome the Son of God from heaven. Thank the Lord.

Spent one Sunday with the little church at No. Rutland, Mass., where a good work has been done, partly through the instrumentality of lay brethren. Had a good time praising the Lord by songs and speaking about our blessed inheritance. May the Lord preserve harmony and love among them, that they abound more and more in the work of the Lord.

I regretted much that I could not have attended the R. I. campmeeting, but domestic duties claim my attention, and fearing the cold nights on the ground would bring the chills again upon me, I hastened home, Sept. 9th, thankful for the many blessings received and the care bestowed upon me.

Dear brethren and sisters, will you remember me at the throne of grace, that the Lord would direct me aright this coming season, as protracted meetings are to be held in various places, that in the little time remaining for us to work, I may do the part allotted me, and finish my course with joy.

L. M. STODDARD.

BISHOP SIMPSON'S LIFE SAVED BY PRAYER.

I remember once when there was a conference at Mt. Vernon, in this State, at which I was present, Bishop Janes was presiding one afternoon, and after reading a dispatch stating that Bishop Simpson was dying in Pittsburg, asked that the conference unite in prayer that his life might be saved. We knelt down, and Mr. Taylor, the great street preacher of California, led in one of his beautiful prayers. After the first few sentences, in which I joined with my whole heart, my mind seemed to be at ease, and I did not pay much attention to the rest of the prayer, only to notice its beauty. When we arose from our knees, I turned to a brother and said, "Bishop Simpson will not die, I feel it." I then told him how the feeling had come over me, and he assured me that he had experienced the same impressions. The word was passed around, and over thirty ministers who were present said they had the same feeling. I took my book and made a note of the hour and circumstance.

Several months afterward I met Bishop Simpson and asked him what he did to recover his health. He did not know, but the physician had said it was a miracle. He said that one afternoon, when at the point of death, the doctor left him, saying that he should be left alone for a half hour. At the end of that time the doctor returned, and immediately noticed a great change in the patient. He was startled, and asked the family what they had done for the Bishop, and they replied nothing at all. That half hour I found, by making allowances for difference in localities, was just the time when we were praying for him at Mt. Vernon. From that time on he steadily improved, and has lived to bless the church and humanity. If the Lord could touch the vitality in one direction, he could in another. Bishop Simpson's case, and ten thousand others, are living examples of that to-day. God does answer prayer for physical good. I know he does. On the God who has so often answered my prayers I will still rely, scientific men and philosophers to the contrary, notwithstanding.—Bishop Bowman.

PITTSFIELD CAMPMEETING.

This meeting commenced Sun., Sept. 5th, and closed the 12th. A goodly number of preachers, including Bro. A. A. Phelps, of N. J., and Sr. A. E. Smith, of N. Y., were present to preach the word. The preaching was earnest, spiritual, and well calculated to unite and strengthen the flock of Christ. This was the largest and in some respects the best meeting ever held in Pittsfield, and we trust much good to the suffering cause of Christ in Maine will result therefrom. It has increased in interest and numbers from year to year. God has signally blest the labors of a few who have toiled and struggled through difficulties and discouragements to bring this meeting to its present position. It was soul-cheering to hear so many testify to the goodness of God in bringing them to this place, where they first found pardon of their sins, and a love for the society of saints. The best of order prevailed through the entire meeting. The running expenses of the meeting, also for a new boarding tent, preacher's stand, and lumber for additional seating, were daily met, so there is no debt upon us.

At a business meeting held under the mission tent, Sept. 9th, the campmeeting committee of last year were re-elected, with two additional members, Brethren Paul Ames, of Unity, and Owen Wincapaw, of Friendship. Bro. J. Carr was chosen Chairman and Treasurer, and O. S. French, Secretary. Last year this meeting was placed on a missionary basis, and some three hundred and sixty-four (364) dollars in money and pledges were raised for the State tent and mission fund. This year it was thought best to resolve this campmeeting com. together with those co-operating with it, into an association, to be known as the East Maine Missionary Association, also that the money raised at this meeting, and others that may be held, all contributions and pledges, be put into the hands of the treasurer, to be expended by the com. in eastern Maine, in holding an annual campmeeting, tent meetings, furnishing tracts and sending preachers into new places.

About $300 in money and pledges were raised as a beginning of a missionary fund, and we hope our brethren and sisters will take hold of this matter in earnest, and keep the fund supplied, that the gospel of the kingdom may go into the regions beyond.

Money may be sent to the treasurer, Eld. J. Carr, South Albion, Maine, or handed to either of the committee.

The first meeting of this Association will be held with the church in Levant, at the new chapel, commencing Thursday, Oct. 28th, 1875, and hold over the following Sunday. Brethren and sisters are invited to come to this meeting, to labor for the salvation of sinners and the confirmation of saints.

O. S. FRENCH, Sec.

WHAT SHALL WE DO FOR THE DISTRIBUTION OF TRACTS?

Are they worth anything? Have they done any one good? Have they ever done you, my brother or sister, any good? Do you prize them as much as you did once? or do you have a sort of indifference, and care but little as to whether they are scattered among others to give light or not? Is the world any better off for them?

Have the many different kinds of ably written tracts and larger works,—such as "Key of Truth," "What to Believe," "Scripture, or Popular Theology," "Prepare to meet thy God," "Destiny of the Wicked," "Reasons of my Hope," "Anti-eternal Torment," "The Nature of Man," "What is Man?" Signs of the Times," "Ives on the Soul," "Whitmore on Immortality," "Good Tidings," "Futurity," "Fables of Infidelity," "The Soul, What is it?" "The Spirit, What is it?" and many other important tracts too numerous to mention,—done any good? Have they given any light to any one on these great important truths that we as a people hold? If they have, are we willing to send others out? Is the judgment message worthy of our attention? or has it lost its power with us as a people? If it has, how pitiable our condition. What shame and dismay will rest upon us at the last great day, as we shall stand and give an account! O, may the life-giving power that once the body felt be infused into every heart, and a rally once more be made for God and his truth.

Now is the time to act decisively in this matter. There is no time for delay. If we would see good done, and have a poor, starving, guilty world warned of the immediate destiny of the human family, we must act now. A thousand missionaries ought to be put into the field at once, and tracts and larger works of all kinds, relative to the truths the Bible teaches, put into their hands to scatter far and near.

The broad fields of the West stand wide open for the truth as it is in Jesus. The sunny South cries out for help, and all over these United States, in destitute communities, among the poor and needy, the rich and lofty, in the workshops and streets, at the firesides and in the busy whirl of active life, the Lord's coming and a preparation to meet him should be heralded forth. O that they might go, and be scattered as the autumn leaves.

But some one must carry them, and those who have the means ought to give unto the Lord now, that these precious gems, which speak of love, joy, peace, long-suffering, gentleness, brotherly-kindness, eternal life, glory, honor, immortality, the new heavens and earth, with a thousand other blessings, might be sowed all over the land, among the sick and afflicted, the poor and needy, and in every circle in life, to every kindred, tongue and people.

O that those tracts and books which now lie idle in your parlors and sitting-rooms, your drawer and book cases, and the many thousands of pages that are piled up at the publishing houses, might be scattered. Your neighbors would like to read them. Have you ever thought of lending to the Lord? When you go to your work, do you ever think of taking a book or tract for some one? You who visit, and spend a day or two, or less, could you not make it a point to leave something good behind, and that which will go before to judgment?

These silent preachers, sown beside all waters, will not return void. No, no; God will take care of them. If you sow the seed, another may water, and God will give the increase. What you give to another will be scattered abroad. A goodly number West and East, that I am acquainted with, have been thus doing, and their work has been blest of the Lord; a whole neighborhood, often, and sometimes a whole city, has been stirred on account of these silent messengers, and many led to rejoice with joy unspeakable and full of glory.

Now, brethren and sisters, you all know, in a measure, what a vast amount of good these silent preachers are doing, and that we might scatter fifty times as many as we now do as a body; then those that have been piled up so long would be a blessing to others. Had I fifty thousand dollars, one half should go for the spread of truth, for the sending forth of laborers, and the publication of these glorious truths of coming glory and speedy redemption; and the rest should be used to the Lord's glory in feeding the poor and clothing the naked.

I am satisfied that our work is soon to close, and this is the reason why we ought to do what the Lord would have us; not to be seen of men, but for his own glory, and for the spread of his own blessed truth. O that our hearts may become tender before him! and may our whole duty be done in his fear, that he may say "Well done, thou good and faithful servant, enter into the joy of thy Lord."

J. C. SMITH.

BRO. S. S. BREWER TO BRO. L. BOUTELL.

DEAR BRO. B.:—

We are now amid the hills of the old Granite State,
And having precious seasons, some few I will relate.
Up in the vineyard here it needs some careful tillage,
As I was brought to learn, especially in Lake Village.
Divisions have crept in and torn them from each other,
And severed tender ties—brother from his brother.
O how the cause doth bleed, truth's enemies are glad,
When I would sing for joy, my heart is grieved and sad.
Yet still, amid my grief, and shedding often tears,
The Lord doth bless his truth, in spite of all my fears.
Old friends come out to hear the message of free grace,
That made my heart rejoice to see the yet familiar face.
The Lord made bare his arm, and blessings did distill
Upon the waiting ones, in the chapel on the hill.
Up next to Haverhill, to worship in the tent;
We bade our friends farewell, then took the cars and went.
There found a praying company, rejoicing in salvation,
Expecting soon the coming One to consummate redemption.
The Lord indeed did bless and smile in approbation
The efforts of the humble ones in prayer and exhortation.
Some precious souls were brought to feel the arrows of conviction,
While list'ning to the preaching of the holy One's prediction.
Weary and worn, to Landaff next our spirit was inclined
To journey next among the hills, a resting place to find.
Through mercy we were safely brought to reach the appointed place,
And find a hearty welcome, and greet each smiling face.
Sad is the cause indeed at this once favored spot,
Truths that once moved all hearts seemed there to be forgot.
Love of the world and unbelief hath vanished light away,
And cold indifference' fatal snare stalks in the open day.
The world and all its votaries, its honors, wealth, and fame,
Is doomed to perish very soon, 'mid darkness, wo and flame.
O, ye who heard the trumpet sound upon old Landaff hill,
Awake! and let its dying notes again your bosom thrill.
We used the blessed means of grace, and did the best we could,
And pray the efforts that were made may do at least some good.
When certain days were past, and all our meetings ended,
We came to Sugar Hill, for so we had intended.
Here in this favored spot, that bears so sweet a name,
To preach and see the saints, by their request we came.
The Lord hath blest us here, our hearts have glowed with love;
We have felt the Spirit come down streaming from above.
O, how I love to tell the glorious old, old story,
The coming of our King, which IS THE CROWNING GLORY!
O, how the signals gleam amid the gloom and fear,
Creation's dread unrest bespeak the judgment near.
Rome's guilty "MAN OF SIN," all steeped in purple gore,
That made the nations quail in the dark days of yore;
The relic of an age, when saints beneath his ire
Were tortured with demoniac rage, and then consumed with fire,
Now utters forth a wail of wo upon the trembling brink;
Soon Babylon, earth's mortal foe, shall like a millstone sink.
I hail each blessed harbinger that sheds its rays of light
Amid the gathering clouds of gloom, they make our pathway bright.
The seventh trumpet soon will sound, God's mystery will be finished,
'Twill never do to add thereto, nor neither to diminish.
God's purpose now is fixed, mortals can change it never;
Next God and the Son begin their reign FOREVER AND EVER.
God's mystery finished—yes, "FINISHED," death and Satan dead,
The church redeemed, and forever with their living Head.
God's mystery finished could not be, if death, and groans, and tears,
And Satan and his hosts could live after one thousand years.
No, THE HARVEST IS THE END, our blessed Lord declares,
Old Satan then will be DESTROYED with all the bundled tares.
Then shall the new creation rise, in beaming glory bright,
And man immortal shall be there, arrayed in glorious light.
O come, thou source of all my joys, and banish night away,
O, new creation's Sun arise of an UNENDING DAY.
Amen! even so come, Lord Jesus.

S. S. BREWER.

Sugar Hill, N. H., Sept. 23d, 1875.

LUTHER'S soul was cheered in his darkest hours by the letters which came to him from all parts of Germany with the assurance, "We are praying for you."

OPEN AIR MEETINGS.

O. D. WOODRUFF.

One of these was our Connecticut campmeeting this year, with results more satisfactory than ever before, and largely due, by the blessing of the Lord, to the change in conducting and general management of the meeting. Brethren connected with the direction of campmeetings in other places are interested to know the effect of attempting a campmeeting without a boarding table, and no free board. We can now report that the experiment has been made at our Connecticut campmeeting this fall, and those who were fearful and doubting lest it prove a failure, are now the staunchest supporters of the new system. There were nearly fifty tents in the encampment. The best of order prevailed throughout. The hours for rest in sleep were unsurpassed by the quiet of home, as we pillowed our heads under the protecting care of the Angel of the Lord.

With our early morning meeting at six, one at eight for the sisters, children's meeting same hour, general prayer and conference meeting at nine, preaching at ten thirty, young prople's meeting at one P. M., preaching at two, prayer meetings at four and six, preaching at seven thirty, followed by a prayer-meeting till ten P. M.; the time was well taken up. The spirit manifested excellent, preaching mostly good, some converted, three baptized, the saints quickened, and we believe the Lord was glorified. All were convinced that the absence of the boarding table contributed largely to the success of the meeting. But three collections were taken during the entire meeting, and yet our receipts are in excess of expenses, and nobody went away hungry.

The preaching brethren were distributed among the tents, and kindly cared for by brethren and sisters who volunteered to aid, and for the first time we realized that in setting aside the boarding table, and free board arrangement, we had removed the chief weight and principal cause against success. The unity of the Spirit was not disturbed, and brotherly love not only continued, but seemed to abound more and more; and why should it not be thus, since every campmeeting committee experienced, in the old way of doing things, that the boarding department, from the first to the last of the meeting, is the load-stone which taxes to overcharging their skill and patience to manage. Furnish provisions, and let each one purchase to suit their wants, and a complicated and difficult problem finds an easy solution.

Open air gatherings are not of modern invention. Many of the choicest sayings of Jesus were uttered under the broad canopy of heaven, upon the mighty deep, beneath the foliage of lofty trees, or, perchance, in bright fields carpeted with living green, where the multitudes caught the life-giving words that escaped his lips amid the charming simplicity of nature's surroundings, which lent to their force and power, in strange contrast with modern houses of worship, where the taste and skill of the architect are employed to foster a spirit of inordinate vanity and refined pride, wholly at variance with the gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ, and to divert the mind and please the eye during service, somewhat as the artist rattles his bell and acts the clown to quiet the unweaned babe, while sitting for its precious little picture. The gospel is simple. Let believers retain simplicity in worship, and its power will be more manifest. Simplify apparel to the level of modesty; dispense with attractive adorning; do away with conformity to fashion and extravagance in houses of worship, as well as the apparel of the worshippers themselves, and more people could repeat the text, and tell whether the preacher had lectured on temperance or free masonry, or expounded the Scriptures, or exhibited himself and almost forgotten Christ.

Open air worship, which characterized the beginning of this dispensation, eighteen centuries ago, is still appreciated amid the perils which mark its close, as thick and fast they multiply, to fill up the measure of iniquity, in time to accommodate the great gathering which will require the dominion under the whole heaven, where sin is finished, and where congregations ne'er break up.

Why should not the tented grove possess a charm, superior in every way, since it approaches the nearest to our ideal of Paradise, as it will be when the redeemed with songs and everlasting joy shall possess it forever? Traces of the imperfectness which sin has wrought are there, and where, oh where are they not? How pleasant, as from the busy hum of city life, from the retired loneliness of the mountain side or valley, the tried and tempted ones gather to their tents with hearts knit together by the inspiring news that the King is soon coming to marshal them under his banner, in a world bright and fair. Quickened to lively exercise by a hope so blessed as this, the world appears like dross, and self sinks beneath the reach of vision. Kindly warnings to the tempted, encouraging words to the tried, exhortations to the weak, the word of faith to the weary, consolation for the afflicted, are borne by gentle breezes to the throne of high heaven, and the things which remain that are ready to die are strengthened, a little longer to endure till Messiah shall appear. But these hallowed associations are of brief duration. Soon comes along the "good-bye," and farewell, and the sacred scenes and consecrated ground are left behind, as one by one they go out single-handed and alone, to meet the conflicts of life.

From each successive campmeeting some go away for the last time. We feel their absence, and the question comes home, will my place be vacant at the next? A feeling of commingled joy and sadness intrudes, as the remembrance of the loved ones whom we have greeted in the past takes us to the green turfy mound, where they rest undisturbed and alone, and we pray with deep earnestness for the Just One to come quickly with his keys, and break the awful sadness, dry up our tears, cause the days of our mourning to cease, and bring the everlasting rest, the universal gathering, the eternal weight of glory. Faith grasps all this as a living reality, and we go on hoping, trusting, waiting. How many a lonely and weary one, struggling with the unbelieving and ungodly, with no cheering voice or encouraging word for weeks or months, is helped by the association of the campmeeting, to wait and watch and pray, and learn more perfectly the power of faith over individual experience, and the worth of christian fellowship and union. Cares multiply steadily in the world, perils thicken, dangers increase, and Jesus is coming soon. Courage, then, fellow pilgrim and stranger, for though weeping may endure for a night, joy cometh in the morning.

Southington, Ct., Sept., 1875.

HOME AND HEALTH.

GRAHAM CRACKERS.—We have found a place in New York where we can get pure graham and oatmeal crackers. They are composed only of meal and water, and will keep a long time. They are more healthy than any other kind of crackers. They can be obtained by addressing the "New York Aerating Co.," 282 Chamber St., New York City. Price of the graham crackers, 10 cts. a pound, and those made of oatmeal 11cts. They charge one cent a pound more when they send them in tin cans instead of wooden boxes. We give these facts for the benefit of those who are anxious to obtain the pure graham or oatmeal crackers.

M. G.

GOOD COMMON SENSE.

Dr. Gunn, author of the "Home Book of Health," has the following pertinent paragraphs under the head of pure air. They are worth more than a passing notice. Let them be read and indelibly printed in the minds of all who expect to live in harmony with the teachings of hygiene. The doctor says:

"Connected with improper food, impure air is the greatest cause of the excessive infant mortality in our American cities."

"The importance of free ventilation of nurseries, and the sleeping apartments of children, is not sufficiently appreciated."

"Considering the defective food and clothing of the children of the poor, and the condition of their dwellings, it is evident that much of the health which they possess, is owing to their spending much of their time during the day in the open air."

"The organs of respiration will continue healthy or become diseased, in accordance with the nature of the atmosphere, or, in plain language, as the air is pure or impure; and as they become deranged, the blood becomes vitiated, just in proportion as the air is impure. Air that has been frequently breathed is deprived of its oxygen, and becomes charged with carbon, and is thus rendered unfit for breathing. This should always be attended to, taking care to admit fresh air, and purify it in those apartments which are inhabited by children. Children evince uneasiness by crying or fretfulness; and a constant recurrence or irritating causes renders them habitually fretful. They are, therefore, injured morally as well as physically, by breathing an impure atmosphere."

"Pure air is the great promoter of healthy action in all the body, but especially in the liver, lungs, and skin, and, therefore, is more conducive to the vigorous performance of the digestive functions, and also those of the brain."

"To show you the importance of a fresh supply of air, we breathe about twenty times a minute. A healthy man spoils, by breathing, about fifty-seven hogsheads of fresh air every day. All living bodies must breath oxogen or die."

"All the animal functions are maintained by the incessant play of affinities between the atmosphere and the organs, and all are conveyed directly to the blood."

"We breathe twenty distinct and separate inspirations in one minute; 1,200 times in one hour; and 28,800 times in every twenty-four hours. See the effect this must have in breathing foul or confined air, and how much health and life depend on a copious supply of fresh air. How, then, can people overlook this fact, that to live, we must have a full supply of it."

"In proportion to the vitiation of the air by the breath, and by exhalations from the body, it becomes capable of receiving and conveying the infectious seeds of disease. Thus the disease, typhoid fever, is often produced and communicated wherever the ventilation is deficient; thus has ignorance often prepared a soil for the growth of pestilence, in every age and clime."

We might present many more practical thoughts from Dr. Gunn's able pen, but the above must suffice for the present. In the meantime let us all act on the suggestions here presented, and we certainly shall have taken the first important step healthward.—Health Reformer.

REMEDY FOR SCARLET FEVER.

The San Francisco Chronicle says that Robert Christie, of the Protero, suggests a remedy for the scarlet fever which he avers hus invariably proved successful. It is very simple, and lies within the reach of those whose limited means preclude them from employing the services of a physician. It is this: "Take an onion and cut it in halves, cut out a portion of the center, and into the cavity put a spoonful of saffron; put the pieces together, then wrap in cloth and bake in an oven until the onion is cooked so that the juice will run freely, then squeeze out all the juice and give the patient a teaspoonful at the same time rubbing the chest and throat with goose-grease or rancid bacon, if there is any cough or soreness in the throat. In a short time the fever will break out in an eruption all over the body. All that is then necessary is to keep the patient warm and protected from draught, and recovery is certain."

Mr. Christie says he has been employing this remedy for many years, and never knew it to fail when proper care was taken of the patient after its application One family, in which there were five children down with the disease at one time recently, used this simple remedy upon his telling them of it, and every one of the little ones recovered in a short time.

The World's Crisis
AND
SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

RULES FOR CORRESPONDENTS.

Over all matters not intended for publication, write:—PRIVATE.

Over all business matters, write:—BUSINESS.

Over all articles intended for the paper, write:—For the Crisis.

☞ Put business matters and appointments on separate pieces of paper, or so that they can be detached without interfering with any other communication.

When the names of NEW subscribers are sent, please say they are NEW, and it will save much labor.

All articles should be accompanied by the writer's NAME, for the Editor's information, even if it is not published.

PRIVATE LETTERS.—Those wishing to address the Editor on matters not connected with the office, please write PRIVATE on the outside of the envelope.

☞ All persons writing to the office should give distinctly and plainly the POST OFFICE, COUNTY and STATE at which they wish to be addressed; and all orders, subscriptions, communications and remittances, should be plainly directed to

☞ "THE WORLD'S CRISIS,"
Boston, Mass.

PUBLISHED ALSO AT THE SAME OFFICE,
Semi-monthly,

THE YOUNG PILGRIM

An Illustrated Sunday-School Paper,
FOR CHILDREN AND YOUTH.

TERMS: ☞ Payable always in advance.

Single copy, 50 cts. a year; and at the same rates or any number of copies under ten.

Ten copies, and any larger number under fifty, when sent to one address, 40 cts. a year for each copy.

Fifty copies, and any number over fifty, when sent to one address, 35 cts. a year for each copy.

To Canada subscribers at the same rates. No extra charge for American postage.

☞ All communications, orders, and remittances should be addressed to

"THE YOUNG PILGRIM."
Boston, Mass.

The World's Crisis
AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

"BEHOLD I COME QUICKLY; AND MY REWARD IS WITH ME."

WHOLE NO. 1041. BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 27, 1875. VOL. XLII.—NO. 2.

The World's Crisis,
AND
SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER,
Issued every Wednesday Afternoon, by the
ADVENT CHRISTIAN PUBLICATION SOCIETY,
At No. 160 Hanover Street, Boston, Mass.
GEO. T. ADAMS,
TREASURER AND BUSINESS AGENT.

JOHN COUCH, MILES GRANT, } EDITORS.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE:
S. G. MATHEWSON, L. BOUTELL,
WM. H. MITCHELL.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEE:
H. V. DAVIS, M. BATCHELOR,
L. T. CUNNINGHAM, J. G. HAMBLIN,
J. HEMENWAY.

The CRISIS is devoted to the exposition of all Bible truth; especially the doctrine of the immediate, personal coming and reign of Christ on the earth; holiness of heart; the unconscious state of the dead; their literal resurrection, and final destruction of the wicked.

THE BLOOD.

J. R. COOPER.

"My blood is drink indeed."—JOHN 6: 55.

The Scriptures speak constantly of blood. In its earliest pages, we learn God clothed naked sinners with skins of slain beasts, and its latest revelations show us Him "whose name is called "The word of God," coming down to earth "clothed with a vesture dipped in blood." Whether lawgiver, psalmist, prophet, evangelist, apostle or apocalyptic seer, who writes, they all bear witness to the blood. Is it a sinner reconciled to God on earth, or a saint redeemed eternally in glory, they sing alike of blood. If we look at the tabernacle in the wilderness, we find the blood sprinkled on the brazen altar, on the instruments and vessels of the sanctuary, blood on the floor, before the veil, on the mercy seat, and on all the worshipers. It was always blood on everything, everywhere. "It is the blood that maketh atonement for the soul," and "without shedding of blood there is no remission." Heb. 9: 22. And God says, "when I see the blood, I will pass over you." Ex. 12: 13. For the Lord was to go out about midnight throughout all the land of Egypt, and entering every house, he was to slay the first-born of each family, and that he might pass over the dwellings of his chosen, he had ordained that there should be sprinkled above each door, and on either side of it, the blood of a lamb slain; and there were thousands upon thousands of the blood of innocent lambs caught in basins on that evening for this purpose. Year after year, throughout long generations the memorial feast was kept, from that beginning of days, till the day when Christ, our passover, was sacrificed for us. Year by year, that great Red Sea of blood of lambs was made to flow by the command of God. Moreover, there were the two lambs of the continual burnt-offering, whose blood was to be shed day by day. And when we think of the sacrifices made on Sabbaths and new moons, on feast days and holy days, for vows and free-will offerings, and for Nazarites and lepers, and sin-burdened Israel, in which, at times, two thousand bullocks and seventeen thousand sheep were slain on a single occasion, and think of all this blood flowing continually during the fifteen hundred years of Jewish history, what a veritable Dead Sea, as it were, of blood, fills up before our eyes. To those who stood upon the shore of that ever-flowing, never-ebbing ocean of blood, did not its floods lift up their voice with a sound mightier than the voice of many waters, yea, than the mighty waves of the sea? Surely, yes. For they kept thundering ever in the sinner's ear, "Thy life is forfeited—is lost;" while to those "who had ears to hear," they also said, "The forfeit has been paid—thy life has been redeemed."

If that mighty tide of sacrificial blood has ceased to flow, beloved sinner, it is because the "how much more" efficacious blood of Christ has been shed once for all. Oh, my fellow-transgressors! how many of you believe in that blood? This blood of Christ which flowed from the cross, is the reality of which "all the blood of beasts on Jewish altars slain" was but the dim reflection; this is the substance of which that was the dark projected shadow. On the day of atonement, the high priest sprinkled blood before the mercy seat seven times. Lev. 16: 14. Like the other Bible sevens, which speak always of completeness, this "seven times" sprinkling tells us of a perfect presentation of a perfect object to the eye and heart of God. And when we search the New Testament Scriptures to see what the Comforter has to unfold to us regarding the blood of our Son Jesus Christ, by whom we have now received the atonement, we find its virtues set forth in seven different relationships, which manifest its sevenfold perfection to meet at once the needs of guilty sinners, and the requirements of their righteous God.

1. We have redemption through his blood." Eph. 1: 7; Col. 1: 14. Sold under sin, you and I, dear reader, and all the children of Adam, were under the dominion of death; our life was given over to destruction. The best and mightiest, the meanest and vilest, were all without strength—all gone out of the way; all under the judgment of God. "For there is no difference; for all have sinned and come short of the glory of God." All are guilty, all are lost. "What shall a man give in exchange for his soul?" is the question of Him who alone could weigh the value of a human life.

God taught his ancient people that all were to be redeemed by one price, whether rich or poor, bond or free; it was the unalterable half shekel of silver, and that redemption to only an earthly inheritance in the land of Canaan; but our redemption is to an "inheritance incorruptible, and undefiled, and that fadeth not away." David the king, and Rahab the harlot; Paul, the apostle, and Zaccheus the publican; righteous Abel, and the last sinner that shall be sprinkled with the blood that speaketh better things than his; all were redeemed at the same cost; all purchased by the blood of Him who gave himself a ransom for all. It is one ransom for each—for all; but what a price! He gave not the cattle on a thousand hills, not all the angel throngs; "He gave himself for us!" He laid not down the world, with all its glory and beauty; he laid down his life for us. He has gone now to appear in the presence of God, not with all the treasures of his creative power, "but by his own blood, he entered in once in the holy place, having obtained eternal redemption for us." No wonder Peter urges us to be holy in all manner of conversation, when he has this plea to urge: "Forasmuch as ye know that ye are not redeemed with corruptible things, as silver [half shekels] and gold, but with the precious blood of Christ, as of a lamb without spot." 1 Peter 1: 18. And John heard them crying in heaven, "Thou art worthy to take the book and to open the seals thereof; for thou wast slain, and hast redeemed us to God by thy blood." Rev. 5: 5.

2. The Holy Ghost also speaks of us as being now justified by his blood. Not only has God redeemed us to himself, he has cleared us from the imputation of guilt. If I am charged with a theft, and prove that it was not I who stole the goods, a righteous judge will not condemn, but will justify me. But if I am found guilty, I must suffer the penalty of a righteous law. But when the term of my imprisonment is over, what then? Am I still under condemnation?

Speaking to a man who had just come out of the penitentiary for stealing a pair of boots, I asked him, "Are you not afraid the policeman will arrest you again for stealing those boots?" "No. No fear of that now." "Why not?" "Because I have served out my two months of imprisonment."

Thus it is with me, the sinner. Accursed, according to the holy, just, and good law of my God, of countless transgression; I cannot answer to never a word. I am speechless, because I am guilty. But believing, through grace in Jesus Christ, I know that he loved me and gave himself for me. He come under my doom, and died my death. Identified as I am with him, I have been crucified with Christ; and the "blood and water" from his pierced side is the answer to all the claims of law against me. I have "become dead to the law by the body of Christ." If ever a fear arises at the thought of the inflexible righteousness of the Lawgiver, it is quelled by the assurance that

> "Payment he will not twice demand.
> First at my bleeding Surety's hand,
> And then again at mine."

Have you learned this second virtue of the blood of Christ, so as to be able to say, "If any man sin, we have an advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the righteous," who will neither plead for any abatement of the lawful demands of eternal justice, nor attempt to palliate our guilt, but present himself as the propiation for our sins? Then you are ready to join the company who sing praise to him that loved us and

3. "Washed us from our sins in his own blood." This third purifying property of the blood of Jesus, by virtue of which worshipers once purged should have no more consciousness of sins, is fully developed in the ninth and tenth chapters of Hebrews, where we read such words as these: "If the blood of bulls and goats, and the ashes of an heifer, sprinkling the unclean, sanctifieth to the purifying of the flesh, how much more shall the blood of Christ, who, through the eternal Spirit, offered himself without spot to God, purge your conscience from dead works, to serve the living God." And when the apostle John wrote to those whose fellowship is with the Father and with his Son, knowing what depths of sin and vileness would be revealed in each of them by that clear, cloudless, uncompromising light in which they were to walk—depths of sin and vileness that might make them shrink away from the terrible brightness,—he reminded them that "if we walk in the light, as he is in the light, we have fellowship one with another, and the blood of Jesus Christ his Son, cleanseth us from all sin."

The highest intelligence of the Scriptures, the holiest walk and closest fellowship with God, the utmost watchfulness unto prayer --not any or all of these keep us clean. No, but the blood that washed us, it cleanseth us from all sin; it keeps us clean. And when that great innumerable multitude arrayed in white, shall stand before the throne, and before the Lamb, it shall be known concerning each, that they washed their robes and made them white in the blood of the Lamb."

Oh! may the blessed Spirit give unsaved souls now to know the cleansing power of the blood of Christ, for the Lord Jesus' sake. For now, during the time of God's long-suffering patience, and here, on this earth, where the blood was shed, the great lesson taught us—"Be not deceived: neither fornicators, nor idolaters, nor adulterers, nor effeminate, nor abusers of themselves with mankind, nor thieves, nor covetous, nor drunkards, nor revilers, nor extortioners, shall inherit the kingdom of God. And such were some of you; but ye are washed, but ye are sanctified, but ye are justified in the name of the Lord Jesus, and the Spirit of our God." 1 Cor. 6: 9. Moreover, as we do not wait to be redeemed, and justified, and cleansed, neither do we wait for the Lord's coming to bring us into the presence of God.

4. But now, in Jesus Christ, ye who sometime were far off, are made nigh by the blood of Christ." Eph. 2: 13. Through him we have access by one Spirit to the Father.

> "So nigh, so very nigh to God,
> I cannot nearer be;
> For in the person of his Son,
> I am as near as he."

Even one who knows what it is to have been redeemed from death, and cleared ftom guilt aud cleansed from sin, and made nigh to God, will not be at ease in his presence, unless he has also learned this fifth power of the blood of Christ, to which the Teacher points us, when he speaks of the Father.

5. "Having made peace through the blood of his cross." Col. 1: 20. It is a thought, heaven-high above the thoughts of men, that God is pacified towards sinners in Christ, yet it is one of the plainest of the Bible verities. Oh, it does amaze me that men still talk of "making their peace with God, as though no peace were made—as though it had never been written that "He is the God of peace, that brought again from the dead our Lord Jesus, that great Shepherd of the sheep, through the blood of the everlasting covenant;" and it is stronger still, that those who pretend to understand God's word, keep preaching on to sinners to "make their peace with God;" although the foremost of the apostles, when he was sent to open the door to the Gentiles, went "preaching peace by Jesus Christ." Acts 10: 36.

It is the blessed privilege of each one of you, who believes the testimony of God, to know him as the "very God of peace," and more than that, not only is he reconciled to us by the blood of Christ; he thereby reconciles us to himself; for we read, "You that were sometime alienated, and enemies in your mind by wicked works, yet now hath he reconciled in the body of his flesh through death." Col. 1: 21, 22. See also Eph. 2: 15–17. The peace-making, the reconciliation brought about by the blood of Jesus, has thus the two-fold result—that it quells the wrath of the offended God, and quiets the rebelliousness of the offending sinner. I do not know for which of these two effects to sound the loudest note of praise. It is blessed to know that God is at peace with me, but the blessedness were incomplete had not I now been brought to be at peace with him. This is no result of long years of christian experience, but "when we were enemies, we were reconciled to God by the death of his Son." Rom. 5: 10.

Say, have you known all this blessedness? If not, why not? or how do you propose to secure it? If thou art not redeemed by the precious blood of Christ, with what other "great sum" dost thou dream of obtaining freedom from death and destruction? If thou art not justified by his blood, how shalt thou "be just with God?" If thou art not washed in his blood, wilt "thou wash thee with nitre, and take thee much soap?" and will the nitre take out the least of thy "leopard" spots, or thy much soap blanch thine "Ethiopian" blackness? If thou enterest not into the holiest by the blood of Jesus, up what "other way" dost thou mean to climb? And will it please you better to be pacified with the slight healing of your heart by them who say, "Peace, peace, when there is no peace," rather tnan to have your hearts and minds garrisoned by that "peace of God which passeth all understanding?" Beloved reader, if you have been led of the Spirit to know him as your Redeemer, then let me ask you to consider the scene of our Savior's sufferings, which involves a sixth result of the sprinkling of his blood. For it is told us that Jesus suffered without the gate with this specific object.

6. That he might sanctify the people with his own precious blood. Heb. 13: 12. He "who washed us from our sins in his own blood," hath also "made us kings and priests unto God and his Father." As the priests under the mosaic economy were consecrated by application of blood to the tip of the right ear, the thumb of the right hand, and the great toe of the right foot, so now we are sanctified, consecrated, set apart to the service of God, by reason of the application of that blood which has procured for us all other blessedness. The ear touched with such blood must be deaf now to all the siren sounds of earth, open each morning to harken unto wisdom—to hear the voice of the good Shepherd. The hand that has been used in the service of Satan, must now work faithfully in God's vineyard. "Feet that were swift to shed blood," must now walk as He walked, who left us an example that we should follow his steps. "I beseech you, therefore, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service. Let us ever remember that the blood which brings us "within the veil" carries us "without the camp." But brought, as we now are, by virtue of the blood, into such blessed relationship to God, we stand opposed to the world, the flesh, and the devil and how shall we war a good warfare against such odds?

Well, beloved, the cross, the death, the blood of Jesus Christ is our victory. The world, with all its glories and its glooms, its religions and its revelries, is crucified to us, and we to it, by that cross of our Lord Jesus Christ, which is our only glory here. Gal. 6: 14. Sin, with its sore bondage and wages of death, lost its dominion over us when we were buried with Christ by baptism into death, and we are bidden to reckon ourselves to be dead indeed unto sin also. And for that great dragon, the old serpent, called the devil and Satan, which deceiveth the whole world, and accuseth the brethren before our soul day and night,

7. "They overcame him by the blood of the Lamb." Rev. 12: 11. Such is the sevenfold preciousness and power of the blood of Christ; and this is the crown and completion of its excellence, that we have victory through the blood of the Lamb. "We are more than conquerors through Him that loved us." Amen! Hallelujah!

And now, dear reader, I might bid you go in peace—ask you to go on your way rejoicing. But the look in some of your eyes seems to say, "Tell me, is that blood for me?" Well, listen!

On a communion day, there was at the Lord's table "a woman of the city which was a sinner." She had been cleansed in the blood that cleanseth from all sin, and now sat down for the first time at the family table. The "one bread" had been partaken of; and now the "cup of blessing" was passing round from hand to hand, according to the manner. When it came to this dear woman, there came upon her such a sense of her unworthiness, that she trembled to touch it, and was ready to let it pass, when a venerable "pilgrim and stranger" who sat beside her rose up, and, holding out the cup in both hands, said: "Oh! but take it, It's for a sinner."

It was the voice of the good Shepherd, calling his own sheep by name, and leading her to fountains of living waters, and she drank that "drink indeed." If your name is "sinner," you are free to take that blood. Yes, you are welcome to it. "Drink ye all of it."

Rochester, N. Y., Sept, 1875.

32 More to Follow.

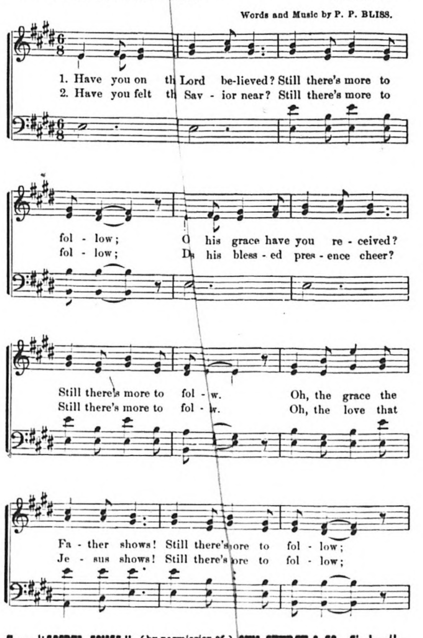
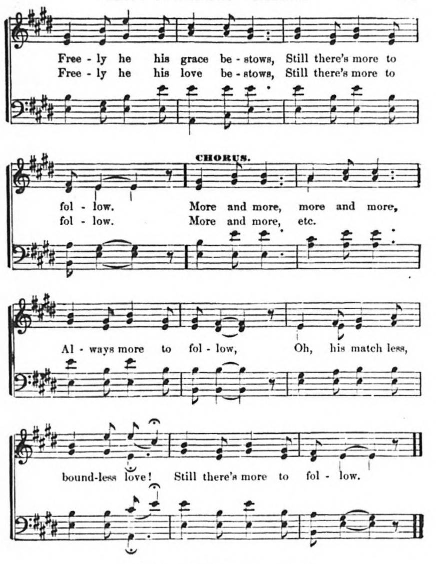
"A vast fortune was left in the hands of a minister for one of his poor parishioners. Fearing that it might be squandered if suddenly bestowed upon him, the wise minister sent him a little at a time, with a note, saying: 'This is thine; use it wisely; there is more to follow.' Brethren, that's just the way the Lord dealeth with us." D. L. MOODY.

Words and Music by P. P. BLISS.



From "GOSPEL SONGS," {by permission of the publishers} JOHN CHURCH & CO., Cincinnati,

More to Follow. Concluded. 33



> 3 Have you felt the Spirit's power?
> Still there's more to follow,
> Falling like the gentle shower?
> Still there's more to follow;
> Oh, the power the Spirit shows!
> Still there's more to follow,
> Freely he his power bestows,
> Still there's more to follow.
> More and more, etc.

From "GOSPEL SONGS," {by permission of the publishers} JOHN CHURCH & CO., Cincinnati,

UTTERMOST.

The very thought of an uttermost salvation thrills my soul. How far does that extend? beyond the reach of temptation? No; but above the power of sin; sin pardoned, Satan dethroned, guilt washed out by the blood, and the heart made pure. The saved one, however, is still exposed to temptation. In many unexpected forms, and often with redoubled energy, the adversary will pursue and strike; but our Advocate is an invulnerable fortress. In him the believer is secure; but only while abiding in him.

Do those who are saved to the uttermost feel their helplessness and constant need of Christ? Most certainly. With this consciousness of perfect deliverance, we feel our own nothingness. Safety, success, victory,—all depends on a life of faith,—the faith of the Son of God. Each moment when covered with his righteousness, upheld by his might, and permeated by his presence, the wicked one cannot harm us. But this is not merely a condition of delightful exemption from annoyance; it is an exercise of the will—always in exact harmony with, and submission to the will of God; and the employment of all our time, talents, energies, and influence, obedient to the dictates of the Master's voice, which comes to us asking, "Lord, what wilt thou have me to do?" If the command should be, Leave all and follow me, it will be hailed with as much delight as if no sacrifice or suffering is required. The latter will cause no murmur. Heaviness may at times fall upon the spirit; overflowing joy may be a stranger to the soul, and storms of sorrow may beat upon our house, but it will fall not, for it is founded on a rock.

When saved, how may we know the fact? The Spirit itself beareth witness with our spirit, and the fruits of the Spirit will be in us and abound—love, joy, peace, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance, patience, brotherly love, charity.

May the reader, my brother and sister, every one, look within our own hearts, and see if we are saved to the uttermost.—Selected by Martha Trask.

HOLINESS AND THE SECOND ADVENT.

L. D SMALL.

"Prove all things, hold fast that which is good," is an injunction which should be heeded by every professed christian, more especially those persons who believe we are in the "perilous times of the last days." Our safety depends upon our being right, upon our laying up a treasure in heaven, upon drawing the good to land, and casting the bad away. We should never discard a doctrine without first subjecting it to the light of God's word, and finding out whether it is essential to our salvation or not; for even if we find it false, it teaches us to shun the rock, as well as to keep in the current. "Examine yourselves, whether ye be in the faith," or not, should be our motto day by day.

These thoughts were very consciously impressed upon our minds while reading the report of the Advent Christian Association a short time ago. We received the impression in reading it that Holiness and the message of the Second Advent were two distinct doctrines, and should stand independent of each other. In the study of the Scriptures, as in our experience, we have found them wonderfully mixed, for which we thank the dear Lord.

May we go into the marriage supper of the Lamb, having on the wedding garment. "Holiness" is our robe of white, "without which, no man shall see the Lord." Believing that the second advent of Christ is near, without a preparation for that event, can never save us, but will only cause the deeper regret for neglected opportunities of preparing to see his face in peace, when he does come. "They that were ready went in, and the door was shut."

Let us examine the Scriptures, and see if they should stand separate. "And the Lord make you to increase and abound in love one toward another, and toward all men, even as we do toward you; to the end he may stablish your hearts unblameable in holiness before God, even our Father, at the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ with all his saints." 1 Thess. 3: 12, 13. "And the very God of peace sanctify you wholly; and I pray God your whole spirit, and soul, and body, be preserved blameless unto the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ." 1 Thess. 5: 23. "For the grace of God, that bringeth salvation, hath appeared to all men, teaching us that, denying ungodliness and worldly lusts, we should live soberly, righteously, and godly in this present world; looking for that blessed hope, and the glorious appearing of the great God and our Savior Jesus Christ; who gave himself for us, that he might redeem us from all iniquity, and purify unto himself a peculiar people, zealous of good works." Titus 2: 11–14. "Follow peace with all men, and holiness, without which no man shall see the Lord." Heb. 12: 14. "Wherefore, gird up the loins of your mind, be sober, and hope to the end for the grace that is to be brought unto you at the revelation of Jesus Christ; as obedient children, not fashioning yourselves according to the former lusts in your ignorance; but as he which called you is holy, so be ye holy in all manner of conversation; because it is written, Be ye holy; for I am holy." 1 Pet. 1: 13–16. "But the day of the Lord will come as a thief in the night; in the which the heavens shall pass away with a great noise, and the elements shall melt with fervent heat, the earth also, and the works that are therein shall be burned up. Seeing, then, that all these things shall be dissolved, what manner of persons ought ye to be in all holy conversation and godliness, looking for and hasting unto the coming of the day of God, wherein the heavens being on fire shall be dissolved, and the elements shall melt with fervent heat. Wherefore, beloved, seeing ye look for such things, be diligent, that ye may be found of him in peace, without spot and blameless." 2 Pet. 3: 10–14. "Beloved, now are we the sons of God, and it doth not yet appear what we shall be; but we know that when he shall appear, we shall be like him; for we shall see him as he is. And every man that hath this hope in him, purifieth himself, even as he is pure." 1 John 3: 2, 3.

Dear brethren, these texts are but a small part of God's word that counsels us that look for the Lord's coming to be blameless and holy in our lives. The world would have a right to judge us dishonest in our faith, if we professed to look for the immediate coming of Chaist, and made no preparation for that event. "And to her was granted that she should be arrayed in fine linen clean and white, for the fine linen is the righteousness of saints." Let us never try to separate holiness or heart purity from "our blessed hope," for we are assured that the Scriptures teach that they go hand in hand in our journeyings toward eternal life.

Above all, if we admit the necessity of holiness in this life to prepare us for that which is to come (which we think all candid persons will allow), let this be the moment to have it. Let nothing cause us to falter, or cheat us out of a seat in the kingdom of God. Be grafted into the Vine and abide therein.

COMING.

A. RICHARDSON.

The Lord is coming. I believe it. I desire a deeper realizing sense of the nearness of his coming. I desire to know just what I must do in order to be ready for his coming. When I read in his word what pure and holy beings we must be, and without spot or wrinkle, or any such thing, it seems to me that there will be but a few that will be all ready for his coming, and can hail him with joy. I ask myself the question, Shall I be among the few? I know that it is my privilege to be, if I will; but if I expect to be among that happy company, that will rejoice in that day, I must strive earnestly here. I must watch and pray. It will not do to let any one hour pass without looking up to our heavenly Father with a desire to be led and guided aright. We must guard ourselves continually against all the temptations of the enemy. We must attend to all the means of grace, if we expect to be saved when Jesus comes.

Dear sinner, what will you do in that day? I wish you might be led to see your lost and hopeless condition, and come to Christ before it is too late. And backslider, is it not high time for you to arouse yourself to a sense of your condition? You will stand without excuse in that day. And cold-hearted professor, you that say in your heart, "My Lord delayeth his coming," you that do not love the sound of his soon coming kingdom, I wish you might be persuaded to turn your ears to the truth, get the spirit and love of the coming kingdom down deep in you hearts. When our blessed Lord comes, he will raise our dead friends, change the living, and give us immortality and eternal life.

Sugar Hill, N. H.

THE SOWER SOWETH THE WORD.

ARTHUR A. WAITE.

How encouraging it is to the "sowers," who are peacefully sowing the "seed," to know that amidst the confusion of a busy world, they have the watchcare of One who orders their steps, who has numbered the hairs of their head, and assures them that he "that toucheth you, toucheth the apple of his eye." The work goes on, and the laborers beside all waters carry the "precious seed." In the morning and in the evening it is sown, wet perhaps with tears, but no fear attends him "that goeth forth weeping," for "when they went from one nation to another, from one kingdom to another people, he suffered no man to do them wrong; yea, he reproved kings for their sakes, saying, Touch not mine anointed, and do my prophets no harm."

Ofttimes the wearied laborer finds that the seed has fallen upon the wayside, and the stony ground receives some, while thorns grow up and choke some that were sown in tears; yet the good ground bears, and the Master has promised he will "come again rejoicing, bringing his sheaves with him." What a blessed "hope" this is to "him that soweth!" How I wish we had more "working" men, or "laborers" in the field, who would gird on the seed basket, and scatter the word, instead of idly watching a machine which only sows in drills, driven by one who loudly clamors that his method and invention is the only one.

Child of God, "where art thou?" See how few the laborers are. God wants you! Will you help to sow the seed, or will you keep what God has intended to accumulate, in a napkin? Perhaps you are called to sow small seed; but do sow it, even though it be as small as a "mustard seed." Let it drop upon the soil, and though it is seemingly forever lost, wait; a growing sheaf will soon mark the place where it fell, for the seed is as vital as when first delivered to man. Though it has been handled by many rude hands, it still possesses the same life power.

Therefore, dear reader, dig deep and sow the seed, "for thou knowest not whether shall prosper, either this or that, or whether they both shall be alike good." It is in "due season" that we "reap if we faint not." Do not "observe the wind;" if you do, the "prince of the power of the air" will bring up such hurricanes as to prevent you from sowing at all, should you stop to regard the clouds. The heavens will gather blackness, and you "shall not reap." Go somewhere, anywhere you see soil, and drop a "thus saith the Lord." Water the seed with tears, and have the rejoicing that only the laborer can have, who found the Lord gave "the increase."

Only lately I was called to go over to a deserted part of the field, where the "machine men" had torn up the surface, displaying their only "true method," and with a doubting, heavy heart, I commenced to sow; but the seed was vital, and it began to grow, which made the devil mad (as it always does); but the Lord was at work, and soon nearly twenty were "killed," which I "buried," and the work still goes on. "The Sower soweth the word."

MORE MOMENTUM.

The church needs a change in quality as well as quantity of membership. One half the professed christians amount to nothing. They go to church. They have a kind regard for all religious institutions. But as to any firm grip of the truth, any enthusiastic service for Christ, any cheerful self-denial, any over-mastering prayer, any capacity to strike hard blows for God, they are a failure. One of two things these half and half professors ought to do, either withdraw their names from the church roll or else go so near the fire as to get warm. Do you not know that your present position is an absurdity? You profess to be living for God and heaven, but all the world knows you are lying.

Wake up! Do something before you are dead. Either help pull the Lord's chariot, or get out of the way. We want more old-style holiness, the kind they had before railroads, steamboats, and telegraphs. A consecrated heart is momemtum for all christian work. Your gun is well enough, but the gun-carriage is rickety, and so unfit for the Lord's battery. The Lord give us all a higher life, a deeper life, a broader life. We cannot do much toward saving others till we ourselves are more surely saved. We cannot pull others out of the surf when our own feet are slipping on the rock. More purity, more faith, more consecration will be more momentum.—Christian at Work.

A MAN who has a strong mind can bear to be insulted, can bear offences, because he is strong. The weak mind snaps and snarls at a little; the strong mind bears it like a rock, and it moveth not, though a thousand breakers dash upon it, and cast their pitiful malice in spray upon its summit.

MEN tire themselves in pursuit of rest.

The World's Crisis
AND
SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

Boston, Wednesday, Oct. 27, 1875.

TAKE NOTICE.

All subscriptions for the "CRISIS," issued from this time forward, are at the rate of

$2.25 a year, payable IN ADVANCE.

POSTAGE FREE TO ALL within the United States, the Canadas, and the British Provinces.

Please Remember!

All remittances to this office, in the form of Drafts, Bank Checks, and Postal Money-Orders, should be made payable to the Business Agent, GEO. T. ADAMS.

THOSE who send articles for the "CRISIS," should direct them to the "EDITORS OF WORLD'S CRISIS," Boston, Mass.

PLEASE READ, REMEMBER, AND ACT ACCORDINGLY.

The brethren, sisters, friends—one and all—whoever may write to this office, sending articles for insertion in the Crisis, or subscriptions for the same, notices, appointments, reports, or orders for papers, books, tracts, or anything of the kind, will confer a favor and do the right way by directing their letters in either one of the following ways:—

"EDITORS OF WORLD'S CRISIS, Boston, Mass."

"WORLD'S CRISIS, Boston, Mass.," or

GEO. T. ADAMS, Agent, Boston, Mass.

Those who send articles for the Young Pilgrim should address—

"EDITOR YOUNG PILGRIM, Boston, Mass."

In no case address letters on business connected with the papers, or office, to any of the clerks, compositors, or helps in this office.

AGENT.

HEREAFTER address me at BOSTON, MASS. All private letters should be marked "personal." MILES GRANT.

THE INEVITABLE CONTEST.

A gentleman in Rome, who has a fine opportunity for observation, writes that there is an inevitable contest coming between the Jesuits and their opposers. The former are in earnest to carry out their secret measures, designed to overthrow Protestantism, and establish the Papal power, having an acknowledged infallible head. The Protestants are as determined that the Papal power shall henceforth bow to the civil authorities. On this point a terrible issue is impending. The feeling between the two parties is continually becoming more and more hostile. Both are decided not to yield, each feeling confident of final success. The storm is approaching. Let us all be hid in Christ, the only place of complete safety. M. G.

WHO WILL HELP?

We are deeply impressed that we, as a people, are not half awake to the importance of the work entrusted to our hands, in giving the glad tidings that Jesus is coming soon. Men are rushing into infidelity for lack of knowledge and light that might be sent to them with very little expense and sacrifice. Many good men are looking for information on the great truths weekly sent forth in the Crisis. They are not yet quite enough interested to send for "our paper," or may not know of its existence, but if they had its reading, they would at once call for "more light."

Who will help send them the paper? Will not every reader engage in this important work at once? Let us send the Crisis to ten thousand new subscribers during the next three months. Select some minister, or lay member, send us his name and fifty cents, and the paper will be sent three months. This may be the means of leading him to see the glorious light, now shining on the prophetic page. Let every one make a sacrifice for this worthy object. Come, all to the rescue. "Many hands make light work." Make no excuses. All lift together. Let us do something worthy of the true followers of Christ, in our efforts to save others. Fifty cents thus used may result in great good. Make the trial. While many can only send money for but one, others can as easily pay for ten, fifty, one hundred or five hundred copies. Let us have immediate responses. M. G.

PAPAL JUBILEE.

This is a Jubilee year with the Catholics. It began Jan. 1st, and will end with the year. The last Jubilee was proclaimed by Leo XII. in 1825. We are informed that the object of the Jubilee is to prevent "some impending calamity," by the offering of solemn "prayer by the united Catholic world." In most of the European countries the Jubilee began early in the year; in this country at a later date.

Among other things connected with the Jubilee is the granting of "plenary indulgences," which is defined as follows:

"A plenary indulgence means the total remission of the temporal punishment which sinners have still to undergo after having obtained pardon of their sins."

The Jubilee is now in operation in Brooklyn, N. Y., and the Catholic churches are thronged. The head of that church, Pius IX. and his associates, are satisfied that they are passing into trying times, hence this Jubilee has special significance, when viewed from a prophetical standpoint. The mud of the Papal stream is being stirred to its very bottom. The stench of the mud is discovered by the public, and we may soon expect a general overturning of the whole thing, before much more time is passed. The Pope is hoping that the Jubilee will avert the coming storm, but we think he will be sadly disappointed. The days of the Papal system are numbered, and evidently but few remain to be accomplished.

The Lord's Jubilee of Jubilees is at hand, when all the saints shall take their promised inheritance and the Papacy, with its supporters, shall be no more for ever. Let the day come speedily. M. G.

HOLD UP JESUS.

Those who wish to be successful in the work of the ministry, or in persuading men to leave the broad road to destruction, should be careful to hold up Jesus, and make him prominent whenever there is an opportunity. We are more and more convinced that there is not enough said about Jesus. He is the "Alpha and Omega" in this plan of salvation. Keep him before the people as our dearest, best, and most loving friend. It is "the goodness of God" that leads men to repentance.

It is to be feared that some spend most of their time in defending and advocating some favorite doctrine, while Jesus is placed in the back-ground, and scarcely noticed. Such preachers may make men strong in theory, strong in their sectarian feelings, ready to do all in their power to advance their theological frame work, while at the same time there is a great lack of real kind christian glowing sunshine, calculated to lead people to Jesus, as a loving Savior.

A person's logic may be sound, his theology correct, while his heart may be cold as winter, and destitute of the love of God, because he is without the living, vitalizing power of the Holy Spirit. While believing right, he is living out of Christ, hence he does not delight to hold him up to the people. Get into Christ; live in him, and thus show him to all around. HOLD UP JESUS, our all in all. M. G.

AROUSE! AWAKE!

These times call for earnest workers; men who do not stop to ask whether this or that course will make them popular, but who only inquire, Is it right? Is it true? Will it please the Lord? If so, we will give it our support, if we stand alone in its defense, while the whole world is hissing around.

There is an earnest call for live men to preach the gospel of the kingdom. The people are tired and sick of cold formalism, of dull, conservative measures, that only run a kind of tread-mill round, as unfeeling and lifeless as a graveyard, that is stirred only at some new burial service.

Sinners are turning away from churches to theatres and operas, to find men and women who act as though they were in earnest. When professors of religion get waked up to talk as though christianity was of some consequence, they find people ready to listen. One chief reason why Bro. Moody meets such a hearty welcome, with such glorious results, is because he is thoroughly aroused to the importance and reality of the christian religion, and that it is the only means of salvation.

We find but few who even profess to believe that Jesus is coming soon, that are doing much to save people. The Spirit of Christ sets its possessor at work trying to save others. He who is more anxious to induce men to adopt certain doctrinal views, than to persuade them to be true christians, needs a deeper work of grace in his heart to fit him for the coming of Christ. M. G.

THIS GENERATION.

"Verily I say unto you, This generation shall not pass away, till all be fulfilled. Heaven and earth shall pass away, but my words shall not pass away." JESUS. LUKE 21: 32, 33.

The Savior never uttered a sentence, in all his teaching, around which he threw a stronger guard of emphatic words, affirming its truthfulness, and expressing its great importance, than the sentence—"This generation shall not pass away till all be fulfilled." He evidently intended to throw the whole weight of his divine authority into the prediction, so that his people might rest with assurance upon its fulfillment, in a time of trial and temptation.

He evidently saw that the time would come when the generation would have nearly passed away, and his faithful people would be severely tried by the tarrying of the Bridegroom, and almost overwhelmed by opposing arguments and influences, so that they would need the most positive assurance that the grand event inquired after would immediately transpire. He evidently foresaw that there would be a kind of uncertainty upon the great issue pressing the heart of the church, like the hand of death, as the generation should be passing away like the melting winter snows in April, and the world still gliding on in its wonted course, about as in former times, and that it might seem as if many generations and ages would come and go before the grand termination of all earthly things should come.

He knew that his servants, who had testified to the nations, by preaching the "gospel of the kingdom,"—the end of all things at hand—would, under such circumstances, need testimony more to be depended upon than the continuance of the mountains and the encircling heaven. The passage was clearly designed to inspire strong confidence in the certainty of the fulfilment of his predictions, and especially that they would be accomplished before the ending of the generation spoken of.

Every expression of inspiration was made for some specific purpose—to state some truth, some fact, principle, or duty. Some of these statements are of more importance to the church than others, and those of particular importance are usually made emphatic by strong and impressive language, which is the case with the text under consideration.

Every passage should be used to accomplish the purpose for which it was given. We wrest a passage when we apply it to a subject to which the Spirit did not appropriate it, or to prove by it that which it was not intended to prove. The context of a passage usually explains the subject to which it was intended to apply, and the particular proof designed to be given.

As the great Teacher so strongly expresses the importance to his people of believing that the generation would not pass away till the last event in the predicted series had taken place, we cannot believe we shall be found guiltless before him at the last judgment if we do not search diligently and prayerfully to learn its true meaning and application.

Let us now devoutly inquire, To what subject did Jesus apply the text we are now discussing? What introduced the argument in which the language was used? What events were predicted in that argument, and what was the last event foretold in the series, which must transpire before the specified generation should "pass away?" The argument was introduced by a certain question or questions propounded by the disciples to the Savior. Their question was, "When shall these things be, and what shall be the sign of thy coming, and of the end of the world?" The inspired historian says that "Jesus answered and said unto them;" therefore, what he said must have been designed to apply to the subject introduced by their question; for language used in answering a question is always designed to apply to the matter introduced by the question, and does not properly belong to any other subject. As Jesus used the language of the text in answering the question of the disciples, we have no right to apply it as proof of anything which is not presented by their inquiry.

The principal fact which they sought to learn by their question was, "when" certain events would take place, and not what would be the nature of the events. A proper and intelligent answer must therefore be so framed as to make prominent and clear the time when the events would take place, which they were so anxious to understand. If the Savior does not attempt to show when the events will take place, by giving the number of solar or lunar periods which must pass before reaching the time sought, he must do it by giving events which will be experienced before the event inquired after.

If a passenger should inquire of a mariner when his ship would pass a certain headland, and the captain should answer him, he would either tell him how many days or hours it would take to reach the point, or he would teach him the lights and land marks which must be passed before reaching it. If the latter answer were given, the passenger would be more careful to watch the lights which they are passing, to learn his nearness to the land sought, than his watch, to which the answer did not direct him.

So the great Teacher gave to his church notable events which must transpire and be witnessed by his people before they should reach the grand point or event sought after.

In harmony with this he said, after enumerating many events which should transpire in certain order, "So likewise ye, when ye shall see all these things, know that it is near, even at the door."

To make the time when the great event should take place clear to the understanding of his people, he gives several important events of entirely different circumstances, which should be transpiring or taking place in connection with the one they sought, so they might know by these when to expect it. He states that the gospel of the kingdom shall be preached as a "witness unto all nations, and then shall the end come." He also said that after certain tribulation the sun would be darkened, and the moon would not give its light, and that following this the "sign of the Son of man" would appear, and adds—"then shall all the tribes of the earth mourn, and they shall see the Son of man coming in the clouds of heaven."

Again he shows that the condition of the world, as it regards a preparation for the approaching event, will be as it was in the days of Noah; and that the two classes—the prepared and unprepared—will be led by two classes of servants, one saying, My Lord delayeth his coming, as the antediluvians did of the coming flood; the other class giving meat in due season, or truth requiring immediate preparation for the approaching judgment.

These predictions show that the church cannot understandingly look for the end until all these different events shall be transpiring at the same time, and that when they are thus manifested, the grand consummation may be confidently expected.

The disciples definitely described the events of which they were anxious to learn the time of their occurrence, and said—"What shall be the sign of thy coming, and of the end of the world?" They made only two specifications—the "coming" of Christ and the "end of the world," or gospel age. They clearly expressed their idea that the two events would take place at the same time, by expressing the thought that the sign which would indicate the nearness of one would also show the nearness of the other.

Jesus answered in harmony with this idea, thus confirming them in their position, when he said—"And then shall the end come"—"And then shall they see the Son of man coming"—"The Bridegroom came." The coming in the question and answer must be the same. The disciples said "Thy coming;" and they were addressing Christ and not Titus or any other person. Christ answered directly when he said, And then shall they see the Son of man coming in a cloud, with power and great glory. He then exhorts his people with great glory. He then exhorts his people with great earnestness to watch, lest, by worldly mindedness, that day should "come upon them unawares; for as a snare shall it come on all them that dwell on the face of the whole earth."

He then gives a pathetic appeal to his people to pray always, that they may be "accounted worthy to escape all these things that are coming to pass, and to stand before the Son of man."

Did the marching of a Roman army to Jerusalem ensnare "all them" that dwelt "on the face of the whole earth?" Did Christ exhort his followers to faithfulness that they might "stand before" Titus, or before himself, as Judge of the world? If he meant Titus by the "Son of man," in one of these passages, he evidently did in them all; and the christians at the destruction of Jerusalem were exhorted by Christ to stand before the Roman general, and also to flee from his presence into the mountains. If it was not Titus' coming that was referred to in this prophecy, but Christ's coming to judgment, then that crowning event of all christian expectation must transpire before the generation spoken of shall pass away. J. C.

(To be continued.)

SALVATION.

What is man saved from in this world? Please tell me. I find it is not from sorrow, it is not from pain nor death, it is not from the power of sin, for that I have to resist; therefore, I am not saved from it. It is not from the effects of sin, for I see and feel the effects of it every day. The very air seems to be impregnated with it, and man's very nature leans towards it. I find by the Bible that I can fall, and if I can fall, how can it be said that I am saved? Salvation is deliverance. After all, is it not an embryo salvation, that will be consummated at the morning of the resurrection? Please tell me, will you? A BROTHER—B. M.

In this life we may be saved from the dominion of sin. Says Paul: "The law of the Spirit of life in Christ Jesus hath made me free from the law of sin and death." Rom. 8: 2. When one is free from a law, the law has no claims upon him. If there is a law against stealing, the man who has not stolen is free from that law. If there is a law against the sale of intoxicating liquors, the person who sells none is free from that law. If there is a law against sin, he who does not sin is free from that law, and no one else.

Again Paul says: "If Christ be in you, the body is dead because of sin." The Diaglott reads—"dead as to sin." Rom. 8: 10. That is, it is not used for sinful purposes. It is dead in that respect. "Now being made free from sin, and become servants to God, ye have your fruit unto holiness, and the end everlasting life." Rom. 6: 22. "Knowing this, that our old man is crucified with him, that the body of sin might be destroyed, that henceforth we should not serve sin." Rom. 6: 6. Here we learn again that the body is not to be used for sinful purposes. "The body of sin" is destroyed. There are two ways to destroy a wicked man: one is to kill him; the other to have him get into Christ, and become a righteous man, free from sin.

John says Christ "was manifested to take away our sins; and in him is no sin. Whosoever abideth in him sinneth not. . . . . He that committeth sin is of the devil. . . . In this the children of God are manifest, and the children of the devil." 1 John 3: 5–10. "There is, therefore, now no condemnation to them which are in Christ Jesus, who walk not after the flesh, but after the Spirit." Rom. 8: 1. "As many as are led by the Spirit of God, they are the sons of God." Rom. 8: 14. Said Jesus: "Abide in me, and I in you." John 15: 4. The apostle says: "Hereby we know that he abideth in us, by the Spirit which he hath given us." 1 John 3: 24.

These, and many other passages of Scripture, show very clearly that provision is made to save us in this world from the dominion of sin.

We may also be saved from doubts, fears, impatience, love of the world, covetousness, pride, self-will, hatred, variance, envy, emulation, worrying about the past or the future, from condemnation, from every thing sinful; and consequently be kept "in perfect peace," "perfect love," abiding contentment, sweet rest and quiet of mind. We may have a hundred-fold in this life, and in the world to come life everlasting. Praise the Lord for present salvation from so many evil things, and for present "peace . . . . like a river." M. G.

"THE GREAT COMBAT."

Under the above heading, we find an article from Brockville (Canada) Recorder. The combat specified is one between science and religion. The writer claims that "The growth of Materialism," supported by strong men, affords cause for alarm. He says:

"Why shrink from the combat? We must enter the arena sooner or later. Then enter it at once. Begin as they began. They deny the immortality of the soul. Can we but demonstrate, beyond the shadow of a doubt, that a disembodied spirit can return to this planet, we shall have overturned the whole fabric of their firm philosophy."

There is no doubt that a "great combat" is coming; indeed, it has already begun in deep earnest. But we believe all true science is in harmony with the teaching of the sacred Scriptures. No truth in the one will clash with any truth in the other. Those who hold to the plain, literal teaching of the Bible, as to the mortal nature of man, need have no fears that the principles of true science will conflict with their position. But we believe it is impossible to harmonize science and popular theology. Some of the prominent points in the latter are entirely unreasonable, unphilosophical, and unscriptural; and for this reason, many are becoming skeptical.

The present system of theology, taught in the religious institutions, relating to the nature of man, and the future destiny of the unsaved, must expect strong opposition, and a signal defeat before the word of the Lord. Those who support the doctrine of the natural immortality of man, will truly find they have to meet a "firm philosophy," sustained by all truth on the subject showing that the whole man remains unconscious from death to the resurrection.

It is true, as the writer says, if those who believe man is now immortal "can but demonstrate, beyond the shadow of a doubt, that a disembodied spirit can return to this planet, we shall have have overturned the entire fabric of their firm philosophy." But this has not yet been done, and we have not the faintest idea that such a strange occurrence is possible. M. G.

BIBLE IN SCHOOLS.

The people are beginning to wake up to the fact that the effort to get the Bible out of the American schools is largely sustained and urged by the Roman Catholic Jesuits. They are well aware that if the open Bible is laid before the Catholic children in the public schools, it will not be long before the controlling power of the church will be greatly weakened. The success of the Catholic church has depended largely on the ignorance of the Bible among the common people, who have been taught that they are not competent to read and understand the Holy Scriptures. The issue on the question, whether the Bible shall be used in the public schools, is becoming a serious one, and must be met. It should be met boldly, with great decision, by every American citizen, who does not wish the Catholics to rule this country. A large and enthusiastic meeting was held on the subject in the large hall at Cooper Institute, New York, last evening, Oct. 20th. It was held under the auspices of the American common school League, which "is opposed to grants of public money to sectarian institutions, and upholds the reading of the Bible without note or comment in the common schools."

As reported in the New York Witness, the eminent minister, J. S. Wilks, said:

"I see no possible objection to the Bible in the schools any more than in the courts, which derive so many laws from it. The Bible should be retained as a historical work, giving the origin of society. Civilization and progress go hand in hand with it, and it is part and parcel of American civilization. Germany and Great Britain are strong, because they had the Bible. Spain, Ireland and other countries without it are weak, and where it is not, there is confusion and degradation. Moreover the Bible contains knowledge vitally important to man, knowledge of God and conscience. We are not to rear our boys and make them soldiers like the Spartans, but good citizens, and you can't do it without the Bible. You cannot teach grammar without telling of God from whom language is, nor even geography, without awakening the child's moral sense. What might be done was to follow Bismarck's example and allow Catholic and Protesant children each to have the Bible read to them in the sense of their respective creeds; but Americans are not going to reject the Bible from their schools because the Catholics object. (Cries of "never," and tremendous cheering.) Besides, who were clamoring against it? The concern which gave them the St. Bartholomew massacre, which persecuted and tortured the saints, and which furnishes four-fifths of the criminals of America, and got up the 12th of July riot when the Orangemen paraded, and which crowds foreign potentates under the noses of American freemen. There should be no compromise, no magnanimity toward those who do not understand it."

It is reasonable to expect this subject will soon assume large proportions, that will stir up a deep feeling that will not be easily kept under proper control. It is a very important affair, and may produce sad results. Let christians watch and pray lest they enter into temptation, and allow the rising of an unholy feeling, not warranted by the Spirit of Christ. M. G.

FINANCIAL REPORT
OF THE
SPRINGFIELD NATIONAL ADVENT CAMPMEETING, 1875.

RECEIPTS.

Balance on hand as per last year's Report	$438 57
Interest	12 00
Cash received by collections taken and by donations made at the meeting	166 87
" From the B. and A. and Conn. R. R. Roads	127 80
" For rent of book stands	30 00
" For sale of lumber, straw and hay	153 35
" For board, and sales at the boarding house, oyster, cake, and fruit stands, and from all other sources not mentioned above	2021 94
Total receipts	$2,950 53

EXPENDITURES.

Paid rent of ground, insurance, for use of tents, and expenses of same, digging well, bedding, printing, postage, etc.	$250 14
" For lumber, straw, and hay	213 22
" For services rendered by various persons in the boarding department, at the various stands, work on the ground, expenses of Committee, etc., etc.	625 46
" For groceries, provisions, and the various articles used and sold at the boarding house, the refreshment stands, etc, etc.	1420 74
Total expenditures	$2 509 66
Balance in the hands of the Treasurer	$440 87

At a meeting of the Advent Christian Association, held on the camp-ground Aug. 10th, Bro. P. G. Bowman was "appointed a committee of one to nominate for re-election by the congregation at the grand stand, the same men to act as Campmeeting Committee the ensuing year that had served the past year in that capacity."

Accordingly, Bro. Bowman nominated, and the following brethren were unanimously elected Campmeeting Committee for the ensuing year:—S. G. Mathewson, Geo. T. Adams, H. Munger, J. Hemenway, M. Grant, I. B. Potter, and John B. White.

GEO. T. ADAMS,
Secretary and Treasurer.

RRPORT.

On account of the rain, the Maine Westerly Quarterly Conference did not meet on Thursday evening, as was appointed, but Friday morning. The brethren and sisters came in from the different neighborhoods and towns, and we had a good prayer meeting. The Lord was with us. In the afternoon Eld. H. D. Reed gave us a sermon on the personality of God. In the evening Eld. I. C. Wellcome preached from 1 Cor. 15: 57.

Saturday morning and afternoon met for prayer meeting. Evening, preaching from Bro. Wellcome. Sunday morning, love feast, which continued till noon. In the afternoon, preaching by Eld. H. S. Mitchell, from John 18: 38.

We hope this meeting will prove a blessing to the place, and for the glory of God. Preachers present—I. C. Wellcome, H. B. Jaques, ——Morse, H. D. Reed, and H. S. Mitchell. HIRAM S. MITCHELL, Sec.

THE TRACT FUND.

THE ADVENT CHRISTIAN PUBLICATION SOCIETY, at a meeting on Springfield camp-ground, August 11th, 1875, voted to raise Two Thousand Dollars for the free distribution of Tracts the ensuing year; and they invite the help and co-operation of all lovers of the Lord and of his truth, in the furtherance of the good cause. The times are ominous of coming events, and admonish us to diligence in the Master's work. The Lord is at the door, and what we do must be done quickly. Let the contributions be prompt, hearty, and liberal. The Lord will reward the liberal giver.

A. W. SIBLEY, Sec. Adv. Chris. Pub. Soc.

Remittances should be sent to the Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS, Boston, Mass., or they may be enclosed with remittances to the Crisis Office.

DONATIONS FOR THE TRACT FUND.

Previous acknowledgments	$90.72
H. K. S.	.50

POOR FUND.
TO SEND THE "CRISIS" TO THE POOR.

Previous acknowledgments	$26.65
Mrs. M. S. Hughes	1.25
J. P.	.25

YOUNG PILGRIM FUND.

AMER. ADV. MISSION SOCIETY.

Donations are earnestly solicited, to enable this Society to send out missionaries, and other means, into the Southern States, and elsewhere, as the Lord may open the door, to proclaim "the glad tidings of the kingdom at hand"; and should be sent, as also payments of pledges made, to the

Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS,
P. O. Drawer 5002, Boston, Mass.

who will acknowledge the same in the columns of the Crisis.

Aug. 6th, 1875, and onward.

Previous acknowledgments	$1,220.73
Mrs. B. W. Leonard (pledge paid)	10.00
John McFadden	2.75
T. Watson	.50
Wm. M. Taylor	5.00

FOR THE POOR, ETC.

Previous acknowledgments	$12.00
Bela Atwood	12.00

TO SEND THE WORLD'S CRISIS
THREE MONTHS TO THOSE WHO DO NOT NOW RECEIVE IT.

The one who sends the money, will please name the person, or persons, to whom they wish the paper sent three months (50 cents per copy.)

Miles Grant	(10 copies)	$5.00
Geo. T. Adams	6 "	3.00
Mrs. Eaton	1 copy	.50
Mrs. H. J. Hart	1 "	.50
Mrs. S. Burrell	1 "	.50
C. Wilder	1 "	.50
Charles E. Dor	1 "	.50
L. D. Carey	2 copies	1.00
H. W. Gates	2 "	1.00
"The Doctor"	2 "	1.10
J. R. Smith	10 "	5.00
S. H. V. Bellows	2 "	1.00
Susan M. Wells	2 "	1.00
D. S. Young	2 "	1.00
P. G. Lord	4 "	2.00
C D Potter	2 "	1.00
L. D. Small	3 "	1.50

"A PROPOSITION."

Bro. Editors:—Under the above significant heading in last Crisis, is your threefold problem—"What shall be done? Shall anything be done? What will you do to assist in spreading the glorious news of Jesus' coming, and the importance of a pure heart in order to be ready to meet him joyfully?"

This is worthy of solution, and I think can readily be demonstrated by the simple rule of addition. You say—"We will take ten." I say—We (not the editors) will take two; and so let every Crisis-reader, kingdom-seeker, Savior-loving man—"according to his ability"—share in this soul-inspiring enterprise, until the sum total (ten thousand) shall have been computed.

Inclosed please find $—, and send to —— address —— each —— one copy of Crisis for three months. "Yet a little while, and He that is to come will come."—Bible. "Blessed assurance; his name be adored. Sweetly I'm resting in Jesus." THE DOCTOR.

TENT MEETING.

Sept. 29th, we pitched the Conn. Mission Tent about one-third of a mile from Goodspeed's Station, on the Conn. Valley R. R., and within hearing of the steamers as they plowed through the waters of the old Connecticut. There was a fair attendance Wednesday evening, which continued to increase until Sunday, when the number of people was estimated at from five to eight hundred.

Much prejudice existed in this vicinity against the doctrines of the Bible, which we think was partially overcome as the blessed truths of God's word were presented with a view to win people to Christ.

Meetings were held morning, afternoon, and evening of each day, and during intermission much time was spent in reasoning with earnest, inquiring minds upon the Scriptures, and in many instances with satisfactory results. Truths which had been regarded as heresies to be severely let alone, found a ready welcome when known to be authorized by the word of God.

Our scanty supply of tracts disappeared like dew, and some even gave their names that these silent messengers might be forwarded by mail. These requests have been complied with. One woman from Moodus, about four miles east of the river, proposed to board two preachers a week and furnish a site for the Tent, if it would come there.

Saturday evening, Bro. Stark came down from Hartford, and remained over Sunday, Oct. 3d. The day was fair, and a large and appreciative audience was in attendance. Preaching at 10.30 A. M. 1. P. M. 2.30 P. M. and seven in eve. The good order and strict attention showed that the extra services were not burdensome. At the close of the afternoon meeting, three persons came forward for prayers. One, a man in middle life, whose besetting sin was the intoxicating cup, seemed deeply convicted of his lost condition, and earnestly requested prayer in his behalf. The other two were ladies, whose anxiety to find Jesus none could doubt, while many others could not conceal their inward emotions although declining a public manifestation. It was all owing to the presence of the blessed Spirit which accompanied the word, and to God we give all the glory.

Bro. and Sr. Gilbert were especially kind and hospitable, and other brethren and sisters living somewhat remote contributed no little to the interest of the meeting, and a spirit of kindness was shown by the people generally. We parted from the associations thus briefly enjoyed, with reluctance, trusting that, if another season for open air meetings rolls round, the people in that vicinity and the regions beyond may have another opportunity to hear the blessed truth of Jesus and his coming again.

O. D. WOODRUFF.

THE ADDRESS of the President of the A. C. P. Society, delivered at the late Annual Meeting of the A. C. Association, is now ready. Those desiring it will please order. AG'T.

PERSONAL.

Dear Editors:—To-day, by request of Bro. S. G. Mathewson, his pastoral relation with the "Second Advent Church" in Worcester is mutually dissolved.

On leaving this for their new yet old field of labor, Bro. and Sr. Mathewson carry with them assurance of tenderest sympathy and christian confidence.

The following is a copy of a letter of fraternal love and commendation tendered to them, and which I am instructed by the church to transmit to the World's Crisis for publication. Very truly, H. W. BUXTON.

Oct. 18th.

The Second Advent Church in Worcester, Mass., to the "Advent Christian Church" in Castleton, Vt., greeting.

This may certify that Bro. S. G. and Sr. Beulah Mathewson are accepted members of this church, and as such we cordially commend them to your kind sympathy and christian fellowship.

In making this formal and most deserved announcement, we are fully aware that to you our beloved brother and sister need no commendation. They are our "epistle, written in the heart—not with ink, but with the spirit of the living God." We thankfully received your testimonial of "harmonious relation" which so long existed between you, and which was borne to us by their own hand, and in full assurance add—that during their sojourn with us they have "walked in all the ordinances of the Lord's house blameless; not handling the word of God deceitfully, but by manifestation of the truth, commending themselves to every man's conscience in the sight of God." And while very much pained to part with them from our own midst, we rejoice to know that they return to the embrace of old and tried friends.

May the Lord richly reward them for all their work and labor of love with us, direct and strengthen them in their anticipated effort to "build you up in the most holy faith," and vouchsafe to them, with all the heirs of salvation, his gracious welcome and reward, when he comes, is the earnest and united aspiration of yours, in christian charity and patient waiting for the divine Redeemer.

For the church,
E. G. HIGGINS, Chairman.
H. W. BUXTON, Secretary.

Worcester, Oct. 17th, 1875.

DEDICATION, OCT. 13.

Thinking the brethren and sisters scattered abroad would like to hear about the dedication of our new Chapel, we would say we were blessed with one of God's best days, the weather being very beautiful. We were also made to rejoice in meeting so many of the dear saints of God. The ministering brethren present were Brn. Hastings, Hemenway, Morse, and Gordon (the Methodist pastor here in Palmer), all taking part in the exercises. Brethren from Worcester, Brimfield, Northampton, Chicopee Falls, Granby, Westfield, Union, Ct., Wilbraham, Enfield, and the adjoining towns and villages, made the day a very pleasant one to us, and we trust to those also who came among us.

At 2 P. M., Eld. Hastings preached from Ex. 20: 24—"An altar of earth thou shalt make unto me." The subject was very interesting, and we think will have a lasting influence upon the minds of the people here in the place.

In the evening, at seven o'clock, we were again assembled together, our Chapel being filled to its utmost capacity, and many came that could not get in. The first of the evening exercises was a marriage ceremony; after which Eld. Hastings preached from Ps. 119: 105—"Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path"; which was a very powerful discourse, it being accompanied by the Holy Spirit; therefore the people were sorry they could not listen to more of the same blessed word of God.

Hoping that we shall have the prayers of the dear saints of God (who know what it is to struggle against the terrible prejudice of these last days), that men may be brought from nature's darkness into the marvelous light of the Son of God; pray that love may prevail among us, also that church and pastor may be filled with the Holy Ghost.

Yours in the faith, H. H. TUCKER.
Palmer, Mass.

TENT MEETING IN HARWICH.

The Mass. Mission Tent was pitched in Harwich, Sept. 25th, where meetings were held over two Sabbaths with very satisfactory results. It was something new to the people, as the Second Advent message had never before been proclaimed in that vicinity. Our meetings commenced with a very small congregation, but kept increasing steadily until the day it closed, when there were some six or seven hundred present throughout the entire day. Brn. B. Woodside, I. I. Leslie, and J. S. White, preached the gospel, and the social meetings were blessed, and will long be remembered on account of the presence of Jesus, who was in the midst. A more attentive audience, who were anxious to hear of the return of the absent One, I never saw; and although it was a very busy time with the people, yet they made every effort to come out to hear the glad tidings of the gospel of the kingdom.

This has been one of the strongholds of the enemy, where Spiritualists have held their annual campmeetings; and the devil has walked through the different houses of worship in that vicinity, scattering, dividing, and distracting; so that we found them in a very unsettled state; and it was truly gratifying to hear their warm-hearted expressions of the light and joy and comfort they received from a better understanding of the Scriptures while attending the tent meetings. The honest expression of many hearts was, they believed "God had sent the brethren there"; and some told us they had been praying that God would send some one there to guide the people.

I am well satisfied with the result of our labors there; they have exceeded my most sanguine expectations; and I believe that our labors there have not been in vain in the Lord, and that we shall have reason for rejoicing in the day of the Lord Jesus that the Mass. Mission Tent was ever pitched in Harwich. But I am not satisfied to leave it there, and lose all that we have gained, and let the little flock go into the wilderness again without a shepherd to care for them. There is a mission fund, and here is a chance for mission labor. There is a famine in the town of Harwich! The people are not famishing for bread; they have no lack of provisions, but they are starving for the bread of life—the word of God. And shall Adventists withhold from these famishing souls what God has so bountifully bestowed upon us?

God giving me grace, I desire to be about my Master's work; and although I may not be called to preach, yet I have no desire to shirk responsibility. And although I may not fire the big guns, yet I desire to stand in the forefront of the battle, and be engaged in the thickest of the fight; so that, whether laboring with my hands, my tongue, my pen, or my means, I may in all ways contribute my efforts to save the perishing. May the Lord give us grace according to our days; and may he raise up many faithful laborers who shall in truth "be laborers together with God" in the great plan of human redemption. It may be a life of toil, of conflict and privation here, but the end will be sweet, and the rest will be glorious. There'll be resting by and by, in our fair Eden home. My pen cannot describe the glories nor my heart conceive the joys of the saints' immortal home. Blessed home! the home of the angels and of God. And foremost among them, I fancy, will be the fishermen of Galilee, who forsook all and followed Christ, to become fishers of men; and who will find at last their great reward, their everlasting joy; who shall be presented faultless before the throne bringing their sheaves with them, and shall then say, "Here am I, and those that thou hast given me." Then "they that be teachers shall shine as the brightness of the firmament, and they that turn many to righteousness as the stars forever and ever."

Bro. Woodside has gained the confidence and won the affections of the people in Harwich, and I feel impressed that God has chosen him to bring his scattered flock there together, and lead the children out of the wilderness, and bring them into the promised land. J. R. Smith.

New Bedford, Mass.

FROM BRO. AND SR. MATHEWSON.

To our dear friends who desire to know our whereabouts, we would say, that on Wednesday, the 20th, we bade adieu to our home, and the many precious friends in Worcester, who honored us with very pleasing tokens of affection, beside lading us (Acts 28:10) with luscious necessities for our journey, and standing by our side until the old iron horse whirled us from their embrace. The same day we arrived safely at Castleton, Vt., where we spent nine years previous to our residence in Worcester. After a separation of two and a half years, we meet a cordial reception. Death has done his work in our absence, beside other trials which have come upon them equally beyond their control. But a few yet remain who can trust Israel's God.

Let all who have access to a throne of grace, pray that much heavenly wisdom may be imparted to us as a little church, and much of the Spirit's power be given us, in this time of need, so that God may be glorified, and we shall be content. With much affection to the household of faith, we remain yours very affectionately.

S. G. & B. Mathewson.

The New York Daily Witness, No. 2 Spruce Street, New York, can be supplied to January 1st, 1876, for 50 cents. It is the only religious daily in the States. It reports the meetings of Moody and Sankey, and all other religious interests. Having taken the paper for six months, I can recommend it as a good religious paper.

H. Pratt.

A Union convention for the promotion of Scriptural holiness will be held in Grace church, beginning Monday, Nov. 8th, and continuing three days. Dea. Geo. M Morse, of Putnam, Conn., will preside.—Worcester Daily Spy.

Correspondence.

From Bro. J. H. F. Varney.

Dear Brn.:—As it is such a task for me to write at present, allow me to answer numerous inquiries concerning my health through the Crisis. I have gradually lost ground since I wrote at campmeeting time, so that I can sit up but about twenty minutes in a day. I have employed a physician at Lynn, Mass., who has made spinal diseases a specialty; who, after a careful examination of the can, thinks it perfectly curable, and that I will yet enjoy good health. I am not merely anxious to get up from my bed, and then from ill health be almost useless, as has been the case with me for years in the past; but should it please God to again bestow on me the priceless boon, I feel that while words could never express my gratitude, that by the grace of God deeds should.

The pleasing, though solemn and responsible work of saving souls, never seemed so blessed as now. I, of course, know something of the trials incident to a preacher's life, yet I feel that I could cheerfully endure them all, to be the means of saving a few; and I long, though it be in weakness, to engage in the glorious work. Never was earnest, faithful labor more needed than at present. Let me say to my brother watchmen who are permitted to stand upon the walls, faithfully, fearlessly,

"Lift up the trumpet,
Loud let it ring,
Jesus is coming again."

To my brethren and sisters let me say, stay up the watchman's hands, cheerfully bear your part of life's burdens and trials, and when weary, remember "It is better further on," and soon you will hear it said, "Well done, good and faithful servant." May this be said to us all. Amen.

Rochester, N. H., Oct. 22nd.

From Bro. D. D. Coffey.

Dear Brn.:—I feel thankful to say the Lord is on the giving hand, and willing to bless all who will come to him. We feel to adore and magnify his holy Name for sending Bro. J. A. Cargile this way.

On his return home from the campmeeting he came this way and labored ten days with us; yes, proclaimed the truth in its purity, night and day. Large congregations attended, and gave their undivided attention, with the best of results following. Have a church organized, with forty-two members, and a Sabbath school of about the same number. We have strong opposition. One prominent Baptist clergyman says it is hard for him to keep from praying to God to send fire down from heaven and consume the Adventists in this country. A prominent Baptist member says if he believed Cargile's doctrine he would not care to commit murder. They should be pitied.

Elder Cargile has established himself a workman that needs not to be ashamed of his calling. We hope you will remember us in your petitions, and send us some ministers in this field to labor for the Lord. We want the truth as it is in the Bible, with the mists blown off. Numbers of grey heads say they never heard the gospel before, and beg for Bro. Cargile to stay here.

Collettsville, Sept. 26th.

From Sr. L. A. Gunn.

To all who love our Lord Jesus Christ:—Let us be up and doing what we can. The short time between now and when Christ shall come may be gone before we are aware of it. We must be holy, or we shall never live with Jesus. Let us gird on our armor, and fight every battle manfully. The enemy may come in like a flood, but our good Captain will never fail us. He gives strength equal to our day all the way through. There are but few in this place who believe Christ will soon come. Bro. Streeter is doing what he can to enlighten upon that grand subject. May God help and increase our number, is my earnest prayer. We take the Crisis, and are delighted in its perusal.

May God help the numerous writers that are lending a helping hand to build up this noble cause. I found Christ at the early age of seventeen. I am now in my seventy-first year, broken by infirmity.

I wish to say to all the writers of the Crisis, go on in your toil. Your writings do us good, and your reward is just ahead. Glory be to God, sorrow and sighing is almost over. Our glorious Redeemer is coming to take the blood-washed multitude home to dwell with him forever.

Greenwich, Mass.

Bro. G. L. Tracy writes:—"I did not meet with the brethren at Brighton Hill, Hebron, on the 17th, on account of sickness. I was taken suddenly ill on the night of the 15th, and am quite unwell now. Will some one of the brethren from that place write to me? Pray that the Lord may lay his healing hand upon me, that I may be able to resume my labors."

Married.

WOOD—HUBBARD. In Palmer, Mass., by Elder H. H. Tucker, assisted by Elder H. L. Hastings, Mr. Elbridge J. Wood, of Palmer, and Miss Adelaide E. M. Hubbard, of Saco, Me.

Obituaries.

Burdick. In Danielsonville, Conn., Oct. 1st, 1875, Cranson Lillibridge Burdick, aged sixty-two years.

Bro. Burdick was a veteran christian, and for many years a resident of this place. Early in life he united with the Methodist Episcopal church, where he retained his relation until a few years ago, when he felt constrained to identify himself more fully with the people in this village who were looking for the coming of the Lord. It was the preaching of Bro. Miles Grant, in 1858, that first led him to see that the righteous were rewarded with immortality at the second coming of Christ, from which point in his experience he has claimed to enjoy more religion and less of this present world. Always consistent in his practical life, and so earnest in his doctrinal views as to often excite opposition, for a little while before his death he seemed to reach a higher ground in experience, and a tenderer christian sympathy. He attended the late campmeeting at Coventry Centre, R. I. He many times expressed himself that these quiet spiritual meetings had fitted him for something in the future, he knew not what, surely not for death, for sin prepares man to die, but for eternal life when Jesus comes "in the clouds of heaven." How often the Lord's dear ones have in this way a conviction of some change in the immediate future while they know not what. Surely, "The secret of the Lord is with them that fear him" "Henceforth I call you not servants; for the servant knoweth not what his Lord doeth."

Bro. B.'s sickness was very short, being but a few hours. The little church in D., of which he was a member, will miss him much, so also all this community, for he was widely known. The Congregational people kindly offered their large meeting-house for the funeral, which was attended by Eld. Keith, of that denomination, on Sunday, Oct. 3d, meetings in all the other Protestant churches being adjourned for the occasion.

V. P. Simmons.

Megquier. In West Poland, Me., July 7th, 1875, Bro. Moses Megquier, aged seventy-six years.

One of the first here to identify himself with the Advent movement, with a deep love for every feature of truth connected with the coming, he watched through the long and weary years of delay, as thousands of aged pilgrims have who started with him under the waving banner—"Behold He cometh,"—but to die almost in sight of the heavenly hills. Thank God! the King who has known the toilsome journey and heart longings of these dear ones, will first of all remember them at his coming, with life and immortality. "For the living shall not go before them who are asleep." A widow and two sons mourn him. His first companion and three daughters sleep well. May the living be ready for a new home-greeting beyond the shadows of the grave.

J. Albert Libby.

Gray. In East Landaff, N. H., August 11th, 1875, John Gray, aged seventy-seven years.

For more than forty years he has lived a devoted christian life, leaving a good example of christian integrity and faithfulness, and a blessed influence for the cause of Christ and the truth. My dear father is now in the power of the cruel monster, our terrible enemy—death; but he sleeps with the "blessed hope" of soon being awakened to eternal life when Jesus the Life-giver comes.

A. G. B.

FOREIGN NEWS.

London, Oct. 19. A special dispatch from Vienna to the Pall Mall Gazette says that the Herzegovinian insurgents are preparing to attack Zubei. The Turks are concentrating there. A decisive battle is believed to be impending.

The Jewish World says that two hundred dwellings, a synagogue and five schools in the town of Widsy, Russian Poland, have been burned. Some persons perished and three thousand persons—three-fourths of the entire population—are homeless.

Mr. Wm. E. Gladstone denies the published statement that the Turkish Government had made overtures to him for the establishment in Turkey of a sound financial administration.

Havre, Oct. 20. A telegram has been received here from Valparaiso, announcing that a terrible fire has taken place at Iquique, Peru. Three quarters of the town are said to have been destroyed. Iquique is a small seaport town of South Peru, and contains a population of one thousand.

Milan, Oct. 19. The Emperor William and King Victor Emmanuel to-day reviewed 20,000 Italian troops in the vicinity of Milan. The spectacle was imposing and was witnessed by a vast conconrse of spectators.

DOMESTIC NEWS.

Montreal. Oct. 18. A pastoral letter from Bishop Bourget, appropos of the Guibord affair, was read from the pulpit in all the city Catholic churches yesterday. He dwelt upon the rights of the church with regard to the cemeteries, and announced that when interment takes place, he will curse that portion of the cemetery in which Guibord will repose, thus preventing the defilement of the soil in which the faithful sleep. He does not desire to treat the decision of the Privy Council with disrespect, but will take this means to obviate any improper consequences which might follow his defiance of the rules of the church.

It is generally understood that the burial will take place in the latter part of this week. Extensive preparations are being made for the event.

Boston, Oct. 20. The Warren Avenue Baptist church having stricken out that portion of the declaration of faith which makes immersion a prerequisite to communion, it is considered certain that the pastor, Rev. G. F. Pentecost, will remain in charge. The church is one hundred and twenty-five years old.

The Presbytery of Elizabeth, N. J., have presented a solemn protest to the President and Board of Directors of the Pennsylvania railroad on the subject of the desecration of the Sabbath. The paper is as follows; "The Presbytery of Elizabeth, embracing fifty ministers, and twenty-nine churches (many of which churches are located along the line of ths Pennsylvania Railroad) 5,678 church members, 4,817 youth in her church Sabbath schools, and having thousands of moral citizens of the State of New Jersey as members of the congregations identified with our churches, would respectfully and earnestly protest, in our own name and right, and for those we represent, against the desecration of the holy Sabbath by the Corporation you represent by the running of numerous freight and passenger trains on the Sabbath. We would especially protest against the recent addition of cheap Sabbath day excursion trains between New York and Philadelphia.

Notices.

SPECIAL MEETING OF THE A. C. A.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Advent Christian Association held in Boston, Mass., Sept. 30th, it was voted that a special meeting of the Advent Christian Association be held on Tuesday, Dec. 14th, at two o'clock P. M., to consider the expediency of revising the Constitution of the Association, particularly with regard to forming a new basis of representation. A full attendance of preachers and delegates from the churches is earnestly desired. Each church is entitled to one delegate, and one additional delegate for every fifty members above twenty-five. The meeting will be held at the Advent Chapel, Central Street, Worcester, Mass.

S. G. Mathewson, President.
C. E. Barnes, Secretary.

Notice.—The next annual session of the N. H. Advent Christian Conference will be held with the church in Concord, N. H., commencing Wednesday evening, Nov. 3d, and continue over the following Sabbath. An effort will be made to secure reduction of fare on the various railroads.

On Concord road and branches, Conference tickets will be sold at the following places: Suncook, Manchester, Nashua, Epping Junction, New Market Junction, Portsmouth, Lawrence, Goffstown, North Weare. Those coming on the Concord and Claremont or Northern roads, will purchase Conference tickets on the cars of the conductors. Those coming on the Boston, Concord, and Montreal road, will purchase regular tickets, and be furnished with return passes at the Conference, provided they will send to the Secretary, C. H. Fletcher, Newport, N. H., the number of passes they want, and to what station on the road. Let this be done as early as possible before the meeting. We hope the churches will be particular to send delegates.

A. Ross, President.
C. H. Fletcher, Sec.

Conference.

The Delaware District A. C. Conference is hereby called to meet and hold its semi-annual session, at the Advent Christian Church, Eighth Street, above Noble, commencing on Friday evening, Nov. 5th, and continue over the Sabbath This conference embraces the District of Columbia, Maryland, Delaware, New Jersey, and Eastern Pennsylvania. It is earnestly hoped that every church sympathizing with us will be represented, either by letter or delegates. Every church or religious body co-operating with this conference is entitled to one delegate, and an additional delegate for every ten members. All letters of correspondence for the conference can be addressed to Edwin King, 1716 Francis St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Wm. Ashman, President.
E. King, Secretary.

Notice.—The Maine Central Quarterly Meeting will be held in Mercer Village, commencing Thursday evening, Oct. 28th, and continue over the following Sunday. A general invitation is given to all. Provision will be made for man and beast. Come filled with the spirit of love and labor for the salvation of sinners, and the spread of the truth due this generation. Brethren, call on Elders T. Rines, Levi Eldridge, Eleazer Watson, and others. For the church, H. B. Sevey.

Notice.—The East Maine Missionary Association will hold its first meeting with the church in Levant, at the new chapel, commencing Oct. 28th, and hold over the following Sunday. Brethren and sisters are earnestly invited to come to this meeting, to labor for the salvation of sinners and confirmation of saints. O. S. French, Sec.

Notice.—The Advent believers will hold meetings at the Sand Bank school-house, Haverhill Corner, N. H., on Sundays, as often as they can be supplied with a speaker. Any of the preaching brethren passing through this vicinity will please call on the writer, as I keep a pilgrim's home. Prayer meetings Thursday and Sunday evenings.

James M. Harriman.

Notice.—Brethren: I have closed my labors with the church at Morrisville, Vt. I am now at liberty to go anywhere the way opens to preach the gospel of the kingdom. If any of the brethren want I should preach to them, they can write me at West Randolph, Vt.

Eld. J. A. Cleaveland.

Notice.—A series of meetings will be held in the Anderson school-house, Limington, Me., commencing Wednesday evening, Nov. 10th, and continue as long as appears duty. We urge each and all of God's dear children, who feel that their heavenly Father can use them to his glory here, to come and help us.

G. H. Haines.
C. H. Sweet.

The Maine Second Advent Annual Conference is deferred till the second Tuesday in Dec., and will be holden with the church in Frankfort.

Geo. Humphrey, President.
W. H. Mitchell, Secretary.

Protracted Meeting.—The Lord will, there will be a protracted meeting in East Colebrook, N. H., Kiddersville, commencing Sunday, Nov. 14th. Will Bro. George E. Brown meet with me? U. G. Ladd.

Notice.—This is to certify that the A. C. Church worshiping on Hammond Street, Providence, R. I., have given Eld. A. W. Sibley a call to become their Pastor, and he has accepted the same. All preaching brethren wishing to exchange, or to preach, will confer with him.

J. W. Lake, Church Clerk.

Sandy Hill, N. Y.—Prayer meeting daily, and preaching each evening as interest continues. Next series of meetings to be held at Addison, Vt. Address all letters to Rutland, Vt., Box 70.

Arthur A. Waite.

I expect to visit my old places and new ones in Vermont, as the way may open, in January, 1876. Any desiring my labors in evening meetings, or Sundays, please write me at North Dana, Mass., that I may make arrangements.

Geo. A. Streeter.

The brethren at South Livermore cordially invite the dear brothers and sisters to come in and enjoy the feast with us, Friday evening, Nov. 5th, Saturday the 6th, and over Sunday. Bro. Jesse Gay and Geo. W. Brown are expected to preach the word. C. Damon, for the Brn.

UNION IN CHRIST.
AN ILLUSTRATED MONTHLY.

(Sent on trial three months free.)

Thoroughly Christian, entirely unsectarian; devoted to the promotion of Christian union, holiness of heart and activity in the Master's work.

As one of the leading features of the paper it will advocate Union revival meetings in cities, villages, and rural districts, everywhere, as a means of uniting christians, promoting holiness, and saving souls.

Terms: Post-paid, single copy, 60 cts. a year; 25 cts. to ministers of the Gospel, and any person who will solicit subscriptions. $1.00 a year, with Chromo, or $1 15 with Bible Reader's Map.

This paper is sent on trial three months free. Agents wanted everywhere. Address H. A. King, Box 2289, 37 Park Row, New York.

The Crisis and Union in Christ a year, to old or new subscribers, remitting $2.50 to World's Crisis, 160 Hanover Street, Boston, Mass.

THE BIBLICAL MESSENGER.

This monthly is well printed, and is a bold advocate of Bible truth. It gives prominence to holiness of heart, and the speedy return of Christ to resurrect the dead and set up his everlasting kingdom.

Editors: A. A. Hoyt, H. F. Carpenter, A. W. Sibley, Frank Burr, M. R. Phetteplace, C. Mendenhall. Terms: Sixty cents a year. Agents wanted. Send for sample copies. Address the "Biblical Messenger," Waterbury, Vt.

The Biblical Messenger and World's Crisis will both be sent to one address for $2.60. Address all orders for both papers to World's Crisis, 160 Hanover Street, Boston, Mass.

Appointments.

☞ Appointments must be received as early as TUESDAY MORNING (as our paper goes to press about noon) to insure insertion for the coming week.

☞ The following Resolution was passed at the late meeting of the A. C. P. Society:—

"Resolved, That no appointments be published in the Crisis henceforth for persons unknown to the Editorial Board (by which is understood the Editors, Editorial Committee, and Business Agent), unless satisfactory reference shall be given.

The Committee appointed by the Adv. Chris. Association, at its last Annual Meeting, to advise with the Editorial Board "in relation to the publication in the World's Crisis of the appointments of men unworthy of recognition as preachers," having attended to the duty assigned them, recommended, and the Editorial Board have adopted, and ordered to be published, the following resolution:—

"Resolved, That when the Editorial Board is properly notified by any of our Churches or Ministers, or responsible persons by a written allegation that a certain minister, or ministers lack moral character, that they be instructed to notify such minister, or ministers, of the information received as a reason for withholding their appointments till after a proper trial and acquittal."

All communications in relation to this matter should be addressed to the Secretary of the Board—Geo. T. Adams, Boston, Mass.

Boston (Branch Chapel) 2029 Washington Street, (corner of Madison Street.)
Love Feast at 10½ a. m. Preaching at 3 and 7½ p. m. Prayer meeting Tuesday and Friday evenings.
Geo. W. Sederquest.....Sunday, Oct. 31st
J. S. White.....Sunday, Nov. 7th

Boston (Repository Hall) 712 Washington St., corner of Kneeland St.
Preaching at 10½ a. m. and 3 and 7 p. m. Sunday School at 1 30 p. m. Prayer meeting Wednesday evening.

East Boston (Central Hall, 152 Meridian Street.)
Meetings every Sunday, at the usual hours, also prayer and conference meetings Wednesday and Friday evenings, at 7½ o'clock p. m.
J. S. White.....Sunday, Oct. 31st

Charlestown (Hall No. 70 Main Street.)
T. M. Preble.....Sunday, Oct. 31st
J. F. Nickerson.....Sundays, Nov. 7th and 14th
Wm. N. File.....Sunday, Nov. 21st
E. Owen.....Sunday, Nov. 28th

Chelsea, Mass.
Preaching Sundays, at 10.30 A. M. and 3 P. M.
Conference Meeting at 7 o'clock Sunday evenings. Tuesday and Friday evenings, at 7½ o'clock.
M. Batchelor.....Sunday, Oct. 31st
D. M. Leavitt.....Sunday, Nov. 7th

Somerville, Mass (Pilgrim Hall, Summer Street.)
Meetings every Sunday, at the usual hours, also prayer and conference meetings Tuesday and Friday evenings, at 7½ o'clock p. m.
Geo. W. Sederquest.....1st and 3d Sundays in each month till further notice.
B. Emery.....Sunday, Oct. 31st

Hyde Park, Mass. (Connor's Hall.)—Meetings every Sabbath at the usual hours. T. M. Preble.
C. E. Barnes.....Sunday, Oct. 31st
L. Boutell.....Sunday, Nov. 7th

Lynn, Mass.....Sunday, Oct. 31st
J. Couch.

Springfield, Mass.....Sunday, Oct 31st and onward every evening as the Lord may direct.
Miles Grant.

Palmer, Mass., Monday evening, Oct. 25th, and every evening during the week, and Sunday, Oct. 31st.
I. I. Leslie.

Tremont, Mass.....Sunday, Nov. 14th
Plymouth, Mass.....Sunday, Nov. 21st
J. S. White.

Kennebunk, Me.....Sunday, Oct. 31st
I. C. Wellcome.

North Adams, Mass., from Thursday, Oct. 28th, and over the Sabbath, Oct. 31st.
New Bedford, Mass.....Sabbaths, Nov 7th and 14th
Direct to Chicopee Falls, Mass. H. Munger.

Fairhaven, Mass.....Sunday, Nov. 14th
New York City (as Bro. Cox may appoint) Sunday, Nov. 21st.
Hartford, Conn.....Sunday, Nov. 28th
M. Batchelor.

Tremont, Mass.....Sunday, Oct. 31st
B. Woodside.

Warehousepoint.....Sunday, Oct. 31st
H. Pratt.

Kennebunkport.....Thursday evening, Oct. 28th
Biddeford, Me.....Friday evening, Oct. 29th
Portsmouth, N. H.....evening, Nov. 4th
Lynn, Mass.....evening, Nov. 5th
I. B. Potter.

Montgomery, Mass.....Sabbath, Nov. 7th
B. Hitchcock.

Barkhampsted, Ct.....Sunday, Oct. 31st
New Haven, Ct.....Sunday, Nov. 7th
S. Woodruff.

Warren, Vt.....Wednesday evening, Nov. 3d
North Fayston, Vt.....Friday evening, Nov. 5th
I. H. Brigham.

Southbridge, Mass.....Sunday, Nov. 21st
Geo. E. Streeter.

South Sebec, Me. (Harriman school house) Tuesday, Nov. 2d, 7 p. m., and onward till Friday, Nov. 5th.
Bangor, Me.....Sunday, Nov. 7th
Milo, Me.....Sunday, Nov. 14th
F. A. Baker.

West Lebanon, Me. (where Bro. Johnson may appoint) Sunday, Oct. 31st.
Strafford, N. H. (Robert's school house) Sun., Nov. 7th
Farmington, N. H.....Sunday, Nov. 28th
J. F. Chamberlin.

South Rochester, N. H.....Sunday, Oct. 31st
S. Varney.

New Jersey City (Cooper Institute) Sunday, Oct. 31st
F. H. Burbank.

Chicago, Ill.....Thursday evening, Oct. 28th
R. F. & M. J. Clark.

Swansville (at Bro. Curtis' school-house) Thursday, Oct 28th, at 7 p. m.
Lincolnville, Friday, Oct. 29th, at 7 p. m., and over Sunday, Oct. 31st.
Northport.....7 p. m, Friday, Nov. 5th
Searsport.....Sunday, Nov. 7th
Surry.....Saturday, Nov. 13th, at 2 p. m., and over Sunday, Nov. 14th. S. & L. W. Bragg.

East Canaan, N. H.....Friday evening, Nov. 12th
Dorchester, N. H. (Town House)..Sunday, Nov. 14th
Simeon Roby.

Square Pond, Ct.....Sunday, Oct. 31st
P. S. Butler.

Melvin Village.....Sunday, Oct. 31st
T. W. Piper.

Cabot, Vt.....Sunday, Oct. 31st
A. Gordon.

North Troy, Vt. (Baptist house) Sunday, Oct. 31st, and onward as the Lord may direct. Will Bro. Magoon meet with me?
Worden, P. Q. (where Bro. L. G. Hill may appoint) Sunday, Nov. 28th, and onward as the Lord directs.
U. G. Ladd

Danbury, N. H. (Town House).....Sunday, Oct. 31st
Bradford, N. H. (Bush meeting-house)..Sun., Nov. 7th
A. S. Williams.

Frankfort, Me.....Sunday, Oct. 31st
J. T. Lane.

Dorchester, N. H.....evenings, Oct. 28th, 29th, 30th and over Sunday.
North Haverhill, N. H.....evening, Nov. 6th and over Sunday.
Swiftwater, N. H.....evening, Nov. 8th
North Benton, N. H. (new school-house) evening, Nov. 9th.
East Landaff, N. H.....evenings, Nov. 11th, 12th, 13th and over Sunday. John H. Evans.

Moultonboro, N. H. (Neck Road school-house) Sunday, Nov. 7th. J. G. Moulton.

Northwood Narrows, N. H.....Sunday, Nov. 14th
Fairhaven, Mass.....Tuesday evening, Nov. 23d and onward.
Mattapoisett, Mass.....Sunday, Nov. 28th
A. Simpson.

Limington, Me. (Hanscom school-house) Thursday and Friday evenings, Oct 28th and 29th.
Harrison, Me (Woodsom school-house) Saturday evening, Oct. 30th, and over Sunday.
Norway, Me., Monday and Tuesday evenings, Nov. 1st and 2nd.
East Sumner, Me. (as Thomas Stevens may arrange) Wednesday evening, Nov. 3d.
Hartford, Me.....Thursday, Nov. 4th
South Livermore, Friday and Saturday evenings, Nov. 5th and 6th, and over Sunday, Nov. 7th.
Jesse Gay.
Geo. W. Brown (of Elliott.)

Piermont, N. H. (Clay meeting-house) eve., Nov. 2nd
Lake Village, N. H. (North Church)...Sun., Nov. 7th
Daniel D. Page.

Woodford, Vt.....Sunday, Oct. 31st
Savoy, Mass. (New State Chapel)...Sunday, Nov. 7th
Mrs. M. L. Tower.

Warren Summit.....Sunday, Oct. 31st
A. H. Clark.

Topsham, Vt. (Carson Bridge).....Sunday, Nov. 7th
Haverhill Corner, N. H. (Sand Bank school-house) Sunday, Nov. 14th. Geo. E. Brown.

Hinesburgh, Vt.....evening, Oct. 28th
Bristol, Vt.....evening, Oct. 29th
Addison, Vt.....Sunday, Oct. 31st
A. A. Hoyt.

Bro. Bemans, Warren.....Tuesday evening, Nov. 9th
Ellsworth.....Thursday evening, Nov. 11th and over Sunday, Nov. 14th. G. L. White.

Luzzain Co., near the city of Scranton, Pa. (Methodist church), as Bro. T. Fenn may arrange, through the week, and Sunday, Oct. 31st.
I. N. Wilfong.

Whitakerville, Vt.....Sunday, Oct. 31st
J. A. Packard.

North Shrewsbury, Vt.....Oct. 28th and 29th
Hoosick, N. Y.....Sunday, Oct. 31st
Boyntonville, N. Y. (Christian Church).....Nov. 1st
South Adams, Mass. (Baptist Church).....Nov. 2nd
North Adams, Mass., evenings, Nov. 3d, 4th, 5th, 6th, and Sunday, Nov. 7th. Arthur A. Waite.

Sandwich, (Vitum school-house)..Thursday evening, Nov. 4th.
Porter, Me.....Sunday, Nov. 7th
Levi Allen.

Limington, Me. (Hanscom school-house) Sun., Nov. 7th
J. L. Chute.

East Acworth, N. H.....evening, Oct. 30th and over Sunday, Oct. 31st.
Unity Centre, N. H.....Sunday evening, Oct. 31st
J. B. S. Pillsbury.

West Poland, Me.....every evening, and over the Sabbath, Oct. 31st.
Biddeford, Me.....Tuesday evening, Nov. 9th
Kennebunkport.....Nov. 10th
Great Works.....Nov. 10th
Seabrook, N. H., Tuesday, Nov. 16th, and other churches in the vicinity, as Bro. Barton may arrange, till the 19th.
Salem, Mass.....Sunday, Nov. 21st
Annie E. Smith.

St. George (as the Brn. may appoint) Friday, Oct. 29th and over Sunday, Oct. 31st.
Manhegin Isle.....Friday, Nov. 5th and over Sunday, Nov. 7th.
Friendship, Me., Long Isle.....Wednesday evening, Nov. 10th. H. S. Mitchell.

Charlton.....Sunday, Oct. 31st
M. E. Otis.

South Rochester N. H. (Chapel).....Sabbath, Oct. 31st
West Alton, N. H. (at the Chapel) Sabbath, Nov. 14th
D. F. Leavitt.

Bonny Eagle, Me. (exchange with Bro. Haines) Sunday, Nov. 14th.
Standish Neck, Me. (as Bro. Shackford may arrange) Sunday, Oct. 24th.
Hollis Centre, Me.....Sunday, Oct. 31st
West Poland, Me.....Sunday, Nov. 7th
Freedom, N. H. (Chapel).....Sunday, Nov. 21st
C. H. Sweet.

Sandwich (Vitum Hill).....evening, Oct. 28th and over Sunday, Oct 31st.
Freedom (Chapel).....evening, Nov. 1st
Steep Falls.....evenings, Nov. 2d and 3d
South Windham, Me.....evening, Nov. 4th and over Sunday, Nov. 7th. E. S. Moulton.

Orrington, Me.....Sunday, Oct. 31st
Geo. W. Brown.

Sandwich, N. H. (Vitum school-house) Sun., Nov. 7th
Pleasant Valley, N. H.....Sunday, Nov. 14th
T. L. Churchill.

Salem, Mass.....Sunday, Oct. 31st
Alton, N. H.....Sunday, Nov. 7th
E. Owen.

Freedom N. H. (Chapel) evenings, Oct. 28th and 29th
Porter, Me.....Sunday, Oct. 31st
J. T. Jordan.

Lisbon, N. H. (Streeter school-house) through the week, and over Sunday, Oct. 31st, if the Lord will.
Geo. E. Brown.
Daniel D. Page.

North Greenwich, N. Y.....Friday evening, Oct. 29th
Fort Ann, N. Y.....Oct. 30th, and over the Sabbath
Wm. J. Blanchard.

West Alton, N. H. (Chapel).....Sunday, Oct. 31st
Newcastle, N. H.....Sunday, Nov. 14th
Meredith, N. H. (Dolloff Hall).....Sunday, Nov. 21st
Meredith Neck, N. H. (meeting-house) Sun., Nov. 28th
Farmington Village, N. H.....Sunday, Dec. 5th
C. R. Parsons.

Fremont, Steuben Co., N. Y.....Sunday, Nov. 7th and evenings the week following.
Mrs. L. M. Stoddard.

Chichester, N. H. (Pine Ground).....evening, Nov. 6th and Sunday, Nov. 7th. N. B. McMurphy.

Meredith Centre, N. H.....Sunday, Oct. 31st
N. Glidden.

Sutton, N. H.....Sunday, Oct. 31st
Melvin Village, N. H.....Sunday, Nov. 14th
John Parsons.

New York (24th Street).....Sunday, Oct. 31st
Wm. Shepherd.

Bow, N. H. (Woodbury school-house) Friday evening and over Sunday, Nov. 12th. D. W. Davis.

Charlton, Mass.....1st Sunday in every month
Southbridge, Mass.....4th Sunday in every month
Sam'l. Ayres.

Salem, Mass.....2d and 4th Sundays in each month until further notice. Geo. W. Sederquest.

Granby, Mass. (Batchelder Street) the second Sunday in each month.
North Rutland, Mass...the last Sunday in each month
Geo. A. Streeter.

Palmer, Mass., the 1st and 3d Sundays in each month
Granby, Mass.....fourth Sunday in each month
H. H. Tucker.

Hinesburg, Vt., Sundays for one year excepting the last Sunday in each month.
Bristol, Vt., the last Sunday in each month for one year. Wm. C. Stewart.

Haverhill, Mass. (New Chapel on Walnut St.)
A. Simpson.....Sunday, Oct 31st
J. Couch.....Sunday, Nov. 7th
A. A. Robinson.....Sunday, Nov. 14th
C. S. Shattuck.....Sunday, Nov. 21st
Miles Grant.....Sunday, Nov. 28th

Worcester, Mass.
T. M. Preble.....Sabbath, Nov. 7th

Natick, Mass.
C. S. Shattuck.....Sunday, Oct. 31st
I. B. Potter.....Sunday, Nov. 7th
Anna E. Smith.....Nov. 25th and 26th and Sunday, Nov. 28th.

New Bedford, Mass.
S. S. Brewer.....Sunday, Oct. 31st
A. Simpson.....Sunday, Nov. 21st

Clinton, Mass.
H. H. Tucker.....Sunday, Oct. 31st

North Rutland, Mass.
Willard M. Hall.....first Sunday in each month
H. H. Tucker.....second Sunday in each month

Hampton, N. H.
C. Goodrich.....Sunday, Oct. 31st
Wm. W. Sutherland.....Sunday, Nov. 7th
A. Ross.....Sunday, Nov. 14th
J. F. Chamberlin.....Sunday, Nov. 21st

Exeter, N. H.
W. M. Harmon.....Sunday, Oct. 31st
W. W. Sutherland.....Sunday, Nov. 14th
B. Woodside.....Sunday, Nov. 21st
C. S. Shattuck.....Sunday, Dec. 12th

Portsmouth, N. H.
Jane Benson.....Sunday, Oct. 31st
M. Batchelor.....Sunday, Nov. 7th
Annie E. Smith.....Sunday, Nov. 14th

Seabrook, N. H.
J. C. Smith.....Sunday, Oct. 31st
Sr. Annie Smith.....Sunday, Nov. 7th
T. W. Piper.....Sunday, Nov. 14th
Joseph Pinkham.....Sunday, Nov. 21st
D. F. Leavitt.....Sunday, Nov. 28th
John F. Chamberlin.....Sunday, Dec. 5th
Joseph Pinkham.....Sunday, Dec. 12th
E. S. Moulton.....Sunday, Dec. 19th

New Durham, N. H.
A. Ross.....Sunday, Nov. 7th
T. W. Piper.....Sunday, Nov. 21st

East Concord, N. H. (Ward House).—Meetings three times Sunday, also Tuesday and Thursday evenings.
C. H. Fletcher.....first Sunday in each month
D. W. Davis.....third Sunday in each month

Great Falls, N. H. (Franklin Hall.)
J. Bickford.....Sunday, Oct. 31st

West Deerfield, N. H.
J. L. Chute.....Sunday, Oct. 31st
C. R. Parsons.....Sunday, Nov. 7th

South Rochester, N. H.
J. F. Chamberlin.....Sunday, Nov. 14th

Portland, Me. (Union Hall.)
I. B. Potter.....Sunday, Oct. 31st
E. A. Stockman.....Sunday, Nov. 7th
J. Couch.....Sunday, Nov. 14th

Sabbatus, Me. (Jones' Hall.)
J. A. Libbey.....Sunday, Oct. 31st
R. R. York.....Sunday, Nov. 7th
H. S. Mitchell.....Sunday, Nov. 14th
H. D. Reed.....Sunday, Nov. 21st
E. S. Moulton.....evening, Dec. 8th and over Sunday, Dec. 12th.

Biddeford, Me.
E. A. Stockman.....Sunday, Oct. 31st
Albert Robinson.....Sunday, Nov. 7th
Geo. W. Brown.....Sunday, Nov. 14th
Wm. H. Mitchell.....Sunday, Nov. 21st
J. Albert Libby.....Sunday, Nov. 28th

South Berwick, Me. (Great Works.)
C. S. Shattuck.....Sunday, Oct. 31st

South Elliot, Me.
L. Boutell.....Sunday, Oct. 31st

Bridgeport, Conn.
Mrs. E. A. Warren.....Sunday, Oct. 31st
Mrs. E. L. Crumb.....Sunday, Nov. 7th
Warren Tefft.....Sundays, Nov. 14th and 21st
Mrs. E. A. Warren.....Sunday, Nov. 28th
Mrs. E. L. Crumb.....Sunday, Dec. 5th
Mrs. E. A. Warren.....Sunday, Dec. 12th
A. A......Sunday, Dec. 19th
Mrs. E A. Warren.....Sunday, Dec. 26th
Mrs. E. L. Crumb.....Sunday, Jan. 1st

Bristol, Ct.
A. Elliott.....Sunday, Oct. 31st
G. L. White.....Sunday, Nov. 7th

Woodstock Valley, Ct.
Sr. E. L. Crumb.....Sunday, Oct. 31st

Plainville, Ct.
G. L. White.....Sunday, Oct. 31st
Seth Woodruff.....Sunday, Nov. 14th
R. K. Stark.....Sunday, Nov. 21st
B. Hitchcock.....Sunday, Dec. 5th
Mrs. E. L. Crumb.....Sunday, Dec. 12th

Putnam, Ct.
A. Durfee.....Sunday, Oct. 31st
C. Goodrich.....Sunday, Nov. 7th
A. Simpson.....Sundays, Dec. 5th and 12th and evenings through the week.

Milldale (Southington, Ct.)
B. Hitchcock.....Sunday, Oct. 31st
W. Tefft.....Sunday, Nov. 7th
A. Elliott.....Sunday, Nov. 21st

South West Hoosick, N. Y.
Arthur A. Waite.....once in four weeks
Flora Blanchard.....once in four weeks

Chicago, Ill.—Green Street Tabernacle Church hold services in their Chapel on Green Street, near Madison Street, Chicago, Ill., every Lord's day, morning and evening. Prayer meetings in the Basement room of the Tabernacle every Wednesday and Friday evenings of each week. Brethren and sisters passing through Chicago are invited to call. All correspondents will write to L. C. Rice, 168 West Madison St.
Frank Burr, Pastor.

Chicago, Ill.—The Advent Christian Church meets at their Hall, No. 213 West Madison St., every Lord's day. There will be preaching at 10½ a. m. and 7½ p. m.; prayer meeting every Thursday evening, at 7½ o'clock. All preaching brethren visiting, or passing through the city, and desiring to preach, will please correspond with Bro. H. P. Wright, Board of Health, Chicago, Ill. H. P. Wright, R. P. Price, Elders.
Eld. H. G. McCulloch, Pastor.

Providence, R. I., A. C. Church, Hammond Street, near Division. Sabbath—Social meeting 9 a. m. Sabbath school 10.30 a. m.; preaching 2.45 p. m.; social meeting 7 a. m. Social meetings Wednesday and Friday evenings, at 7.30 P. M. A. W. Sibley, Pastor.

Removal.—The Star of Hope Mission (late of 229 South 5th Avenue), has removed to 185 Spring Street, between Thompson and Sullivan Streets, to the large hall lately occupied by the City Mission. Services will be held on Sundays at 10½, 3 and 7½ o'clock. Class meeting Monday evenings, at 8 o'clock; prayer and conference Wednesday and Friday evenings, at 8 o'clock. Mrs. Anna E. Smith, Sup't.

Philadelphia, Pa. (Sunny Side Hall.)—Meetings every Sunday morning, afternoon and evening; also on Wednesday evening of each week, at the usual hours. Correspond with I. N. Wilfong, No. 135 North 22nd Street.

Philadelphia, Pa. (Adv. Chris. Church, Eighth Street, above Noble.)
Meetings are held every Sabbath at 10½ A. M. and 7½ P. M. Prayer and conference meeting Friday evenings. Geo. A. Brown, Pastor.

☞ Meetings are held every Sunday in Kennebunkport, Me., also Tuesday and Thursday evenings.

"GOSPEL SONGS."

"A choice collection of Hymns and Tunes, New and Old, for Prayer Meetings, Sunday Schools, etc."

This is a new book that has had a large sale at our campmeetings this season, and contains some very choice pieces:—"When Jesus Comes," "More to Follow," etc., etc. For sale at this Office. Price, 35 cts. per copy; $3.60 per dozen by express; by mail, 40 cts. per copy. Agent.

THE ADVENT MINSTREL;

A choice collection of Spiritual Songs. Flexible cloth, 25 cents single copy; per dozen, $2.50 by mail. For sale at this Office.

"THE CHILD'S BIBLE QUESTION BOOK."

BY ELD. C. GOODRICH.

This is the title of a work just issued by the A. C. P. Society, designed for the small children in the Sabbath Schools and in the family. Just what we have long wanted. Price 10 cts. single copy; $1.00 per doz., sent by mail. Ag't.

THE FUTURE OF OUR PLANET
AS VIEWED FROM A
BIBLICAL STANDPOINT.
BY A. W. SIBLEY.

This is the title of a new Tract of 16 pages, issued by the A. C. P. Society. Just the thing to circulate widely. Price, 3 cents per copy; 20 cts. per dozen; $1.40 per hundred, by mail. Ag't.

GERMAN TRACTS.

A new German Tract just out: "Does the Bible teach the Immortality of the Soul?" A reply to a letter from a German theologian in Prussia.

Other tracts as follows: "The Fifth Universal Kingdom, or Kingdom of Christ on Earth." "What is Man?" "Future Doom of the Ungodly." "Resurrection," etc.

Louis Reimer, No. 639 North Eighth Street, above Wallace, Philadelphia, Pa.

A LIST OF NEW BOOKS,
JUST RECEIVED FROM
KELLAWAY & CO.'S ENGLISH REPOSITORY.
FOR SALE AT THE OFFICE OF
"THE ADV. CHRIS. PUB. SOCIETY,"
160 Hanover Street.

Persons purchasing from the following list, help in so doing to sustain the English Repository.

Coverdale's English Bible. A large volume, being a copy of the first Bible ever printed in the English language. Very curious, and in many texts favoring the truth of life only in the Christ. $8.

Old Testament Scriptures in Hebrew and English. 4th size Bagster's edition. A nice edition of the Scriptures. $8.

"Rainbow," Volume for 1874. The English Monthly that utters the truth about immortality. Edited by W. Leask, D. D. $3 bound in cloth.

"Bible Echo," Volume I., for 1874. This is the only English weekly newspaper that maintains what as a people we consider to be teachings of God. It is conducted by Eld. W. Kellaway. We have a good supply of this book, to meet expected sale. It contains the history of the truth in England and its Colonies. $3 bound in cloth.

Critical New Testament, with Emendations by Fregelles, Lachmann, Griesbach, and Tischendorff. $1.50.

Catholic Apostolic Church (Irvingism): Its Pretensions and Claims considered in connection with the facts of its history, and the teaching of the New Testament and early Christian Antiquity. Cloth limp, 65 cts.

Bible Triumphant: a Reply to "144 Self-Contradictions of the Bible." 50 cts.

"The Way Everlasting," by S. Minton, M. A. Review of the English Controversy on Eternal Evil. 30 cts.

Sunlight Dispersing the Dismal Shadows: or, The Doctrine of Eternal Torments shown to lack Reason and Scripture alike. 25 cts.

Photograph of H. Constable, M. A., one of the chief of English writers on Life only in the Christ, author of "Hades," and "The Duration of Future Punishment, etc, late Prebendary of Cork, Ireland. 25 cts.

Photograph of S. Minton, M. A., also a prolific writer on Human Mortality and the Divine Gift of Eternal Existence. Late of Eaton Chapel, London. 25 cts.

Last War; a little book treating upon the Last War, with a Diagram. 15 cts.

Harmony of Scripture upon Future Punishment. The Death View. By S. Minton, M. A. 20 cts.

Immortality only in Christ, and Eternal Death. The subjects of Two Lectures delivered in Brikenhead. By H S. Harleigh, M. A. Capt. Ward in the Chair. 20 cts.

A New Bible: or Scripture Re-written to prove the Doctrines of Necessary Immortality and Eternal Evil. By S. Minton, M. A. 10 cts.

Immaterialism: or, The Fruits of Believing the Soul of Man to be the Personality. 6 cts.

Chaos, Kosmos, The Kingdom of Darkness and The Kingdom of God. By E. White, M. A. Our Earth's history from beginning to end. 5 cts.

Who Art Thou that Judgest? A Letter addressed to one, but applicable to many. By Joseph Stratford, Minister of the Gospel. A Rebuke with Doctrine of such as are cruel in their treatment of Christians holding life in Jesus. 5 cts.

Words of Holy Writ on Future Punishment. 60 cts.

Scripture Doctrine of a Future Life. By W. Leask, D. D. 12 copies for 50 cts.

Popular Objections to the Resurrection of the Body. 12 copies for 50 cts.

Whose Child are You? 12 copies for 35c.

Report of a large Meeting at Chelsea on Life only in Christ. Reported by Bro. W. Kellaway. 12 copies for 50 cts.

Life Everlasting. By W. Leask, D. D. 12 copies for 25 cts.

Dialogue between a Pedestrian and his Friend. A lot of valuable extracts. 12 copies for 25 cts.

Life and Death. Extract from Archbishop Whateley's "Future Life." 20 copies for 25 cts.

Immortality. Extracts from numerous authors on Life and Immortality by the Lord Christ. By H. Constable, M. A. Enlarged by Bro. W. Kellaway. 20 copies for 25 cts.

Immortality only in Christ. A concise presentation of the truth stated in its title, in twenty-three paragraphs and extracts from Fathers. 20 copies for 25 cts.

Eternal Life the Gift of God. 20 copies for 25 cts.

A Jesuit's Letter. Jesuitry as it is, and not as it seems. 25 copies for 10 cts.

The Evils of Tobacco Using. Reprinted from the "American Health Reformer." 12 copies for 50 cts.

Business.

Notes to Correspondents.

☞ We cannot discontinue or send your orders, unless you give us the POST OFFICE and STATE in PLAIN LETTERS.

☞ ELD. S. G. MATHEWSON'S address is Castleton, Vt.

☞ DR. D. MATHEWSON'S address is 331 Seventeenth Street, San Francisco, California.

☞ ELD. A. W. SIBLEY'S address is 32 Bellevue Avenue, Providence, R. I.

☞ ELD. GEO. A. BROWN'S address is 1003 Morgan Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

☞ R. F. & M. J. CLARK'S address is Peach Creek, Washington Co., Kansas.

☞ WM. C. STEWART'S address hereafter will be Hinesburg, Vt.

☞ J. C and S. E. SMITH'S address is Newton Upper Falls, Mass.

☞ M. A. POTTER'S address is St. Johnsbury, Vt.

☞ C. MENDENHALL'S address is Norwalk, Huron Co., Ohio.

☞ J. A. CLEAVELAND'S address will be West Randolph until further notice.

☞ GEO. H. WALLACE'S address will be No. 30 Orange Street, Manchester, N. H., till further notice.

☞ ELD. JOHN PARSON'S address is 10 High Rock Street, Lynn, Mass.

List of Persons sending Money for Others.—S A Coburn, I M Colby, J B Cook, J Robinson, L D Carey, W B Bartlett, J S Morris, L D Carey, H W Gates, C Wilder, H W Buxton, J R Smith, S H V Bellows, Susan M Wells.

Cash Received for Books and Tracts.—P J Snyder 50c, L Record $1.00, R. E. Snow 60c. J. C. Waite 40c, A J White 20c, Mrs. M E Clark 40c, D Ray 25c, J Snowman 40c, D K Barrett Jr $1.50 I N Thompson $10.25, M Wade $2.00, W J Morrill $1.00, A W Lloyd 20c, W Joseph 35c, R H Osborn $1.00, G A Streeter 30c, W M Dyer 40c, A W Lane $1 75, Dr A F Randall 30c, C E Hicks 50c, A Andrews $2.50.

Books and Tracts Sent.—By Mail—P J Snyder, W R Dewey, L Record, A J White, R E Snow, J C Waite, Mrs G P Persons, Mrs M E Clark, Mrs C Miller, W Joseph, A M Lloyd, J Gierlow, W M Dyer, B H Osborn, J Snowman, R K Beveiage, A J Young (4 pack), C E Hicks, Dr A F Randall, Ali Andrews.

By Express—J Newlin, I N Thompson, W J Morrell, A W Lane, W J Blanchard, O P Dunn.

Articles Received.—G A Streeter, H S Mitchell, J Bates, J H F Varney, H W Buxton, A Durkee, O D Woodruff, D K Barrett, L C McKinstry, J A Libby, A Pease, H H Tucker, A H Smith, A G Gordon, E M Lunt, E S Craig, J B S Pillsbury, M J Locke, A J B., J H Smith, T S Greene, G L Tracy, S P Hayward, L B Weaver, J P Marquand, M H Russell, J L Field, A McLaughlin.

Catalogue
OF BOOKS AND TRACTS
FOR SALE AT THE OFFICE OF
"THE ADV. CHRIS. PUB. SOCIETY,"
160 Hanover Street.

BIBLE DICTIONARY. Five colored maps, two hundred and fifty Engravings. Sheep, $2 25; cloth, $1.50; postage, 25 cts.

BEREAN'S CASKET AND REPOSITORY. By I. C. Wellcome Cloth, $2.00; leather, $2.50.

CRUDEN'S CONCORDANCE. Sheep, $2.00; cloth, $1 50; postage, 25 cts.

CHRISTIAN BAPTISM. By I. C. Wellcome. 25 cts.

ENGLISH REFERENCE BIBLES. Minion: calf, morocco, circuit bindings, from $2.50 to $4 25. Nonpareil: calf, morocco, circuit bindings, from $2.00 to $3.50. Pearl: calf, morocco, circuit bindings, from $1.50 to $3 00. Diamond: calf, morocco, circuit bindings, from $1.25 to $2.00.

FABLES OF INFIDELITY and Facts of Faith. By Robert Patterson. Cloth, $1.00.

FUTURITY; or, The Hereafter of all Men. By Wm. Sheldon. 22 cts.

GOOD TIDINGS. Cloth, 50 cts. Postage, 16 cts. By express, $5 00 per dozen.

GREEK AND ENGLISH CONCORDANCE. By Hudson and Hastings. Cloth, $2.50; leather. $3.50; postage, 12 cts.

HYMNS OF JUBILEE HARP. Cloth, sprinkled edges, $7.00 per dozen; $55.00 per hundred; single, 75 cts. Leather, gilt edge, $9.50 per dozen; $75.00 per hundred; single, $1 00; postage 15 cts. single copy.

IMMORTALITY. By J. H. Whitmore. Cloth, $1.00.

IS IT HERESY? By J. Couch. 15 cts. per doz.

JUBILEE HARP, Hymn, and Tune Book. Plain cloth, leather back, colored edge, $9.00 per doz.; single, $1.00. Extra cloth, leather back, gilt edge, $10.50 per dozen; single $1.15. Extra cloth, leather back, gilt edge and covers, $12 per doz.; single, $1.25. Postage 12 cts. single copy.

HISTORY OF THE ADVENT MESSAGE. By I. C. Wellcome. Price $3.50

JUDGMENT IMPENDING. By L. T. Cunningham. 8 cts.; 75 cts. per doz.; $5.00 per hundred

MATTHEW 24 and 25. An Exposition. By I. C. Wellcome. 27 cts.

PILGRIM PSALMS. Sunday-school Hymn and Tune Book. Paper covers, $3.00 per dozen; stiff covers, $3.60.

PREPARE TO MEET THY GOD. Behold, the Judge standeth before the door. 10 cts per dozen; 40 cts. per hundred.

REASONS FOR MY HOPE; or, Tokens of Redemption. By H. L. Hastings. 25 cts.

SCRIPTURAL QUESTION-BOOK. Single, 17 cts.; per dozen, by express, $1.25; by mail, $1.60.

SYMBOLIZATION of the World's Eventful Crisis. By O. R. Fassett. 4 cts; 20 cts. per dozen.

SPIRITUALISM UNVEILED. By M. Grant. 15 cts; 8 copies, $1.00; $10.00 per hundred.

THE End of the King of the North and the Impending time of Trouble. By L. T. Cunningham. 48 pages; 8 cts; 75 cts. per dozen; $5.00 per hundred.

THE Bible Text-Book. For Ministers, Teachers, and Students. 50 cts.

THE Plan of Redemption. By Wellcome & Goud. $1.25

The Nature of Man. By M. Grant and others. 25 cts; $2 25 per dozen.

The Emphatic Diaglott. Containing the original Greek Text of the New Testament, according to the recension of Griesbach; with an interlinear word-for-word translation. Cloth, $4.10; leather back, $5.16.

The First-day Sabbath. By T. M. Preble. $1 50.

The Destiny of Man. By W. Erwin, $1.35; gilt, $1.65.

Trumpet for the Watchman. By Geo. Thomson. 20 cts. $1.75 per dozen; $11 00 per one hundred.

Who are Sadducees? By Geo. Thomson. 10 cts.

What is Man? By M. Grant. 6 cts.

Young Pilgrim Stories. Illustrated. By "Uncle Pilgrim." 2 vols, 50 cts. each.

Young Pilgrim Stories. Tract form. 30 cts. per dozen; $2.00 per hundred.

Yahveh-Christ. The Coming One. By L. T. Cunningham. 8 cts. 75 cts.

Is Christ's Second Coming in the Past? By Wm. Sheldon. 15 cts. per dozen; 60 cts. per hundred.

THE TRUE SABBATH.
WHICH DAY SHALL WE KEEP?
AN EXAMINATION OF
MRS. ELLEN G. WHITE'S VISIONS.
BY MILES GRANT.
ISSUED
BY THE ADV. CHRIS. PUB. SOCIETY,
A NEW WORK

On the Sabbath of the Old Covenant. An investigation of Mrs. E. G. White's Visions, showing that they are not from God.

All who have accepted Mrs. White's visions as coming from heaven, or who have been led to rest on Saturday instead of the Lord's day, should read this work. Let those who live among our Seventh-day brethren send and get a number of the books to give away. If the reader has friends at a distance who have received Mrs. W.'s Visions as true, have a copy of this work sent to them.

It contains 106 pages, and we will send it at the following prices: Single copy, 20 cts.; per doz., $1.75 by mail; per hundred, $10.00 by express. Agent.

A NEW TRACT.
ATHEISM CONFOUNDED,
AND
THE FACT OF GOD'S EXISTENCE ESTABLISHED.
BY A. W. SIBLEY.

A valuable little Tract of eight pages—just the thing to circulate in these times of unbelief and skepticism. Price by mail, 15 cents per dozen. Agent.

"THE MYSTERY EXPLAINED:
OR,
AN EXPOSITION OF THE WOMAN AND THE SCARLET-COLORED BEAST
In the 17th Chapter of Revelation.
SHOWING WE ARE NEAR THE END OF THE PRESENT DISPENSATION."
BY MILES GRANT.

This valuable and interesting tract is now ready, and for sale at this Office. Price by mail, single copy, 8 cts; four copies for 25 cts.; per dozen, 75 cts. Ag't.

I LOVE TO TRUST IN JESUS.

I love to trust in Jesus—
My Savior so adored!
A solid rock beneath my feet
Is his unfailing word.
I know this firm foundation,
And feel I'm so secure!
His precious word is tried and proved,
His promises ar sure.

When arms of flesh are failing,
And earth seems cold and drear,
I love to trust in his strong arm,
For then he draws so near!
In deepest midnight darkness,
When not a star I see,
The harder then I lean on him,
For then he's nearest me.

And when the raging billows
Are threat'ning to o'erwhelm,
I love to trust in Jesus then,
For he is at the helm.
Though clouds obscure his presence,
I know he's just as near;
And still I trust his changeless love,
And will not yield to fear.

* * * * * * *

And when in life's last conflict
My heart and flesh shall fail,
When o'er this frail mortality
The last foe shall prevail;
Oh, then I'll trust in Jesus,
The glorious conquering King,
Who vanquished the destroyer—death—
And took away his sting?

—Adv. of Chris. Holiness.

THE METHODIST MIRACLE.

PRAYER FORCE AND MODERN MIRACLES.—REV. S. H. PLATT'S REPLY TO HIS CRITICS.

From the New York Herald, Sept. 27th.

Mr. Platt is the subject of what is facetiously called the "Ocean Grove Miracle." A lameness of twenty-five years was there cured last July by the imposition of a lady's hands and prayer. The cure has been heralded far and wide, and has elicited a great deal of adverse criticism, the most severe of which has come from his ministerial brethren in the Methodist Church; but who have been since as severely criticised in a subsequent meeting. Without referring especially to any of these criticisms, yesterday Mr. Platt based a very thorough argument in favor of such prayer-miracles on Matt. 21: 21–22, and Matt. 24: 24. The first text gives assurance of answers in all things to believing prayer, and the second cautions against deception by false Christs and false prophets. His theme was "Prayer force and modern miracles," and he put forth this proposition as a leading one—Is there in the world a prayer force, or causality, which produces certain results which would not have existed but for its exercise? There is such a force in nature in untold places, in the influence of entreaties, appeals, etc., as exercised in family, social, and business life, and in political, legislative and judicial affairs. The experiences of the Christian begin in this prayer force, as no man is saved until he prays; and he would not be saved did he not pray. The Christian world is full of this prayer force. It is enjoined in the Bible. "God forbid that I should sin against the Lord in ceasing to pray for you." "Pray without ceasing." "I exhort, therefore, that first of all, supplications, prayers, intercessions, and giving of thanks, be made for all men." It is regarded as an inestimable privilege to pray. "If ye, then, being evil," etc. It is represented in the Scriptures as a thing of power. "Whatsoever ye shall ask in my name, that will I do," etc. "The effectual, fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much." Scripture history is full of examples of its power, as in the case of Moses standing "before him in the breach, to turn away his wrath, lest he should destroy them"; of Elijah, who closed heaven for three years and a half and opened it again by prayer; of Abraham, who procured exemption for Sodom if ten righteous persons could be found there. If, then, we believe the Scriptures, and if they do not designedly mislead us, there is a prayer force—a causality which produces results which would not exist but for its exercise; for, to hold that these results would have been secured by other means, is to nullify the whole prayer-provision for human want; for if these statements can be falsified or voided of significance, so can every statement in the word of God relating to this subject.

The second proposition was, Are the conditions of its action within the control of men? If grace is for men, if the christian life is within them, this force must be within their reach. These conditions are threefold: First, those that pertain to man's state and efforts; viz., faith: "Therefore I say unto you, What things soever ye desire when ye pray, believe that ye receive them, and ye shall have them." Again—"But let him ask in faith, nothing wavering; for he that wavereth is like a wave of the sea, driven by the wind and tossed. For let not that man think that he shall receive anything of the Lord." Obedience is another condition: "If ye abide in me, and my words abide in you, ye shall ask what ye will, and it shall be done unto you." "And whatsoever we ask we receive of him, because we keep his commandments, and do those things that are pleasing in his sight." Righteousness is another condition pertaining to man: "If I regard iniquity in my heart, the Lord will not hear me." Perseverance is still another condition sometimes imposed, as is illustrated in the case of the friend who went to borrow three loaves of bread at night; and still more strongly in the case of the woman who interceded for the cure of her child. Second—God's sovereign will is the next condition. "I, even I, am he that blotteth out thine iniquity and forgiveth thy sin. I kill and I make alive," etc. The third condition consists in the previous two in co-operative action. This implies the revelation of God's will, which, in the case of spiritual blessings, is made beforehand; but in the case of temporal benefits, a revelation must be made specifically concerning the particular thing desired, for we are to ask "according to his will." "This is the confidence that we have in him, that if we ask anything according to his will he heareth us," etc. But we cannot know what temporal blessings it may be his will to bestow on us except he in some way intimate that will to us. The all-important question, therefore, is—In what way may we reasonably expect such intimation of his will? The Scriptures lay down this principle, that we are to pray "in the spirit"; "praying always with all prayer and supplication in the spirit." And, when thus praying, "the Spirit also helpeth our infirmities, for we know not what we should pray for as we ought, but the Spirit maketh intercession for us with groanings which cannot be uttered. And he that searcheth the hearts knoweth what is the mind of the Spirit, because he maketh intercession for the saints ACCORDING TO THE WILL OF GOD."

The doctrine clearly taught here is, that when the Spirit thus helps prayer, either of the patient or of a spiritual minded one who is interested for the patient, it is according to the will of God to answer such prayer. Such help is a revelation of his sovereignty in that regard, and therefore may be relied upon with absolute assurance. If this be not the right view, then we are shut up to one of two alternatives; viz., either the whole matter of prayer-answers is left to the mere caprice of whomsoever can exercise faith for any thing, however absurd, if it only seems to him desirable; or else, the whole matter is remanded to the Divine sovereignty, and prayer accomplishes nothing. The first supposition is inconsistent with our ideas of God, and subversive of his providential government; while the second is opposed by the whole tenor of Scripture promises, and the experience of christian life.

The third inquiry is—What are the legitimate results of the activity of this prayer-force? The answer is, Help within the bounds of need and of promise. This includes,—First, all spiritual blessings. Second, mental enlightenment. "I will instruct thee and teach thee in the way"; "If any man lack wisdom, let him ask of God, that giveth to all men liberally, and upbraideth not; and it shall be given him." Third, material favors, comprising protection in danger, and deliverance from peril. "The name of the Lord is a strong tower," etc.; "Call upon me in the day of trouble; I will deliver thee, and thou shalt glorify me." Fourth, physical healings. "The prayer of faith shall save the sick, and the Lord shall raise him up." "Pray one for another, that ye may be healed. The effectual, fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much." There is no possibility of explaining these passages otherwise than as promising physical healing whenever the prayer of faith is offered for the sick in accordance with the will of God. If they do not mean this, they do not mean anything. The assertion is made in the most positive terms, in immediate connection with praying for physical healing, that such prayer "availeth much." "And the Lord [not magnetism, nor imagination, nor anything else; but the LORD] shall raise HIM UP." To be sure, he may choose to work by means, and if so, he certainly works by those unemployed in the case.

But we are here met with the objection that the days of miracles are passed. How do we know this? There is no such intimation in the Bible. But we are told that there is no necessity for them; which is equivalent to saying that in their judgment there is no such necessity. But if reason and judgment are to be the arbiters of the question, then how will the advocates of this view answer the skeptics who affirm that according to their reason and judgment there never has been any necessity for miracles? Either it is not a question for reason to decide, or else the skeptic is justified in his rejection of Scripture miracles. But the truth is, this is not a question of opinion, but of fact, to be decided precisely as the miracles of the Bible are—by testimony. Do not understand me, however, to hold that prayer-miracles are the same as Christ's miracles. They are miracles only in the sense of being events that would not then take place by any natural force, and do actually occur because of the efficiency of prayer. In this sense prayer-miracles did actually continue in the church until the time of Origen in the third century. Wesley declared himself restored more than ten times preternaturally, and said that the reason such things are not more common was the heathenism of the church. Instances of prayer-healing may be found in the lives of Garrison, Henry Moore, Carvosso, and many other Methodist worthies. In some of the minor denominations prayer-healing has been steadily recognized, so that, as a matter of fact, prayer-miracles do still exist in the church, whatsoever may be the opinions of theologians.

The fourth inquiry is—Are there in human experience any marvels that simulate or may be mistaken for these prayer results? The facts of magnetism or mesmerism often seem almost miraculous. Dr. Newton's cure of Miss Christie a few years ago in New York is an instance in point. Spiritualism furnishes wonders that almost equal in the estimation of its adherents any in the New Testament.

Henry Jacob, of the regiment of Imperial Guard Zouaves, in France, a few years ago cured multitudes, while he stood in a clairvoyant state against the wall, and had the diseased and crippled ranged on low benches before him, until he imperatively commanded them to go away whole. Frequently troops passed out leaving crutches, etc., behind as trophies of his wonderful power.

Imagination and excitement have both accomplished marvels. By the first, tumors have been removed by the application of a dead man's hand, headaches by a charm, etc. By the second, the bed-ridden even have been cured in a moment by the house taking fire, etc. The howling Dervishes of the East, and the medical quacks of all climes, work cures by their agency, and have time and again done it as a matter of experiment.

This leads us to ask, Fifthly—By what criteria may we distinguish between these marvels and the prayer-force results? First, by the distinct and definite consciousness, by the patient, of his use of the conditions for the development of the prayer-force. It is a maxim of science that in accounting for any phenomenon, due credit must be given to all the forces engaged in its production. Now, suppose that in an alleged case of prayer-cure it could be clearly shown that, up to a given point, natural forces had been employed; that would not vitiate the conclusion that it was a real prayer-cure, unless it be likewise demonstrated that in that particular case the natural forces used did actually effect the cure. To prove their potency in other cases is nothing to the point. The true question is, after admitting their use in the case supposed, was any other efficient agent employed likewise? If so, and that was the last, and at the time of the cure the main or exclusive means in use, then science and common sense demand that this efficient agent, whatever it may be, shall have the credit due to it. Now, if this efficient superadded means be the prayer-force consciously, purposely and persistently used by the patient, there is but one way to avoid the conclusion that the prayer-force has wrought so much of the cure as to entitle it to recognition, in the proportion of the prominence given to it by the patient, and his disuse of all other curative agents; and that way is to impeach the sanity of the patient—a measure which the skeptic does not hesitate to use in disposing of New Testament marvels.

Second, the absence of the necessary conditions for the activity of each or all of the other wonder-working forces, furnishes a second criterion by which to distinguish between natural marvels and prayer-results. In my case none of the other forces were present and operative. I had a distinct and definite consciousness of employing the prayer-force, and as distinct and definite watchfulness against all the other forces, because I had been for years familiar with their operations, and had determined that since I had been led to expect help of God alone, he, and he only, should have the praise. There was no electricity, magnetism, mesmerism, or spiritualism present. There was no working upon my imagination, for, whatever might have affected one less guarded,—such as the resting of the hands upon the knees; Miss M.'s declaration of the cure completed; the strange sensation in the knees,—all these were utterly discarded, deliberately, coolly, and with a clear and well defined purpose to regard her mission to me only as God's intimation to me that he was willing upon the condition of my faith to heal me.

But we are met by the objection—"Your cure can be accounted for upon psychological principles, and therefore it should be attributed to nothing else." Suppose this assertion were true, yet the psychological forces involved might be the very means which God might choose to use in response to the prayer-force, and therefore unless this force be entirely eliminated, it might after all be the cause of the cure.

Now we add, as a third criterion, an attendant spiritual experience which authenticates to the subject himself the reality of the prayer-force interposition. This experience should be carefully discriminated from mental hallucinations and all the natural consequences of cure. In my case such experiences were present, as detailed in my pamphlet, which demonstrated to my own consciousness as clearly as the fact of divine communion, the fact that God heard and answered prayer.

GETTING READY.

H. PRATT.

It is said in Rev. 19—"The bride hath made herself ready." In reading a discourse on the twelve gates of pearl, I was somewhat amused that the preacher should say, one was for Lutherans, one for some Catholics, one for Baptists, etc., when God declares "that the righteous nation which keepeth the truth may enter therein." They are opened first for "the King of glory"; second for the "righteous nation."

This getting ready is much better expressed in Bible language than by human theory. This feeling ready may be all right, if it is produced by obedience to God's requirements. To be ready for the flood was to have the ark all finished, just as God said, and to get into it; but feeling ready outside that preparation did not save from drowning. So with the coming of Christ: feeling ready, without complying with his requirements, will prove equally disastrous. "Our feelings," says H. Bonar, of Scotland (with regard to this holiness movement), will not test the Scriptures, but the Scriptures are to be a test of our feelings." John does not ask whether we feel ready, but says, "Now, little children, abide in him, that when he shall appear we may have confidence, and not be ashamed before him at his appearing." Christ says, to abide in his love is to keep his commandments; and further he says—"They that were ready went in"; and they were a class that went forth to meet him, and had their lamps trimmed and burning. How dare we say that others, beside the waiting ones, will be ready? To be ready for the judgment on Egypt was to have the door-posts sprinkled with blood, and to be inside that door; and that was not all. The shoes must be on their feet, all packed and waiting; and this preparation was to be superceded by the eating of the lamb. "Thy words were found, and I did eat them," saith the prophet."

This eating the lamb gave strength, while the blood was salvation from death. "The words that I speak," saith Jesus, "they are spirit, and they are life." What words could be more desirable to the bride than those that told of the bridegroom's coming? What would you think of a bride that would not accept them? What but the signs of his coming would induce her to go forth to meet him? Are the signs of his coming of no use for the bride? Is the waiting position, with lamp trimmed and burning, of no account to the bridegroom? Why, then, call them the ready ones? Dare we try to improve, or alter the arrangement of the bridegroom himself, and teach a readiness outside of going forth to meet him?

"IF JESUS LEADS ME THERE."

Jesus never misleads or carelessly leads a soul that seeks his guidance. If there are conflicts, temptations, trials in the way, when we reach them led by the divine hand, we shall wonder that they so affrighted us. Daniel's night with the lions was undoubtedly a happy one.

Many look with eager desire at the blessing of holiness, but the crosses they see, or fancy they do, frights them back into the old wilderness route. With one it is duties in the family; with another it is personal effort to save souls, or social duty in ihe prayer meeting, or they fear if they place all the loved ones around whom the heart clings, on the altar, they will be taken from them, and so in anticipation of what might be the furnace fire they would have to endure if the offering was made without reserve, they suffer more than they would if all they feared came upon them, and the blessing of God was theirs all the way through.

But the compassionate Savior does not delight to lead those who follow him with single eye, in hard ways. If he wishes a vessel for some peculiarly honorable service it may have to be submitted to processes that the meaner one escapes; but we are quite as likely to spend much of our time in green pastures and beside still waters, when we go there willingly, upon the first invitation, as we shall be if we wait to be driven there, our foolish hearts fearing evil lies before us. If we would but trust Him who is most worthy of our confidence, how our lives would be filled with songs of praise, even in furnace fires and in the face of our enemies, and often where we expected conflict we would find the sword of our foe sheathed, and his battalions withdrawn, and so instead of the noise of battle we might sit down in a garden of spices with our Beloved.

The heart where sin is, is full of alarms. The land of holiness is a land of peace. The dwellers there ask not concerning their own, or the enemy's strength, so long as they know that they have a Captain that never lost a battle.—Guide to Holiness.

A PETITION.

L. J. B.

Father, I come to thee
With empty, aching heart;
Vouchsafe thy peace to me,
Oh, soothe, remove the smart.

Father, the storm beats wild,
All shelterless am I;
Defenceless, shield thy child,
None other help is nigh.

Father, I grope; around
Is closing, rayless night,
Rough rocks my bare feet wound,
I faint, oh, send me light.

Exeter, N. H.

CHRIST LIVING IN HIS PEOPLE.

The man who is in Christ is sublimely independent of circumstances. His is a right royal state, unaffected by health or sickness, wealth or poverty, life or death. He may welcome all that comes to him with perfect equanimity; for whether it be rongh or smooth, painful or pleasant, it is only a transient experience which no more disturbs his filial relationship to God than the changing seasons disturb the grand mountain whose summit is above the region of storms. "I am persuaded," writes a man whose words are infallibly true, "that neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor powers, nor things present, nor things to come, nor height, nor depth, nor any other created thing, shall be able to separate us from the love of God, which is in Christ our Lord." This persuasion, or settled assurance, being in-breathed by the Holy Spirit, is, of course, an everlasting truth, shining out in its own unchangeable splendor smidst and above the manifold changes of time. The love of God to his people is "in Christ," and as they too are "in Christ," the force of the persuasion has a double element of strength which no conceivable occurence can weaken.

Happy people! But this is not all. The Scripture also teaches that Christ lives in those who live in him; and this, though utterly mysterious to "them that are without," is nevertheless apprehended by the children of God as a truth of inestimable value. Thus Paul puts it, in one of those wonderful sentences which glance upon a whole continent of revelation in a moment: "I have been crucified with Christ; and it is no longer I that live, but Christ that liveth in me; yea, the life which I now live in the flesh I live in the faith of the Son of God, who loved me and gave himself for me." Human nature lives in the person of Christ in heaven; the divine nature lives in christians on earth. He has thus taken possession of both heaven and earth already, although the time has not yet come for all nations to know that he has been chosen of the Father to universal sovereignty. He is on the right hand of God, the head and representative of his life before the world. Virtually, they are in heaven where he is, for God sees them in him; virtually, he is on the earth where his people are, for men see him in them.

Going thus, so to speak, to the very heart of the divine arrangement respecting the Son and the "many sons," we cannot fail to be struck with the extreme importance of practical Christianity, or, in other words, a life of godliness. What is it? Formalism? Conformity to church rules? Habitual compliance with what is supposed to be required by a given creed? No; men in whom Christ does not live can do this; and they are respectable, and in many ways worthy, people by whom the creed, or the church, or the form is fairly enough represented; but the representation is not that of Christ, and cannot be, for the simple reason that it springs not from his life in the heart, but takes its rise from something external, which has no life of any kind in it, either divine or human. The voice of Scripture on this subject, as on all others of supreme interest to men, is transparently intelligent, commending itself to the understanding and the heart. It is just a thing of cause and effect. Here are illustrations:—"He that saith he abideth in him ought himself also so to walk, even as he walked." (John 2: 6.) "Follow his steps." (1 Pet. 2: 21) "Let this mind be in you which was also in Christ Jesus." (Phil. 2: 5.) "I have given you an example, that ye should do as I have done to you." (John 13: 16.) "Abide in me, and I in you. As the branch cannot bear fruit of itself, except it abide in the vine; no more can ye, except ye abide in me. I am the vine, ye are the branches; he that abideth in me and I in him, the same bringeth forth much fruit, for apart from me ye can do nothing." (15: 4, 5.)

It is needless to multiply passages. Conformity to Christ—Christ-likenesses—is living Christianity, and there is no possibility of securing this except by Christ living by his Spirit in men. The sacredness of this matter does not lift it above the common law of cause and effect. Indeed, the divine action towards men proceeds upon and illustrates this law. "We love him because he first loved us;" and "because I live ye shall live also;" are instances in point, to which the intelligent reader can add many more. Christ is the Life-giver; and the law of the case, as well as the grace of the case, requires those to whom he gives it to exemplify its genuine effects; in other words, to show that Christ lives in them, to the glory of the ever-blessed God, his Father and theirs. He was without sin, neither was guile found in his mouth; they are to be blameless and harmless, the sons of God, without rebuke in the midst of an ungodly world.

Let it not be thought that this is exacting too much of men encompassed with infirmity. This would be quite true if one looked for Christ-likeness in the absence of the indwelling Christ-life; but if God does not expect that, neither should we. But the admitted fact of human infirmity is an argument rather than an objection. Thus it was considered by the very man who said, "Christ lives in me," and, "For me to live is Christ," as reference to a memorable passage in his history proves. Sorely tried with some affliction from which he seems to have apprehended a hindrance in his labors for his beloved Master, he wisely betook himself to prayer. "For this thing I besought the Lord thrice, that it might depart from me." To his first and second prayer no answer came; the third is answered, but the request is not granted. The Lord has wise reasons for sometimes refusing to grant requests presented to him by men he loves.

At first sight there is a momentary feeling of surprise and disappointment that, of all men, Moses should not be allowed to set his foot upon the land of promise, after the marvelous task of bringing Israel out of Egypt, and across the wilderness to its very borders. Let us read the touching passage: "And I besought the Lord at that time, saying, O Lord God, thou hast begun to show thy servant thy greatness, and thy mighty hand; for what God is there in heaven or in earth that can do according to thy works, and according to thy might? I pray thee, let me go over and see the good land that is beyond Jordan, that goodly mountain and Lebanon. But the Lord was wroth with me for your sakes, and would not hear me; and the Lord said unto me, Let it suffice thee; speak no more unto me of this matter. Get thee up into the top of Pisgah, and lift up thine eyes westward, and northward, and southward, and eastward; for thou shalt not go over this Jordan." So Paul's "thorn in the flesh"—no doubt partial blindness, accompanied with acute pain—Gal. 4: 13–15—is not removed, but this is said to him: "My grace is sufficient for thee; for my strength is made perfect in weakness. And how did the noble apostle take this? He tells us: "Most gladly therefore will I rather glory in my infirmities, that the power of Christ may rest upon me. Therefore I take pleasure in infirmities, in reproaches, in necessities, in persecutions, in distresses, for Christ's sake; for when I am weak, then am I strong."

This is Christ living in his servant. The earthen vessel is fragile, but the power of the heavenly life is manifested. The alabaster box is broken, but the house is filled with the odor of the ointment. The casket is rent, but through the fracture the brilliance of the gem is revealed. It is not Paul's life, but Christ's life in Paul, that makes the story of that illustrious saint what it is. So always, and so to-day, the more we have of "Christ in us," the more we shall be like him. Living by him, we shall live to him, and the features of his character will be reproduced in ours. Be assured "he will have the pre-eminence;" we shall not be able to come up with him, but we can press on in his strength. We cannot shine as the sun, but it can be made manifest that the light that is in us is from the sun. We cannot love as Christ did; but if it be less in volume, our love can be of the same kind. If our zeal for the Father's honor cannot burn as his did, it can be kindled at the same altar. All this is simply a matter of degree, not of essence; the essential quality of the graces that adorned the Captain of our salvation must be found in the many sons he is conducting to glory; for both He that sanctifieth and they who are sanctified are all of one;—"My Father and your Father, my God and your God.—Rainbow.

THE REVIVAL OF 1735.

It was in the year 1735 that the first very decided indication of a revival spirit manifested itself at Northampton, Mass., under the ministry of the Rev. Jonathan Edwards, afterward President of the College in New Jersey. It appears to have commenced among the young people of his congregation. "Presently," says Dr. Edwards, "a great and earnest concern about the things of religion and the eternal world became universal in all parts of the town, and among persons of all degrees and ages. All the conversation in all companies, and upon all occasions, was upon these things only, unless so much as was necessary for people to carry on their ordinary secular business. Other discourse than of the things of religion would scarcely be tolerated. They seemed to follow their worldly business more as a part of their duty, than from any disposition they had to it. The temptation now seemed to lie on this hand to neglect worldly affairs too much, and to spend too much time in the immediate exercises of religion. But although people did not ordinarily neglect their worldly business, yet there then was the reverse of what commonly is; religion was with all the great concern." This state of feeling spread rapidly during the following seven years, through many of the towns of the New England States, and in some of those of New York and New Jersey.

"This work," says Dr. Trumbull, "was very extraordinary on many accounts. It was much beyond what had been the common course of Providence. It was more universal than had before been known. It extended to all sorts and characters of people, sober and vicious, high and low, rich and poor, wise and unwise. To all appearance, it was no less powerful in families and persons of distinction, in the places which it visited, than others. In former works of this nature, young people had generally been wrought upon, while elderly people and children had been little affected, if moved at all. But at this time, old men were affected as well as others.

"People, in a wonderful manner, flocked together to places of public worship, not only on the Lord's day, but on lecture days, so that the several places of worship could not contain them. They would not only fill the houses, but crowd around the doors and windows without, and press together wherever they could hear the preacher. They would not only thus assemble in their own towns and parishes, when the word was preached, but if they had the knowledge of lectures in the neighboring towns and parishes, they would attend them. Sometimes they would follow the preacher from town to town, and from one place to another, for several days together.

In some instances, in places but thinly settled, there would be such a concourse, that no house could hold them. There was in the minds of people a general fear of sin, and of the wrath of God denounced against it. There seemed to be a general conviction that all the ways of man were before the eyes of the Lord. It was the opinion of men of discernment and sound judgment, who had the best opportunities of knowing the feelings and general status of the people at that period, that bags of gold, and silver, and other precious things, might with safety have been laid in the streets, and no man would have converted them to his own use. Theft, wantonness, intemperance, profanity, Sabbath-breaking, and other gross sins, appeared to be put away.

The intermissions on the Lord's day, instead of being spent in worldly conversation and vanity, as had been too usual before, were now spent in religious conversation, in reading, and singing the praises of God. At lectures there was not only great attention and seriousness in the house of God, but the conversation out of it was generally on the great concerns of the soul."—Selected from Hinten's History of U. S., by Cora May Berry, twelve years old.

VT. A. C. CONFERENCE REPORT.

Conference held its seventh annual session at Bethel Campmeeting, which session commenced Sept. 8th, 1875, at 8 o'clock A. M. The meeting was called to order by A. A. Hoyt, Vice President, and prayer was offered by D. D. Page. On motion, the Chair appointed O. Beckwith, L. H. Brigham, and H. B. Quimby, credential committee, who, having collected names, made the following report of delegates and preachers present at the conference:

Ministers—A. A. Hoyt, Waterbury; A. Damon, Bridgewater; B. B. Chedel, North Springfield; D. D. Page, East Topsham; D. K. Barrett, Chester; E. McCulloch, H. B. Quimby, Sugar Hill, N. H.; L. H. Brigham, East Bethel; J. H. Harding, O. Beckwith, West Fairlee and Vershire; Wm. C. Stewart, Hinesburgh; T. A. Cheney, Rutland. Delegates—J. T. Edson, D. Boutwell, C. York, S. Whitney, D. Johnson, J. Dinsmore, N. L. Collins, J. Y. Briggs, N. Snell, C. M. Walker. M. Clark, and A. S. Adams.

The report of the credential committee was accepted and adopted. T. A. Cheney and T. R. Lewis were presented to become members, and examined by the ministerial committee. After examination, T. A. Cheney was received by vote. Voted, that all christians co-operating with us participate in our deliberations. Treasurer H. F. Carpenter's report, by A. A. Hoyt.—The last year's campmeeting expenses were balanced. The Mission report by the same. Both reports were accepted and adopted. Secretary's report called for, read, accepted, and adopted. Moved to adjourn till to-morrow at nine o'clock A. M.

Thursday, met as by adjournment. Meeting called to order by singing. After the opening prayer, it was moved to hear the reports of churches. Addison, by letter. Barnard, by A. S. Adams. Bridgewater, by A. Damon. Bristol and Hinesburgh, by W. C. Stewart. E. Bethel, by L. H. Brigham. W. Bethel, by C. M. Walker. Cabot, by A. A. Hoyt. Fairlee and Vershire, by O. Beckwith. Pomfret, by B. B. Chedel. Roxbury, by J. T. Edson. North Springfield, by N. Snell. Stokbridge, by A. A. Hoyt. Topsham, by D. D. Page, Waterbury and Warren, by A. A. Hoyt.

It was then moved to hear reports of ministers. The following ministers were present to report—B. B. Chedel, O. Beckwith, J. H. Harding, D. D. Page, Wm. C. Stewart, H. B. Quimby, D. K. Barrett, Jr., L. H. Brigham, T. A. Cheney, Allen Damon, and A. A. Hoyt. Moved to adjourn till the close of the afternoon service.

Met at four o'clock P. M. After singing and prayer, it was moved to ballot for officers the ensuing year,—with the following results: For President, A. A. Hoyt. Vice President, Allen Damon. Secretary, R. N. Stetson. Treasurer, Geo. C. Armes. For Ministerial Committee—O. Beckwith, A. A. Hoyt, Allen Damon. For State Committee—A. A. Hoyt, R. N. Stetson, J. H. Harding, W. S. Howden, Geo. U. Lewis, J. T. Edson, and A. L. Dinsmore. Moved to adjourn till to-morrow, at eight o'clock A. M., for a Mission meeting.

Friday, eight o'clock A. M. Prayer by A. Damon. It was then moved to have two missionaries, for the State missionary purpose. Then moved to ballot for the same. A. A. Hoyt was chosen for the first. Moved that Bro. E. McCulloch be invited to join the conference; who accepted, and was received by vote. Then proceeded to ballot for second missionary. E. McCulloch was chosen. Moved, that the State committee choose the tent master. Moved, to adjourn sine die.

Thus closed the several sessions of another business conference, where a good spirit seemed to pervade every heart. The reports of ministers from the various parts of the State were interesting, showing the state of the cause in the different localities. Some gave good reports of labor and success. Some churches need more or different help for their spiritual good. Many were disappointed in not seeing and hearing more from Brn. J. Couch and E. A. Stockman, although we had good, timely preaching, and some good love-feasts, where one hundred and thirty spoke, with singing twelve times, in fifty minutes, and a goodly number more wished to speak. We had preaching at the campmeeting by the following: D. Braley, Allen Damon, T. Hall, Wm. C. Stewart, J. C. Wright, C. Pike, H. L. Hastings, E. McCulloch, Sr. L. E. Saulpaugh, D. D. Page, O. Beckwith, E. A. Stockman, C. S. Shattuck.

R. N. STETSON, Sec.

FAITH.

Faith lays hold of the Savior, and confidence reposes in him. Whoever supposes that faith is a mental act, merely, is deceived. Faith in Christ is the highest act of which man is capable, and it does certainly involve all his spiritual powers, intelligence, will and affections. It is a yielding of the whole being to Jesus, a believing from the heart unto righteousness. It is true, faith is an exercise of reason, and yet it goes much further than reason can go—to the very foundation of our being, and in its exercise reaches far beyond reason into the deep things of God.

Although saving faith includes all the mental exercise of natural faith into testimony, it has also a divine element which is predominant, and raises it to be "the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen." Thus "faith is of the operation of God," and "this is the work of God, that ye believe on him whom he has sent."

Our capacity for believing is perverted by sin into unbelief, and it needs the helping hand of the Savior just as much as any other faculty. This help is always at hand wherever a soul seeks sincerely after God, "Lord, increase our faith," ought at all times to be the earnest, fervent prayer of our soul.—Selected by J. A. Smith.

HOME AND HEALTH.

TALMAGE'S LAST CIGAR.

After giving his experience with his first cigar in boyhood, Mr. Talmage speaks thus of his deliverance from the vile habit:

"But how about my last cigar? It was three o'clock Sabbath morning in my western home. I had smoked three or four cigars since tea. I thought I was getting the inspiration from above, but was getting much of it from beneath. My hand trembled along the line, and, strung up to the last tension of nerves, I finished my work and started from the room. A book standing on the table fell over, and, although it was not a large book, its fall sounded to my system like the crack of a pistol. As I went down the stairs their creaking made my hair stand on end. As I flung myself on a sleepless pillow, I resolved, God helping, that I had smoked my last cigar, and committed my last sin of night study. I kept my promise. With the same resolution went overboard tea and coffee.

That night I was born into a new physical, mental, and moral life. Perhaps it may be better for some to smoke, and study nights, and take exciting temperance beverages; but I am persuaded that if thousands of people who now go moping, and nervous, and half exhausted, through life, down with 'sick headaches,' and rasped by irritabilities, would try a good dose of abstinence, they would thank God for this paragraph of personal experience, and make the world the same bright place I find it, a place so attractive that nothing short of heaven would be good enough to exchange for it. The first cigar made me desperately sick; the throwing away of my last made me gloriously well. For me the creaking of the midnight owl has ceased, and the time of the singing of the birds has come."

HOW TO TREAT STRANGERS.

A Sunday school missionary in the west, while addressing a Sunday school, noticed a little girl, shabbily dressed and barefooted, shrinking in a corner, her little sun-burned face buried in her hands, the tears trickling between her small brown fingers, and sobbing as if her heart would break. Soon, however, another little girl, about eleven years old, got up and went to her, and, taking her by the hand, led her toward a brook, seated her on a log, and kneeling beside her, she took off her ragged sunbonnet, and dipping her hand in the water, bathed her hot eyes and tear-stained face, and smoothed the tangled hair, talking in a cheery manner all the while.

The little one brightened up, the tears all went, and smiles came creeping around the rosy mouth.

The missionary stepped forward and said, "Is that your sister, my dear?"

"No, sir," answered the noble child, with tender, earnest eyes, "I have no sister, sir."

"Oh, one of the neighbor's children," said the missionary, "a little schoolmate, perhaps?"

"No, sir, she is a stranger. I do not know where she came from. I never saw her before."

"Then how came you to take her ont and have such a care for her if you do not know her?"

"Because she was a stranger, sir, and seemed all alone, and needed somebody to be kind to her."—Wayside.

HOW A YOUNG MAN'S MONEY GOES.—A young man whom we have known since his early childhood, told us that he had taken pains to keep quite a correct account of his unnecessary expenses from the 4th day of July, 1874, to the 4th day of July, 1875. The first item that appeared on the list was cigars. During the year he said that he had smoked no less than eight cigars each day, which amounted to 2,920, and that the cost of the same was eight cents each on an average, which amounted to $333.60, and that the length of the same, if laid out in a straight line, would reach about 7,200 feet, and that the smoke in exhausting the weed would fill several store-houses; further, that the liquor drank would amount to about ninety-one gallons in one year—enough to drown a street commissioner, or a member of the common council. The amount of tobacco he used, would fill a common beef barrel, and sicken an entire township. The amount of the unnecessary expenditure would have fed twenty-five families for the entire year.—Exchange.

BITE OF THE RATTLESNAKE.—A post office agent traveling in Texas tells of the successful use of the gall of a rattlesnake as an antidote for the bite of that reptile. In the case spoken of, relief was almost instantaneous to the patient, who was writhing in paroxysms of great pain, rapidly swelling and becoming purple. A friend of the writer, who spent several years in California and New Mexico, saw the same remedy successfully used among the Indians in the latter country. In one instance an Indian's dog near the camp was bitten in the nose by a large rattlescake. The Indians immediately opened the reptile and administered the gall. The cure was rapid and effectual.—St. Augustine Press.

THE GIRLS.—Can we not bring up our girls more usefully, less showy, less dependent on luxury and wealth? Can we not teach them from babyhood that to labor is a higher thing than merely to enjoy; that even enjoyment itself is never so sweet as when it is earned? Can we not put into their minds, whatever be their station, principles of truth, simplicity of taste, hopefulness, hatred of waste; and these being firmly rooted, trust to their blossoming up in whatever destiny the young maiden may be called?—Miss Muloch.

The World's Crisis AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

RULES FOR CORRESPONDENTS.

Over all matters not intended for publication, write:—PRIVATE.

Over all business matters, write:—BUSINESS.

Over all articles intended for the paper, write:—For the Crisis.

☞ Put business matters and appointments on separate pieces of paper, or so that they can be detached without interfering with any other communication.

When the names of NEW subscribers are sent, please say they are NEW, and it will save much labor.

All articles should be accompanied by the writer's NAME, for the Editor's information, even if it is not published.

PRIVATE LETTERS.—Those wishing to address the Editor on matters not connected with the office, please write PRIVATE on the outside of the envelope.

☞ All persons writing to the office should give distinctly and plainly the POST OFFICE, COUNTY and STATE at which they wish to be addressed; and all orders, subscriptions, communications and remittances, should be plainly directed to

☞ "THE WORLD'S CRISIS,"
Boston, Mass.

PUBLISHED ALSO AT THE SAME OFFICE,
Semi-monthly,

THE YOUNG PILGRIM

An Illustrated Sunday-School Paper,
FOR CHILDREN AND YOUTH.

TERMS: ☞ Payable always in advance.

Single copy, 50 cts. a year; and at the same rates or any number of copies under ten.

Ten copies, and any larger number under fifty, when sent to one address, 40 cts. a year for each copy.

Fifty copies, and any number over fifty, when sent to one address, 35 cts. a year for each copy.

To Canada subscribers at the same rates. No extra charge for American postage.

☞ All communications, orders, and remittances should be addressed to

"THE YOUNG PILGRIM,"
Boston, Mass.

The World's Crisis

AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

"BEHOLD I COME QUICKLY; AND MY REWARD IS WITH ME."

WHOLE NO. 1042. BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1875. VOL. XLII.—NO. 3.

The World's Crisis,
AND
SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER,
Issued every Wednesday Afternoon, by the
ADVENT CHRISTIAN PUBLICATION SOCIETY,
At No. 160 Hanover Street, Boston, Mass.
GEO. T. ADAMS,
TREASURER AND BUSINESS AGENT.

JOHN COUCH, MILES GRANT, } EDITORS.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE:
S. G. MATHEWSON, L. BOUTELL, WM. H. MITCHELL.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEE:
H. V. DAVIS, M. BATCHELOR, L. T. CUNNINGHAM, J. G. HAMBLIN, J. HEMENWAY.

The CRISIS is devoted to the exposition of all Bible truth; especially the doctrine of the immediate, personal coming and reign of Christ on the earth; holiness of heart; the unconscious state of the dead; their literal resurrection, and final destruction of the wicked.

THE DOUBTING HEART.

Where are the swallows fled?
Frozen and dead,
Perchance upon some bleak and stormy shore.
O doubting heart!
Far over purple seas,
They wait in sunny ease
The balmy southern breeze
To bring them to their northern homes once more.

Why must the flowers die?
Poisoned they lie
In the cold tomb, heedless of tears or rain.
O doubting heart!
They only sleep below
The soft, white ermine snow,
While winter winds shall blow,
To breathe and smile upon you soon again.

The sun had hid his rays
These many days.
Will dreary hours never leave the earth?
O doubting heart!
The stormy clouds on high
Veil the same sunny sky
That soon (for spring is nigh)
Shall wake the summer into golden mirth.

Fair hope is dead, and light
Is quenched in night.
What sound can break the silence of despair?
O doubting heart!
The sky is overcast,
Yet stars shall rise at last
Brighter for darkness past,
And angels' silver voices stir the air.
—Selected.

A PLEA FOR CHRISTIAN CHARITY.

It is needless to say that we believe the doctrines we advocate. No one whose charity is of the christian type will doubt that; and as to the judgment of those whose charity is blinded by zeal for what they have received by tradition from their fathers, we frankly confess that it does not disturb us. The disturbing force in angry denunciation has lost its power over us, if it ever had any worth mentioning. When a man has judged his own motives thoroughly, and is positively certain that the love of truth is supreme, he can afford to bear with the wrong judgment of others, and can meet misrepresentation with patience, knowing that in due time the righteous Judge will adjust the manifold entanglements of the true and the false in the church and the world. The Lord's patience with the errors and mistakes of men, respecting the things he has revealed, is truly wonderful; an example to be copied by all who would commend his truth to the acceptance of their fellows. But, alas! many professors of the faith of Christ deserve to have this rebuke addressed to them: "Ye are yet carnal; for whereas there is among you envying, and strife, and divisions, are ye not carnal, and walking after the manner of men?"

It is of the utmost importance that the advocates and witnesses of divine doctrines should bear their testimony in the spirit of the Master. If the flesh dominate, if we show that we are "yet carnal," by acting as do "men of the world," our teaching will not carry with it a convincing power; for it will be evident, even to those who know nothing personally about Divine things, that there is a want of harmony between our creed and our conduct. To be Christ-like in Christ's service is perhaps the highest attainment to which the christian can aspire. Comparatively speaking, it is easy to name a number of religious propositions, and to say that these are scriptural, and therefore ought to be maintained; but it is quite another thing to maintain them in the spirit which Scripture requires. The gospel has suffered much more from its friends than from its foes. A good cause has often been spoiled by unwise defence; and in the highest and holiest of all causes, it is not enough that "we be able to give a reason," we must also give it in the spirit which the gospel approves. The bench takes note of the manner of a witness as well as of his evidence; and men instinctively feel that it should. But, in fact, those who are Christ's "witnesses to the people" should not find it necessary to reason about the manner of their testimony, or even to think about it at all. There should be a spontaneous graciousness, the natural result and manifestation of the grace that is in them, whenever, by the pen or the living voice, they "contend earnestly for the faith once for all delivered unto the saints."

Men full of the love of truth will feel that its majesty will be dishonored if they allow human passion, or sectarian bitterness (which is just human passion in its worst aspect) to mingle with and disfigure their depositions in its favor. One of the noblest and most successful witnesses the Savior ever had, wrote thus: "For though we walk in the flesh, we do not war after the flesh; for the weapons of our warfare are not carnal, but mighty through God to the pulling down of strongholds; casting down imaginations, and every high thing that exalteth itself against the knowledge of God, and bringing into captivity every thought to the obedience of Christ."

We feel deeply thankful that, though advocating the entire mortality of the natural man, eternal life only in Christ, and the necessity of the Lord's premillennial coming—doctrines reckoned heretical by the overwhelming majority of Christendom—we are not conscious of a breach of charity during all these years, in dealing with objections to what "we believe, and therefore teach." We claim no credit for this; the discharge of a duty is not a thing to boast of; but we are consciously grateful to the blessed Master that the retrospect of nearly a dozen years, in such an important and frequently very trying service recalls no expression which we would wish concealed from those who think that the truth should be spoken in love.

The law of charity, if obeyed by christians generally, would not only prevent unseemly speech in controversy, it would also prevent unnecessary divisions in the professing church. That there are such divisions, sectional and fractional breakings asunder, for which there is, in reality, no justification, is undeniable. There are, however, cases in which christian men are compelled, in loyalty to Christ, and in obedience to conscience, to form separate assemblies, where they can worship in peace, and mutually edify one another, and they deserve the sympathy of the wise and the good everywhere. But the question is, Why were they compelled? Believing in and loving the Savior, and doing christian work cheerfully, whilst their moral character was without stain, we hold those who compelled them to retire, guilty of a serious breach of the law of charity for which they will find it difficult to account to the great Master. Those who suffer thus for conscience' sake "suffer wrongfully;" and the church or ecclesiastical body that cuts them off from its fellowship persecutes Christ in the person of his brethren.

There have been many distressing instances of excommunication, or refusal of fellowship, during the past few years. Why? Simply because the sufferers had been graciously led to see that some of the doctrines usually denominated orthodox are scandalous misrepresentations of the divine government, libels upon the character of God, pagan importations into theology, stamping it with a cruelty inconceivably appalling, and loading our benign Christianity with a burden under which it continually staggers. For refusing any longer to believe—no, assent to, for no one can believe—these outrageous absurdities, godly men and women have been cast out of churches—dissenting churches, too, proud of their liberty of conscience, and their free institutions, bravely protesting against papal tyranny and infallibility, and truly teaching that men are accountable only to Christ for their religious belief!

The idea of making belief in eternal evil a condition of church membership does strike one as sufficiently startling, even if we were not expressly told that all sin and sorrow are coming to an end (Rev. 21:4, 5); for union in Christ is the divine condition of fellowship. John 17:23; Col. 3:14; 2 Cor. 8:5; 1 John 1:3–7; Rom. 14:18; 1 Cor. 11:23–26. A man in Christ by faith is entitled to all the privileges of Christ's body, the church. God requires this condition of fellowship, and man has no right to impose any other.

But the point to which we here call attention is the loss which churches sustain, when they reject those whom Christ has received, or cast out those whose eyes Christ has opened. It is perfectly obvious that they thus lose salt and light which would have been of great service to them; for, without implying that those who are content to accept current theology, however incredible some of its doctrines may be, are not sincerely devout christians, loyally attached to their Lord, it must be admitted that men who make the teachings of the Holy Scriptures their own by personal search, and are thus prepared to risk all out of pure love to the truth, give evidence not of christian loyalty only, but of mental ability and moral courage to fight the battles of the Lord intelligently. Two hundred and thirteen years ago the Church of England sustained an irreparable loss. The elite of her ministers, the men of heart, and brains, and conscience, left their beloved flocks, their livings, and their homes, and went out, they knew not whither, rather than obey an insane law, requiring all men to think alike. In these days, the bare idea of an act of Parliament contemplating such an utter absurdity strikes one with amazement. Attempts have been made to screen the folly of the act of uniformity, by saying that the two thousand ejected Nonconformists might have quietly accepted the law and retained their livings. Men who talk thus do not understand the matter. The ejected clergy could not comply with the law; it was a moral and mental impossibility; for in their case there was a higher and infinitely nobler law already in force, which they had to obey, and would and did obey, at whatever cost;—the imperative law of conscience.

Every one sees now that these moral heroes of the seventeenth century were just the men who would have given power, and life, and lustre to the National Church, had not the unwise counsellors of a foolish king driven them out. But why is there this unanimity of opinion now? For the simple but conclusive reason, that men who are prepared to suffer rather than disobey the voice of God in their consciences, furnish moral evidence of the highest kind that they are the pith and marrow of any religious society that has the honor to contain them. The logical conclusion, therefore, is that any church that casts out such men, be they ever so few in number, commits an act of sheer infatuation. . . .

And, finally, those who cherish the blessed hope of the glorious appearing of Christ should allow nothing whatever to interfere with either their love to each other, or the loving harmony of their labor to promote the knowledge of this supremely important doctrine. Men who live in this hope of the church should live together as brethren, that when the hope becomes a realized joy, they may not have that joy marred by painful recollections of unkind or uncharitable words or deeds. The hope of the Lord's return is the pole-star of the church. Men who are agreed in this are a band of witnesses to a divine purpose which sheds light and glory on many of the ways of God regarding his Son and his Son's followers, which otherwise would be inexplicable. These witnesses therefore should, both for the sake of God and men, stand together as an immovable phalanx, neither to be weakened by internal division nor broken by eternal force. Beloved, if God so loved us, we ought also to love one another. Many other doctrines are important, but the one of the Redeemer's return embraces, explains, and glorifies all the rest. This, therefore, in mutual love and with united labor, we must hold fast till he come!—Rainbow.

DEFINITE TIME ERRORS.

C. COLEGROVE.

Ever since the origin of what is often denominated "the Advent movement," there has been a more or less frequent and powerful tendency to a designation of some set and special period, when the Second Advent not merely might but must occur. It may be very truly said that this peculiarity was simply the evolution and expression of honest and dominating conviction,—that it was the issue of a course of reasoning,—that it was the fruit of study and investigation. But the event has never yet in any instance verified the calculation. The whole series of prediction has been constantly marked by failure in this particular. And hence, in the retrospect, it is that pain and sorrow are engendered, when the aggregate of disappointments and disasters is surveyed, or the picture glides in panoramic vividness of miscalculations and miscarriages before the mind. How can it happen otherwise than that a sentiment of levity and contempt should be encouraged and strengthened among the ungodly, or that ridicule and reproach should find a powerful incentive, if not an actual justification, among those who love not the appearing of our Lord Jesus Christ? Should not the ears of those who love that appearing, but who grieve at the dogmatic and erratic protestations of the special time staticians tingle with the blood of intermingled sorrow and shame?

The correction of tables and amendment of reckonings is a feature so familiar, that the merest allusion to it is sufficient. Will it be maintained that God ordained these errors of computation for some unseen or unknown good,—or even to verify the prediction of that scoffing which should be characteristic and perhaps diagnostic of the last times? He does indeed permit these errors to occur, but is his permission to be construed as an authorization? It seems to me an interpreter, baffled in his scheme and defeated in his arithmetical and prophetic enterprise, however truly it might have been to him a labor of honor, or conscience, honesty and charity, would scarcely venture to allege the Divine endorsement of his action, with the instance or instances of his short-coming vivid and afflicting in the view of himself and his brethren.

The fact is, it is one of the most singular features of this history, that any man, once involved in any such arithmetical and prophetic error of time, should ever allow himself to run the hazard of another discomfiture, by embarking in a new enterprise or interpretation of like character. One capital defeat, the natural result of defect in human knowledge and finite capacity, should seem properly to serve as an actual restraint against indulgence in the same or similar ventures of prediction. One failure in this field of experiment, if such it should be called, would seem to include or entail a remedy against its occurrence. But if not, is there not some just occasion for lookers-on to stigmatize the apparent dogmatism in vicinations of time as a species of mania?

But there is that singular fact or feature in this matter,—call it a fascination or a fatality—enterprise or infatuation—a heavenly ardor or intellectual restlessness—enthusiasm or conceit—holy hoping and high-born faith, and possible ambition of knowledge or position not absolutely pure,—there is this feature, that the error repeats itself in spite of all the lessons and admonstions of past discomfiture. What is this peculiar trait of the human mind? How shall we attach to a fervent and noble longing for the appearing of Jesus, infallibility of knowledge in assigning the date for its achievement? Does not the lesson of past inability discourage the repetition, and disprove the propriety of this positiveness? Look at the wreck of hopes—see the shattered fragments of expectation, which have marked the past. Far be it from me to speak otherwise than kindly or courteously, since I myself am so intensely conscious of fallibility and dependence.

There is, in all our inquiries and considerations on this subject, one evident fact worthy of attention; that there is this peculiar weakness and ever recurring temptation of some minds, to suppose themselves specially favored and illuminated with divine light. This is an infirmity of human nature which God is able and I doubt not willing to forgive, when it is detected and repented of; but that it exists and is frequently developed, seems a fact indisputable in the sphere of observation. And when this idea or conceit becomes firmly rooted in the mind, it often proves difficult and nearly impossible of eradication. It is this imagination of what might be called favoritism with God, which constitutes the foundation for the supposed title to leadership in a new campaign of Advent horology. It is this, along with the honest belief in the necessary correctness of a course of careful reasoning and the value of thorough study, which again and again leads to a new embarkation of hope and fortune, interest, welfare, life, and everything, in a career of special preparation and special expectation in reference to a particular year, month, week, day, or even perhaps hour, for Messiah to come and claim his favorites thus seasonably warned and intensely looking for his coming.

We do not overlook for one moment the pure desire, the ardent longing, the entire consecration and devotion, of many at least who have thus unreservedly enlisted all in a scheme and campaign where specific time was the basis and inspiration, the life and strength, the origin and terminus of all their action or conduct. There may be not only an appearance, but an element of something like moral grandeur in the earnestness of believers in some instances, but there was after all, in every case heretofore, the harrowing if not heart-breaking feature of failure, and therefore necessarily incorrectness. The conclusion failed, therefore the reasoning was erroneous, in the particular respect (of course, we mean) of specific time.

Why, then, should this policy be still so pertinaciously pursued? Why should the venture be again and again renewed? Why should hopes be again and again raised, to be again and again disappointed and shattered? Why should men rise up and claim to be leaders and teachers, with authority, or inspiration, or intellectual acumen, or scriptural research, sufficient to justify a new claim to a new following, in a new career, whereof positive and particular time is the glory and power, the foundation and strength, the beginning and fruition? Is it not most painfully evident that this more or less constantly recurring question is a fruitful agent of disastrous divisions, an element of discord, a prolific source of weakness, and, I might say, reproach? Is it not a cause of profound discouragement to very many brethren who cannot embark in these repeatedly recurring campaigns, inaugurated by men, if honest, yet fallible? Is it of no consequence that churches are divided and broken? Is it a small matter that small societies once flourishing and united have become reduced in numbers, weakened in resources, and almost paralyzed in action? Is it possible to see glory and beauty in the process of division and disintegration, or to suppose a special store of credit or honor in reserve for the dividers? Has not division proceeded hitherto sufficiently far, and reduction advanced, until at last it has threatened almost to culminate in something like reductio ad absurdum? What a spectacle of denominational separatism throughout all nominal Christendom; and when a body, weak and few at the best, is still further and further reduced and divided, is it any wonder that hope and courage and enthusiasm should be put to their tension among those who love the Lord and his appearing?

And again, when some new failure of some new proposition or prophecy of the Advent has led some estimable brethren into some peculiar and unscriptural entanglement, some hypothesis of a resurrection already past,—for example, like that which the apostle himself lamented and reproved in his day—how can it be otherwise than that there should be superinduced both astonishment and regret at this expedient seized for escape from a dilemma or refuge sought as a balm for a spirit wounded or sore from unrealized hope?

Brethren, let us beware of all the dangers of the way. They are many, and, it may be, increasing. We need to be argus-eyed and hundred-handed, clothed and armed, watchful and wise. How great a virtue is discretion! If we ourselves err, some of us can say, no doubt—O, how true and profound is our sorrow and pain, to have ever in one least degree, or in one smallest particular, misled one another! Who cannot point to some folly or some vagary,—some error, which perhaps in almost an excess of self-reproach he imagines to have bordered on madness; not necessarily in the prophetic or interpretative field, but in a hundred or a thousand incidents and experiences of common life?

And in this view, the greater appears the marvel of that singular obliviousness, by which any person once overtaken in an interpretative mistake, should almost straightway rush into the same arena, and grapple anew with the hitherto insoluble problem of positive and definite time, to renew the exhibition of human infirmity, and, might I even venture to say, presumption? We should naturally look for that noble and becoming modesty that should restrain the explorer in this field from sudden declarations of achievement and correctness, when he is just fresh from an experiment of disaster and discomfiture. Modesty is then and there a most amiable and proper quality. He who, penetrated and prostrated with a sense of his error regains his feet to walk more cautiously, may be no less beloved than if he had never been mistaken; but he who learns no lesson of care from previous misadventure, but confidently renews his declaration of conquest over all difficulty, and presses on in imminent hazard of another disaster, undertakes more than the established dictates of prudence could be construed to justify.—The Restitution.

A WHITE garment appears worse with slight soiling than do colored garments much soiled; so a little fault in a good man attracts more attention than grave offences in a bad man.

THINGS I WISH TO KNOW.

S. K. GIBSON.

1. How can the one thousand years of Rev. 20 be in the past, when they "who lived and reigned with Christ," were those who were killed under the last reigning power, just prior to Christ's second coming, as it seems to be chronologically located there in almost every place where it is mentioned in the Revelations?

2. How can they reign with Christ, without a literal resurrection from the dead and ascension to heaven where Christ is?

3. How can they reign with him a thousand years without more than a mortal life? Do they reign by proxy?

4. How can they reign (literally) with Christ when Christ has not reigned, does not reign, and will not reign, until after his second coming?

5. If it is a spiritual reign, by proxy or otherwise, why a reign with Christ "a thousand years," only, during the eighteen hundred years past, in which Christ has had an "unchangeable priesthood?"

6. If Christ is reigning spiritually, what right have we to say he will ever reign any other way than spiritually?

7. Where in the word of God do we learn of a "mediatorial kingdom?"

8. It says: "They shall reign with him a thousand years," and "They lived and reigned with Christ a thousand years; but the rest of the dead lived not again until the thousand years were finished: this is the first resurrection."

Which is the first resurrection? The last one? And shall we now make John tell a falsehood, by claiming that he means the second when he says "the first?" However, if "the first resurrection" means the second, and the first death means the "second death," why may not the first advent of Christ, mean the second advent of Christ, and thus end our hope at once?

9. If the word "resurrection" (anastasis) here signifies anything short of a literal living again from the dead; what right have we to say that the same word in any other place means any more; and that there will ever be anything more than a spiritual resurrection?" (?)

10. If the dragon here, which the angel says "is the devil and Satan," signifies nothing but Pagan Rome (and it passed away one thousand three hundred years ago), how do we know that there is any devil?

11. If Pagan Rome is the devil of Rev. 20, when will that devil be "cast into the lake of fire and brimstone, and be tormented day and night forever and ever?

12. If the torment of Pagan Rome has ended, or is to end with the judgments of God, and only to last "for the age," over the house of Jacob "for the age," must necessarily be without end.

13. If the "lake," the "fire," and the "brimstone" is all symbolic or figurative, or spiritual, how do we know there will ever be any other than a figurative "lake" and spiritual "fire," for the wicked? And how many spiritual lakes of fire in the spiritual forever are there revealed in the plain "thus saith the Lord"?

14. Where in the word of God do we learn that the "first-fruits" signifies the "first resurrection?" What relation is there between type and antitype, if the first fruits do not merely signify a sample of the great harvest, and not the harvest itself? Then is there not the strongest possible terms used (by inference) to teach the second death of all who have no part in the first resurrection?

15. How is it that Christ can give up the kingdom to God the Father, before he has received it from the Father, at the sounding of the seventh angel?

16. How can it be truthfully said that Christ will not leave the throne of the Father till the Father puts all enemies under Christ's feet; which means to destroy them, when God's enemies are not destroyed, until after they are judged? They are not judged (punished) until after the resurrection; they are not resurrected until after the last trump—the sounding of the seventh angel, at which the kingdoms of this world become Christ's, which is the time the resurrection, and judgment, and rewards are due; all of which occur after the Lord comes.

17. How can it be said God will destroy (except by and through Christ) all enemies for Christ; when God himself judgeth no man, "but has committed all judgment unto the Son, that all men should honor the Son even as they honor the Father," "and hath given him authority to execute judgment also, because he is the Son of man?"

18. If, because Rev. 20 is located in a book of symbols or figures, must it of necessity be all symbolic or figurative? By what authority—what rule? By the rule, "If one part is symbolic, all must be?" Then "Jesus," "Christ," and "God," the "throne," the "book," and the "judgment," etc. etc., are all symbolic; as well as the "chain," the "devil," the "reign" and the "resurrection."

Is there one prophecy in all the book of God where this "rule" can be literally carried out? If there is not, why must this precious Scripture be put upon the rack and torture of symbolic and spiritual interpretation to the violence of every true principle of interpretation of the revelation of Jesus Christ? And that, too, when in direct conflict with almost every "promise" of our heavenly Father for which we hope and wait; and especially when so much of this chapter is "interpolation?"

If that portion which so clearly teaches two distinct resurrections, and a thousand years' reign is interpolation, why not prove it at once? It will save much expense and trouble in trying to find a place for it in the past; and thus will end the controversy.

Submitted in christian charity.

I wish to say (as some have misrepresented me), I do not believe in probation after the Lord comes. That is "harvest" time, and not of seed sowing. Yet I shall be glad for the Lord to sow all he can in his plan of mercy for men.—Times.

WATCH.

CATHARINE DAGGETT.

The Lord appeals to us to watch, for we know not when he cometh, whether at even, or at midnight, or in the morning. One of the fatal consequences of not watching is sudden and sure destruction. The Lord wants his people to be awake, not asleep, like the world; awake to the signs of the times. The Lord has heard his watchmen all the way along, and they have given the timely warning to the church, so that by taking heed to it, they have been saved. So now, the Lord has got his faithful watchmen on the walls, who are not blind or dumb, but have eyes, and do see the signs that are thickening on every hand, and they are giving the alarm. It comes in the papers, in thunder tones, "the Lord is coming;" the morning of glory to the righteous, and eternal death to the wicked.

Never was the world or church in such a condition as now; many of them are blind, ignorant, and dumb. They are shepherds that cannot understand. They are saying, to-morrow shall be as this day, and much more abundant. But how bitter will be their disappointment when he comes upon them as a thief. Blessed is he that watcheth, and keepeth his garments, lest ye walk naked, and they see his shame. It is important that we take heed to the solemn warning. But few will do it. The most are like the poor unbelievers in the days of Noah and Lot. But how few are preparing for his appearing, and are hailing the signs with delight. We have nothing to look for now but the breaking up of nations, and the great time of trouble, which will take place as soon as the last child is sealed. Jesus is soon coming. We may expect trouble, sorrow, and distress and perplexity until the King comes.

The Lord bless the Editors of the Crisis, and help them to continue to give the alarm. Their writings are meat in due season. It is so comforting to read their writings, so full of spirit, and life, and truth. They are the life of the paper. While traveling around among the dear lovers of Jesus, they say, I am so comforted by the writings of the editors of the Crisis. They do give us the truth, and show us so plain where we are in the stream of time, and what we must do to prepare for the great event. The Lord help you to stand at your post a little longer, and watch for the coming King, for he will soon come. We already hear the rumbling of his chariot wheels, and we cry, Triumphant Lord, appear! The signs proclaim him near whose right it is to reign. Lift up the voice with lofty cheer. Soon Jesus will come again.

Bangor, Maine.

PRAISE.

G. E. MERRILL.

"I will praise the Lord at all times; his praise shall be continually in my mouth."

So said the sweet singer of Israel. Who is more worthy of our praise than God, "the Father of lights, with whom is no variableness, neither shadow of turning"? We should praise him, through Jesus Christ, for his goodness, mercy, loving-kindness, and for his wonderful works to the children of men. Think of his promises to us fulfilled and unfulfilled. Think of his willingness and power to pardon sin. Surely, we ought to praise, commend, applaud, celebrate and glorify the God of all grace. Yes, magnify and adore the great "I AM," for the preservation of life, deliverance from sin, protection from danger, answering prayer, and for the "blessed hope."

All should praise God for spiritual and temporal blessings. The rich and poor, the high and low, young and old, small and great, every one, no matter who,—praise him. It is obligatory upon all. It is good, it is comely, to praise the Lord. "Bless the Lord, ye his angels, that excel in strength, that do his commandments, hearkening unto the voice of his word." "Bless ye the Lord, all ye his hosts, ye ministers of his that do his pleasure." "Bless the Lord, all his works, in all places of his dominion; bless the Lord, O my soul." Thus we see all are called upon to bless and praise the Lord. "Let everything that hath breath praise the Lord."

Praise should be offered with an understanding heart, with the whole soul, with joy and gladness; also with thankfulness. How long? Continually, during life, more and more, day and night, day by day, forever and ever. How? "In psalms and hymns." Yes, "sing unto him, sing songs unto him; talk ye of all his wondrous works." "Speaking to yourselves in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs; singing, and making melody in your hearts to the Lord. Giving thanks always for all things unto God the Father, in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ." "Let the word of Christ dwell in you richly in all wisdom; teaching, and admonishing one another in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing with grace in your hearts to the Lord. And whatsoever ye do, in word or deed, do all in the name of the Lord Jesus, giving thanks to God and the Father by him." Thus we see how to praise our God.

Praise is a part of public worship. "My praise," says David, "shall be of thee in the great congregation." "I will praise thee among much people." O, let us, with the Psalmist, "make a joyful noise unto the Lord," and "serve the Lord with gladness; come before his presence with singing." "Enter into his gates with thanksgiving, and into his courts with praise; be thankful, and bless his name; for the Lord is good, and his truth endureth to all generations." It is good to praise God in the "great congregation," in the family, on the street, always, everywhere, praise him who is praiseworthy. All we do or say should be done to the glory of the dear Lord. Extol him in the look of the eye, in the expression of the countenance, in every act or move we make, magnify and glorify our God. Let us not be satisfied with having our hearts filled unto praise, and praising God ourselves, but invite others to come and magnify the Lord with us. Time is short, and what we do we must do quickly. Jesus is coming. Soon he will be here. What we do let us do well, and with delight, and the "well done" will be said of us by the King, by and by, when he comes.

Reader, dear reader, precious soul, whoever you are that have not learned to praise the Lord, I invite you to do so. Come, give your heart to him, and be filled with the spirit of praise. If you do not praise and glorify God here in this life, you cannot in the world to come. O, come, come, dear soul, praise the Lord now. Then in the kingdom with all the saints, without alloy, we will praise him, and be happy forevermore. "Praise the Lord, O my soul, and all that is within me, praise his holy name."

Worcester, Mass.

AN IMPORTANT QUESTION.

Is the believer wholly sanctified at the time of conversion or pardon? Or, in other words, does he at that time receive perfect love? (1 John 4:13) or the baptism of the Holy Ghost? (Acts 2:38) which all appear to be about the same grace.

This question is of vital importance to every believer, and his decision will have a practical bearing upon his whole christian life. There is much darkness in the church upon this subject. If it is a grace to be received subsequent to conversion, surely we never should rest until obtained.

If this grace is invariably received at conversion, why did the apostle pray for the Thessalonians that they might be wholly sanctified? 5th chapter, 23rd verse: "Faithful is he that calleth you, who also will do it" (yet in the future to them); although they had been truly converted and were not backslidden. (See 1 Thess. 1:6–8). At the time of writing this epistle they were young converts, of but only a few months' experience.

Again: the blessed Savior prayed for his disciples (then with him), that they might be sanctified. John 17:17. Who would dare affirm that they were not converted until the day of Pentecost, when no doubt the prayer was answered; what a great work was wrought in them at that time.

Again: the Samaritans were not baptized with the Holy Ghost until the apostles went down and prayed for them, yet they had believed and were baptized. Acts: 8:12–16.

Saith the beloved apostle: "He who feareth is not made perfect in love, for perfect love casteth out fear." Then there is a love that is not perfect, also a perfect love to be obtained.

If sanctification is complete in justification, why did the apostle exhort his brethren to go on to perfection, to cleanse themselves from all filthiness of the flesh, to perfect holiness in the fear of God?

But there are other difficulties, some of which are:

1. If sanctification is complete in justification, then every one who enjoys religion is entirely sanctified; then every christian to be truthful should profess entire sanctification.

2. If all who are converted are entirely sanctified, then all the directions in the word of God to seek holiness, sanctification, and perfect love, are given exclusively to sinners.

3. If sanctification is complete in justification, then converts are not to seek for any further cleansing.

4. If justification and entire sanctification are inseparable, then all who feel the fruits of the flesh are in a state of condemnation.

5. If a state of entire sanctification is consistent with the struggles of pride, unbelief, impatience, jealousy, and anger (the common experience of merely justified believers), must we not infer that these must go with us to heaven, as it must be admitted that entire sanctification fits the soul for heaven?

6. If sanctification is complete in conversion, then every man who is not entirely sanctified is a child of the devil.

7. If entire sanctification is complete in justification, it is so in opposition to the experience of the church of God; then whoever is convicted for full salvation and groaning after it, is at once to infer that he was never converted, or that he is now backslidden.

Thus it seems to me, if this belief were received, it would perplex and harass with perpetual difficulties and discouragements the very souls who are the most deeply concerned to possess all the mind that was in Christ.

Beloved reader, do you feel that you love God, yet have not obtained that love which casteth out all fear? you may now come and consecrate your all to God, and by simple faith receive this pearl of great price. Oh, let us remember this alone will prepare us to stand before the Son of man. How can we maintain our justification unless we walk up to all the light God has given us. The day of the Lord is near at hand; may we be found waiting, with our garments unspotted, and lights burning; in other words, sanctified wholly.—Selected by B.

WE owe the greatest debt of gratitude to those who tell us the truth.

The World's Crisis AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

Boston, Wednesday, Nov. 3, 1875.

☞ TAKE NOTICE.

☞ All subscriptions for the "CRISIS," issued from this time forward, are at the rate of

$2.25 a year, payable IN ADVANCE.

POSTAGE FREE TO ALL within the United States, the Canadas, and the British Provinces.

☞ Please Remember!

☞ All remittances to this office, in the form of Drafts, Bank Checks, and Postal Money-Orders, should be made payable to the Business Agent, GEO. T. ADAMS.

☞ THOSE who send articles for the "CRISIS," should direct them to the "EDITORS OF WORLD'S CRISIS," Boston, Mass.

PLEASE READ, REMEMBER, AND ACT ACCORDINGLY.

The brethren, sisters, friends—one and all—whoever may write to this office, sending articles for insertion in the Crisis, or subscriptions for the same, notices, appointments, reports, or orders for papers, books, tracts, or anything of the kind, will confer a favor and do the right way by directing their letters in either one of the following ways:—

"EDITORS OF WORLD'S CRISIS, Boston, Mass."

"WORLD'S CRISIS, Boston, Mass.," or

GEO. T. ADAMS, Agent, Boston, Mass.

Those who send articles for the Young Pilgrim should address—

"EDITOR YOUNG PILGRIM, Boston, Mass."

In no case address letters on business connected with the papers, or office, to any of the clerks, compositors, or helps in this office.
AGENT.

HEREAFTER address me at BOSTON, MASS. All private letters should be marked "personal." MILES GRANT.

A GREAT FIRE in Virginia City, Nevada, has consumed property amounting, as estimated, to eight or ten million dollars. The fire occurred Oct. 26th. Thousands of people were left homeless. The city has been noted for wickedness. It is said the fire has resulted in the "complete devastation" of the city. M. G.

HOAG'S VISION.—Several have requested us to republish "Hoag's Vision." Those interested will find it in this paper. Joseph Hoag, who had the vision, was born in 1762, and died in 1846. In early life he resided in the State of New York, but removed to Vermont, where he died. He and his wife were both highly esteemed ministers among the Friends. The vision was well known to a number of his friends many years before any part of it was fulfilled. M. G.

"THE MORNING" is the title of the best temperance paper we have ever seen. It is published monthly at 23 Park Row, New York, Price $1. The following is a part of their announcement:

"The Morning. A National Advocate of Woman's Christian Temperance Unions, Reform Clubs, and all other Temperance Organizations. The organ of the National Christian Temperance Campmeeting Association. It will maintain the old-fashioned, aggressive religion of Christ and the apostles. Henry W. Adams, Mrs. Sarah K. Bolton (of Cleveland, Ohio), Mrs. E. J. Thompson (of Hillsboro, Ohio), Editors. Evangelical—not sectarian." M. G.

A GOOD PAPER.—We have become satisfied that the New York Daily Witness is the best daily in the United States. Not that it contains the greatest amount of news, but the best selection. It is the only daily we have seen that is decidedly religious in its character. The Catholic power, the whiskey rings, and other systems of corruption are trying to crush the Witness. For this reason, good men should rally to its support. It will give a faithful report of Bro. Moody's meetings, which will be specially interesting. The Daily Witness is two cents a copy, or five dollars a year, post paid. Take it, if you wish a wholesome newspaper. Address "New York Daily Witness, New York City." M. G.

NO DEVIL.—Dear Crisis:—The following statement was made publicly in one of our meetings: "There is no Devil, a fact that not only many of the leading men, but a greater part of the Advent people hold."

For the enlightenment of many who, like myself, are ignorant of such a "fact" being a leading doctrine of the church, please to answer through your faithful columns.

M. F. MOORE.

Sacramento, Oct. 18th. 1875.

So far as we know, there are but very few who believe "there is no Devil." We are not aware that there is a single preacher, in sympathy with "our paper," who believes and teaches the doctrine named. We are as satisfied that the Devil and his angels exist as personal beings, as we are in the existence of Christ and his angels. The Bible speaks very plainly on the subject. M. G.

GOOD SENSE.

In the New York Sunday Herald, Oct. 17th, we find some sensible editorial remarks concerning the coming of Christ and his kingdom. Different ministers are beginning to tell their congregations that the kingdom of God is near. The Herald says:

"But the kingdom will need a King, and the time and manner of his coming is just as important as is that of the appearance of his kingdom. Messrs. Snow and Blank will therefore tell us what the Bible says about the great event, and give us the reasons for believing that it is near at hand."

Thank the Lord that so many are being raised up to see and spread the truth. We have just had a very interesting interview with an able minister, who was in our meeting last Sabbath evening. He sees the truth clearly concerning the speedy coming of Christ, the sleep of the dead, the destruction of the wicked, and the saints' inheritance upon the new earth. He informed us that a great and rapid change is taking place in the minds of ministers and people on these subjects. Prejudice is giving way, and many hearts are open to receive the truth, that were closed till within a year or two. He said the people are starving for Bible knowledge on these subjects. Let them be fed with the sincere milk of the word. M. G.

IT LOOKS WELL.—What does? The list of names in the three-month's list. It pleased the sight of our eyes last week more than anything else in the paper. We felt pleased because it showed a spirit of sacrifice for the welfare of others.

Dear Brn. and Srs., let us have a freshet of names on this list. People are starving for the food on which we are feasting. Send them a little dish, that they may have a taste, and call for more. Select some neighbors, or friends, far or near, and send them the Crisis for three months. If need be, cut off some luxury, or even make a sacrifice to accomplish this object. Do not wait. Send at once. Now is the time. Come, to-day sit down and make out the list of one or more names, and send them to the Crisis office, with money enclosed. Let every reader do something in this blessed work.

THIS GENERATION.

The word generation, in its primary signification and general use, means a class of men. Its general use in the Scriptures is to represent a class of the human family living at the same time, occupying a given period. Webster defines it as "A single step or stage in the succession of natural descent; a rank or remove in genealogy; hence the body of those who are of the same genealogical rank or remove from an ancestor; the mass of beings living at one period; also the ordinary interval or period of time at which one rank follows another, or father is succeeded by child; an age." It is sometimes used in the sense of "race, kind, family;" as the righteous, the wicked. It is generally used in the Scriptures to represent a cotemporaneous class, or those living at the same period of time.

God's ancient Israel was almost invariably represented as a series of generations; that is, the nation continued through a number of periods of human life, and therefore they are represented as generations, and not as a single generation. It was said of them, "These are the generations of Jacob." Gen. 37: 2. "Ye shall keep it a feast to the Lord throughout your generations." Ex. 12: 14. "Our dwelling place in all generations." Ps. 90: 1. "All generations shall call me blessed." Luke 1: 48. "The mystery which hath been hid from ages and generations." Col. 1: 26.

The word was used by the New Testament writers in most cases, in the sense of a cotemporaneous class. "An evil and adulterous generation seeketh after a sign; and there shall no sign be given it but the sign of the prophet Jonas." Matt 12: 39. The sign was given to none of the Jews, only to those living at that period; therefore the generation was only those living at that time. "Whereunto shall I liken this generation? It is like unto children sitting in the markets, and calling unto their fellows, and saying, We have piped unto you, and ye have not danced; we have mourned unto you, and ye have not lamented." Matt. 11: 16, 17. Why was that generation like those children? Because of their treatment to John and Jesus; and, therefore, the generation could only apply to the people who were living at that time.

We think it doubtful if the word "generation" is once used in the New Testament and applied to the Jews as a race, embracing that people through the ages of their history. It is generally applied to a given period.

We now inquire for what purpose was the word "generation" used in the text? We answer emphatically, It was used to limit the fulfilment of the predictions Christ had made. To show that the last of the events foretold should take place before the generation should pass away. He did not use the expression to give the condition or continuance of the class, but only to show that within its limits the series would be completed. The only direct proof we have of the specific class designated is, that it was presented in serial prophecy; and it would be a violation of all rules of Bible interpretation to place it anywhere in the series where the predictions do not locate it. It is also specified by the qualifier "this."

As the generation extends to the utmost limit of the events foretold, it will not do to apply it to one that terminates earlier than those fulfilments.

Again, as Jesus did answer the disciples' question, and as that question demanded the time "when" the "world" should "end," and Christ's "coming" should take place, and as he did not show when his "coming" would take place, by giving periods but events, he must specify where, in the line of events presented, his coming would transpire. To do this definitely, he presented the generation connected with which his coming and the end of the world would take place. We will illustrate. If a stranger should come into a city and inquire where he might find a friend's house, and was correctly answered, not by giving the miles or rods from a certain house, but by describing the streets leading to the one on which the friend lived, and was told that he must pass through A B C and D streets, D leading to Washington street on which the friend resides; the last street being particularly described, he is told to turn to the right, and before reaching the end of the street he will find his friend's residence. So Christ described the great events to be witnessed by his church, the rising and passing generations standing between the inquiring disciples and his glorious appearing. He very minutely gives the history and experience of the last generation, and then very emphatically says, "Verily I say unto you, This generation shall not pass away, till all be fulfilled."

But some argue, honestly, doubtless, that the word "this" specifies the generation then present, and not another past or future. We acknowledge the word "this" signifies the one present, in contradistinction to others of the same class absent. But the presence expressed is not always real and personal, but sometimes is mental; that is, it expresses one in mind, or one being spoken of. We might speak of a man standing in our personal presence, upon whom we are looking, and because he is thus present say, this man. We might just as properly be speaking of the same man when a thousand miles distant, and say, This man, because he is mentally present. He is present in our conversation; he is before our minds. The word "this," is not, therefore, proof that the generation was personally present, or living on the earth when Jesus made the prediction, but might have been the one he was last describing, of which the disciples were then thinking.

Some understand the Jews to be expressed by "this" generation, as a race, a family, and that the Savior would say they shall not become extinct before his coming shall take place. We fail to see the proof of this position. If this prophecy was made to limit the time on which all the foretold events should transpire, as all agree, it does not accomplish that purpose unless the Jewish race be limited. If they are to remain a distinct race as long as other classes continue on the earth, as people generally believe, then the passage would be equivalent to saying, Before all men shall pass away, all these things shall be fulfilled. This would express no limit to the fulfillments, and make the expression unmeaning, unless it was designed to show that the Jews would continue as a distinct race unto the end of the world. This would wrest the passage entirely from its connection; for it is foreign to the subjects presented by the question and the Savior's answer.

It is common and natural in prophetic descriptions of events, to speak of those far distant, as present, because they were described when present, mentally, in vision, to the prophet. Let us illustrate. If an exhibitor were giving a panoramic view of distant historic events, arranged upon the canvas as they transpired chronologically, presenting first a battle scene, the picture presenting vividly the awful butchery and fearful devastation on the field, the background representing the mourning and woe of millions in distress, it would be natural and proper for the exhibitor, in explaining the illustrations and describing the awful experiences of the people, to say "this generation" suffered more from a single battle than anyone that ever lived. The event being distant in time, either past or future, would not alter the case. The word "this" demands that it be the one personally present, the one last described, the one to which the hearers minds were then being directed.

In harmony with this principle, Isaiah presents the birth of Jesus as an event which had already taken place, although it did not transpire for hundreds of years subsequently. He said, "Unto us a child is born." He said is born and not shall be born, because prophetic vision brought it before him as an event which had already taken place. This rule is common in all the prophetic writings, and certainly we believe that every safe rule of biblical interpretation demands its application to the text under consideration.

We now inquire, If the argument will not allow us to apply the expression "this generation" to the one living when the prediction was uttered, because all the events did not transpire during its period, must it not apply to the one Christ had last introduced to the minds of the disciples, to which their thoughts were being directed when the wonderful prediction was made? What generation did Jesus last present? and what were its history and experiences? The infallible record of the words of heaven's great Teacher must decide this question.

As he passed down over the lines of notable and important events to be witnessed by his church, during the ages of her mourning, while waiting for redemption, he came to the manifestation of the signs indicating his "coming;" and then with words of wonderful power and impressiveness describes the experiences of the people witnessing the events and the signs signified. He says—"And there shall be signs in the sun and in the moon, and in the stars." What do these signs indicate as coming? They must indicate the coming of Christ and the end of the world; for the signs indicating those events were inquired after, and as he "answered" the question, he must have presented signs showing their approach. That he gave these signs for that purpose is certain from the use he made of them, for he said—"And then [when the signs shall have appeared] shall they see the Son of man coming in a cloud, with power and great glory." The disciples inquire, "What shall be the sign of thy [Christ's] coming?" Jesus answers this and says, "And there shall be signs in the sun," etc., and adds, "Then shall they see the Son of man coming." A more direct answer could not possibly have been given to their question.

Then it is certain that these signs will appear during a period in which the Son of man will be seen "coming"; and his appearing will be the last event of the series. To express clearly and impress forcibly the principal point designed to be presented by these utterances, the Savior gave a clear and striking illustration, by saying—"Behold the fig-tree and all the trees; when they now shoot forth, ye see and know of your own selves that summer is now nigh at hand." The springing forth of the trees has always been to men a sure and unmistakable sign of summer's approach. He referred to the trees and season for no other reason than to show the connection between them,—that one event invariably followed the other. He then applies his illustration, using it for the purpose intended, saying—"So likewise ye [the same as in that case], when ye see these things [signs] come to pass, know ye that the kingdom of God is nigh at hand," or, as Matthew expresses it, "So likewise ye, when ye see all these things, know that he [margin] is near, even at the doors." As both historians recorded the truth, it follows that Christ and the kingdom of God will both immediately come, after the signs appear. This agrees with Christ, when predicting the type of his second coming. He says—"Till they see the Son of man coming in his kingdom." Matt. 16: 28.

It seems to us that the adorable Teacher made this grand focal point in his wonderful prophetic answer as clear and positive as language could make it; viz., that the church might know by the appearing of the signs foretold that the kingdom of God and Christ's coming is near at hand, as well as men may know naturally by the putting forth of the trees that summer is near.

By this very strong and positive language Jesus shows that the signs would indicate his coming "near at hand," but sets no limit to the time involved in the expression "near at hand," so that the real point sought in the question was not yet reached; for the disciples wished to know "when" the things specified should "be." If a prophet should predict a wonderful political event, and he should be asked to "tell when" the event should take place, and in answer he should say, It will come to pass before the close of President Grant's second term of administration, it would be understood that the demand of the question would be fully met. But if he should answer by saying that when President Grant shall leave the chair of state, then know it is near at hand, he would not tell when it would come to pass, but only when it is near at hand. Just so the Savior gives the time or period within which the great events of his coming and the establishment of his kingdom will take place, by saying, "This generation shall not pass away till all be fulfilled."

The utmost limit is given by our infallible Jesus to the dark and fearful scenes through which his watching, waiting Bride has passed, while the echoes of her earnest prayers have sounded in mournful pleadings from continents and islands, from hill-tops and vallies, "Thy kingdom come."

Has the notable generation, destined of God to witness the grand consummation of christian hope, yet arisen upon the stage of human experience? Do we move among the ranks of humanity who have seen in their grandeur and awfulness the heavenly and earthly signs, foretelling with voices that cannot be silenced the speedy advent of the glorious Christ? We believe the generation which has occupied the earth for nearly one hundred years in the past, is the one specified and described by the great Prophet as not passing away till all is fulfilled. It is a fact that the last generation to which Christ directed the minds of his disciples before uttering the text, and whose particular history he had just given, was the one living at the time of the signs appearing, and must witness the events of which the signs were portents.

He first presents the celestial signs in the sun, moon and stars, and then earthly scenes—distress and perplexity of nations, adding to these sea storms and roaring waves. The predicted distress of men must be experienced by a generation associated in national capacity while the physical signs are being developed, for they are so presented. He then adds further particulars of the experiences of those then living, saying—"Men's hearts failing them for fear, and for looking after those things that are coming on the earth"; and then gives the connecting link between the signs and the events signified, showing that the same generation that saw the signs will see the coming of Christ also; for he adds—"And THEN shall THEY see the Son of man coming in a cloud." Who shall see him coming? "They" shall see him coming. What people does the pronoun they refer to? Those just spoken of and described as perplexed and distressed, whose hearts fail them because of anticipating coming calamitous events; the very class witnessing the signs in the heavens and on the earth.

He then illustrates this case by the parable of the fig tree, showing that the people who witness these signs may know as certainly by them that the Son of man will be seen coming, as men may know by the condition of the trees that summer is at hand. He then, to put the keystone into the arch, says—"This generation [the one perplexed and distressed with fearful hearts; the THEY who shall see the Son of man coming] shall not pass away till all be fulfilled."

In this construction of the subject there is perfect harmony; for as the coming of Christ is the last event in the series, and as "they" who see the signs shall see him coming, they must of necessity be the same class who shall not all pass away before all is fulfilled, or Christ comes. This makes the generation a cotemporaneous class, as nearly all expositors testify.

In the New Testament, generation generally signifies those witnessing the same events; coming in contact with the same circumstances; as those seeing the signs of Christ's first advent, and witnessing his appearing and miracles. The length of a period occupied by a generation is not given, but would naturally commence with the first event specified as affecting it, and continue until all of the people, living at the commencement, "pass away"—die. The expression "pass away" must mean dying, and consequently the generation must embrace all living at its commencement. The generation, therefore, must commence at the sign in the sun, and continue until all then living have died.

We have no doubt but the sign in the sun was fulfilled in its being darkened on the 19th day of May, 1780. We believe this, because the history of that darkening exactly duplicates all the predictions of that sign, and because the people living since that time have experienced nearly every thing foretold of those who should witness the signs and be living when Christ should come. The period of the generation has already been lengthened to ninety-five years, so that the youngest now living are in their ninety-sixth year. An old, feeble remnant of it still remains, just ready to fall into the grave. Here comes the test of faith in the prediction which caused the Savior to affirm its truthfulness, so as to give the most perfect assurance to his trusting people that not all the withered, sinking remnant would pass the threshold of death until the long-looked-for Christ would be seen coming in glory-gilt clouds to bless his waiting Bride.

Amazing thought! that the moving, careless multitudes, now occupying the very last days of the generation period, into which have been crowded the wonderful signs foretold and typified in the book of God, with all the excited experiences of faith and atheism, of devotion and blasphemy, exactly corresponding to the prophetic description of the last generation, are now approaching their changeless destinies. Sublime position! standing between two worlds, at the transition point where the old convulses in death scenes, its elements and creatures showing signs of change and revolution, and the new, through prophetic vision of faith, is seen rising in celestial splendors, the home of immortality, the throne and dominion of Immanuel, the everlasting kingdom of God. Then utter thy last groans, polluted earth; wheel into line, ye last-day armies; arrange thy garments and bridal jewels, ye spouse of Christ, for Zion's nuptial day approacheth, and the note of eternal jubilee immediately soundeth. J. C.

BRN. MOODY AND SANKEY IN BROOKLYN.

Yesterday (Oct. 24th) Brn. Moody and Sankey held their first meetings in the Brooklyn skating rink, which will seat some five thousand five hundred. The rink is well fitted up for the occasion, and is pleasantly located in the heart of the city. The first was a prayer-meeting, appointed at 8.30 A. M. At 8.15, the rink was crowded by a very intelligent and orderly audience. At the time of commencement there was room for no more. Probably six thousand five hundred persons were inside the rink, and many could not get in. It was a remarkable sight, and such as we never saw before at so early an hour of the day. Bro. Moody said it was the most favorable opening he he had ever witnessed. A large number of ministers were present. The effect of this first meeting was excellent. Bro. Moody made some pointed remarks about the low state of the churches, telling them what they must do if they expected the blessing of God upon their labors. What he said was well received, because it commended itself to the good common sense of the people.

A choir of some two hundred and fifty christian singers occupied one half of the platform, while the other half was filled with ministers, and some noted women. The singing was very fine, led by Bro. Sankey. His solo singing charmed all, because of his deep devotional spirit, the richness and fulness of his voice, and distinct pronunciation, which enabled all to hear the words, as well as though they had been spoken by a good reader. The singing had a blessed effect upon the audience.

At 4 P. M. the second meeting was held in the rink. An immense crowd gathered. It was estimated that over twenty thousand people gathered at the rink that afternoon. Two other churches were filled with the overflow, and then thousands were left outside. Bro. Moody gave another plain talk on the meaning of the word "gospel." The vast audience listened with marked attention, and the effect was decidedly good.

Monday morning, Oct. 25th, an eight o'clock prayer-meeting was held in Dr. Talmage's church, which was crowded at that early hour. The house is estimated to hold about three thousand people. In the evening the rink was again densely packed, and hundreds had to go away. Bro. Moody's discourse was excellent, and produced a deep impression upon the audience. His earnest, plain, common-sense talk, reaches the hearts of the people, and makes each one feel, "Thou art the man." He exalts Christ as a Savior, and in a pointed manner makes men feel they are sinners, who are in pressing need of just such a Savior as is provided. He enforces his subjects by well-chosen illustrations and anecdotes. His entire services occupy but one hour. He talks from twenty to thirty minutes. He has learned not to tire out his audience by long prayers and sermons. He knows when to begin, and when to stop. He commences promptly at the time appointed. After a short inspection, every one must be satisfied that he is really in earnest in his efforts to lead the people to Christ. He is no sham. He engages in the work as though it was of some consequence, and worthy of his best energies, just as should be done by every other christian man.

At the close of the meeting he invites those who are seeking Jesus, to meet him in an inquiry meeting, either in a part of the rink, or some other room. He employs all means to bring men to the foot of the cross to plead for mercy.

Tuesday, Oct. 26th. The 8 o'clock morning prayer-meeting to-day was excellent. The Tabernacle was crowded, and many standing up. It was evident the interest had nearly doubled in twenty-four hours. Some thirty-five rose for prayers. In the evening the rink was again densely crowded. Hundreds go an hour and a half before the time, in order to secure seats. It is very evident that Bro. Moody's object is not to please the people, but to bring them into true relations to Christ. He says very plain, pointed things to fashionable church members, and considers them the chief obstacles in the way of a revival of pure religion. The prospect is very encouraging for a thorough and extensive reformation.

When speaking of the beginning of Bro. Moody's meetings, the New York Herald says:

"Mr. Moody struck the key-note of his revival work in this country in his opening address at the Brooklyn Rink on Sunday when he appealed in his earnest and peculiar way to his hearers. 'Let us go up and take the land.' If, single-handed, he was to meet and overcome an army with banners, his undertaking would not be more difficult. In his revival work he must triumph over the depravity and the indifference of men to make his mission successful, and the history of a long line of evangelists and reformers shows success in an endeavor of this kind to be almost impossible. Mr. Moody is apparently an exception to the list of equally earnest workers who have little to show for their zeal and devotion except the sense of their own faithfulness, and though the revival is only begun it is apparent that the evangelist is to make a very deep and perhaps a permanent impression upon the people. Thousands went to hear him on Sunday, and as many as obtained admittance to the rink were turned away because that immense structure was incapable of holding them. The scene was one never before witnessed in any city on this Continent. Not only Brooklyn, but New York and all the adjacent towns and villages, helped to swell the multitude which congregated in the building or gathered in the streets about it. Something more than mere idle curiosity was necessary to bring so many earnest men and women together. Evidently the popular heart was prepared for a great outpouring of the Divine power, and unconsciously the vast assemblage became an impelling force in making the aspiration a reality."

The New York Tribune says:

"All calculations with regard to the coming of the evangelists, Moody and Sankey, have been at fault. The numbers interested, the assistance at hand, the religious feeling awakened, have all been under-estimated. This was not a result of mismanagement—on the contrary, the management has been singularly good—but a misconception of the depth and earnestness of the religious feeling which awaited the coming of the evangelists and stood ready at once to aid and to respond to their efforts. This religious spirit has been lately aroused in this country by various causes, chief among which we reckon the general trade and business depression which, now, as always in the past, tends, while multiplying men's troubles, to quicken their sympathetic and religious feelings. The demonstration yesterday in Brooklyn was expected to be noticeable and earnest, but in its magnitude it has proved a surprise. The reputation won by Moody and Sankey abroad specially adapted them to lead in a general revival, and led all to anticipate a great following to hear them, but that three or four times the number in attendance would have to be turned away was wholly unexpected. And instead of an effort being required to awaken interest and arouse dormant feelings, it was soon discovered that the audience was as intensely earnest and sympathetic as the leaders." M. G.

THE SCHOOL QUESTION.

Much interest is awakened in relation to the use of the Bible in the public schools. In connection with this movement, the Catholics are very busily engaged in efforts to introduce a separate system of schools for their children, knowing that if they can accomplish their object, it will be a long step towards securing the control of this country.

"Father Gerdemann," so called, who is a converted Catholic priest, is giving lectures on Romanism, and presenting some startling facts, that should be well understood by the American people. The following is an extract from one of his recent lectures:

THE PRESENT QUESTION.

"There is no doubt that the papal church contemplates the undermining and overthrow of our public school system. Will it be necessary to adduce detailed proofs in support of this fact? Hardly, I think. It is sufficient to remind you of the oft-repeated utterances of the infallible Pope on the public school system. He finds in it nothing good, nothing commendable, but denounces it on every occasion in unmeasured terms. His example is faithfully copied by the bishops. They continually warn their people not to send their children to the public schools. They threaten them with the censures of the church in this life, with the torments of hell-fire in the future life, if they dare to disregard their admonitions. The priests use all their public and private influence in the same direction.

The Catholic press is also very outspoken in the denunciation of the public schools, and unceasing in its attacks upon it and its demands for the division of the funds, and the consequent overthrow of the principle which guided us in the establishment of our admirable system. The more devoted a son of the church an editor of a Catholic paper is, the more virulent his attacks, and the more determined his demand for the suppression and overthrow of the system. And the church has not contented itself with a war of words against it, but shrewd and able wire-pullers as the leaders are, they have resorted to open hostilities where it was deemed advisable, and I have the very best reason to know that they expect to open the attack at no distant day along the whole front." M. G.

THE Bible is still the book of the Madagascar Christians as it was in the days of persecution. For some time the stock of Bibles at the mission was exhausted, and it was painful to be obliged to turn eager inquirers for the volume away. At last the London Bible Society sent 5,000 Bibles. These were all sold in a few days, and hundreds of people who came too late had to be sent away. One man sold his principal garment (a kind of shirt) in order to make up the required shilling.—Ex.

THE TRACT FUND.

THE ADVENT CHRISTIAN PUBLICATION SOCIETY, at a meeting on Springfield camp-ground, August 11th, 1875, voted to raise Two Thousand Dollars for the free distribution of Tracts the ensuing year; and they invite the help and co-operation of all lovers of the Lord and of his truth, in the furtherance of the good cause. The times are ominous of coming events, and admonish us to diligence in the Master's work. The Lord is at the door, and what we do must be done quickly. Let the contributions be prompt, hearty, and liberal. The Lord will reward the liberal giver.

A. W. SIBLEY, Sec. Adv. Chris. Pub. Soc.

Remittances should be sent to the Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS, Boston, Mass., or they may be enclosed with remittances to the Crisis Office.

DONATIONS FOR THE TRACT FUND.

Previous acknowledgments	$91.22
Henry E. Palmer	15.00
Curtis Tyrrell	.75

POOR FUND.

TO SEND THE "CRISIS" TO THE POOR.

Previous acknowledgments	$28 15

YOUNG PILGRIM FUND.

AMER. ADV. MISSION SOCIETY.

Donations are earnestly solicited, to enable this Society to send out missionaries, and other means, into the Southern States, and elsewhere, as the Lord may open the door, to proclaim "the glad tidings of the kingdom at hand"; and should be sent, as also payments of pledges made, to the

Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS,

P. O. Drawer 5002, Boston, Mass.

who will acknowledge the same in the columns of the Crisis.

Aug. 6th, 1875, and onward.

Previous acknowledgments	$1,238.93
Henry E. Palmer	15.00
S. A Church at Providence, R. I. (by Bro. Sibley)	6.02
Mrs. Mary Leavitt, (By Bro. G. T. Stacy.)	1.00
Miss Anna Lang, (By Bro. G. T. Stacy.)	1.00
Miss Nelly Ham, (By Bro. G. T. Stacy.)	.50
A Friend of the Southern Mission (pledge paid)	5.00
Mary S. Lathrope	5.00

FOR THE POOR, ETC.

Previous acknowledgments	$12.00

TO SEND THE WORLD'S CRISIS

THREE MONTHS TO THOSE WHO DO NOT NOW RECEIVE IT.

The one who sends the money, will please name the person, or persons, to whom they wish the paper sent three months (50 cents per copy.)

	Copies		Cash
Previous acknowledgments (52 copies)		Cash	$25 10
An M. D.	10	"	5.00
"Lover of Truth"	10	"	5.00
A. Z. Bennett	10	"	5.00
A. H. Po-t	11	"	5.50
L. D. Carey	2	"	1.00
G. H. Hewes	2	"	1.00
C. W. Jocelyn	2	"	1.00
C. Bacon	2	"	1.00
G. S. Goud	2	"	1.00
Mrs. R Burrell	2	"	1.00
Ira Holden	4	"	2.00
A Helping Hand	2	"	1.00
L. S.	2	"	1.00
Unknown	(one copy)	"	.50
Miranda Williams	"	"	.50
May S. Lathrope	"	"	.50
J. D. Daniels	"	"	.50
Asa Avery	"	"	.50
S. Case	"	"	.50

CONFERENCE REPORT.

The Conn. A. C. Conference met at Plainville, and was called to order at 9.30 A. M., Oct. 14th, by the President, Seth Woodruff. Prayer by Bro. H. C. Smith.

Committee on credentials—H. P. Bradley, Milton M. Bigelow.

Delegates—Luman Watrous, Morris; W. M. Bigelow, Milldale; Orrin Hodge, Plainville; O. M. Gilman, So. Windsor; Edward Porter, Bristol; Merwin Benham, Edward Cooper, New Haven; E. G. Dudley, Yalesville; Albro Humphreville, Campville.

Preachers—Seth Woodruff, G. L. White, Joseph Curtiss, R. K. Stark, A. Elliott, W. J. Ripley, H. C. Smith, B. Hitchcock.

Visitors—G. L. Teeple, W. Tefft.

The President and Secretary of the Conference, and Bro. H. P. Bradley, were appointed a committee to ascertain who among preachers are entitled to receive certificates as members of this Conference. O. M. Gilman, Jos. Curtiss and Merwin Benham were made a committee to nominate officers for this Conference.

The campmeeting report was read, and after the reading was accepted and adopted. The lease of the camp-ground having expired, the committee were instructed to lease it again.

The following persons were presented by the nominating committee for officers of this Conference, and were elected for the year ensuing: For President, Seth Woodruff; Vice President, A. Elliott; Secretary and Treasurer, O. D. Woodruff.

It was voted that the campmeeting committee consist of four members; and Seth Woodruff, O. D. Woodruff, O. M. Gilman, and Wm. Reynolds, were elected that committee. They were also chosen to be tent committee.

The reports of delegates and preachers showed that the great truths which called out this people are still dearly cherished amid the perils and temptations of the last days, and the importance of being ready to meet the soon coming Savior seemed to be realized.

The closing meeting Sunday evening, Oct. 17th, was solemn and impressive, the Holy Spirit being especially manifest. After preaching by Bro. Teeple, two requested prayers, and others were deeply convicted.

Again we separated to engage with the conflicts of life, and trust that should another Conference be called before the Master comes, the conversion of many sinners may be reported. Brethren, let us pray for this. O. D. WOODRUFF, Sec'y.

Correspondence.

From Sr. R. P. Eldridge.

Dear Brn. and Srs. in Christ:—My heart has been cheered by your letters in the Crisis. I, too, am a child of affliction, having been held a prisoner by disease for many long and weary years; consequently, I have not been permitted to form acquaintances with but few of like precious faith, either personally or by writing. Though a stranger to most of you, still, as I love that same blessed Savior whom you adore, and belong to the same royal family of heaven, I feel that we are not strangers in every sense. When the time has arrived for you to assemble in the tented grove to worship, how my heart has yearned to be with you, and tell you that I too love to hear of the soon coming King.

O, church of Christ, look up. Christian pilgrim, lift up thy head. Weary and suffering one, rejoice, for thy redemption draweth nigh. The promised land is but just before us. Only a little ways in the distance are the glittering palaces of the city of God.

O hail, happy day, when these poor, frail, mortal bodies will be changed and fashioned like unto Christ's glorious body. Only a little while, and the swelling anthems of the redeemed shall burst sublimely on the ravished ear; a crown of glory shall sparkle on thy brow; the spotless raiment of the blest shall be thy fair adorning; and with harps in your hand, which will far exceed the sweetest toned instruments of earth, you will unite with the angels in singing the song of Moses and the Lamb. Then the marriage supper of the Lamb shall be thy feast, and the peaceful paradise of God shall be thine everlasting home.

Can it be possible that such poor, unworthy ones as we are will ever reach that beautiful home? Yes, thank God, it is for us, if we are faithful, and endure to the end. Though life's ills are many, and the pathway is often thorny, yet our blessed Jesus has trodden the thorny pathway before us, and has said, "My grace is sufficient for thee." O, blessed and glowing thought, that you, dear sister Weaver, and I, and all the faithful suffering ones, will meet "in the sweet by and by"—the home of the blest, with our sufferings all ended, our trials all o'er; where prayer will be exchanged for praise, and rejoicing will take the place of sighing.

I have been a constant reader of the dear Crisis for nearly two years, and to say that I love it but poorly expresses my high appreciation of it, as it comes laden with the sweet, rich truths of the Bible, and bringing good news from afar. About all of the Advent preaching I hear is through the Crisis, and from those with whom I correspond. Pray for me, that my faith fail not, and that I may be prepared to meet you all in Christ's coming kingdom. God bless you all, is the prayer of your sister in Christ.

Chatham, Mass., Sept. 26th, 1875.

From Sr. L. E. Leavitt.

Dear Brn. and Srs.:—I have lately started on the christian way, but I am not sorry. It grows brighter and brighter. I can truly say that Jesus is mine and I am his. He is my shield, my solace in all trials, afflictions and temptations. There are many temptations in these last days. I do not think pride ever raged to such an extent as it does at the present time. It will keep many out of the kingdom. But what are a few vanities of this life compared with eternal life? I believe Jesus is soon coming, and I mean, assisting me, to live in that way that, when he comes, I can meet him with joy and not with grief. We must live holy, godly lives, be pure in heart, for none but the pure in heart shall see God. It is not hard to serve Jesus. He is ever ready to help us in all our trials and afflictions. He is a present help in every time of need. If we put our whole trust in him, he will save us when he comes, and we shall be numbered with them which came out of great tribulation, and have washed their robes and made them white in the blood of the Lamb.

When I think of a home over in the kingdom, where all the redeemed of earth will one day gather, and where meeting and parting will not be known; where the inhabitant shall never say, I am sick; where we shall have no need of the sun, but the Lamb will be the light thereof, my heart swells with rapturous emotion, and I long to be there. Much of the way up Zion's hill is marked with perplexity, tribulation, and sorrow; but when Jesus who is our Life-giver shall come, all toil and pain will be forgotten, and we shall have nothing to do but cast our crowns at his feet, and cry, Holy is the Lamb slain from the foundation of the world. I feel to say with the poet—

"Oh the prospect, it is so transporting,
Savior, hasten thy coming, we pray;
We sigh for the land thou hast promised,
And the dawn of the bright endless day."

West Washington, Me.

From Sr. Catherine Wise.

Dear fellow laborers in Christ:—It is some time since I have written to you, but I have not forgotten you. Jesus saves me from sin to-day. It is not because I have any worth or worthiness in or of myself, that I speak thus, but I do it to honor the Master who has done so much for me.

It seems to me I never can be thankful enough to God for what he has done for me. O, brethren, do not let us throw stones, but use kind words, and do good deeds, and when He who is our life shall appear, then shall we appear with him in glory. Now we see in part and know in part, but what a clearing up of things will be then.

Winslow, Ill.

Extracts from Letters.

Bro. J. L. Buringer writes:—"My dear wife has been sick the last three months, and does not get any better. Would that the friends of Jesus would remember her in their prayers, that He may be pleased to restore her to health and strength."

Bro. George Thomson writes:—"Since I last wrote I have been very bad indeed, and this must be my excuse for this very brief statement. I acknowledge with thanks to God and you, dear friends, the following—A friend, Putnam, Ct., by the hand of Bro. W. Sheldon, $5. Alexander McClure, $2. By the hand of Geo. T. Adams, $1. Bro. John S. Mats, $1."

Bro. J. M. Ducker writes from Heyworth, Ill., Sept. 21st, 1875:—"Jesus is all to me that I could ask. O the love that the Father had in sending his only begotten, and well-beloved Son to die for sinful man. Well may the poet sing—'O, for such love, let rocks and hills their lasting silence break.' I have been taking your valuable paper (the Crisis) for about two years. I love it very much, and the truths it so forcibly advocates. May God's blessing rest on all the truths that fill its columns. I most firmly believe that Jesus is coming soon to judge the world in righteousness. O sinner, flee to Jesus, and take shelter from the fires of that day. Delay no longer. Signs are multiplying, indicating that the end is nigh. May God help you to accept of offered mercy before it is too late."

Obituaries.

Mitchell. In Kennebunkport, Me., Sept. 29th, 1875, Sister Eliza D., widow of our late much beloved Bro. Capt. Elisha Mitchell, aged seventy-nine years.

Sister M. was distinguished among good women as eminently kind and gentle in spirit, pure in devotion, amiable and lovely in associations, liberal and hospitable in entertaining the people and servants of Christ, an affectionate, loyal wife, a sanctified member of Christ's church, a lover of God and her race, who waited and looked for the speedy returning of her adorable Jesus until the lamp of life was dim with the vale of second childhood, when she stepped quietly and unconsciously into a christian's grave to await the summons to immortality. J. Couch.

Bryant. In East Buckfield, Me., Sept. 28th, 1875, Bro. James Bryant, aged thirty-five years.

Bro. B. was converted eight years ago, and has since lived a faithful christian life. Living in a community where there was little if any interest in religion, he sustained a prayer meeting, and in all things set an example worthy of his profession. He leaves a wife, two children, a mother and brothers, beside many other friends to mourn his loss. May the grace of God sustain the sorrowing ones, and prepare them to share with our dear brother the fadeless glories of the world to come. Funeral discourse by the writer, from 1 Cor. 15: 46. J. T. Jordan.

Bacon. In Sharon, Minn., July 16th, 1875, little Katie A., daughter of W. H. and Lucy E. Bacon, aged ten months and sixteen days.

Funeral exercises at the father's residence, by Eld. E. Bacon. Many sympathizing friends were present. Little Katie was a beautiful child, and retained much of her beauty in death. As we looked upon the lovely corpse, we felt like exclaiming, She is not dead, but sleepeth. Although the rod of affliction has rested heavily upon us, we do not sorrow as those without hope, for we know our little one shall come again from the land of the enemy when Christ comes to make up his jewels. L. E. Bacon.

Hood. In Haverhill, N. H., Sept. 10th, 1875, of heart disease, Bro. Enos Hood, aged sixty-eight years.

Also, Sept. 1st, Merty Belle, infant daughter of Bro. and Sr. Hood.

"God moves in a mysterious way,
His wonders to perform."

It has been so in this family circle. Seven of them have started for the kingdom since the little daughter fell asleep. Words of comfort and consolation by the writer. J. B. S. Pillsbury.

Capen. Jacob A. Capen died, aged seventy-five years.

We have lost a father and a companion, but we do not mourn as those without hope; for we trust that we shall meet our father again beyond the river, if we live as he taught us, to look to Jesus for our example and hope. He has been a true believer in the coming of Jesus since 1843.

Pray for us, that we may meet him in that land that is free from sin and death, where parting is no more." Henry D. Capen.

Pickering. In Somerville, Mass., Sept. 22d, Sister Eliza, wife of Bro. J. F. Pickering, aged thirty-eight years.

Her death was sudden and unexpected. She leaves a husband and a family of children, some of whom are young, helpless, and dependent. We hope her awakening may be to immortality. M. G. Couch.

Taylor. In Victory, Vt., Oct. 14th, Effie L., daughter of Carthan and Martha Taylor, aged nine years and six months.

Words of comfort were spoken to the afflicted parents by the writer, from Job 14: 14, at their request. Then we laid the little daughter away to rest until the morning when they shall come again from the land of the enemy, and shall come to their own borders. John H. Smith.

Spear. Fell asleep in Jesus, in Greenfield, Mass., Oct. 24th, 1875, Elmer R. Spear, youngest son of D. W. and E. M. Spear, aged twenty years.

We sorrow not as others which have no hope; for we believe that as Jesus died and rose again, even so them also who sleep in Jesus will God bring with him. E. M. Spear.

Married.

Giddines—Brown. In Bow, N. H., Oct. 10th, by Eld. A. Martin, Geo. P. Giddines and Miss Mary Brown, both of Bow.

FOREIGN NEWS.

Vienna, Oct. 26. The latest advices from Servia state that the Skuptschina has passed a motion in favor of war against Turkey by a vote of sixty-four against forty-two.

Berlin, Oct. 24. It is stated on semi-official authority that during the conference at Milan between the Emperor William and King Victor Emanuel they agreed that the recognition of the future Pope should depend upon the guarantees given by His Holiness.

Rome, Oct. 26. It is stated that some German bishops recently asked the advice of the Vatican as to what line of conduct they should pursue, so as to terminate their conflict with the German Government. Cardinal Antonelli accordingly sent a circular to all German bishops, asking for their opinion concerning the means of arriving at an understanding between the Government and the Episcopacy.

TURKEY.

Ragusa, Nov. 1. Eighteen hundred Turks were defeated recently while attacking a strong insurgent position near Zubci. The Turks had 150 killed, while the loss of the insurgents in killed and wounded was only twenty.

It is reported that the Turks have murdered sixty Christians in Bihacz, a fortified town on the Dalmatian frontier.

The London Times correspondent at Mostar reports that the members of the consular commission for the settlement of the troubles in Herzegovina are unanimous in the opinion that the porte is incapable of pacifying the country, and that foreign intervention in some form is indispensable.

GERMANY.

The Berlin correspondent of the London Post has it that Archbishop Ledochowski, for whom the Pope is said to have recently interceded, will be expelled from the German empire as soon as his term of imprisonment expires.

FRANCE.

The French minister of arts has appointed a commission to examine a picture lately discovered at Orleans, which is believed to be a portrait of Jeanne d' Arc.

London, Nov. 1. The Times estimates that two hundred mariners and others were drowned in the North Sea during the gales of the past three weeks.

The Egyptian army has entered Abyssinia, and the Abyssinians are retreating and offering no resistance.

DOMESTIC NEWS.

Quebec, Canada, Oct. 25. A second Guibord case has occurred here. A man named Thompson, a Freemason, died here a few days ago without the last rites of his church. The Roman Catholic ecclesiastics refused to bury him in consecrated ground, and the remains were yesterday interred in Union Cemetery without any ceremony.

Montreal, Oct. 26. The Institute Canadian and Mr. Doutre have definitely fixed on the 18th of November for the burial of Guibord. This is the date when he died, six years ago. Preparations are fully completed, and six thousand military are to be turned out.

Des Moines, Iowa, Oct. 26. A farmer in Dallas county has lost $2 000 worth of hogs by cholera within the last two weeks, and a farmer in Monroe county has lost $1,000 worth.

Salt Lake City, Oct. 29. In the Brigham Young alimony case this morning, the court ruled that the original order not being applicable and no motion having been made by Brigham's attorneys to vacate the same, it was manifest that the court must enforce it; that the original order was correct and should be upheld; that Brigham Young flatly refused to obey an order that the court was bound to enforce. The court therefore ordered that Young be imprisoned until $9,500 and the costs are paid.

Brigham's counsel gave notice of an appea and offered a bond staying the execution of the order, and that Brigham be imprisoned in his own house. This the court refused, saying that as there was no appeal from the original order alimony there can be no appeal from the order enforcing it. The opinion of the Court is long and elaborate and replete with authorities.

The United States Marshal, with his deputies, immediately arrested Brigham, who was in bed at his residence. At the request of the Marshal, two physicians examined Young this afternoon, and pronounced him too sick to be removed without endangering his life. If he refuses to pay the money he will be removed.

This decision in no way bears upon the question of or recognizes polygamy.

Bishop McQuade, in addressing the Irish Catholic Benevolent Union at Rochester, last week, claimed a population of nine million Roman Catholics distributed over the Union, and said "their duty was to uphold the cause of Catholic education. He did not mean that they should do so in words unbecoming gentlemen; but he did mean that, as Catholics speaking on the question, they should speak plainly, cost what it may." By and by, if they do not get a share of the school funds for Romish schools, the Bishop is likely to tell them that the time for speaking is past, and now they must act, "cost what it may." It is this menacing power which Protestants are fostering by giving subscriptions to Roman Catholic churches and other institutions, sending their daughters to nunneries for education, and passing almost any law desired by the priests.—N. Y Witness.

Notices.

SPECIAL MEETING OF THE A. C. A.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Advent Christian Association held in Boston, Mass., Sept. 30th, it was voted that a special meeting of the Advent Christian Association be held on Tuesday, Dec. 14th, at two o'clock p. m., to consider the expediency of revising the Constitution of the Association, particularly with regard to forming a new basis of representation. A full attendance of preachers and delegates from the churches is earnestly desired. Each church is entitled to one delegate, and one additional delegate for every fifty members above twenty-five. The meeting will be held at the Advent Chapel, Central Street, Worcester, Mass.

S. G. Mathewson, President.
C. E. Barnes, Secretary.

Notice.—The next annual session of the N. H. Advent Christian Conference will be held with the church in Concord, N. H., commencing Wednesday evening, Nov. 3d, and continue over the following Sabbath. An effort will be made to secure reduction of fare on the various railroads.

On Concord road and branches, Conference tickets will be sold at the following places: Suncook, Manchester, Nashua, Epping Junction, New Market Junction, Portsmouth, Lawrence, Goffstown, North Weare. Those coming on the Concord and Claremont or Northern roads, will purchase Conference tickets on the cars of the conductors. Those coming on the Boston, Concord, and Montreal road, will purchase regular tickets, and be furnished with return passes at the Conference, provided they will send to the Secretary, C. H. Fletcher, Newport, N. H., the number of passes they want, and to what station on the road. Let this be done as early as possible before the meeting. We hope the churches will be particular to send delegates.

A. Ross, President.
C. H. Fletcher, Sec.

Conference.

The Delaware District A. C. Conference is hereby called to meet and hold its semi-annual session, at the Advent Christian Church, Eighth Street, above Noble, commencing on Friday evening, Nov. 5th, and continue over the Sabbath. This conference embraces the District of Columbia, Maryland, Delaware, New Jersey, and Eastern Pennsylvania. It is earnestly hoped that every church sympathizing with us will be represented, either by letter or delegates. Every church or religious body co-operating with this conference is entitled to one delegate, and an additional delegate for every ten members. All letters of correspondence for the conference can be addressed to Edwin King, 1716 Francis St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Wm. Ashman, President.
E. King, Secretary.

Notice.—The Advent believers will hold meetings at the Sand Bank school-house, Haverhill Corner, N. H., on Sundays, as often as they can be supplied with a speaker. Any of the preaching brethren passing through this vicinity will please call on the writer, as I keep a pilgrim's home. Prayer meetings Thursday and Sunday evenings.
James M. Harriman.

Notice.—Brethren: I have closed my labors with the church at Morrisville, Vt. I am now at liberty to go anywhere the way opens to preach the gospel of the kingdom. If any of the brethren want I should preach to them, they can write me at West Randolph, Vt.
Eld. J. A. Cleaveland.

Notice.—A series of meetings will be held in the Anderson school-house, Limington, Me., commencing Wednesday evening, Nov. 10th, and continue as long as appears duty. We urge each and all of God's dear children, who feel that their heavenly Father can use them to his glory here, to come and help us.
G. H. Haines.
C. H. Sweet.

The Maine Second Advent Annual Conference is deferred till the second Tuesday in Dec., and will be holden with the church in Frankfort.
Geo. Humphrey, President.
W. H. Mitchell, Secretary.

Protracted Meeting.—The Lord will, there will be a protracted meeting in East Colebrook, N. H., Kiddersville, commencing Sunday, Nov. 14th. Will Bro. George E. Brown meet with me?
U. G. Ladd.

Notice.—This is to certify that the A. C. Church worshiping on Hammond Street, Providence, R. I., have given Eld. A. W. Sibley a call to become their Pastor, and he has accepted the same. All preaching brethren wishing to exchange, or to preach, will confer with him.
J. W. Lake, Church Clerk.

I expect to visit my old places and new ones in Vermont, as the way may open, in January, 1876. Any desiring my labors in evening meetings, or Sundays, please write me at North Dana, Mass., that I may make arrangements.
Geo. A. Streeter.

The brethren at South Livermore cordially invite the dear brothers and sisters to come in and enjoy the feast with us, Friday evening, Nov. 5th, Saturday the 6th, and over Sunday. Bro. Jesse Gay and Geo. W. Brown are expected to preach the word.
C. Damon, for the Brn.

I will let my tent to go South to responsible parties this winter, or will sell it for one hundred and fifty dollars to parties that want it for meetings to preach the Lord's coming. It is fifty feet in diameter, made in the best possible manner, of the heaviest drilling, well roped, etc. For particulars inquire of H. B. Sevey, Mt. Vernon, Me.

THE BIBLE BANNER.

This is a large, illustrated, monthly paper, conducted by A. A. Phelps, A. M., assisted by an able corps of Special Contributors. It contains various departments—Doctrinal, Prophetical, Practical, Bible Class, Miscellany, and Items of Interest. It is devoted to a critical exposition of Bible Truth, and an earnest advocacy of Bible Salvation. Only One Dollar a year, and postage free. Liberal terms to Agents. Address The Bible Banner, Vineland, N. J.

STAR-BEAMS; OR, RAYS OF LIGHT.
BY J. W. THOMAS.

This is a new book of 363 pages, and is filled with stirring, practical, interesting articles. It is an excellent book to put in your Sabbath-school Library, or to give as a present to a friend. It contains something for all classes—saints, sinners, young, old, rich, poor, married, single, afflicted and prosperous. Every young christian should have a copy and read it carefully. No family should be without it. It talks of Jesus, of holy living, and the coming glory. It cannot fail to exert a healthful, saving influence wherever it is circulated. Who will help to spread it far and wide? Price $1.00. Direct to J. W. Thomas, 12 Arnold Street, Providence, R. I. For sale at this Office.

THE TOKEN OF TRUTH

is a four-page monthly paper, unsectarian in its character, devoted entirely to the spread of christian holiness, purity of heart, the higher experiences of the christian life, and an entire consecration and devotedness to God.

In every issue it will present valuable articles on the doctrine, the experience, and the practice of Christian Holiness, and will be the bearer of many blessed, inspiring, encouraging, and comforting messages to all God's children who are "hungering and thirsting after righteousness," and who are earnestly seeking "through sanctification of the Spirit and belief of the truth," to be made "perfect in Jesus Christ."

Terms: Single copy, postpaid, 25 cts. per annum.
Rice & Morris, Publishers,
168 W. Madison Street, Chicago.

The World's Crisis and Token of Truth will be sent, postpaid, one year to any one remitting $2.40 to the Crisis Office, 160 Hanover Street, Boston.

THE TOBACCO PLUG AND CIGAR

shown in their true character, with some of their terrible results upon mankind.

From Zion's Herald:—"Rev. George Trask is in a fair way to have an efficient successor in Rev. I. C. Wellcome, of Yarmouth, Me. We have received a spirited tract from his pen, entitled, 'The Tobacco Plug and Cigar.' Its seventy-two pages are crowded with facts and figures, forming a terrible indictment against the foolish and vulgar habit and expensive indulgence of the use of tobacco. We wish it the widest circulation and the utmost success in its important mission."

From the Portland Transcript:—"Rev. I. C. Wellcome, of Yarmouth, Me., publishes a neat pamphlet of seventy-two pages, against the use of the 'The Tobacco Plug and Cigar,' being a friendly talk with those who use tobacco, with the hope of benefitting them in health, mind and money. It is a complete treasury of anti-tobacco argument and appeal. Sold for $10 per hundred, $1.50 per dozen, 15 cents single copy. Send order to the author." Sold at the Crisis Office.

Appointments.

☞ Appointments must be received as early as TUESDAY MORNING (as our paper goes to press about noon) to insure insertion for the coming week.

☞ The following Resolution was passed at the late meeting of the A. C. P. Society:—

"Resolved, That no appointments be published in the Crisis henceforth for persons unknown to the Editorial Board (by which is understood the Editors, Editorial Committee, and Business Agent), unless satisfactory reference shall be given.

The Committee appointed by the Adv. Chris. Association, at its last Annual Meeting, to advise with the Editorial Board "in relation to the publication in the World's Crisis of the appointments of men unworthy of recognition as preachers," having attended to the duty assigned them, recommended, and the Editorial Board have adopted, and ordered to be published, the following resolution:—

"Resolved, That when the Editorial Board is properly notified by any of our Churches or Ministers, or responsible persons by a written allegation that a certain minister, or ministers lack moral character, that they be instructed to notify such minister, or ministers, of the information received as a reason for withholding their appointments till after a proper trial and acquittal."

All communications in relation to this matter should be addressed to the Secretary of the Board—Geo. T. Adams, Boston, Mass.

Boston (Branch Chapel) 2029 Washington Street, (corner of Madison Street.)
Love Feast at 10½ a. m. Preaching at 3 and 7½ p. m. Prayer meeting Tuesday and Friday evenings.
J. S. White..........Sunday, Nov. 7th

Boston (Repository Hall) 712 Washington St., corner of Kneeland St.
Preaching at 10½ a. m. and 3 and 7 p. m. Sunday School at 1.30 p. m. Prayer meeting Wednesday evening.

East Boston (Central Hall, 152 Meridian Street.)
Meetings every Sunday, at the usual hours, also prayer and conference meetings Wednesday and Friday evenings, at 7½ o'clock p. m.

Charlestown (Hall No. 70 Main Street.)
J. F. Nickerson..........Sundays, Nov. 7th and 14th
Wm. N. Pile..........Sunday, Nov. 21st
E. Owen..........Sunday, Nov. 28th

Chelsea, Mass.
Preaching Sundays, at 10.30 A. M. and 3 P. M.
Conference Meeting at 7 o'clock Sunday evenings. Tuesday and Friday evenings, at 7½ o'clock.
D. M. Leavitt..........Sunday, Nov 7th
I. B. Potter..........Sunday, Nov. 14th

Somerville, Mass (Pilgrim Hall, Summer Street.)
Meetings every Sunday, at the usual hours, also prayer and conference meetings Tuesday and Friday evenings, at 7½ o'clock p. m.
Geo. W. Sederquest..........1st and 3d Sundays in each month till further notice.

Hyde Park, Mass. (Connor's Hall.)—Meetings every Sabbath at the usual hours. T. M. Preble.
L. Boutell..........Sunday, Nov. 7th

Tremont, Mass..........Sundays, Nov. 7th and 21st
Holden, Mass..........Sunday, Nov. 14th
C. E. Barnes.

Tremont, Mass..........Sunday, Nov. 14th
Plymouth, Mass..........Sunday, Nov. 21st
J. S. White.

New Bedford, Mass..........Sabbaths, Nov. 7th and 14th
Direct to Chicopee Falls, Mass. H. Munger.

Fairhaven, Mass..........Sunday, Nov. 14th
New York City (as Bro. Cox may appoint) Sunday, Nov. 21st.
Hartford, Conn..........Sunday, Nov. 28th
M. Batchelor.

Fremont, N. H. (baptism)..........Sunday, Nov. 7th
Enoch Morrill.

Lynn, Mass..........evening, Nov. 5th
I. B. Potter.

Lewiston, Me..........Sunday, Nov. 7th
I. C. Wellcome.

South Norwalk, Ct..........Sunday, Nov. 7th
Newark, N. J..........Sunday, Nov. 14th
H. Pratt.

Montgomery, Mass..........Sabbath, Nov. 7th
B. Hitchcock.

New Haven, Ct..........Sunday, Nov. 7th
S. Woodruff.

North Fayston, Vt..........Friday evening, Nov. 5th
L. H. Brigham.

Erving, Mass. (Town Hall) 1½ and 7½ p. m., Sunday, Nov. 7th.
Southbridge, Mass..........Sunday, Nov. 21st
Geo. A. Streeter.

Bangor, Me..........Sunday, Nov. 7th
Milo, Me..........Sunday, Nov. 14th
F. A. Baker.

Strafford, N. H. (Robert's school house) Sun., Nov. 7th
Farmington, N. H..........Sunday, Nov. 28th
J. F. Chamberlin.

Northport..........7 p. m., Friday, Nov. 5th
Searsport..........Sunday, Nov. 7th
Surry..........Saturday, Nov. 13th, at 2 p. m., and over Sunday, Nov. 14th.
S. & L. W. Bragg.

Danbury, N. H. (where Bro. Roby may appoint) Thursday evening, Nov. 11th.
East Canaan, N. H..........Friday evening, Nov. 12th
Dorchester, N. H. (Town House)..........Sunday, Nov. 14th
Simeon Roby.

Pittsburg, N. H. (Stream school-house) Saturday evening, Nov 20th.
Hall Stream, P. Q. (Upper school-house) Sun., Nov. 21st
Worden, P. Q. (where Bro. L. G. Hill may appoint) Sunday, Nov. 28th, and onward as the Lord directs.
U. G. Ladd.

Bradford, N. H. (Bush meeting-house)..Sun., Nov. 7th
Bradford, N. H. (Pond meeting-house) Sun., Nov. 14th
Bradford, N. H. (Bush meeting-house) Sun., Nov. 21st
Sutton, N. H. (Palmer school-house) Sun., Nov. 28th
A. S. Williams.

North Haverhill, N. H..........evening, Nov. 6th and over Sunday.
Swiftwater, N. H..........evening, Nov. 8th
North Benton, N. H. (new school house) evening, Nov. 9th.
East Landaff, N. H..........evenings, Nov. 11th, 12th, 13th and over Sunday.
John H. Evans.

Moultonboro, N. H. (Neck Road school-house) Sunday, Nov. 7th.
J. G. Moulton.

Northwood Narrows, N. H..........Sunday, Nov. 14th
Fairhaven, Mass..........Tuesday evening, Nov. 23d and onward.
Mattapoisett, Mass..........Sunday, Nov. 28th
A. Simpson.

Hartford, Me..........Thursday, Nov. 4th
South Livermore, Friday and Saturday evenings, Nov. 5th and 6th, and over Sunday, Nov. 7th.
Jesse Gay.
Geo. W. Brown (of Elliott.)

Savoy, Mass. (New State Chapel)..........Sunday, Nov. 7th
Mrs. M. L. Tower.

Topsham, Vt. (Carson Bridge)..........Sunday, Nov. 7th
West Groton, Vt..........Monday evening, Nov. 8th
Haverhill Corner, N. H. (Sand Bank school-house) Sunday, Nov. 14th.
Geo. E. Brown.

Bro. Bemans, Warren..........Tuesday evening, Nov. 9th
Ellsworth..........Thursday evening, Nov. 11th and over Sunday, Nov. 14th.
G. L. White.

Hebron, N. Y..........Sunday, Nov. 7th and evenings, Nov. 8th, 9th, 10th, 11th and 12th.
Poultney, Vt..........Sunday, Nov. 14th
Clarendon, Vt..........evening, Nov. 15th
Burdettville, Vt..........evening, Nov. 16th
North Shrewsbury, Vt..........evening, Nov. 17th
Eastham, Vt..........evening, Nov. 18th
Addison, Vt..........evening, Nov. 20th, Sunday, Nov. 21st each evening during the week, and Sun., Nov. 28th.
Arthur A. Waite.

Melbourne, P. Q., Saturday evening, Nov. 13th, at 7½ o'clock, and over Sunday, Nov. 14th, at 10½ a. m. and 1 p. m., and 6½ in the evening.
Sr. M. McKinstry.

Pittsfield, N. H..........Saturday evening, Oct. 30th and evenings until Sunday, Nov. 7th.
E. A. P. Morrill.

Sebago, Lake Station..........Sunday, Nov. 7th
Mrs. H. S. Clark.

New Britain, Ct..........Sunday, Nov. 21st
East Weymouth, Mass..........Sunday, Nov. 28th
Kennebunkport, Me..........Sundays, Dec. 5th and 12th
W. S. Campbell.

Corinna, Me..........Saturday, Nov. 6th and over Sunday, Nov. 7th.
Geo. W. Brown.

Lake Village, N. H. (North Church)..........Sun., Nov. 7th
Cabot, Vt..........Sunday, Nov 14th
Woodbury, Vt. (where Bro. Wilbur may appoint) evenings, Nov. 15th and 16th.
Hardwick, Vt..........evenings, Nov. 18th and 19th
Cabot, Vt..........Sunday, Nov. 21st
West Groton, Vt..........Sunday, Nov. 28th
Topsham, V. (Carson Bridge)..........Sunday, Dec 5th
Daniel D. Page.

Hollis Centre, Me..........Sunday, Nov. 14th
B. S. Emery.

Belmont, N. H..........Wednesday evening, Nov. 10th through the week, and Sunday, Nov. 14th.
Hatley, P. Q. (Old meeting-house) Sunday, Nov. 28th evenings through the week, and Sun., Dec. 5th.
C. S. Shattuck.

Burke, N. Y., Tuesday, Nov. 2d, at 7 o'clock p. m., every night during the week, and over the Sabbath, Nov. 7th.
C. Pike.

Warehousepoint, Ct..........Sunday, Nov. 14th
Arthur Pease.

Haverhill, N. H. (Sand-bank school-house) Sabbath, Nov. 7th.
East Concord, N. H..........Sabbath, Nov. 14th
East Canaan, N. H..........Sabbath, Nov. 21st
Canterbury, N. H. (where I was before) Sab., Nov. 28th
S. Hawkins.

East Acworth..........Sabbath, Nov. 7th
Northville (Newport) N. H., Wednesday and Thursday evenings, Nov. 10th and 11th.
T. L. Hall.

Square Pond, Ct..........Sundays, Nov. 7th and 14th
West Otis, Mass..........Sunday, Nov. 21st
West Becket (if desired)..........Sunday, Nov. 28th
Wm. J. Ripley.

Sandwich, (Vitum school-house)..Thursday evening, Nov. 4th.
Porter, Me..........Sunday, Nov. 7th
Levi Allen.

Limington, Me. (Hanscom school-house) Sun., Nov. 7th
J. L. Chute.

Biddeford, Me..........Tuesday evening, Nov. 9th
Kennebunkport..........Nov. 10th
Great Works..........Nov. 10th
Seabrook, N. H., Tuesday, Nov. 16th, and other churches in the vicinity, as Bro. Barton may arrange, till the 19th.
Salem, Mass..........Sunday, Nov. 21st
Annie E. Smith.

Manhegin Isle..........Friday, Nov. 5th and over Sunday, Nov. 7th.
Friendship, Me., Long Isle..........Wednesday evening, Nov. 10th.
H. S. Mitchell.

West Alton, N. H. (at the Chapel) Sabbath, Nov. 14th
D. F. Leavitt.

Bonny Eagle, Me. (exchange with Bro. Haines) Sunday, Nov. 14th.
Standish Neck, Me. (as Bro. Shackford may arrange) Sunday, Oct 24th.
Hollis Centre, Me..........Sunday, Oct. 31st
West Poland, Me..........Sunday, Nov. 7th
Freedom, N. H. (Chapel)..........Sunday, Nov. 21st
C. H. Sweet.

South Windham, Me..........evening, Nov. 4th and over Sunday, Nov. 7th.
E. S. Moulton.

Sandwich, N. H. (Vitum school-house) Sun., Nov. 7th
Pleasant Valley, N. H..........Sunday, Nov. 14th
T. L. Churchill.

Alton, N. H..........Sunday, Nov. 7th
E. Owen.

Newcastle, N. H..........Sunday, Nov. 14th
Meredith, N. H. (Dolloff Hall)..........Sunday, Nov 21st
Meredith Neck, N. H. (meeting-house) Sun., Nov. 28th
Farmington Village, N. H..........Sunday, Dec. 5th
C. R. Parsons.

Fremont, Steuben Co., N. Y..........Sunday, Nov. 7th and evenings the week following.
Mrs. L. M. Stoddard.

Chichester, N. H. (Pine Ground)..........evening, Nov. 6th and Sunday, Nov. 7th.
N. B. McMurphy.

Melvin Village, N. H..........Sunday, Nov. 14th
John Parsons.

Bow, N. H. (Woodbury school-house) Friday evening and over Sunday, Nov. 12th.
D. W. Davis.

Warehousepoint, Ct..........Sunday, Nov. 21st
Mrs. C. L. Crumb.

Strafford, N. H. (Robert's school-house) Sun., Nov. 7th
Farmington Village, N. H..........Sunday, Nov. 14th
Northwood Narrows, N. H..........Sunday, Nov. 21st
Wm. Bodge.

Charlton, Mass..........1st Sunday in every month
Southbridge, Mass..........4th Sunday in every month
Sam'l. Ayres.

Salem, Mass..........2d and 4th Sundays in each month until further notice.
Geo. W. Sederquest.

Granby, Mass. (Batchelder Street) the second Sunday in each month.
North Rutland, Mass..the last Sunday in each month
Geo. A. Streeter.

Palmer, Mass., the 1st and 3d Sundays in each month
Granby, Mass..........fourth Sunday in each month
H. H. Tucker.

Hinesburg, Vt., Sundays for one year excepting the last Sunday in each month.
Bristol, Vt., the last Sunday in each month for one year.
Wm. C. Stewart.

Haverhill, Mass. (New Chapel on Walnut St.)
J. Couch..........Sunday, Nov. 7th
A. A. Robinson..........Sunday, Nov. 14th
C. S. Shattuck..........Sunday, Nov. 21st

Worcester, Mass.
T. M. Preble..........Sabbath, Nov. 7th

Natick, Mass.
I. B. Potter..........Sunday, Nov. 7th
L. Boutell..........Sunday, Nov. 14th
E. Owen..........Sunday, Nov. 21st
Anna E Smith..........Nov. 25th and 26th and Sunday, Nov. 28th.

New Bedford, Mass.
A. Simpson..........Sunday, Nov. 21st
E. Owen..........Sundays, Dec. 5th and 12th

North Rutland, Mass.
Willard M. Hall..........first Sunday in each month
H. H. Tucker..........second Sunday in each month

Hampton, N. H.
Wm. W. Sutherland..........Sunday, Nov. 7th
A. Ross..........Sunday, Nov. 14th
J. F. Chamberlin..........Sunday, Nov. 21st
Enoch Morrill..........Sunday, Dec. 12th

Exeter, N. H.
W. W. Sutherland..........Sunday, Nov. 14th
B. Woodside..........Sunday, Nov. 21st
C. S. Shattuck..........Sunday, Dec. 12th

Portsmouth, N. H.
M. Batchelor..........Sunday, Nov. 7th
Annie E. Smith..........Sunday, Nov. 14th

Seabrook, N. H.
Sr. Annie Smith..........Sunday, Nov. 7th
T W. Piper..........Sunday, Nov. 14th
Joseph Pinkham..........Sunday, Nov. 21st
D. F Leavitt..........Sunday, Nov. 28th
John F. Chamberlin..........Sunday, Dec 5th
Joseph Pinkham..........Sunday, Dec. 12th
E. S. Moulton..........Sunday, Dec. 19th

Great Falls, N. H. (Franklin Hall.)
C. S. Shattuck..........Sunday, Nov. 7th
C. Goodrich..........Sunday, Nov. 14th
D. F. Leavitt..........Sunday, Nov. 21st
T. L. Churchill..........Sunday, Nov 28th
C. S. Shattuck..........Sunday, Dec. 5th
F. W. Sederquest..........Sunday, Dec. 12th
L. R. Saulpaugh..........Sunday, Dec. 19th
A. W. Sibley..........Sunday, Dec 26th
C. S. Shattuck..........Sunday, Jan. 2d
J. W. White..........Sunday, Jan. 9th

New Durham, N. H.
A. Ross..........Sunday, Nov. 7th
T. W. Piper..........Sunday, Nov. 21st

East Concord, N. H. (Ward House).—Meetings three times Sunday, also Tuesday and Thursday evenings
C. H. Fletcher..........first Sunday in each month
D. W. Davis..........third Sunday in each month

West Deerfield, N. H.
C. R. Parsons..........Sunday, Nov. 7th
Enoch Morrill..........Sunday, Nov. 14th

South Rochester, N. H.
J. F. Chamberlin..........Sunday, Nov. 14th
S. Hawkins..........Sunday, Dec. 5th

Portland, Me. (Union Hall.)
E. A. Stockman..........Sunday, Nov. 7th
J. Couch..........Sunday, Nov. 14th

Sabbatus, Me. (Jones' Hall.)
R. R. York..........Sunday, Nov. 7th
H. S. Mitchell..........Sunday, Nov 14th
H. D. Reed..........Sunday, Nov. 21st
E. S. Moulton..........evening, Dec. 8th and over Sunday, Dec. 12th.

Bath, Me.
R. R York..........Sunday, Nov. 14th
I. C. Wellcome..........Sunday, Nov. 21st
A protracted meeting is expected to be continued from Sunday, the 14th, onward as duty seems to dictate. I. C. W.

Biddeford, Me.
Albert Robinson..........Sunday, Nov. 7th
Geo. W. Brown..........Sunday, Nov. 14th
Wm. H. Mitchell..........Sunday, Nov. 21st
J. Albert Libby..........Sunday, Nov. 28th

South Berwick, Me. (Great Works.)
Joseph Pinkham..........Sunday, Nov. 7th
J. W. White..........Sunday, Nov. 14th
Geo. W. Brown..........Sunday, Nov. 21st
C. Goodrich..........Sunday, Nov. 28th

South Elliot, Me.
W. W. Sutherland..........Sunday, Nov. 21st

Bridgeport, Conn.
Mrs. E. L. Crumb..........Sunday, Nov. 7th
Warren Tefft..........Sundays, Nov. 14th and 21st
Mrs. E. A. Warren..........Sunday, Nov. 28th
Mrs E. L. Crumb..........Sunday, Dec. 5th
Mrs. E. A. Warren..........Sunday, Dec. 12th
A. A..........Sunday, Dec. 19th
Mrs E A. Warren..........Sunday, Dec. 26th
Mrs. E. L. Crumb..........Sunday, Jan. 1st

Bristol, Ct.
G. L. White..........Sunday, Nov. 7th

Plainville, Ct.
R. K. Stark..........Sunday, Nov. 7th
Seth Woodruff..........Sunday, Nov. 14th
R K. Stark..........Sunday, Nov. 21st
B. Hitchcock..........Sunday, Dec. 5th
Mrs. E. L. Crumb..........Sunday, Dec. 12th

Putnam, Ct.
C. Goodrich..........Sunday, Nov. 7th
H. Pratt..........Sunday, Nov. 21st
A. Simpson..........Sundays, Dec. 5th and 12th and evenings through the week.

New Haven, Conn.
Seth Woodruff..........Sunday, Nov. 7th
O. D. Woodruff..........Sunday, Nov. 14th

South Windsor, Ct.
A. Elliott..........Sunday, Nov. 7th
B. Hitchcock..........Sunday, Nov. 14th
G. L. White..........Sunday, Nov 21st
S. Woodruff..........Sunday, Nov. 28th

Milldale (Southington, Ct.)
W. Tefft..........Sunday, Nov. 7th
R. K. Stark..........Sunday, Nov. 14th
A. Elliott..........Sunday, Nov. 21st

South West Hoosick, N. Y.
Arthur A. Waite..........once in four weeks
Flora Blanchard..........once in four weeks

Removal.—The Star of Hope Mission (late of 229 South 5th Avenue), has removed to 185 Spring Street, between Thompson and Sullivan Streets, to the large hall lately occupied by the City Mission. Services will be held on Sundays at 10½ 3 and 7½ o'clock. Class meeting Monday evenings, at 8 o'clock; prayer and conference Wednesday and Friday evenings, at 8 o'clock.
Mrs. Anna E. Smith, Sup't.

Chicago, Ill.—Green Street Tabernacle Church hold services in their Chapel on Green Street, near Madison Street, Chicago, Ill., every Lord's day, morning and evening. Prayer meetings in the Basement room of the Tabernacle every Wednesday and Friday evenings of each week. Brethren and sisters passing through Chicago are invited to call. All correspondents will write to L. C. Rice, 168 West Madison St.

Chicago, Ill.—The Advent Christian Church meets at their Hall, No. 213 West Madison St., every Lord's day. There will be preaching at 10½ a. m. and 7½ p. m.; prayer meeting every Thursday evening, at 7½ o'clock. All preaching brethren visiting, or passing through the city, and desiring to preach, will please correspond with Bro. H. P. Wright, Board of Health, Chicago, Ill. H. P. Wright, R. P. Price, Elders.

Providence, R. I., A. C. Church, Hammond Street, near Division. Sabbath—Social meeting 9 a. m. Sabbath school 10.30 a. m.; preaching 2.45 p. m.; social meeting 7 a. m. Social meetings Wednesday and Friday evenings, at 7.30 p. m. A. W. Sibley, Pastor.

Biddeford, Me.—Meetings are held at the Advent Chapel, Hill Street, every Sabbath morning, afternoon and evening; also Wednesday and Saturday evenings, at the usual hours; preachers will please correspond with T. W. Applebee, Box 1340.

Portland, Me.

The Advent Christian Church of Portland, Me., hold meetings every Sabbath, also on Tuesday and Friday evenings, in "Union Hall," on Free Street, entrance nearly opposite the Baptist church. James Berry, John Higgins, Asa L. Ames, Church Com.

Augusta, Me.—Meetings are held at the Young Men's Christian Association Room, Darby Block, on Water Street. Preaching brethren wishing to visit the church at Augusta, will correspond with Brn. George B. Choate and H. G. Smiley, Committee.

Rye, N. H.—Bro. E. B. Wells having been chosen pastor of the church in Rye, will supply the desk every Sabbath, except the first of each month (that being supplied by Bro. J. W. White.) All communications relative to preaching should be directed to him at North Hampton Depot, care of Chesley Bros.

☞ Meetings are held regularly every Lord's day in Paddock's Village, St. Johnsbury, Vt.; preaching at quarter before eleven a. m., and quarter before two p. m.; prayer meeting at six o'clock in the evening.
M. A. Potter.

New York City.—Advent meetings at 138 West 24th Street, between 6th and 7th Avenue, every Sabbath, at 10½ a. m., 3 and 7½ p. m. Prayer and Conference meetings Wednesday evenings.
Thomas J. Cox, 273 West 22d Street.

Camden, N. J.—Meetings are held at the Hall, corner of Third and Federal Streets. Preaching or conference meetings every Sunday afternoon and evening, at 3 and 7 p. m. Wm. H. Fay, Cor. Sec.

Clinton, Mass.—Meetings are held every Sunday, also Wednesday evenings, at Union Hall. Preachers will please correspond with C. H. Hudson, Clinton.

Preaching in Quincy Hall, 127 Leacock Street, Allegheny, Pa., every Sunday, at 10.30 a. m., and in the evening at seven o'clock p. m., by G. D. Clowes.

Pawtucket, R. I.—Advent meetings are held every Sunday, at 10½ a. m. and 7½ p. m., at Masonic Hall, Mill Street.

Dexter, Me.—Meetings are held at Central Hall. Preaching brethren wishing to visit the church at Dexter, will correspond with Bro. O. S. French, Clerk.

"GOSPEL SONGS."

"A choice collection of Hymns and Tunes, New and Old, for Prayer Meetings, Sunday Schools, etc."

This is a new book that has had a large sale at our campmeetings this season, and contains some very choice pieces:—"When Jesus Comes," "More to Follow," etc., etc. For sale at this Office. Price, 35 cts. per copy; $3.60 per dozen by express; by mail, 40 cts. per copy. Agent.

THE ADVENT MINSTREL;

A choice collection of Spiritual Songs. Flexible cloth, 25 cents single copy; per dozen, $2.50 by mail. For sale at this Office.

"THE CHILD'S BIBLE QUESTION BOOK."
BY ELD. C. GOODRICH.

This is the title of a work just issued by the A. C. P. Society, designed for the small children in the Sabbath Schools and in the family. Just what we have long wanted. Price 10 cts. single copy; $1.00 per doz., sent by mail. Ag't.

THE FUTURE OF OUR PLANET
AS VIEWED FROM A
BIBLICAL STANDPOINT.
BY A. W. SIBLEY.

This is the title of a new Tract of 16 pages, issued by the A. C. P. Society. Just the thing to circulate widely. Price, 3 cents per copy; 20 cts. per dozen; $1.40 per hundred, by mail Ag't.

GERMAN TRACTS.

A new German Tract just out: "Does the Bible teach the Immortality of the Soul?" A reply to a letter from a German theologian in Prussia.

Other tracts as follows: "The Fifth Universal Kingdom, or Kingdom of Christ on Earth." "What is Man?" "Future Doom of the Ungodly." "Resurrection," etc.

Louis Reimer, No. 639 North Eighth Street, above Wallace, Philadelphia, Pa.

STANDARD ENGLISH WORKS.
FOR SALE AT THE OFFICE OF
"THE ADV. CHRIS. PUB. SOCIETY,"
160 Hanover Street.

These works are imported from the London Repository, kept by Bro. W. Kellaway, and persons purchasing them will be helping to ensure the success of the English Depot. Works not in stock procured in a few weeks.

The Critical Greek and English Lexicon and Concordance, designed for those who do not understand Greek. By the Rev. E. W. Bullinger. To be completed in from 12 to 14 parts of 64 pp. Royal 8vo. At 40c. per part to subscribers for the whole work, or 50c. to non-subscribers. Subscription for the complete work in advance, $7.00 cloth, and $8.00 leather. This work is highly recommended by the best English scholars. Part I. and II. ready for delivery.

Englishman's Hebrew and Chaldee Concordance. 2 vols. The value of this work is proverbial. $20.00 by Express.

Englishman's Greek Concordance. A companion volume of the above. $16.00 by Express.

Antitypical Parallels: or, The Kingdom of Israel and of Heaven. With Notes, Illustrations, and specially-prepared Maps of the original occupations of the Land of Canaan and of the Millennial Kingdom. By Lt. Gen. Goodwyn. $5.50 by Express.

The Last Adam. (The Second Man, the Lord from Heaven.") By Lt. Gen. Goodwyn. $1.15; postage 16 cts.

The Whole Armor of God: an Explanation of the Christian Conflict and the Divine Panoply provided therefor. 75 cts.; postage 12 cts.

Truth and Tradition: a Defence of the Doctrine that "The Wages of Sin is Death, but the Gift of God is eternal life in Jesus Christ our Lord." 30 cts.; postage 2 cts.

The Mysteries of the Kingdom of Heaven: An Explanation of Matt. 13th. 18 cts.; postage 1 ct.

New Facts upon all Subjects. By the Author of "Enquire Within upon Everything." Useful to the housekeeper, and to persons of every profession. $1.00; postage 12 cts.

God Misunderstood: or, Is Eternal Evil compatible with the character of God? By David Wardlaw Scott. 40 cts.; postage 3 cts.

Christianity in Relation to Judaism: A reply to the Pan-Christianism of N. Meyer. By G. Greenwell. 25 cts.; postage 2 cts.

The Life of Jesus: A Critical Examination of Ernest Renan's famous work. By the same author. 25 cts.; postage 2 cts.

The Hope of Life Eternal. By the same author. 25 cts.; postage 2 cts.

Reasons why all Christians should read God's written Word in Greek. 25 cts.; postage 2 cts.

Homes of Old English Writers, introducing the reader to the birth places and homes of old English authors. $1.00; postage 16 cts.

Bunyan's Holy War. A pretty edition of the Dreamer's Work. $1.00; postage 16 cts.

Fox's Book of Martyrs. In the same binding as the two preceding. $1.00; postage 16 cts.

Rev. H. Constable's Works.

Duration and Nature of Future Punishment—fourth and last edition—containing 330 pp. Neatly bound. $1.00; postage 16 cts.

The Love of God Vindicated. By the same author. Per dozen, 36 cts.; postage 2 cts.

The Questions of Future Punishment and Contingent Immortality. By Chas. Underhill. 8 cts.; postage 1 ct.

Popular Theology brought to the Test of Holy Scripture. By the same author. 8 cts.; postage 1 ct.

Immortality only in Christ. By J. G. Groom. Per dozen, 12 cts.

Business.

Notes to Correspondents.

☞ We cannot discontinue or send your orders, unless you give us the POST OFFICE and STATE in PLAIN LETTERS.

☞ Eld. S. G. Mathewson's address is Castleton, Vt.
☞ Dr. D. Mathewson's address is 331 Seventeenth Street, San Francisco, California.
☞ Eld. A. W. Sibley's address is 32 Bellevue Avenue, Providence, R. I.
☞ Eld. Geo. A. Brown's address is 1008 Morgan Street, Philadelphia, Pa.
☞ R. F. & M. J. Clark's address is Peach Creek, Washington Co., Kansas.
☞ Wm. C. Stewart's address hereafter will be Hinesburg, Vt.
☞ J. C and S. E. Smith's address is Newton Upper Falls, Mass.
☞ M. A. Potter's address is St. Johnsbury, Vt.
☞ C. Mendenhall's address is Norwalk, Huron Co., Ohio.
☞ J. A. Cleaveland's address will be West Randolph until further notice.
☞ Geo. H. Wallace's address will be No. 30 Orange Street, Manchester, N. H., till further notice.
☞ Eld. John Parson's address is 10 High Rock Street, Lynn, Mass.
☞ Eld. J. Porter's address is Danville, P. Q.
☞ H. G. McCulloch's address is DeKalb, De Kalb Co., Ill.

List of Persons sending Money for Others.—P G Lord, C D Potter, L D Carey, R F & M J Clark, I N Thompson, M W Corliss, C W Buvinger M. D., O Ensign, M Williams, C Bacon, G S Goud, M J Bennett, A Z Bennett, J D Daniels, Ira Holden, A Avery, Joseph Barton, S Case, A H Post.

Cash Received for Books and Tracts.—L B Cummings 20c, W P Judson 18c, Geo Mayberry 25c, A Abbott 40c, A Humphrey 87c, E Richmond 45c, J M Harriman $2 68, J E Pasco $2 50, Geo W. Lewis $4 20, Mrs L H Buxton 35c, C A Morrison 25c, B C Crabtree $4 50, J Thompson 50c, Annie Calder $2.25, S Smith $2.75.

Books and Tracts Sent.—By Mail—G S Brewster, W P Judson, G Mayberry, L B Cummings, Mrs E Southwick, E G Benson, T H Forrester, G A Abbott, E Richmond, B F Wise (2 pack), Mrs L H Buxton, A Avery, I Thompson, J E Pasco, Annie Calder, C A Morrison.
By Express—J M Harriman, Geo W Lewis.

Articles Received.—O. D. Woodruff, J H Jones, T G Greene, H D Capen, J L Buringer, H Z egenfuss, F P Drew, J T Jordan, C Wardwell, B Spaulding, Jennie, G Thomson, E J Jacques, P J Marsh, L E Bacon.

Catalogue
OF BOOKS AND TRACTS
FOR SALE AT THE OFFICE OF
"THE ADV. CHRIS. PUB. SOCIETY,"
160 Hanover Street.

BIBLE DICTIONARY. Five colored maps, two hundred and fifty Engravings. Sheep, $2.25; cloth, $1.50; postage, 25 cts.
BEREAN'S CASKET AND REPOSITORY. By I. C. Wellcome Cloth, $2.00; leather, $2.50.
CRUDEN'S CONCORDANCE. Sheep, $2.00; cloth, $1.50; postage, 25 cts.
CHRISTIAN BAPTISM. By I. C. Wellcome. 25 cts.
ENGLISH REFERENCE BIBLES. Minion: calf, morocco, circuit bindings, from $2.50 to $4 25. Nonpareil: calf, morocco, circuit bindings, from $2.00 to $3.50. Pearl: calf, morocco, circuit bindings, from $1.50 to $3 00. Diamond: calf, morocco, circuit bindings, from $1.25 to $2.00.
FABLES OF INFIDELITY and Facts of Faith. By Robert Patterson. Cloth, $1.00.
FUTURITY; or, The Hereafter of all Men. By Wm. Sheldon. 22 cts.
GOOD TIDINGS. Cloth, 50 cts. Postage, 16 cts. By express, $5.00 per dozen.
GREEK AND ENGLISH CONCORDANCE. By Hudson and Hastings. Cloth, $2.50; leather, $3.50; postage, 12 cts.
HYMNS OF JUBILEE HARP. Cloth, sprinkled edges, $7.00 per dozen; $55.00 per hundred; single, 75 cts. Leather, gilt edge, $9.50 per dozen; $75.00 per hundred; single, $1.00; postage 15 cts. single copy.
IMMORTALITY. By J. H. Whitmore. Cloth, $1.00.
IS IT HERESY? By J. Couch. 15 cts. per doz.
JUBILEE HARP, Hymn, and Tune Book. Plain cloth, leather back, colored edge, $9.00 per doz.; single, $1.00. Extra cloth, leather back, gilt edge, $10.50 per dozen; single $1.15. Extra cloth, leather back, gilt edge and covers, $12 per doz.; single, $1.25. Postage 12 cts. single copy.
HISTORY OF THE ADVENT MESSAGE. By I. C. Wellcome. Price $3.50
JUDGMENT IMPENDING. By L. T. Cunningham. 8 cts.; 75 cts. per doz.; $5.00 per hundred
MATTHEW 24 and 25. An Exposition. By I. C. Wellcome. 27 cts.
PILGRIM PSALMS. Sunday-school Hymn and Tune Book. Paper covers, $3.00 per dozen; stiff covers, $3.60.
PREPARE TO MEET THY GOD. Behold, the Judge standeth before the door. 10 cts per dozen; 40 cts. per hundred.
REASONS FOR MY HOPE; or, Tokens of Redemption. By H. L. Hastings. 25 cts.
SCRIPTURAL QUESTION-BOOK. Single, 17 cts.; per dozen, by express, $1.25; by mail, $1.60.
SYMBOLIZATION of the World's Eventful Crisis. By O. R. Fassett. 4 cts; 20 cts. per dozen.
SPIRITUALISM UNVEILED. By M. Grant. 15 cts; 8 copies, $1.00; $10.00 per hundred.
THE End of the King of the North and the Impending time of Trouble. By L. T. Cunningham. 48 pages; 8 cts; 75 cts. per dozen; $5.00 per hundred.
THE Bible Text-Book. For Ministers, Teachers, and Students. 50 cts.
THE Plan of Redemption. By Wellcome & Goud. $1.25.
The Nature of Man. By M. Grant and others. 25 cts; $2 25 per dozen.
The Emphatic Diaglott. Containing the original Greek Text of the New Testament, according to the recension of Griesbach; with an interlinear word-for-word translation. Cloth, $4.10; leather back, $5.16.
The First-day Sabbath. By T. M. Preble. $1 50.
The Destiny of Man. By W. Erwin, $1.35; gilt, $1.65.
Trumpet for the Watchman. By Geo. Thomson. 20 cts. $1.75 per dozen; $11 00 per one hundred.
Who are Sadducees? By Geo. Thomson. 10 cts.
What is Man? By M. Grant. 6 cts.
Young Pilgrim Stories. Illustrated. By "Uncle Pilgrim." 2 vols., 50 cts. each.
Young Pilgrim Stories. Tract form. 30 cts. per dozen; $2.00 per hundred.
Yahveh-Christ. The Coming One. By L. T. Cunningham. 8 cts. 75 cts.
Is Christ's Second Coming in the Past? By Wm. Sheldon. 15 cts. per dozen; 60 cts. per hundred.

THE TRUE SABBATH.
WHICH DAY SHALL WE KEEP?
AN EXAMINATION OF
MRS. ELLEN G. WHITE'S VISIONS.
BY MILES GRANT.
ISSUED
BY THE ADV. CHRIS. PUB. SOCIETY,
A NEW WORK

On the Sabbath of the Old Covenant. An investigation of Mrs. E. G. White's Visions, showing that they are not from God.

All who have accepted Mrs. White's visions as coming from heaven, or who have been led to rest on Saturday instead of the Lord's day, should read this work. Let those who live among our Seventh-day brethren send and get a number of the books to give away. If the reader has friends at a distance who have received Mrs. W.'s Visions as true, have a copy of this work sent to them.

It contains 106 pages, and we will send it at the following prices: Single copy, 20 cts.; per doz., $1.75 by mail; per hundred, $10.00 by express. Agent.

A NEW TRACT.
ATHEISM CONFOUNDED,
AND
THE FACT OF GOD'S EXISTENCE ESTABLISHED.
BY A. W. SIBLEY.

A valuable little Tract of eight pages—just the thing to circulate in these times of unbelief and skepticism. Price by mail, 15 cents per dozen. Agent.

"THE MYSTERY EXPLAINED:
OR,
AN EXPOSITION OF THE WOMAN AND THE SCARLET-COLORED BEAST
In the 17th Chapter of Revelation.
SHOWING WE ARE NEAR THE END OF THE PRESENT DISPENSATION."
BY MILES GRANT.

This valuable and interesting tract is now ready, and for sale at this Office. Price by mail, single copy, 8 cts; four copies for 25 cts.; per dozen, 75 cts. Ag't.

TRUSTING.

Anywhere that Jesus calls me,
Any work he gives to do,
Any trial or affliction
He may call me to pass through,
My glad heart has the assurance
He will help me bear and do.

O the blessedness of trusting,
And the full heart satisfied!
O the holy joy of loving
Only Him, the Crucified!
Looking up with faith unwav'ring,
To the wounds in his dear side.

Peace abiding like a river,
Rest the world can never know,
Faith that sees the pitying Father
Whereso'er the feet may go—
Love uprising, filling, sweet'ning,
Every cup of pain and wo.

All my soul is filled with blessing
While I sit at His dear feet,
And a consciousness of serving
Makes the hallowed cross more sweet,
While I own thy full salvation,
And the cleansing all complete.

If the way be rough and thorny,
Thou did'st tread the same for me;
Shall the servant than his Master
More exempt from trial be?
If I may at last behold thee,
It will be enough for me.

—Selected.

THE SECOND COMING OF CHRIST.

Sketch of a Sermon delivered Sept. 19th, in the Seventeenth Street M E Church, by the Pastor, Rev. J. H. Lightbourn.

"And as he sat upon the Mount of Olives, the disciples came unto him privately, saying, Tell us, when shall these things be? and what shall be the sign of thy coming, and of the end of the world?"—Matt. 24: 3.

The "coming of the Son of man" and "the end of the world" are two of the most solemn and awful subjects found in the word of God. In the text, the disciples associate the coming of Christ with the end of the world, and inquire of the signs which shall foreshadow these events, substantially asking these questions: 1st. When shall Jerusalem be destroyed? 2d. What shall be the sign of thy return to the earth? 3d. When shall be the end of the world?

The destruction of Jerusalem has already transpired, and affords one of the strongest eternal proofs of the truth of the Christian religion. Everything which our Lord declared should come upon the temple, city, and people, has been literally fulfilled in the most wonderful and extraordinary manner. The other two events, the return of Christ to the earth, and the end of the world are yet to come. And as certainly as the first has been fulfilled, so certainly will the other two events yet transpire. As certainly as Christ once came to earth so certainly will he come again, and the world have an end. Before inquiring concerning the time or signs of the coming of the Son of man, it is proper that we inquire into the teachings of Scripture upon the subjects themselves.

We shall confine ourselves this evening to the coming of Christ. The second advent of Christ was one of the first utterances of prophecy, and one of the last that lingered upon its lips. Enoch, the first prophet, and John the last of the divinely inspired apostles, distinctly announced the second advent of Christ to the earth. In this chapter, Christ no less than six times distinctly refers to his return to the world. No believer in revelation can be a disbeliever upon this subject. While, however, all christians agree that Christ will come the second time, there are differences of opinion with regard to the manner of his coming.

1. It is held by some that his second advent will not be a personal and visible coming, but a providential and spiritual manifestation.

The Scriptures as clearly teach that the second advent of Christ is to be a personal, visible coming, as that the first advent was personal and visible. If there were no other passage but that in the first chapter of Acts, the question is settled forever. After the Redeemer has given the most positive and repeated assurances of his return to the world in person, declaring that his very murderers should see him, "he was taken up and a cloud received him out of their sight." Out of that cloud two angels, like two sparkling drops descended, and thus addressed the disciples who were silently gazing up into heaven, "Ye men of Galilee, why stand ye gazing up into heaven? this same Jesus which is taken up from you into heaven, shall so come in like manner as ye have seen him go up into heaven." Vs. 11. "This same Jesus"—not his spiritual presence, that never departed from them—"shall so come." How? "In like manner as ye have seen him go up." How was that? Personally and visibly. There is no meaning in words, and there are no fixed principles for the interpretation of language, if the personal, visible coming of Christ is not taught in this passage.

2. Another opinion is that Christ will come in person and be seen in the clouds and with the holy angels, but that he will not return to the earth; that he will set his throne in the air, there summon the universe before his tribunal, and after burning up the earth and pronouncing the sentence of eternal punishment upon the wicked, he will gather his saints and take them to heaven from whence he came, and thus come and go without having set foot upon the earth.

The Scriptures assure us that Christ is to return to the earth, that he shall stand upon the earth, that "he shall reign with his saints upon the earth." He is to return to that from which he departed. He did not depart from the air, but from the earth. Here on this earth, where he was born, where he lived thirty-three years, where he died, and from which he ascended, to this very earth he is to return, not to annihilate it, but to pass it through its baptism of fire, and bring it out a "new earth." This earth that gave him a manger will, upon his return, give him a throne. This earth that drank his tears and blood will by acclamation proclaim him "King of kings and Lord of lords."

The above sermon is from Union in Christ, and will soon be issued in tract form, which we offer below at the publisher's prices. Coming from a minister of the M. E. Church, it will be read by many who would not otherwise receive the truth. May they be widely circulated, and do much good.

Union revival tracts, sermons by D. L. Moody and others. Now ready, "Christ died for Me," by D. L. Moody, and "The Second Coming of Christ," by Rev. J. H. Lightbourn, Pastor of the 17th Street M. E. Church, New York City.

Price of a single four-page tract one cent; by mail, two cents. A dozen tracts sent postpaid for 10 cts; 100 for 50; 250 for $1.00; 600, by express $2, or by mail, $2 50; 1,000 by express only, $3.00; 5,000 by express only $14 00.

☞ For sale at this Office.

GENUINE repentance restores and rectifies past wrongs as far as it can be done, and prays for pardon for having done those wrongs, as well as for the wrongs which cannot be righted by the sinner, but by the merciful Father in a full pardon.

CONFERENCE REPORT.

The annual meeting of the Advent Christian Conference of Northern Pa. and Southern N. Y. met according to appointment at Little Marsh, Tioga Co., Pa., Thursday evening, Oct. 14th, 1875. Prayer was offered by Bro. W. Fletcher. The opening discourse was preached by Bro. H. Ziegenfuss from Lam. 3: 26.

Friday, 9 A. M., met for business. Opened with singing and prayer. The following ministers were present: E. C. Cowles, B. Butler, D. B. Hunt, E. H. Eggleston, A. H. Briggs, W. Fletcher, H. Ziegenfuss, I. Slocum. The following churches were represented by their delegates: Westfield, A. Malory; collection, $2.70. South Creek, W. Johnson; collection, $2.50. Little Marsh, S. Mosher and R. Kelsey; collection, $2.70. Ward, W. Fletcher.

The following committees were appointed: Business—B. Butler, D. B. Hunt, R. Kelsey. Devotional—E. A. Keeler, S. Gardner, W. Johnson. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: E. C. Cowles, President; E. H. Eggleston, Vice President; H. Ziegenfuss, Secretary; S. Gardner, Treasurer.

The reports of the ministers were listened to with interest, and were in the main encouraging. All manifested a disposition to press the battle with renewed zeal and energy. The reports of the churches were not as encouraging as might have been, but all are holding on to the blessed hope, and trusting for better times.

At 2 P. M., preaching by Bro. D. B. Hunt, from John 3: 15, 16, after which a business session was held and the following resolutions passed:—

Resolved (1), That the annual meeting of this Conference shall be held in Sept., and two semi-annual meetings to be held respectively in Jan. and June of the ensuing year.

2. It shall be the duty of each church belonging to this Conference to report at each session by delegate.

A. H. Briggs, W. Fletcher, H. Ziegenfuss, were appointed a committee on finance.

Friday evening, met at an early hour for prayer and conference, and many soul-cheering testimonies were given for Jesus and the hope of the christian, after which we listened to an interesting discourse by Bro. W. Fletcher, from 1 Cor. 2: 1.

Saturday, nine A. M., met for business. Treasurer reported amount in hand $19.95, including a private donation of $10, by Bro. George Henson.

The following resolution in relation to Bro. W. Marlatt was passed:

Resolved, That whereas Bro. W. Marlatt has not complied with the rules of this Conference in regard to reporting, we drop his name from the Conference roll.

Voted, that we empower the finance committee to draw on the Treasurer for such funds as may in their judgment be necessary, and disburse the same to their best judgment.

Voted, that Brn. A. H. Briggs and E. H. Eggleston be a committee to visit Fremont and Turner Creek churches.

Voted, that the minutes of this Conference be published in the World's Crisis and Advent Christian Times.

2 P. M. Met for worship, fellowship meeting. Preaching by Bro. G. Henson, from Matt. 5: 5, which encouraged all to make sure work for the kingdom, after which a blessed season was enjoyed, speaking of the things which pertain to the kingdom of God, in which all felt a lively interest.

In the evening met again in good season to encourage one another, and to pray for sustaining grace in these perilous times. Preaching by Bro. B. Butler, from James 5: 7, 8, which was meat in due season, and cheering to all.

Sunday, 9 A. M., met for prayer and conference; had a heavenly sitting together, after which we listened to a spirited discourse by Bro. A. H. Briggs, from Acts 2: 37, clearly showing what we must do to secure salvation; after which the Lord's Supper was administered; then sung a hymn and repaired to the water, and Bro. A. H. Briggs buried one happy mortal soul in the likeness of our Lord's death, burial and resurrection to a blissful immortality.

Sunday evening met early for prayer and conference. All felt to say from the heart, It is good for us to be here. We then enjoyed a feast of fat things as Bro. E. C. Cowles discoursed to us from Ps. 45: 14.

We have just grounds for rejoicing in view of the fact that this meeting was characterized throughout by the best of feeling; love, peace, harmony and good-will were the ruling motives of every heart. Such a meeting cannot fail to exert a healthy influence in the community, and may the Lord strengthen us for future combat with the powers of darkness, and awaken all to a renewed sense of their responsibility to God and this generation to work mightily for God; for the great day of God Almighty is at hand.

H. ZIEGENFUSS, Secretary.

HEAVENLY MANNA.

The sanctified heart is continually being fed with manna that cometh down from heaven. He is ever seeking to do good, and is at work in the vineyard of the Lord, and therefore, according to promise, he is the recipient of this blessed food, that fills his heart with joy and with the Holy Ghost. Wherever he may be, he never permits an opportunity to escape him of telling the wondrous story of Jesus, and his power to save. And while he is unfolding the story, be it to the sinner or believer, this blessed manna is imparted to him, and he becomes animated under its refreshing influence. His very countenance becomes illuminated, and while he makes the effort to hold up Jesus, he realizes that the word is applied by the blessed Holy Spirit with power. And he is also assured in his heart that it shall not return void, but shall yield the peaceable fruits of righteousness. And so it is in all his efforts, he is continually receiving and imparting. While others might become weary in well doing, it is a constant source of joy to him to be engaged in the work of the blessed Master. . . .

Then let us, like the children of Israel, gather fresh supplies of this heavenly manna every day, and become strong in Christ Jesus our Lord. He is the bread of life to our hungry souls, and we may feed upon him at all times, and while we do this we shall be able to rejoice evermore. He will give unto us the joy of his salvation, so that we may be able to lead sinners to repentance, and believers to accept all the fulness that is found in Jesus. Blessed be his holy name, he does not expect while we feed upon him to give us in return a joyless and unfruitful life! It is his good pleasure that we should go over and possess the promised land. There Jesus dwells and reigns triumphantly over all things, having a storehouse overflowing with joy, peace and happiness. And there the Holy Ghost may be possessed in all his rich fulness, by simply asking and believing.—Advocate of Christian Holiness.

HEALING.

For the benefit of those who do not believe in direct answer to prayer in healing the sick, I send a piece from a secular paper.

THE PRAYER CURE.

A young lady of Harrisburg—Miss Minnie H. Walters—spoke in a prayer meeting a few days since, relating a remarkable cure, which she attributes directly to the interposition of Christ. The occurrence, related by the lady in detail, in private conversation, is to the effect that over two years ago she was afflicted with a spinal disease, so seriously that she could scarcely move a finger, and she was confined to a couch purposely suited for the disease. Nearly two years ago, she became convinced that she needed closer consecration to Christ; in other words, she desired the blessing of sanctification. She prayed earnestly without avail. Something seemed to tell her that consecration of body as well as spirit was required, and it was revealed to her that she should be healed. Thirteen months passed, and no result.

On the twenty-sixth of January last, she once more resolved to pray more earnestly for the fulfillment of the revelation. While praying, the promise came to her—"Whatsoever thou wilt, ask, and it shall be given." She prayed first for her heart purity, and next for bodily health. The word came—"Rise up and walk," and to her great relief, she found herself in apparent health. The next morning the doctor found her restored to health, without any need of medical attendance.

Her statement yesterday, was corroborated by four other persons acquainted with the circumstances, who rejoiced with her over her restoration to heath, which she unwaveringly believes to have resulted from the stretching forth of Christ's hand in reward for her great faith.

O for more faith among the lovers of the Lord, for a consolidation into one, as the Father and Son are one. O for union in the church, among preachers and people. Lord, help us to look around us, and see what the Lord would have us do.—Selected by Martha Trask, Chicago.

BIBLE HOLINESS.

B. PERHAM.

WHAT IS IT?

If it refers to the supreme Being, he is pure and holy in every attribute. He is perfect in love, perfect in wisdom, and almighty in power. But we see so many faults in ourselves, that we often cry out, "Unclean. God be merciful to us sinners." We cannot attain to angelic holiness in this mortal state of existence, and we cannot be perfect gods; but we can be perfect christians. The Savior said to his followers—"Be ye perfect, even as your Father in heaven is perfect." The Savior had just been teaching the people and his followers the rules of the gospel, or what perfect holiness was; showing them that they must live up to those rules exactly.

But what say the different inspired writers of the Bible? Let us see. Gen. 17: 1—"Walk before me, and be thou perfect." Job 1: 1—"Job was a perfect and upright man." Ps. 37: 37—"Mark the perfect man, and behold the upright; for the end of that man is peace." Matt. 19: 21—"If thou wilt be perfect, sell that thou hast and give to the poor." 1 Cor. 2: 6—"Howbeit, we speak wisdom among them that are perfect." 2 Cor. 12: 9—"And he said unto me, My grace is sufficient for thee; for my strength is made perfect in weakness." Here we see that our perfection is derived from the great Fountain. 2 Cor. 13: 11—"Finally, brethren, farewell; be perfect, be of good comfort, be of one mind." Phil. 3: 15—"Let us, therefore, as many as be perfect, be thus minded." Col. 1: 28, last clause—"That we may present every man perfect in Christ Jesus." Col. 4: 12, last clause—"That ye may stand perfect and complete in all the will of God." 2 Tim. 3: 17—"That the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works." We can see from the word of God that we can be perfect in Christ, and we can do all things that we are commanded to do, in the strength and by the assistance of Christ.

Now we will examine into the spiritual part of holiness. In the first place, I would just say that what I have written refers mostly to personal acts of obedience to God by the follower of Christ, who has made a full dedication of himself to the dear Savior. In this way the whole person is sanctified to God, or set aside or apart for his service. But in all this the mind, or intellectual part, must be so changed by the operation of the Holy Ghost, that there will be a perfect union with the Father and Son, and then the saint will delight in doing just what God requires him to do. We understand, by the words of the great apostle to the Gentiles, that "to be carnally minded is death; but to be spiritually minded is life and peace." And, of course, if they who profess to be the humble and devout followers of Christ have the Spirit of God, as an abiding witness, they will be led by that Spirit, and will have no condemnation, but will be free from the law of sin and death.

The fact in the case is this: if a person is sanctified, soul, body and spirit, or wholly set apart to the service of God, he will have the Spirit of God to lead and guide him constantly; for the Spirit of God will operate like the mainspring of a watch, that keeps all the wheels in motion. But, take notice, kind reader, "the inward man is renewed day by day"; so that we must ask the good Lord to give us a fresh anointing of his tender and loving Spirit every day, and several times a day; and also to fill us with his love, or that charity that vaunteth not itself, is not puffed up, and never faileth. When we are really fitted for the service of God, by the operation of the Holy Ghost, we shall not feel like boasting of our own strength, or wisdom, or our own righteousness; for we shall have such a view of the purity and holiness of Deity, and such a view of our own unworthiness, that we shall wish to get down very low, and hardly dare to look up.

The perfection of the saints is wholeness in obedience to all the requirements of God. When the inner man is sanctified, and renewed day by day, and the hands and feet and tongue and pocket and head and eyes are set apart, or sanctified to God, then the person will grow in grace, or favor with God; for he is then prepared to add to his faith virtue, or boldness; and to virtue, knowledge; and to knowledge, temperance; and to temperance, patience; and to patience, godliness; and to godliness, brotherly kindness; and to brotherly kindness, charity; and then he will not be barren or unfruitful in the service of God. Such a person will not give the cold shoulder to a poor brother or sister; neither will he tie up his purse-strings so tight that he cannot untie them, when he sees a poor brother or sister in distress and in want; and he will have feelings for the poor, sick preachers, that will reach clear down into his pocket. But, while a brother or sister is in this heavenly frame of mind, Satan will make some powerful attacks upon them, and they will have to be on their guard; for he will try to make them think too highly of themselves, and thus work their minds into a boasting frame.

St. Paul had to labor to keep his body under, lest he "should become a castaway." As long as we keep in the popular channel, Satan will not trouble us much; but, if we get into the path of holiness, and get down into the valley of humiliation, where we can work for God and do some good, then Satan will attack us with all his might. Look out for him; and may the good Lord help us to keep in the path of holy obedience unto him.

Vernon, Vt.

THE BIBLE AND CREEDS.

It is not to be assumed by the christian or the infidel, that we have in fact, in our creeds and in our interpretation of the Bible, precisely the system that was revealed. That we have the true record in the Bible we are to believe, and the infidel may hold us to that; but that we have the proper interpretation of that record is not to be assumed as certain.

Christianity has been transmitted to us from a far distant age. It has come in contact with all the philosophical systems in the world. Its outward form has been much molded by philosophy—much by its alliance with the State. The synods and councils that have determined the creeds of the church have been, like other assemblies, composed of imperfect men—often of men more under the influence of philosophy than religion; often ignorant of the plainest rules of exegesis; and often seeking rather to establish a hierarchy than to promote the kingdom of Christ. As a matter of fact, we know that during that long period there is no absurdity of doctrine or interpretation which has not been embraced by the church; almost no error which has not been sanctioned by the synods and councils; almost no truth the belief of which has not exposed him who held it to persecution by the church itself.

Christianity has thus come down to us through the descent of eighteen centuries, collecting in its progress whatever of good or bad there might be that could in any way be made to adhere to it; adopting as its own the opinions in mental philosophy, and the doctrines of conscience, true or false, which have prevailed in the world; and uniting all in its symbols of faith, taking the church at large, a vast and monstrous conglomeration of original sacred truth, and of the error and of the absurdities which the world has accumulated in the lapse of ages.

It is a ship, not now sailing out of port, fresh, and new, and clean, but one that has collected in distant seas, whatever of barnacles and sea-weed could be made to adhere to it. Those barnacles and that sea-weed must be detached from it if the ship is to made to traverse safely distant seas again. A great part of the work of the church in modern times, has been to detach from it the errors and corruptions which it had accumulated in the long period of its history. This was, in fact, the main service which Luther rendered to the church, restoring it in a great measure to its pristine beauty, and purity, and vigor.

This is the service which has been rendered by modern sacred criticism: this is the work to be done by the efforts to secure a correct text of the Bible; this is the work to be done by the application of the canons of criticism to the word of God.—Albert Barnes.

A LITTLE OF MY EXPERIENCE.

NELLIE M. TRIPP.

As the request has been made for brethren and sisters to write short letters on experience, I felt impressed to write some of mine. When I was eleven years old, I trust I gave my heart to God; but I wandered away from him. Then I started, I think, twice again, while my folks were Baptists; but I never got abiding peace while there. The last time I was interested there, a number started, and some were baptized, and I should probably have been if there had not been trouble in the church at the time.

In the summer of 1872, Bro. Lowe, from Highlandville, came to Lyman, and commenced meetings not far from my father's house. I went part of the time, but after a while I became interested. The Spirit of the Lord got hold of me. Bro. Lowe preached from the chart on the four universal kingdoms, and that the God of heaven was about to set up a kingdom that should never be destroyed. It looked reasonable to me. I believed, before Bro. Lowe came, that the world was coming to an end sometime, but did not think it was so near. I can thank the Lord with all my heart that he ever sent Bro. Lowe here. His preaching affected me so that I could not help weeping. I was troubled. I felt as though I was not ready to meet the Lord. I remember one afternoon, after Bro. Lowe got through preaching, I arose and told them that I had started and gone back, and I was afraid to start again.

Well, time passed on a few weeks, and one Sunday, after the afternoon meeting, I took my Bible and went out alone. While I was going, I opened my Bible, and my eye fell upon these words: "Let him that nameth the name of Christ depart from iniquity." I prayed to the good Lord, and that night I started to serve him, and was soon after baptized. I have tried to serve him faithfully ever since.

The Lord has suffered me to pass through deep trial, darkness, and despair; but it was for my good and his glory; and I can praise him with all my heart, that he has led me just as he has, though it seemed hard, while I was passing through the furnace, for I felt at times as though the Lord had left me; but he had not, praise his dear name! Daniel says that "in the time of the end, many shall be purified and made white, and tried."

Last winter, I used to read in the Crisis about those who had been sanctified, and I had a desire to be, and I tried to give all to the Lord, and lay all on the altar; but I did not get free. The Lord took my case into his hands, and he has led me in a truly wonderful way, and to-day I stand free in Christ,—no condemnation resting upon me; and it is a blessed place to be in. No doubts or fears, but perfect trust in Jesus. I am the Lord's for time and for eternity, let what will come. I have left all to follow Christ, and am ready to go where he bids me. I feel to leave all in his keeping, knowing that he doeth all things well. I expect with all my heart to be saved when he comes, and I want to do all I can for him until he does come. "Not every one that saith unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven; but he that doeth the will of my Father in heaven." So said the Savior when here on earth.

Brethren and sisters, be strong in the Lord, and in the power of his might. "Wherefore, take unto you the whole armor of God, that ye may be able to withstand in the evil day, and having done all, to stand." Backslider, stop wandering, and come back to Father's house, where there is bread enough and to spare.

A few words to the poor sinner. Oh! how I pity those who are going on disregarding God and his blessed word. If you could see your dangerous condition, while out of Christ, as I did, it seems as if you would stop and consider upon your ways, and repent, and turn unto the Lord, and live. He will not turn any empty away that come in the all-prevailing name of Jesus. He says whoever will may come, and take of the water of life freely; so there has been as much provision made for another, but all will not accept. If they will not accept salvation, the Lord cannot save them. Oh! dear sinner, be wise, and choose Christ for your friend, that when the storm beats upon this sin-cursed earth, you may find refuge in him.

Alfred, Maine.

IN MEMORIAM.

ELLA M. LUNT.

Written in memory of Bro. John Allen, who fell asleep in Jesus suddenly, yet peacefully, Sept. 9th, 1875, for dear Sr. Allen.

O cruel death, thou hast been here,
And taken one so dear,
And laid him in the cold, dark grave,
Till Jesus shall appear.

Our home is dark, our hearts are sad,
Fast falls the briny tear;
We miss his voice, we miss his step,
We used so oft to hear.

We miss him at the morning prayers,
His place we cannot fill,
Yet still we bow our hearts to trust
Our heavenly Father's will.

His life is hid with Christ in God,
And when death's reign is o'er,
Then he arising from the tomb,
Shall fade and die no more.

O, sister dear, let faith prevail,
And bid thy weeping cease;
Let prayer ascend to God for grace,
He'll give thee perfect peace.

This night of death is almost o'er,
The Sun will soon arise,
Ere long the voice of God we'll hear,
Descending from the skies.

Then "Laurel Hill" her trust must yield,
She cannot hold her claim,
For Christ who died that they might live,
Is come on earth to reign.

Biddeford, Me., Oct 18th, 1875.

HOAG'S VISION.

"In the year 1803, in the eighth or ninth month, I was one day alone in the field, and observed that the sun shone clear, but a mist eclipsed its brightness. As I reflected upon the singularity of the event, my mind was struck into a silence, the most solemn I ever remember to have witnessed, for all my faculties were low, and unusually brought into deep silence. I said to myself, what can all this mean? I do not recollect ever before to have been sensible of such feelings. And I heard a voice from heaven saying—"This which thou seest is a sign of the present coming times. I took the forefathers of this country from a land of oppression; I planted them here among the people of the forest; I sustained them, and while they were humble, I blessed them and fed them, and they became a numerous people. But they have now become proud and forgotten me, who nourished them and protected them in the wilderness, and are running into every abomination and evil practice, of which the old countries are guilty, and have taken quietude from the land, and suffered a dividing spirit to come among them.

"Lift up thine eyes and behold." And I saw them dividing in great heat. The division began in the churches, on points of doctrine. It commenced in the Presbyterian society, and went through the various religious denominations, and in its progress and close its effects were the same. Those who dissented, went off with high heads and taunting language, and those who kept to their original sentiment, appeared exercised and sorrowful. And when the dividing spirit entered the Society of Friends, it raged in as high degree as in any I had noticed or before discovered, and as before, those who separated went off with lofty looks and taunting censuring language. Those who kept their ancient principles, retired by themselves.

It next appeared in the lodges of the Free Masons. It broke out in appearance like a volcano, inasmuch as it set the country in an uproar for a time. Then it entered politics throughout the United States, and did not stop until it produced a civil war. An abundance of blood was shed in the course of the contest; the Southern States lost their power, and slavery was annihilated from their borders. Then a monarchial power sprung up, took the government of the States, established a national religion, and made all societies tributary to pay its expenses. I saw them take property from friends. I was amazed at beholding all this, and I heard a voice proclaiming: "This power shall not always stand, but with it I will chastise my church until they return to the faithfulness of their forefathers. Thou seest what is coming upon thy native country for their iniquities, and the blood of Africa, the remembrance of which has come up before me.

"This vision is yet for many days. I had no idea of writing it for many years, until it became such a burden that, for my own relief I have written it."

THE man who has begun to live and work by artificial stimulant never knows where he stands, and can never count upon himself with any certainty. He gets into his castle a servant who becomes the most tyrannical of masters. He may resolve to turn him out, but will find himself reduced to the condition in which he can neither do with nor without him.

THE GREAT SUPPER.—Luke 14.

H. PRATT.

MR. MOODY GIVING OUT INVITATIONS.

"In the coming of this dispensation," says the speaker, "there is to be a royal feast, called the marriage supper of the Lamb. I would rather have my heart torn out of my body than not be at that supper. And when the invitation goes forth, they will all with one consent begin to make excuses. They'll make them, and the devil will help them." After showing up the foolishness of the excuses in the parable, he says: "Now let me say, there is not a man or woman present that can make so good excuse as either of them."

One man says, there are hypocrites in the church. I admit it. And you think that a sufficient excuse for staying away from the supper. Another, "If I am elected to be at the supper, I shall be there." You'll be there if you will. Whosoever will may come. It is the easiest thing in the world to accept, and it is the hardest.

But that man in the carriage says, "Moody contradicts himself." Let us see: My sister came up from Worcester to spend a few days with me, and took along her little two-year old boy. He seemed like a bird loosed from the cage. Through some mishap, it was necessary to call him to an account. And taking him from the table, his mother says,

"Now, Willie, you have been naughty; can't you say, Please, mamma, forgive me?"

"No, I can't."

"But you must say, Please, mamma, forgive me, or I must punish you."

"I can't, nor I won't," was the angry reply.

The father says, "Mother, put that boy to bed." So at eight o'clock, Thursday morning, the boy is put to bed. At noon the father goes up to the room, and says, "Willie, can't you now say, Please, mother, forgive me"?

"No, I can't."

He leaves him until night. Again he calls on Willie for a confession, but only gets, "No, I can't."

Early on Friday morning, after an almost sleepless night, the father goes up to the bedside, and says in a hopeful voice, "Now Willie can say, 'Please, mamma, forgive,' can't he?"

"No, I can't, and I won't."

Not much breakfast wanted that morning in that family. Noon came, with no better success. And when the long hours of the second day had worn away, and the mother could wait no longer, she came softly to the bed-side, and says, "Willie can now say, 'Please, mamma, forgive me,' can't he?" Looking up imploringly into the sad countenance of his mother, he says,

"No, mamma, I can't." Hopefully she says, "You can say, 'Please'"; and he sobs out the word "Pease." "Now you can say, 'mamma'"; and less hesitatingly he says "mamma." "And now you can say, 'forgive'"; and he repeats the word "forgive." "You can say 'me'"; and unhesitatingly he says "me." Then with a bound he cries out, "I've said it, I've said it."

Putting on his clothes in haste, his mother says, "Where are you going?" "I am going to tell papa I have said it." Rushing into the shop, he says, "Papa, I've said it." "What have you said, my son?" "I have said, Please, mamma, forgive me."

Don't you see it is the easiest and hardest thing in the world to confess and come to Christ?

Another says it is a hard thing to be a Christian. It is the devil's lie. Another, I don't feel right. Suppose Mr. Alexander should invite me to dinner to-morrow, and I say to him, "I don't feel like it." Are you unwell? he asks. "No, I was never better in all my life." What would he think of it? What would you think of it, if your neighbor should tell you he did not feel like coming to your house to dine?

Another says you must work out your salvation. But let me tell you, you must get it in you, before you can work it out. When I was a young man I went to Boston, and got out of money, and I had the promise from my younger sister, that I should have a letter on a certain day. I was very anxious to hear from home, so I went to the post-office very early, and although I knew that the mail came only in the morning and at evening, I went to the office five or six times, and inquired for a letter. It came at last. I tore off the envelope as soon as I got out doors, and what do you think I got from home? Hear it: "Dear brother, I have heard that there were pickpockets in Boston, and I hope you will be careful that they do not pick your pocket. So good bye."

Waving further inquiry, I now make the following proposition for you to sign:

Northfield, Sept. 12th, 1875. To the King of kings and Lord of lords: Your servant was here to-day and with much earnestness invited me to the marriage supper. I pray thee, have me excused. When deep solemnity seemed to pervade all hearts, and a painful stillness rested everywhere, he said: Let me change this somewhat, then see if I can get some to sign it.

Northfield, Sept. 12th, 1875. To the King of kings and Lord of lords: Your servant was here to-day, and earnestly entreated me to come to the marriage supper. I accept the invitation. Who will sign that? When a breathless anxiety seemed resting upon the people to hear a multitude say "I," he said: When I was in Glasgow, Scotland, I made this proposition the last night of our meetings. A lady in the gallery says, "I accept the invitation." A few weeks later, when I was in London, I received the following letter from her father. Taking it from his pocket, he read:

Glasgow, March 18th, 1874. Dear Bro.: Although my daughter accepted the invitation to the marriage supper heartily, and for a few days rejoiced in her Savior, she now sleeps in death. WM. HAMILTON.

Oh, my friend, accept to-day. It may be the last invitation you will ever have. Scarcely had Mr. Moody's voice died upon the ear, when Prof. Bliss commenced singing "Almost persuaded." When he closed, and the benediction was pronounced, the congregation moved away like mourners from a grave-yard.

P. S.—One excuse which was suggested, and, in condensing, I have omitted, was as follows: That man by the tree says, "I don't believe the Bible." You don't! Let me say to you, sooner than you expect, you will have to take your position, either for or against. The controversy will be right on this question. On the one side will be the word of God and his army; and on the other the devil and his army. O friends, decide to-day to be for Christ.

HOME AND HEALTH.

CHRISTIAN ADORNING.

Dear Brethren and Sisters:—While reading in the Crisis about christian adorning, hear what the little daughter said to her mother. She was the grand-daughter of a good old brother who lived in our place. While her mother was about to embroider a nice dress for her, which she was not in the habit of doing, the little girl cried, and did not want her mother to do it; "for," said she, "God does not look at the dress, but he looks at the heart."

Dear reader, it appears there was no root in the child's heart for dressing in fashion. We hear it said sometimes that all the flowers that grow have a root. Now, dear christians, if any of us have a root like this in our hearts, let us go right to Jesus, and ask him to kill the root, and then it will not spring up in our heads, nor on our feet; but having good, warm, neat, plain raiment, let us be therewith content, and thank God for it.

J. F. EMERSON.

West Levant, Me.

SUNSHINE.

Whoever has been privileged to hear Professor Youman's delightful lecture on the chemistry of the sunbeam, cannot have forgotten his computation of the sun's great mechanical and chemical power. And any housekeeper who has brought her pale, drooping plants from the cellar after their winter's retirement, and has watched them gradually straighten themselves up, and deepen and brighten their color, and send out new growths, must have been impressed anew with the sun's wonderfully stimulating power.

We cannot doubt that human beings are as susceptible as plants are to the kindly influence of sunshine. How the little children thrive in it and would gladly throw away hats and bonnets that rob them of a share of it; and we know of one mother who found her tiny daughter indulging in a sun-bath, not, of course, because she thought it would be good for her, but from sheer pity for her "poor little feet and legs and body that never had any sunshine." A day of hard work in the school-room or the store or kitchen leaves us tired, and perhaps discouraged about our work, and with the feeling that it is a hard, thankless world, without any good place in it for us. When our spirits have reached this low water mark, let us go out of doors, where the sun may shine full upon us, and in due time his magic power upon our worn nerves will have made a new world for us, and our own place in it the best of all.

Happy the woman and happy her household whose carpets and complexion do not keep her in the shadow of a false economy or a false pride, but whose windows and face and soul are wide open to the sun.—Northampton Journal.

JOHN AND THE POSTAGE STAMP.

John was a boy who "lived out." Every week he wrote home to his mother, who lived on a small rocky farm among the hills. One day, John picked up an old envelope from the kitchen wood box, and saw that the postage stamp on it was not touched by the postmaster's stamp, to show that it had done its duty, and was henceforth useless. "The postmaster missed his aim then," said John, "and left the stamp as good as new. I'll use it myself."

He moistened it at the nose of the tea-kettle, and carefully pulled the stamp off.

"No," said conscience, "for that would be cheating. The stamp has been on one letter; it ought not to carry another."

"It can carry another," said John, "because, you see, there is no mark to prove it worthless. The post-office will not know."

"But you know," said conscience, "and that is enough. It is not honest to use it a second time. It is a little matter, to be sure; but it is cheating. God looks for principle. It is the quality of every action which he judges by."

"But no one will know it," said John, faintly.

"No one!" cried conscience, "God will know it; that is enough; and he, you know, desires truth in the inward parts."

"Yes," cried all the parts of John's character, "yes it's cheating to use the postage stamp the second time, and I will not do it."

John tore it in two and gave it to the winds. The boy won a glorious victory.

A LITTLE HERO.

While passing along Washington street one evening, my attention was arrested by a little newsboy, who said to his companion:

"Say, Charlie, how much money have you made to-day?"

"Twenty-five cents."

"Jolly, is that so? Don't tell your mother how much you have made; keep part of it yourself."

The little fellow straightened up, and with great earnestness, exclaimed:

"Do you think I'd tell my mother a lie?"

Noble little fellow! If he abides by that principle of truth, he may rise from his humble position to one of usefulness and honor. Honest boys make honest men, and honest men make happy homes, good citizens, fair dealers, true christians, and just legislators; while dishonesty fills the land with suffering and wickedness, and peoples jails and prisons with both young and old. Could granite walls and iron bars speak to us, they would tell us the sad fate of thousands who began their downward career by thieving and lying.—Watchman and Reflector.

To invigorate the system, obey the laws of health in every respect.

The World's Crisis AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

RULES FOR CORRESPONDENTS.

Over all matters not intended for publication, write:—PRIVATE.

Over all business matters, write:—BUSINESS.

Over all articles intended for the paper, write:—For the Crisis.

☞ Put business matters and appointments on separate pieces of paper, or so that they can be detached without interfering with any other communication.

When the names of NEW subscribers are sent, please say they are NEW, and it will save much labor.

All articles should be accompanied by the writer's NAME, for the Editor's information, even if it is not published.

PRIVATE LETTERS.—Those wishing to address the Editor on matters not connected with the office, please write PRIVATE on the outside of the envelope.

☞ All persons writing to the office should give distinctly and plainly the POST OFFICE, COUNTY and STATE at which they wish to be addressed; and all orders, subscriptions, communications and remittances, should be plainly directed to

☞ "THE WORLD'S CRISIS," Boston, Mass.

PUBLISHED ALSO AT THE SAME OFFICE, Semi-monthly,

THE YOUNG PILGRIM

An Illustrated Sunday-School Paper,

FOR CHILDREN AND YOUTH.

TERMS: ☞ Payable always in advance.

Single copy, 50 cts. a year; and at the same rates or any number of copies under ten.

Ten copies, and any larger number under fifty, when sent to one address, 40 cts. a year for each copy.

Fifty copies, and any number over fifty, when sent to one address, 35 cts. a year for each copy.

To Canada subscribers at the same rates. No extra charge for American postage.

☞ All communications, orders, and remittances should be addressed to

"THE YOUNG PILGRIM," Boston, Mass.

The World's Crisis

AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

"BEHOLD I COME QUICKLY; AND MY REWARD IS WITH ME."

WHOLE NO. 1043. BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 10, 1875. VOL. XLII.—NO. 4.

The World's Crisis,
AND
SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER,
Issued every Wednesday Afternoon, by the
ADVENT CHRISTIAN PUBLICATION SOCIETY,
At No. 160 Hanover Street, Boston, Mass.
GEO. T. ADAMS,
TREASURER AND BUSINESS AGENT.

JOHN COUCH, MILES GRANT, } EDITORS.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE:
S. G. MATHEWSON, L. BOUTELL, WM. H. MITCHELL.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEE:
H. V. DAVIS, M. BATCHELOR, L. T. CUNNINGHAM, J. G. HAMBLIN, J. HEMENWAY.

The CRISIS is devoted to the exposition of all Bible truth; especially the doctrine of the immediate, personal coming and reign of Christ on the earth; holiness of heart; the unconscious state of the dead; their literal resurrection, and final destruction of the wicked.

THE SECOND COMING OF CHRIST.

The heading of this article is as attractive to some minds as it is repellant to others. It is attractive, because it is more animating to the christian to think of meeting Christ, and very soon, than to dwell upon his history as that of a divine person, once with us, now and for near two thousand years removed from us. There is something especially pleasant in his second coming, as it is described to be as visible as was his ascending from Olivet; as it brings him back, this side of the river of death, to meet us, instead of our crossing to meet him; and as it enables us to realize the satisfaction the apostle described as a "clothing upon," in place of being "unclothed;" a life descending from heaven, to transfigure and swallow up "mortality."

But the title above is to others repelling, as it suggests a less spiritual conception of Christianity; and contradicting the very letter in the gospels by fixing a date, not fixed in Holy Scripture, but left indeterminate, and described as the "lightning," sudden, instantaneous, and inexplicable. One extreme, however, generates another, and the very existence of extremes shows that there is a safe middle ground between.

Is it not obvious that those believers are in the wrong, who allow themselves to be so repelled by extravagances on this subject, that they do not make the second coming of our Lord a frequent and joyous contemplation? It was so to the apostles; it should be so to us, as the current language of the New Testament shows. . . .

The attitude of faith is that of listening to the foot-falls of an approaching Redeemer. Christians are described as those who "are waiting for the coming of the Lord Jesus Christ." They are "looking for that blessed hope, and the glorious appearing of the great God and our Savior, Jesus Christ." It is the obedience of faith, neither to postpone the second advent to a distant future, nor to say that it has actually come, or is coming at a specified date. Church history shows that where the coming of the Lord has been regarded as fixed in the deep future, at an infinite distance off, the christian life has been cold, and careless, and worldly. When, on the contrary, every crisis in the world's history has been regarded as a possible token of his near approach, a streak of light in the kindling east, a premonition of the cry, "Behold, he cometh!" it is a reviving of the faith of apostolic times in a respect in which it is a pattern for us, and in which it reflects the current and characteristic teaching of the New Testament, which ends with the testimony, "Surely, I come quickly." . . .

"Behold, he cometh with clouds; and every eye shall see him, and they also which pierced him, and all kindreds of the earth shall wail because of him." No dawn ever reddens in the east, but another dawn may spring above it; no sun rides upon the meridian, but another may eclipse it. And this expectation is ever before the church; all the future is bright with his coming; at all times it may be the next event. No christian may, consistently with Holy Writ, form a philosophy of history, which necessitates the postponement of the Lord's coming to a distant future. The faithful christian is one who "waits for the Lord," and heeds the warnings of his approach.

"Faith's ear, with awful, still delight,
Counts them like minute bells at night,
Keeping the heart awake till dawn of morn,
While to her funeral pile this aged world is borne."

If this be a just representation of the characteristic teachings of the New Testament on this subject, the christian should always associate the future with the coming of his Lord, his actual and visible coming, or some spiritual preparation for it. To his believing outlook every event has something to do with him, and may be a precursor of the advent. It is more in accordance with christian believing and living, to think of the coming of Christ, than the coming of death; near as the last is, the first may be nearer. If this sentiment seems to us strange and exaggerated, let us remember it did not seem so to the apostles and first christians; and this difference should teach us that we have insensibly drifted away from early and consecrated habits of thought. And is not this fact an argument for special thought on this subject? How strangely significant is our Lord's inquiry, "Nevertheless, when the Son of man cometh, shall he find faith on the earth?" If general forgetfulness and incredulity be a sign of his approach, it should make us more wakeful to the truth, "The Lord is at hand."—W. I. Buddington, in Church Union.

LET your religion be seen. Lamps do not talk, but they shine. A lighthouse beats no gong; and yet far over the water its friendly light is seen by the mariner.

THE IMMORTAL SOUL.

The subject of the immortal soul of man has been a bone of contention among philosophers and theologians for ages, and today it is as far from a settlement as it was three thousand years ago. The number of ways by which immortal souls are thought to be produced is almost equal to the number who have written upon the subject. For the present we will notice five of these opinions.

1. By pre-existence.
2. By immediate creation.
3. By transmission through the seed.
4. By being a part of God.
5. By the angels or spirits in heaven propagating spirits, and sending them to animate the bodies of all who are born into this world.

1. At the end of the six days' creation, when God finished all his works, he declared everything that he had made "very good." We believe God is a holy being, perfect and upright in all he does and says. If, then, the immortal soul of man existed anterior to the six days' creation, and is coeval with the existence of God, it must be among the things God called "very good," and cannot be a hardened sinner, exiled to this world, and doomed to live in a human body as a punishment for sins committed in a former state, as some philosophers hold. The Bible declares that "God made man upright." Eccl. 7:29.

If souls pre-existed, the first that entered the world were those of Adam and Eve. But God declares that these were "very good." Where, then, did sinful souls come from? Pythagoras was the first philosopher we know of who advanced this notion of the soul's pre-existence. He believed also in transmigration; that upon the death of the body the soul took up its abode in something else; it might be in a beast, a bird, a fish, a pumpkin, or a cabbage. Paul says, "The world by wisdom [that is, by philosophy] knew not God (1 Cor. 1:21); and also, "The times of this ignorance God winked at" (Acts 17:30); and that the heathen were "aliens from the commonwealth of Israel, and strangers from the covenants of promise, having no hope, and without God in the world." Eph. 2:12. If the great apostle of the Gentiles is to be relied upon, we should reject all this vain philosophy.

But where the immortal soul comes from the best and wisest of our doctors and pastors do not know. Socrates says, "It is an ancient tradition that our souls go to the other world, and return from that to this;" also that their number is definite; that "they cannot be increased, or diminished." For, says he, "That would be making immortal things out of mortal, which cannot be." So, then, the foundation of immortal-soulism is only a tradition. Socrates was not the originator of it, but he was the first who wrote upon it. It is a poor compliment to our modern theologians, that it was Socrates who made the discovery that "the immortal soul lives in the body like a man in a house;" and also, that it is the soul that thinks and governs the body. He says, "Nature requires that the soul command, and the body obey." There is nothing new under the sun. The entire stock in trade of immortal-soulism, which our pastors have on hand at present, is imported from the heathen.

Now, those who believe in the immortality of the soul must, to be consistent, believe in its pre-existence. If ancient philosophers were right in discovering its immortality, they were, also, of its pre-existence.

But if all men sinned in Adam, or are sinners on account of Adam's sin, then the souls of men did not pre-exist; because, to partake of Adam's sin, they must be in him at the time he sinned. But if the souls of men pre-existed, they were not in Adam. Why, then, do men die for Adam's sin? If Adam's sin is not the cause of death, what is the cause? . . . Paul says, "By one man sin entered into the world, and death by sin. . . . By one man's offence death reigned by one. . . . By the offence of one [man] judgment came upon all men to condemnation [of death]. . . . By one man's disobedience [the] many were made sinners." Rom. 5. "By man came death." . . . For as in Adam all die." 1 Cor. 15:21, 22. It is therefore evident, that all men are sinners and die on account of Adam's sin. The Pagan notion, that men's souls sinned in a pre-existent state, and that our earth is a penal colony for criminals of every grade, banished for sins committed in the spirit world, is an unmitigated fraud.

2. We notice next the theory of immediate creation; that is, that God creates a soul for every body born. This view would not appear so objectionable if all children were born in lawful wedlock; but does God provide souls at the behest of adulterers? The very thought is impious.

3. Another party supposes that immortality and immateriality are transmitted. But how can that which is mortal and material beget that which is immortal and immaterial? It involves a contradiction.

4. The soul is a part of God. This is a very popular view. But how can a part of God be born in sin? How can a part of God be banished to hell, and suffer endless torments?

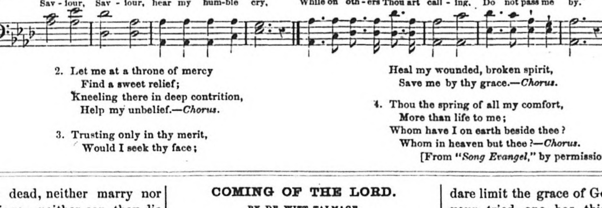
5. There is a sect that professes to believe that the angels in heaven beget all souls or spirits born into the world. This people have made a Bible for themselves, and have revelations every day; and this dogma is the fruit of one of those revelations. The answer that Jesus gave to the Sadducees will be sufficient to meet this: "The children of this world marry, and are given in marriage; but they which shall be accounted worthy to obtain that world, and the resurrection from the dead, neither marry nor are given in marriage; neither can they die any more; for they are equal unto the angels; and are the children of God, being the children of the resurrection." Here it is affirmed that there is no such relation as marriage in heaven. The resurrected saints will be equal unto the angels, and like them in immortality and singleness of life.

The dogma of pre-existence is of Pagan parentage; that of immediate creation is Roman Catholic; that of transmission, Protestant; that of the soul being a part of God is of Hindoo origin, but has been adopted by several of the Protestant denominations; that of the angelic origin of souls is a Mormon conceit, said to be founded on direct revelation from heaven. The reader can judge for himself.—Herald of Life.

PASS ME NOT.

FANNY J. CROSBY. 1858. W. H. DOANE.

From "Songs of Devotion," by per.



2. Let me at a throne of mercy
Find a sweet relief;
Kneeling there in deep contrition,
Help my unbelief.—Chorus.

3. Trusting only in thy merit,
Would I seek thy face;
Heal my wounded, broken spirit,
Save me by thy grace.—Chorus.

4. Thou the spring of all my comfort,
More than life to me;
Whom have I on earth beside thee?
Whom in heaven but thee?—Chorus.

[From "Song Evangel," by permission.

GEN. 1: 2.

J. P. MARQUAND.

"And the Spirit of God moved upon the face of the waters."

This is the first intimation we have of the Spirit; and, as it is a part of Deity, we are bound to respect and give heed to it. The text affirms the fact that the Spirit was the agent by which chaotic matter was brought into order, symmetry and beauty, and this world was created with its sun, moon, stars, oceans, rivers, mountains, trees; and also all animal matter, such as man, woman, beasts, and cattle. Not only was creation the offspring, or fruit of the Spirit, but also all the works of providence and grace. We modestly affirm that this Spirit was with the Father from all eternity, co-existent, co-eternal; and to this Spirit he addressed the words, "Let us make man." This Spirit was, so to speak, the companion of God, and was daily his delight, uncreated, and possessing all power and majesty.

Let us quote a few scriptures. Ps. 104:30—"Thou sendest forth thy Spirit, they are created, and thou renewest the face of the earth." Ps. 139:7—"Whither shall I go from thy Spirit? or whither shall I flee from thy presence?" Job 26:13—"By his Spirit he hath garnished the heavens." Zech. 4:6—"Not by might, nor by power, but by my Spirit, saith the Lord." In all the evidences of strength, wisdom, power, and love, we are constantly referred to the Spirit of God. Take the case of Samson, who was given strength to slay one thousand men with a jaw-bone of an ass. Take the case of Saul, who was anointed king over a great nation by the Spirit, and then, when he disobeyed, the Spirit was withdrawn, and he fell away. So also of David, who did great deeds, and was taught to play sweetly on the harp. Then we read of Solomon, to whom was given great wisdom. Then of all the prophets, who were taught by the Spirit to give commandments unto the people. Then coming down to the times of the New Testament, we have the birth of the Messiah explicitly stated, as the work of the Spirit of God, who was God-Father to the child. When he was thirty years old, the Spirit came and dwelt with him, enabling him to do great deeds; such as healing the sick, restoring sight to the blind, causing the lame to walk, and raising the dead. Christ did up his work as a missionary effectually until his death, and then, after his resurrection, he sent the Spirit of God in greater power upon his disciples, and qualified them to do great and heroic deeds. Then we have Paul, who was a bigoted Jew, converted thoroughly by the power of the Spirit of God. Read in his epistles what he says about the Spirit, especially the eighth chapter of Romans.

We have only glanced at this subject, hoping some brother or sister will write more fully. "It is the Spirit that quickeneth; the flesh profiteth nothing." "My words, they are Spirit, and they are life." "Quench not the Spirit." "Grieve not the Holy Spirit of God, whereby ye are sealed unto the day of redemption." "My Spirit shall not always strive with man." And then we have the book of Revelation written by John, who was "in the Spirit on the Lord's day." In this we have the history of the church and the world down to the second coming of our Lord to judge the quick and the dead, at his appearing and kingdom.

Dear reader, where are you on this subject? Does the Spirit of God dwell in your heart? Does it quicken and elevate your mind and affections to God and spiritual things? or are you living in sin, idleness, and pleasure, without God, and without hope? If the Spirit of God be grieved away from your breast, there is no other agent to bring you to God and repentance, and therefore you must die in your sins, and where Christ and holy beings live you never can come, but must go away into everlasting night. Are you willing to run so fearful a risk—to put in jeopardy your eternal interests? O, no. Be entreated to make your peace with God, by listening to the kind movings of his Spirit, and live.

COMING OF THE LORD.

BY DE WITT TALMAGE.

James 5:8—"The coming of the Lord draweth nigh." "To me it is the coming of a father; to another, like the executioner's footsteps. To me it is the breath of a June morning; to another, it is the blast of a December hurricane." "I do not see how God can afford to stay away any longer. It seems to me that this world has been mauled of sin about long enough."

"The church has made such slow headway against paganism, and Mohammedanism, and the fraud, and the libertinism, and the drunkenness, and the rapine, and the murder of the world, that there are now ten thousand hands stretched up beckoning God to come, and come now. . . . Corruption is in most of the city governments; corruption reaching from the weather-vane of the City Halls down to the lowest stone in the foundation. Thousands of men are anxiously waiting for Tweed, the apostle of scoundrelism, to get out of jail. Churches, with men in their membership not clean enough to swab the doorsteps of the pit; the theatres, huge houses of shame; three-fourths of the newspapers with their editors, reporters and printing-presses, are suborned of the devil. American and European society is rotten, until the filth drips hissing through into the world beneath, and smells up sickening to the world above. France and Prussia are feeling for each other's throats, and although the dead in battle outnumber five to one the present living, still the cry is, 'Blood! give us more blood.'

"The earth is staggering under the successive shocks like a foundering ship when she is going down." "The eminent necessity for the world's reformation and purification, I take as a proof of the fact that the coming of the Lord draweth nigh. I see also, in the great revivals in the land, something ominous. . . . If there were not something tremendous coming, God would not be so urgent, or importunate in his call. . . . Yes, we are on the eve of a universal moral earthquake; the coming of the Lord draweth nigh. . . .

"But there is a deeper stop in the organ of my text, that needs to be pulled out, and that organ stop is the judgment trumpet. My text points distinctly to that august arrival." Then speaking of the secret of definite time, being unknown, he says, "It may come in the autumn of eighteen hundred and seventy-five. It may come in the spring of 1876; it may be further off. But the fact of such a coming cannot be disputed. The Bible intimates, yea, it positively declares, that God will come in by a flash of lightning."

After depicting the terribleness of the ushering in of the final judgment, he says: "There shall burst upon the world a fiery cohort, a book of reckoning, a throne, and the Lord omnipotent. . . . It will be our welcome, or our doom. . . . But firmly seated in that chariot will be the Lord, the most grandly loved, and the most outrageously treated being in all the ages. Coming to bless his saints. Rise! O children of the fire, and hail him as he comes to count your wounds. Coming to vindicate his cause. Crouch! O you scientists and infidels, who said there was no Christ, or, if there were, he would never appear. Coming to cast out the hard-hearted and rebellious. O, bow now, before his arrival, that you may be ready to hail him. Coming with the months, coming with the hours, coming with the minutes, coming with the seconds; coming—"The coming of the Lord draweth nigh."

H. PRATT.

Reported in full in the N. Y. Witness of Sept. 22nd, 1875.

WHOSE PEACE IS IT?

Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace whose mind is stayed on thee. Why? Because he is a christian of many years' experience, has passed through a long course of striving and praying, fearing and doubting, struggling and fighting, and has been tried in the fiery furnace of affliction, beyond the lot of the common mass of christians, and has arrived at a certain high state of grace? (without having been born into it). No, but "because he trusteth in Thee." Observe the quality of this peace—"perfect peace."

Oh, says one, do not be in such haste to confess your peaceful state; wait until you have been tried. It may be easy enough to trust now. Wait (as said a very prominent member of the christian community) till you have been tried as a suffering one of whom I tell; whose tribulations have been sore and of long duration; and if you bear them with all the cheerfulness and fortitude she displays, you may talk of peace. Oh! my brother, whose peace is it? Our Savior calls it his peace; and if it is his, is it not sufficient for every emergency? As the source is all-sufficient, are we not sure the supply will be equal to the demand? Who dare limit the grace of God? Just because your tried one has this peace, is she not able to bear her affliction with so much patience and show forth her peace? Is it not the peace of God which passeth all understanding, and which he gives unto her? Ask that afflicted one who is so upborne by the grace of God, if she earned it by any amount of striving or wrestling, or if she grew into this true peace, and she will tell you that in no wise is any credit to be given to her long christian experience; but that she has received it in fulfillment of the perfectly free promise of our blessed Redeemer: "My peace I give unto you;" on the one only condition, ask!

If we must wait until we have passed through a certain amount of suffering before we can claim the promise, where may we fix the limit? How shall we know when we may claim it? We have no measure in the Scripture. There all is as the Brahmin called it in his description of the christian religion, "Peace now." And can man set the measure? Certainly not, for we are so constituted, that, what would be a great affliction for one would be repelled by another as a rifle ball from a coat of mail.

There are no doubt many sincere souls desirous of true peace, who fear to claim it, not perceiving their great privileges as sons of God, and mistaking a state of "rest in Jesus" for inactivity. What a great mistake! Perfect peace, peace for all times, and under all circumstances, that peace which will enable one to say—"He doeth all things well;" and with St. Paul, to exclaim, "None of these things move me," is compatible with the greatest activity in every good cause. The more we have of Paul's peace (his by the grace of acceptance) the more will we have of his energy, and perseverance, and christian activity. Only those who have the "peace which passeth all understanding," are sufficiently at leisure from themselves, with all their doubts, and fears, and stumblings, to engage in their "Father's work." "Lord, thou wilt ordain peace for us; for thou also hast wrought all our works in us."—Christian Standard.

LIGHT OF THE WORLD.

"Ye are the light of the world."

These are the blessed Savior's words to his disciples. How very full of meaning were these words. Yet how often have we seen this light changed to darkness. Many have taken the world as their light. We cannot serve God and mammon. If we take this present world with its fashions, we make our light darkness; and if our light be darkness, how great is that darkness. "Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father which is in heaven." This we cannot do, and be all eaten up of the world. Then our eye is no longer single. We have hidden our light under a bushel.

Dear reader, are you letting your light shine, so as to glorify God? I sincerely hope you are, but if not, pray do put your trust in Jesus at once. He is ready, willing and able. Cast all your care on him, for he careth for you.

"Ye are the salt of the earth; but if the salt have lost its savor, wherewith shall it be salted? It is thenceforth good for nothing but to be cast out, and to be trodden under foot of man." So you see we cannot be too careful in our daily life. It tells something every day for Jesus. If we would reign with him, we must be willing to suffer with him. If we deny him, he will deny us. Therefore, dear Brn. and Srs. in Christ, I would admonish you to let your light so shine, that men may see your good works, and glorify your Father in heaven. Be not all taken up of this world, for ye cannot serve God and mammon; for ye will love the one, and hate the other; or you will hold to the one, and despise the other; for where your treasure is, there will your heart be also.

Again he commands us to watch. Then is it not time now to be up and doing? As we see so many travelers in the broad road to destruction, is there any time to be wasted in the follies of vanity? When our dear Savior is near, even at the doors, and countless thousands are going to perdition, how can one true christian slumber?

"Feed my sheep." "Blessed is that servant whom his Lord, when he cometh, shall find so doing." Is not this inducement enough? Yet, there is still another: "He that endureth to the end, the same shall be saved"; and not only this promise, but many more. Why not labor for life eternal; labor with great zeal in his cause? Endure to the end, and be saved at last in his eternal, blessed kingdom.

West Hawley, Mass.

[The name of the writer is lost.—ED.

LOOK at the bright side. Keep the sunshine of a living faith in the heart.

BE READY.

B. PERHAM.

"Therefore, be ye also ready; for in such an hour as ye think not, the Son of man cometh."—Matt. 24:44.

Our dear Savior, in conversation with his disciples, seems to bring to their minds the importance of being ready for the coming of the Son of man, and of being continually on the watch tower. Let us keep our minds and affections on Jesus and his word, and not on pleasure seeking. Be sure to visit the throne of grace very often in prayer, and never be satisfied until you are sure that you enjoy a sweet peace and union with Jesus. Above all things, be on your guard against modern Spiritualism, the worst and greatest trap of Satan. I find no safety in any position, unless I go often to Jesus in humble prayer, and ask him to help me at all times; and then he will grant the leading influences of the Holy Spirit, and the light of his truth, and thus we shall be able to resist the devil, that he may flee from us.

Please read 1 Tim. 4:1–3, where we are informed that in the last days "many shall depart from the faith," etc.; also 2 Tim. 3:1–7, where we are informed that "in the last days perilous times shall come." Let us be very careful not to ride any hobbies, which have been the means of breaking up and dividing so many churches; but let us attend to the great and important work of persuading sinners to leave Satan's army and enlist under the blessed banner of King Immanuel, and get ready to enter his kingdom when he comes with his mighty angels, in flaming fire, to destroy Satan and his great army. Satan has all sorts of traps set to catch those who are not on the watch tower and attending to the work of the Lord.

Hearken to the advice of an old man, who has been in the holy war over fifty-three years, and had many a battle with the great enemy of the human race, and always gained the victory by going immediately to Jesus for help. I have always found it safe to let minor things alone, and attend to the noble work of spreading the truth as it is in Jesus. May the good Lord help us all to do his will, that we may have a right to the tree of life, and enter the city at last.

Vernon, Vt.

HEB. 3: 6.

C. A. OSGOOD.

"But Christ as a son over his own house; whose house are we, if we hold fast the confidence and the rejoicing of the hope firm unto the end."

This verse is a very good one for examination. We wish to know whose house are we? Please look with me in 1 Cor. 3:16—"Know ye not that ye are the temple of God, and that the Spirit of God dwelleth in you?" Now in 6:19—"What, know ye not that your body is the temple of the Holy Ghost, which is in you, which you have of God, and you are not your own?" Next, 2 Cor. 6:16—"And what agreement hath the temple of God with idols? for ye are the temple of the living God; as God hath said, I will dwell in them and walk in them, and I will be their God, and they shall be my people." See also Eph. 2:21, 22—"In whom all the building, fitly framed together, groweth unto an holy temple in the Lord; in whom ye also are builded together for an habitation of God through the Spirit." 1 Tim. 3:15—"But if I tarry long, that thou mayest know how thou oughtest to behave thyself in the house of God, which is the church of the living God, the pillar and ground of the truth." 1 Pet. 2:5—"Ye also, as lively stones, are built up a spiritual house, an holy priesthood, to offer up spiritual sacrifices acceptable to God, by Jesus Christ."

We have found out whose house we are. Let us be holy, even as He is holy. Jesus has commanded us to be perfect, even as our "Father which is in heaven is perfect." Let us come to the standard. You may think you are poor, and weak, and unworthy, but look away to Jesus, who is all in all, and will cleanse you from all your wicked thoughts. You may think this is impossible, but how can a pure fountain send forth bitter and sweet water at the same time? Take the words of the blessed Savior—"Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God."

We should not be like a spring of water that has no outlet. If the water does not run off, it is liable to get roily; but if you take a spring of water that runs all the time, it is always pure. We must work out what the Lord works in. There is no standing still in this way.

Haverhill, Mass.

HARSH CRITICISM.

It is a common fault to construe language to the injury of those who utter it. The larger share of criticisms is evidently strained to make a case. Language is made to convey a bad meaning when designed to express that which is good and true. This is the style of partisan strife, and especially of theological discussion. A bad case is manufactured, because more easily attacked than a good one. Luther was charged with doctrines he did not teach; Wesley was accused of motives he utterly abhorred; Edwards was criticised as a heretic; Lyman Beecher was tried for deadly errors; Finney was denounced as a teacher of dangerous doctrines, and, indeed, about every man who has attempted any reform, has suffered from perversion of his language, and misstatement of his motives. Nor need we be surprised at this.

Our Lord and Savior had the same experience; the apostles were subject to the same discomfort. Just now, Moody and Sankey are slightly suffering from this ordeal. Pearsall Smith, and other advocates of the "Higher Life," find their words twisted into strange significations.

Is it not better to construe language in the most favorable sense, make religious differences as small as possible, show how nearly all christians agree, rather than how widely they differ? In this line of fairness and charity, it is surprising how near alike the various sects are found to be. It is prejudice, party spirit, pride of leadership, selfish ambition that divides them more than real radical doctrinal differences. In nearly every form of Christian utterance the standard principles, the essential doctrines are found, the variations being mainly in the dress of words which the parties give them. —Union in Christ.

THE DISCIPLINE OF SUFFERING.

It is the leading business of man, as he deems it, to shun the path of affliction. Were he to choose, he would never be found walking along its rugged way. The great aims of his life are either to fortify himself against the coming of trials, or to mitigate their severity. It seems to have been forgotten that there is a discipline in the trying visitations of Providence, which God sees to be necessary for us, and which he in mercy sends, in spite of our opposition. It is for this reason in part, that he is represented as choosing his people "out of the furnace of affliction." It is there that the dross of sin and of the world is commonly melted away and consumed.

The most illustrious saints that ever lived, those whose names we delight to honor, were those whom God had refined as silver, by processes of his own appointment, which are often so hard for flesh and blood to bear. Even Christ, "the Captain of our salvation," is declared to have been made "perfect through suffering." The road that leads to destruction is broad, and often strewn with flowers. That which conducts us to "pleasures forevermore" at the right hand of Jesus, is one of wisely and mercifully appointed tribulation—mysterious as, to us mortals, it appears. God's ways in all this "are not as our ways, nor his thoughts as our thoughts."

When will our faith teach us that Jehovah is wise, as he is supremely good, in all the dark clouds that settle upon our pathway from earth to heaven? When shall we learn that it is his to appoint the discipline of life—that discipline which is needful to prepare the subject of it for heaven? Why should we shrink from the appointments of a Father, who, in taking us at last to himself, is qualifying us for that rest which he has in store for all his dear children?

The discipline of suffering, according to the sacred Scriptures, is founded in divine wisdom and love. Indeed, in every feature of human suffering, disquietude, and disappointment, there is a divine reason of goodness and mercy. God orders all events for man's good. We are being tested and educated. This life is given to us, not that we continue what we are, but become what we should be. The host that is led to a great warfare, is fitted for victory by "enduring hardness;" so must every christian be fitted by the discipline of suffering, if he would fight the great battle of life successfully, and receive a crown of glory in the world to come. Indeed, we are told in the Revelation, that John saw a great multitude in heaven, "which stood before the throne of God and before the Lamb, clothed in white robes, and palms in their hands; and cried with loud voices, saying, Salvation to our God which sitteth upon the throne and unto the Lamb." The question was asked, "What are these which are arrayed in white robes? and whence came they?" The response was, "These are they which came out of great tribulation, and have washed their robes and made them white in the blood of the Lamb."

How grand! They have "come up out of great tribulation," distressing trials which they endured with patience for Christ's sake, for his kingdom and glory, "Made them white in the blood of the Lamb;" cleansed from sin and made righteous in the atoning blood of Christ—"the Lamb of God that taketh away the sin of the world."—Evangelical Messenger.

UNHALLOWED RESIGNATION.

What a habit we have of crediting all our ills to Providence! We are never willing to admit that our own inactivity, folly, and self-love have wrought out the dire results over which we mourn. We only see the shipwreck of our lives; we only hear the voices of the storm, and instead of owning that it was our indifferent and unskillful navigation that brought our craft upon the rocks, we fold our hands and cry out, blindly, "Strange and mysterious are thy ways, O Providence!" It is well to have faith and trust. It is well to be resigned to trials that cannot be avoided; but it is not well to hide our talents in a napkin, to take our fill of ease and pleasures, and bow down to the gods of pride and fashion, then shrink back from the consequences and say that the work is none of ours.

Some of us really imagine that we are suffering the will of the Lord, because the flour barrel is empty and our coat is out at the elbows, when a little more self-denial, a little less folding of the hands for rest—these would raise us out of the slough of poverty, and set us on our feet, crowned with the gift of a goodly heritage. We eat rich, unwholesome food, keep late hours, transgress all the laws of health, and when we pay the penalty with shattered nerves and broken constitutions, we wonder why we are not strong and vigorous as our neighbor who has lived moderately all his days. Because the neck and arms of our tender infants are soft and white and dimpled, we let them go bare and unprotected; then when some day we leave the little one out under the snow, we murmur that our Father hath been unkind. In too many such cases, with a little more flannel the family circle might be kept unbroken for many a year.—Selected.

The World's Crisis
AND
SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

Boston, Wednesday, Nov. 10, 1875.

TAKE NOTICE.

All subscriptions for the "CRISIS," issued from this time forward, are at the rate of

$2.25 a year, payable IN ADVANCE.

POSTAGE FREE TO ALL within the United States, the Canadas, and the British Provinces.

Please Remember!

All remittances to this office, in the form of Drafts, Bank Checks, and Postal Money-Orders, should be made payable to the Business Agent, GEO. T. ADAMS.

THOSE who send articles for the "CRISIS," should direct them to the "EDITORS OF WORLD'S CRISIS," Boston, Mass.

PLEASE READ, REMEMBER, AND ACT ACCORDINGLY.

The brethren, sisters, friends—one and all—whoever may write to this office, sending articles for insertion in the Crisis, or subscriptions for the same, notices, appointments, reports, or orders for papers, books, tracts, or anything of the kind, will confer a favor and do the right way by directing their letters in either one of the following ways:—

"EDITORS OF WORLD'S CRISIS, Boston, Mass."

"WORLD'S CRISIS, Boston, Mass.," or

GEO. T. ADAMS, Agent, Boston, Mass.

Those who send articles for the Young Pilgrim should address—

"EDITOR YOUNG PILGRIM, Boston, Mass."

In no case address letters on business connected with the papers, or office, to any of the clerks, compositors, or helps in this office.
AGENT.

HEREAFTER address me at BOSTON, MASS. All private letters should be marked "personal." MILES GRANT.

SPRINGFIELD.—The Lord is blessing the meetings in Springfield. Sinners are coming to Christ, professors are making a full consecration, and the interest is increasing.
M. G.

THANKS to those who are sending us choice selections for the Crisis. Let us all try to make it such a paper as every christian will love to read, and delight to see in his family. M. G.

A BRO. INQUIRES if it would be breaking the rules of the church if he should preach before he is licensed? Certainly not. Every one has a right to work for Jesus, according to the best of his ability. M. G.

IT IS ASKED, "Will preachers have their fares paid, who attend the special meeting of the Association at Worcester, Dec. 14th?" We suppose all who come will pay their own fares, as at all other meetings of the Association. M. G.

SYMPATHY WITH CHRIST.—Do not fail to read carefully the article with the above heading. Reflect upon it. Let it sink to the bottom of the heart. Do not dismiss the subject hastily. Look at it again tomorrow. Let it have an abiding place in daily meditations. M. G.

THE SECOND COMING OF CHRIST is becoming a frequent theme for the pulpit and the press, where nothing has been said till recently. The signs of the times are speaking loudly in favor of this glorious event. In another column will be found an article on the subject from the Church Union.
M. G.

A FAST.—Bro. Moody has wisely, we think, proposed Friday, Nov. 12th, as a fast day to pray for a general revival of pure religion in the United States. We hope it will be observed by all churches, and by every individual, who is willing to unite in the glorious work of trying to save sinners. M. G.

"THE BIBLE SEARCHER" is the name of a new paper, prepared by Bro. L. Reimer, 639 N. 8th St., Philadelphia. It is designed for the German population of this country, and contains the reasons of our blessed hope. Let our readers take special pains to introduce it among the Germans. Such a paper is much needed. M. G.

DOING WELL.—The three months' list looks encouraging this week. We trust many hearts have already been gladdened by the new visitor. We hope that after a three months' acquaintance, a permanent friendship will be formed with our new readers, and if they are pleased with our visits, will they do us the favor to introduce us to their neighbors? We are hoping that our acquaintance will be mutually profitable. Let us have a long list of new ones next week. Let our actions say that we love our neighbor as ourselves. Remember it is more blessed to give than to receive. Here is a fine opportunity to obtain a blessing. M. G.

REVIVAL IN BROOKLYN.

The revival meetings in Brooklyn, under the direction of Brn. D. L. Moody, and Ira A. Sankey, are progressing with remarkable success and increasing interest. At this time, Saturday, Oct. 30th, several have been converted, and many are under conviction. The rink is densely packed every night with a very attentive audience, numbering between six and seven thousand, while many hundreds are left outside, not being able to find even standing room. The very best of order prevails. When looking over the vast audience, about every eye will be seen intently fixed on the speaker, who talks like one who believes what he says, and who considers the subject worthy of the candid attention of every human being. He is tremendously in earnest. He makes no attempt to say pretty things to please the ear, or to show himself, but spares no effort to magnify Jesus as a complete Savior, to whom the vilest may come and receive pardon and peace, if they will only confess and forsake their sins. He makes the gospel appear as a reality.

He does not hesitate to uncover the corruptions of nominal christendom. He does not do it in an unkind, fault-finding spirit, but with the loving faithfulness of one who sees their perilous condition. His sermons are very searching, causing the hearers to think of themselves instead of their neighbors. He manifests great confidence and trust in the Lord. He sows with strong expectation of seeing fruits of his labors, and is not disappointed in the results. The present prospects indicate that more glorious results will follow his labors in this country than in Europe.

There is a very wide difference between his plain preaching and that of most of the popular ministers. He shows himself familiar with the Bible, and talks like one who has kept company with its Author. It is really refreshing to listen to one who gives no evidence that he is talking to please the people, instead of the Lord. His whole heart is in the work, and he labors like one who feels conscious that time is short, and that what is done must be done quickly. He manifests a strong trust in the Lord, and an unusual confidence that success and victory will be gained over the powers of darkness. He appears to be fully conscious of the strength of the foe, but is assured that the Captain of his salvation is much stronger and cannot be defeated. It is a blessed privilege to see such a one lead on the hosts of the Lord against the embattled legions of Satan's aamy, and witness the defeat of the arch deceiver in every battle. Let every christian pray for Brn. Moody and Sankey, that they may be used to bring thousands to Christ the coming winter, and all the friends of Jesus, everywhere, may at once engage heartily in efforts to save men from the power of sin and Satan.
M. G.

A NEW AND VALUABLE BOOK.

A new book of rare interest to all Bible readers, has just been received at the Crisis office. Its author is Edward White, of London, England, who is considered the ablest writer in Europe on the subjects examined in this work, which are the nature and destiny of man, and the plan of redemption. The work is entitled, "Life in Christ," and contains 590 pages. It is prepared with great care. Bro. White has devoted much thought to the subject, which has resulted in producing a work much resembling "Debt and Grace," by Bro. C. F. Hudson. Like him, Bro. White maintains that the first death kills the body, and the second death the soul and body. On this point, we think his position is unscriptural; but while holding this view of the intermediate state, he is very strong in argument against the immortality of the soul and the doctrine of eternal torment. His leading theme is the final destruction of the wicked.

We do not see how a candid person, who is desirous of understanding the sacred Scriptures, can read this work without being satisfied that the Bible does not give evidence that man has inherent immortality, but that it does harmoniously teach that the saints receive it at the resurrection of the just when Christ shall return to this planet, and that sin and misery will come to a perpetual end.

Those who can afford it, will be doing a good service, if they get one of these books to lend to the different ministers in their neighborhood. By so doing, many may be led to see the light and truth, and to rejoice in the blessed hope. Let us press the battle in the name of the Lord, and do all in our power to remove the foundations of error, and build up the temple of truth. The Lord is raising up strong men to defend his word.

This work should be placed in all public libraries and reading rooms in the country. Will not some one in every place see that a copy is provided for this object?

The price of the book in London is about three dollars in gold. After paying duties and freight, we expect to be able to sell the work for four dollars post paid. Send in orders, and they will be promptly filled.
M. G.

SPECIAL EFFORTS.

The season has arrived when every church should arrange for a series of revival meetings. Special efforts should be made to save the perishing. This should be the chief aim of every church and individual in Christ. If this important work be neglected, a spiritual dearth is almost sure to follow, accompanied by roots of bitterness among church members, variance, contention about points of doctrine, small congregations, a worldly sectarian spirit.

No church of single member can prosper long that does not labor for the salvation of sinners. The law of Christianity requires us to try to help others, if he would be helped by the Lord. He who does nothing for the benefit of others, must expect to be in a condition to mourn over his own barrenness. He may expect clouds instead of a sunny sky; a cold, formal feeling, instead of a warm and pleasant zeal; doubts and fears, instead of a heart-felt assurance that all is well. Earnest work for Jesus, in efforts to persuade men and women to be christians, will result in great good to the laborers. TRY IT. M. G.

BE SHORT.—Those who wish to have good prayer and conference meetings, should be short in their prayers, testimonies and songs. It is much better to speak half a dozen times, a minute or two at a time, than to talk ten minutes at once. To the speaker time does not seem more than half as long as it does to the hearer; hence most persons think everybody long and tedious but themselves. When one is informed that he talks or prays twice as long as any other one in the meeting, he will hardly credit the statement. A few condensed thoughts expressed are much more effective than many words about the same thing. It is a valuable acquirement to know when to stop. The general rule is the following: Have something to say; say it, and close. This rule is admirably observed by Bro. Moody, and for this reason, people always listen to him with special attention. He never tires his audiences. His meetings occupy but one hour. This includes singing three or four times, Bible reading, two or three prayers, and preaching. His sermons are from twenty to forty minutes in length. His motto is, that fifteen minutes earnest work will accomplish more than two hours of formal labor. M. G.

A NEW BOOK.

"LIFE IN CRRIST:

A STUDY OF THE SCRIPTURE DOCTRINE
ON THE NATURE OF MAN; THE OBJECT OF THE DIVINE INCARNATION, AND THE CONDITIONS OF HUMAN IMMORTALITY.

BY EDWARD WHITE,

Author of the "Mystery of Growth," etc.

LONDON:
ELLIOT STOCK, 62 PATERNOSTER ROW.
1875."

The above is the title of a book of 590 pages octavo—perhaps the most comprehensive and exhaustive statement of the arguments in favor of the non-eternity of future suffering yet published.

As many as can, should possess themselves of this work. Just received from the London publisher, and for sale at this Office. Price $4.00. Sent by mail on reception of the same. AG'T.

THE CONVERSION OF THE WORLD.

Daniel Whitby, who died in 1726, advocated the doctrine of the conversion of the world, and since then, it has been believed by many good people, some of whom are still anxiously waiting for the commenement of the spiritual millennum, a thousand years before the personal coming of Christ. Those who believe this doctrine, of course, do not expect the Savior to appear till after the passing of more than a thousand years.

The question arises, Is the conversion of the world taught in the Bible? If not, then it is not a Bible doctrine.

It must be admitted by those who believe in the world's conversion to Christ before his second coming, that there are many able scholars in the different evangelical denominations, who do not believe the Bible teaches the opposite very plainly. Let us notice a few passages among the many:

"This know also, that in the last days perilous times shall come. For men shall be lovers of their own selves, covetous, boasters, proud, blasphemers, disobedient to parents, unthankful, unholy, without natural affection, truce-breakers, false accusers, incontinent, fierce, despisers of those that are good, traitors, heady, high-minded, lovers of pleasures more than lovers of God; having a form of godliness, but denying the power thereof; from such turn away." 2 Tim. 3: 1–5.

Here is a picture of the "state of things" in the last days." It is not very inviting. If does not indicate religious prosperity in the churches as bodies, at the time of the end of the present dispensation. Jesus says, "The field is the world; the good seed are the children of the kingdom, but the tares are the children of the wicked one." "Let both grow together until the harvest;" and then says: "The harvest is the end of the world." Then it follows that saints and sinners will be together till "the end of world."

When speaking of the work of the "little horn," Daniel says: "I beheld, and the same horn made war with the saints, and prevailed against them, until the Ancient of days came, and judgment was given to the saints of the Most High, and the time came that the saints possessed the kingdom." Consequently, if the world is converted at all, it must be to the power and dominion of the "little horn," which is anti-christian in its character.

When speaking of the last days, Paul says: "Evil men and seducers shall wax worse and worse, deceiving and being deceived." Thus it is now, and thus, according to the Scriptures, it must continue to the end of the present dispensation. When speaking of the last days, the Savior said it should be as it was in the days of Noah and Lot. Then the masses were wicked, and but few served the Lord faithfully.

At the time of the harvest, which Jesus says "is the end of the world," the prophet Joel says: "Put ye in the sickle, for the harvest is ripe; come, get you down, for the press is full, the fats overflow; for their wickedness is great." Thus it was in the days of Noah and Lot.

We think the foregoing Scriptures cannot be harmonized with the idea of the world's conversion. But the Bible is not yea and nay. It does not teach both the affirmative and negative of the same question. If the world is to be converted to Christ before his return, why has he not somewhere made reference to the subject? Why did not the apostles intimate this important event? They have expressly declared the opposite, as the Scriptures already quoted show very plainly. It is not reasonable to suppose that so important an event was forgotten or overlooked by Jesus and the apostles, provided it is to take place. How account for this utter silence, only on the ground that the doctrine of the world's conversion is not true, and is therefore not taught in the Scriptures.

Some passages relating to the new heavens and earth have been carelessly applied to the present dispensation, by the advocates of a temporal millennium, because they have lost sight of the fact that this world is to be made new and given to "the saints of the Most High," when it will be called "the kingdom of God," or "the kingdom of heaven." M. G.

ZEAL OF THINE HOUSE.

"For the zeal of thine house hath eaten me up."—Ps. 69: 9.

Zeal is a "passionate ardor in the pursuit of any thing."—Webster. "Ambition varnished over with zeal."—Milton. "The blind conduct of the will."—Dryden. The original word expresses the idea of "jealousy," so that zeal, as an evil, is an ardor produced by a spirit of rivalry. An ambition to excel, produced by a fear of being outdone. A religious enthusiasm produced by wrong motives; unsanctified ambition in the professed service of God. "They have a zeal of God, but not according to knowledge."—Paul. The more ardor and ambition we exercise in religious matters, the more dangerous and ensnaring is our influence when it is produced by a false spirit, and is not in harmony with the instructions of God's word.

The one eaten up in the text is Christ, as the representative Head of his Church. He is represented in the context as having his reputation as a messenger sent of God—a divinely authorized Teacher—destroyed, "eaten up." The position and experience are expressed thus—"For thy sake I have borne reproach; shame hath covered my face; I am become a stranger unto my brethren, and an alien unto my mother's children. For [because] the zeal of thine house hath eaten me up; and the reproaches of them that reproached thee fell on me." His honor, due to his appointment and position, his work, and true character, were destroyed by their ardor and ambition to extend their religion, which was false in its spirit and doctrines; therefore his teachings were calculated to thwart their ambitious purposes, and this caused their denunciatory and murderous designs. Under these circumstances he could do nothing but what was turned to ruin his influence and break down the cause he was laboring to sustain. The prophet expresses this as he continues his strain—"When I wept, and chastened my soul with fasting, that was turned to my reproach. I made sackcloth also my garment, and I became a proverb to them."

Men generally relax their opposition to men when they see them in sackcloth and trouble, but in religious contention, where the servants of God are faithful to testify against the sinfulness of the wicked, worldly practices of false professors, the opposition to the faithful is never abated, although they may be feeble and few, and driven to the wall in great distress.

The principles involved in this subject, and the experience designed to be set forth by the text, are clearly presented in the New Testament, where the passage is quoted and applied. A passage is never quoted from the Old Testament by a New Testament writer and applied to a subject to which it was not designed by God to apply. We therefore always get the most positive proof of the true import and application of a passage when quoted by Inspiration.

The circumstances and particular experience to which the text was applied by the Spirit, as expressing the mind of God upon the subject, is recorded thus: "And the Jews' passover was at hand, and Jesus went up to Jerusalem, and found in the temple those that sold oxen and sheep and doves, and the changers of money sitting; and when he had made a scourge of small cords, he drove them all out of the temple, and the sheep, and the oxen; and poured out the changers' money, and overthrew the tables; and said unto them that sold doves, Take these things hence; make not my Father's house an house of merchandise. And his disciples remembered that it was written, The zeal of thine house hath eaten me up. Then answered the Jews and said unto him, What sign showest thou unto us, seeing that thou doest these things?" John 2: 13–18.

Jesus went up to the temple—the house of God—to join in the divinely established worship of the annual passover feast; and instead of finding the house occupied by devout, holy worshipers, bringing their acts of devotion to conform to the requirements of God's word, excluding everything not given by divine precept and example, he found them engaged in worldly traffic and carnal pleasures, making their devotions sinful, excluding the heavenly. The people had evidently lost the desire for the enjoyment of false devotion, the sacred sweetness of holy worship; and to keep up the interest in religious associations, they had to produce natural attractions to draw unsanctified people, who sought carnal pleasures instead of spiritual enjoyment. This zeal to make popular and extend their religious influence and make its convocations more popular and attractive than any other religious association, had caused them to eat up—destroy—change—corrupt—all pertaining to their worship which was divine, through which God manifested himself, his Spirit, Word, revealed ritual, purity of heart, perfect love and holiness. It is always unscriptural, human zeal, that substitutes the worldly for the heavenly principles in human worship.

God so constituted man that his nature demands pleasurable excitement and joyous emotions in worship. God has furnished heavenly principles which he gives to men on certain conditions, designed to accomplish their object. When those conditions are complied with, and the principles are enjoyed, the worshipers are satisfied with God's provisions for their happiness, and are not inclined to seek for those which are carnal and forbidden. When we enjoy Christ, we loathe the world with its foolish shows and parades, and never seek to draw multitudes to our altars by worldly pomp, or displays of human greatness or notoriety, but by the pure Word and Holy Spirit of God. God never suffers these to be used by his people as the principles of attraction and happiness in conjunction with those of the world, controlled by Satan. When we attempt to introduce the unholy, we always eat up or drive away the holy. "Ye cannot serve God and mammon." We had better be content to follow Christ with a despised few, who cling to the divine Word, and make its hallowed truths the rallying cry of christian effort and union, rather than the glitter and alluring vanity of gorgeous houses, charming music, rushing multitudes, oratorical preachers, popular applause, and carnal gratification.

If the Jewish Church was typical of the Christian, as nearly all allow, and it exhibited its deepest corruption, its most worldly condition, and greatest departure from God, as it drew near its termination; so we may expect it will be with the Christian Church. If the Jews had eaten up all there was of God, truth, and holiness, connected with their house and worship, by their zeal which introduced worldly traffic, and made void the word of God by their traditions, while they blindly understood that they possessed superior sanctity and holiness, may we not expect, if we have come to the last days of the gospel age, that the body of the Christian Church will manifest the same principles and exhibit the same experience? We think the likeness between the two classes—the Jews at the time of the first advent and the body of professed christians at the present time—is remarkably striking.

The Jews labored to build themselves up on the faith that God was about to cause them to gloriously triumph over all opposition through their then operative institutions, and make them the ruling religious people of the world. They believed the time had come for them to enjoy those anticipated triumphs. This faith produced in them a haughty, boastful, self-confident spirit, which aroused their ambition, and caused them to make great efforts to use all the means within their reach to religiously revolutionize the world. This false hope and antiscriptural "zeal" caused them, more than all things else, to reject Christ and the gospel, because he did not come to them as their Messiah, and give assurances to them that he had come to espouse their cause, according to their faith, and cause them to triumph in the extension of their worship and spirit over all classes.

Christ did not appear as their special friend and deliverer, but sharply rebuked them for their pride and worldliness in their religion, and gave them no assurance of triumph through their institutions and the means they were using to convert the world. This difference of position produced the antagonism between Christ and the unbelieving Jews. It caused them to use every argument they could produce to invalidate the evidence that he was the Messiah. They rejected every sign that was adduced to prove his first advent, and spurned all the manifestations of divine approval of his work and people. They used every effort to draw the multitudes to their heartless, false worship, and so carry the national heart and power with them, thinking that by these they might firmly establish their wicked government and corrupted religion.

They well knew that if Christ's teaching was established as of God by his miracles, their hold on the people as religious teachers would be destroyed, and their rich salaries, gorgeous robes, high seats and greetings in the synagogues, with their luxurious banquetings and rich presents at the great national feasts would all be taken from them. Their zeal caused them to earnestly contend for the perpetuity of all their religious and political interests, just as they then existed, only they wished them intensified and enlarged. They were decidedly opposed to the introduction of a new administration, a remodelling of Church and State, as Christ proposed. They therefore held a council, and said, "What do we? for this man doeth many miracles. If we let him alone, all men will believe on him; and the Romans will come and take away both our place and nation." John 11: 47, 48.

When we turn this glass from the Jewish to the Christian Church, to see if she has come down to the period of the second advent, where we may expect to find the same developments in the antitypical position as in the type, we are saddened to the heart to find the professed followers of Christ blindly following in the steps of their ill-fated prototype.

Christendom is divided into three parts; the Roman, Greek, and Protestant. These are all greatly excited, just as the Jews were, over the idea that the time has now come for Christianity to triumph over all opposition, and rule the world from henceforth according to their understanding of God's prophetic promises.

The Roman Church is manifesting uncommon zeal in making preparations to establish its institutions and government, ecclesiastically and politically, over all the earth. To accomplish this great purpose, every means is employed; exciting lectures are delivered, enthusiastic sermons are preached, the people are rallied en masse, long and frequent processions are formed; houses of worship are made more gorgeous and attractive, if possible; church fairs and financial schemes of extortion and illegal gaming are coupled with wine-bibbing and immoral lewdness; all calculated to hush into silence every remonstrance of a living conscience, and empty the pockets of a victimized people, and fill the treasury of the church, to accomplish what she understands to be the pre-determined purpose of God. This was the position of the Jewish Church which produced the condemned zeal which ate up all that was good and holy connected with that doomed people.

The Greek Church with its great political head has entertained the same purpose, and is now equally zealous in adopting plans, political and ecclesiastical, and is straining every nerve to raise men, arms, and money to accomplish its understood prophetic destiny.

The Protestant Church, we are sad to say, is found in the same condition. She has interpreted the prophetic Word in the same way, and understands, as the others do, that the foretold period has come for a change of divine administration on the earth, and that the church is appointed of God as the instrumentality by which the grand change is to be accomplished. The first deduction is evidently correct. The foreshadowed period for this change has evidently come; but the second conclusion that the Church and State is the divinely appointed instrumentality to accomplish the great change was the fatal error with the Jews, and we believe will prove to be with our Church. This error of faith has produced the great error of practice. Those who believe that human and earthly instrumentalities are to be employed, would naturally understand that earthly means would be necessary for the accomplishment of the great object. This would produce a dependence on those things, and would tend strongly to increase a zeal for worldly advantages, such as enlisting the mightiest kingdoms, the strongest armies and navies, the richest capitalists and most influential classes, the multitudes, the arms and the wealth.

This will cause the ministers to turn politicians and scheming financiers, leaders in celebrations, long processions, gluttonous feasts and church gambling. This cut off the Jews from their dependence on God, his Christ, and heavenly means, so that when the Messiah came and proposed to lead and furnish the means by which to accomplish the anticipated change, they spurned the offer, because they were walking by sight, and not by faith; therefore they could see nothing in Christ or his followers to give them assurance that he could accomplish it, but they could depend on nothing only what they could see from a human stand-point as the efficient means for its accomplishment.

The Protestant, Greek and Roman churches, as bodies, all occupy the same position to-day. They spurn the argument that Christ is coming personally, as he did to the Jews, to produce the predicted change by a series of miraculous manifestations instead of their puny human efforts to put an end to sin and introduce the peaceful reign of Christ.

The Roman church has no particular government that she can trust to elevate her to supreme authority, but she has labored hard to obtain that of France and Spain, and is laying her coil to draw in the United States, with many of the leading politicians and capitalists of all the nations.

The Greek Church has the colossal empire of Russia, with a number of millions of her communicants in Greece and Turkey.

The Protestant Church has the German Empire, England, United States and some smaller powers on which she leans confidently, as a political and military arm, to elevate her as the ruling, supreme power of the earth. Each claims that the time has come for it to put on the crown of universal, earthly government, and rule the world for Christ.

This faith and hope causes them all to blend in one heterogeneous mass, politics, finance, literature, war and religion, and nominally puts Christ at the head, and with the Gospel—rent and torn, broken, dead and buried by mystical interpretations—for a theological platform, enervated by the spirit of rivalry and jealousy, spurred with the hope of earthly wealth, glory, and power, they develop a marvelous zeal, which eats up and leaves out of the question entirely the true gospel hope—a coming Christ to end sin, dash in pieces the wicked nations, raise the dead, and bring to a perpetual end the curse. He will then commence his glorious reign on the throne of David, and give the firmly established kingdom under the whole heavens to the saints, to be enjoyed by them forever and ever. They are now giving us the antitypical Jewish hope, with the second addition of their traditional theology, and a zeal like the Jews, which mocks at the signs of Christ's advent, and carries into the christian house of prayer merchandise, where the money changers are found as greedy of their pilfered gains as were the Rabbinical extortioners.

O hear, hear the voice of warning, ye people of God, and come out from among these political, gaming professors, whose hope is false and ensnaring, whose zeal is according to human tradition, and not according to the Word of God. O ye servants of the great God, lift up your warning voices, cry aloud, and spare not, for God is about to vindicate his Word with sword and fire. If you love the people, warn them, and hold not out the hand of fellowship, and thus bid them God-speed, and so make sure their eternal ruin.

God says—"If thou take forth [separate] the precious from the vile, thou shalt be as my mouth; let them return unto thee; but return not thou unto them." Jer. 15: 1. This instruction was designed for those who eat the "words" of God, verse 16—the "little book." See Ezek. 3: 1, and Rev. 10: 9. The eating represents the reception of a message of prophetic truth, which the "watchmen" are required to receive from God's "mouth," and give his people "warning from him." See context of all the passages. Who will hear these solemn warnings from God, and obey his mandates? Who is willing to lose caste in the society of those they love, and be accounted the offscouring of popular society for the sake of being reckoned loyal to Christ and faithful unto the end? May God's grace save us from the snares of these perilous days, is our earnest prayer. J. C.

THE TRACT FUND.

THE ADVENT CHRISTIAN PUBLICATION SOCIETY, at a meeting on Springfield camp-ground, August 11th, 1875, voted to raise Two Thousand Dollars for the free distribution of Tracts the ensuing year; and they invite the help and co-operation of all lovers of the Lord and of his truth, in the furtherance of the good cause. The times are ominous of coming events, and admonish us to diligence in the Master's work. The Lord is at the door, and what we do must be done quickly. Let the contributions be prompt, hearty, and liberal. The Lord will reward the liberal giver.

A. W. SIBLEY, Sec. Adv. Chris. Pub. Soc.

Remittances should be sent to the Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS, Boston, Mass., or they may be enclosed with remittances to the Crisis Office.

DONATIONS FOR THE TRACT FUND.

Previous acknowledgments	$106.97
"R."	5.00
C. B. Fellows	3.00

POOR FUND.

TO SEND THE "CRISIS" TO THE POOR.

Previous acknowledgments	$28.15
Levi Nutting	1.00
C. B. Fellows	2.00

YOUNG PILGRIM FUND.

AMER. ADV. MISSION SOCIETY.

Donations are earnestly solicited, to enable this Society to send out missionaries, and other means, into the Southern States, and elsewhere, as the Lord may open the door, to proclaim "the glad tidings of the kingdom at hand"; and should be sent, as also payments of pledges made, to the

Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS,

P. O. Drawer 5002, Boston, Mass.

who will acknowledge the same in the columns of the Crisis.

Aug. 6th, 1875, and onward.

Previous acknowledgments	$1,272.50
Miles Grant (on pledge)	25.00
D. Bacon	7.75
I. M. Aldrich (pledge paid)	10.00

TO SEND THE WORLD'S CRISIS

THREE MONTHS TO THOSE WHO DO NOT NOW RECEIVE IT.

The one who sends the money, will please name the person, or persons, to whom they wish the paper sent three months (50 cents per copy.)

Previous acknowledgments (119 copies)..		Cash	$59.70
J. Porter	3 "	"	1.50
Mrs. Jennie Blaisdell	2 "	"	1.00
E. N. B	2 "	"	1.00
M. S. Bicknel	3 "	"	1.50
Mrs. Martha Becker	5 "	"	2.50
T. Finn	4 "	"	2.00
C. Daggett	2 "	"	1.00
H. R. Swift	2 "	"	1.00
C. Thomas	1 "	"	.50
John H. Carr	1 "	"	.50
A. J. B.	1 "	"	.50
H. Jeffrey	1 "	"	.50
H. B. Eaton	1 "	"	.50
Mrs. S. D. Ackerman	1 "	"	.50
S. C. Berry	1 "	"	.50
L. Peck	1 "	"	.50
John Sperry	1 "	"	.50
M. Lane	1 "	"	.50
C. R. Danks	1 "	"	.50
A. Beardsley	1 "	"	.50
Geo. E. Waugh	1 "	"	.50
W. Crannell	1 copy six months		1.15

LETTER FROM BRO. T. J. GREEN.

TO THE A. A. M. SOCIETY.

Dear Brethren:—Again I attempt to give a short account of my labor in this southern part of the Lord's vineyard. Since I wrote you last, I have been called upon to undergo severe trials and afflictions in my family. My wife has been, and is still, suffering very much from neuralgia in the head, which has so affected her ears that she is quite hard of hearing. I have also been suffering from the same old complaint, and have lost two of my most important appointments in Nausau county. It being a new field, I had hoped to have done much good, but was hindered. The Lord's will be done. But notwithstanding all, I have reason to rejoice and praise the Lord for his mercies, and for the successes which have attended me. Since my last report, eight have made a start for the kingdom, and have united with us in the glorious warfare; seven have been baptized, and many others are almost persuaded to become christians.

I have just returned from Falling Creek where I scattered the good seed some two years ago. I found the brethren in good spirit, and at peace among themselves, although destitute of "meat in due season." Their faith is strong. I had the pleasure of meeting with one of my sisters, whom I have not seen in four years. It did me much good to find her so strong in the faith. When last I saw her she was quite against me on account of my doctrine. She says she is much rejoiced at the glorious hope of immortality when Jesus shall come in his kingdom. Glory to God in the highest. Many others that would not hear are now deeply interested, and are very anxious for me to preach among them regularly. Would to God that I could.

As I am struggling hard for the glorious gospel of Jesus in this benighted Florida, and very hard pressed, having to contend with so much ignorant prejudice, I desire to write you, that you may better understand what I have to encounter, and that I may at least obtain your prayers to the throne of grace. It has been my privilege, in one of my circuits, to hear a discourse on the nature and duration of future punishment. I enclose an extract. The minister said that the sinners' souls would go to a lake of fire and brimstone; that said lake had no bottom; that the fiery billows were always rolling over and over. As soon as the poor soul touched the surface, he was carried under; that he would not come to the top again in one thousand years, and then he would rise to the surface just long enough to get his breath, and under he would go again, not to be seen any more in a thousand years, and so on, until the jay birds had time to carry away every grain of sand composing the globe; and when that was finished, then onward till they had carried away in their mouths every drop of water in the ocean, and when that was done, they (the souls of the wicked) would have just as long to stay in hell as when they first began.

Really, this is strong doctrine, and, as old as I am, I never before knew that the jay birds were to be made to act in such a capacity. Wonder where they will carry the sand, and where they will deposit the water. I am sorry to say that such preaching is received by the masses as genuine. They say, if that part of the gospel is left out, the wicked would never repent. They say, it is the fear of hell that brings sinners to the cross, and if it was not for fear of endless misery, there would be no christians.

In spite of all they can say about hell, as a place where the soul will live eternally in torment, and against us, the truth is still on the advance, and the Lord seems to help me more and more. Where I trust more, the Lord helps more.

I was at Oak Grove, last Saturday and Sunday, and had a glorious time with the brethren in their social meeting. Every one felt that it was good to be there. Several of the brethren, and one sister, gave us much comfort by rising up and testifying to their love for the Lord, and expressing their determination to hold out to the end, waiting and watching for their Lord from heaven to change their vile bodies, and fashion them after his own glorious body. Two more joined the church, and are awaiting baptism. O, how I am made to rejoice to see old grey-headed men fall at the feet of Jesus, just before they are called to lie down in the silent grave, there to await the sound of the last trump to call them to judgment.

Never, since I became acquainted with the Advent message, have I felt the need of exertion to save sinners as now; nor have I ever seen people more anxious to hear than now. The daily cry is heard, "Come and preach for us"; but I am laboring under many disadvantages, which greatly hinder the cause. I am almost single-handed, with a large family to maintain; and when I go, the devil says, "He had better be at work to pay his debts and support his family." But I am resigned. My all is on the altar, there to remain till the Lord shall come. He is able to provide. He has carried me through many hardships, trials, and temptations; has never forsaken me since I resigned all to him; and though he slay me, yet will I trust in him.

Dear Brn., pray for me in my distress. Pray that I may have more grace, that I may be more humble, that I may have strength to withstand the devil in every effort he may make to overthrow me; and finally, that when Jesus shall come, I may be found at my post with the whole armor on. Amen.

Olustee, Fla., Oct. 23d, 1875.

CONNECTICUT CAMPMEETING.

We need at least fifty plain seats, with backs, that will accommodate five or six hundred people, at our campmeeting. Should time continue, and another meeting be held, our proposition is this: buy suitable lumber, saw out the parts, ready to put together, cart to the camp-ground some time next summer, and invite brethren from this State to come and make the seats, and clear the ground of stumps, and do any other necessary work. If our brethren have a mind to do this work, we can make a short job of it all, and reduce the expense of the seats to the mere cost of the material.

To make the burden easy, we suggest that the churches in this State take a monthly collection towards meeting this expense, and that preaching brethren remind them of the propriety of so doing. We believe this to be the cheapest and least burdensome way to procure seats with backs. Collections from the churches, and contributions from private persons, if forwarded to the Treasurer, will be acknowledged. Any surplus should be used to provide a tent in place of the one at our boarding or eating stand, for which we have paid an annual rent of five dollars. We give early notice, that brethren may duly consider, and trust it may be blessed of the Lord.

For the Committee,
O. D. WOODRUFF, Sec. and Treas.

A CALL TO WISCONSIN.

By a letter just received from Deacon Thomas, I learn that our Bro. Geo. Thomson, of Prairie du Sac, is in a needy condition—"is out of funds," and has "no wood or provisions." Decent humanity, void of the religion of Jesus Christ, cannot consistently say to a worn-out and suffering minister, in the language of an old adage—"Poor old horse, let him die." So I only need to hint to those who have hearts to feel, that the approaching cold winter calls for the exercise of practical charity, to the amount of not less than $100 forthwith. If "charity begins at home," must it end there? Shall it not extend to suffering saints? May this note reach some of that sympathy that you carry in your pockets, and direct it to Bro. Thomson without delay.

WM. SHELDON.

PROPOSED CHANGE.

After prayerfully considering the matter, I have come to the conclusion that a change in my place of residence would prove a benefit to myself and family, both spiritually and temporally, and that by making such a change I could be of more service to the cause of "present truth," I therefore request my friends, and the friends of our soon coming Lord, to assist me in finding a locality where I can obtain sufficient employment to provide for our necessities, and where my family will have good school and meeting privileges.

Let all who think they can render me such assistance communicate with me as soon as they can conveniently, and so confer a favor upon their brother in faith and hope.

Steep Falls, Me. ELD. C. H. SWEET.

Correspondence.

From Bro. P. G. Bowman.

Dear Brethren:—Last Sunday I tried to preach at Bro. Woodham's Mills, on the margin of the large and beautiful pond, under the wide-spreading and majestic sycamore trees. A more lovely day was never witnessed, since the "sun first tried his infant beams athwart the gloom profound." The wide-spreading pellucid sheet of water untouched by a breath of air, reminded one of a vast and beautiful mirror, from which the sun in the deep blue heavens could be seen pouring forth ten thousand golden rays of light and glory upon hill and dale, field and forest. The trees all ablaze in their autumnal dress, could be seen in the water and out of the water, so that it seemed as if we were standing between two visible and magnificent worlds, not knowing which to admire most, this or that. The hundreds of people assembled to hear the word of God read and expounded, the solemn quiet and order that marked the occasion; in a word, the whole scene conspired to fill me with a heavenly inspiration.

After the usual introduction, such as singing, prayer, and the reading of the Holy Scriptures, I read for a text Mark 16: 15, 15. "And he said unto them, Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature. He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved; but he that believeth not shall be damned." 1. I tried to define the gospel. 2. Our imperative duty to publish everywhere.

3. The object of it,—to save men from their sins here, and to save them forever hereafter in the kingdom of God and the Christ. The instrumental course of this salvation. Faith in our Lord Jesus the Christ, which must be shown by baptism as a prefiguration of death, burial, and a resurrection from the dead.

After preaching, Bro. John S. Du Bose buried four beneath that lovely water (as I had two carbuncles on me and could not attend to the sacrament). It was Bro. D's first attempt at baptizing, and he did it admirably. It was a blessed day.

Glory be to God! the truth is spreading in every direction, and I ought to be going all the time; but, alas! alas! my poor wife is prostrated, and slowly wasting away, so that my first duty is to take care of her. Her sufferings are constant and intense, but by the grace of God she triumphs over all.

Now, my dear brethren, and sisters, one and all, you see how my way for the future is hedged about and my labors circumscribed. Will you not, under these dark clouds, make our case one of constant prayer? Yours in the blessed hope.

Lydia, S. C., Oct. 29th, 1875.

From Bro. J. L. Field.

Brethren and sisters in the Lord:—I feel like writing a few lines to you to let you know how God's work is prospering in this part of the world. We have had a glorious campmeeting, and the Lord has been with us, calling sinners to repentance, strengthening his servants wonderfully, and causing his name to be magnified.

The meeting commenced Oct. 7th, and lasted over two Sundays, with good attendance. Bro. R. F. Clark and Sr. M. J. Clark had their large tent there on Peach Creek, and it was none too large. Good order prevailed, and much interest was manifested. Several sinners started in the way of life, backsliders were reclaimed, and many made to rejoice in the soon coming of our Lord Jesus Christ, hoping, when he comes, to be made like him. Many seem to be waking up to the fact that we are living in the last days; and some are making their faith manifest by their daily walk and conversation. Bro. Clark spoke twice on the prophecies, having his prophetic chart in use, showing plainly that we must be watching for the Master, or we shall be taken unawares. He also baptized fifteen willing souls, including one preacher, old in the service of God, but who has lately become of our faith.

Of preaching brethren, besides those above named, there were Brn. G. G. Godfrey, C. A. Huyck, S. F. Knox, E. N. Bliss, J. W. Hayworth, F. O. Cutter, Sr. S. Shriner and others. We had prayer-meetings of great interest, often having in the neighborhood of one hundred testimonies and exhortations in a short meeting. People are having a whole gospel preached to them here, and the truth is spreading fast.

Brethren, let us patiently wait for the coming of our Lord, not with folded hands, but let us sound the trumpet aloud, and not be found in that lukewarm state which is so hateful to Christ.

Butler, Kansas.

From Bro. Ali Andrews.

Good news from the churches is like cool water to the thirsty soul. I would like to say to the pilgrims on the King's highway, that the church in Bridgeport, Conn., is enjoying some of heaven's choicest blessings, under the labors of the brethren and sisters who have been with us. Nine have been baptized in the last few weeks, and there are several more who are waiting for an opportunity to go into the water. Last evening, two young men and one young lady rose for prayers, and there has been for a long time a growing interest with us. We trust that God is going to do a great work in Bridgeport, and the church is in good working order to gather in the sheaves that lie wasting on the plain. Pray for us.

Bridgeport, Conn., Nov. 1st.

BRO. R. DEERING writes:—"I am a preacher of the gospel, and hold with you the doctrine of the glorious second and near Advent of our blessed Lord. A neighbor of mine takes the Crisis, and showed me a number, which so interested me that I want to see more of it. If pleased I may continue to take it, but this is a trial. I see no such allusions to the thickening vices and alarming portents of the times as I see in the Crisis, and I want to be advised of these 'signs of the times.' I also like an article on prophecy, such as will help my understanding of these wonderful sayings of the Holy Spirit, for the benefit of the Lord's people. I have the No. of Oct. 20th, and am astonished to see a notice of a paper, 'The Holy Ghost,' the like of which I never expected to see or hear of. Alas! what is human nature without grace? I like the hints on holiness much."

BRO. J. PORTER, Danville, P. Q., writes: "I much approve of the suggestion for the spread of truth by the 'three months system.' Let us do our duty, and the Lord will take care of the consequences. Since 1842, I have preached the gospel of the coming kingdom of Christ, eaten my own bread, and worn my own clothing, but my sight and hearing have compelled me to retire from public labor. I cannot say with Paul, 'These hands have ministered to my necessities,' as twenty-two years since, by a terrible accident, I lost all but the three last fingers on the right hand, with which I scribble, and grapple this old planet."

May the Lord richly bless Bro. Porter, and make his last days his best. M. G.

Married.

BARBOUR—MERRINSON. At St. Johnsbury, Oct. 30th, by Elder M. A. Potter, Mr. FREDERICK S. BARBOUR, of Charlestown, N. H, and Miss ANNA MERRINSON, of St. Johnsbury, Vt.

WILBER—WHITNEY. In Clinton, Mass, Oct. 31st, GEO. H. WILBER and LOUISA B. WHITNEY, both of Clinton.

FOREIGN NEWS.

TURKEY.

LONDON, Nov. 4. And now the news comes from Turkey that the Porte hasn't so nearly triumphed over his revolted subjects as has been represented. The Herzegovinians have recently received 1000 breech-loading rifles from Montenegro, and the military commanders of Bosnia and Herzegovina have convoked an assembly for the purpose of proclaiming a national government. The Servians, too, are reported re-arming, and, altogether, the aspect is not at all peaceful.

It is affirmed at Berlin that Russia is not desirous of acting independently in the Herzegovinian matter, and that the three powers, Austria, Germany and Russia, continue in complete harmony on the subject.

The Berlin correspondent of the London Pall Mall Gazette says the northern powers have invited Austria, as the one most interested, to frame a proposition for the guarantee to be demanded, and the control to be exercised to ensure the performance of the Sultan's promises of reform to the insurgents in his vassal states, and Count Andrassy is now elaborating such proposition. It is believed the Porte will be unable to suppress the rebellion, and that the great powers will sanction an intervention of Austria next spring.

DOMESTIC NEWS.

Cincinnati, Nov. 2. At a meeting of a large number of clergymen of this city it has been decided that a centennial religious celebration be held in Cincinnati in 1876; that a Board of Managers, consisting of fifteen persons, be appointed, who shall be charged with the execution and development of plans for the celebration; that invitations to participate shall embrace the whole land and all religions, and be limited only by the utmost ability to make it such a religious success, both in representation and numbers, as the world has never witnessed. It is understood that this enterprise meets with the approval of Director General Goshorn.

Notices.

SPECIAL MEETING OF THE A. C. A.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Advent Christian Association held in Boston, Mass., Sept. 30th, it was voted that a special meeting of the Advent Christian Association be held on Tuesday, Dec. 14th, at two o'clock P. M., to consider the expediency of revising the Constitution of the Association, particularly with regard to forming a new basis of representation. A full attendance of preachers and delegates from the churches is earnestly desired. Each church is entitled to one delegate, and one additional delegate for every fifty members above twenty-five. The meeting will be held at the Advent Chapel, Central Street, Worcester, Mass.

S. G. MATHEWSON, President.
C. E. BARNES, Secretary.

DEDICATION.—The Advent Christian Church edifice at Ontario, Wayne Co., N. Y., will be (by the grace of God) dedicated Saturday, Dec. 4th. Bro. Miles Grant will preach the dedicatorial sermon. Services Saturday morning, at 11 o'clock, and at 2 and 7 P. M. At the same hours on the Sabbath. We expect Bro. Grant to continue a series of meetings through the week, and over the following Sabbath. We hope to see the faces of many of our brethren and sisters from abroad. Homes will be provided for all who come. Other preaching brethren will be present.

Ontario is on the Rome, Watertown, and Ogdensburgh R. R., Ontario Division, eighteen miles east from Rochester. Cars leave Rochester at 7.30 A. M. and 4.20 P. M. Friends east of Port Byron and Seneca Falls can take cars on the Southern Central for Sterling Junction, thence to Ontario. N. B. Take morning train on the Southern C. R. R. JAS. E. WELLS.

Work while the Day Lasts.

The Missionary Association formed at Pittsfield Campmeeting, Sept. 9th, 1875, proposed to procure a Tent for Mission work in the Eastern part of Maine, said Tent to be raised in one hundred shares, and not to exceed the sum of four hundred dollars ($400), and all the shares to be taken up by the first day of April, 1876.

The above enterprise has got a good start, and we now ask all our brethren and sisters in or out of the State, who will co-operate with us in Mission work, to send in at once by postal card, or otherwise, saying whether they will take one or more shares in the Tent. Please do not delay an answer, as we wish to order the Tent soon. Direct to Jer. Carr, South Albion, Me.

For the Association, O. S. FRENCH. JER. CARR.

Maine Conference Changed.

In consequence of a special meeting of the Advent Christian Association having been called on the same day of the Maine Conference, therefore the Conference will be held in Portland on Tuesday, Nov. 30th, at 3 o'clock P. M. As business of importance is expected to come before the meeting, it is hoped that the brethren will make a special effort to be present.

GEO. HUMPHREY, President.
W. H. MITCHELL, Secretary.

PERSONAL.—By request of Bro. E. B. Wells, his pastoral relations with the Second Advent Church in Rye, N. H., is mutually dissolved. This may certify, that we have unanimously invited Bro. Wells to remain with us; but thinking he could do more good by traveling and preaching in other places, we give him an honorable discharge, in all christian fellowship and good feelings, and recommend him as a faithful laborer and brother in Christ. For the church,

E. WOOLCOTT, Chairman.
C. D. GARLAND, Secretary.

PROTRACTED MEETING.—A protracted meeting will commence in Hinesburgh, Vt., Nov. 14th, to hold as long as duty demands. A cordial invitation is extended to all to come and worship with us. Come in the name of Elijah's God to work for the salvation of sinners. Elders A. A. Hoyt and Allen Damon will be with us to preach the word. WM. C. STEWART, Pastor.

PROTRACTED MEETING.—The Lord will, there will be a protracted meeting in East Colebrook, N. H., Kiddersville, commencing Sunday, Nov. 14th. Will Bro. George E. Brown meet with me? U. G. LADD.

NOTICE.—This is to certify that the A. C. Church worshiping on Hammond Street, Providence, R. I., have given Eld. A. W. Sibley a call to become their Pastor, and he has accepted the same. All preaching brethren wishing to exchange, or to preach, will confer with him.

J. W. LAKE, Church Clerk.

HAVING closed my labors with the church at Rye, N. H., I am at liberty to preach as the way opens. My address for the future will be Portsmouth, N. H., Box 412. E. B. WELLS.

I WILL let my tent to go South to responsible parties this winter, or will sell it for one hundred and fifty dollars to parties that want it for meetings to preach the Lord's coming. It is fifty feet in diameter, made in the best possible manner, of the heaviest drilling, well roped, etc. For particulars inquire of H. B. SEVEY, Mt. Vernon, Me.

WILL Sr. S. C. Smith give her P. O. address in the Crisis? C. C. PLUMMER.

PLEASE READ THIS!

I wish to say to all interested, that I intend to publish soon, if sufficient inducements are offered, a work entitled, "BAPTISM AND RANTISM," being the revision and completion of what has appeared in part in the Crisis, taking up and treating more exhaustively than in the articles published, the subject of baptism, and treating rantism as it relates to the doctrine of the Atonement. It is proposed to discuss the topics somewhat in the following order:

An old word, and a new one; The Greek etymology of the two; A fabular view; Curious coincidents; Lexicographicals; A hunt for meanings of baptism; Tortuous turnings to find a meaning; Found at last; rantism not to be found; It is waiting for a lexicographer to give it a place; But "baptism" is a Bible word; Found in the English New Testament; How it came there; Untranslated from the original word; The name of an ordinance; To be practised in the church till the end of time; How? Human practices and explainings not to be the guide; What has been called baptism has always, since its institution, been practised; Malpractice; Perversion, falsification, sprinkling, historical illustrations of it; Baptism should be practised according to its true etymological sense, and its symbolical significance; High authority for its true meaning, in its literal sense; The practice taken from a word which had a meaning before it was applied to the ordinance; Are we justified in being particular about it now? References for proof of its meaning; Immersion only; Immersion simply, then, is the form, but the form only is not Christian baptism; What is Christian baptism? The immersion of a proper subject in water, in a proper manner, by a divinely appointed and qualified administrator; The symbolical sense of baptism; Metaphors of baptism.

Part 2. Rantism a new word; Not baptism; What is it? Not found in the English New Testament. What can it mean? Has it any significance to the church of God? "Much every way"; It has long been called something else; The perversion of it has defamed the one and spoiled the other; The Greek original found in the Greek New Testament; Translated in the English from the original word, hence not treated like baptism; Where in the original text the word and its corelatives are found; Examination of authorities for its meaning; Its relation to the atonement; THE BLOOD; Life in the blood; Life and death; Death penalty; Significance of the blood; Sprinkling of the blood, or "blood of sprinkling"; See the use and meaning of the blood of Christ found in the word "rantism"; He came by water and blood, or by baptism and rantism.

While the foregoing topics do not exhaust the list, they give the reader an idea of what the work is designed to do, and all who are interested in it are invited to co-operate to secure its publication. The pamphlet will cost, doubtless, about 25 to 50 cents per single copy, or $15 to $30 per hundred. I have already received evidence that it is needed, and while good things have been published on the subject of baptism, nothing has yet been issued which covers the ground of this, and it is thought to be much needed as a standard work among Advent people. Let all, who will take one copy or more, drop me a postal card immediately, to Danville, P. Q., that I may know what to do. One thousand subscribers are wanted at once, and if one in ten of the subscribers of the Crisis take a copy, if no more, it will insure success. Please send on your orders. L. C. MCKINSTRY.

Appointments.

☞ APPOINTMENTS MUST BE RECEIVED AS EARLY AS TUESDAY MORNING (as our paper goes to press about noon) to insure insertion for the coming week.

☞ The following RESOLUTION was passed at the late meeting of the A. C. P. Society:—

"RESOLVED, That no appointments be published in the CRISIS henceforth for persons unknown to the Editorial Board (by which is understood the Editors, Editorial Committee, and Business Agent), unless satisfactory reference shall be given."

The Committee appointed by the Adv. Chris. Association, at its last Annual Meeting, to advise with the Editorial Board "in relation to the publication in the World's Crisis of the appointments of men unworthy of recognition as preachers," having attended to the duty assigned them, recommended, and the Editorial Board have adopted, and ordered to be published, the following resolution:—

"RESOLVED, That when the Editorial Board is properly notified by any of our Churches, or Ministers, or responsible persons, by a written allegation that a certain minister, or ministers, lack moral character, that they be instructed to notify such minister, or ministers, of the information received as a reason for withholding their appointments till after a proper trial and acquittal."

All communications in relation to this matter should be addressed to the Secretary of the Board—GEO. T. ADAMS, Boston, Mass.

Boston (Branch Chapel) 2029 Washington Street, (corner of Madison Street.)
Love Feast at 10½ a. m. Preaching at 3 and 7½ p. m. Prayer meeting Tuesday and Friday evenings.
J. N. Sherman .... Sunday, Nov. 14th
Edwin Thompson will speak at seven o'clock p. m., on Temperance.

BOSTON (Repository Hall) 712 Washington St., corner of Kneeland St.
Preaching at 10½ a. m. and 3 and 7 p. m. Sunday School at 1.30 p. m. Prayer meeting Wednesday evening.

EAST BOSTON (Central Hall, 152 Meridian Street.)
Meetings every Sunday, at the usual hours, also prayer and conference meetings Wednesday and Friday evenings, at 7½ o'clock p. m.

CHARLESTOWN (HALL NO. 70 MAIN STREET.)
J. F. Nickerson .... Sunday, Nov. 14th
Wm. N. Pile .... Sunday, Nov. 21st
E. Owen .... Sunday, Nov. 28th

Chelsea, Mass.
Preaching Sundays, at 10.30 A. M. and 3 P. M.
Conference Meeting at 7 o'clock Sunday evenings. Tuesday and Friday evenings, at 7½ o'clock.
I. B. Potter .... Sunday, Nov. 14th

SOMERVILLE, Mass (Pilgrim Hall, Summer Street.)
Meetings every Sunday, at the usual hours, also prayer and conference meetings Tuesday and Friday evenings, at 7½ o'clock p. m.
Geo. W. Sederquest .... 1st and 3d Sundays in each month till further notice.

HYDE PARK, Mass. (Connor's Hall.)—Meetings every Sabbath at the usual hours. T. M. PREBLE.

Lynn, Mass .... 4th Sabbath in each month for the present. J. COUCH.

Holden, Mass .... Sunday, Nov. 14th
Tremont, Mass .... Sunday, Nov. 21st
C. E. BARNES.

Newton Upper Falls, Mass., meetings every Lord's day, at the house of L. T. Cunningham. Baptism Sunday, Nov. 14th.

Brimfield, Mass .... Sunday, Nov. 21st
C. GOODRICH.

South Barnstead, N. H.. Thursday evening, Nov. 11th and over Sunday, Nov. 14th.
South Sutton, N. H .... Sunday, Nov. 21st
A. ROSS.

La Fayette, R. I, Tuesday evening, Nov. 9th, and every evening during the week, and over Sunday, Nov. 14th.
I. I. LESLIE.
H. H. TUCKER.

North Carver, Mass., evening, Nov. 16th, through the week, and Sundays, Nov. 21st and 28th.
I. B. POTTER.

Tremont, Mass .... Sunday, Nov. 14th
Plymouth, Mass .... Sunday, Nov. 21st
J. S. WHITE.

New Bedford, Mass .... Sabbath, Nov. 14th
Direct to Chicopee Falls, Mass. H. MUNGER.

Abington, Conn .... Sunday, Nov. 14th
MRS. H. L. HASTINGS.

Oxford, Me. (where G. I. Tracy appoints) evening, Dec. 2nd, and Sunday, Dec. 5th.
Milton Mills, N. H. (where Bro. Remick appoints) evenings, Dec. 14th, 15th, and 16th.
E. S. MOULTON.

West Waterville .... Sunday, Nov. 14th
T. RINES.

North Greenwich, N. Y., Nov. 13th, and over Sunday
North Easton, N. Y .... evening, Nov. 15th
C. W. BAKER.

Palmer, Mass .... Sabbath, Nov. 14th
Montgomery .... Sabbath, Nov. 21st
Brimfield .... Sabbath, Nov. 28th
GEO. L. TEEPLE.

Lisbon, N. H. (Streeter school-house) Sunday, Nov. 21st. Baptism. GEO. E. BROWN.

Ludlow, Mass. (as Bro. Whitney may arrange) Monday evening, Nov. 15th.
Palmer, Mass .... Tuesday evening, Nov. 16th
Southbridge, Mass .... Thursday evening, Nov. 18th
GEO. A. STREETER.

East Pepperell, Mass... Sundays, Nov. 14th, 21st, and Sunday, Nov. 28th. RICHARD MOSHER.

South Sutton, N. H .... Saturday evening, Nov. 20th
North Sutton (at Bro. I. Andrew's house) Sunday, Nov. 21st. O. W. KIMBALL.

Fairhaven, Mass .... Sunday, Nov. 14th
New York City (as Bro. Cox may appoint) Sunday, Nov. 21st.
Hartford, Conn .... Sunday, Nov. 28th
M. BATCHELOR.

Newark, N. J .... Sunday, Nov. 14th
H. PRATT.

Milo, Me .... Sunday, Nov. 14th
F. A. BAKER.

Farmington, N. H .... Sunday, Nov. 28th
J. F. CHAMBERLIN.

Surry .... Saturday, Nov. 13th, at 2 p. m., and over Sunday, Nov. 14th. S. & L. W. BRAGG.

East Canaan, N. H .... Friday evening, Nov. 12th
Dorchester, N. H. (Town House).. Sunday, Nov. 14th
Hill Village, N. H. (where Sr. Hilpert may appoint) Saturday evening, Nov. 20th.
Hill Centre (meeting-house) .... Sabbath, Nov. 21st
SIMEON ROBY.

Pittsburg, N. H. (Stream school-house) Saturday evening, Nov. 20th.
Hall Stream, P. Q. (Upper school-house) Sun., Nov. 21st
Worden, P. Q. (where Bro. L. G. Hill may appoint) Sunday, Nov. 28th, and onward as the Lord directs.
U. G. LADD

Bradford, N. H. (Pond meeting-house) Sun., Nov. 14th
Bradford, N. H. (Bush meeting-house) Sun., Nov. 21st
Sutton, N. H. (Palmer school-house) Sun., Nov. 28th
A. S. WILLIAMS.

Northwood Narrows, N. H .... Sunday, Nov. 14th
Fairhaven, Mass .... Tuesday evening, Nov. 23d and onward.
Mattapoisett, Mass .... Sunday, Nov. 28th
A. SIMPSON.

Haverhill Corner, N. H. (Sand Bank school-house) Sunday, Nov. 14th. GEO. E. BROWN.

Ellsworth .... Thursday evening, Nov. 11th and over Sunday, Nov. 14th. G. L. WHITE.

Poultney, Vt .... Sunday, Nov. 14th
Clarendon, Vt .... evening, Nov. 15th
Burdettville, Vt .... evening, Nov. 16th
North Shrewsbury, Vt .... evening, Nov. 17th
Eastham, Vt .... evening, Nov. 18th
Addison, Vt .... evening, Nov. 20th, Sunday, Nov. 21st each evening during the week, and Sun., Nov. 28th.
Factory Point, Vt .... evening, Nov. 29th
ARTHUR A. WAITE.

Melbourne, P. Q., Saturday evening, Nov. 13th, at 7½ o'clock, and over Sunday, Nov. 14th, at 10½ a. m. and 1 p. m., and 6½ in the evening.
SR. M. MCKINSTRY.

New Britain, Ct .... Sunday, Nov. 21st
East Weymouth, Mass .... Sunday, Nov. 28th
Kennebunkport, Me .... Sundays, Dec. 5th and 12th
W. S. CAMPBELL.

Cabot, Vt .... Sunday, Nov. 14th
Woodbury, Vt. (where Bro. Wilbur may appoint) evenings, Nov. 15th and 16th.
Hardwick, Vt .... evenings, Nov. 18th and 19th
Cabot, Vt .... Sunday, Nov. 21st
West Groton, Vt .... Sunday, Nov. 28th
Topsham, V. (Carson Bridge) .... Sunday, Dec. 5th
DANIEL D. PAGE.

Hollis Centre, Me .... Sunday, Nov. 14th
B. S. EMERY.

Belmont, N. H .... Sunday, Nov. 14th
Hatley, P. Q. (Old meeting-house) Sunday, Nov. 28th evenings through the week, and Sun., Dec. 5th.
C. S. SHATTUCK.

East Concord, N. H .... Sabbath, Nov. 14th
East Canaan, N. H .... Sabbath, Nov. 21st
Canterbury, N. H. (where I was before) Sab., Nov. 28th
S. HAWKINS.

Square Pond, Ct .... Sunday, Nov. 14th
West Otis, Mass .... Sunday, Nov. 21st
West Becket (if desired) .... Sunday, Nov. 28th
WM. J. RIPLEY.

Unity, N. H .... Sunday, Nov. 14th
East Acworth, N. H.... evenings, Nov. 16th and 17th
Unity, N. H .... evenings, Nov. 18th and 19th
East Acworth, N. H .... evening, Nov. 20th and over Sunday, Nov. 21st.
Dorchester, N. H .... evening, Nov. 28th
J. B. S. PILLSBURY.

Becket, Mass. (Keyon Hall) .... Sundays, Nov. 14th and 21st.
Lee, Mass. (Bro. Broga's Dist.)... Tuesday, Nov. 16th
ENOCH PHELPS.

North Adams .... Sunday, Nov. 14th
North Shrewsbury, Vt .... 1st and 3d Sundays in each month.
Hebron, N. Y .... Nov. 25th
North Greenwich, N. Y .... Nov. 26th
Fort Ann, N. Y .... Nov. 27th, and over the Sabbath
WM. J. BLANCHARD.

Melvin Village, N. H .... Sunday, Nov. 14th
JOHN PARSONS.

Bow, N. H. (Woodbury school-house) Friday evening and over Sunday, Nov. 14th. D. W. DAVIS.

Warehousepoint, Ct .... Sunday, Nov. 21st
MRS. C. L. CRUMB.

Farmington Village, N. H .... Sunday, Nov. 14th
Northwood Narrows, N. H .... Sunday, Nov. 21st
WM. BODGE.

West Alton, N. H. (at the Chapel) Sabbath, Nov. 14th
D. F. LEAVITT.

Bonny Eagle, Me. (exchange with Bro. Haines) Sunday, Nov. 14th.
Freedom, N. H. (Chapel) .... Sunday, Nov. 21st
C. H. SWEET.

Pleasant Valley, N. H .... Sunday, Nov. 14th
T. L. CHURCHILL.

Newcastle, N. H .... Sunday, Nov. 14th
Meredith, N. H. (Dolloff Hall) .... Sunday, Nov. 21st
Meredith Neck, N. H. (meeting-house) Sun., Nov. 28th
Farmington Village, N. H .... Sunday, Dec. 5th
C. R. PARSONS.

East Landaff, N. H.... evenings, Nov. 11th, 12th, 13th and over Sunday.
Topsom, Vt. (Carson Bridge, with Bro. George E. Brown) evening, Nov. 20th, and over Sunday.
Haverhill, N. H. (Sand-bank school-house) evening, Nov. 27th, and over Sunday.
Sandwich, N. H. (Vitam school-house) evenings, Dec. 9th, 10th, 11th, and over Sunday.
Centerharbor, N. H. (Neck Road school-house) with Bro. J. G. Moulton.... evenings, Dec. 2d, 3d, 4th, and over Sunday.
Meredith, N. H. (Dolloff Hall) .... Sunday, Dec. 19th
JOHN H. EVANS.

Canterbury, N. H. (Emery school-house) Sun., Nov. 14th
JESSE C. SMITH.

Charlton .... Sunday, Nov. 21st
Plainville (New Bedford) .... Sunday, Nov. 28th
Robert Cottle's neighborhood .... evenings, Nov. 29th and 30th.
Brailey's Station .... evenings, Dec. 1st and 2nd
Tripp Wharf (Westport) ... 2 p. m., Sunday, Dec. 5th
Pine Hill, " ... 2 p. m., Sunday, Dec. 12th
Coventry Centre, R. I .... Sunday, Dec. 19th
Charlton .... Sunday, Dec. 26th
MARY E. OTIS.

Bradford, N. H. (Pond meeting-house) Friday evening, Nov. 26th, and over the Sabbath.
D. W. DAVIS. JOHN PARSONS.

Bristol, Conn., Sunday, Nov. 28th, evenings during the week, and over the following Sabbath, Dec. 5th.
WARREN TEFFT.

Kennebunk Depot .... Sunday, Nov. 14th
South Alfred, Me .... Sunday, Nov. 21st
Kennebunkport, Me. (Smith school-house) Sunday, Nov. 28th, also each Sunday evening in Nov. at six o'clock. JER. HILL.

Kennebunkport, Me. (Smith school-house) Sunday, Nov. 21st.
Dayton, Me. (Clark school house) Sunday, Nov. 28th
JOHN R. TRIPP.

Warehousepoint, Ct .... Sunday, Nov. 14th
ARTHUR PEASE.

Seabrook, N. H., Tuesday, Nov. 16th, and other churches in the vicinity, as Bro. Barton may arrange, till the 19th.
Salem, Mass .... Sunday, Nov. 21st
South Seabrook (Congregational Church) Monday evening, Nov. 15th.
Hampton, N. H .... Tuesday evening, Nov. 16th
East Salisbury, Mass.. Wednesday evening, Nov. 17th
Newburyport, Mass .... Nov. 18th and 19th
ANNIE E. SMITH.

Clinton, Mass .... Sunday, Nov. 21st
Salem, Mass .... 2d and 4th Sundays in each month until further notice. GEO. W. SEDERQUEST.

Charlton, Mass .... 1st Sunday in every month
Southbridge, Mass .... 4th Sunday in every month
SAM'L. AYRES.

Granby, Mass. (Batchelder Street) the second Sunday in each month.
North Rutland, Mass.. the last Sunday in each month
GEO. A. STREETER.

Palmer, Mass., the 1st and 3d Sundays in each month
Granby, Mass .... fourth Sunday in each month
H. H. TUCKER.

Hinesburg, Vt., Sundays for one year excepting the last Sunday in each month.
Bristol, Vt., the last Sunday in each month for one year. WM. C. STEWART.

HAVERHILL, Mass. (New Chapel on Walnut St.)
A. A. Robinson .... Sunday, Nov. 14th
C. S. Shattuck .... Sunday, Nov. 21st

WORCESTER, MASS.
E. Owen .... Sunday, Nov. 14th
Geo. A. Streeter .... Sunday, Nov. 21st

NATICK, MASS.
L. Boutell .... Sunday, Nov. 14th
E. Owen .... Sunday, Nov. 21st
Anna E. Smith .... Nov. 25th and 26th and Sunday, Nov. 28th.

NEW BEDFORD, MASS.
A. Simpson .... Sunday, Nov. 21st
E. Owen .... Sundays, Dec. 5th and 12th

NORTH RUTLAND, MASS.
Willard M. Hall .... first Sunday in each month
H. H. Tucker .... second Sunday in each month

HAMPTON, N. H.
A. Ross .... Sunday, Nov. 14th
J. F. Chamberlin .... Sunday, Nov. 21st
D. F. Leavitt .... Sunday, Dec. 5th
Enoch Morrill .... Sunday, Dec. 12th

EXETER, N. H.
W. W. Sutherland .... Sunday, Nov. 14th
B. Woodside .... Sunday, Nov. 21st
C. S. Shattuck .... Sunday, Dec. 12th

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.
Annie E. Smith .... Sunday, Nov. 14th

SEABROOK, N. H.
T. W. Piper .... Sunday, Nov. 14th
Joseph Pinkham .... Sunday, Nov. 21st
D. F. Leavitt .... Sunday, Nov. 28th
John F. Chamberlin .... Sunday, Dec 5th
Joseph Pinkham .... Sunday, Dec. 12th
E. S. Moulton .... Sunday, Dec. 19th
D. M. Leaaitt .... Sunday, Dec. 26th

GREAT FALLS, N. H. (Franklin Hall.)
C. Goodrich .... Sunday, Nov. 14th
D. F. Leavitt .... Sunday, Nov. 21st
T. L. Churchill .... Sunday, Nov. 28th
C. S. Shattuck .... Sunday, Dec. 5th
F. W. Sederquest .... Sunday, Dec. 12th
L. E. Saulpaugh .... Sunday, Dec. 19th
A. W. Sibley .... Sunday, Dec. 26th
C. S. Shattuck .... Sunday, Jan. 2d
J. W. White .... Sunday, Jan. 9th

RYE, N. H.
C. E. Hurd .... Sunday, Nov. 14th
J. G. Smith .... Sunday, Nov. 21st
E. Morrill .... Sunday, Nov. 28th
J. W. White .... Sunday, Dec. 5th

NEW DURHAM, N. H.
T. W. Piper .... Sunday, Nov. 21st

EAST CONCORD, N. H. (Ward House.)—Meetings three times Sunday, also Tuesday and Thursday evenings.
C. H. Fletcher .... first Sunday in each month
D. W. Davis .... third Sunday in each month

WEST DEERFIELD, N. H.
Enoch Morrill .... Sunday, Nov. 14th

SOUTH ROCHESTER, N. H.
J. F. Chamberlin .... Sunday, Nov. 14th
J. F. Chamberlin .... Sunday, Nov. 14th
Sr. Jane Davis .... Sunday, Nov. 21st
S. Hawkins .... Sunday, Dec. 5th

PORTLAND, ME. (Union Hall.)
J. Couch .... Sunday, Nov. 14th

SABBATUS, ME. (Jones' Hall.)
H. S. Mitchell .... Sunday, Nov. 14th
H. D. Reed .... Sunday, Nov. 21st
E. S. Moulton .... evening, Dec. 8th and over Sunday, Dec. 12th.

BATH, ME.
R. R. York .... Sunday, Nov. 14th
I. C. Wellcome .... Sunday, Nov. 21st
A protracted meeting is expected to be continued from Sunday, the 14th, onward as duty seems to dictate. I. C. W.

BIDDEFORD, ME.
Geo. W. Brown .... Sunday, Nov. 14th
Wm. H. Mitchell .... Sunday, Nov. 21st
J. Albert Libby .... Sunday, Nov. 28th

SOUTH BERWICK, ME. (Great Works.)
J. W. White .... Sunday, Nov. 14th
Geo. W. Brown .... Sunday, Nov. 21st
C. Goodrich .... Sunday, Nov. 28th

SOUTH ELLIOT, ME.
W. W. Sutherland .... Sunday, Nov. 21st

BRIDGEPORT, CONN.
Warren Tefft .... Sundays, Nov. 14th and 21st
Mrs. E. A. Warren .... Sunday, Nov. 28th
Mrs. E. L. Crumb .... Sunday, Dec. 5th
Mrs. E. A. Warren .... Sunday, Dec. 12th
G. L. White .... Sunday, Dec. 19th
Mrs. E. A. Warren .... Sunday, Dec. 26th
Mrs. E. L. Crumb.. 1st Sunday in each month forever

PLAINVILLE, CT.
Seth Woodruff .... Sunday, Nov. 14th
R. K. Stark .... Sunday, Nov. 21st
B. Hitchcock .... Sunday, Dec. 5th
Mrs. E. L. Crumb .... Sunday, Dec. 12th

PUTNAM, CT.
H. Pratt .... Sunday, Nov. 21st
A. Simpson .... Sundays, Dec. 5th and 12th and evenings through the week.

NEW HAVEN, CONN.
O. D. Woodruff .... Sunday, Nov. 14th

SOUTH WINDSOR, CT.
B. Hitchcock .... Sunday, Nov. 14th
G. L. White .... Sunday, Nov 21st
S. Woodruff .... Sunday, Nov. 28th

MILLDALE (Southington, Ct.)
R. K. Stark .... Sunday, Nov. 14th
A. Elliott .... Sunday, Nov. 21st
G. L. White .... Sunday, Nov. 28th

SOUTH WEST HOOSICK, N. Y.
Arthur A. Waite .... once in four weeks
Flora Blanchard .... once in four weeks

CHICAGO, ILL.—Green Street Tabernacle Church hold services in their Chapel on Green Street, near Madison Street, Chicago, Ill., every Lord's day, morning and evening. Prayer meetings in the Basement room of the Tabernacle every Wednesday and Friday evenings of each week. Brethren and sisters passing through Chicago are invited to call. All correspondents will write to L. C. RICE, 168 West Madison St.

CHICAGO, ILL.—The Advent Christian Church meets at their Hall, No. 213 West Madison St., every Lord's day. There will be preaching at 10½ a. m. and 7½ p. m.; prayer meeting every Thursday evening, at 7½ o'clock. All preaching brethren visiting, or passing through the city, and desiring to preach, will please correspond with Bro. H. P. WRIGHT, Board of Health, Chicago, Ill. H. P. Wright, R. P. Price, Elders.

REMOVAL.—The Star of Hope Mission (late of 229 South 5th Avenue), has removed to 185 Spring Street, between Thompson and Sullivan Streets, to the large hall lately occupied by the City Mission. Services will be held on Sundays at 10½, 3 and 7½ o'clock. Class meeting Monday evenings, at 8 o'clock; prayer and conference Wednesday and Friday evenings, at 8 o'clock. MRS. ANNA E. SMITH, Sup't.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., A. C. Church, Hammond Street, near Division. Sabbath—Social meeting 9 a. m. Sabbath school 10.30 a. m.; preaching 2.45 p. m.; social meeting 7 a. m. Social meetings Wednesday and Friday evenings, at 7.30 P. M. A. W. SIBLEY, Pastor.

PORTLAND, ME.
The Advent Christian Church of Portland, Me., hold meetings every Sabbath, also on Tuesday and Friday evenings, in "Union Hall," on Free Street, entrance nearly opposite the Baptist church. James Berry, John Higgins, Asa L. Ames, Church Com.

AUGUSTA, ME.—Meetings are held at the Young Men's Christian Association Room, Darby Block, on Water Street. Preaching brethren wishing to visit the church at Augusta, will correspond with Brn. George B. Choate and H. G. Smiley, Committee.

RYE, N. H.—Bro. E. B. Wells having been chosen pastor of the church in Rye, will supply the desk every Sabbath, except the first of each month (that being supplied by Bro. J. W. White.) All communications relative to preaching should be directed to him at North Hampton Depot, care of Chesley Bros.

"GOSPEL SONGS."

"A choice collection of Hymns and Tunes, New and Old, for Prayer Meetings, Sunday Schools, etc."

This is a new book that has had a large sale at our campmeetings this season, and contains some very choice pieces:—"When Jesus Comes," "More to Follow," etc., etc. For sale at this Office. Price, 35 cts. per copy; $3.60 per dozen by express; by mail, 40 cts. per copy. AGENT.

THE ADVENT MINSTREL;

A choice collection of Spiritual Songs. Flexible cloth, 25 cents single copy; per dozen, $2.50 by mail. For sale at this Office.

"THE CHILD'S BIBLE QUESTION BOOK."

BY ELD. C. GOODRICH.

This is the title of a work just issued by the A. C. P. Society, designed for the small children in the Sabbath Schools and in the family. Just what we have long wanted. Price 10 cts. single copy; $1.00 per doz., sent by mail. AG'T.

THE FUTURE OF OUR PLANET

AS VIEWED FROM A

BIBLICAL STANDPOINT.

BY A. W. SIBLEY.

This is the title of a new Tract of 16 pages, issued by the A. C. P. Society. Just the thing to circulate widely. Price, 3 cents per copy; 20 cts. per dozen; $1.40 per hundred, by mail. AG'T.

GERMAN TRACTS.

A new German Tract just out: "Does the Bible teach the Immortality of the Soul?" A reply to a letter from a German theologian in Prussia.

Other tracts as follows: "The Fifth Universal Kingdom, or Kingdom of Christ on Earth." "What is Man?" "Future Doom of the Ungodly." "Resurrection," etc.

LOUIS REIMER, No. 639 North Eighth Street, above Wallace, Philadelphia, Pa.

A LIST OF NEW BOOKS,

JUST RECEIVED FROM

KELLAWAY & CO.'S ENGLISH REPOSITORY.

FOR SALE AT THE OFFICE OF

"THE ADV. CHRIS. PUB. SOCIETY,"

160 HANOVER STREET.

Persons purchasing from the following list, help in so doing to sustain the English Repository.

COVERDALE'S ENGLISH BIBLE. A large volume, being a copy of the first Bible ever printed in the English language. Very curious, and in many texts favoring the truth of life only in the Christ. $8.

OLD TESTAMENT SCRIPTURES IN HEBREW AND ENGLISH. 4th size. Bagster's edition. A nice edition of the Scriptures. $8.

"RAINBOW," VOLUME FOR 1874. The English Monthly that utters the truth about immortality. Edited by W. Leask, D. D. $3 bound in cloth.

"BIBLE ECHO," VOLUME I., FOR 1874. This is the only English weekly newspaper that maintains what as a people we consider to be teachings of God. It is conducted by Eld. W. Kellaway. We have a good supply of this book, to meet expected sale. It contains the history of the truth in England and its Colonies. $3 bound in cloth.

CRITICAL NEW TESTAMENT, with Emendations by Fregelles, Lachmann, Griesbach, and Tischendorff. $1.50.

CATHOLIC APOSTOLIC CHURCH (Irvingism): Its Pretensions and Claims considered in connection with the facts of its history, and the teaching of the New Testament and early Christian Antiquity. Cloth limp, 65 cts.

BIBLE TRIUMPHANT: a Reply to "144 Self-Contradictions of the Bible." 50 cts.

"THE WAY EVERLASTING," by S. Minton, M. A. Review of the English Controversy on Eternal Evil. 30 cts.

SUNLIGHT DISPERSING THE DISMAL SHADOWS: or, The Doctrine of Eternal Torments shown to lack Reason and Scripture alike. 25 cts.

PHOTOGRAPH OF H. CONSTABLE, M. A., one of the chief of English writers on Life only in the Christ, author of "Hades," and "The Duration of Future Punishment, etc, late Prebendary of Cork, Ireland. 25 cts.

PHOTOGRAPH OF S. MINTON, M. A., also a prolific writer on Human Mortality and the Divine Gift of Eternal Existence. Late of Eaton Chapel, London. 25 cts.

LAST WAR; a little book treating upon the Last War, with a Diagram. 15 cts.

HARMONY OF SCRIPTURE UPON FUTURE PUNISHMENT. The Death View. By S. Minton, M. A. 20 cts.

IMMORTALITY ONLY IN CHRIST, AND ETERNAL DEATH. The subjects of Two Lectures delivered in Brikenhead. By H. S. Harleigh, M. A. Capt. Ward in the Chair. 20 cts.

A NEW BIBLE: or Scripture Re-written to prove the Doctrines of Necessary Immortality and Eternal Evil. By S. Minton, M. A. 10 cts.

IMMATERIALISM: or, The Fruits of Believing the Soul of Man to be the Personality. 6 cts.

CHAOS, KOSMOS, THE KINGDOM OF DARKNESS AND THE KINGDOM OF GOD. By E. White, M. A. Our Earth's history from beginning to end. 5 cts.

WHO ART THOU THAT JUDGEST? A Letter addressed to one, but applicable to many. By Joseph Stratford, Minister of the Gospel. A Rebuke with Doctrine of such as are cruel in their treatment of Christians holding life in Jesus. 5 cts.

WORDS OF HOLY WRIT ON FUTURE PUNISHMENT. 50 cts.

SCRIPTURE DOCTRINE OF A FUTURE LIFE. By W. Leask, D. D. 12 copies for 50 cts.

POPULAR OBJECTIONS TO THE RESURRECTION of the Body. 12 copies for 50 cts.

WHOSE CHILD ARE YOU? 12 copies for 35c.

REPORT of a large Meeting at Chelsea on Life only in Christ. Reported by Bro. W. Kellaway. 12 copies for 50 cts.

LIFE EVERLASTING. By W. Leask, D. D. 12 copies for 25 cts.

DIALOGUE between a Pedestrian and his Friend. A lot of valuable extracts. 12 copies for 25 cts.

LIFE AND DEATH. Extract from Archbishop Whateley's "Future Life." 20 copies for 25 cts.

IMMORTALITY. Extracts from numerous authors on Life and Immortality by the Lord Christ. By H. Constable, M. A. Enlarged by Bro. W. Kellaway. 20 copies for 25 cts.

IMMORTALITY ONLY IN CHRIST. A concise presentation of the truth stated in its title, in twenty-three paragraphs and extracts from Fathers. 20 copies for 25 cts.

ETERNAL LIFE THE GIFT OF GOD. 20 copies for 25 cts.

A JESUIT'S LETTER. Jesuitry as it is, and not as it seems. 25 copies for 10 cts.

THE EVILS OF TOBACCO USING. Reprinted from the "American Health Reformer." 12 copies for 50 cts.

Business.

Notes to Correspondents.

☞ We cannot discontinue or send your orders, unless you give us the POST OFFICE and STATE in PLAIN LETTERS.

☞ ELD. S. G. MATHEWSON'S address is Castleton, Vt.

☞ DR. D. MATHEWSON'S address is 331 Seventeenth Street, San Francisco, California.

☞ ELD. A. W. SIBLEY'S address is 32 Bellevue Avenue, Providence, R. I.

☞ S. S. BREWER'S address, until further notice, will be No. 122 Pleasant Street, New Bedford, Mass.

☞ ELD. GEO. A. BROWN'S address is 1008 Morgan Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

☞ R. F. & M. J. CLARK'S address is Peach Creek, Washington Co., Kansas.

☞ WM. C. STEWART'S address hereafter will be Hinesburg, Vt.

☞ J. C. and S. E. SMITH'S address is Newton Upper Falls, Mass.

☞ M. A. POTTER'S address is St. Johnsbury, Vt.

☞ C. MENDENHALL'S address is Norwalk, Huron Co., Ohio

☞ H. G. McCULLOCK S address is DeKalb, DeKalb Co., Ill.

LIST OF PERSONS SENDING MONEY FOR OTHERS.—Headley & Baker, S G Mathewson, S M Parsons, Geo E Merrill, M E Otis, J Kaub, T E Blaisdell, E W Jilson.

CASH RECEIVED FOR BOOKS AND TRACTS.—S Parsons 60c, J F Myers 30c, S C Meeker $3.85, H Warner $2 00, J A Hopkins 15c, J H Carr 50c, C M Shepard 15c, D G Sawyer $1.60, H H Klock $1 25, H B Eaton $1 15, L B Childs 25c, W J Blanchard $4 50, D B Town 20c, L Nutting $1.50, B Perham $1.50, S A Robinson 15c, J N Arnold 50c, Geo W Ficks 55c, John Sperry 45c, John Perkins 15c, D S Young 25c, R E Hamilton 40c, F E Blaisdell $5 00, Geo. E. Brown $2 25, Frank Burr 50c, J Orr 70c, Susan E Teeple $2.25.

BOOKS AND TRACTS SENT.—By Mail—J F Myers, S C Meeker, S M Parsons, H Warner, N Wing, W O Higley, C W Shepard, J H Carr, H H Klock, D G Sawyer, W F Randall, G W Ficks, S A Robinson, D S Young, J A Arnold, J Perkins, D B Town, A J Sanderline, B Perham, L Nutting, J K Moran, L B Childs, A Elliott, J Sperry, R E Hamilton, H Thompson.

By Express—F E Blaisdell, J W Haughawout.

ARTICLES RECEIVED.—G Thomson, E P Locke, W S McFarland, I C Wellcome, A J Sanderlin, T Davidson, P G Bowman, N Reed, C Mendenhall, D K Barrett, A Damon, G E Brown, E Brundage, C R Danks, J B Baxter, M C Kershaw, A Beardsley, W Sheldon, R Deering, D D Luce, J A Cargle, L S Smith, A A Waite, J H F Varney, G L White, W Hobbs, J Ballerton.

Catalogue

OF BOOKS AND TRACTS

FOR SALE AT THE OFFICE OF

"THE ADV. CHRIS. PUB. SOCIETY,"

160 HANOVER STREET.

BIBLE DICTIONARY. Five colored maps, two hundred and fifty Engravings. Sheep, $2.25; cloth, $1.50; postage, 25 cts.

BEREAN'S CASKET AND REPOSITORY. By I. C. Wellcome. Cloth, $2.00; leather, $2.50.

CRUDEN'S CONCORDANCE. Sheep, $2.00; cloth, $1.50; postage, 25 cts.

CHRISTIAN BAPTISM. By I. C. Wellcome. 25 cts.

ENGLISH REFERENCE BIBLES. Minion: calf, morocco, circuit bindings, from $2.50 to $4.25. Nonpareil: calf, morocco, circuit bindings, from $2.00 to $3.50. Pearl: calf, morocco, circuit bindings, from $1.50 to $3.00. Diamond: calf, morocco, circuit bindings, from $1.25 to $2.00.

FABLES OF INFIDELITY and Facts of Faith. By Robert Patterson. Cloth, $1.00.

FUTURITY; or, The Hereafter of all Men. By Wm. Sheldon. 22 cts.

GOOD TIDINGS. Cloth, 50 cts. Postage, 16 cts. By express, $5.00 per dozen.

GREEK AND ENGLISH CONCORDANCE. By Hudson and Hastings. Cloth, $2.50; leather, $3.50; postage, 12 cts.

HYMNS OF JUBILEE HARP. Cloth, sprinkled edges, $7.00 per dozen; $55.00 per hundred; single, 75 cts. Leather, gilt edge, $9.50 per dozen; $75.00 per hundred; single, $1.00; postage 15 cts. single copy.

IMMORTALITY. By J. H. Whitmore. Cloth, $1.00.

IS IT HERESY? By J. Couch. 15 cts. per doz.

JUBILEE HARP, Hymn, and Tune Book. Plain cloth, leather back, colored edge, $9.00 per doz.; single, $1.00. Extra cloth, leather back, gilt edge, $10.50 per dozen; single $1.15. Extra cloth, leather back, gilt edge and covers, $12 per doz.; single, $1.25. Postage 12 cts. single copy.

HISTORY OF THE ADVENT MESSAGE. By I. C. Wellcome. Price $3.50.

JUDGMENT IMPENDING. By L. T. Cunningham. 8 cts.; 75 cts. per doz.; $5.00 per hundred.

MATTHEW 24 and 25. An Exposition. By I. C. Wellcome. 27 cts.

PILGRIM PSALMS. Sunday-school Hymn and Tune Book. Paper covers, $3.00 per dozen; stiff covers, $3.60.

PREPARE TO MEET THY GOD. Behold, the Judge standeth before the door. 10 cts. per dozen; 40 cts. per hundred.

REASONS FOR MY HOPE; or, Tokens of Redemption. By H. L. Hastings. 25 cts.

SCRIPTURAL QUESTION-BOOK. Single, 17 cts.; per dozen, by express, $1.25; by mail, $1.60.

SYMBOLIZATION of the World's Eventful Crisis. By O. R. Fassett. 4 cts; 20 cts. per dozen.

SPIRITUALISM UNVEILED. By M. Grant. 15 cts; 8 copies, $1.00; $10.00 per hundred.

THE End of the King of the North and the Impending time of Trouble. By L. T. Cunningham. 48 pages; 8 cts; 75 cts. per dozen; $5.00 per hundred.

THE Bible Text-Book. For Ministers, Teachers, and Students. 50 cts.

THE Plan of Redemption. By Wellcome & Goud. $1.25.

The Nature of Man. By M. Grant and others. 25 cts; $2 25 per dozen.

The Emphatic Diaglott. Containing the original Greek Text of the New Testament, according to the recension of Griesbach; with an interlinear word-for-word translation. Cloth, $4.10; leather back, $5.16.

The First-day Sabbath. By T. M. Preble. $1.50.

The Destiny of Man. By W. Erwin, $1.35; gilt, $1.65.

Trumpet for the Watchman. By Geo. Thomson. 20 cts. $1.75 per dozen; $11.00 per one hundred.

Who are Sadducees? By Geo. Thomson. 10 cts.

What is Man? By M. Grant. 6 cts.

Young Pilgrim Stories. Illustrated. By "Uncle Pilgrim." 2 vols., 50 cts. each.

Young Pilgrim Stories. Tract form. 30 cts. per dozen; $2.00 per hundred.

Yahveh-Christ. The Coming One. By L. T. Cunningham. 8 cts. 75 cts.

Is Christ's Second Coming in the Past? By Wm. Sheldon. 15 cts. per dozen; 60 cts. per hundred.

THE TRUE SABBATH.

WHICH DAY SHALL WE KEEP?

AN EXAMINATION OF

MRS. ELLEN G. WHITE'S VISIONS.

BY MILES GRANT.

ISSUED

BY THE ADV. CHRIS. PUB. SOCIETY,

A NEW WORK

On the Sabbath of the Old Covenant. An investigation of Mrs. E. G. White's Visions, showing that they are not from God.

All who have accepted Mrs. White's visions as coming from heaven, or who have been led to rest on Saturday instead of the Lord's day, should read this work. Let those who live among our Seventh-day brethren send and get a number of the books to give away. If the reader has friends at a distance who have received Mrs. W.'s Visions as true, have a copy of this work sent to them.

It contains 106 pages, and we will send it at the following prices: Single copy, 20 cts.; per doz., $1.75 by mail; per hundred, $10.00 by express. AGENT.

A NEW TRACT.

ATHEISM CONFOUNDED,

AND

THE FACT OF GOD'S EXISTENCE ESTABLISHED.

BY A. W. SIBLEY.

A valuable little Tract of eight pages—just the thing to circulate in these times of unbelief and skepticism. Price by mail, 15 cents per dozen. AGENT.

"THE MYSTERY EXPLAINED:

OR,

AN EXPOSITION OF THE WOMAN AND THE SCARLET-COLORED BEAST

In the 17th Chapter of Revelation.

SHOWING WE ARE NEAR THE END OF THE PRESENT DISPENSATION."

BY MILES GRANT.

This valuable and interesting tract is now ready, and for sale at this Office. Price by mail, single copy, 8 cts; four copies for 25 cts.; per dozen, 75 cts. AG'T.

THE TWO SOWERS.

F. P. DREW.

Two sowers went forth in the world to sow,
Their seed was youthful minds,
And the seed which each broadcast did throw,
Was of different sorts and kinds.
Together they journeyed through every clime,
Scattering seed as they went,
To excel in improving each hour of the time,
Each seemed determined and bent.

One sowed the seed of joy and peace,
And love to all mankind,—
Of honor, truth, and happiness,
And purity of mind;
Of hope, bright, shining, glorious hope,
Of faith that ne'er will fail,—
Of charity for all who grope
In errors darkened vale.

The other sowed far different seed,
As we shall shortly see.
The first he sowed made hearts to bleed,
'Twas immortality;
He also scattered, far and wide,
The seeds of bitter woe,
Of infidelity and pride,
And selfishness, also.

At length was past the time to sow,
The harvest near, 'twas plain;
The laborers then thought they would go
And win the ripening grain.
They started forth at a brisk pace,
But soon beheld a crowd;
A pris'ner with a youthful face
Was speaking earnest—loud.

Said he, "My friends, be warned and turn,
Oh, now with you I plead;
From me an awful lesson learn;
Within my heart the seed
Was sown of selfishness and strife,
By one, I know not why:
I took a fellow being's life,
And now, great God, I die."

The drop quick fell, a soul was gone—
Of life this is not all—
The trav'lers turned and journeyed on,
But soon a prison wall
They entered, through a massive gate,
And, on the faces there,
Beheld inscribed, "Dishonor, Hate, Infidelity and Despair."

They left the place, but near at hand,
That one whom men did trust,
Though much of wealth he could command,
'Twas said that he was just;
They asked him of his great success,
Such power and wealth to find;
He spake, "I owe all I possess
To purity of mind.

I ever shunned the way of those Whose thoughts I knew impure,
And carefully I always chose
My friends, though they were fewer;
And honestly, in all my deal,
I tried to do the right;
Now happiness I have that's real,
Dark thoughts do never blight."

They next stood by the couch of one
Whose days of life were o'er;
The dying spake, "My race is run,
I near the other shore;
But faith in Him, who died to save,
Is strong,—e'en in this hour,
My hope extends beyond the grave.
Ah! Death! where is thy power?

E. Tilton, N. H.

MY EXPERIENCE.

I was born in the town of Leeds, Me., A. D. 1843. My parents were professors of religion. My mother taught me early in life that it was necessary to love the Lord in order to go the better world, when life in this world ends. I believed in the truths that she taught me at that time. Really, I cannot recollect when my mind was first exercised on religious themes. But evil companions at school led me into sin, and I became very vile, insomuch that I would take God's name, and abuse my best friends. I do not think that I had ever met with a change from nature to grace, but went on from "bad to worse," until I could swear and blaspheme beyond alll common boys.

I did not intend to always continue in that course. In fact, I did try to break myself of swearing, but utterly failed every time. I would leave off for some time, then something would happen to provoke me, and I would commence again. I relate this particularly, on account of the lesson that can be derived from it. God and the devil were striving for the mastery over me at that time. I knew then that it was believed by some, that man could not control or govern his passions by his own strength, and I verily thought that I would show to the world that I could, and would, without the help of God. I was so base that I even boasted in my heart that my will was strong enough without any of God's assistance.

But God gained the victory at last. I never got rid of that habit until I yielded my heart to him. In the meantime, I had many serious convictions, and read my Bible, and became quite familiar with the letter if not with the spirit. As the devil found my mind somewhat exercised in regard to the Scriptures, and as he knew that I believed the Bible to be true, he tried another course. I was tempted to believe that I had committed the "unpardonable sin." I recollected my profanity and blasphemy, and not understanding the meaning of the Scriptures, I was almost in despair for quite a length of time. I remember full well how I went out into the pasture one day, and sat down upon a ledge. I thought that I knew that I must go to hell. Oh, what agony for a few moments!

But I believe that God rules in the armies of heaven, and overrules the affairs of nations and men, and thus it has proved in my case until the present time. I think that I must have looked at it philosophically at that time, for I arose and started for the house with this idea: I am undone for the next world. "What can't be cured must be endured." I will not commit suicide and hasten on my misery, but I will enjoy as much of this world as I can. With this resolution, my fears and anxieties about the future left me, and I was measurably happy, as this world counts happiness. I still believed that there was no hope in my case, and I was unconcerned.

I continued in this dead condition for quite a length of time. I suppose that I assented to the cardinal points of popular theology, until my attention was called to the doctrine of universal salvation. I at first gave it but little thought; but frequent attendance at their meetings, and careful perusal of their writings, soon caused me to look with favor upon their views. Once in my life I had made an ineffectual attempt to obtain salvation, inspired mostly by the fear of punishment in the future; but when the cross was presented, I shrank back, as the Spirit of God seemed to have but little place in my heart. Taking all these exercises into consideration, and being destitute of the Spirit which leads into all truth, I was an easy subject for the Universalist to work upon. I am convinced that without God's Spirit to illuminate the mind, that men can be and are led to embrace most any idea that cunning and intelligent men may advance. I became so strongly convinced of the truth of universal salvation, that I felt safe, and believed that I should not fear the condition of the dying impenitent. I can see the consequences of some of the popular ideas that are advanced now; the immortality of the soul and endless misery. Of course, when I gave up the doctrine of endless misery, I must embrace Universalism, as I thought it was an established fact that man was immortal. I remained in this condition of expectancy of eternal life, without repentance, about three years, I believe.

I was now twenty-seven years old; loved the world; believed in no retribution beyond this world; cared not for the things that make for our happiness and joy; was careless, indifferent, hard-hearted, and really intended to pass through life and into the great hereafter without any concern whatever. But "God's ways are not our ways." "It is not in man that walketh to direct his steps." God converted an acquaintance and schoolmate, a young man who apparently was very far from the kingdom.

I had been to the post office, and was returning, when I met a christian man, who stopped his horse and told me that Russell Pettingill had got converted, and was going about at that time to talk with his friends upon the subject of religion. I thought to myself, that this was certainly strange, and that I should like to see him. And before I had reached the house my curiosity was gratified. He had been to quite a number of places talking with the people, and when he saw me, he came and met me instead of going to the house. I felt somewhat embarassed, as this was a new subject for us to talk about. However, we commenced right there in the road. He asked me how my soul was? I answered in my off-hand and sarcastic manner, "In my body, I suppose." But nothing daunted, he pursued the conversation until I began to introduce my Universalist ideas; but he evaded all argument, and struck right to the "root of the tree." At length he felt it to be his duty to pray. He asked me to kneel. I refused. And then he knelt right down by the side of the road, and prayed to the God of heaven. He arose with renewed strength. He had asked me if I was willing to do my duty. I had concluded that I did not know my duty. He quoted this Scripture, "If any man lack wisdom, let him ask of God, who giveth to all men liberally, and upbraideth not." Having done all that he felt he could do for me, he left me, and started for home.

It was about night. I went to the house, ate my supper, milked the cows, and resolved within that time that I would do right. I believed that God would give me wisdom. I went away and prayed for light and wisdom to know the path of duty. I prayed in faith, with this intention, that I would do my duty as it was made known. Now, when I came to this decision, I received that peace and joy which I never knew anything about before. I felt no condemnation, and scarcely thought of my sins. Soon I began to think, why don't I feel concerned about my sins? But I have learned since, that I had been convicted enough years before, and I had just got ready to repent of them. The joy that I received now was in consequence of being willing to take the cross of rising for prayers, and confessing Christ publicly. This duty I did, and others came forward about this time, and a reformation commenced here in Leeds, such as I never witnessed before. Not remarkable for numbers, so much as for the peculiar manifestations of God's power.

For some time, I felt uncertain about the forgiveness of my sins. At length, one day, as I was in the field at work, the question was presented in this way: "Are you satisfied with and reconciled to the plan of salvation, whether you understand it or not? Do you believe that God will do right? And if you are to be lost, do you believe that it would be just and right?" I felt in my heart that God would do right, and whether I was lost or saved, I would say, Glory to God! I had now acknowledged the justice of God, and mercy to my rescue came. From that day until the present time, I think that I have not had a doubt but what God forgave my sins. This was in the year 1870.

I was in doubt some little time, but after that I resolved to do my duty about the doctrine of Universalism.

I decided to do right anyway, regardless of doctrines. I was willing for anything to be truth, as far as God's plan was concerned. I left it right there, and it was but a short time before God, by his Spirit, showed me that I had been believing a lie, and that universal salvation was a doctrine of the devil. And then my eyes were opened to understand the Scriptures more than I had previous to this, and I saw that the Spirit and the word agreed. And now new duties presented themselves to me. I had to go and talk with people about salvation, and warn them to prepare to meet God. Many of them were Universalists, and it was very crossing, but God's grace was sufficient. The people where we worshipped were Baptists, and the preacher who conducted the revival meetings at this time was of that persuasion, and a good, faithful servant of Jesus Christ. His name was Henry A. Libby. Bro. Libby baptized me, and some fourteen others.

In the winter of 1870–1, I boarded with a family who took the Crisis. I believed that I could bring arguments that would overthrow the doctrine of man's mortality and the destruction of the wicked. But when I came to look into the Scriptures to find something to work with, I saw that it took another aspect altogether.

Since then I have had many thoughts upon the eternity of suffering, and it does appear indeed unto me a horrible doctrine. About this time, my mind began to be exercised in regard to the nearness of the coming of Christ. I heard Eld. H. B. Sevey, W. H. Doughty, Elder Rhodes, and others. Yet I did not feel perfectly satisfied in my mind about the coming of the Lord. I believed that he would come sometime, and in his own time. I had heard much of the evidence adduced to prove his speedy coming, but somehow I wanted something certain, something infallible, something positive, something that bears the impress of assurance. I was not anxious only as God saw fit to enlighten. But God in his infinite love saw the necessity of my being decided on this question, and knowing my ignorance and inability to form satisfactory opinions from man's expositions of prophecy, and relation of history, he condescended to enlighten me directly, and stamp upon my heart this great truth that Jesus is soon coming, in such indelible letters that it need never be erased. This illumination from the Holy Spirit is for man's individual benefit, and then the Scriptures open to our view, and we can teach others also.

I have felt from my first conversion to Christianity the duty of laboring for souls. I have talked with many, and have attended many meetings to try to do a little for Jesus. One year ago, I went with Bro. Sevey's tent about three months. I have not enjoyed full salvation much of the time, and consequently my spirituality has not been of that degree that would commend itself to every earnest laborer in the vineyard of the Lord. Pray for me. ASA G. GORDON.

Leeds, Maine.

"UNDUE PROMINENCE TO THE DOCTRINE OF HOLINESS."

GEO. A. STREETER.

What are we to understand by this term? That it is a doctrine not due only at a certain time, after certain events have passed away? There was a time when the doctrine of Christ's soon coming was not due to the church; then, if any had preached it, it would have been not due, or "undue"; but when all the signs were passed but the sign of the Son of man, then it was no longer "undue," but due to the church. But how is it relative to "holiness"? Has it not been due to the church ever since the Lord said to Moses (Lev. 19: 2), "Speak unto all the congregation of the children of Israel, and say unto them, Ye shall be holy; for I the Lord your God am holy"?

Several times in Exodus, the Lord has spoken to the people about "holiness"—holiness on their garments; holiness on the bells of their horses; holiness all the way through the Old Testament. And in the New Testament the same idea is brought forward. Perfection—pure, spotless, without wrinkle, entire, wanting nothing. Says Peter in his first letter (1: 14), "As obedient children, not fashioning yourselves according to the former lust in your ignorance; but as he which hath called you is holy, so be ye holy in all manner of conversation. Because it is written, Be ye holy, for I am holy." With all this in favor of the idea of holiness, and nothing in the entire book of God to countermand it, I am astonished that any Bible believer will raise the cry, "Undue prominence to the doctrine of holiness." When ministers cry out against holiness, it is time to be alarmed.

Dear Brn. and Srs., you see that the Bible is permeated with it. The line is unbroken, and without it no man shall see the Lord. I say, with all the evidence before us, we cannot abstain from preaching it, or from urging it upon the people. A man may be well versed in the doctrine of the coming of the Lord, and be destitute of holiness, which is entire consecration to the Lord; wholly given up to him, time, talents, voice, reputation, everything, and be ready for the event. My heart says—

"O hail! happy day."

Let us be ready to meet him, having our work all done. God bless you all, is my prayer.

CONSECRATED POCKET-BOOKS.

One of the last things a worldling consecrates to Christ is the pocket-book. Multitudes who profess the christian faith have never yet thought of doing it. The rich young man who came to our Savior, had kept all the commandments, and he had also kept all his money; and when the Lord bade him give all his wealth to the poor, and come and follow him, he went away sorrowful, for he had great possessions.

But when God visits a soul in mercy and enriches it with grace, how soon the hold on this world relaxes; how soon the world to come absorbs the heart. Let salvation come to the house of Zaccheus, and while Pharisees murmur that Christ has gone to be a sinner's guest, lo, the rich publican stands and says unto the Lord, "Behold, Lord, the half of my goods I give to the poor; and if I have taken anything from any man by false accusation, I restore him four-fold." Luke 19.

There are many who desire that salvation may come to their houses, but they are not willing it should come as it came to the house of Zaccheus, when Jesus himself brought it. They desire to inherit eternal life, and to have treasures laid up in heaven, but they are not willing to sell, and give alms, and thus place their wealth where moth and rust do not corrupt, and where no thieves break through and steal. They wish to be wholly consecrated to God, but they do not wish to consecrate their pocket-books, and they go away sorrowful because they have great possessions.

Oh, man of God, flee these things. Be not high-minded, nor trust in uncertain riches. Cut loose from a world that is doomed to ruin, and lay aside every weight that hinders in the heavenly race. Let your consecration to God be immediate, complete, eternal. Lay all upon his altar. Let the pocket-book and all that it contains, with heart and hand, and house, and home, and farm, and merchandise, and time, and talent, and influence, and reputation, go into the work and cause of God. So doing, you shall escape the snares that lurk around you, and laying up a good foundation against the time to come, lay hold on eternal life and have a treasure in the heavens that faileth not, where no thief approacheth, neither moth corrupteth.—Selected.

CANDOR.

There is nothing sheds so fine a light upon the human mind as candor. It was called whiteness by the ancients for it purity; and it has always won esteem as the most admirable of the virtues. However sought for or practiced, all felt the power and charm of its influence. The man whose opinions make the deepest mark upon his fellow man, whose influence is the most lasting and efficient, whose friendship is instinctively sought where all others have proved faithless, is not the man of brilliant parts, or flattering tongue, or splendid genius, or commanding power; but he whose lucid candor and ingenuous truth transmit the heart's real feeling pure and without refraction. There are other qualities which are more showy, and other traits that have a higher place in the world's code of honor; but none wear better, or gather less tarnish by use, or claim a deeper homage in that silent reverence which the mind must pay to virtue.—Ex.

WERE we to take as much pains to be what we ought to be, as we do to disguise what we really are, we might appear like ourselves, without being at the trouble of any disguise at all.

SYMPATHY WITH CHRIST.

Going home from a meeting, one of great solemnity, I was burdened with anxiety for many who had desired the prayers of christians; and after presenting these requests to God, and pleading for the presence of the Holy Spirit in greater power in our midst, I retired, and suppose I slept. I seemed to be standing on a slight elevation, viewing a continuous procession of people passing along just below me. As I was wondering where they were going, I was conscious of a presence near me; and the moment I looked steadfastly at the wonderful and glorious beauty of the countenance I knew it must be the blessed Master. My heart was full of joy, and I fell at his feet to worship him. Placing his hand on my head he said, "Thy sins are forgiven thee." I cannot describe the ineffable bliss which filled my soul as I felt the pressure of that hand on my head, and realized that I was so near Jesus.

After a moment he said, "Stand up, and look!" and pointed at the multitude I had seen passing by.

"Who are these, Lord?" I asked; "and where are they going?"

Instead of replying to these questions he raised his hands and called out to the passing multitude, "Come unto me! come unto me!" Some of them just turned the head, to see where the voice came from; others seemed disposed to listen to it, and almost stepped out of this broad road; but the word or look of a companion induced them to go on in their slightly descending path. As I watched their progress I could see, in the distance, that when they arrived at a certain point they fell down a precipice, and were seen no more. I involuntarily cried out, "Oh, Lord, save them!"

"What have you done for their salvation?" he asked. "Do you not know some of them?"

As I looked I thought I could distinguish familiar faces, and I could only reply, "Yes, Lord, I know them, and have felt anxious that they should look to thee as their Savior. I have, as thou knowest, prayed much for them."

"Yes, I have heard your prayers; but what have you done?" He repeated, with great emphasis, "What have you done for these perishing souls? Have you besought them to leave the broad road, and told them of my readiness to receive and forgive them, and of your own love to me, and the joy you have found in that love?"

"Not as I should have done, Lord, I confess; but they knew that I was numbered with thy children, that I loved the house of God, and the place of prayer; and I have sometimes spoken to them of their need of thy cleansing blood. Perhaps I have not urged them as I ought, to give immediate attention to this great subject, but I have not felt that it was needful for me to do so. Our pastor has been very earnest in his entreaties to all to come at once and give thee their love and their hearty service, and receive from thee that pardon and peace thou art so ready to bestow. Many of the brethren have seemed to be aroused to their duty of urging all to turn from sinful paths to those of duty and holiness. So I have thought that I, being a woman, might be excused from expressing my earnest desire that they would look to thee for salvation."

"What difference did that make?" he replied. "Had you no duty to perform to others? Could any one else do that duty? Should you see a man in danger of drowning, and no other hand could reach him, would you hesitate to stretch out your own and make every effort to save him? There may be those in this great throng whom you alone could have reached; and as you did not do your duty you see the consequences." He looked at them so compassionately that it seemed to me he would have willingly poured out his blood again for their salvation, could it have been secured.

I can never forget the loving, benignant expression of his face as he turned and looked on me. I felt great joy in being so near Jesus, and in the assurance he had given me that my sins were forgiven; but I could not help having the consciousness, while that loving eye rested upon me, that I had not been fully in sympathy with him in his great love for souls. And such a pang of sorrow shot through my heart, because of my unfaithfulness as his disciple, that I awoke, and was very thankful to find myself still on earth, with an opportunity to do something to lead others to him.—Sel.

EXPERIENCE.

M. A. GOODWIN.

The home of my childhood was Montville, Me. When quite young I felt I was a sinner, and sought and found the dear Lord. I was brought under conviction by the text, "Set thine house in order, for to-morrow thou shalt die and not live." I listened to the discourse on this text unmoved, but at the close an aged and humble follower of Christ arose, and asked how many could say their house was set in order? O, how good are words fitly spoken! they are as apples of gold in pictures of silver. Immediately I was convinced my house was not in order, for I could now see by the illuminating rays of the Sun of righteousness what awful confusion reigned within; and for three long weeks I was weighed down with a clear evidence of the depravity of the human heart, unchanged by grace; and that nothing but everlasting destruction from the presence of the Lord, and from the glory of his power, awaited me in my present course. Then it was that I heard this glorious and ever-precious promise, made by none other than the great Redeemer, who alone is mighty and able to save, even to the uttermost, all that call to him; saying, "Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest. Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me; for I am meek and lowly in heart, and ye shall find rest unto your souls; for my yoke is easy, and my burden is light." I was led to exclaim—

"Here, Lord, I give myself away,
'Tis all that I can do."

It was then, and not till then, that I realized his mighty power to save. Then could I exclaim, in the language of the poet—

"'Twas a heaven below,
My Redeemer to know;
And the angels could do nothing more
Than fall at his feet,
And the story repeat,
And the lover of sinners adore."

I was baptized by Eld. N. J. Robertson, and joined the Free Will Baptist church in Montville, Me., of which I was a member until 1846, when I married and left that part of the country, and in the year 1848 left my native State for Wisconsin. Soon after my settlement there, an old gentleman and family by the name of Knoll, from Ohio, settled as our near neighbors. Being one of God's workmen that needeth not to be ashamed, I learned from him the great truth of our dear Lord's speedy return to earth, and the establishment of his kingdom "under the whole heavens," and other kindred truths, as they are revealed in his precious word.

I praise the Lord for that word, for it has proved a light unto my feet and a lamp unto my path, in my pilgrimage through this vale of darkness, sin, and death, until the present time; and by the grace of God, and the Holy Spirit to illuminate the sacred word, it shall be till I die, or until I see the glorious appearing of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ, who shall change this vile body, and fashion it "like unto his glorious body, according to the working whereby he is able even to subdue all things unto himself."

In the fall of 1873, I left Wisconsin for San Francisco, Cal., where I joined the Advent Christian Church, receiving the right hand of fellowship from Eld. Miles Grant, with my husband and three of my daughters. Thank the good Lord, my faith still looks forth to that hour when the opening heavens will reveal to our ardent gaze the form of Him who hath said, "Behold, I come quickly, and my reward is with me."

A word in regard to our little church here. We are still watching and waiting for the return of the Master. The interest in divine things seems to be on the increase. Bro. Mathewson is here, standing up boldly for the truth.

San Francisco, Cal.

STAINED HANDS OR A STAINED HEART?

Sometimes a very little thing reveals unto us that our consecration is not complete. A dear sister, by whose side I knelt at the Ohio State campmeeting, in 1874, said her consecration was entire. But, for some cause, when Bro. Baker requested all who, from the heart, could sing, "'Tis done, thou dost this moment save," to raise their hands high while singing, hers, I noticed, did not go up. I requested her to lift them up. Her reply was, "What is the use? the Lord does not request it." "It will not hurt you; suppose you try." "Oh," she said, with pain, "how can I?" "Why, can you not do this little thing for Jesus?" "If I only knew Jesus wanted me to do it!" "Do it at a venture, dear sister. If you could be cleansed by so simple an act, do it."

She was silent some time, then up went both her hands, as she raised herself upon her feet, exclaiming, "Oh! just think. I was ashamed of my stained hands. I thought if they were only white, but hard work and the sun has made them black, hard, and spotted. But I wanted a clean heart so badly, I just thought, Let the world see my hands while Jesus washes my heart. You can see my hands, but my clean heart Jesus sees, while I feel it."

Yes, the blood of Jesus cleanses the spotted heart, and removes all stains, and then how little we care whether others thinks us rich, or poor, learned, or unlearned. This little thing of refusing to raise the hands, often shows that the will is not given up. In this case pride made its appearance.—Selected by M. Trask.

THREE STEPS TO PERDITION.

You know there are three steps to the lost world. Let me give you their names. The first is neglect. All a man has to do is to neglect salvation, and that will take him to the lost world. Some people say: "What have I done?" Why, if you merely neglect salvation you will be lost. I am on a swift river and lying in the bottom of my little boat; all I have to do is to fold my arms, and the current will carry me out to sea. So all that a man has to do is to fold his arms in the current of life, and he will drift on and be lost. The second step is refusal. There are many who have got on the first step, neglect. If I met you at the door and pressed this question on you, you would say: "Not to-night, not to-night." But there are others of you who, if I said, "I want you to press into the kingdom of God," would politely refuse. "I will not become a christian to-night; I know I ought, but I will not to-night." Then the last step is to despise it. Some of you have already got on the lower round of the ladder. You despise Christ. I see some of you looking at me with scorn and contempt. You hate Christ; you hate christianity; you hate the best people on earth, and the best friends you have got; and if I were to offer you the Bible, you would tear it up and put your foot upon it.

Oh, despisers! you will soon be in another world. Make haste and repent and turn to God. Now on which step are you, my friend, neglecting, or refusing, or despising? Bear in mind that a great many are taken off from the first step; they die in neglect. And a great many are taken away refusing. And a great many are on the last step, despising salvation. I wish I could settle this question for you. I wish I could believe for you. Won't you come? Everything that is pure, and holy, and lovely, is beckoning us to a world of love and peace; everything that is polluted, and vile, and carnal, beckoning us down.

I set before you life and death; which will you choose? When Pilate had Christ on his hands he said: "What shall I do with him?" and the multitude cried out, "Away with him! crucify him!" Young men, is that your language? Do you say: Away with this gospel! Away with christianity! Away with your prayers, your sermons, your gospel sounds! I do not want Christ? Or will you be wise and say, "Lord Jesus, I want thee, I need thee, I will have thee?" May God bring you to that decision!—D. L. Moody.

JOYFULNESS.

BY JENNIE.

"How can I keep from singing?"

The sentiment of this song is so beautiful, so inexpressibly sweet, it fills the heart, and lingers in the memory like some delicate perfume, leaving its fragrance to cheer us in our lonely hours; and not only this, but it so beautifully portrays the christian's life, when at rest in Christ.

Truly it is a life of "endless song above earth's lamentation," and it sometimes seems as though the sweet hymn that hails a new creation does not sound very far off.

There are weary hearts to-day, scattered over hill and valley, who hear the music ringing; some in sad Gethsemanes, whose souls are exceedingly sorrowful; some by the sick and dying; others, cast down by the cares and trials of life, catch the song of earth's redemption, which finds an echo in their souls, and causes them to lift up their heads and rejoice, through all the "tumult and the strife" of a groaning and dying creation, and to hail with joy every harbinger that tells of the coming of our King; and while the thickening clouds of gloom gather round them, the peace of Christ makes fresh their hearts, and enables them to sing—

"No storm can shake my inmost calm,
While to that refuge clinging;
Since Christ is Lord of heaven and earth,
How can I keep from singing?"

DIVINE LOVE.

The love which warms human hearts, regards our neighbor as ourselves, and supremely adores the living God, is not attained, but obtained. It cannot be found amid the vanities of life; but is sent down from heaven. It is not an invention; it is an inspiration. It is the character of the new creature. It is the new life which is planted in us when we are born again. "The love of God which is shed abroad in our hearts by the Holy Ghost which is given unto us." It is the main-spring of all usefulness and devotion to God or man. It is the well-spring of all pure thoughts, of all noble deeds, and of all true aspirations. It affords strength, encouragement, and pleasure, in the performance of the most unpleasant duties of life. It is sufficient to the grandest sacrifices that circumstances can demand of us. As the beams of the early spring sun dissolve the ice, break the fetters of winter, and quicken the slumbers of nature, so the love of God, rising on the human soul, dispels sluggishness, dullness, and weariness, and quickens our holy activities. Love cannot be idle. Being the gift of God, it is within the reach of all. Come to Jesus, and rekindle the holy flame on the altar of your heart.—The Pastoral.

THE IMPENDING CRISIS.

The Judge is at the door, the night cometh, or rather I should say the night is far spent, and the midnight of the world is at hand. "It is settling down upon our cities and on our solitudes, upon the towers of our strength, and the palaces of our pomp, nor can the noisy rush of eager multitudes, hurrying to and fro for gain or pleasure, wholly stifle the utterances of fear and awe. Men cannot help foreboding evil, for who can tell them what may be in the womb of darkness?"

But it is written also, "The day is at hand!" therefore it is high time to awake out of sleep, for now is our salvation nearer than when we believed. Blessed thought! "The night is far spent, the day is at hand." Stirring, and arousing, and practical thought! "Let us therefore cast off the works of darkness, and let us put on the armor of light." Let that be our constant prayer; let it be our real and heartfelt desire, "Come, Lord Jesus, come quickly," and it will be a sustaining and encouraging thought, that the night though dark will be short, and that it will be followed by a bright, a glorious, and an endless day.—Signs of Our Times.

HOME AND HEALTH.

REFORM.

I. DAVIS.

These things will not be so done in the kingdom of God. There are those in the churches who drink liquor, chew and smoke tobacco, and many other things too numerous to mention here. One man says he smokes six cigars a day, costing 37½ cts., amounting to $136.50 per year. Suppose he reforms in that habit, let us see what he would save in these hard times. One year $136.50. The interest for one year would be $9.52, amounting to $146.02. This would make some poor people feel rich. What a help such a saving would be to the man who owed his poor neighbor, as many do, and cannot pay.

What a lot of people might be blest if this money was put into tracts and scattered. What a help it might be towards supporting a humble preacher of the gospel. In twenty-seven years, it would amount to $11,837.86, if I have figured it rightly. Look at this! Is it right to waste money thus, saying nothing about the physical and moral injury received? O, reform, my dear friends, for your own good, and the good of others.

The tobacco user will average to spit a half pint of nasty filth a day. What a mass of filth would be spit away in a year! At one pint a day—a common quantity, it would amount to 182½ quarts of filth in a year. Look at the puddles of filth! Is it any wonder that tobacco users complain of "all-goneness" at the stomach? I do not wonder people so often die of tobacco poison. But what shall we say of churchmen, who smoke ten cigars a day, costing ten cents each? I have known such. Three hundred and sixty-five dollars in a year! Dear Bro., reform, for the reign of Heaven approacheth, when it will not be permitted.

Now, who that reads this will reform, and lay aside all unnecessary things? What would you think to see Jesus coming in the clouds, with a great pipe in his mouth, and occasionally spitting here and there? Do you look for such a Jesus? I must confess, I am afraid I should reject him if he should come in that way. Let us reform, and bring forth good fruit.

The followers of Jesus should be pure, as well as peaceable. "If any man be in Christ, he is a new creature; old things are passed away; behold, all things are become new."

P. S.—Here are government statistics, that should be considered. They are from the report of 1871, as follows: "Salaries of ministers of the gospel, six millions. Cost of dogs, ten millions. Support of criminals, twelve millions. Fees of litigation, thirty-five millions. Tobacco and cigars, six hundred and ten millions. Importation of liquors, fifty millions. Support of grog-shops, one billion and five hundred millions. Whole cost of liquors, two billions, two hundred and nine millions."

These are facts in this enlightened age and land. Are we not a nation of slaves to appetite? O God, help us to awake to our true condition, and reform. Say, my dear Bro., will you be one in this reform? Last of all, hear Bro. James—"Let him know that he that converteth a sinner from the error of his ways shall save a soul from death, and shall hide a multitude of sins." Jas. 5: 20.

TRIFLES.

Our lives, or rather their happiness and misery, are in a great measure made up of trifles, just as time is made up of moments. The discomfort of having to wait for a meal beyond its regular hour; of finding things ill-prepared or carelessly done; of meeting slovenliness and discomfort where a little thought and pains might have introduced ease and even elegance; or of being brought up sharp at every turn by want of punctuality or of method; these are ills more difficult to bear than the uninitiated imagine. Most houses might be comfortable and elegant. Yes, elegant! For comfort consists in finding everything where and as it should be; elegance, in adding to what should be there, but whose presence surprises, attracts and gratifies. There is often neither comfort nor elegance in the richest mansions, while both are found in the laborer's cottage. A jug filled with flowers, a neat white curtain, a couple of flower-pots, may effect what the expenditure of hundreds of dollars has not achieved. Let it not be said that these are mere trifles, unworthy the attention of a christian. Distrust the pretence of spirituality whose eyes are too lofty for the common things of life. In the long catalogue of things to "think on" (Phil. 1: 8), they rank at any rate among the "whatsoever things are lovely." You say they are trifles; then all the more they ought not to be neglected. But trifles though they be, to neglect them is not a trifle, it is a breach of plain duty. —Selected.

A REMARKABLE CASE.

A writer in the Ledger states that during the summer of 1833 a young man named Hait, of Wilton, Fairfield county, Conn., who was a devoted student, and who had been striving very hard to keep up his collegiate course of studies and teach at the same time, was suddenly deprived of his reason and memory, dropping back, mentally, upon the plane of absolute infancy. His father, the Rev. Mr. Hait, was for a time almost beside himself with anguish at this fearful stroke. The death of a loved one would not have been so hard. He sent his son to Hartford, but found no relief there. He was recommended to send the young man to Dr. Chaplain, of Cambridge, which he did.

Dr. Chaplain made a critical examination, extending over two weeks, when his report was that there could be no present relief. "But," said he to the father, "between the ages of thirty-five and forty I think there will be a change in the condition of your son. And he then explained that the brain was too much expanded for its cranial cavity; but that, as the mind, in its present condition, was necessarily at rest, nature might perform her own cure. The chances were that before the unfortunate student should have reached the age of forty the substance of the brain would contract, restoring it to healthy action.

The anxious father and family found but little hope in this, yet they waited patiently, taking good care of his son meanwhile. Nineteen years had elapsed from the date of the visit to Dr. Chaplain, when Mr. Hait came down one morning from his chamber and asked where his books had been put. They were given to him, and to the great joy of his friends, it was soon apparent that his reason was restored. He resumed his studies of mathematics and the classics, just where he had left them, and showed no break of intellect. There was no trace on his mind of the long blank in his life, nor of anything which had occurred during his dark years, and it was some time before his father told him that he was almost forty years of age.—Selected by Geo. Thompson.

USELESS WIVES.

There is a kind of helplessness which is a synonym for uselessness, and results not unfrequently from fastidious notions—a farcical idea of gentility which luxuriates in elegant idleness. Some young lady exquisites glory in their ignorance of practical matters. Instance, the city girl, who, when summering with her country cousins, inquired, "Which cow gives the buttermilk?"

We maintain that no woman is ready to marry until she understands every necessary duty of the household, even if she marry a millionaire. Depend upon it, girls, there is no discharge in this war. You must know how. This comes, not by looking on, but by taking hold, and keeping hold, till home duties are easy to you. O, the women who weep and wail over starch that sticks, and bread that sours, because they don't know what is the matter! Helpless, hapless creatures, over whom Bridget and Dinah reign supreme! Such helplessness is utterly incompatible with independence and comfort.

Should Bridget "lave ye," let her not turn from your door with a secret chuckle at thought of the chagrin in store for you because you are a novice in the kitchen.

For your own sake be mistress of the situation. Your servants will respect you none the less for seeing that you understand their business. We live in a world of common things, ignorance of which is inexcusable. Nor be for a moment content with theory. It is unreliable, deceptive. Reduce it to practice. What! with our own hands? Yes, with your own, dear, little hands, lest some day the following paraphrase may fit you too well:

"Such beautiful, beautiful hands!
They are jewelled, white and small;
With shapely fingers tapering,
But good for nothing at all."

You may put on some old kids when you sweep, and improvise a turban of a cast-off veil; but take hold of every thing, from arranging a bouquet to blacking a stove.

We fear there are young ladies in the world who fancy that languid helplessness is interesting. They could hardly get a meal together if they would, and they would not if they could.—Selected.

PERFECT MISTRESS.—There is not a girl on earth, whether the daughter of prince or pauper, who, if made a perfect mistress of all household duties, and thrown into a community wholly unknown, would not rise from one station to another, and eventually become the mistress of her own mansion, while multitudes of young women placed in positions of ease, elegance, and affluence, but being unfitted to fill them, will as certainly descend from one round of the ladder to another, until, at the close of life, they are found where the really competent started from. Mothers of America, if you wish to rid your own and your children's household of the destroying locusts which infest your houses and eat your substance, take a pride in educating your own daughters to be perfect mistressess of every home duty; then, even if you leave them without a dollar, be assured they will never lack a warm garment, a bounteous meal, or a cosy roof, nor fail of the respect of any who know them.—Ex.

The World's Crisis AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

RULES FOR CORRESPONDENTS.

Over all matters not intended for publication, write:—PRIVATE.

Over all business matters, write:—BUSINESS.

Over all articles intended for the paper, write:—For the Crisis.

☞ Put business matters and appointments on separate pieces of paper, or so that they can be detached without interfering with any other communication.

When the names of NEW subscribers are sent, please say they are NEW, and it will save much labor.

PRIVATE LETTERS.—Those wishing to address the Editor on matters not connected with the office, please write PRIVATE on the outside of the envelope.

☞ All persons writing to the office should give distinctly and plainly the POST OFFICE, COUNTY and STATE at which they wish to be addressed; and all orders, subscriptions, communications and remittances, should be plainly directed to

☞ "THE WORLD'S CRISIS," Boston, Mass.

PUBLISHED ALSO AT THE SAME OFFICE, Semi-monthly,

THE YOUNG PILGRIM

An Illustrated Sunday-School Paper,

FOR CHILDREN AND YOUTH.

TERMS: ☞ Payable always in advance.

Single copy, 50 cts. a year; and at the same rates or any number of copies under ten.

Ten copies, and any larger number under fifty, when sent to one address, 40 cts. a year for each copy.

Fifty copies, and any number over fifty, when sent to one address, 35 cts. a year for each copy. No extra charge for American postage.

☞ All communications, orders, and remittances should be addressed to

"THE YOUNG PILGRIM," Boston, Mass.

The World's Crisis
AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

"BEHOLD I COME QUICKLY; AND MY REWARD IS WITH ME."

WHOLE NO. 1044. BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 17, 1875. VOL. XLII.—NO. 5.

The World's Crisis, AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER, Issued every Wednesday Afternoon, by the ADVENT CHRISTIAN PUBLICATION SOCIETY, At No. 160 Hanover Street, Boston, Mass.

GEO. T. ADAMS, Treasurer and Business Agent.

JOHN COUCH, MILES GRANT, } Editors.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE: S. G. MATHEWSON, L. BOUTELL, WM. H. MITCHELL.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEE: H. V. DAVIS, M. BATCHELOR, L. T. CUNNINGHAM, J. G. HAMBLIN, J. HEMENWAY.

The Crisis is devoted to the exposition of all Bible truth; especially the doctrine of the immediate, personal coming and reign of Christ on the earth; holiness of heart; the unconscious state of the dead; their literal resurrection, and final destruction of the wicked.

THE PRUNING.

Not to wound thee, lovely vine,
But thy strength to foster;
That, on these fair boughs of thine,
Richer fruits may cluster.

Not to grieve thee, heart of mine,
Doth thy dear Lord chasten;
But his wayward, thrilling vine,
To his strength would fasten.

Not a leaflet would he crush,
Not a tendril sever—
Only teach thee how to grow
Fair and good forever.

Drop not thou, my gentle vine,
At my rugged dealing:
Soon will summer's breath of balm
Bring thee growth and healing.

Murmur not, O stricken heart,
At thy loving Master—
Thou shalt know his purpose wise
In the bright hereafter.
—N. Y. Observer.

THE "IRREPRESSIBLE CONFLICT" IN CANADA.

THOS. DAVIDSON.

Editors Crisis:—Dear Brn.,—The theological waters, in this dominion of ours, have been, of late, somewhat troubled by the publication in the Montreal Witness (the leading Orthodox religious journal of the dominion) of a sermon, by an eminent Presbyterian minister, in which he does not disguise his hostility to the Orthodox dogma of eternal torment; but takes refuge in the opposite extreme of universal salvation.

The editor, in a moment of thoughtlessness—as his subsequent conduct proved—had urged the Canadian pulpit to take up the discussion of the great question of human destiny, which he said "was seething in other lands"; but the pulpit, instead of profiting by the editor's advice, began to echo its displeasure that his widely circulated journal had given wings to the minister's heresy, as the faintest doubt as to the scriptural authority of their pet dogma is unhesitatingly called; and the editor himself, evidently repentant of his rashness in tendering such advice, and declining the publication of the following letter, says, in a spirit of the meekest apology, "We must be content with the publication of some of the abler expressions of the Orthodox pulpit on the subject."

This conclusion is quite natural and rational, provided that he wishes the dogma to be maintained at all hazards, whether true or false; but some of us suspect that it does not very well comport with the apostolic injunction, "Prove all things; hold fast that which is good"; or even with that Protestantism whose champion he has constituted himself for years, and whose distinguishing feature has been its willingness to bring all religious teaching to the bar of God's word, there to learn whether it rests upon a "thus saith the Lord," or only upon "the abler expressions of the Orthodox pulpit."

The following is the letter referred to:

To the Editor of the Montreal Witness:—

Dear Sir:—In a late issue, referring to the Rev. Mr. Macdonnell's celebrated sermon, in which he expresses a strong leaning to Origen's theory of universal restoration, you say, "That he has precipitated a discussion which has long been seething in other lands, and which the occupiers of Canadian pulpits can now scarcely refuse to take up."

Constantly increasing numbers of thoughtful men, in our own, as well as in other lands, are earnestly desirous that the great question of human destiny should receive, at the hands of those best qualified for the task, a careful consideration; for they affirm that the dogma of "eternal torment," though almost universally believed, by Papist and Protestant alike, is, nevertheless, unknown to the Scriptures, and since their appeal is made to such a competent tribunal, lovers of truth should gladly consent to have this weighty matter tested there.

Hitherto our friends, who believe the dogma, though ready enough to defend any other article of their faith, have deprecated the discussion of this, as if they were beginning to feel that it could not very well bear discussion; and ignoring the fact that multitudes are driven to seek refuge from its frightful shadow in the dream of Universalism, they deprecate its discussion still.

Now, sir, as an humble student of the Word, I would suggest that another theory, differing somewhat from both of these, and possessing the great advantage of resting upon the plain, simple, literal language of the Bible, is, perhaps, the true one. It heartily acknowledges the eternity of punishment on the one hand, and just as heartily believes in an age of universal blessedness on the other; but it holds that the punishment is not anguish, misery, torment, however much of these may precede, or accompany its infliction; but death—eternal death—a death from which there will be no restoration, no resurrection, no redemption, for ever and ever; and hence, in the most emphatic sense, an everlasting punishment. And when this doom shall have overtaken every spurner of God's great gift of life, every rebel against his gracious authority, whether fallen angel or unrepentant man, then shall have dawned the blessed age of which the Universalist has been dreaming, when all animated creation, throughout the wide expanse of God's universe, shall be attuned to sing their Creator's praise, and the Psalmist's prayer, "Let every thing that hath breath praise thee," be at last answered.

The Master's great message to perishing men was life, life, eternal life; and the disciples and apostles preached the same glad tidings to their death-doomed fellows. The wages of sin in their day was death, and the gift of God eternal life; though in a subsequent age, when the lustre of primitive truth had become somewhat tarnished with human error, the wages of sin became everlasting life in misery, and the gift of God eternal happiness.

May we not therefore ask that the solution of this great question be sought by a reverent appeal to the plain, simple, but majestic utterances of God's word, untrammeled by the dogmatism of human creeds, and unmystified by principles of human interpretation, which have led thousands to believe that God's book is little better than some Delphic oracle, which teaches that white is black, and black white, at the will of the interpreter?

May we not, without having the charge of heresy hurled at us, bring this terrible dogma of unending torment, which has driven hundreds of the more thoughtful of our fellows into hopeless infidelity, to the bar of God's word, to determine whether after all it may not be a mere human invention, as unworthy of God, and as unknown to his word, as purgatory, or any other of the great errors which the Reformers detected by the touchstone of Scripture; and if it be, let it henceforth take its place among the gigantic errors already detected, which though hoary with age, and popular with thousands, are nevertheless errors still.

Quebec, Can.

"ROYAL FAMILY."

R. B. CURRIER.

It is considered a great thing to belong to a family of high authority in the world, such as being related to the Czar of Russia, Emperor of Austria or Germany, Queen of England, or the President of the United States. They command and receive the honor and respect of peoples, nations, and tongues. No matter what their principles may be; it is not a question of whether they may be honest, upright, noble, brave, or pure; the fact exists that they command universal respect from the world to-day.

Now let us see what the Bible says about a royal family. In 1 Pet. 2:9, we read—"But ye are a chosen generation, a royal priesthood, an holy nation, a peculiar people, that ye should show forth the praises of him who hath called you out of darkness into his marvelous light." Ex. 19:5, 6—"Now, therefore, if ye will obey my voice indeed, and keep my covenant, then ye shall be a peculiar treasure unto me, above all people; for all the earth is mine, and ye shall be unto me a kingdom of priests, and an holy nation. These are the words thou shalt speak unto the children of Israel." Rev. 1:6—"And hath made us kings and priests unto God, and his Father; to him be glory and dominion forever and ever. Amen." Rom. 8:17—"And if children, then heirs; heirs of God, and joint heirs with Christ; if so be we suffer with him, that we may be also glorified together." 1 Pet. 1:4, 5—"To an inheritance, incorruptible, and undefiled, and that fadeth not away, reserved in heaven for you who are kept by the power of God through faith unto salvation, ready to be revealed in the last time." 1 John 3:2—"Beloved, now are ye the sons of God, and and it doth not yet appear what we shall be; but we know that, when he shall appear, we shall be like him; for we shall see him as he is." 1 Pet. 5:4—"And when the Chief Shepherd shall appear, ye shall receive a crown of glory that fadeth not away." Eph. 5:30—"For we are members of his body, of his flesh, and of his bones."

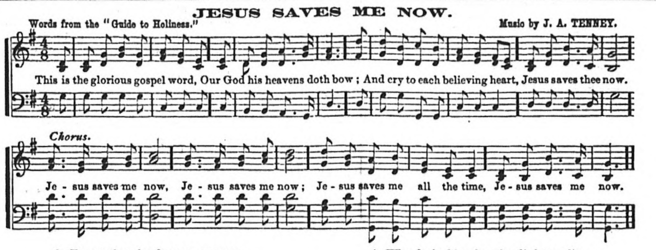
O, blessed relationship! adopted sons and daughters of the Lord of hosts. When we let God adopt us into his family, we have the best he can give. We wear the best clothes—Christ's righteousness; eat the best food—the bread which cometh from above; drink the best drink—the water of life, of which, if a man drink, he "shall never thirst," for it "shall be in him a well of water springing up into everlasting life." We have the best society, but no caste about it. We are associated with all the good who have died in ages past, and all the holy angels, and best of all, the Lord Jesus Christ, our elder brother and Savior; and it is all free. It costs nothing but our poor, miserable selves, entirely consecrated to God. We give him all our self-righteousness, which is nothing but filthy rags, and get in exchange the royal robes of Christ's righteousness, which come from God's wardrobe; and, thank the Lord, there are robes enough for all who will comply with the conditions. Why, the saints are the richest persons in the world. The earth, and the fulness thereof, the cattle upon a thousand hills, everything, belongs to the Lord. We belong to him, and he has agreed to take us into partnership with him in that glory which is to be revealed in the future, when he comes with all the holy angels to take us to himself, and establish his everlasting kingdom. We give him nothing but counterfeit capital to invest, and he gives us riches, honor, power, and eternal life.

If any one reads this who has not yet joined the royal family, go into bankruptcy at once; make an assignment of all your liabilities, for you have no assets, and let God make you a free, happy, useful, rich man. There is no other way to get eternal life, but through Christ. He is "the way, the truth, and the life." Decide now—"as for me, and my house, we will serve the Lord. Start at once—to-day.

Prophecy.—The President of a leading Baptist College says "Open communion will undoubtedly be the custom of the Baptist denomination in the near future. If I was a young man I should certainly advocate it boldly, and expect to win a victory, and enjoy the fruits of my effort at reform."—Baptist Union.

JESUS SAVES ME NOW.

Words from the "Guide to Holiness." Music by J. A. TENNEY.



2. Temptations hard upon me press,
No strength is mine, I know;
Yet more than conqueror am I,
Jesus saves me now.—Chorus.

3. Whate'er my future may require,
His grace will sure allow;
I live a moment at a time,
Jesus saves me now.—Chorus.

4. Why doubt him, he who died now lives,
The crown is on his brow;
The Son of man hath power on earth,
Jesus saves me now.—Chorus.

5. And when within the pearly gates,
I at his feet shall bow;
The heaven of heavens itself will be,
Jesus saves me now.—Chorus.

BE ACCURATE.

GEO. THOMSON.

It is astonishing to see the amount of ignorance that exists among professing christians, concerning the Scriptures. This is particularly true of our so-called "Orthodox" friends. Misquotations, garbled quotations, semi-quotations, and misapplications, are quite common. I will enumerate a few, hoping to lead some that err in this particular, to be accurate. The following familiar passage: "He brought me up also out of a horrible pit, out of the miry clay." Where this is quoted once correctly, I will venture to say that it is quoted many hundred times as follows: "He brought my feet up out of the horrible pit." It is so quoted from the pulpit, and the people take it for granted that it is correct. I was present at a meeeting once, when the preacher took occasion to refer to the manner in which this passage was misquoted, explaining the difference between having the feet only, or the whole body (me) in a horrible pit. Yet strange to say, before the meeting closed, a minister of the gospel, well advanced in years, warming up in his exhortation, quoted the passage: "He hath taken my feet," etc.

Another passage which is seldom quoted correctly, except by those especially interested in prophecy. "Write the vision, make it plain upon tables, that he may run that readeth it." This is misquoted as follows: "Write the vision, make it plain, that he who runs may read," conveying the idea of churches so large, that a person on a run could read them distinctly. But the true object of the vision is quite different. It is that the reader may run, escape from danger; not that the runner may read. Not long since, I read a tract, written by a bishop, in which was the above misquotation, used too, for the purpose of illustrating the erroneous idea I have mentioned. When a learned bishop betrays so much ignorance, it is no wonder that the common people are in the dark.

I was listening to a Presiding Elder on one occasion, when he quoted the following well known passage: "To you who are troubled, rest with us, when the Lord Jesus shall be revealed from heaven with his mighty angels, in flaming fire, taking vengeance on them that know not God, and obey not the gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ, who shall be punished with everlasting destruction from the presence of the Lord." But he substituted the word banishment for destruction. Sitting near him at the time, I asked him if the passage read that way in his Bible? He became quite excited, and retorted, "Why, any fool knows it means that." The passage in Rev., "These are they who came out of great tribulation," is very often quoted: "who came up out of great tribulation." The conclusion of Nebuchadnezzar's dream, in Dan. 2, "Thou sawest till that a stone was cut out without hands," etc., is often quoted a "little stone;" and, in addition to that, I once heard it quoted as "rolling and rolling until it became a great mountain."

There are other passages only quoted in part, and misapplied, as in the second Psalm: "Ask of me, and I shall give thee the heathen for thine inheritance, and the uttermost parts of the earth for thy possession." This is usually quoted so as to prove the world's conversion; but when the entire passage is quoted, it proves the very reverse: "Thou shalt break them with a rod of iron, thou shalt dash them in pieces like a potter's vessel." Many who are satisfied to obtain their Bible knowledge second-handed, are astonished when their attention is called to this fact. They cannot believe it true, until it is pointed out to them, having never heard it quoted entire from the pulpit. The same is true of the following: "Eye hath not seen," etc. The statement that God has revealed them to us by his Spirit, gives the passage its one meaning. How often do we hear the following passage misapplied: "Be ye also ready, for in such an hour as ye think not the Son of man cometh;" using it in connection with death, just as if death and the coming of Christ were synonymous, when there cannot be two events more extremely opposite.

The most notorious mistake in quoting and applying Scripture, that I have ever met with, is recorded in the journal of Eld. Thomas Smith, a very successful Pioneer Revivalist among the Methodists, in the beginning of the present century. It appears that there was a notoriously wicked character, by the name of Bradbury, I think, livon the eastern shores of Maryland, who was awakened and converted. He was very illiterate, but very zealous; and, being like Barnabas, full of the Holy Spirit, he began at once to preach, and was very successful as a revivalist. But he made some ludicrous mistakes in quoting Scripture. On one occasion, he preached from the words, "Thou art an austere man." Luke 19:21. This he read, "Thou art an oyster man," and preached that idea. A word of explanation will be necessary here. Living near the Chesapeake Bay, he was, as a matter of course, familiar with the oyster business. So he divided the text as follows: 1. Christ, the oyster-man. 2. Ministers of the gospel, the oyster-rakes. 3. Sinners, the oysters. He then proceeded to explain the manner of catching oysters (sinners). Many of the congregation, no doubt, supposed it was all right.

But aside from the ignorant, there is another class who make mistakes, the careless. And among these, I fear will be found some of our own writers. We ought not to trust too much to memory, either in preaching or writing. It must be quite trying to Editors to have to hunt up and correct the Scripture quotations in every article. I heard an Editor once remark, "I love to receive articles from Bro. ——, they are always so correct." Let us be accurate.

A. C. Times, please copy.

HOLINESS IN ITS RELATION TO CHRISTIAN UNION.

There is a general conviction that too much estrangement exists among evangelical churches. It is an inconsistency so glaring that it militates against Christianity itself in the estimation of the world. Upon the energies of christian people it is a paralysis; upon their fruit a mildew. For ages the denominations have counteracted themselves by polemical strifes, envies and detraction. Fierce disputes about non-essentials, haughty assumptions of superiority, disparagement of the peculiar institutions and enterprises of each other, jealousies excited by the success and popularity of competing organizations, have brought reproach upon the christian name. And though wicked men and infidels have magnified these faults, and indulged in much cant and sophistry in relation to the clash and mutual hostilities of sects; yet it must, and ought to be confessed with humiliation and shame, that the christian churches have presented to the world a spectacle of a living body, lacerated, and torn, and bleeding, and more than half destroyed by her own hands. They have kept themselves exhausted, impoverished, shorn of divine strength, and absolutely disgraced by internecine wars. By such feuds and fratricides, they have largely lost the respect of those considerate men, who, though unsaved, possess the highest respectability, and most exalted intelligence.

A man of natural amiability, and true nobleness of character; who governs himself by honor and courtesy, and has by such custom ripened into habit, the amenities that characterize polite and cultivated society, finds himself utterly unable to admire, and even assent to the truth and divinity of religion which, in effect upon its votaries, is so repellant and acrimonious. It is true his judgments are founded upon a false premise; namely, the character of the professors of a religion—not upon the religion itself. A prudent discrimination should always be exercised between the adherents of a system not fully under its own principles or spirit, and those who are so fully saved by its efficacies as to become true and proper exponents of the religion itself.

But it should be remembered by christians that men in the hurry and bustle of life, the frictions of business, and the conflict and turmoil of opinions, do not stop to make nice discriminations. They jump at conclusions. They take christian churches as samples of christianity itself, and christian people as the kind and quality of goods produced from her factories.

These facts have originated the inquiry: What shall be done to unify the churches and make their spirit equal to the demands of the hour? Conventions, union meetings, resolutions, pulpit exchanges, non-denominational periodicals and literature, participation in common enterprises; and even attempt at organic union, as perfective of the world-wide Evangelical Alliance, have been attempted. Much has been done, we rejoice to know and record, in this way to eradicate prejudice, and smooth down the asperities of sectarianism; but still the "health of the daughter of my people is not healed." The disease has been cicatrized and mollified with ointment, but not cured. The roots of the cancer remain to to canker and corrode.

Each church has its insignia and its idol. Some pet theory has become its Dagon, its golden calf, its Diana, on the basis of which precedence is claimed. And each seems to be under the delusion that according to some law like Darwin's principle of natural selection, the better will gradually overcome and waste the weaker and worse, until the latter are exterminated. But each church expects the evolution to be in favor of its own denomination. Wherefore the question recurs: Is there no balm in Gilead; is there no physician there?

We answer, there is; holiness is a harmonizer, a unifier, a bond of perfectness; not a compress, but a solvent and cement. It is not the attraction of gravitation, but that of cohesion and coalescence. It is a real fusion under the fire of the Holy Ghost. This result is both divine and rational. Divine, because produced by the chemistry of a divine religion, and the affinities of homogeneous elements. Rational, because christian experience is a unit. Love is indivisible, and under all conditions the same. It cannot be decomposed, like compounds, and resolved into something else. It is in principle a simple and original element, emanating from God and essentially like him. Therefore love, which is the essence of religion, is the same in nature and results, by whomsoever experienced. Justification affects every man alike; and so of all antecedent, as well as subsequent stages and degrees of salvation. Not so with dogmas, church governments, and modes of worship. They differ and ramify into nameless diversities. But holiness has the blessed effect to draw, to fraternize, to ingratiate, to mingle and blend.

Experience is the point of confluence of all the streams of religious life, which flow from individual hearts. Two holy hearts are like two drops of water when they touch. "Let brotherly love continue." That is, be holy.—Christian Standard.

FUTURE PROBATION.

B. PERHAM.

Is there a state of probation after the resurrection for those who died in their sins, as some believe? The doctrine is predicated on certain prophecies relating to the children of Israel, which it is claimed have not been fulfilled in the present state of probation. I do not so understand my Bible. In the parable of the tares and wheat, Jesus says, the harvest is the end of the world, and the tares are the children of the wicked one, and the reapers are the angels, who are to gather the wicked, and cast them into the fire, and burn them up. The objector may say, It does not mean the wicked who are alive when our Savior comes the second time. Very well, we will try again. Let us turn to John 5:28, 29—"Marvel not at this; for the hour is coming, in the which all that are in the graves shall hear his voice, and shall come forth; they that have done good, unto the resurrection of life; and they that have done evil, unto the resurrection of damnation." Does this indicate probation to the wicked after the resurrection? If it does, it must be a dreadful state of probation.

What says the prophet Daniel (12:2), where he says, "Many of them that sleep in the dust of the earth shall awake, some to everlasting life, and some to shame and everlasting contempt"? If the contempt is everlasting, where is the time of probation? Let us try again. St. Paul says, "To you who are troubled, rest with us; when the Lord Jesus shall be revealed from heaven with his mighty angels, in flaming fire taking vengeance on them that know not God, and that obey not the gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ; who shall be punished with everlasting destruction from the presence of the Lord, and from the glory of his power."

What says the prophet Malachi? "Behold, the day cometh that shall burn . . . . them up . . . that it shall leave them neither root nor branch." I humbly trust I shall never be obliged to meet with such a probation. In Rev. 20:12–15, we read—"And I saw the dead, small and great, stand before God; and the books were opened; and another book was opened, which is the book of life; and the dead were judged out of those things written in the books, according to their works. And the sea gave up the dead which were in it; and death and hell delivered up the dead which were in them; and they were judged every man according to their works. And death and hell were cast into the lake of fire. This is the second death. And whosoever was not found written in the book of life, was cast into the lake of fire." Does this show any future probation?

In Rev. 22:11, 12, the Savior says to John, "He that is unjust, let him be unjust still; and he which is filthy, let him be filthy still." I can see no chance for probation after the resurrection takes place. "All the wicked will he destroy." Ps. 145:20.

Vernon, Vt.

All men have their frailties, and whoever looks for a friend without imperfections will never find what he seeks. We love ourselves, notwithstanding our faults, and we ought to love our friends in like manner.

"WE WANT A PASTOR."

A. P. MOORE.

A. I am heartily sick of having A B C and D preach in our church. We have one minister one Sunday, and another the next, and another the next, and we don't like it. One may pull down what another builds up, and so we have decided to settle a pastor, provided we can find one that suits us.

B. Well, Bro. J., will you please tell me what kind of a preacher will suit you?

A. We want a man, first of all, that is smart. When we go to church, we want to listen to a man that knows more than we do; one that can instruct us, one that is well versed in history, and can tell us all about the lost arts," etc. The other churches of our town have smart ministers, and we must have one full as smart, or they will "draw our congregation away."

We want a man that is posted. We want a minister that can make a good appearance in the pulpit; that leaves a good impression upon his audience of his personal attractions; for you know people must be pleased with a minister's appearance, or they will not come again. We would like a man rather tall, but not slim; for you know a large man is looked up to more than a little one, and a minister should always be looked up to.

We want a man that will please outsiders, for his support will mainly come from them, and if we can get a man that "takes" with that class, there will be no trouble about a support. We are all poor. None of us worth more than ten or fifteen thousand dollars, and we cannot give much to support the minister, and so we are dependent upon the outsiders for help, and we have to look out for a minister that will please them. If they want to get him up a "donation" at the hotel, where there is plenty of room for a crowd, he must not say anything against its being a whiskey house. Or if they wish to have the donation at his house, and want to play and have a good time, and lots of fun, we want him to have wisdom enough not to say anything against it. Just let them have it as they wish, and then they will give liberally. If he thinks we are in a time when men are "lovers of pleasure more than lovers of God," we want him to be very cautious about preaching it, so that anyone can make an application of it.

We want a minister that will not preach too plain against the sins of the day. If he is a "total abstinence man," in principle, he must be careful about touching on it, for many of our congregation, while they abhor the idea of getting drunk, think it stylish to keep a little in the house for their friends when they come to see them, and would be offended if he should come out against such things. And, too, many of our own church love cider, and keep that in the cellar to treat their friends, and they too might not like it. Of course nobody thinks it wrong to drink cider. There is Elder——, who always likes a glass of cider after preaching. He says it does him good. If a weak minded brother takes a glass with him, and gets a little boozy, why, he is not to blame for it. Men need not look to him for example in such matters. A man that can't drink cider without getting drunk must be very weak minded.

We don't want a minister to preach too close about covetousness, for we believe it to be the duty of men to take care of and keep what they have got, and some would think he meant to be personal. We do not want a man that will be constantly "showing up" the popular sins of the day, for we don't think it is "policy." If he thinks we are in the last day perils, when men are "covetous, boasters, proud, blasphemers, disobedient to parents, unthankful, unholy, without natural affection," etc., we want him to be exceedingly careful about touching upon such a sensitive question; for there is so much depending upon his pleasing our people. We must have a man that will please them, or we cannot support him.

Another reason why we want a pastor to settle among us is, to take the lead in the prayer-meetings. Our men folks are all business men, and very often we have such a press of business, that we cannot get to prayer-meeting, and we think because of this our meetings are thinly attended, only by the sisters; and if we can have a minister that will always be there, we think many others will drop in and become interested. We want one that will be on hand "rain or shine."

We want a minister, too, that is not "stuck up;" one that does not consider himself too good to work, part of the time, at least. A minister that only preaches Sundays ought to have something that he can turn his hand to, and thus earn part of his family support. We think it no worse for a minister to work, than it is for us. To be sure, we want him to visit around amongst us, and amongst the outsiders, for that has such a good effect upon them. We think if he visits the people occasionally at their homes, and has a good, social visit, it will make them turn out better to hear him preach.

We want a minister that will have something fresh every Sunday. His sermons must be original, and something new each time. We get tired of the stale subjects. We want a man that has a good library, for we are too poor to buy books for him.

We want a minister that has a family that no one can find fault with. His wife must be capable of going in the best society. She must be ever ready to visit the sick, and one too, that all the sisters of the church can tell their troubles to, and not make any trouble among them by tattling. One that will not be offended if the women of the society do talk about her behind her back. And one too, that knows how to economise so that her husband will not run behind. One that has a faculty of making much of a little.

We think if we can get such a man and his wife to settle among us, that we shall increase in numbers, and soon grow to be a strong church, and then we can have things our own way.

B. Well, Bro. A., you have told me what kind of a minister you wish for a pastor, and if I can hear of one that answers the description, who is for sale, I will send him to you.

"I WILL COME AGAIN."

J. M. CROUSE.

The above words were spoken by Jesus, to his disciples, just prior to his crucifixion. He had told them that he was soon to leave them, and that they could not follow him. The hearts of those faithful followers were filled with sadness to think that he, with whom he had held such sweet communion, was about to take his departure from them. But we find him trying to assuage their grief by saying, "I will come again and receive you unto myself." Soon, we see them standing upon the summit of Olivet. The loving Jesus gives them his parting benediction, and a convoy of angels escorted him to the right hand of his Father. And as those disciples stand sadly gazing heavenward, to catch the last glimpse of their ascending Lord, behold, two shining ones stand by them, and say, "Ye men of Galilee, why stand ye gazing up into heaven? This same Jesus, which is taken up from you into heaven, shall so come in like manner as ye have seen him go into heaven."

For more than eighteen hundred years, the adorable Christ has been hidden from the gaze of his loving Bride. Long she has waited and watched for his return, but the heavens still retain the loving Bridegroom. During those long, dark years of Papal persecution, many millions of God's dear saints fell, and to-day their blood cries to God for vengeance. Thank God, they will soon be avenged. That abominable power trembles upon the very eve of dissolution. Those nations that gave their power and support to the "Mother of Harlots" have long since begun to take away her power, and to-day she sits but a shadow of her former greatness.

A little from this, the Son of God, clothed with great power, shall ride down through the dissolving heavens, and then that blasphemous power, like a millstone, shall sink beneath the sulphurous waves of God's wrath, no more to rise. Lift up your heads, ye saints of the living God. Rejoice, for "your redemption draweth nigh." Then the words of the Savior to his disciples will be fulfilled, and Jesus will have come again.

East Washburn, Me.

SLANDER.

E. J. JACQUES.

Of all characters in society, a slanderer is the most odious, and most likely to do mischief. It has been said, "The tongue is a devouring fire," when used in uttering false speeches against a brother, to the prejudice of his fame, safety and welfare. The tongue of the slanderer tarnishes whatever it touches, which exercises its fury on the good as on the bad. Wherever it passes, it leaves desolation and ruin. You may say it is a world of itself, a collection of iniquity, which discovers to us the mote which is in our brother's eye, but hides the beam which is in its own.

It studies to dim the splendor of what outshines itself. It puts forth the hidden venom of the heart, and with its deceit and doubleness of tongue praises to the face, and tears to pieces behind the back. It has a shameful vanity, which has no command over its words, and often sacrifices both future and present comfort to the imprudence of an amusing conversation. It manifests a deliberate cruelty, which goes to pierce an absent brother's heart. It is full of injustice, affixing scandalous names and odious characters which are undeserved. It is a restless evil, which disturbs society, spreads dissension through churches and neighborhoods, and disunites the strictest friendships. It is the source of hatred and revenge, and causes disturbances and confusion wherever it enters. It is an enemy to peace, comfort, and christian good breeding. Whatever flows from it is infected and poisoned.

These are some of the horrors of a slanderer. You will say with me, dear reader, it is base to an extreme. It is a terrible evil when found among those who profess Christ. It is an express command of Scripture to speak evil of no man. No practice has more severe punishment denounced against it. It is entirely opposite to the whole tenor of the christian religion. It is an evidence of a weak and distempered mind. It is inconsistent with the relation we bear to each other as christians, and opposite to the example of Christ whom we profess to follow.

Richmond, Me.

Life Within.—How hard it is to feel that the power of life is to be found inside, not outside; in the heart and thoughts, not in the visible actions and show; in the living seed, not in the plant which has no root. How often do men cultivate the garden of their soul just the other way! How often do we try and persevere in trying to make a sort of neat show of outer good qualities, without anything within to correspond; just like children who plant blossoms without any roots in the ground, to make a pretty show for the hour. We find fault in our lives, and we cut off the weed, but we do not root it up; we find something wanting in ourselves, and we supply it not by sowing the divine seed of heavenly principle, but by copying the deeds that the principle ought to produce.

The World's Crisis
AND
SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

Boston, Wednesday, Nov. 17, 1875.

TAKE NOTICE.

All subscriptions for the "CRISIS," issued from this time forward, are at the rate of

$2.25 a year, payable IN ADVANCE.

POSTAGE FREE TO ALL within the United States, the Canadas, and the British Provinces.

Please Remember!

All remittances to this office, in the form of Drafts, Bank Checks, and Postal Money-Orders, should be made payable to the Business Agent, GEO. T. ADAMS.

THOSE who send articles for the "CRISIS," should direct them to the "EDITORS OF WORLD'S CRISIS," Boston, Mass.

PLEASE READ, REMEMBER, AND ACT ACCORDINGLY.

The brethren, sisters, friends—one and all—whoever may write to this office, sending articles for insertion in the Crisis, or subscriptions for the same, notices, appointments, reports, or orders for papers, books, tracts, or anything of the kind, will confer a favor and do the right way by directing their letters in either one of the following ways:—

"EDITORS OF WORLD'S CRISIS, Boston, Mass."

"WORLD'S CRISIS, Boston, Mass.," or

GEO. T. ADAMS, Agent, Boston, Mass.

Those who send articles for the Young Pilgrim should address—

"EDITOR YOUNG PILGRIM, Boston, Mass."

In no case address letters on business connected with the papers, or office, to any of the clerks, compositors, or helps in this office.

AGENT.

HEREAFTER address me at BOSTON, MASS. All private letters should be marked "personal." MILES GRANT.

THE "BIBLE ECHO," published by Bro. W. Kellaway, 10 Warwick Lane, Paternoster Row, London, is changed to a monthly. M. G.

THE HOLINESS CONVENTION at Worcester, Nov. 8th–11th, was a season of special refreshing from the Lord. Many were richly blest. It was truly a heavenly feast. M. G.

GERMAN PAPER.—Let all our readers who live among Germans, take pains to introduce Bro. L. Reimer's German paper, designed to be to the Germans what the Crisis is to the Americans. There has been a felt need of a paper in the German language. Let efforts be made to give it success. Address L. Reimer, 639 N. 8th St., Philadelphia, Pa. M. G.

INQUIRY.—Please inform me what our people, as a body, believe the Bible teaches in regard to one who has not been regularly ordained, concerning the administration of the ordinance of baptism?

Hamilton, Ont. PARKER C. MARSH.

The Bible appears to be silent on the subject, consequently we, as a people, have adopted no rules bearing on this matter. It is not common, however, for persons to baptize before they are ordained to the work of the ministry. M. G.

OLD PAPERS.—When you have read your papers, do not tear them up, but carry them to some poor family that is not able to take a paper. By this means much good may be done at small trouble and expense. When the paper is carried, a fine opportunity will be afforded to speak a word for Jesus. Many may be saved in this way. Let us do all we can to lead as many as possible to Christ. Study out ways and means by which people can be benefited. Do it for Jesus. M. G.

